It's time for a road trip! Get your flip-flops, grab a camera and hop in the family station wagon for a trip down memory lane of historic Florida attractions!

UCF Libraries Special Collections & University Archives invite you along as we explore Florida attractions that came before the opening of Walt Disney World in October 1971. "Don't Miss It!" features historic items from UCF Libraries Special Collections which showcase the history of the family vacation in Florida from the turn of the century to the 1960’s. Souvenir railroad booklets from popular 1880’s train lines, road maps and pamphlets from the 1920’s-1970’s, advertising, and photographs are used to show the history of the Florida family vacation.

“A library is not a luxury, but one of the necessities of life.”

Henry Ward Beecher
(1813-1887) Clergyman Abolitionist

Our New Student Assistants

Katie Seeler
Katie is a native South Floridian preparing for her last semester as an undergraduate hospitality student. After graduation, she intends to further her education by pursuing a Master’s in Historic Preservation. She would like to pursue a career in the field of heritage tourism or museums. Katie dreams of working in Britain because it has a treasure trove of historic sites.

Kristina Katris
Kristina is a Sophomore transfer student from St. Petersburg College where she earned her AA in Business Management. A Milwaukee, Wisconsin native, she is fluent in Greek and will be majoring in both German and Hospitality Management. Kristina would like a career with an International Hotel or Resort company. She also hopes to study abroad one semester.

Meet Rebecca Harrington, our new Adjunct Librarian

A rare native Floridian albino, Rebecca grew up in lovely West Volusia County, halfway between the Happiest Place on Earth and the World’s Most Famous Beach.

A former medical librarian and AAA travel editor, Rebecca has served as part-time librarian for UCF’s Sanford Campus and Valencia Community College’s Winter Park Campus. She has a Master of Library and Information Science degree from Florida State University and a Bachelor’s Degree in Political Science and Journalism from UCF.

Besides reading the latest hospitality journals, Rebecca enjoys red wine, cooking, and traveling, all topics heavily covered in our library. Please stop by and compare your favorite recipes, destinations, and wines with our new librarian!
