Open Access Week
You are invited to take advantage of this key opportunity to discuss the opportunities and implications open access publishing affords authors across a variety of disciplines. Join us on Monday, October 20th from 9am to 3:30pm in Teaching Academy room 117 for a free event focusing on Open Access publishing perspectives including…

- Live online discussion with Peter Suber, director of the Harvard Office for Scholarly Communication
- Representatives from Springer, Gale, IEEE, and Taylor & Francis with information on open access publishing options and editorial processes
- Discussions with six UCF Faculty members on their experiences with open access
- Discussions with colleagues from area institutions
- For more information, please visit http://library.ucf.edu/ScholarlyCommunication/OpenAccessWeek

Faculty/Graduate Study Room
The John C. Hitt Library is proud to announce the launch of the joint Faculty/Graduate Study Room service this Fall Semester. The library has a total of 11 study rooms that can accommodate between 2 to 10 people. The study rooms are located on the third floor of the library and may be checked out by any faculty, on a first-come, first serve basis for a total of four hours. This service provides the faculty with the opportunity to meet with their students outside their regular office. Reservations can be made up to 7 days in advance online. For your convenience, the link to reserve a study room is: http://library.ucf.edu/StudyRooms/

Instructional Services Options
Do you want your students to have an introduction to using the UCF Libraries, or maybe more in-depth help from a librarian? Your options include: Face-to-Face Library Instruction, Embedded librarians, Information Literary Modules and Canvas Course “Introduction to Library Research Strategies.” For more information, go to: http://library.ucf.edu/reference/instruction/
What's else is new in the John C. Hitt Library?

New scanning stations have been installed adjacent to the Knowledge Commons Desk (2nd Floor) and the LibTech Desk (3rd Floor)!

Springer eBooks Collection

Springer is a major publisher of academic and professional books and series. The ebooks are suitable for research, study, and course projects, and can be assigned as textbooks. With the purchase of this Collection, UCF will gain perpetual rights and online access to Springer books published between 2005 and 2009 comprised of over 16,000 volumes. All UCF affiliated users will have access from 1997 to 2009 to all of Springer’s major book series, including the well known Lecture Notes Series.

The agreement between UCF and Springer will allow for any fair use of the content for educational purposes, including embedding the content in Webcourses. Access would be available to all UCF students and employees, with off campus access enabled by EZproxy.

You may request books, articles, DVDs, CDs, etc. that are not owned by the UCF Libraries. We will obtain them from other libraries or document suppliers. Document Delivery Services provides UCF library materials to faculty, staff, graduate students, regional campus patrons and distance learners. You can submit a request for items owned by UCF Libraries and we will pull the book or DVD and route it to the circulation desk of your home institution (or mail it directly to the home address of distance learners). Articles will be scanned and sent to your ILLiad account. If you have used ILL/DDS in the past, you will notice that things have changed over the summer. ILLiad, which is the system for ordering books and articles, has migrated to single sign-on. You will no longer need to remember your PID and ILL password.
