New Services to Persons with Disabilities

The Interlibrary Loan department has launched a pilot project to assist UCF students, faculty and staff with disabilities that prevent them from accessing library resources. Once disabled patrons are registered with ILLiad, the online interlibrary loan request Web page, they may request articles and books from any computer 24 hours a day. Requested books and photocopies of requested articles are shipped to the patron's home via expedited mail service with an average turnaround time of one to two days.

Donor Spotlight

Eleanor Friend Sleight, a great friend of the UCF Libraries, recently donated several pieces of Caribbean art to UCF Libraries Special Collections department. This gift greatly enhances the William L. Bryant Collection of West Indies art, artifacts and rare books. To learn more about this vibrant collection, please click on the following link:

Support the UCF Libraries

The UCF Libraries continue to provide outstanding resources to our students, faculty, staff and friends in the community. Access to these resources, which includes periodicals, newspapers, online databases and books, is crucial to the success of our current student body. Your consideration of a tax-deductible gift to the UCF Libraries is sincerely appreciated.
