Deare [Dear] Phineas [Phineas Pemberton]

By the same hand I recd: [received] thine [yours], I intend this: wch [which] was by Deare [dear] Hans: DeLavall: But I had heard of the Death of thy [your] wife [Phebe Pemberton] before: And at the hearing of it, It Came near me, for I Loved her much, and was in hopes to a [have] seen here here a ways [hereaways] [here] this spring for thou [you] hinted such a thing to me in a former Letter. She was a woman that I alwaies [always] Loved from the very first of my Acquaintance wth [with] her. I Cannot forget her kindness [kindness], when I parted from her out of Mary--Land [Maryland], Takeing [taking] my Journey hom-wards [homewards]; neither can I forget our Last parting, wch [which] was at yor: [your] ferry, in much tenderness & [and] Love: so that though she be gon [gone], her memorial Remaines [remains]; Her Love will never be Extinct: I know it still Remaines [remains] in the Bossoms [bosoms] of the upright. Concerning the state of things and meetings in the Country this Bearer: Can tell thee [you] at Large, having bin [been] through most of friends in the Country. Thomas Janney, and Griff: Owen [Griffith Owen], I have them oft [often] in Remembrance, If at home, Let them know my Love, wth [with] my Love also to all the faithfull [faithful] among you. when I shall Com [come] that ways, I know not: my wife being very Crasey [crazy] and weakly, keeps me at home a Little the more: She has her Love to thee [you]: and as for me; I have not words, as many have, yet I know I Love the Stonest [stoniest/strongest] hearted: And I know also, that its [it's] natural for them to [page tear] Love one another. So Deare [dear] heart, In that wch [which] is unutterable I Rest (Hopeing [hoping] to be Comprehended and Read in the same)

Thy [your] ffriend [Friend] and Bro.er [brother]

Danll: Gould [Daniel Gould].

our yearly meeting is Just over, and a good [Closig:] [closing?]
we had, as by this Bearer yu: [you] may more fully know, yn [than] I have now time to tell thee [you].
