Calling all Friends of the Library

The UCF Libraries once had an active Friends of the Library organization. Great News – we are eagerly trying to assemble this vital group of support once again!

Knowing that many of you are strong advocates for the UCF Libraries, please consider your tax-deductible gift to renew your support of the Friends of the Library. The renewal process is easy: simply click the following link to make your gift online via the UCF Foundation: www.foundation.ucf.edu/Main. You may also contact the Library Development Office at dteague@mail.ucf.edu for more information.

Did you know that your annual fund gift of $100 to $999 will recognize you as a member of the Pegasus Circle Giving Society at UCF?

As always, thank you for your interest in the UCF Libraries.

Library Advisory Committee

The Library Advisory Committee is a reporting committee of the UCF Faculty Senate that was created to provide advice and offer concerns to the Libraries concerning materials and services needed by faculty, students and researchers in their teaching and research endeavors. It also allows the Libraries an opportunity to share and report on its services, major events and trends in librarianship.

The committee consists of fifteen members as follows: one college dean, one department chair, nine faculty members, one graduate student, one undergraduate student, a librarian member of the Faculty Senate (ex officio) and the director of University Libraries (ex officio). Each college is represented by one faculty member with the exception of the College of Arts and Science which has two faculty members. Terms of membership are staggered and usually last three years, with the exception of the student and library representatives.

The committee meets at least once each fall and spring semester. The chair of the committee is elected at the first meeting in the fall.
