Florida's Grand Beach Resorts

A look at some of Florida's
Most Famous and Historic
Beach Hotels and Resorts

On display for Summer 2010

Florida's Grand Beach Resorts:

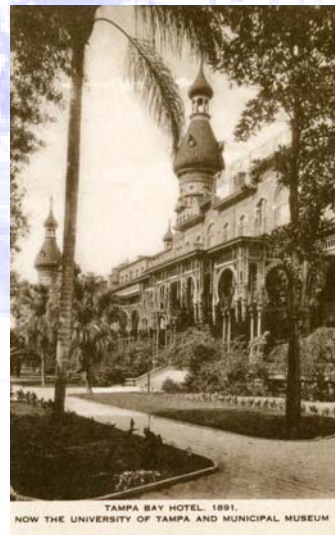

Since the 1880's, Florida's beach resorts have dazzled international travelers. Pioneering hotel and railroad entrepreneurs Henry Flagler and Henry Plant, who were often in competition with each other for the tourist dollar, built some of the first and architecturally finest beach resorts in the world. Many of these resorts are now National Historic Landmarks and continue to operate as resorts today.

A small sampling of Florida's most famous and historic beach resorts includes:

- ◆ The Ponce De Leon
St. Augustine, established 1887
Henry Flagler built, now Flagler College
- ◆ Tampa Bay Hotel
Tampa, established 1891
Henry Plant built, now the University of Tampa and the Henry B. Plant Museum
- ◆ Royal Poinciana Hotel
Palm Beach, established 1894 by Flagler
Expanded and rebuilt into The Breakers
- ◆ Hotel Bellevue
Clearwater, established 1896 by Plant
Now the Bellevue Biltmore Resort
- ◆ Royal Palm Hotel
Miami, established 1897 by Flagler
Destroyed in the 1926 Miami Hurricane
- ◆ The Biltmore
Coral Gables, established 1924
Still operated by Seaway Hotels Corp.
- ◆ The Breakers Hotel
Palm Beach, established 1925 by Flagler
Served as a Veterans hospital during WWII
Golf resort and spa still in operation today
- ◆ The Don CeSar
St. Petersburg Beach, established 1928
Served as a Veterans hospital during WWII;
Owned and operated today by Loews
- ◆ Long Beach Resort
Panama City Beach, established 1936
Operated by the Resort Collection
- ◆ DiLido Hotel
South Beach Miami, established 1953
Now operated as the Ritz-Carlton South Beach

The Royal Poinciana Hotel
