LOCHMEDEK

Vol. I.

WINTER PARK, FLORIDA, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1887.

No. 16.

MY WISH FOR A FRIEND,

FOR LOCHMEDEK.

I'd not ask for you, my friend, all sunshine,
Without the clouds and rain,
No more than I'd ask that a woman's feet
Should tread no paths of pain:

For the rain and the mist and the storm clouds,

By which our hearts are driven,
Are only the means God uses
To bring our hearts nearer Heaven,

So I ask for you priceless treasures—
Not gems from the mines or seas—
But true, tried friends are the gems I ask,
And that I may be one of these.

I would ask that time in his rapid flight
Through the years as they come and go,
Should bring you naught but the pure and good,

— If your life would be better so,
Each moment is freighted with gladness or gloom

Each day has its story to tell;
And I would that Life's sunset should lay at your feet

That peace where no sadness can dwell.

CALIFORNIA vs. FLORIDA

[From the Minneapolis Tribune, Oct. 5.]

Editor of the Tribune:—It seems proper that the leading paper of Minneapolis should give its readers points upon the real estate boom in California. No private citizen here has facilities for obtaining information upon this question that the leading journals of this city have. There is no question of more vital importance to the thousands of our citizens who contemplate going there soon for the benefit of their health and to wrestle with the realty speculation and thousands more who are collecting in money to send by friends for investment. Every reasonable indication points to the most reckless disaster in the future there that ever disgraced a real estate scramble. An old resident well says: "The end of all things is its use, and when only one man of every hundred going there goes to stay and improve property and the other ninety and nine go to speculate out of each other, and all intend to get out before the collapse, it is not difficult to see what the end must be, as the property must be carried or held, and not used at the fabulous prices. An item this morning in a St. Paul paper is timely and will save many men from sinking their wealth. It is as follows:

"The real estate craze in California is on the point of collapsing, and every one is trying to get from under. It is estimated that in the country between San Diego and Sacramento, where speculation has been most rampant, $45,000,000 will become due in November and December, in the shape of deferred payments. The greatest boom has been in unproductive property, and when settlement day comes there will be a crash that will discount the late wheat deal." J. M. BARTLETT.

The above testimony from a source entirely outside of Florida, and therefore presumably untainted with any suspicion of jealousy of our Pacific rival, seems to us better worth publishing for the information of those contemplating a change of residence than any amount of local blowing of our own trumpet. We do not wish to pull down unnecessarily the fair building of our rival, but it is only fair to ourselves that some offset should be made to the unlimited self-praise, and damaging comparisons with Florida, that are constantly being circulated from California. There is no perfect "Earthly Paradise," and when any place is represented as such, sensible people discount the value put upon it at sight, and make up their minds that they will be lucky if they realize half what is promised them. The natural result of doing otherwise is seen in the above account of the condition of affairs in the southern half of California. The property on which that $45,000,000 has been borrowed has been bought by men who expected a rapid and unlimited increase in values there. They have borrowed the money because they were unwilling to sell out at the small advance actually attained in the first year or two, believing that their dreams were so sure to come true, sooner or later, that if they could only carry the land a little longer they would certainly be able to sell for a price that would make the mortgage a mere trifle, and everything would be lovely. Others having invested heavily in proportion to their means in the hope of selling soon at a profit, and getting short of money in consequence of not doing so, have been obliged to raise something to get along with, while some no doubt have found a loan from unsuspecting parties the easiest way to unload and get out of a bad bargain, leaving the mortgagee to foreclose and get what he could.

Such operations in the end must work injury to any country, and we have therefore refrained from offering any temptation to people to come to Florida on speculation. We have described such attractions as actually exist here, and we invite all to come and see for themselves, and if they like it well enough to make their homes here, we will try to be good neighbors and help them to enjoy themselves. Or if they come only as visitors for a season, we are glad to see them, and will try to make their stay pleasant. If any have surplus means to invest, and see their advantage in providing us with railroads, or other public improvements in which money can be legitimately invested, that is all right too. We need a great deal of capital to help us develop our natural resources. Even if they buy wild land and lay out a town, and induce others to come and settle there who otherwise would not have thought of doing so, that is all legitimate enterprise, and deserves its reward. What we do not care to encourage is the buying and removal from market of land which might otherwise be available for productive enterprise; and holding it for a rise, and we hope every man who does it may get left as far behind the procession as those in California who have done the same thing. Such men are the leeches that get fat on the blood of honest workers, depending upon the hard work of others to enhance the general value of property, while they do nothing but claim a division of the results. California apparently has too many of them, and the sooner she starves them out the better. What we want here are people who will take hold and use their energy or money or both in working out the full product of our natural resources. For all such there is plenty of room, and the assurance of a fair reward. That is all an honest man asks anywhere, and here he may have our fine healthy climate and attractive surroundings thrown in, as a sort of premium above the natural par value of his investment. Come and see for yourself, and if you like what you find here we shall be very glad to have you stay and share it with us; otherwise we have no object in trying to keep you here. In any event you will be pretty sure to find your visit pleasant, and so it will be nothing lost if you do not conclude to stay.

It Pays to Think.

A striking instance of the extent to which labor saving machinery is carried nowadays, says the Industrial Journal, is shown in the tin can industry. Everybody knows that tin cans are manufactured by machinery. One of the machines used in the process solders the longitudinal seams of the cans at the rate of fifty a minute, the cans rushing along in a continuous stream. Now, of course, a drop or two of solder is left on the can. The drop on the outside can be easily cleaned away, but it is not so easy to secure the drop left on the inside. It wouldn't do, of course, to retard the speed of the work—better waste the drop, it is only a trifle, anyhow, and to 99 men in 100 it would not seem worth a minute's attention. The hundredth man worked for a firm using one of these machines, and he set about devising an ingenious arrangement for wiping the inside of the can, thereby saving that drop of solder and leaving none to come in contact with the contents of the can. He was encouraged by his employers to patent his invention, did so, and has already received several thousand dollars in royalties for its use. As the machine solders 20,000 cans a day, the solder saved by his invention amounted to $15 a day. It pays to think as you work. Scientific American.

M. Faye, the well-known French astronomer, has drawn attention at a recent meeting of the French Academy of Sciences to the apparent geological law that the cooling of the terrestrial crust goes on more rapidly under the sea than with a land surface. Hence he argues that the crust must thicken under oceans at a more rapid rate, and so give rise to a swelling up and distortion of the thinner portions of the crust, in other words, to the formation of mountain chains.

Stedman on Recent English Verse.

Breadth, passion, and imagination seem to be the elements least conspicuous in much of the recent song. The new men withdraw themselves from the movement of their time and country, forgetting it all in dreamland—in no-man's land. They compose sonnets and ballads as inexpressive of the resolution of an imperial and stalwart people as are the figures upon certain modern canvases—the distraught, unearthly youths and maidens that wander along shadowy meads by nameless streams, with their eyes fixed on some hand we "cannot see, which beckons" them away.

It may be that before we can hope for a return of poetic vigor some heroic crisis must be endured, some experience undergone, of more import than the mock campaigns in weak and barbarous provinces, whereby Great Britain preserves her military and colonizing traditions, and avoids the stagnation of utter repose. The grand old realm bids fair to have her awakening. There are clouds enough to bode sterner issues and nearer conflicts than she has faced since Cromwell's time. Ireland is filling men's ears with her threats and appeals. In a season of jubilee socialists crowd St. Paul's, their banners inscribed with "Justice and Liberty, or Death;" the Marseillaise is chorused in London thoroughfares, and London poets sing—triolets. A great dramatist makes Combeferre, Jean Prouvaire, and their comrades within the fated barricade, heroes all, while casting bullets and waiting for the struggle at dawn, sing—not battle-odes but love songs. England's heroism and imagination are not to be judged by her verse at this moment. Whether the Mother of Nations is to be like Niobe, or long with loyal children to rise up and call her blessed; her poets in fit succession will enrich the noblest imaginative literature of any race or tongue, though, peradventure, "after some time be past."—The Century for October.

Farming by Gaslight.

Howard County farmers residing in the vicinity of the great Shrader gas well, near Kokomo, Indiana, go on record as harvesting the first wheat by natural gaslight. A dozen self-binders and men shocking wheat was truly a novel scene, which was witnessed by hundreds of people, who surrounded the fields of grain in carriages. The constant roar of the Shrader well can be distinctly heard eight miles away, while the light can be plainly seen at Burlington, fifteen miles west of here. The estimated flow of gas from this well is 15,000,000 cubic feet every twenty-four hours. — Indianapolis Journal.

EXCHANGES which have ceased sending to the Florida Republican will oblige by addressing their exchange for LOCHMEDE to Longwood instead of Winter Park.

Two wrongs do not make a right, and if we erred in publishing Mr. Stovin's letter last week we should only make a bad matter worse by publishing one which we have received, in which private charges in no way connected with the question of incorporation are brought against him in retaliation for what he saw fit to say, bearing on that subject.

WHEN the facts are more certainly determined we shall tell our readers the truth about the yellow fever scare. At present there is so little foundation for it, that the doctors themselves do not as yet agree as to whether yellow fever really exists at Tampa or not. If it does, it is certainly in so mild a form that no fears need be entertained about its spreading elsewhere, especially so late in the season.

MR. CHUBB will notice in the same number of the Republican, to which he refers, the sentiment that an editor's thoughts, much less his correspondent's, should not be hidden under the bushel of local advertising, and so will readily see why, in spite of the fact that our interests might be supposed to be mostly on his side, we were willing to stretch a point in favor of the minority, or weaker side in order to encourage fair play for both.

THE town is to be congratulated on having accomplished its incorporation.

Now let all hands, whatever their previous preference may have been, join in to carry on our town affairs successfully, and in a way to make it a desirable place to live. If you do not do your part you cannot complain if things are not as you wish to see them. The benefits of government depend quite as much upon the co-operation of all the people, as upon the vigilance of those who serve them in office.

WE have been sorry to spread before strangers at a distance the unpleasant parts of present local politics, but we considered that we were under some obligation to fill the place of a local paper as well as a bulletin for the outside world, and we suppose everybody knows that local politics everywhere sometimes get unpleasantly hot. It all blows over though in a little while, and things resume the even tenor of their way almost before we know it.

WE are sorry that some of those mentioned in Mr. Stovin's letter consider themselves personally wronged by our publishing it. The charges made were not personal; they were directed against a political party, and were of a character that might easily be entertained by its opponents, and if true would constitute valid ground for opposition. Whether founded on ignorance of the State constitution or any other misapprehension, the heat of party feeling was such as to gain ready credence for them, and we considered it better that they should come out openly and be answered, than that they should continue to be made in the dark in a way that prevented any answer being made.

Now that both sides have had their say we think the matter should be dropped, especially as incorporation is now an accomplished fact, and it is desirable that all old divisions be left behind and forgotten.

AN OPEN LETTER.

WINTER PARK, FLA., OCT. 10, '87.

Editor Lochmede:—I find in the last issue of your paper an article entitled "Incorporation," and signed John Carville Stovin. The writer charges by word and insinuation that my name does not appear on the assessment roll of the County, and that I am a member of the Orlando and Winter Park R. R. Co. and am trying to incorporate the town for my own personal benefit. The first he claims to prove by documentary evidence, and the second by what somebody else told him—he heard one of the chiefs of the so-called ring say. Permit me to say at this point that the above assertions are malicious falsehoods. Now for proofs. Here is a statement from the Assessor in regard to my name being on the Tax List:

[COPY.]

ORLANDO, FLA., Oct. 8, 1887.

H. S. Chubb's name was not intended to be published as not appearing on Tax Book for 1887, as I checked it out of the list. I gave Mr. Stovin, or intended to do so, as I found it on second examination.

W. C. NUTT, Assessor.

[ALSO A COPY.]

STATE OF FLORIDA, /
COUNTY OF ORANGE. /

I, T. J. Shine, Clerk of the Circuit Court, in and for the County and State aforesaid, do hereby certify that upon examination of the records in my office I find Henry S. Chubb the owner of certain real estate in this County and State, as appears from said records.

T. J. SHINE, Clerk.
By R. T. WAY, D. C.

Thus the books and evidence from the highest authority prove Mr. Stovin a defamer and a slanderer, and I declare him as such.

Now let us examine the second charge, which is, "Trying to incorporate, and banding together to carry out a project, for their individual benefit, and that benefit is concessions for the Orlando and Winter Park R. R." On this charge he shows his ignorance, as well as his venom. If he had been at all familiar with the Constitution of the State of Florida he would have hesitated before making the above charge. Read what the Constitution says—here it is—Article 9, Section 10: The Legislature shall not authorize any County, City, Borough, Township, or Incorporated District to become a stockholder in any company, association, or corporation, or to obtain or appropriate money for or to loan its credit to any corporation, association, institution, or individual.

Reading the above charge and then this section of the Constitution, a common sense person would come to the righteous conclusion that Mr. Stovin was a blockhead, or a cruel, wicked maligner. And he who states that the Company wants, or ever asked or ever conceived the idea of asking anything of any town government that may exist in this section, tells a monstrous fabrication, hatched in his own brain, as every officer and director would testify to in open court under oath.

Now, Mr. Editor, I am astonished that the clean, pure columns of beautiful LOCHMEDE should be made the medium of circulating such slanderous accusations against a majority of the citizens and property owners of the town. It is a libel on three fourths of the advertisers in your paper who are incorporationists on the 12th. Your columns in one place represent them as ringsters, and in other columns represent them to the trading public as honest men. You are well satisfied in your own mind, Mr. Editor, that boycotting, coercion, and purchasing voters never occurred in this town. I know you will say that you are not responsible. Let me refresh your memory. In the Longwood Republican, of which you were editor, appeared an editorial under the date of Jan. 27, 1887, containing the following sentiments: "We think that a decent regard for the truth on the part of such papers should lead them to be careful how they publish lying correspondence. Of course they disclaim responsibility, but that does not prevent the harm done by the publication." We all agree with these noble sentiments. For the sake of your friends, for the sake of handsome, sprightly LOCHMEDE, for the sake of a decent reputation abroad, and for the sake of all of our common interests, remember your editorial. "Be careful how they publish lying correspondence."

JOTTINGS.

John R. Ergood is busy moving into his elegant cottage.

The prospects for Mrs. Smith's kindergarten are very fine.

A letter from Col. Peckham tells of his coming about Dec. 1st.

Mrs. L. W. Capen will probably return with Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Capen.

E. L. Maxson reports a big trade in school books the past few days.

We regret to hear of the illness of Mr. W. S. Lane. Hope it is not serious.

A letter from Col. Forbes tells of his coming, and also Col. Paige in the first week of November.

The Town Improvement Association ought to hold meetings now, and push forward the objects of its formation.

The meeting of the 13th, to incorporate Winter Park, is going on as we write these items, and it is impossible to give the result.

H. M. WOODRUFF.

The number in attendance at Rollins College continually increases, and prospects point to the most successful year by far that they have had.

Dr. Hooker preached a most touching sermon on last Sunday, referring to the death of Miss Capen and her services in the choir and at the organ.

We noticed T. J. Adams on the streets a few days ago. Glad to see you, Tom. Come often.

We are very much pained to hear of the death of Mr. Daniel W. Holden's infant, which occurred on the 6th. Mrs. Holden is seriously ill, but we hope will speedily recover.

Robt. White, Jr. looks calm and serene, and why shouldn't he? The return of his family from the North and his election as Mayor, all in one week, ought to make any man happy.

We hear of a probability of a bank starting here, and hope it will develop into a certainty, for it would be a great accommodation to the town, and we fully believe would pay.

A paper from Bloomington, Illinois, has an account of Miss Jessie Capen's funeral, which was largely attended both by Bloomington people and people from Fanner City, Ills. where the family formerly resided.

Were it not that we are afraid that somebody would attempt to cage or kill them, we would tell of the whereabouts of a pair of the finest mocking birds we have ever heard. Their music makes our pleasant place all the more Edenlike, and we do hope that nobody will cage, kill or maim any of these beautiful songsters.

Letters from Chicago, St. Louis and Worcester asking about the yellow fever scare show that our friends are, as we fully believe, needlessly scared. Certainly with the excellent quarantine arrangements, the favorable weather, and the doubt of some good authorities as to its being yellow fever at all. We have, so far, no cause for fear, the strict quarantine arrangements being taken, as we understand it, so that if it is really yellow fever, it shall get no start of the authorities.

The meeting to incorporate our place, called for the 12th, was organized by the election of Nathan Barrows as Chairman, and J. R. Ergood and J. S. Capen as Secretaries. The registration roll being called it was found that 102 voters were on the roll, that 68 were necessary to incorporate, and that there were 73 present. The incorporation was then proceeded with, the votes on town name, town seal, and metes and bounds, were unanimous, and the following officers were elected: Mayor, Robt. White, Jr.; Clerk, E. L. Maxson; Marshal, Alex. Earl; Aldermen, J. R. Mizell, J. W. Diffenderfer, R. R. Thayer, W. B. Simpson, H. S. Chubb, F. R. Israel, J. S. Capen. There was present to give legal advice Judge C. G. Butt and Mr. Gibbons of Orlando, and no pains were spared to make this incorporation perfect. The colored people turned out in procession with band and banners, and the town presented a lively, exciting appearance.

A CARD OF THANKS.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Capen wish to return their sincere thanks for the kindness and aid of so many sympathizing friends during the illness and death of their daughter, Miss Jessie.

Single copies of LOCHMEDE can be had at C. J. Ladd's—price five cents.

Coffee.

Coffee acts upon the brain as a stimulant, inciting it to increased activity and producing sleeplessness; hence it is of great value as an antidote to narcotic poisons. It is also supposed to prevent too rapid waste in the tissues of the body, and in that way enables it to support life on less food. These effects are due to the volatile oil and also to a peculiar crystallizable nitrogenous principle, termed caffeine. The leaves of the plant likewise contain the same principle, and the inhabitants of the island of Sumatra prefer an infusion of the leaves to that of the berries. Its essential qualities are also greatly changed, the heat causing the development of the volatile oil and peculiar acid which gives aroma and flavor.—Scientific American.

Care of Carriages.

A dry house, free from dust and the sun, and away from the stables, is of first importance. If you keep your buggy near the stables, the ammonia will kill the varnish in a very short time.

Never, under any circumstances, rub oil over your carriage to brighten it up. It is sure to ruin the paint. Use a good sponge and a clean chamois, with plenty of clear, cold water to wash the mud off with. Never use a duster or broom on varnished work. Never allow water to be thrown inside the body. It is sure to affect the glue and swell the timbers, so as to break the joints. Mud allowed to dry on a carriage is of no benefit. Frequent oiling of axles does no harm.—Scientific American.

Weeds.

"Weeds," says a writer in Social Science, "are plants in the wrong place. They all probably have their right places and their uses somewhere in nature's economy, though these are sometimes hard to appreciate. The most of them may serve to keep some desolate spot from being entirely bare, and the decay of their repeated generations furnishes mould to the ground, and may in time make it fit to bear something better. They all, too, have elements of beauty, and these will reveal themselves to every one who diligently searches for them. Even the most forbidding are revealed under microscopic inspection as objects of rare beauty. Many of them, if they were not weeds, would be prized as choice flowers; and some of them have been such."

WINTER PARK, FLORIDA.

A beautiful location on the Water-shed or backbone of Florida, with nine beautiful lakes of running water; with the Hotel Seminole, accommodating 400 guests; with Rollins College and its 100 students, with an able faculty under Rev. E. P. Hooker, D. D., President. It is one of the most charming resorts in the State. Thousands have visited it to find health and recreation this winter, and none have gone away disappointed. Its educational advantages and its healthfulness, its location and its easy access by railroad makes it the most desirable and loveliest spot in Florida.

Having added a General Real Estate Department, those having property to sell, as well as those looking for investments, will find it to their advantage to give us a call. Property will be shown free of charge and maps, circulars, etc., promptly furnished on application to

THE WINTER PARK CO.

LOCHMEDE

We trust the people of Winter Park will be sufficiently pleased with our effort to give them an attractive paper to come to our support generously with advertisements and subscriptions, looking for the return on their investment quite as much to the impression of their town created by a presentable paper sent abroad, as to the direct value to them personally of the reading matter supplied, although we shall try to make this as good as possible, and of a character which shall be an index of the refined class of people to whom we look for support. Send us $1.50 for

YOUR SUBSCRIPTION

and see that all people at a distance, who are in any way likely to be interested in Winter Park have a chance to subscribe too. The more we get the better we can make the paper, and we shall take pride and pleasure in enlarging and improving as fast as we can afford to do so. Send us and do not be ashamed of a small one, nor too close in calculating the return from as big a one as you can afford. It will all help to make a good showing for the town.

YOUR ADVERTISEMENTS
