WINTER PARK, FLORIDA, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1887.

No. 23.

INDIAN SUMMER.

[THE CENTURY.]

As frosty Age renews the early fire Whose eager flame in hazy warmth appears,
And brings again, across the shadowy years,
The vanished dreams that kindle and inspire;
As time repeats the hour of young desire In smoother laughter and more tranquil tears,
And childish pleasures mixed with needless fears Stir through the pulses of the withered sire, So when November, sharp with frost, and sleet
And moaning winds about the rocky height, Has reaped the shining forest to his hand,
The charm of Spring returns in mellow heat,
To veil the leafless hills with purple light And brood in peace above the naked land.

Dora Read Goodale.

WHERE IS FLORIDA?

Oh, I know, says the precocious small boy; it is that long sand-flat running out from the southeast corner of the United States, that looks on the map as if it were just made to take a good run on, and dive off into the warm waters of the Gulf Stream at the end of it. All right, my boy, but if you should try it you would find your nice little run about 400 miles long, and when you got hot and tired before reaching the end you would perhaps be very willing to stop half way, before getting beyond the more civilized portion, and refresh yourself with a few of our delicious oranges, or squeeze a lemon and make the best glass of lemonade you ever drank. And perhaps when you had done so you might be content to take your plunge in one of our beautiful lakes (not forgetting the new ordinance of course, for we are a civilized community now, and propose to do all things decently and in order). By this time you might think you had done enough for one day and be tempted to try the accommodations of one of our hotels. Having been put in good humor by a generous table and good bed, you might get up in the morning in a mood to look more kindly upon the "long sandy-flat," and think you might do worse than exchange the icy blasts of the North for our genial, spring-like skies and breezes —at least for a short time, if not longer. If you do, you will find that many thousands of people have come to the same conclusion before you, and that they have had sufficient confidence in their choice to go to work and gradually build up around them an astonishing array of the means and accompaniments of civilized life, and you will find it hard to realize that it is only a few years since all this part of the State was almost a howling wilderness, the few people who were here having made but little impression upon the natural condition of things.

Then perhaps you will ask what these people have found in their situation to make them so well satisfied and so confident that they have made a wise choice. They have in most cases come here from older parts of the country, where they had many conveniences and advantages that we cannot hope to equal for many years to come.
What did they do it for?

In the first place, in coming from the extreme northern part of the country, one comes about half way to the equator before reaching the southern extremity of Florida, and old Boreas gets tired and gives up the chase, leaving the traveler to revel undisturbed in the lap of gentle Spring, who makes her winter quarters here—only now and then throwing a snowball into her lap, as a reminder that he is still in possession of his old kingdom, and does not propose to give it up to her next March without a lively tussle for the mastery, which may even last until she is obliged to call her stronger sister, Summer, to aid her in putting him to flight. All this conflict, and the mud and slush stirred up by it, we know nothing of, except by newspaper reports, and they only serve to make us the better satisfied with our own position.

In the next place we claim the especial protection of Neptune, who is an old-time antagonist of Boreas, and throws his arms almost around us, to temper both the winter's cold and summer's heat, so that the fiercer attacks of both are wasted in a vain attempt to reach us. Resting thus secure, we are alike indifferent to the sounds of far off war without, whether it be against the heat which our northern friends have to contend against in summer, or the cold which assails them in winter. Whether our breezes come from the Gulf on one side, or the Atlantic on the other, they are always mild and temperate in heat or cold.

Finally, we find our sheltered position favorable not only to our own life and growth, and the many aims and pursuits of life, which the rigors of other climates interfere with more or less, but also well adapted to the growth of the various lower forms of animal and vegetable life, upon which the sustenance and comfort of human life so largely depends, and withal, our "sand-flat" is so fertile in the production of what we want, and so pleasantly diversified with lake and stream and forest, that although the bolder features of natural scenery are lacking, we find a little care in the selection, and a little effort in the improvement of our homes sufficient to make them at least as attractive as they could be anywhere. Come and see us, friends, and if you like it there is still "room for one more."

Fire and Water Proof Paper.

A paper that resists the action of both fire and water has, it is said, been recently invented in Germany by Herr Ladewigg. The manufacture is accomplished by mixing 25 parts of asbestos fiber with from 25 to 30 parts of aluminum sulphate, and the mixture is moistened with chloride of zinc and thoroughly washed in water. It is then treated with a solution of 1 part of resin soap in 8 to 10 parts of a solution of pure aluminum sulphate, after which it is manufactured into paper like ordinary pulp.

THE Florida Fruit Exchange reports good prices for Florida oranges, but fears a fall if growers persist in the ruinous policy of putting the fruit in competition with itself by sending it to many different dealers instead of combining on one agency.

WE are sorry to hear of the death of Dr. George B. Wood, of Lake Brantley, near Altamonte. He was widely and favorably known in his profession before coming here from Kansas, and had made many warm and appreciative friends here. He has two sons attending Rollins College.

THE Florida Orange Auction and Forwarding Co. is hard at work and meeting with considerable success in its effort to establish a home market for our fruit. The first sale at Jacksonville was to take place yesterday, and we hope to hear that it was a success. This plan, if it can be accomplished will be the best possible solution of the vexed question of marketing our fruit.

THE December Century opens with a portrait of President Lincoln taken about the time of his inauguration, and a full account of that interesting period, with a reproduction of the inaugural address. Prof. Chas. W.

Shields discusses the unity of all Christian Churches in a very hopeful and encouraging tone. Mr. Kennan lets us into the secrets of Russian prisons. Mr. Edward L. Wilson describes the Sea of Galilee and surroundings, with illustrations from photographs. Mr. Brander Matthews reviews the newspapers of Paris. Mrs. Van Rensselaer describes Durham Cathedral. There is the usual good assortment of fiction and poetry, and short articles discussing Irving's Faust, the Tonic Sol-Fa system, international copyright, etc.

WE are sorry that there are still some who are not disposed to acquiesce in the settlement of the town incorporation as now accomplished. Independently of personal considerations we think that no single citizen has any interest in upsetting the present government, which would not be more than offset by the injury to his property consequent upon an indefinite prolongation of the uncertainty which must surround every proposed investment until the contest is finally settled. We do not think the present government will be overthrown, and if it is we are sure that a few months would see another in its place, so that intending settlers or investors can be sure that by the time they get fairly started there will be an efficient town government to protect their interests in all ways.

THANKSGIVING news has still continued to come in during the past week, and the greatest cause for thanksgiving for all Floridians is in the close of the epidemic at Tampa. We had the pleasure of meeting Dr. Kilmer, of Orlando, a few days since, and he assured us that, as an epidemic, the yellow fever in Tampa was dead. He has been in Tampa during the epidemic, in attendance upon the sick, and has had remarkable success in the treatment of cases under his care, suffering an attack of the fever himself at last, on account of too close attendance upon a bad case. He says that cold weather has effectually ended the epidemic character of the disease, and although a few scattering cases still occur, they should be regarded as merely sporadic, and not as springing from, nor dependent upon the conditions of an epidemic. The difference we have before intimated, but it will bear repeating for the information of all interested. It is now generally recognized that no disease can become really epidemic except where the circumstances are favorable to it. In the case of yellow fever the prime requisite of an epidemic is filth; without that the disease may be brought into a town, as it was last summer into Palatka and other places, and it will end with the original case, or at most be communicated to one or two close attendants. Such cases are termed sporadic, and need cause no alarm if reasonable precautions are taken. If, however, the fermentation of filth in hot weather provides the conditions favorable to the life and multiplication of the disease, it will certainly spread and become epidemic. This condition of things being now removed at Tampa, the few cases that still occur—largely among new comers and returning refugees, who take it more easily on account of not being acclimated—must be ascribed to special causes in each case, such as personal susceptibility or special exposure, and not to general causes affecting the whole community. They are therefore classed as sporadic cases. The possibility of the disease spreading now to other places is entirely over, but we should still advise unacclimated people to wait until the last case has been out of the way for the full quarantine period of fifteen days before going within the quarantine lines around Tampa. Elsewhere no fear need be felt at all.

Shad Decreasing.

The falling off in the catch of shad in the Connecticut River is very great every year. It is most marked, however, in the Thames River. Formerly the fishermen would sometimes take 2,000 shad at a haul. It has decreased in a few years, so that now the total catch reported for the last two years has been but 45 and 27 respectively.—Scientific American.

JOTTINGS.

Mrs. M. A. Spring and Miss Minnie are with us for the winter.

Reuben Thomas preached at Longwood Wednesday evening.

The prospect for a rush of visitors here this winter is very good indeed.

Dr. Eager and family are here for the winter, and will live in Osceola with Mr. Griswold.

C. L. S. C. held their last meeting at Mr. D. N. Bachelor's. Several new members were added.

The A. M. E. Church have about completed the purchase of a lot, and will build a church on it at once.

Mr. Ergood promises us the prettiest post-office of its class south of Richmond when he gets into his new quarters.

The work of painting the Seminole is about complete, and makes that beautiful building look handsomer than ever.

Our grocerymen and storekeepers are happy over the constantly increasing trade caused by the return of so many of our winter residents.

Col. Peckham and family arrived on the 30th from St. Louis. They report cold weather North, and glad to get to sunny Florida for the winter.

The public school is opened and running in Ergood's Hall with Mrs. E. L. Maxson as teacher. We hope by another year to have a good school building here.

Charlie Chubb, Will Ingraham, and a party, spent Thanksgiving at Messrs. Mizell and Crawford's down on Lake Conway. They report having had a splendid time.

The predicted cold spell did not "eventuate" here, and those who took in their "garden sass" went to useless trouble. It is always best to be on the safe side, however.

Mr. Stubblefield has Dr. Jones' new house on Interlachen Avenue about done. It has been put up in about four weeks, and is a nice job. Mr. Stubblefield talks of moving to Winter Park to make his home with us.

Mr. Jewell, of Chicago, has bought a beautiful piece of land on Sylvan Lake of Wilson Phelps, and will build a home there for the family of Dr. Jewell, his brother. Dr. Jewell was well-known to many of our citizens, and formerly lived on Lake Charm.

Mr. W. C. Comstock, accompanied by Mrs. Flood and Mrs. C. M. Capen, all of Chicago, arrived Dec. 1st for the winter. Mr. C. and Mrs. Flood, a sister of Mrs. Comstock, will find that Mrs. Comstock has arranged their beautiful cottage on Lake Osceola perfectly for their use this winter, and Mrs. Capen will spend the winter with S. S. Capen. Mr. C. M. Capen is expected soon.

Thanksgiving Day, 1887, will long be remembered by the bachelors of Winter Park, who on the 24th inst. enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Paulat their home. The dinner was most sumptuous—of the good old New England Thanksgiving type, and was done full justice to by the guests. The evening was spent with music and games, and the genial host and hostess succeeded in making the lonely bachelors forget for the time that they were so far away each from his own loved family circle.

Forbes & Paige have had a gang of sixty men at work on the canal, and are succeeding splendidly—getting it the proper depth for steam navigation. We hope soon to see it an important part of one of the prettiest excursion routes, from Orlando to the St. Johns river at Lake Jesup, in the country. Mr. Prentiss, accompanied by Mr. S. C. Barker, an experienced engineer, were looking the ground over this week. Mr. B. has had charge of the government works on the Withlacoochee river, and is very enthusiastic with this beautiful little plan.

The Methodist Church resumed its evening service last Sunday, and the meetings will now be continued regularly. The lack of a resident clergyman of the denomination has hindered the prosecution of active work, but the increase of residents interested in it demands more aggressive efforts. Mr. Earl's store being temporarily vacant, he kindly donated its use last Sunday, and it will be used again next time. Though but two days notice was given, more than thirty were present at the opening service, and a largely increased attendance is indicated for the future. Hugh MacCallum, Esq., delivered an interesting and instructive address on the fifteenth chapter of Luke, and will also lead the next meeting. A comfortable room, well-lighted, a good company, an organ, a good supply of singing books, with an earnest, devout, christian spirit prevailing all the exercises, combine to render the meetings peculiarly acceptable, and they will be attended by many not in the habit of frequenting regular church services. It looks now as if the Methodist Episcopal Church had come to stay, and would soon be one of the institutions of Winter Park.

NOTICE!

All members of Methodist churches, residing in or near Winter Park, and all Christians desiring to unite in the work of the Methodist Episcopal Church here, are earnestly requested to communicate immediately with Charles J. Ladd, Alex. Earl, J. W. Diffenderfer or John C. Smith. Winter Park, Dec. 1, 1887.

Complementary Colors.

J. G. Crace, in The Architect (London), repeats as follows what most people know, but some do not:

All colors have their complementaries, which add to or detract from the beauty of the adjoining colors, according to what they may be. Thus, the complementaries of red are green; blue are orange; yellow are violet. If you cut out pieces of gray paper in an ornamental form, and stick a piece on each of the three colors I have named, you will find, in a shaded light, the gray will be fully tinted by the complementaries of these colors. But you cannot lay down precise rules. An experienced artist can bring any two colors together by properly modulating them. Nothing is so charming and so refreshing to the eye as an harmonious arrangement of colors. They are "like a sweet chord of music to the sense." The hand of nature never errs, whether it brings together scarlet and crimson, as in the cactus; scarlet and purple, in the fuchsia; yellow and orange, as in the calceolaria; or the colors in the varied plumage of exotic birds—the harmony is always beautiful, ever perfect. The laws of harmonious coloring are a necessary part of the knowledge of the manufacturers of colored fabrics. I will suggest a few contrasts:

1. Black and warm brown. 2. Violet and pale green. 3. Violet and light rose color. 4. Deep blue and golden brown. 5. Chocolate and bright blue. 6. Deep red and gray. 7. Maroon and warm green. 8. Deep blue and pink. 9. Chocolate and pea green. 10. Maroon and deep blue. 11. Claret and buff. 12. Black and warm green.—Scientific American.

The Picture Killed Her.

There is a famous modern picture at Moscow of John the Terrible, after he has murdered his son in a fit of rage, and suddenly discovers the crime he has committed. The expression in his eyes is that of a madman, with a curious gleam of horror and consciousness striking him, after his son has sunk at his feet with the blood streaming from his wounded temple. It is intensely realistic, and report asserts that on one occasion a lady was so much affected by the sight of it that she fell down dead on the spot. According to this tale, the picture was subsequently removed to an inner room and ladies not admitted in the absence of a medical attendant. We inspected the picture in its inner room and without this incumbrance of the doctor.—Nineteenth Century.

Egg-Shell Engraving.

The American Stationer tells its readers how they can write upon egg shell with wax or varnish, or even tallow, and then immerse it in some weak acid, such as dilute hydrochloric acid or vinegar. The acid eats into or dissolves the lime of the egg shell, and thus the writing is left in relief. This may be successfully performed on the first experiment, although a few precautions will be found necessary. As the eggs used are usually blown, in order that they may be preserved, the holes should be plugged with wax and made air tight. As they will be found very light, some method should be devised for holding them under the surface. Two or three minutes will suffice to give the writing the proper relief, but the result will be more satisfactory if the acid is weaker and the time taken longer.—Scientific American.

The Cigarette.

The unusually large number of young men who have been committed to the State insane asylum of Michigan in the last year and a half has led to the discovery that almost all of them smoked cigarettes to excess. In many cases it is said to be absolutely certain that cigarette smoking was the cause of the insanity. It is also reported that a prominent society young man in Detroit has been made deaf by cigarette smoking.—N. Y. Sun.

Intermarriage of Cousins.

The Legislature of Illinois has passed a law making the intermarriage of cousins a penal offense. This is an unwise law, first because it interferes unduly with personal rights, and next because it is not called for. The marriage of cousins who are each of healthy family and physique, and especially if they are of different temperaments, is quite free from danger.—Med. Record.

The Reno Journal says that the practice of smoking opium is becoming almost as prevalent among the Pacific coast Indians as among the Chinese from whom they have learned it.
