dear phineas [Phineas Pemberton]

although I never saw thee [you] but once [page tear] yet I have thee [you]: often in my remembrance I liked thy [your] company so well that I desire to see thee [you] againe [again] at the height of [cartm...] [page tear: Cartmel] fell [Cartmel Fell, Cumbria, England] [page tear: at] our meeting house: dear heart thou [you] kindly [page tear: inv...] [invite?] mee [me] into your countrey [country] thy [your] love I doe [do] accept off [of] and and am ingaged [engaged] to thee [you] for the same but allas [alas] I am so [page tear: illegible] a traveler that I cannot come without a man & [and] a horse and I have neither of my own at present we now live next house to christopher fells [Christopher Fells] we shall be very glad to see thee [you] or thy [your] father James harison [James Harrison] here my mother is aquainted [acquainted] with him but not I: but if I cannot see thee [you] here I desire a line or a 2 [two] from thee [you] and give mee [me] to know how poor James tompson [James Thompson] is if thou [you] re member [remember] I asked thee [you] after him tell him that I made inquiry after him and if I had been able I would have seen that place called armes [&/illegible] church [Arms Church?] where he did live: remember me to him and tell him I shall be very [ink blot] glad either to hear from him or to see him: me think [I think] thou [you] [ink blot] should come with christopher Atkinson [Christopher Atkinson] when he marries they are published now thou [you] must accept of this my remembrance in steade [instead] of mee [me] who rests thy [your] truely loveing [truly loving] friend in the truth
