THE SEMINOLE.

Beautiful Seminole—proud Indian name,
Both tribes and thy chiefs were given to fame—

There riseth in grandeur over the lake,
Where notes of the mocking birds sweetly awake.

Beautiful spot in the bright land of flowers,
Gilding the day and joy passing hours;
Land of the orange, palmetto and pine,
All that is bright and lovely are thine.

Loosely the mosses droop from the trees,
Giving their plumes to the soft balmy breeze;
Floating away on the clear Southern air,
Kissing the lake, Osceola, so fair.

Beautiful Seminole! this tribute to thee,
Bright land of flowers and land of the free;
Here would we linger, here would we roam,
Beautiful spot, and sweet winter home.

—H. W. H.

THE SEMINOLE.

Our elegant hotel will open to-morrow for its third season, and we think the time appropriate for calling public attention to it as decidedly the best one in this part of the State. It was built about two years ago, and is still owned by a company of gentlemen of ample means and thorough appreciation of the old maxim, that whatever is worth doing at all is worth doing well. They had full faith in the certain future of Winter Park as a place of winter resort, and built the house not to sell, but to keep and run as a resort for people of the highest class of society. They are not shoddy men, and were not catering to shoddy people, and they did not build a shoddy house. It is only intended as a winter resort and to be closed the rest of the year, but nevertheless, it is not cheaply built, nor with any imperfect or makeshift work about it. Neither is it built for gaudy show. The style is of simple elegance and solid comfort; comfortable rooms, wide halls and piazzas, spacious parlors and dining room, elevator, and every convenience which its 400 guests could find in the best hotels in any part of the country.

Messrs. Forbes and Paige, lessees and managers, are both well known in connection with first-class summer resorts of the North, and thoroughly understand their business, as will be evident to anyone who knows a good hotel when he sees it from the moment he enters the Seminole. Every department of the hotel service is in charge of experienced persons, and the whole force under them is composed of experienced hotel hands all brought here from the North especially for the winter's service of the house. The kitchen will be in charge of an experienced chef from New York, and the table may be relied upon as fully up to the high standard of former seasons. The house is supplied with billiard room, bowling alley, tennis lawn, boats on the lakes, and every convenience and amusement that could be wished. The growth of trees and plants and grass about the house serves to make the grounds increasingly attractive every year, and each year sees some new improvement added for the convenience and pleasure of guests. Last year the steam yacht Fanny Knowles was put on Lake Osceola, and this year the old canal connecting that lake with Lake Virginia, on the other side of the hotel, has been enlarged so as to allow the little steamer to pass from one to the other. This more than doubles her excursion ground, and the improvement will no doubt be highly appreciated by her patrons this winter. We hope it is but the first step towards a still further enlargement of our boating facilities by opening connection with Lake Berry, Lake Maitland, and ultimately with others. Every visitor to the Seminole is familiar with the beautiful view from the top of the house, including a dozen or so lakes of all sizes and shapes, and a nearer acquaintance with these furnishes an attractive list of excursions by land, and will some time furnish an equally attractive list of water trips.

To the snow-bound northerner the thought of all these out of door pleasures, under our genial southern skies, is a very enticing one, and when he first sights the freshly painted Seminole, alive with its gay company of guests, he must be blase indeed if his heart is not stirred with pleasant anticipations for the days to be spent there. As he comes nearer and notes its beautiful situation between two fine lakes, and finds everything about the house neat and in order, and all working smoothly to supply his wants and make him comfortable, he will surely think he has found the right place at last, and make up his mind to stay as long as he can. Indeed it will not be strange if he follows the course of many predecessors, and decides upon a permanent home of his own in our town. His family, too, will certainly find the Seminole as pleasant as he will, and should he make his home here, they will find themselves equally pleased with our people as permanent neighbors. We anticipate a full house of appreciative guests to reward the efforts of the proprietors to make the Seminole a thoroughly good hotel, and a pleasant home for refined and cultured people.

Many a young lady is perfect in pressing autumn leaves who leaves all the pressing of her clothes for her aged mother to perform.

Spectacles for Horses.

A correspondent of the Manchester Sporting Chronicle tells the readers of that paper some interesting circumstances in connection with a "good grey steed in his own possession." He came to the conclusion that this equine friend of his was short-sighted. He "couldn't see a carrot two yards off," he tells us. So he took the quadruped to an oculist living in the neighborhood, who made the necessary inspection and certified that the horse had a No. 7 eye, and required concave glasses. The concave glasses thus indicated were obtained and buckled on to the head stall. "The horse seemed a little bit surprised," he says, "when I first put them on him, but his amazement rapidly gave way to demonstrations of the keenest pleasure. He now stands all the morning looking over the half-door of his stable with his spectacles on, gazing around him with an air of sedate enjoyment. . . . When I take him out for a drive," continues the veracious narrator, "he capers about as frisky as a kitten; his manner is altogether changed from his former timidity, and he has got over a bad habit of shying which once troubled him." A week or two ago, however, he turned the animal out to pasture for a few days, of course without his specs, and he at once appeared to be uneasy and uncomfortable. All day he hung about the gate leading into the meadow, whinnying in a plaintive minor key, until his master, seeing what was the trouble, sent up to the stable for the head stall. As soon as the spectacles were placed upon his nose, he was so glad that he rubbed his master's shoulder with his nose, then kicked up his heels and danced down to the pasture in a paroxysm of delight. Staffordshire was the scene of this history. We do not know the locality more definitely.

The Watertown Arsenal Testing Machine.

The great testing machine at the United States Arsenal at Watertown, Mass., in the environs of Boston, is properly considered one of the engineering triumphs of its day. A machine which will break by tension a five inch bar requiring 350 tons stress, and immediately after the strain and shock of recoil due to this performance will break a horse hair, and indicate perfectly the required rupturing tension of one pound, must be mechanically perfect. It is told of the Emperor William of Germany that, when visiting Krupp's works, he placed his watch on the anvil under the great hammer. The attendant brought the hundred ton ram down on the piece without injuring it. The watch was then presented to him. The same class of test has been applied to the Watertown machine. A compression of 1,000,000 pounds was first produced, and immediately afterward eggs and nuts were cracked and violin strings stretched. By the very peculiar construction of the indicating apparatus, friction in that part seems to have been almost entirely done away with. The single resistance left, as regards its registration, is the molecular friction or stiffness of very thin metal plates, which have only to yield to an infinitesimally small extent of motion or flexure.

At Balakhan, near Baku, Russia, a new petroleum spring, which rose 150 yards, flooded the country, impregnating everything. Nobody ventures to light a fire, for fear the town will go off like fireworks.—Scientific American.

Every thing that human ingenuity can devise has been provided to make this beautiful house attractive and home-like for old and young. Sleepers from New York without change. All trains stop at Winter Park.

WINTER PARK, 120 miles south of Jacksonville, occupies a superb and commanding position upon the high plateau or watershed that constitutes the backbone of Florida. "It is one of the loveliest spots on earth," says a prominent journalist. "The prettiest spot I have seen in Florida," says President Arthur. "As healthy a spot as can be found on the face of the globe," says Dr. Henry Foster of Clifton Springs, N.Y. Look at the beautiful "Bird's-eye View," on the other side of this sheet, and be sure and see Winter Park before you leave Florida.

Self-Control.

An expert and experienced official in an insane asylum said to us, a little time since, that these institutions are filled with people who have given up to their feelings, and that no one is quite safe from an insane asylum who allows himself to give up to his feelings. The importance of this fact is altogether too little appreciated, especially by teachers. We are always talking about the negative virtues of discipline, but we rarely speak of the positive virtues. We discipline the schools to keep the children from mischief, to maintain good order, to have things quiet, to enable the children to study. We say, and say rightly, that there cannot be a good school without good discipline. We do not, however, emphasize as we should the fact that the discipline of the school, when rightly done, is as vital to the future good of the child as the lessons he learns.

Discipline of the right kind is as good mental training as arithmetic. It is not of the right kind unless it requires intellectual effort, mental conquests. The experienced expert, referred to above, was led to make the remark to us by seeing a girl give way to the "sulks." That makes insane women," she remarked, and told the story of a woman in an asylum who used to sulk until she became desperate, and the expert said, "You must stop it. You must control yourself." To which the insane woman replied, "The time to say that was when I was a girl. I never controlled myself when I was well, and now I cannot." The teacher has a wider responsibility, a weightier disciplinary duty, than she suspects. The pupils are not only to be controlled, but they must be taught to control themselves, absolutely, honestly, completely.—Journal of Education.

Etruscan Treasures.

A fine glass vase, just discovered in an Etruscan tomb at Bologna, is of a sea-green color, like a soda water bottle, thick and of a unique form, with two handles. It is nine inches high and without ornamentation. There is not a single defect, flaw, crack, or chip about it. With it was found an ivory chair, made after the fashion of a modern camp stool, having all its screws and rivets still in perfect condition, and a small casket containing beads and some very elegant articles in bronze. The articles are supposed to date from the fifth century. The tomb in which they were found was closed at the top by an enormous globular mass of stone as fresh as if it had only been fashioned yesterday.—Scientific American.

WINTER PARK, DEC. 30, 1887.

Our calendar will be out the first of next week.

SEVERAL items of local interest were received at the last moment, but owing to their length have been necessarily laid over until next week.

We wish everybody a very happy New Year. When you return the compliment do not forget to enlarge the circulation of LOCHMEDE by adding a subscription for the year.

Our local mail service seems to be going from bad to worse. Judging by the usually acknowledged "proof of the pudding," the "rascals" made pretty good postmasters and other employees, for certainly before they were turned out we never had a service so bad as now.

The fast mail being thrown into the night lately has emphasized the need of a way mail service on the floor trains. Until lately we have had a way service once a day in one direction, but now we have not even that. We hope things may be put in better shape before the rush of winter business begins.

The so-called "fast mail" has been uncommonly slow for a week past. A bridge between Savannah and Jacksonville being down has obliged the train to make a long detour over other roads, and has resulted in its arriving almost any time during the night, instead of getting here in time for supper as usual. This delay will probably not be for long, however, and we hope soon to see the train again arriving at its proper time.

We are glad to learn from Mr. Forbes that the Seminole opens with the prospect of an overflowing house this season. Quite a number of people who have been waiting at Jacksonville for the house to open will come here at once, and it is expected that by the end of the first week the house will have a hundred people in it. This is better than ever before at this early date, and the unusual number of inquiries for rooms received every day indicate that the same proportion will be maintained. If so a full house is more than assured.

CHRISTMAS day was as nearly a fulfillment of our last week's description as it could possibly have been. We had some days last week that were not quite up to Florida standard; and as Christmas approached we feared for our prophecy, but as if by special appointment the day was a perfect one throughout. A clear sky, a bright, fresh air, cool enough to admit of any kind of exercise, yet not at all chilling nor trying to the most delicate lungs, every element combined to make the whole world sing and be glad. Those who did not spend their Christmas in Florida missed one of Nature's best gifts—a perfect day.

Rollins College.

Last Thursday evening a reception was given by the Teachers and Faculty of Rollins College to the parents of the students, and a very pleasant affair it proved to be. A great deal of pains had been taken, and a surprise to many was the transforming of the chapel of Knowles Hall into a fairy bower. It seemed as if fairies must have been lurking behind the embowered paintings and festoons of moss that draped the walls and columns of the chapel, but on looking about a number of good fairies were observed, not in hiding, but circulating among the guests with bright and smiling faces making all welcome with cordial greetings. Dr. Hooker's genial face wore a pleased look, and also that of his charming wife, who has a kind word for all. Miss Garrett has reason to be proud of her music class. Two young ladies played some fine duets, and there were others who played well. We were disappointed in not seeing the students drill. But another surprise awaited us. We were invited down to the dining room, where an elegant table set under the archway between the dining room and music room, laden with refreshments and decorated with beautiful flowers, greeted our eyes. Students and guests enjoyed the delicious cream and cake. I did so wish our northern friends at home who think we live in a land of exile and deprivations, could have stepped into Rollins College last Thursday evening; they would have realized that the world moves on, and that education can reach even to the ends of the earth.

Mr. Graham Gordon is the possessor of a very pretty boat.

S. S. Capen was the recipient of a fine Bible from his Sunday School class on Christmas.

Mrs. Kingsley, a cousin of Col. Fairbanks, is at the Rogers House. She will probably locate here.

Mr. Denny and wife, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. King, arrived last week, and will soon move into their elegant cottage on New England Avenue.

The C. L. S. C. will meet at Miss DeHaven's this week. It will be a sort of holiday number, and will be devoted largely to social enjoyment.

Mr. Riggs, who is to be cashier and head clerk at the Seminole, has arrived. He held the same position at The Kaaterskill the past summer, and is an agreeable and accomplished gentleman.

The Winter Park Company are the possessors of a fine pair of bay Kentucky steppers, who will be put at once to showing visitors the beauties of "The prettiest spot in Florida."

We were promised an item about the Christmas tree at Misses Brown and McClure's but did not get it. We understand that all had a grand time, and that it was so much enjoyed that all hope to have it repeated next Christmas.

We hope all will feel sufficient interest and pride in our pretty little paper to send in items of interest wherever and whenever they may occur. We find it impossible to gather them all up, and will gladly publish local notes and items.

We had the pleasure of a "shake" with Col. Mayo and John Prentiss, of Mayo, this week. R. F. Newcomb, President and Treasurer of the Quincy Paper Co. was here this week with Charles G. Pearce, of Jacksonville, on Wednesday.

As we write this the first guests for the Seminole are going by our window. Forbes & Paige feel greatly encouraged at the outlook, and have many more rooms engaged than ever before previous to opening the hotel. A. M. Hyer will have charge of the livery, which is a guarantee of its being run in first-class shape.

Now that the new sidewalk is laid on the Boulevard we beg to suggest that our sidewalks have been worn worse by people driving over them than by any other way, and it seems to us that nobody who cares for the success and good looks of the town would do anything of that kind.

Mr. Ergood has done as he promised and given us as pretty a post-office as any town of our size has in the United States. Why would it not be "the thing" now for all of the patrons not to smoke while in there, for there are often ladies in there to whom it is offensive. Let's make it the model office as well as the prettiest office in the State.

Rollins College will open on Tuesday, Jan. 3d, at 8:30 a. m. for the spring term. The same arrangements as heretofore regarding an allowance for board for those who wish to spend Saturdays and Sundays at their homes will be continued, and we understand that arrangements for carrying pupils from Orlando will be completed by that time. The prospects for a full school are very good, and with such an efficient Faculty there can be no question about the work to be done.

One of the most delightful entertainments it has ever been our pleasure to attend was given by Mrs. Smith's and Miss McElhinney's Kindergarten at its close last Friday afternoon. The patrons and a few friends met there at 2:30, and soon the students marched in to the music of the piano and took a seat facing the audience. There were 12 of as bright little tots as one will find anywhere. The first exercise was a song by the school, "Our Father," followed by a song by the school, "We Welcome You, Dear Friends." Then recitations by Louise Capen, "Christmas is Coming," and Arthur Ray Maxson, "Little Bun Rabbit." Song of "The Blacksmith" nicely executed by the school with the appropriate motions. Recitation, "Shoe or Stocking," by Stedman Chubb; "Bird on the Tree," sung by the school. Recitation, "Poor Little Teddie and Rich Little Tom," by Ashley Hooker. Song by the school, "Let Your Feet Tramp, Tramp." Song, "Hopping Birds," Louise Capen. Recitation, "The Critic," Lena Paul. Song, "Swing Cradle," which was nicely sung—the pupils singing lower and lower until they all dropped asleep in their chairs. Recitations, "Christmas Bells," Joseph Dorn, and "General Gander," Anderson Paul. Song by the school, "Naughty Pussy." Recitations, "The Gingerbread Cat" by Lindley Jones, and "The Boy We Need" by Charlie Smith. A beautiful song, "Do You Know How Many Stars?" was followed by perhaps the most charming number of the whole programme, the school singing "Sing us a Song, Birdie" while a fine canary bird in a cage sung just as loud as he possibly could. We understand that this bird always sings with the children on this tune. Recitation, "Scotland and Her Queen," by Lelia Reid, was followed by the presentation of beautiful specimens of the Kindergarten work to their parents by the children, and the exercises were closed by the song "Lovely May." It is a wonderful thing to see how by this system little people can be taught so many things in so short a time, and that without overworking their active little brains, but by a process so little removed from play as to be recreation instead of work.

A Noble Retriever.

The Western Mail first published the following remarkable story of a brave dog: On December 29, last, the steamship Muley Hassan was passing through the Straits of Gibraltar, when Captain Thomson went on deck with his retriever Nellie. The sagacious animal at once ran to the rail of the vessel, raised herself on her fore paws, and commenced to whine. The captain looked, but could see nothing. The dog, however, got more and more restless, and finally jumped overboard, and swam astern. The engines were stopped, and a boat lowered, when the dog was discovered, firmly holding the collar of the coat of a drowning man, who was lying across two oars. It was afterward ascertained that he was the only survivor from a Spanish revenue felucca, which had been upset in a squall, and that he had been in the water for four hours when rescued. It would have been impossible for him to have survived much longer. Both man and dog were in a very exhausted condition when taken on board the Muley Hassan. The above incident has formed the subject of a presentation to Captain Thomson of a silver medal and diploma, for his gallantry and heroism in saving the life of a poor Spaniard. Without in the least wishing to depreciate Captain Thomson's effort or deserts, we must say that Nellie most certainly deserves to have some sort of honor conferred upon her, and that she certainly ought to be ranked among the historical dogs who have earned name and fame for heroic deeds.—Swiss Cross.

Value of a Hobby.

If we ever became vindictive toward a fellow man, and desired to punish him, we would deprive him of his hobby; without that, he would be lonesome in a crowd, and crowded in a wilderness, and would seek what he had lost and find it not. The business man with a hobby that he rides is a happy man; but if the hobby rides the man, the business will suffer sooner or later. The man without a hobby will be found in the club room, the billiard room, or card room. The hobbyist, with his loft of pigeons, his bird skins or eggs, bugs or beetles, takes more substantial happiness than all the members of the highest toned club in a city combined. Besides that, home and Dame Nature is all the world to him and all the heaven he ever aspires to.—Wade's Fibre.
