About the Display

I never knew the charm of spring
I never met it face to face
I never knew my heart could sing . . .
Till April in Paris . . .
~~~Lyrics to "April in Paris"

To know me is to know "j'adore" Paris. My introduction to the City of Light, in the Spring of 2011, overwhelmed me with the blossoming colors that highlighted my adventures through a city rich in history and culture. As a Parisian "flaneur," you can wander the streets of any "arrondissement" and come face to face with world renowned art, shop the ateliers of Chanel and Dior, or tour an architectural marvel. At every turn, you can choose to dine on the most complex flavors of French cuisine or simply enjoy a warm buttery croissant and a café creme. So many discoveries to be made by simply following vast tree-lined boulevards and floral pathways in any of the 450 parks throughout the city. I found my "joie de vivre" in Paris. I hope this display inspires you to visit:

Printemps au Paris

~~Bon voyage, Gina

Arrondissements

Paris is a big city, but it's major sights cluster into 20 zones, or "arrondissements." Each has it's own personality, allowing you to group your sightseeing experiences.

Parisian Fun Facts

1. Did you know there is 1 dog for every 7 Parisians?
2. The famous "Bloody Mary" cocktail was invented in Paris at the Ritz Hotel.
3. The first photograph ever taken of a person was in Paris by Louis Daguerre in 1838.
4. Tree counting is an official job in Paris. (484,000 to date).

Be a Flaneur

Paris is a walking city. The sightseeing options can be overwhelming, but finding the right walking tour can give you a lay of the land and ensure you experience whatever interests you most. There are so many tours to choose from, You can follow in the footsteps of Julia Child along Boulevard Saint-Germain, spend the day with da Vinci and Monet in the Louvre, or shop in fashion's latest trends along the Champs-Elysees. Where ever you choose to go, your knowledge and appreciation of the city will be enhanced.

Café Society to Coffee Capital

Is there anything more Parisian than a café? First established in the 1700s as a "clubhouse" for artists, writers, and political deep thinkers, these cafes served as epicenters for the Enlightenment and cultural revolutions of the 17th and 18th centuries. These days, iconic cafes like Les Deux Magots and Le Couple are serving more than the academic dialog of Simone de Beauvoir and Jean Paul Sartre. Paris is emerging as a specialty coffee capital, with roasters and barista-led shops in every arrondissement, elevating the importance of coffee flavor.
