Phenethas

I desire thou not to fall but stand to morrow & if like white hush things as I have writ for & for the best of the it is all gone & I have of myself that they shall have more to morrow full not to love to morrow & some things but one & all & what else thou think, I shall & usually is much what all you let, here by many this daye how you all do no more but that I shall be R P

This briefly howe I believe will be my death it smokes so woefully & my thought is of death upon more by reason of the smoke
