Atlantic Coast Line: tropical trips and tourist hotel directory, season 1908-1909

Atlantic Coast Line

Find similar works at: https://stars.library.ucf.edu/cfm-texts
University of Central Florida Libraries http://library.ucf.edu

Recommended Citation
Atlantic Coast Line, "Atlantic Coast Line: tropical trips and tourist hotel directory, season 1908-1909" (1907). Texts of Central Florida. 91.
https://stars.library.ucf.edu/cfm-texts/91

This Ephemera is brought to you for free and open access by the Central Florida Memory at STARS. It has been accepted for inclusion in Texts of Central Florida by an authorized administrator of STARS. For more information, please contact lee.dotson@ucf.edu.
It is intended in this publication to touch briefly, in a descriptive way, upon the many delightful resorts of easy access to those seeking health and pleasures in the "Sunny South-land."

Year by year the number of resorts sought by tourists is increasing, and the facilities for comfortably entertaining are enlarging correspondingly. It is generally accepted as a truism, that a recreation is just as necessary as occupation, if healthy life is to be attained.

Splendid hostelries have been erected, various methods of amusement provided, and, with the unexcelled transportation facilities, naturally this section of the Union grows steadily in popularity with the thousands of visitors from the North and West. The rails of the Atlantic Coast Line reach, without a break, from Richmond, Va., in the North, to Fort Myers, Tampa and St. Petersburg on the extreme southern Gulf Coast of Florida, passing through Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida, piercing the western territory as far as Montgomery, Ala., and reaching many varied and interesting points with its network of lines. Through trains are operated from New York, Chicago, St. Louis, and other great cities of the East and West, through to Florida via the Eastern and Western gateways reached by this System, unexcelled in elegance of appointment and comfort, all the arrangements being suited to the tastes of the most fastidious.

The resorts located on the Atlantic Coast Line being legion, and their attractive qualities being too numerous to permit of exhaustive description within the bounds of a handy volume, necessarily the number of points described must be limited in order to make this booklet a pocket guide. Full particulars concerning any of the places of resort mentioned may be secured from representatives of the Atlantic Coast Line.
Atlantic Coast Line

Tropical Trips and Tourist Hotel Directory
Season 1908–9

W. J. Craig, Passenger Traffic Manager
T. C. White, General Passenger Agent
Wilmington, N. C.