Dear James Harrison / Dublin. y. 10. of. y. 7. ^{no.} 1686 my ancient and well beloved friend and Bro. in the Covenant of everlasting Love, and Life I dearly salute thee, and cordial greet thee, in the Armes of my heavenly fathers Love which flows forth, at this time towards thee, and thy dear wife, whom I love dearly Love in the Lord for your father and motherly Care which hath bene, and is, I believe for long extended unto mee, cannot be forgotten whilst I have a day well draw friends with might be said upon this account for my heart is full, off the Love of the Lord towards you but I know, you can read me, in that which is eternall, which is our all sea and Land, god Blessed for ever, who hath made us partakers, and fellow sufferers, one of another to him you are forgiven, to express, glory to his name for ever and now dear hearts my Love is with you, and my life is bound up with you, and I cannot, ^{for gods} the Comfortable times and seasons, of the Lords Love and mercies, which we have in joyed, together, and yet I am not without hopes, but we may enjoy one another againe, in the Lords appointed time and season, for I have some Drawings forwards these parts, I have bene through this nation, and have had good friends and friends are generally well, and meetings large, and full as alle in England, as I have an account, lately from London, I intend the Lord will to goe towards Corke, about how with home, to see for shipping to wards Barbatoe or gamera, I should be glad to hear from thee, I have writen to thee, and y. y. since I saw you, first from Barbatoe, then from England, and gaine account, 3. from Holland, 4. from England againe, 5. from Ireland first when I came over, and now by dear the wines, and yet have not had a line from thee, but one from yehovah, and that was yester day, by way of Barbatoe, for I hope this will come to hand, and if the world have mee to doe any thing for thee, direct to Joseph Boden in Bridge town Barbatoe, for with my dear Love to all friends, and brethren in the holy food of Life, in whom we have all Rest and grace and are one anothers joye and Crown in the Lord, and in him alone, I dearly salute you all, and bid you fare well Chinor therefore Remember the Love to thee who am thy friend and Bro. and thy wife, were kindly, whom I now in the fellow ship of the gospel am, at husband is in England the sister margeritt is here who remembers the Love to thee and thy wife
