Samuel Carpenter the bearer of Henry Cookery brings order from one pike who is husband to a sister of Ralph Smith's. A Legacy left her by her p^r brother and the p^r Henry Cookery says thou direct him to me I have shewt him the substance of what was left all to his apparel only linen w^{ch} is in readiness my mother in law is very willing to be quit of them however thou knowest it is not usual to pay Legacies before death yet thou being a principle creditor and the goodly Commissioner what lies between the grant to Ralph upon any act I know not but if Capt Mathew and thou will give order for the delivery of them being there is this opportunity and thou art likely to take harm by keeping of them my mother in law is willing to deliver them giving order ^{as above} and taking A discharge from p^r Henry Cookery w^{ch} w^{ch} thou to her I write for my mother. Ann Harrison
