The above studies have been pursued by the various classes under each heading, as specified, and in addition to them,

Astronomy, Physiology, Dictation and Declamation. Bookkeeping and writing, from Payson and Hammond's charts, have been taught.

Great pleasure and profit were received from the lectures on Phsiology by Rev. C. R. Hartranft, of the New Jersey Conference.

The Biblical class, in addition to Binney's Theological Compendium, has had lecture talks on Sermonizing, Pastoral Work, Discipline and Hymnology.

Higher branches will be taught as soon as the pupils are prepared for them.

THE BUILDINGS.

We have a brick building, three stories, conveniently arranged, and serves well our purposes for recitation. Another smaller one has been appropriated for the residence of the teachers, since the fire swept away the house belonging to the principal; and the old building, erected six years ago for a night-school, before we owned any land, now reverts to the Zion M. E. Church, on whose property it stands, and we are compelled to put up an attachment for dormitory purposes. We desire to build this of brick, substantial, commodious, and in harmony with our other improvements. Can money be used in a better cause, or more carefully than we have done? A well-proportioned brick building, accommodating one hundred pupils, cost less than fifteen hundred dollars. Our dormitory for twenty-five boarders will not cost over six hundred dollars.

We conscientiously solicit the sympathy and funds of the freedman's friends to help us on in our work.

THE FACULTY AND PUPILS.

No pains have been spared to engage the best teachers we could get, and the results prove we have not failed to secure competent, talented and trained educators for this work. The classes have made a larger compass of studies than any previous year. Excellent beyond expectations have been their conception and mastery of many of the themes. Encouragement was never better founded than we receive from these rising pupils. The growing reputation of the School, the extending usefulness of the teachers already sent into the field, and the great demands of this race, indicate the wisdom of our efforts, and ought to claim the assistance of philanthropists to educate these young men and women under our care.

BOARDING DEPARTMENT.

Many persons are not a little surprised to learn that we board the young men for $1.25 per week, and that $30 pays the board of a young minister for the scholastic year; but the testimony of the pupils proves the sufficiency and satisfactory character of the food. We solicit aid, to assist young men for the ministry, in this feature of expense—for, though cheap, many are kept away for the want of ability to meet this small amount.

RELIGIOUS.

Our devotional exercises occur daily at the Chapel, at which all the students are required to be present. Spiritual songs, Scripture readings, and prayers, have made this one of the pleasant and profitable features of our School. The students are required to attend both Sabbath school and Church service once every Sabbath—either at our own or at such churches as they may prefer.

The classes have become a fixture in the history of COOKMAN INSTITUTE, and a creditable amount of progress has crowned their effort—shown by the fact that thirty teachers have been, or are already, in the field, who have been very greatly assisted, if not wholly qualified, by their advantages in COOKMAN INSTITUTE. Ten men are now preaching the Gospel, much more intelligently and effectually from the help afforded them while in our School, and we hope many more may be enabled to put on the armor of light, and go forth to proclaim “peace on earth, good will to men.”

NEXT SESSION.

The next session begins October 18, 1878, and all who intend coming should be prompt at that time, to get the benefit of our class organization.

Do not fail to come and be here at the opening of the School. It may open a door of usefulness and honor unknown and impossible to you now.

We hope our annual may fall into the hands of some generous and able benefactors who will contribute to our scanty supply of bed-clothing, furniture, school apparatus, or a much-needed library. Second-hand books will be gratefully acknowledged.

Please communicate with the Principal concerning contributions or admission.
