Coming from your mind and my dear wife's Love to the your Lord of that I will find the health which through many was the last of this present writing of be your name of your Lord. I have written to the about your callow but if it hath been on your hand ever since the nothing of off the market hath been never since the left Dublin and now it is at 28. pounds a year but I think if it is not likely to fall any lower, I desire that if you write letter to me to come up to London as to let me know what your best yellow cotton wool is worth a hundred there with you. so having little more at present and from being generally well I remain
