Bristo the 7th moth 1702

Samuel I cannot but sorrow with the for thy deare love the Lord is pleased to take yong & well as agee my deare husband hath of the spooke of him and said he gueschard ^{me} he would live long he was so wise he much admire his wisdom the being so yong I have beene much concerned for thy farnalye and of the inquired after them I shall bever desire to heare how it pleas the Lord to deal with deare Israel can not is sumthing better the rest is not thy fings hath satisfied me I am contented with his coming and his mans but for all his farnaly and goods I did not know what to thinke of that by reason of our owne bises and sum sike my righting to the after that manner was not for my one Intrust I can truly saye I cannot expect the yet to mye deare love with Abigailes to the and wife of Israel
