Entertainment producer, astronaut and governor to speak

Anniversary commencement is UCF's biggest

Three outstanding speakers will address the biggest graduating class in UCF history May 2 in three separate ceremonies. The group of which Bufman of the College of Arts and Sciences, Bufman, sports and entertainment production figure, will address graduates of the College of Arts and Sciences, their families and friends, at the 8 a.m. ceremony. The group of which Bufman is chairman, operates a chain of theaters in Florida, where his New York productions employed the biggest stars of stage and screen. In sports he is credited with the successful move to bring the National Basketball Association franchise to Miami.

Astronaut John W. Young, Orlando High School graduate, will speak to degree candidates of the College of Business, and Governor to speak in the Oath Office from 1974 to 1987, with responsibility for coordination, scheduling and control of activities of the astronaut. His current assignment is special assistant to the director of Johnson Space Center for engineering, operations and safety.

Florida's Governor Bob Martinez will address graduates of the Colleges of Education and Engineering at the 2:30 p.m. ceremony. The former Tampa mayor had been a school teacher, a labor negotiator and restaurateur before becoming Florida's first governor of Hispanic descent and only the second Republican elected to the post since Re- construction.

Roy Pickering, associate professor of Music, is in charge of an innovation that will be seen, and heard, at each ceremony. At the prelude, and at the recessional, the UCF Brass Ensemble will support organist Gerald Idle, in bringing body and volume to the sounds of ceremony.

At 8 o'clock Charles Unkovic will be the marshal, Philip Taylor the reader, Mark Stern the Faculty Senate representative and Anna Matar, Barbara Winters the Secretary. The Alumni Council representative and Amy Lee Wolkington, '83, will sing the National Anthem and Anna Matar.

Louis Acierono will be the marshal at the 11 o'clock ceremony, the Rev. Dr. Floyd Schramm the marshal, Lloyd Fernand the reader, Gordon Paul the Faculty Senate representative, Laura Poozer, '75, Alumnae Council representative and Steven Saulio, '91, will sing the anthem and Anna Matar.

At 2:30 p.m. the marshal will be William F. Smith, the minister the Rev. Eric M. Young, the reader Pamela Bishop, the Faculty Senate representative William F. Carro, Alumni Council representative J. Kerwin Blyant, 77 and the anthem and Anna Matar will be sung by Steve Sanni.

In addition, at the final ceremony, the newest member of the Board of Regents, Cecil B. Keene of St. Petersburg, will have a place on the platform, as will Richard Ellenberger and Jessica Buchanan, teachers of the year for Orange and Seminole Counties.

Three former faculty members will be the speakers emeritus-honorary by President Trevor Colbourn. They include Harold E. Green, professor and former director of UCF Daytona Beach campus; George F. Schrader, professor and associate dean of the College of Engineering, and Herbert G. Trove, professor of Electrical Engineer.

Colors identifying honor students, introduced at the last commencement, will again be worn, and Provost Richard As- tro will again introduce deans of the colleges who will confer degrees.

After such ceremony will be a rece- ption on the patio immediately north of the Education Building. Graduates, their families and friends are encouraged to move to this area immediately after the recessional where they may enjoy free refreshments and have ample room for picture taking.

Small news story holds hope for a better world

Recently the Orlando Sentinel ran a small article entitled "Senate Ratifies International Pact Limiting Ozone-destroying Chemicals." I was asked to write some comments on this topic for The UCF Report similar to my article on the Greenhouse Effect in 1983. While my purpose in 1983 was to inform, my purpose in 1983 was to inform, my purpose now is to outline some of the key issues surrounding the ozone problem.

The article in the Sentinel appeared on page 10 and was not very large. Yet that small article may signify, finally, the start of international action by major industrial powers to do something to help the biosphere in its battle against toxic wastes. Rarely can you pick up the newspaper or listen to a broadcast report without hearing about "holes in the ozone layer," "acid rain," or a myri-
Moscow institute beckons

Three UCLA students who plan to enhance their careers by a knowledge of the Russian language have been awarded a total of eight weeks study course at the Pushkin Institute, Moscow, this summer.

They will be part of a 135 student group sponsored by the American Council of Teachers of Russian. They will travel and study together at the Institute that was created for the purpose of giving foreign students an intensive Russian language and culture course.

One of the UCLA students is Whitcomb Kincaid, a senior music major, who has studied Russian for a total of eight years, including all that UCLA offers. He plans to study for a masters in Russian at FSU with a view to teaching.

The other two are Magda Volf, a junior, and Jeff Clark, a sophomore, both political science majors who eye careers in foreign service.

Beginning in early June the American student at Pushkin will be paired with a Russian for a total of six days a week, and tour Moscow on the seventh week. One week of their eight will be spent in Leningrad and other sites in Russia.

They become UCLA's first students accepted by Pushkin because of recently added courses at UCLA.

The foreign Languages Department offers a minor in Soviet Area Studies taught by Nina Efimov, a Russian native and university teacher. Before her arrival five years ago Pushkin was taught at UCLA by Karl-Heinrich Barsch.

Tim McMahon, '86, Efimov's first graduate with a minor in Soviet Area Studies, now works at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow. The students may be able to see him, and also her family who live in Moscow, Efimov said.

Faculty Senate chair for '88-'89

The Faculty Senate will be headed by the rank of officers in the 1988-89 year as in 1987-88.

In a meeting on April 7, senators re-elected H. Wes Jones (associate professor, Education) as chair; Phil Taylor (professor, Communication) as vice chair; and Jim Whitney (associate professor, Music) as secretary.

Before adjourning until the fall semester, the Senate adopted two resolutions opposing standardization within the state university system.

One Senate action is to be directed to the Board of Regents opposing Senator Gordon's SB 316 that would encourage demographic programs, pairing two universities in each region. UCF would be paired with USF at Tampa, coordinating instructional programs, construction and finance.

The other resolution endorses one previously adopted by the USF senate opposing common law level designators for cost analysis purposes within the SUS.

Minority students attending UCF who meet eligibility requirements will be prime candidates for aid from a $100,000 scholarship fund established at UCF by the Kimball Foundation of Winter Garden.

The new scholarship, which was announced during UCF Founders Day ceremonies on April 5, will cover, at a minimum, tuition, books and fees for one year.

The awards will be made available to minority students who have achieved National Achievement Scholarship standing in National Merit Scholarship competition or will graduate in the top 10 percent of their high school class. The scholarships may be awarded to others who are judged academically meritorious.

One half of the award will be available in the fall semester and the remainder in the spring. Annual awards may be made to the same student for a total of four years, provided he or she maintains a "B" average.

Mary McKinney takes UNF post

Mary McKinney, associate director of Student Financial Aid, has accepted the position of director of Student Financial Aid at the University of North Florida in Jacksonville. She will leave UCF on April 22.

McKinney was employed as a clerk in Payroll in 1971 and enrolled also as a student. She was named in Public Administration and Sociology in 1979 and an MA in Public Administration in 1987.

"I would like to express regret at leaving all my good friends and I thank UCF for the opportunity for personal growth, to have the chance to earn two degrees while working at a job that I love," she said.

Speech MS to be offered at Daytona

Because of growing career opportunities in Volusia and Flagler Counties, UCF/Daytona Beach will offer a master's degree program in Communication Disorders in January 1989. It will emphasize speech/language pathology.

Next year there will be 280 unfilled speech pathology positions in Florida public schools, the Florida Department of Education predicts.

UCF's department chair David Ratusnik presented an orientation session at the Daytona campus last week. He said 20 students who already have bachelors degrees in speech therapy, plus another 10 who have other undergraduate degrees and are willing to take additional prerequisites to enter the program, indicate a strong interest in the career field. A minimum of 15 students are needed, he said.

This extension will be part of the nationally accredited program at UCF. We are responding to a direct request from the Volusia County School Board which has 15 practicing speech pathologists who want to upgrade from bachelors to masters level. In 1990 the state will require a master's degree for practitioners in schools," Ratusnik said.

Summer programs look at career fields
Minority high school students who meet academic requirements and are selected to participate will be introduced to careers in business, engineering and health services this summer at UCF.

The so-called "career modules," which proved very successful when initiated last year, are directed at students who will be in the 9th to 12th grades this fall, who have a 2.5 grade point average, and who have received recommendations from their schools.

There will be 4-day segments for those who are enrolled in the business and health phases; the engineering module will cover six days. All three programs begin June 5. Meal and campus housing costs are absorbed. Students must provide transportation.

Those who are selected will attend workshops and other activities related to college life plus sessions that pertain to the specific career fields.

There is an April 20 application deadline.

QUILL/SCROLL
Quill and Scroll societies will have a combined induction luncheon to be held at Holiday Inn University at 11:15 a.m. on Wednesday, April 27. There will be 11 faculty members inducted into The Quill and seven faculty members honored for additional books accepted into The Quill.

The UCF Report, Wednesday, April 20, 1988

New York director conducts workshop
A special insight into her craft by one of the country's foremost directors in experimental theatre will be provided April 20 at a performance workshop on campus.

Ellen Stewart, artistic director of La Mama, will conduct a hands-on involvement in the theatre arts that began when she founded the New York company in 1961.

Her UCF appearance at 5 p.m. in the Black Box Theatre is sponsored by the Black Box Theatre Scholarship Fund in memory of Leah B. Leete, a UCF graduate and long-time supporter of the theatre arts.

Ms. Stewart heads one of the country's foremost directors in experimental theatre, including theatre, dance, video and multimedia events. Its space has grown to include three theatres, a cabaret, an art gallery, seven floors of rehearsal studios, music workshops and housing for visiting artists.

She is a member of the U.S. Center of International Theatre Institute, the National Council for Culture and Art, and the Playwrights' Platform, and a recipient of the MacArthur Award.
