The Unseen Arboretum Workshop
Thursday, April 25, 2019

Come join us for a hands-on workshop at the UCF Nature Pavilion. Based on the book by David G. Haskell, The Forest Unseen, participants will head into the woods around the UCF Arboretum to observe a 1 meter square space. Participants are encouraged to utilize photography, sketching, or audio/video recordings to document their observations. Come find out about the natural history of our area and produce a brief guidebook commemorating your experience.

Nature Writing on Display
April 22-26, 2019

Stop by the John C. Hitt Library main floor to browse featured selections on Nature Writing. Read about how to write about nature, why we should protect our lands, and what benefits nature can add to our busy lives! Feel free to check out these books or enjoy them at the library.

Sea-Level Rise Planning in Central Florida Talk & Discussion
Tuesday, April 30, 2019

Come join Stetson University Associate Professor of Environmental Science and Studies and Faculty Director for the Institute of Water and Environmental Resilience, Dr. Jason Evans, on an engaging and thought provoking lecture and discussion regarding Central Florida's plan to address sea-level rise. As a landscape and systems ecologist, Dr. Evans has focused his research on climate change adaptation within coastal communities, with a particular focus on sea-level rise.
