GO TO A LAW SCHOOL

"There is little, if any, dispute now as to the relative merit of education by means of law schools, and that to be got by mere practical training or apprenticeship as an attorney's clerk.

"The benefits which law schools offer are easily suggested, and are of the most superior kind. They afford the student an acquaintance with general principles, difficult, if not impossible to be otherwise obtained; they serve to remove difficulties which are inherent in scientific and technical phraseology, and they, as a necessary consequence, furnish the student with the means for clear conception and accurate and precise expression. They familiarize him with leading cases, and the application of them to discussion. They give him the valuable habit of attention; teach him familiar maxims, and lead him readily to survey the law as a science. Disputing, reasoning, reading, and discoursing, become his constant exercises; he improves remarkably as he becomes acquainted with them, and obtains progress otherwise beyond his reach."—From the Report of the Committee on Legal Education to the American Bar Association.

"The American Law Schools have convinced the profession that they do teach law in an efficient way, in a way which makes the man not only a better instructed lawyer, but a better practical lawyer."—Sir Frederick Pollock.

The lawyers of former generations got their preliminary training in an office. But in the words of Chief Justice Waite, "The time has gone by when an eminent lawyer, in full practice, can take a class of students into his office and become their teacher. Once that was practicable, but now it is not. The consequence is that law schools are now a necessity."

The young man who supposes that passing the bar examination makes him a lawyer, and who yields to the infatuation of entering an office to be initiated into the profession, will find that he has begun at the wrong end, and that he has mistaken the work of an office clerk for training in the law.

GENERAL STATEMENT

Quite a large number had received College degrees before entering upon the study of law. The college began its work in 1900. It has had the strongest support of the Florida Legislature, Bar and Bench from the beginning. The next fall term begins September 12th, 1928.

LAW SCHOOLS

In all the states the Law School has practically supplanted the law office as a place of preparation for the practice of law. It is obvious that systematic instruction by experienced teachers will result not only in a more thorough, but a more speedy preparation for the bar, than is possible through the desultory reading in a busy law office.

STETSON'S PURPOSE

It is the purpose of this college to prepare students to practice law. In carrying out this purpose, it is sought not merely to familiarize the student with certain rules of law, but also to develop a legal mind and to train him in the art of legal reasoning. The right to modify, without notice, the work and requirements of the University, as set forth in this catalogue, as occasion demands it any time, is reserved.

THE DEPARTMENT BUILDING

During the first two years the College occupied rooms in Elizabeth Hall. These quarters were necessarily cramped and entirely inadequate to the needs of the rapidly growing work. In October, 1902, the new Science Hall, a beautiful brick building two hundred feet long, eighty feet deep, and three stories high, was opened. The style of the building is of the Spanish Renaissance, with low, nearly flat roof, the brick walls being finished in grey stucco. The entire south half of its third floor is given up to the College of Law. This provides three large lecture rooms, a room for the Library, a Practice Court room, the Dean's office, and rooms for the law fraternities, thus furnishing ample room for the College of Law and giving it a home second to none in the South.

RISING LAW SCHOOL STANDARDS

The American Bar Association and the American Association of Law Schools in 1922 adopted the following standards; Every candidate for admission to the bar should give evidence of graduation from a law school complying with the following standards:

(a) It shall require as a condition of admission at least two years of study in a college.

(b) It shall require its students to pursue a course of three years duration if they devote substantially all of their working time to their studies, and a longer course, equivalent in the number of working hours, if they devote only part of their working time to their studies.

(c) It shall provide an adequate library available for the use of the students.

(d) It shall have among its teachers a sufficient number giving their entire time to the school to ensure actual personal acquaintance and influence with the whole student body.

Since the legal profession has to do with the administration of the law, and since public officials are chosen from its ranks more frequently than from the ranks of any other profession or business, it is essential that the legal profession should not become the monopoly of any economic class.

We endorse the American Bar Association's standards for admission to the Bar because we are convinced that no such monopoly will result from adopting them. In almost every part of the country a young man of small means can, by energy and perseverance, obtain the college and law school education which the standards require. And we understand that in applying the rule requiring two years of study in a college, educational experience other than that acquired in an American college may, in proper cases, be accepted as satisfying the requirement of the rule, if equivalent to two years of college work.

The apartments of the Stetson College of Law are on the third floor of this building. They include lecture and recitation rooms, library and reading rooms, a practice court, a Kent Club or law debating society hall, and the Dean's offices.

We believe that the adoption of these standards will increase the efficiency and strengthen the character of those coming to the practice of law, and will therefore tend to improve greatly the administration of justice. We therefore urge the bar association of the several states to draft rules of admission to the Bar carrying the standards into effect and to take such action as they may deem advisable to procure their adoption.

Whenever any state does not at present afford such educational opportunities to young men of small means as to warrant the immediate adoption of the standards, we urge the bar association of the state to encourage and help the establishment and maintenance of good law schools and colleges, so that the standards may become practicable as soon as possible.

We believe that adequate intellectual requirements for admission to the Bar will not only increase the efficiency of those admitted to practice but will also strengthen their moral character. But we are convinced that high ideals of professional duty must come chiefly from an understanding of the traditions and standards of the Bar through study of such traditions and standards and by the personal contact of law students with members of the Bar who are marked by real interest in younger men, a love for their profession and a keen appreciation of the importance of its best traditions. We realize the difficulty of creating this kind of personal contact, especially in large cities; nevertheless, we believe that much can be accomplished by the intelligent co-operation between committees of the Bar and law school faculties.

We therefore urge courts and bar associations to charge themselves with the duty of devising means for bringing law students in contact with members of the Bar from whom they will learn by example and precept, that admission to the Bar is not a mere license to carry on a trade, but that it is an entrance into a profession with honorable traditions of service which they are bound to maintain.

The moot court has been presided over by competent legal talent. The object of the course in the Practice Court is to give the student practical instruction in pleading and practice at law and in equity, and actual experience in the preparation and trial of cases, thus removing the main objection raised to law school training, that it is theoretical and not practical. The work in the Practice Court is divided into three classes of cases.

FIRST. Cases arising upon statements of fact prepared and assigned to the students upon which they are to issue, serve and return process, prepare pleadings and bring the case to an issue on a question of law. The case is first heard on the pleadings and the questions arising thereon are argued and disposed of. At the second hearing, after the pleadings have been approved, the case is argued and decided on the question of law involved, the facts being admitted.

SECOND. In the second class, actual controversies are arranged and assigned for trial as issues of fact. The students are here required to issue the proper process and prepare and file the pleadings necessary to produce an issue of fact. They then subpoena the witnesses, impanel the jury, examine the witnesses and argue the case to the court and jury.

THIRD. In this class the necessary papers are prepared to bring the case before the Supreme Court for review, and the legal questions arising in the lower court are argued and decided.

DEGREE

The degree of Bachelor of Laws will be conferred on the completion of the course of study previously outlined. Students admitted to advanced standing may, if qualified, receive the degree after one year's residence, but in no case will the degree be granted unless the candidate is in actual residence all of the Senior year.

The University reserves the right to change, without notice, any of the courses offered or to substitute other texts than those given.

EXAMINATIONS

It is the desire of the Faculty to characterize the work of the College of Law by its completeness and thoroughness. As one means to this end, four days are set apart at the close of each term for the examination of all students upon the work of the term. The examinations are in writing and are rigid and searching, but are not final.

On its shelves will be found: The Trinity Series complete, including Notes on American Decisions and Reports; the United States Supreme Court Reports and Rose's Notes on same; Lawyer's Reports Annotated, Old and New Series, together with the latest digest of same; Ruling Case Law; Cyc and Corpus Juris; American Law Reports; American Digest System complete to date; Biennial Laws of Florida, bound in separate volumes; six sets of Revised General Statutes of Florida, 1920; Wurtz Digest of Florida; Shephard's Citations for Florida and the United States Supreme Court; Bouvier's Law Dictionary and Black's Law Dictionary; Federal Statutes Annotated; Second Edition; Encyclopaedia Pleading and Practice; The Reporter System Complete, including the Federal Reports; and two sets of the Southern Reporter; The Florida Reports; All State Reports up to the beginning of the Reporter System; English Reports, Full Reprint; Decisions, Comptroller of Treasury; Court of Claims Reports; Interstate Commerce Commission's Reports; Decisions, Department of the Interior; Mew's Digest of English Case Law; Harvard Law Review; the best selection of recent texts on various law subjects, etc.

The State Reports up to where the Reporter System begins, together with said Reporter System and the various selected cases before mentioned, give us every case decided in the court of last resort of every State in the Union, also the United States. Thus our library affords most excellent facilities for the study of the case law of the American States and England.

The class of 1903 left, as a memorial, the Chancery Reports of the State of New York; the Class of 1905, the New York Common Law Reports; the class of 1906, the Lawyers' Reports Annotated; and the Class of 1907, the Michigan Reports to the Northwestern Reporter. Important additions are constantly being made to the Library. Hon. N. H. Larzelere, of Norristown, Pa., has presented the Law Library with a complete set (224 volumes) of the Pennsylvania Reports. Mr. John B. Stetson, Jr., recently gave the State Reports of every state, which we, previously, did not have. Hind's Precedents of the House of Representatives, 8 vols., Moore's International Law Digest, English Ruling Cases, and British Ruling Cases have lately been placed on the shelves. There are now over eight thousand bound volumes in the Law Library, not including law reviews or advance sheets.

The students of the College of Law have access to the General Library of the University.

BREWER CHAPTER PHI ALPHA DELTA FRATERNITY

The second largest national legal fraternity, Phi Alpha Delta, entered the Stetson College of Law in 1915 by installing a chapter in it. This is the first chapter of a national legal fraternity in the far South. Membership is restricted to the honor men. Several of the prominent jurists of the State have become honorary members since the founding of this Chapter.

THE SIGMA NU PHI FRATERNITY (LEGAL)

The John Marshall Chapter of the Sigma Nu Phi Legal Fraternity, was installed at Stetson University on April 23d, 1921. Although a new arrival at Stetson, this fraternity is already making rapid strides, and bids fair to become strong in its chosen field.

THE PHI DELTA DELTA FRATERNITY

Phi Delta Delta Legal Fraternity for women, was founded at the University of Southern California. Rio chapter was established at Stetson University in May 1923. Its membership is limited to women in law schools and in the legal profession. Many of the outstanding women lawyers of America are members of the fraternity.

UNIVERSITY PRIVILEGES

The advantages of the other departments of the University are open to such students in the College of Law as desire and are able to accept them. Courses in Constitutional Law, History, Political Economy, Logic, Rhetoric and English Composition are particularly recommended to law students. No extra charge will be made for such course, but students in the College of Law will be permitted to take them only by consent of the President.

DEGREES

The degree of Bachelor of Laws (LL.B.) will be conferred on the completion of the course of study previously outlined, provided the candidate satisfies the President that he is a person of worthy character. Students admitted to advanced standing may, if qualified, receive the degree after one year's residence, but in no case will the degree be granted unless the candidate is in actual residence during all of the senior year.

ADMISSION TO THE BAR

The graduates of the College of Law are licensed by the Supreme Court, without examination, to practice in all the Courts of Florida upon presenting their diplomas, duly issued by the proper authorities and upon furnishing satisfactory evidence that they are twenty-one years of age and of good moral character.
