The exhibition was under the direction of Professor John Jacques Pfister, Mr. Hugh McKenn, Mrs. Virginia Robie and Mr. George Galsiere of the art faculty. Here guests were Belle Sady White of Pratt Institute, Mrs. Dorothy Ward Pratt O'Hara of New York, Mrs. George T. Fritchard. At six o'clock brief addresses on the art Department, Its Achievement and Ideals were made by Professor Pfister and Miss Edith Fairfax Davenport. Refreshments were served.

ful inquiry, and some officials seemingly prefer to remain silent when approached for statements; others, however, readily asserted that the rule was to be enforced shortly. It was apparent that the order had originated in the Department of Labor rather than in the Immigration Bureau itself.

Whether or not the order would be rescinded by the regime assuming the duties of the department concurrently with the new administration remained in doubt for the time being, and meanwhile, most employees of the Immigration Bureau were busily endeavoring to recall any previous time when their interest had been so aroused.

Zora Hurston Dances For Ruth St. Denis

A special half hour performance of folk songs and dances was given in the Museum on Sunday afternoon by Zora Hurston and her company of negroes. The concert was staged particularly for Miss Ruth St. Denis. The audience included only the directors of the Museum and several invited students and townspeople.

Miss St. Denis was enthusiastic about the Bahama dances which were done in characteristic costumes and with the rhythmic beat of tom-toms.

ROLLINSANIA

By M. J. Davis

Added by a score of secret service men, we've been trying to discover (indirectly, of course) if there's any truth in the rumor that the showers at Lakeside Dormitory are infested with crickets, or is it Bob Warfield, perhaps, in one of his many disguises. Anyway, these insects are suspected of being members of the male sex, a fact which is causing no end of embarrassment to numerous modest co-eds who likewise infect the showers. Various important persons who are more or less familiar with the dorm and its problems, were unusually reticent when interviewed on the subject. Connie Wetherell, noted campus sportswoman, said she was not bothered. "I'm very broad-minded," was her only statement. Dot Purmyer: "I think it's a novel idea." Den Dueslop: "I ain't sayin' nothin'." "Oh, won't talk, eh? Cigarface, well . . ." Parion us, that's another story).

Besides the entire school and curriculum being a problem, every separate department has its worries these days. Take Cloverleaf, for instance. (No, I'll take Cloverleaf, you take Russia). The "vixen" (1) girls who make life miserable for each other over them, look with disdain upon the feeble endeavors of their sisters to break into big time over a little matter like crickets. They go in for bigger game. I was down at the Colonial trying to chase a dope out of Ben Fawcett, when Victoria Peirce walked up to the counter and asked for some Kat poles. "Yes Ma'am," says Walt. "Will you take it with you?" "Oh no," snaps back Vic. "I'll send the rate over for it."

But that ain't nothin' yet!! Half the student body is wandering around the campus in a rather dazed condition, frantically trying to get rid of slips of paper marked "Pay to the Order of . . ." but no use. You can't even start a fire these cold mornings with a piece of paper that small. (I just hit Tony Merrill. He said, "How about a good large check?" There ought to be a law). They say Curt Ganssen went crazy after three hours of fruitless endeavor to cash his check, and finally went home and cut paper dolls out of it, while Pat Longhery is going to paper the walls with hers. "Peewee" Eastman and Bob Robertson, the Blind Menace, Legal Users, will buy in any check at 3 per cent its value. Now that's a racket! They'll probably ask for security, too.

In about a week there'll probably be just enough cash left in town to stuff a few strands of spaghetti. Then we'll go back to the old system of barter. Can't you see Bill Miller trying to swap a black and white Jersey milk cow for a square meal at Charlie's, or Joan Jackson trying to persuade the postmaster that a package of hairpins and a slightly used toothbrush are a good trade for a couple of stamped envelopes. I've got a perfectly good solid gold watch with only one hand gone and the stem missing, and a bound copy of the National Geographic for the years, 1908-1909, that I'd like to swap for Tommy Johnson's Padded.

Roosevelt's inauguration was made doubly suspicious by the closing of most of the banks in the country Saturday. He promised the people a "New Deal," but where are they going to get the chips to play with, now? The boys at Chase Hall, who, while away during the class hours, don't bother about money or chips, however, they play for the fun of it. Dean Enayst, however, being first theatre, you will find Peter Standish the modern man baffling his fiancée Marjorie Pratt (Annelia Bigelow), his housekeeper Mrs. Barwick (Dorothea Yast) and his friend the American ambassador (Boyd Kyner) as he sets forth upon the adventure which makes this play a new experience in the Drama.

Special prices will prevail for students on the evening of Thursday, March 9th.

Rollins Wins Prizes in Florida Exhibition

The Rollins Art Department is gaining a name for itself by winning many state contests. At the Central Florida Exposition recently held in Orlando, Blanche Georgene Fishback took first place with her oil painting of Sarah Loos. She competed with thirty-five other artists for the honor.

George Barber's group of six oil paintings was judged to be the best group in competition while the silhouettes of Bets Richards were also given the blue ribbon vote.

John Martin to Speak on Sunday

John Martin, consultant on international relations at Rollins College, will give an address at the Mountain Lakes Club House, Lake Wales, Fla., next Sunday afternoon, March 12.

The following Sunday afternoon, the speaker will be Irving Berstler, author and Rollins College trustee.

"REBOUND" TO BE GIVEN APRIL 7, 8

Comedy By Stewart Will Be Presented By Wunsch

"Rebound," a comedy in three acts by Donald Ogden Stewart, will be presented in the Annie Russell theatre under the direction of W. H. Wunsch on Friday and Saturday evenings, April 7 and 8. Eugene O'Neill's "Anna Christie," originally scheduled for these dates, was postponed until May on account of the injuries to one of the actors in a recent accident.

In the Stewart domestic comedy Martha Davenport will enact the leading role of Sara Jaffrey. Bob Roy Miss will play opposite her as Bill Trussdale, "the Great Lover." Nas Chapin is cast as Liz Crawford, Sara's married sister. The supporting cast includes Frank Wetherill as Lyman Patterson, Gordon Jones as Les Crawford, Sturleigh Drummond as Johnnie Cales, Alice Trowbridge as Eric Lawrence, Sara Luce as Mrs. Jaffrey, Danie Bergoni as Piero, John Moore as Jules and Betty Young as Maria.

"Rebound" was first produced in New York in 1930 by Arthur Hopkins with Hope Williams as Sara Jaffrey. The play was adjudged one of the ten best plays of the year by Burns Mantle, dramatic critic; and, according to Heywood Brown, it is "the best light comedy written by anybody hereabouts in ten or twenty years."

Cab Calloway Coming To Orlando Next Week

Cab Calloway, the king of scintillating, will appear at the Orlando coliseum next Wednesday.

Scabbing, a new method of producing strange accompaniments, consists of supplanting silly lyrics with meaningless, improvised jungle sounds, grunts, and shrieks as: "hye-de-lye-de-ho," or "scat-n-dat-de-doo," or "poo-n-de-dat-n-dat," and "waddy-daddy-doo."

Perhaps the most popular scat song is "Minnie the Moocher," a melody filled with such chantings as: "zip-a-daddy-ty," "beddie-um-bum-bum," and "ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ty," and many "hye-de-hoo," and "scat-n-dat-de-doo."

As for the origin of these sounds, Harpo Marx talked in his sleep while having a nightmare and Groucho took dictation.

John Martin to Hold Open Forum Sessions

The public meeting in Prof. John Martin's course in international relations, scheduled for Thursday morning, March 8, in the Annie Russell theatre at Rollins College, has been postponed a week.

The meeting on Thursday, March 16 will take the form of an open forum for a critical discussion of Prof. Martin's series of lectures given during the past few weeks.

Bob Fuchs Elected Fraternity President

The annual elections of Eta Lambda Nu officers were held Monday, Feb. 27.

Bob Fuchs was elected president for the second time, succeeding Dick Shannon who held this position when Fuchs was unable to return for the fall term.

Others elected were Joe Litchenstein, vice president; Ben Fawcett, treasurer; Bob Morrow, secretary. Minor officers were distributed as follows: Corresponding secretary, Ben Fawcett; pledge captain and sergeant-at-arms, Carl Goulier, social reporter and athletic manager, Bob Fuchs; house manager, Winthrop Brubaker.

Spanish Club Meeting Held at Mrs. Lamb's

The Spanish Club held its regular bi-weekly meeting at the home of Mrs. Antonia Lamb Wednesday, March 1st.

The evening was spent in playing Spanish games. Refreshments were served.

PROCRUSTINATION is not only the thief of time; it is the thief of happiness as well. Countless losses and disappointments can be traced to someone's needless delay.

Like the view of a beautiful home spoiled by a tumble-down fence, procrastination has marred the peace and contentment of many a household.

By way of illustration, consider the thousands of dollars lost every year to families of men who have procrastinated in securing life insurance. Although one of the wisest, safest investments a man can make, the taking of life insurance is apt to be postponed until the opportunity to get it is lost.

The time to secure life insurance is while you are in good health. Accident or disease may suddenly render you uninsurable. Last year the Equitable was compelled to decline 15,833 persons who had waited too long. Most of them could have secured the desired policies if they had not procrastinated.

The necessity for prompt action in insuring is further illustrated by the fact that the Equitable last year paid $94 death claims on the lives of policyholders whose insurance had been in force for less than a year. All these persons were sound risks when the policies were taken, less than a year previously.

If you contemplate taking insurance, but have been putting off action until a more favorable season, now is the time to tear down the fence of procrastination. Why not add to the security and happiness of your home by insuring your life while the opportunity is yours?

Two important events took place in the year 1910. Both Hart was born and a Federal Reserve Bank Act was passed. Brooklyn was the location for the first, Washington for the second.

Ruth attended the Fackler Institute in Brooklyn when seven and continued until seventeen. She then went to school in Switzerland but returned in a year to Fackler where she completed high school and had two years of college.

Through hard work and sincerity, Ruth has gained a name for herself. She worked on the Sandspur first as a reporter and later as assistant managing editor. W. A. A. and the Kappa claimed her last year and still do.

Ruth plans to continue her study of Journalism next year at Columbia.

Holley Lynn is a native daughter of sunny California. She, too, was born in 1910. Holley deserted her native land in 1929 for The Castle at Tarrytown, New York, and after two years there, came on to Rollins.

While here, Holley has joined the Kappa Kappa Club, the W. A. A., the International Relations Club and is, at present, proof editor of the Sandspur.

History is her major and although she has no definite plans for applying it next year, Holley does intend to get back to good old California.

Friday afternoon the Kappa Alpha Theta chapter-house entertained at tea. Dr. Stiles was the guest of honor and told of his experiences as a health officer during the war.

Tombstone Club To Have Meeting

The Tombstone Club is celebrating the funeral of Old Man Depression, Saturday, March 11, in a Rollins Record-up at the home of Professor Lounsbury. All members of the Administration Staff, the faculty and their families have been invited.

A full moon has been engaged but a raging bonfire will take its place if it fails to appear. Games for both alone and sleuther are guaranteed.

Tea for Chi Omegas Given by Mrs. Robbins

Several Chi Omegas including Dorothy Smith, Virginia McCall, Grace Emory, Sylvia Shores and Eleanor Shores were present at the tea given Sunday at Chisegut Hill, the Brookville estate of Colonel and Mrs. Raymond Robbins.

At this reception Mr. Ward, the new superintendent of Chisegut Sanitarium, was introduced to a group of neighbors and friends from throughout the State.

Col. and Mrs. Robbins have recently turned their estate over to the government as a sanctuary for the preservation and development of native Florida resources.

Bob Fuchs and Ben Fawcett went to St. Petersburg for the week-end and spent the time with the Boston Braves squad at the training camp.

Professor A. J. Hanna left Monday for Palm Beach and Miami on college business. He will be gone two or three weeks.

of all a business man, says: "Card playing is a waste of time. See that it stopped." Gee whiz, Dean, its only for fun, why get nervous? You can't keep the real gamblers down, though. Why they found out they weren't going to be allowed to play bridge in Chase Hall, Wally Childs and Dave Horowitz went to Commercial Law class for the first time Wednesday afternoon and started a bang-up game of Twenty-One over in the corner of the room, while Maurice Deister was trying to prove to Judge "Red" Winderweide (Whew, that was a hard one), that he was really a quicksand expert and qualified to testify in a mock trial that's been dragging through the kangaroo court for four weeks.

I surely am glad Prof. Tory is a member of the faculty and not a campus journalist, or I'd soon be writing fashion notes. (Yes, somebody has suggested that, already.) His "Rollins Merry-Go-Round" showed a neat turning of phrases and a good bit of subtle humor. For his enlightenment, however, as to the whereabouts of President Holt and Artist McKean during the evenings festivities, may be suggested that had he stepped into the tent which hid the claims of the Madame Fuliza from the eyes of the aristocratic hostess, he might have discovered the two gentlemen in question. However, it is not true that they were both thrown out of the tent for pushing. There was plenty of room up in front for everybody.

Adding insult to injury, the Rollins Library now no longer merely sends notices of overdue books, but last week almost every student on campus received a bill for the accumulated debts due on those books. Johnny Cadmore, after scratching his head for a few minutes, sat down and wrote the following letter to the authorities:

"Dear Mr. Yost, Please don't send me no more bills. I ain't got no money. Anyhow, I'm a minor and ain't liable for my bills. Also please remit the three cents I paid on that book last term. Thanking you in advance, John Cadmore." And that, my children, is high finance.

These students who have been laboring under the impression that they have a real sense of humor, had a splendid opportunity to display their talents in the answers to the questionnaire on whether each individual was present at Convocation Exercises two weeks ago. The answers should be good. On the other hand, some people insist that it was the administration which showed the best sense of humor by sending out the questionnaire to begin with. Who can tell?!

Natalie Cole spent the week-end in Miami with her family.

Miss Rebekah Stewart, Province president of Pi Beta Phi fraternity, was the guest of the Rollins chapter over the week-end. She was entertained at a closed tea Sunday afternoon at the chapter house when she met the entire chapter including the new initiates and pledges.

JOHNSON SPEAKS AT NEW SMYRNA

"Dr. Andrew Turnbull" Topic Of Address Last Week

Tommy Johnson, president of the Junior class and active in Florida history work here, made a trip to New Smyrna last week to deliver the principal address at a combined meeting of the New Smyrna chamber of commerce and the Kiwanis club. His topic was "Dr. Andrew Turnbull, Founder of New Smyrna." The entire program of meeting dealt with the historical backgrounds of New Smyrna.

Professor A. J. Hanna accompanied Tommy on the trip, and introduced him at the meeting. They also visited the old mission, and fort, which have been repaired recently. Professor Hanna will take his class in Florida history to visit these ruins during the spring term.

A committee of New Smyrna citizens is planning a historical celebration to be given next year, and has asked Rollins College to cooperate in collecting material. The committee has invited Tommy Johnson to make an address at this celebration.

ILLUSION:

The Oriental girl reclines on a sheet of plate glass supported by two slaves. The magician waves a white sheet in front of the pretty maiden... pronounces a few magic words... Presto! She has disappeared in thin air.

EXPLANATION:

"Disappearing" acts are among the most popular in the repertoire of the magician. Dogs, horses, girls, whole rooms disappear—replaced by mirrors, dropped through trapdoors, hidden by mirrors. But this "disappearance" is a bit different. One of the "slaves" is a hollow dummy. When the magician holds up the sheet the little lady disappears completely—into the convenient figure of the dummy.

It's FUN TO BE FOOLED
...IT'S MORE FUN TO KNOW

There is also a trick of cigarette advertising, whereby a few magic words are used to create the illusion of "Coolness." EXPLANATION: Coolness is determined by the speed of burning. Fresh cigarettes, retaining their full moisture, burn more slowly... smoke cooler. Parched, dry cigarettes burn fast. They taste hot. This makes the method of wrapping very important.

Improperly wrapped cigarettes begin to dry out as soon as packed.

Camels are cooler because they come in the famous Humidor Pack of welded, three-ply, MOISTURE-PROOF cellophane... and because they contain better tobaccos.

A cigarette that is fresh, full of natural moisture, and blended from choice, ripe tobacco tastes cooler than one that is harsh and acid. For coolness, choose a fresh cigarette, made from costlier tobaccos.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Try Camels... give your taste a chance to sense the difference. You'll appreciate it!

ANNIE RUSSELL

A college is indeed fortunate to have a person such as Annie Russell connected with it. Last Thursday Miss Russell appeared behind the footlights after an absence of years, withdrawn except for a presentation of "In a Bakery" last year at the dedication of the Annie Russell Theatre.

Not only has Miss Russell appeared herself but she has devoted much time and energy in advising the Rollins Workshop in producing their plays.

One of the disadvantages of a small town is that really good artists are seldom attracted to it. This year Miss Russell has eliminated this disadvantage by presenting a Professional Artists Series which has included the Jitter Players, Edith Wynne Mathison, the Cordis Quartet, Princesses Te Ala and Alike, William Harris, Lea Lubachuk and Ruth St. Denis. She is also assisting in securing musical talent for the Cervantes celebration scheduled for April 23. Thus Miss Russell has given the college and the town the opportunity of hearing such artists who would not ordinarily be available in Winter Park.

A winter visitor who has often seen Miss Russell on the legitimate stage called her the "most generous of actresses." Rollins can agree wholeheartedly to this description. She has been truly generous with her time and talent and has given us all something we can never forget.

COLLEGE FOR UNEMPLOYED

The announcement has recently been made for the establishment of a college for the unemployed of Nassau County, L. I. The course will be equivalent to those of the first year of any college and university and the instructors themselves will be selected from these new unemployed. Any unemployed person in the county with a high school education or its equivalent will be accepted as a student.

Several other emergency schools, not of college rank however, have already been opened in Nassau County. They are financed by an allotment from the State Department of Education.

This is an example that other counties might well follow. The faculty would present no problem. Hundreds of veteran teachers are out of work as well as people who have just graduated from colleges and universities who are seeking teaching positions. Even though they would not make much money, it would keep them busy and give them valuable teaching experience which would fit them for better positions later.

Nor should there be any difficulty in filling the quota of students. Hundreds of people now out of work have never had more than a high school education. Such a college would enable them to have at least one year of higher learning and vocational training. If the experiment is successful, they might be able to complete a full college course. This would enable them as well as the teachers to obtain and retain better positions later.

Naturally the financing of such a project is bound to be difficult since most state education departments have not sufficient funds to give to the various counties. The counties themselves do not have the money and relief organizations have been swamped with requests for aid.

Such an educational venture would surely attract the attention of some one financially able to help. Education is the one thing to which people will always give generously. A school such as this which is serving a double purpose of making a college education available to many who could not otherwise afford it and of giving unemployed teachers occupation, is worthy of more than average support.

FOREWARNED HE WENT TO DEATH

Henry George was in feeble health when, in 1897, he was urged by the forces of good government and social reform to be their candidate for the first Mayor of Greater New York. His physicians advised against his making the contest. He consulted with a number of his single tax friends, among them the writer of the present column, as to whether his candidacy would promote the cause to which he had devoted his life. Their answer was: "Certainly, but"—"That is all I want to know," replied George; "I shall make the race if I die for it." He exerted himself to the utmost, speaking night after night to great and enthusiastic audiences; and died in the midst of the campaign.

Forewarned he went to his death; not as the knight.

With tress of lance and proud steed's carcass.

Spurring the coverage of a sinking soul; Nor as the martyr clad in scabbard white.

With spirit rapt to some celestial height Beyond all earthly passion or control;

Nor as approached our dim, mysterious goal.

The steele, clanking from his eyes the light;

But, knight though still he was, martyr and sage—

Saint George who pierced Monopoly's dragon coil;

Witness of truth unto a life-bound age;

Witness of all the savors of the self—

Calm as the Mariner walked to Calvary

"About his Father's business," so went he.

—Marion Mills Miller.

A CLEAR CALL

Continued attempts to reform campus politics without success have made the average student deeply cynical concerning the matter. A mere mention of a proposed reform has been sufficient to draw from him a derisive snarl or a meaningful smile. He does not believe; he does not trust and all because he has been consistently and completely disappointed when his expectations were great for a promised change for betterment. Those who promised have broken faith too many times. Thus the problem of removing doubt and distrust must be faced if a reformation is to be successfully accomplished.

It cannot be argued that there is no need for a change in the trend of politics. With the passing of each day more reasons are apparent for devising methods of controlling politics, the one element on the campus that has caused more trouble, more harm, than all of the indiscretions that can be enumerated. But those who will say that this is not true, but they are only putting forth a weak argument intended to benefit themselves. Politics is the greatest force in the University. It controls almost everything. Only a few elements that make up the University for the students are outside the control of the student political organizations.

For these reasons when a more extensive campaign for reform is made every student that is worthy of being a member of the student body cannot ignore the call to judge whether the reform is in truth a reform or merely an instrument whereby a group or groups are furthering their own interests. There needs to be a careful grouping of reasons in order that the truth may be clearly ascertained. Look more deeply than the surface. Think of the past and the future before a decision is made. Ask why and when.

CULTURE OR A HUSBAND?

A prominent columnist who likes to give "advice to the lovers" recently stated that college women have a distinct handicap in the matrimonial field. She states that statistics show that a college degree decreases a girl's chance of marrying by half. Elaborating on this startling discovery she further states that education makes a woman overlook the fine young "go-getters," because they become clumsy about a man's grammar and pronunciation. In other words, a college girl loses all the knowledge of getting along with men simply because she has furthered her cultural advantages.

Such is life, crude of Northwestern. Is it true that after spending four years at the delightful pastime of developing them and learning to be "snooty," it will be necessary to admit that the girls who didn't go to college have an advantage in the marriage game? Does one become too intelligent in four years to forget the objective for which the great majority of women are seeking?

It might surprise the aforementioned columnist considerably to see just how much time coeds can spend in thinking, talking and furthering their opportunities with the opposite sex. Could anyone assume that girls attend college to study or develop mentally or broaden their friendships with Y. W. work or W. S. G. A. activities solely? Are not the society columns filled with engagements and marriages of our coeds whenever parties do not fill up the space?

College has been called the matrimonial playground of young America. Spring evenings, soft moonlight, the lake, the beach, and one of the traditionally famous beautiful coeds of Northwestern—who says that the college girl hasn't a chance?

—The Daily Northwestern.

BOOKS

By H. ALLEN SMITH
United Press Book Editor

Samuel E. Kane, after 30 years among the Philippine highlanders, recounts his many experiences in "Life or Death in Luzon" (Bobbs-Merrill), writing vividly about head-hunting, native Roman running amok, trial marriages, gold prospecting and bandit chasing in a style that immediately stamps him as a unique story-teller.

Kane was a young soldier in the harassed American army which was called into the hills from Manila to clear out bandits. In spite of the hardships, he liked the country and when his discharge came, decided to stay. He became a prospector and grew to be a sort of tribal leader in Luzon. Finally he became governor of Bontoc province.

Kane observed the raw side of life among the head-hunters and as one of the few white men ever to have accompanied them on their expeditions, speaks authoritatively of their ways. He writes that he saw no crippled legions, or headhunters, and observed that these injured or disabled by accident were put out of the way. He also notes that through Spaniards from the Christian settlements prospected the hills and unobscuredly mated with native girls, there apparently were no children from these unions. Kane was one of the first white men to visit the village of Olag, where trial marriage has been in practice for centuries without Ben B. Lindsey's help.

Gen. J. G. Harbord, in this book's foreword, describes its author as a "witness and participant in that 30 years of romance... that built railroads, established schools, ended head-hunting and brought the Philippine highlanders further on the path toward civilization than he had traveled in all the centuries..."

Happening from the Philippine highlands to the Caribbean Sea, let's have a look of Wesley Price's "Murder is a Stonewall" (William Godwin), a snappy new mystery novel. A banker's yacht pulled out at Miami before Sergeant Wick can get ashore. Then someone finds a body, hanging with four pirate dummies that had been used for prep at a pre-sailing party on the vessel. Sergeant Wick goes to work.

He finds that the yacht is really on a secret treasure hunt, and that there are some strange people, as well as strange dogs, aboard. Along comes another murder. Someone tries three or four times to bump off the sergeant. But he gets 'em in the end. And it's worth reading—a mystery yarn of first-line merit.

Victor F. Nelson, author of "Prison Days and Nights" (Little Brown) had spent more than 12 of his 34 years in various prisons when he was paroled last summer in custody of Dr. Abraham Myerson, psychiatrist, who recognized in him an intelligent convict, capable of writing impersonally of life in correctional institutions.

Dr. Myerson is to be complimented for his selection of a potential author of great capabilities, and Nelson deserves praise for a great job of reporting. Particularly good are the chapters devoted to the reformation of criminals. Nelson says that not a single attempt was ever made to reform him.

He covers his subject well and devotes much space to what he terms the "horrible" side of prison life.

Due to frequent last minute changes of scheduled broadcasts and the many variations of the various radioing hands between the three national chains, some listings in this column must necessarily from time to time be incorrect.

The programs listed below are prepared from folders issued from two to three weeks in advance of the actual broadcasts, and errors will, perforce, creep in; this is especially true of those late evening hours when the programming of the music of dance orchestras is apparently subject to the rules and whims of any number of decision-making individuals.

STUDENT OPINION

To the Editor:

I think this country and its inhabitants are "going to the dogs" unless the leaders and the people wake up and attack our economic problems with intelligence and courage—and stop looking around for magic and divine help. This policy of "helpful waiting" may have its good effect to the peace of mind but such a policy doesn't get us anywhere. Our country is sinking like a child. Hoover speaks of rugged individualism while banks, farmers, railroads and cities beg at the doorstep of the Federal Government for help.

It's absurd and childish to allow such a condition to exist in a civilized country. Here there are millions of people undergoing terrible suffering and privation because we have too much of everything. People are too backward, hypocritical and conservative to see anything but the old way of doing things. They call a change "radical" and "dangerous." I have no hope for such a country of mental invalids. Either we wake up, organize our economic system for supplying human needs and wants rather than for profits and we will "drift" through war, disease and starvation into dark ages of agricultural village life."

TENNIS TEAM BOWS TO UNIV. OF FLORIDA 9-3

Schofield, Dunbar, Sweet Win Matches Against Strong Gainesville Team

Though trying desperately to wipe out the trouncing they suffered at the hands of the Gator squad two weeks ago, the Rollins tennis team was unable to stop a superior Florida team last Saturday afternoon at Gainesville. The Tar team was only able to annex three matches out of nine in the afternoon's tourney. Bob Dunbar and Griff Schofield winning their singles matches and Dunbar and Carl Sweet taking the number two doubles match from their opponents.

Carroll Cooney, who is once again showing his early season form, was unable to outstroke his opponent, Bob Friel, manager and captain of the Gator squad, and dropped his match 7-5, 6-3. Jake Zorin, playing a brand of tennis seldom seen in intercollegiate competition, had little trouble in putting Chet Eastwood away in two straight sets, 6-0, 6-3.

Bob Dunbar took the first slice of the afternoon for the Tars by wearing down his opponent, Wilson Rippey, in two sets, 8-6, 6-3. Carl Sweet, number four man for the Tars, seemed in a fair way to win his match when he took the first set 6-3, 6-2, to win the match. In the final singles match of the afternoon, "Flash" Brannan, former Florida singles champ, beat Bob Robertson, 6-1, 6-1, while Griff Schofield took the second match for the Tars by beating Ralph Girsh, 6-3, 2-6, 6-3.

Dunbar and Sweet, number two doubles team, took a hard-fought win from the Gator fraternity doubles champions, Buck Ballamy and James Plass, 7-5, 7-6. Jack Sutton and Jack Butler proved too much for the Rollins number one combination, beating Robertson and Eastwood, of Rollins, 6-3, 6-1. Carroll Cooney and Griff Schofield likewise bowed to the Gator number three team in the final doubles match of the afternoon, when they lost to Trux Jackson and Jack Swain, 6-3, 7-5.

Sunday morning the Tar team took a 4-5 victory over the visitors from Orlando in an exhibition match held for the opening of Clarence Varner's new courts in Orlando.

Golf Team Defeats Stetson at Aloma

The Rollins golfers kept their record intact last Saturday when they met and defeated the golfers from Stetson University at the Aloma Golf and Country Club. This was the third match between these teams this year, and the Tars have won all three matches.

This Saturday, the golf team will journey to Gainesville where they will meet the representatives of the University of Florida in a return match. Rollins won the last match that was played here over the home course, and the Rollins line anticipates more trouble in their matches over the Gainesville course.

During the spring vacation, Coach McDowell has announced that the golfers will take a trip through Georgia and the Carolinas meeting outstanding teams along the way. The complete itinerary appears elsewhere on this page. The members that will make this trip have not been selected as yet, but will be chosen from among Merrill, Eick, Johnson, Turner, Ward and Miller.

The Physical Education Department has announced that a definite schedule has been arranged for the completion of the Intramural Tennis Doubles Tournament. Matches must be played at the time specified, or the match will result in a forfeit. The schedule is posted in Carnegie Hall, and all are urged to consult it immediately.

WOMEN IN ATHLETICS

By ANNA JEAN PENDLETON

Two girls who carved the tough football games which the boys played this fall might be interested in the fact that, according to the Sportsman's Mutual Assurance company, this is the most dangerous school sport. By the way, this company was formed by a group of sportsmen who realized that inasmuch as most insurance companies usually refuse policies to racing, hunting and polo enthusiasts, these sports were being avoided—therefore, they've formed their own company and hope to eventually have a policy as part of standard equipment in universities. Maybe they think that a broken leg won't hurt as much if you're getting money to break it!

It is interesting to note that while the British girls haven't in their usual stride here in America as yet their country women have been winning everything in sight which goes under the heading of a Squash Tournament. This sport, which has grown steadily in the last few years, has been part of the English sportsman's routine for quite a while and Susan Noel, leader of the invaders, has displayed brilliant form in every match. Though the sport itself is very active, Miss Noel, along with the rest of the British team, wears a skirt rather than the generally neoprene shorts which American women have adopted. Handling a squash racket, which resembles the racket employed in tennis, differs from tennis shots in that the control is by the wrist, not the forearm, and also that effective shots are not necessarily swift.

This was shown when Ruth Hall, ranking American player, met Miss Noel and was beaten notwithstanding the fact that the American's drives were the hardest.

There will be some women's golf tournaments played on the Grand Beach course in the near future. Why don't some of the women golfers here in school get up a car and go over for some of them? There's nothing like being shown, you know.

Boxing and Wrestling Advocated to Be Placed in College Athletic Programs; Metric System Is Officially Installed at I. C. 4 A. Track Meet

The metric system was definitely installed in American track last Saturday in the I. C. 4 A. A. A. meet at New York. The matter had been subject to much discussion ever since last year when the I. C. 4-A. had recommended the adoption of the meter, provided that the A. A. U. also agreed. The A. A. U. gave its approval at its convention last November.

Because of the howl which went up in New England over the proposed change, the I. C. 4-A. who afraid the whole controversy would start again after Saturday's meet, put nothing of the kind took place. The old dichards seem to have reassured the victory to the progressives. This means that the metric system will become official in the outdoor competitions this spring.

Although having to the European measuring standards, the American authorities have decided to propose a change of their own. The European 1,500 and 3,000 meter runs are quite different from our former one and two mile distances. In order to make the change easier for our athletes the officials are asking the International Amateur Athletic Union to substitute 1,500 and 3,280 meter runs for the present 1,500 and 3,000 meter distances. This innovation would bring these distances relatively closer to our old mile and two mile. Rollins is particularly well rounded in its sports program. But it falls down noticeably in two fields namely, boxing and wrestling. There are on the campus many individuals who are already experienced in either one of these two sports. There are as many others who are anxious to learn the fundamentals of these two arts. The Sports Directors would have little trouble in making up teams in either sport.

Boxing and wrestling have many points to recommend them to athletes. They develop co-ordination and bodily strength as in no two other sports. Under competent supervision there is little danger connected with them.

Equipment for these sports is very inexpensive. Some canvas and a few pairs of boxing gloves are all that are required for boxing. As for wrestling, one mat will suffice. In fact the college already possess a suitable mat which is rotting down in Recreation Hall.

Perhaps if the students were furnished such a convenient outlet for their belligerent tendencies, such unnecessary and dangerous

21 Candidates Report; More Are Expected As Good Year Is Anticipated

Twenty-one candidates for the Rollins Varsity baseball team turned out Monday afternoon for the first regular practice of the year.

With a nucleus of thirteen from last year's team to start with, Coach Evans expects to turn out a creditable outfit in time for the first practice game with Deland next week.

The list of prospects follows: Pitchers: Stoddard, Morris, Fawcett, Washburn and Cooney. Catchers: Chokeles, Davies and Both.

Outfielders: Conzall, Wynn, Tourtellotte, Lawton, E. M. Bates, Fuchs and Worley. Infielders: Rogers, Farnett, Delep, Miller and Braslow.

Sacramento, Cal. (UP)—With automobile sales were dropping 57 counties of California, Apax county reported a 50 per cent increase. The number jumped from two to three in 1932.

Don't you get Pipe Hungry

once in a while?

"MAYBE it's back to Nature. Maybe it's something else. I don't know just what it is, but somehow or other I've just got to slip out in the woods and sit down on a log. I always take the old pipe along. Thinking somehow seems easier when you are smoking a pipe. I can fill up my pipe with Granger, and somehow just seem to see things clearer than at any other time.

"Don't know what it is about Granger, but it must be made for pipes—real pipe tobacco.

"Somehow, there's a flavor and aroma about Granger I never found in any other tobacco. When I pack my old pipe tight and good with these big Granger flakes, it's about the coolest smoke I ever enjoyed. It makes me downright pipe hungry every time I look at the package."

Some years ago we made a painstaking, scientific study to find out, if we could, the kind of tobacco best suited for pipes.

Down in the Blue Grass regions of Kentucky, we found a tobacco called White Burley. There is a grade of this tobacco between the kind used for chewing and the varieties suitable for cigarettes that is best suited for pipes. This tobacco is used in Granger.

This tobacco is prepared by a method worked out many years ago by Mr. J. N.

Wellman. It gives Granger a fragrance and mellowness that pipe smokers like, and makes it burn to a clean, dry ash. Granger never gums a pipe.

Granger has not been on sale very long, but it has come to be popular, and there is this much about it: We have yet to know of a man who started smoking it, who didn't keep on. Folks seem to like it.
