MANY RECEIVE AWARDS ON HONORS DAY

Foremost Students in Scholarship and Athletics are Honored at Semi-annual Observance

Students of Rollins College who have been outstanding in scholarship, athletics and activities this year received special awards and distinctions at the semi-annual observance of Honors Day Friday in the Annie Russell Theatre.

The Gary trophy offered annually by "Doc" Gary of Winter Park went to the Kappa Alpha fraternity for winning the highest number of points in the intra-mural sports during the year. "K" club, winner of the Gary trophy, last year, was runner-up in this year's competition.

Dean Anderson announced that the following 25 students had the highest rank in their studies during the winter term:

Robert C. Barber, Swarthmore, Pa.; Coraella Barrows, Tarrytown, N. Y.; John D. Beaufort, Brookline, Mass.; Isabelle P. Birnie, Bloomfield, N. J.; Laura J. Colburn, Denon Point, N. Y.; Barbara M. Donaldson, Daytona Beach; Maurine C. Dreiser, New York, N. Y.; Dorothy E. Emerson, Orlando; B. Benjamin Fawcett, Jr., Canton, O.; Sally O. Hammond, Watch Hill, R. I.; Thomas P. Johnson, New Castle, Pa.; Barbara Lane, Hartford, Conn.; Claudelle L. McCarty, Tampa; Jernyn Matsuek, Prague, Czechoslovakia; Sterling P. Ottensmeyer, Hartford, Conn.; Jean G. Parker, St. Augustine; Klismet Richards, New Camden, Conn.; Mary Lynn Rogers, Springfield, Ohio; Carol M. Smith, Washington, D. C.; Agatha Townsend, Glen Ridge, N. J.; Eleanor C. White, Cleveland, O.; Elfreda C. Winkert, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Robert L. Wise, Winter Park; Patricia S. Wood, Bethlehem, Pa., and Dorothy Yui, Winter Park.

Dorothy E. Emerson, Thomas P. Johnson, Barbara Lane, Klismet Richards, Mary Lynn Rogers, Carol M. Smith, Agatha Townsend, Eleanor C. White, Robert L. Wise, and Patricia S. Wood were also among the highest ranking students for the fall term, Dean Anderson announced.

Dr. Hamilton Holt, with the assistance of John W. McDowell, director of athletics; William Renshaw, fencing coach; and Miss Harriet Weber, director of physical education for women, announced the intra-mural awards of cups or medals.

CLEVELAND-NEWARK PLANE CRASHES

Bethel, Conn., May 30.—The pilot and co-pilot of a twelve passenger United Airways plane were seriously injured and ten passengers including the stewardess, were hurt when the plane crashed up in a dense fog early today. The plane was bound from Cleveland to Newark and became lost after passing Syracuse, N. Y. While searching for the airport at Albany it seemed for about two hours before being forced to land in a field because of exhausted fuel.

FRENCH FLIERS RECEIVED IN CAPITOL

Washington, D. C., May 30.—Paul Godon and Maurice Rossi, French trans-atlantic flight hero, arrived here at 7:30 a. m. After a brief round of official ceremonies, they were welcomed by President Roosevelt. The aviators' arrival by train was unmarked by any special greeting. They were taken directly to the business office of the French embassy by Major N. Champagne, French air attaché, then to breakfast, with ambassador Andre de Laboulaye. They met the president at 11:30 a. m. after having laid a wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier.

Purposes and Aims of O. D. K. National Honor Fraternity

The badge is a key, bearing the letters "O. D. K." between two bars enclosed on a circle, five stars on the upper bar and the date, 1914, on the lower. The official publication of the fraternity, "The Circle," is published quarterly.

Purposes of Omicron Delta Kappa.—The following statement of purposes is taken from the National Constitution of the fraternity: The purpose of the Omicron Delta Kappa Fraternity shall be threefold:

First, to recognize men who have attained a high standard of efficiency in college activities, and to inspire others to strive for conspicuous attainments along similar lines.

Second, to bring together the most representative men in all phases of collegiate life and thus to create an organization which will help to mould the sentiment of the institution on questions of local and intercollegiate interest.

Third, to bring together members of the family and student body of the institution on a basis of mutual interest and understanding.

Prominent Members.—Outstanding men who are members of O. D. K. include: Dennis Roy Cohen, author; Milford J. Davis, scientist and author; Newman Corlison, president of Western Union; John W. Davis, one-time candidate for president; Bobby Jones, international golfer; 35 college presidents; 35 college deans; 6 governors and several members of Congress.

Honor Society for Leaders.—The membership of O. D. K. is not limited to outstanding success in any one field of activity. Car-

FIVE TAPPED BY OMICRON DELTA KAPPA

Signal Honor is Received by Outstanding Men at Assembly

At the Honors Day Exercises held in the Annie Russell Theatre last Friday morning, Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary fraternity, held its tapping ceremony, and chose five men as new members.

Those selected at this time were Robert Black, Milford Davis, Maurice Dreicer, Gordon Jones and Ben Kurns.

At the first meeting of the newly enlarged circle, these men were initiated. This annual ceremony was held last night at the home of Pres. Hamilton Holt, following the customary banquet. At the last meeting, which was called directly following the initiation, Robert Black was chosen president, Ben Kurns was elected vice-president, and Dean A. D. Knapp was elected secretary-treasurer of the Alpha Iota (Rollins) Circle.

Present membership of the local chapter includes: Bob Barber, retiring president; Thomas Johnson, Bernard Binslow, Robert Stuffleman, Ray Miller, James Gowdy, Richard Washington, Arthur Wellington, Dr. Hamilton Holt, Dean W. E. Anderson, Dean A. D. Knapp, Prof. Edward F. Weinberg, Prof. William Watkins, Coach Jack McDowell, and the men initiated last night.

LARGE CLASS TO GRADUATE NEXT MONDAY

Dr. Henry A. Atkinson To Give Commencement Address In Knowles Chapel

Rollins College is celebrating its 49th Commencement Week with an event on the program every day.

This morning at 10:00 Senior Chapel was held in the Knowles Memorial Chapel with the Seniors in Academic costume. The invocation was given by James Gowdy, Wm. Motteler sang a solo, with an obligato by Dante Bergoni, violinist. The Responsive Reading was led by Betty Childs.

Following this, President Holt spoke a few words to the college congregation.

To morrow a picnic at Coronado Beach is to be given by the Faculty for the graduating students.

Friday at 10:00 Class Day exercises are to be held in the Annie Russell Theatre. At this time the class will and class prophecy are to be read and the planting of the tree will take place. Friday night the Junior-Senior Prom will be held at the Orlando Country Club. The Student Dramatic Company are presenting "Anna Christie" at the Annie Russell Theatre Saturday evening, June 2.

The play, which will be a part of the graduation program, deals with the past degenerate life of a woman of the streets and her ambition to forsake the former life and earn herself a place of respect.

Marion Morrow, who has appeared in several student plays during the past year will play the title role. Mat Burke, the sailor who falls in love with Anna, will be portrayed by Richard Shattuck, of "Death Takes a Holiday" fame.

Old Chris, the father of Anna Christie, knows nothing of her old life and thinks that she is a pure woman. He is a bourgeois on the Boston waterfront, ignorant, illiterate, and Swedish. Theodor Elfrén will interpret this characterization.

Barthel Owen, mistress of Old Chris, wise in the ways of the world, is the one who discovers Anna's secret. She is a tough, common old boomer, and will be played by Cym McKay.

Others in the cast include James Turrenson, Bob Black, David Bothe, Al Steadman, Donald Berry, and Alfred McCarty.

Settings will be under the supervision of Donald Allen, George Casperich will arrange the lighting, and Ray Esling will assist in the direction. Dr. Fleishman will direct the production which will climax a successful dramatic season, both from the standpoint of financial and artistic interpretation.

Senior Chapel This Morning

The annual Senior Chapel was held this morning at ten o'clock in the Chapel, with Robert Stuffleman, President of the Class of 1934, presiding.

James Gowdy and Betty Childs, respectively, led the Invocation and Responsive Reading, and William Motteler sang "In the Silence of the Night," accompanied by Herman Stewart and Dante Bergoni.

Dr. Holt spoke briefly to the graduating class, and the service was concluded with the benediction by Dean Campbell.

ANNIE RUSSELL TO BE IN PLAY

Noted Actress to Appear in Sheridan's "The Rivals"

Miss Annie Russell, artistic director of the Annie Russell Theatre and consultant in dramatic art at Rollins College, is planning to make a personal appearance in the production of Sheridan's "The Rivals" next season as a feature of her professional artists series, she announced today.

"The Rivals," a comedy which was first produced in 1774 and which has never lost its popularity, will be presented by the Annie Russell Company under Miss Russell's direction. Miss Russell will portray Mrs. Malaprop, and will recruit the remainder of her cast among her friends and members of the Rollins College family. In addition to the presentation of "The Rivals," Miss Russell has practically completed arrangements with Dorothy Farns, instructor, and Nini Thallade, young Danish dancer, to give performances during the professional artists series.

Miss Russell tried to secure Miss Thallade for this year's series but arrangements could not be completed. Miss Thallade, one of the foremost of American actresses, gives a one-woman performance entitled "Stykes in Acting." The dates in her one-person history of the stage range from 1887 to 1928 and some of the figures she impersonates are Letta Colburn, Ethel Barrymore, Lillian Russell, Helen Hayes, Greta Garbo, and Mae West.

Nini Thallade, who is only 18 years old, was formerly premier danseuse for Max Reinhardt, and has taken Europe by storm. Thallade has said of Nini Thallade that she would be her successor.

Miss Russell expects to complete plans for other features of the professional artists series during her vacation in the North this summer.

Students Collecting For Hungerford

The Social Service Committee is making a collection of discarded clothing, books and other things, from Rollins students for the Hungerford School.

At each dormitory, fraternity, and security house a box has been placed for these articles which students would like to donate. The articles will be collected Saturday, June 2, and again on Monday, June 4. The following people are in charge of these collections: Cloverleaf, Grace Terry; Lakewood, Dorothy Yast; Papyrus, Betty Turner; Mayflower, Eleanor White; Rollins Hall, Mr. Cook; Alpha Hall, Fleetwood Perples; Alpha Phi, Carol Smith; Pi Phi, Becky Coleman; Phi Mu, Kathleen Shepherd; Chi Omega, Olive Dickson; Kappa Alpha Theta, Mrs. Stern; Gamma Phi Beta, Annette Twissell; Kappa Kappa Gamma, Cym McKay.

It is hoped that we can make a big donation to the Hungerford School this year as they greatly need anything that Rollins students can give them.

LIBRARY NOTICE

Do you dread packing your books to take home? Are you loathe to store them for the satisfaction of no one and reach? If so, why not donate them to the library? If you have more books than you can conveniently bring in yourself, notify the library and the books will be called for immediately.

INFIRMARY NOTICE

The Infirmary requests that students having old linen which they wish to donate to a worthy cause will please leave same at the infirmary before the close of school.

TOMORROW NOTICE

The Tomokan will come out on Monday, June 4, and will be distributed by Tommy Johnson, the business manager, on that day in Lyman Hall.

All those having school excels must pay for the postage of sending the Year-Book to the respective homes. The money should be given to Tommy Johnson.

UNIQUE SPANISH COLLECTION HERE

Rollins Center of Spanish Activities in Florida

As the headquarters for Florida's Spanish activities and center of Spanish studies, Rollins College is rapidly becoming the depository of Spanish relics and memorabilia, according to a list of acquisitions made public by Prof. A. J. Hams, president of the Spanish Institute of Florida.

Of primary interest in the list is a Spanish dishon, the gift of Mrs. R. C. Wells of Orlando. The size of a $20 gold piece, it was minted in Spain in 1787, bearing the likeness of Charles III, and possesses gold to the actual value of $15.50. The coins were used by Spaniards to pay Pyridians for cattle that were shipped to Havana before the civil war and were in general circulation at that time in this state.

Another rare coin that has come from Santo Domingo bears the date of 1685. This was presented by Dr. D. C. Hall of Panama, Fla., who has also given a bronze 16th century stirrup that belonged to a Spanish conquistador.

A rare one-volume edition of "Don Quixote" has been given by Robert Manigault, son of the author of one of the Spanish newspapers in Tampa. It contains 118 remarkable illustrations by the great artist, Gustave Dore.

An oil painting of Cervantes, the greatest of Spaniards, has been presented by two Spaniards of Tampa, Don Joaquin Alcala Solis and Luis Murie Bilbao. It is by the noted artist M. Vallina from the celebrated Cervantes bust of Nova Roma which the Spanish Academy uses as the official likeness.

DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMICS TO BE ENLARGED

New Courses in Business Administration to be Added in Fall

In recognition of the increasing demand for men and women capable of assuming leadership in business Rollins College is enlarging its course in Economics and Business Administration as a major course in the coming academic year, it is announced.

"As long as the economic structure of the United States continues to expand along the lines that have marked its development in the past century," a bulletin from the College points out, "opportunities for young men and women in business administration will continue to grow in variety and importance."

"No longer is business a matter of bookkeeping; no longer is the development of any single business a matter of salesmanship; no longer is the discovery of new markets a paramount requisite for the increase in sales. Business administration today calls for men and women who are thoroughly trained in fundamental theories, well grounded culturally, and educated to think."

The course in Economics and Business Administration is announced is not designed to train the student to become an expert accountant, or a marketing specialist, or a banker, or an investment counselor. The course is planned, however, to give the student a practical as well as a cultural background upon which he can base his specialized studies. He is encouraged first, to survey the field through general courses, and later to individualize his education by pursuing work in which he is most interested.

The general courses are taken in the Lower Division. With the foundation already laid, the student is enabled, in the Upper Division, to pursue a more detailed study of the actual operation and administration of business in the modern world by studying the problems arising from the relationships between capital and labor, viewed both from the standpoint of employer and employee. Studies in finance, investments, banking, business law, business writing, marketing, salesmanship, advertising, accounting, statistical methods, mathematics of finance, and transportation are also covered in the specialized programs.

The whole course, according to the announcement, is thus designed to give the student not only a broad social and cultural viewpoint of the operation of the present economic system, but a practical insight into the actual operation of business in the major aspects of production, distribution, finance, investment, and management.

A little fan can go a long way without going too far.

Rollinsania

By M. J. DAVIS

About the end of every term, and especially just around graduation we get a yen to turn out a really brilliant column of some sort, a type of final masterpiece—what is better known as a Swan Song. But, as you may have noticed, we haven't succeeded yet. Anyway, Swan Songs are a bit out of date, a trifle old-fashioned, and better left to the budding editorial writers, who usually break down this time of the year and weep copious tears over the departing Seniors and their dismal fate. All this gives the Senior the idea that maybe he will be missed after he's gone and we have more tears, thus starting a vicious circle. This is later called school spirit, or something—and can be sliced very thin!

Naturally, we're sorry to see so many friends leaving these sacred Halls of Learning to go out into the cold, cruel world—especially if they haven't learned to swim their 50 yards!—but primarily because we feel that it's a dirty trick to hand them a sheepskin and kick them out. A raincoat or a tin cup might be handier. The real interpretation of college-bred, they say, is a product which takes a lot of dough, is seldom self-evident, and usually ends up in a four-year loaf.

What we do feel is in order just at present, tho, is a brief resume of the Rollins and Feibles of 1934-1935—and we had plenty of them! The return of the Rat Cap in full force this year had a deciding effect on the mental attitude of the Upper Classmen, who were really in need of some-one to victimize after returning to campus and finding the girls dormitories had all been repainted a virginal white. Dreiser and Cezanne were re-enrolled in school in order to terrorize the Fresh at Rat Court, but since there was no provision for this sort of thing under the Unit Cost Plan, the idea didn't do much good.

To start the season off with a bang, the Intra-Fraternity Council established Constitution Week, or Now-You - Guess-What-We're-Doing Week. Council meetings ended with the various members sniping at each other across the table, but when all the smoke and dust had cleared away, it was discovered that there hadn't been a single rivalry; nobody died or even injured. Whereupon the Council congratulated itself on its very tactful handling of an extremely delicate situation—it had forgotten just what it was by then—and to show there was no hard feelings, let each of the members draw up a new constitution for the organization. This new one is bullet-proof and will not dent and the only loophole in it are for breathing purposes, when the Council gets in a tight place.

Then on the morning of Sunday, Nov. 5th, there were no sausages served with the pancakes, starting the famous Student Uprising of November, which ended up with the Theta Kappa Nu's on a social probation, the Chi O's drowning Wacky the Duck, and Lucy Green winning the Posture Cup. It was wonderful! The Administration showed its willingness to make amends by exporting the entire college down to Miami for a week-end to recuperate. This started the famous epidemic of Motorcycle Madness, left the student body hung-over for two weeks and definitely proved that the Battle of Miami was won in the back room of John's. Carroll Conroy waxed very valedictorian over the entire affair and was offered the position of Dean of Men to keep him quiet.

Then we had the Rollins Brevities, with Freddy Newton sprawling across the top of the baby grand, trying to convince the student body that they were "Gonna Lose Their Gal!" We almost lost Freddy, but the S. P. C. A. intervened before anything could be done. Another tragedy that was just narrowly averted occurred when Bealove fell off the Cleverfoot dock. Efforts to discover and prosecute the sucker who jumped in and saved him were unsuccessful. The X Clubbers came back strong, however, by annexing the Scholarship Cup, proving that they were really not simply a bunch of tramp athletes, as hitherto rumored, but were, instead, merely a group of athletic tramps.

A few of the lower element in the Conservatory faculty went haywire during the Christmas vacation, and were found involved in a big drinking and fan-dance racket on campus. Dick Lee and Jean Plumb occupied Upper Y on the way back or so their tickets said—and "The Duchess" Rose began appearing at Beany's with a strange brown bottle. Much to everyone's dismay, the Rollins Literary Society drove up in a Haff and disabused, with the natural result that the Publications Union decided to let the student morons elect their own editors of the "Sandspur" and the "Pamphlet." Only five students were discovered who ever read any of the student publications, among them the editor and the associate editor of the "Sandspur" who were naturally blown over. Attention, instead, was diverted to the all-absorbing question of a Student Lounge and a discussion on Rollins Blasters and Embellishers. President Johnson was superb and James Holden held the crowd spell-bound by a brilliant dissertation on "Sex and the Flamings." (P. S. He got the job.) (Double P. S. Johnson never got a blaster!)

Dissatisfied with the students at Rollins and just a trifle homesick, President Holt brought down half

SHORT STORY BY GRANBERRY WINS ACCLAIM

"Fer De Lance" is Among Leading Short Stories of 1933

"Fer de Lance," a short story by Edwin Granberry, assistant professor of English at Rollins and distinguished young author, has been selected as one of the sixteen Best Short Stories published in American magazines during 1933 and is being syndicated by the United Features Syndicate, Inc. of New York.

"Fer de Lance" was published in the September, 1933, issue of the "Pictorial Review" and was selected by the editors of that publication as the best short story published in the magazine during the year. The editors of fifteen other widely read magazines were asked of Yale University for the week-end. They frisked all over the stage of the Annie Russell Theatre, slept in the punch during the dance and got lost in the shroudberry at Rex. Hall. Kappa Phi Sigma attempted to pledge a few of the Yale contingent under cover of all the excitement, and when everybody came to, it was found that they had absorbed Delta Rho Gamma. The Intra-Fraternity Council trotted out its new constitution, tore it up into little pieces, and used it in the celebration that took place when the Yarns beat the U. of Florida for the first time in 14 years of baseball. Barr Evans went out into left field and shot himself after the victory.

So Long. It's been nice being with you. Hope we can stand you another year—and vice versa!!!

to select what they considered as the best stories appearing in their respective publications.

Marjorie Kinman Rawlings, author of "South Moon Under," the story with a Florida locale which was on the best-seller list recently, is represented among the sixteen stories by "Barney and the Bird Dogs," which appeared in "Scrappers," Ursula Parrott, Ernest Haycox, Hendrik Van Loon, James M. Cain, S. B. H. Hurst, George S. Brooks and Alice Douglas Kelly are some of the well-known writers represented in the list.

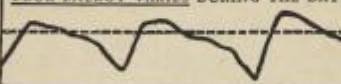

Mr. Granberry, who joined the faculty at Rollins this year, is the author of "The Elf King," "Strangers and Lovers," "The Ancient Hunger," and of several translations from the French, and was the winner of the O. Henry Memorial Prize for the best short story published in 1932.

The United Features Syndicate is offering the stories to newspapers throughout the country for re-publication.

NEWS!

Science reveals important new Facts for Smokers!

YOUR ENERGY VARIES DURING THE DAY

Camel Smokers can verify these facts!

A famous New York research laboratory announces a basic discovery that throws new light on our past knowledge of cigarettes. It embodies an "energizing effect"—a quick restoration of the flow of natural body energy—an experience well known to Camel smokers. When you smoke a Camel you feel an almost immediate relief from fatigue. You have released and made available the latent energy in your body. You've helped your body to help itself. During the day your energy curve has certain low points. Camels raise your flow of energy... quickly, conveniently, and without jangling your nerves.

There's a "Lift" in CAMELS that drives away Fatigue and Irritability

Feel "all in"? Then light a Camel. It's cool and fragrant and delightful...but far more important than that, it brings your flow of energy up from the depths!

You feel fatigue vanish. Irritability seems to slip away. And you go back to work—or play—with the energy that is naturally yours.

This experience is no news to Camel smokers. But the explanation is news—and good news—to everyone.

The "lift" you get from smoking Camels is simply a release of the natural latent energy in your body. You have helped your body to help itself...easily, naturally.

Remember this explanation when your energy curve is "down"...times when you're irritable and your brain just doesn't seem to work and you feel too tired to move.

Camel fans smoke frequently—and they can—as often as they like. Camel's costlier tobaccos never get on the nerves.

Keep your flow of energy at a higher level with Camels.

TOO TIRED FOR FUN...and then she smoked a Camel!

CAMELS Costlier Tobaccos never get on your Nerves

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

KNOW THIS FEELING? The feeling of being too "all in" in respect to the gaiety of the crowd? No taste for the pleasure and fun of the sort of social evening that you would ordinarily look forward to? That's one of the many times to light a Camel, enjoying its rich flavor while your flow of natural, beautiful energy is restored. You'll like Camels—a marvelous blend of costlier tobaccos!

"Get a LIFT with a Camel!"

Trustees Meet At Home of Dr. Holt to Approve Graduates

The regular meeting of the Board of Trustees was held Tuesday, May 29, presided over by Dr. Hamilton Holt, President, and E. T. Brown, Treasurer.

The purpose of the meeting was to approve the lists of Rollins College graduates in 1934, and recipients of honorary degrees. A comprehensive review of the current budget was made, and of the proposed budget for 1934-35. The members present were William Russell O'Neal, Secretary, Dr. Gaston Holcombe Edwards, N. P. Yowell, and Judge Donald Cheney, all of Orlando; Edward Burleigh, of Tavares; W. Laughton of Sanford; H. W. Caldwell of Winter Park, and Mrs. John A. Blagline of Sarasota.

DR. CAMPBELL TO SPEAK SUNDAY

Chapel Dean and Stufflebeam To Give Addresses

The Eucalyptus Service will be held Sunday morning in the Knowles Memorial Chapel with Dean Campbell and Robert Stufflebeam, President of the Graduating class, giving short addresses.

Robert Robertson will lead the Invocation and Becky Coleman, Bernard Bradove, and Celestina McKay will also take part in the service.

Dean Campbell's words are being looked forward to with expectation. He has consented to deliver a short address.

A feature of the service will be the Senior Hymn and the Choral Response, the music for both being composed by Professor Homan, and the words by Betty Childs. The Choir will render the Bach Motet for double choir, "Blessing, Glory, Wisdom, and Thanks." Jessie Houghton and William Mosteller will sing a duet.

Orators Deliver Speeches over WDBO

The weekly Rollins Radio Hour was presented over station WDBO last Friday night, May 25. At this time, two of the speeches that were given at the Sprague Oratorical contest were broadcast by Peggy Wirt and Bob Robertson. Miss Wirt's speech was on the Constitution of the United States, while Bob Robertson's was on Social Justice. The program was announced by David Debe.

The final radio program of the school year will be broadcast at the same time on Friday night, June 1. A group from the Dramatic Dept. will present a scene from the play "Anna Christie" by Eugene O'Neill.

Commencement Speaker

Students Conduct Morning Meditation Service in Chapel

The principal presentation at the Morning Meditation service Sunday was the reading by Margaret Scholten of selections from "The Ringing Hoar," a collection of poems by the late Clifton Scollard.

Others participating in the service were Betty Trevor, who led the Responsive Reading, James Tullis, Charles Scollard, and Mildred Eckmeyer. The choir sang the anthem "Bless ye the Lord," Bruce Daugherty doing the solo work, and Richard Wilkinson sang "Agnus Dei" as a solo.

Under the leadership of Christopher O. Homan, and with Herman Siewert at the organ, the choir has accomplished much this past year, winning distinct recognition from many critics for their interpretative renditions, and making themselves felt as a real force in the musical circles of Central Florida.

With these men in charge, and with the spirit of cooperation, which exists in the choir, it is expected that next year it will add greatly to its growing reputation.

Three Replies Received to Questionnaire

Three replies have been received to date in the Sandspur Questionnaire for Congressional candidates, which was addressed to the fourteen aspirants to Congress from the state of Florida in an effort to determine the exact stands taken by the respective candidates on various important national issues.

As virtually all of the candidates have been absent from their homes during the course of the campaigns and have been unable on that account to receive the Questionnaire promptly enough to permit its return in time to make the deadline for this final issue of the Sandspur, the lack of more replies does not indicate a lack of interest on the part of those to whom it was sent.

In justice to these candidates who responded to the Sandspur's request promptly, a report of the three replies so far received is presented below.

The questions contained in the queries sent were as follows:
Do You Favor the Following Measures?

1. Federal aid for public schools.
2. Federal aid for state old age pensions.
3. Federal aid for state unemployment insurance.
4. Drastic strengthening of the Pure Food and Drug Act.
5. Material revision of the tariff downward.
6. Sharp increases in income tax rates upon incomes of over ten thousand dollars.
7. Sharp increase in inheritance tax rates upon legacies of over $50,000.
8. A Federal anti-lynching law.
9. Legalizing the imparting of information regarding birth control by physicians to their patients.

11. Cancellation, in whole or in part, of war debts now due the United States.
12. Ratification of American adherence to the World Court.
13. Joining the League of Nations, with reservations stating the United States will decide for itself when to use military force.
14. Material reduction in present or late appropriations for national armaments.

The three replies were returned by J. Park Trammell, Mrs. Horstme K. Wells, and Major Paul Crank.

Each of these three recorded a vote of YES on questions 1 thru 8; Mr. Trammell believed that the subjects of numbers 9 and 10 should be handled by individual states, while the others voted an unqualified YES.

Question 11 drew a unanimous NO; question 12 elicited NO from Major Crank and Mr. Trammell, while Mrs. Wells replied in the affirmative; Mrs. Wells also recorded the only affirmative reply to number 13, although Mr. Trammell qualified his negation of both 12 and 13 with the statement "at this time." Major Crank and Mrs. Wells voted against question 14, while Mr. Trammell voted a conditional YES, dependent upon treaty agreements with other nations.

These early returns indicate a remarkable similarity of policy among those received, as they differ only in minor details on each question where perfect accord was not reached.

I shall be content if, because of me, there shall be better fruits and flowers.—Luther Burbank.

Alumni Notes

Ward has been received in the Alumni office of the marriage of Louise Brett, graduate of the class of '32 and Richard Williams Trawberry, Jr., of New York on May 29, in New York City. Louise Brett was originally from Montclair, N. J. and lived, when not at this college in Coconut Grove, Fla. She may be reached at that address if any friends or alumni wish to congratulate her at this time.

Activities for the coming week and increase with the announcement from the Alumni office stating that instead of an alumni tea and an alumni smoker, there will be a combined alumni-senior party to be held at the Kappa Alpha house on Saturday evening, June 2. It will take place after the performance in the Annie Russell Theatre of "Anna Christie" that evening. Isabel Green is in charge and is assisted by A. J. Hanna and Richard Wilkinson.

The annual Woodstock Reunion will take place on August 18 as announced in previous issues of the Sandspur according to announcement made today from the Alumni Office. President Holt, who is leaving for a short trip to Europe, expects to be back in time for the annual reunion at that time.

PROFESSIONAL CAREER

Students of culture and vision take front a chosen and dignified career as professional optometrists. The Pennsylvania State College of Optometry, a new "B" school, offers a three years' course. Students obtain scientific, accurate laboratory and equipment well known locally.

WE THANK YOU

The Sandspur expresses its gratitude to the D. U. K. CHRONICLE for the use of the latter's O. D. K. emblem, which appears on our current front page.

RESULTS OF THE FEATURE BALLOT

The Rollins Feature Ballot which appeared two weeks ago gained results which were, while not overly gratifying, sufficiently complete to be indicative of the general reader sentiment.

Several features, notably Rollinsania, The Chapel Tower Light, Previews, and a full radio program received all but unanimous approval in the ballots cast, and will therefore be retained as regular features in the Sandspur for 1934-35.

Other items received divided opinions, and will be run occasionally as space permits. Still others, given unanimous disapproval by the ballot, will be omitted.

Among the national features those receiving the great commendation were World Flash, Syndicated Sport Articles, Style Chats, and general news releases; these will be continued as regular departments of the paper, while those which received no commendation will be dropped.

Another similar ballot will be published in the fall, to determine the exact sentiment of the new readers at that time.

WAR COURAGE

We part, this Commencement, under a foreboding sign.

Colleges and Universities, disbanding at the close of the spring session, may never re-unite.

In a little while—or so the newspaper reports would have us believe—our seniors may be exchanging diplomas for guns. For the undergraduates, Military Science may constitute a Training Camp curriculum.

We shall be dying—and for what? Which of the ten or twelve existing "causes" for European strife are we to be forced to defend?

Magazine articles, editorials, newspaper features and lectures analyze and describe in fearful detail current international difficulties—and predict that the nations of the world will be locked in merciless conflict before these disputes can be settled.

In brief, the world is so shocked by the new complications that, remembering the stupidity of the last war, we are hypnotized into believing that another struggle is inevitable.

Which is at best a coward's attitude.

Let it be remembered that today we are better prepared to forestall war than were our fathers. We are equipped as a nation to understand fully and completely "war causes" which, a decade ago, were dark mysteries to all but a few.

We can see better than they could, all the forces conducive to international misunderstanding, as well as the consequences of actual martial entanglements.

And yet, we tolerate the suggestion of another war! Tolerate? Why, we even expect it!

We are cynical where we should be sane—despairing when "Courage" should be our slogan.

The Chino arms boycott—the French proposal to surround Nazi Germany with a group of allied civilized nations, are steps in the right direction, true. Yet both measures stand to collapse because of a popular belief that if Germany doesn't start a war some other nation will.

We have become so imbued with war fear that we cannot bring ourselves to support a movement to eliminate war possibilities.

It is our spirit that is at fault. Public intolerance of war is the one thing that will prevent world conflict.

As we depart, then, let us set ourselves to disseminating a new spirit of courage and good will. Let us keep our faith in a golden future and above all let us remember that if we allow ourselves to be kicked into another war, we are playing false to ourselves, to our fellows, to sanity, and to tomorrow.

FAREWELL

It is hard to think of Commencement and Graduation without feeling a catch in the throat, and the suggestion of a tear glistening in the eye. To those who graduate, it means the end to carefree college days, and the assumption of the more serious burdens and responsibilities of life. The athlete who so proudly wears his sweater will never again rip through the opposition while the crowd roars his name to the skies. His deeds of glory have passed into history, and too soon will be forgotten. The student, whose four years have been marked by brilliance and scholarly achievement must prove to a cynical world that he can turn his fine grades into dollar signs. Four years of happy associations beneath the bending palms and stately pines, soon become a closed chapter in the multicolored book of life. Chums who have been drawn together from the various reaches of the continent, pass forward with the march of time, and part, with little hope of ever meeting again.

Farewell, Seniors, now it is your turn to take up the battle of life. With Graduation you round another bend in the winding road to success. The sadness of parting is softened by glowing memories that will never die. Go with head up and eyes ahead.

College is just a stepping stone to larger things to come. Onward and upward, and as you go, the best of luck to health, wealth, and happiness.

THE CHAPEL TOWER LIGHT

By Dean Charles A. Campbell

PEOPLE ARE LIKE THAT!

There is virtue in caution; indeed it is important, whether you are driving a high-powered motor or a highly organized life. "Drive with care," or you will come to grief. Recklessness is both stupid and criminal.

But it is possible to overdo caution: like every good thing it may be carried to an extreme. An excess of generosity becomes extravagance; an overplus of humility easily develops into servility; resoluteness may issue in mere stubbornness, and patience may drift into inertia; excessive caution comes close to cowardice.

It is necessary to take chances in a world like this. Every choice is a hazard whether it is an investment of money, the making of a friend, the choice of a vocation, or the entrance into marriage. There is no guarantee of success in any one of our undertakings. It is impossible to provide against all contingencies.

There is no perfect climate, and you are bound to meet adverse con-

O. D. K.

Last Friday five men received the highest honor Rollins can bestow on any student. These five campus leaders were selected for membership in the finest national honorary fraternity in the country, Omicron Delta Kappa. To some of you it meant very little, just another event in a rather drawn out "Honors day" program. What O. D. K. really means is official recognition of campus leadership. A man cannot qualify for this honor until he has proved himself outstanding in a majority of the varied campus activities, which are grouped under the headings of Athletics, Publications, Scholarship, Student Offices, and Other Organizations. Membership in O. D. K. should be the aim of every masculine student that treads the greenward of our fair Rollins campus. With numerical strength limited at three percent of the entire student body, it is an honor, and a decidedly distinctive honor to be among the chosen few. To those juniors and seniors tapped on Friday the Sandspur extends heartiest congratulations, may the talents that have brought you this honor cling to you through life, long after collegiate achievement has faded into the dim, distant past.

MEMORIAL DAY

Today the entire country is celebrating Memorial Day, the one day during the entire year that is devoted to the commemoration of those who made the supreme sacrifice in the service of their country. Pointless sacrifices, it seems to us now. Thousands, yes, millions of men who died for an ideal that was never realized. Men who died in a "War to end War," and now, only sixteen years later, nations are ready to fly at each other's throats at the least provocation. Would Nathan Hale have been so regretful at having but one life to lose for his country if he could have seen our nation as it is today, overrun with graft, greed, and corruption? We honor the immortal dead with flowery wreaths and eulogies, while the living dead stalk the breadlines of New York still suffering from the effects of a war almost forgotten in its true aspect of grim, ghastly horror. We erect monuments of shining alabaster to the boys who fell "over there," while golden medals of honor decorate the store windows of the sordid back street pawn shops of America!

Memorial Day! what a bitter joke. The very men who praise the virtues of the honored dead, while a moved assemblage listens in breathless admiration, are those who defile the ideal for which these men made the supreme sacrifice.

AGAIN WE CALL A HALT

Another year is drawing to a close, this time a most successful banner year in the college's history for genuine progress has been made since the Spring of 1933, in both the administrative and student departments of the institution.

Politics has appeared on the horizon, flared high above for a few short and widely spaced intervals, then subsided and all but disappeared. Fraternity spirit has run high, both in scholastic and athletic endeavors, and the admirable result has been strong and beneficial contests between leaders and the crowd alike, bringing both closer together in the whole.

Repeal in its first summer of fall flower, will see many things come to light that haven't made their appearance for many a moon.

For example, the world's largest sidewalk cafe will occupy the block of 52nd to 53rd Streets on Broadway—the Great White Way—with an interior backing through the narrow section to Seventh Avenue. One of a smaller size has been opened on 59th, facing Central Park, in the St. Morris Hotel, which boasts America's only Rumplemeyer's. In the latter institution the Continental style of 19 per cent surcharge on checks in lieu of tips has been adopted.

Grapenuts, or the makers thereof, are having a tough time. It seems that the rumor spread around from some source or another that people were tearing so many tops off Grapenuts cartons in order to send them in for premiums in response to the radio program of Admiral Byrd's expedition that a goodly percentage of the Grapenuts in the nation's cupboards were getting stale fast, what with no protection from the dampness and all. However the makers immediately got on the job and his Dame Remor one in the chin by publicizing the truth of the matter. Said they, there has been only one complaint, and Grapenuts don't get stale any more.

Little Jack Little and his orchestra have several commercial relations with Columbia after two years under the CBS banner for the little pianist-maestro. He had previously been sponsored by NBC for a like period and now is free from network affiliations for the first time in four years. He takes his orchestra into the Ambassador Hotel in Atlantic City for the summer season and will broadcast only if the hotel can make the needed arrangements.

Paul Whiteman's opening in the Baltimore has been delayed to June 2. Buddy Rogers will again fill the College Inn of Chicago with the strains of "My Buddy," while Abe Lyman and Enric Madriguera will both occupy Jersey spots for the hot months. Ben Pollack takes over the responsibility for filling the Terrace Restaurant of the Hotel New Yorker, while away across the country Vincent Lopez moves into the place left vacant by Ted Fio-Rito in the Hotel Ambassador Coconut Grove in Los Angeles; Fio-Rito, incidentally now boasts a lucrative vaudeville contract with a Western circuit which will net him a cool $6,500 per week.

Letters to the Editor

There appeared in the Student Opinion column of the Sandspur several weeks ago a letter indicating the design of the present cloister garden between the Knowles Chapel and the Annie Russell Theatre.

We are pleased to publish the following reply, written by the landscape architect who supervised the recent planting of the garden.

New York, N. Y.

To the Editor:

Thank you for the editorial from the Rollins College Sandspur. I am surprised that you would publish such ignorant statements in regard to the design of the cloister garden. The style is distinctly Spanish, not only of the planning and the planting of the gardens but of the gates which are copied from those in the cloister of the cathedral of Toledo. I have often seen the same pattern used elsewhere in Spain. The circle of cyprosses around the fountain is distinctly Spanish. You may see similar circles in patios at the Alhambra as well as in many cloister gardens. Such circles in cloisters are known as "glorietas," a special name used only to denote this type of circle planted to symbolize the glory of God, or in glory of God. I do not happen to remember any Italian cloister planted in just this way. But of course the monastic orders were international and the general plan of dividing the cloister garden into four quarters was used everywhere. I have never seen a cloister garden in Spain or elsewhere allowed to remain a plot of grass with an irregular fringe of trees on the outside.

I am interested to know who wrote the editorial. Ralph Adams Cram might enjoy showing up his ignorance.

Yours very sincerely,
(Signed) Rose Standish Nichols.

Elizabeth Lennox, popular radio contralto, Victor Arden's orchestra, featuring Arden and his partner, Phil Ohman, in two-plant specialities; "Romero and Juliet," blackface comedy team making its debut on this series; Irving Kaufman, stage and radio veteran and popular impersonator; and a mixed chorus comprise the added supporting talent.

Ted di Corsia and Frank Redick, CBS actors, and Arthur Pryor, Jr., returned to their respective homes after a three-day fishing trip to Livingston Manor, N. Y., with nary a fish—Connie Roswell will introduce "Fats" Waller's new song, "Swing on Mississippi," over the air pretty soon. . . . Graham Breaks Cross Country Speed Record

A Graham supercharged right now holds the record for the fastest transcontinental dash in a stock minor car between Los Angeles and New York City. The record of 33 hours was hung up by Ted Ellis, famous long distance driver. The previous record, established in 1931, was 37 hours, 28 minutes for 3,149 miles, including detours. Ellis covered 2,955 miles in his record breaking trip. Tuning of the trip was in charge of Western Union officials.

The Graham averaged 62 miles an hour throughout the drive, despite 45 stops enroute for gas and the changes. Top speed was 90 miles an hour. The stops averaged 10 minutes each. Ellis did all his eating in these intervals. All told, he spent $3.20 on food, mostly egg sandwiches and milk.

The new record is twice as fast as a railroad crossing and about half as fast as a coast-to-coast flight in a passenger plane. A remarkable feature of the trip was that Ellis traveled alone. He thus set a new record for solo driving. Upon leaving Los Angeles, Ellis put the car in high gear and in high it remained for the duration of the journey. He drove at high speed through the Sierras, over mountains 7,000 feet high, and exceeded his 62 mile average over 500 miles, sand-piled desert roads. There were no stops for repairs or parts enroute.

Ellis' route took him through Flagstaff, Arizona; Albuquerque, New Mexico; Kansas City, St. Louis, Terre Haute, Indianapolis, Harrisburg and New York. He is now returning to Los Angeles at a more leisurely pace. This time he is accompanied. The danger of going to sleep, he said, is too great.

The man who made the record drive is 25 years old and has been a professional driver for five years. He has driven in races and done stunts for motion picture studios. Recently he established a three-day record, driving a car from Canada to Mexico, a distance of 1,540 miles, in 29 hours, 48 minutes.

AMERICAN ARTISTS

By ALICE ROHE
United Press Writer

Edward Bruce

The story of American art would lose much of its real meaning if the career of Edward Bruce was omitted. If ever the true essence of America was concentrated in an individual it is in this business man who became an artist.

Edward Bruce's poetic reproductions of the skyscraper civilization of his homeland share popularity with his Tuscan landscapes. In Antiochia-Corinto, where Maurice Sterne's enthusiastic encouragement carried him in 1922, he settled down to master technique. Sterne's recognition of the banker's urge to paint resulted in Bruce's studying Sterne's beloved Antiochia, later Bruce and his wife became a part of the Tuscan landscape in their villa at Settignano. Whether it is the European countryside, or urban America, his paintings have a rare and recognizable quality. This is due to his gift of seeing and transcribing the feeling of the scene without obviously calculated composition. In looking at a Bruce picture the beholder is conscious that the painter is sensitive to the changing moods of nature, to the pictorial values of the scene. His treatment is modern, his colors are quiet. He is convincing but never spectacular.

When Bruce the business man held his first exhibition in Paris, he sold nearly every picture. His favored landscapes were purchased by the French government and hang in the Luxembourg. His first one-man exhibition in New York was an occasion of much anticipation after his unusual Paris triumph. And no one was disappointed! The outstanding feature of Edward Bruce's career, however, is his life story itself.

Born in 1879 he is a New Yorker of nine generations. He attended Columbia university and played tackle on the football team. He prepared for the law but decided to go into banking. During a long residence in the Philippines and China he made his notable collection of Chinese Art.

Annual Dance to be Open to All Students

The Junior-Senior Prom, heretofore given by the Juniors exclusively for the Seniors, will now be an all-college affair. Literally speaking, it will be the Lower Division entertainment for the Upper Division.

This year the dance will be held at the Orlando Country Club, Friday night, June 1, from ten until two. Dean and Mrs. Winslow Anderson, Dean Sprague, Dean Espartero and Professor Howard will be chaperones.

Helen Jackson, president of the Lower Division; Robert Stufflebeam, president of the Upper Division, and Rebecca Coleman are in charge of the decorations, refreshments and entertainment.

The Seniors' banquet will be held at the Orlando Country Club Friday night before the dance.

Whatever you may be sure of, be sure of this, that you are dreadfully like other people.—James Russell Lowell.

KAPPA ALPHAS GIVE DANCE

The Kappa Alpha Fraternity entertained at a formal all-college dance last Saturday at the Woman's Club of Winter Park. Music was furnished by Aloxxo Ross and his Harlem Hot Shots, and numerous specialty numbers were provided by the orchestra.

The ball room was decorated in combinations of the Rollins colors and those of the fraternity. Chaperones for the occasion were: Dr. Hamilton Holt, Prof. and Mrs. Luis Roney, Prof. and Mrs. Edwin Granberry, Mrs. Georgia Enright, Mrs. Nell Lester, Mrs. Connelia Mandiant, and the K. A. housemother, Mrs. Lillian Sackett.

PI BETA PHI SPRING FROLIC HELD FRIDAY

On Friday evening, May 25, the Pi Beta Phi Fraternity gave its annual spring frolic at the Orlando Country Club.

The room was attractively decorated with the colors and flowers of the fraternity, leading an atmosphere of delight and charm for the evening's entertainment. The unusual setting of this beautiful scene, both in the grille, on the dance floor, and outside on the terrace, provided a dignified environment for the first of a series of commencement dances.

Music was furnished by Al Stanley and his Accadellans of Daytona Beach. Invited guests of the fraternity were the students and faculty of Rollins College, patrons and patronesses of the organization, and Dr. and Mrs. Holt, Dean

Chi Omega News

The members of the Chi Omega Society entertained the seniors of the Chapter at luncheon Saturday at the Presbyterian Tea Room. Mrs. Elyse Hering was toastmistress, and brief speeches were made by the seniors, and Dorothy Edwards Smith, President of the Chapter.

Mrs. Macdowell Moore, a patroness of the Chapter, entertained the members of the Chi Omega Society at a tea Sunday afternoon at her home on Ridgewood avenue, in Orlando. Miss Frances Moore served. Other guests were Mrs. Julian Howard, Mrs. Leon B. Port and Mr. and Mrs. Allie Dickson.

Chi Omega's national biennial convention is to be held at Buck Hill Falls, Pa., June 22-28. The chapter's delegate is Dorothy Edwards Smith and other members who plan to attend are: Olive Dickson, Alyce Cleveland, Elizabeth Richards, Betty Childs, Jean Plumb, Virginia Goodrich and Adelaide Anderson.

Chi Omega is entertaining a group of rubes with an informal buffet supper at the Chapter House this evening.

Greg Williams, Billy Nevins Wed Secretly

After a month of silence, Gregory Williams made known today his secret marriage to Miss Billy Nevins in Tampa on April 28.

The wedding elicited a curiosity that began in the fall term and ended in a surprise to the friends of the couple. Mr. and Mrs. Williams plan to live in Orlando following graduation, where Mr. Williams expects to enter into the Life Insurance business.

Phi Mu

Both active and pledge chapters of Phi Mu entertained Mrs. George Kraft, Mrs. Jean Jacques Pfister, Miss Virginia Robie and Mrs. Goschalten at an informal tea yesterday afternoon at the chapter house on Chase avenue.

The Phi Mu house received their new members, Elsie Hildebrandt, with a spread after meeting on Monday night. Sandwiches and coffee were served. The guest of honor was presented with a recognition pin and a scholarship cap for high grades during her entire college course.

Louise Jenkins and Barbara Lang entertained the members of the Senior Class at tea Friday afternoon, May 25th. Miss Boyer and Miss Apperson helped the active receive.

The active members and pledges entertained Louise Jenkins and Barbara Lang at a waffle breakfast at the sorority house Sunday morning, May 27.

The active members, pledges, Miss Apperson, Betty Thayer, Jane Wilford, Carol Valerius, and Barbara Troickson were guests of Madame Bowman at a bridge tea Tuesday afternoon, May 28.

Seniors to Picnic at Coronado Beach

The faculty and staff will have the seventy seniors of the graduating class with an afternoon picnic this Thursday at the "Palm" at Coronado. Dr. Wendell Stone is in charge of transportation. All cars will leave immediately after lunch. The Seniors are furnishing a picnic supper. Miss Audrey Packham is in charge of the entertainment for the afternoon.

The girls living in Mayflower Hall entertained their Seniors with a farewell dinner Sunday night at Perrydell.

Are You Glad You're Re- turning? Here's a Lament

Most of you are thrilled at the thought of vacation. To the mountains, to the coast, to Maine, home. Such will be your occupations during the coming months. Plans, plans, plans, all made, no doubt, as wandering. Schied, yes, you'll return next October. You are fortunate.

About seventy of us have another kind of thrill, a fear. We pack our trunks for the last time. There are memories as we fold our few belongings into that old dusty grip. That small of emptiness which yesterday made us eager to leave, brings sadness to our eyes. Fancy what big looks we sometimes are over little things. We used to giggle as those caps and gloves went by.

For us there is no prophecy. We face a new and changing life. A few of us can plan on further education, the Harvard Law School, abroad. The rest of us less fortunate are wondering, doubting. That old "line" of staff we used to give may not work so well from now on.

But as we idle in our memories, the rest of you go merrily on. We did the same once, but our road is ended. These classes we used to miss are gone forever, and those we loved will soon forget.

Examine soon cool off and as this world moves on, this burning flame which speaks to you will die and flare again some other place. There are always fools who rob and sigh, but underneath they lie. Such is life. I speak no more. Thank God, you say. For me—who care?

Miss Shatswell To Open Winter Home

Miss Margaret Shatswell, resident head of the Chi Omega house, resigns her position to open Florida Villa, a small private winter residence home for men and women. Florida Villa will enter to winter victors, who, while not needing actual medical care, do not feel equal to living alone in hotels. For this purpose an attractive home is being furnished, with a registered nurse in residence. Florida Villa will open for the season the first of November.

Miss Shatswell is a graduate of Radcliffe College, and before taking her position at Rollins College she was Social Director of Newton Hospital; one of the finest hospitals in Massachusetts.

KAPPA ALPHA WINS GARY CUP; X CLUB IS SECOND

Rollins College Crew Leaves on Spring Tour Through North

DIAMONDBALL SERIES DECIDES WINNERS; THETA TAKES 3RD

K. A.'s defeat last year's leaders by small margin; Powell, Whalen, Hines and Enck star throughout season

Obtaining a total of 1118 points the Kappa Alpha fraternity gained possession of the Gary Trophy in the recently finished intramural athletic competition. The X Club, winners last year, by their defeat in the diamondball series, held second place with a total of approximately 1037 points, while Theta Kappa Nu, by virtue of success in tennis and golf took third with 720 points. Kappa Phi Sigma and Rho Lambda Nu battled it out for the fourth position, the former finally winning by a margin of less than 50 points, while Chase Hall, having entered teams in only one or two events, ended the season in last place.

The X Club, despite its having less varsity football players than Kappa Alpha, took an early lead in the competition by winning touch football last fall, defeating Theta Kappa Nu in a two game playoff series and ended the fall term about 25 points ahead of the nearest contestants. This was the third year in succession that the same organization had won this sport and from the very beginning of the program, the outlook was bright toward another hard fought battle for the trophy.

However, after a one-sided exciting meet, which was easily won by the K. A.'s, with Theta Kappa Nu finishing in second place, and a basketball series, which was also easily taken by the present trophy holders, Kappa Alpha took a comfortable lead of about 150 points. This advantage over the other organizations was increased when Powell won the annual cross country race, with two teammates finishing in close succession after him. The X Club held second in both these events, presenting a brilliant basketball team, which was badly crippled early in the season, and several runners who also met competition which proved much too stiff in the final encounter. Powell starred as the outstanding player and point-scorer on the basketball floor while Hines and Enck held the brunt of the attack for the winners.

WOMEN IN SPORTS

This year women's sports has been notable here at Rollins because every department has been operated differently. The choosing of teams, arranging of schedules and, finally, the honorary teams have been picked with the participants themselves having a hand. This is part of the "R" Club's code which has attempted to place the bulk of responsibility and management of the various athletics in the control of the governing body. This body is made up of the outstanding women athletes in college. Thus, not only do the players have a chance to participate in sports but also to initiate new methods of tournament and team play. It has been proven that this innovation has added greatly to the number of women interested in sports whether as spectators or players. The incentive to play is greater when the added honor of the "R" Club with its executive power is incorporated in it. It is self-evident that a body made up of persons who have worked for the position they hold will take definite measures to advance as well as to preserve the high standards of sportsmanship and skill which they have exemplified prior to their election.

Thus, Lucy Greene, past year's chairman of the "R" Club, is not only well qualified herself to follow in the footsteps of Mary Lynn Rogers, past chairman, but heads a body determined to foster an independent and improved women's athletic program.

During the Winter term Jane Leray again met all corners on the links and walked off with another cup. Apparently she has contracted the winning habit permanently as she successfully defended her title in the Spring term. By her final victory a few weeks ago she stepped into the class which Agatha Townsend, archery champion, should be assured of being in, by dint of her three years of continuous competition during which she has never relinquished the title. Marion Perry was awarded the tennis cup for the Winter term, having defeated all challengers decisively.

Hockey had a larger number reporting for practice than ever before and when team play began there was a new precision and skill evident in both offensive and defensive tactics. Due to the fact that all games were close, it was difficult to choose an honorary team. However, the following eleven members won the distinction: Cecelia Barrow, Barbara Connor, Becky Coleman, Lucy Greene, Virginia Howell, Cricket Manwaring, Betty Mower, Billie Murphy, Mary Lynn Rogers, and Annette Twitchell. To this reporter, who witnessed several games, it is unfortunate that this team was unable to go into action under Rollins colors against other institutions.

Due to the fact that there were some sports which could be termed year-round, the following varieties were chosen for the entire year: in volleyball, Betty Mower, Barbara Trueblood, Virginia Howell, Mary Lynn Rogers, Hala Connor, Lucy Greene, Carol Valentine and Grace Terry were the eight outstanding players.

The 1934 varsity golf team includes Jane Leray, champion, Mary Lib Jones, runner-up, Pete Wood, Cricket Manwaring, Ellen Cushman, Virginia Jeeke, and Barbara Trueblood. This varsity was given an opportunity to play several matches with neighboring clubs during the spring term and gained much in match and medal play experience. It is planned, as part of the "R" Club's program for next year, to have a tournament schedule drawn up at the beginning of the year, so that the golfers will have an added incentive from the beginning of the season.

EIGHT OARSMEN LEAVE FOR RACES IN OHIO, NEW YORK

Regatta with Manhattan and Rutgers will be most outstanding event on trip; Brown chosen acting captain

On Thursday, the 25th of May, the Rollins crew and one important woman why interest in rowing has waned in the past few years. No other college in Florida includes rowing in its list of sports and in the last few years Rollins has had to get an occasional race with the crew from Asheville School for practice competition.

Coach U. T. Bradley has little hope that the Tar boat will make much of a showing against Manhattan and Rutgers on June 2 not only because of lack of competition but also because of a shortage of man power. The average weight of the Rollins crew this year is only 165 and only three, including the coxswain are classed as veterans.

In the races with Marietta and with Manhattan and Rutgers, Rollins will be without the services of Captain John F. Codrere of New York, N. Y., who has had to stay behind to complete his academic work for graduation. His place at stroke will be filled by Acting Captain "R" Brown of Marietta, Nebraska.

Other members of the crew are Norman J. McGiffin and Edwin C. Jamison, New York, N. Y.; John D. Beaufort, Brookline, Mass.; Joseph Howell and George Edwards, Orlando, Fla.; John F. Bigley, of Cleveland, Ohio; Horace P. Abbott, Melrose, Mass.; and Leonard Roth, Lakeland, Fla.

Lack of competition this year has been a serious handicap to this year. They were Annette Twitchell and Virginia Camp.

DILLINGER AIDES FOUND ON CAMPUS

Stooges Uncovered in Midst of College Quiet; Have long been suspected of uncovering something

The Winter Park Homicide Squad swept into action early yesterday morning and, acting on a tip which they would not reveal, arrested Ripper Francko, alias Royal W. France, noted underworld character who has been living in this city under the guise of an Economics Professor for the past five years and who is wanted in Orange and Volusia County as well as in Georgia for a long list of crimes and misdemeanors. Most serious charges laid against the Ripper, however, was the one today, for he is being accused of being in direct contact with Ralph Dillinger, the notorious kidnaper and killer.

Along with France, the police apprehended two other suspicious looking characters who they are holding for further questioning. One of them, Edwin L. Clarke, attempted to pass himself off as a sociologist, but he is believed to be the ringleader of a great counterfeiting ring operating in this vicinity. The other, one Edwin Granberry, a sinister looking individual whose description tallies with that of Second-Story Lake, is believed to be a henchman of Clarke's and one of the best safecrackers in this section.

France and his accomplices are charged with being in touch with Dillinger and attempting to get him down in Winter Park and are believed to be in contact with a special student, an assistant professor. France has been under surveillance by the detectives of this city for some time now and are determined to see justice done. A careful checkup of the student body shows that France and his gang have also been suspected by the

AN EDITORIAL

Attention must be given to a terrific state of affairs in our midst.

WE MUST HAVE GRADE CROSSINGS ELIMINATED BETWEEN SANFORD AND WHATEVER THAT OTHER TOWN IS.

These are a distinct hazard. But we must be cautious of the manner in which we strive to remedy the situation. The student body as a whole cannot understand what it is all about, and there's no use bothering their heads.

But the GRADECROSSING UNION knows, you can bet you. And that's what must be done, or something. A merit system for crossings where by only the wealthiest roads and trucks are eligible to be crossed, and the more the merit, the more the crossing. This must be established. THIS WILL BE DID—DONE, and don't YOU FORGET it EITHER.

Where being in the student body is bliss, it's folly to want to vote. Wise, actually unqualified electors even want to be given a vote? VOTE AS YOU PLEASE BUT VOTE.

STUDENTS FLY TO BIG FIRE

Surrendering all local campus duties last weekend, Whirlwind Bellos, Chase Hall Spiffers, and Jos Lichtenstein, Quick Trigger roundabout, chartered a Skorsky Amphibian for a sudden jump to the Chicago blazes.

These two college volunteers fire men were called to service by Fire Chief Lemmy C. Now of the Breezy Metropolis, who reached them by telephone early Saturday morning, just before the big fire started. "If I'd waited till it got going," he explained, "The boys could never get out here so soon."

A mystery arose when no word was received from the two lads. During their stay in Chicago, but all punishment was discontinued when they were discovered in the conference room of the Civic council, endeavoring to persuade the city officials that the Streets of Paris should be allowed to reopen.

They returned early Monday, via Seaboard freight no. 2102, fruit and vegetable car #154278.

The Dreier twins, Stanislaus and Florentine, apprehended last night by local authorities as suspects in the famous Roanoke Murder case. They are charged with paying their tuition in strawberries for the past four years, and are being held as indirectly responsible for the subsequent tragedies.

It is rumored about that the Fuller Branch job is in the bag. No one has a chance now that Eugene Coleman has applied, since there is no hope that the Coleman Branch combine can ever be separated.

Students Frolic in Pre-Election Fun

A spirited scene on the Horseshoe prior to ballot-casting two weeks ago, when the varl one fraternities banded together to wipe out politics on the campus. A few disgruntled punks may be seen in the foreground, lying down on the job. This year's annual get-together was one of the friendliest as far as the photo shows.

STUDES FORMULATE A NICE NEW CODE

Discontented with present social conditions on the campus, the Student Discipline Committee yesterday came forth with a brand new policy of campus conduct, to be known as the Code for Co-Educational Conduct, and endorsed by President Hamilton Jelt as a big step in education. "It's solemn," was the president's statement. "Familiar thing since the Uink First plan, and twice as silly. I'm surprised I didn't think of it myself."

The new plan has only been tentatively adopted as yet, and only a brief summary of the Code may be here included. A few of the outstanding points of the system are:

1. A minimum working day for those engaged in working at similar work requiring juvenile or female labor. The proposed time limit shall be set at 24 hours per day, except in unusual cases, which shall be declared at the discretion of the Administration. A record must be kept of all meetings and proceedings will be worked out accordingly.
2. The right of students to assemble in class while class is in session, and discuss football prospects, heavy duty, or to sleep, shall not be infringed. Professors will be prohibited from disturbing these gatherings simply because they wish to use the room for purposes of instruction.
3. A graded wage scale for all athletes shall be introduced, along the following lines: Quarterbacks and full backs, $1000 per game plus expenses; half backs, $200; ends, $1,001, all other linemen, $200 and sleeping accommodations. Busses for captains not to exceed 75 per cent of total gate receipts for each game.
4. No examinations shall be given to any students or students without submission of proposed questions to the class at least two weeks prior to said examination. The right of initiative shall not be denied the students and all questions not meeting with their approval, shall be withdrawn from the list.
5. All complaints against instructors and professors must be filed by the student before class begins each Monday morning. Strict attention will be given to meeting out justice and punishment in all recognized or unrecognized instructors.
6. The construction of three educational dormitories, after the Mediterranean style of architecture will immediately get under way. The purpose of said dorms to be the bettering of group spirit, composition, and clean fun.

Come, Come, All Ye Faithful

All students and friends of the college are urged to attend the Election to be held in Staxwood, October 23, 1935, and then some. You know that the president is anxious to make a friend of every one of you students, as come around and get acquainted. Judges and rickies will be served to everyone who knows where to get them, and for those that don't, pink tea and sardine sandwiches will be the bill of fare. Come one, come all, join the parade and see the fun.

HOW ANT HILLS ALL HAPPENED

It's Kind of Silly, but ETAGIN NSHRDLUCMPWY

Well, said the farmer, as he went into the plow manufacturing business, I'll tell the world, none of which has nothing to do with the heart of this here new question which is let's see oh yes how Aunt Tille came to be made well as like this.

When Isaiah Furber began to make the first trade hill (a trade affair it was too) back in 1877 or some such he made folks laugh and snort and they said perhaps he'll never do it but Isaiah stuck with it and look at the trade hills around today which only goes to show that trade was in when angels first to tread and that the trade the corner was stuff.

However the crux of the matter arose when a guy named Jeremiah Gargel or Wendell Hortensup or —which reminds us of the time Heshank was playing bridge and said one morning and I'll have a class—John Doe, or something when this guy began to make mountains out of molehills about in 1912 or some such.

At first they weren't very successful and he got started down in the month but he awoke to read Anna's Father and when he came to the one about the grasshopper and the ant he got all excited and said I guess I'll better begin and go in the city and take up baseball, whereupon somebody said to Shrill you wish to read more of this please consult page 4, 5, 6.

An interesting Open Forum meeting was held last night in the local fire house on the subject—"There's One Born Every Minute." Professor Gorrer upheld the affirmative and claimed that certain data that he had collected on various speaking hours had proved conclusively that barren was entirely correct in his assumption. However, Professor Clarke also had a few figures of his own. He insisted that with the recent influx of birth control the estimate was a little high. As usual nothing definite was decided upon.

Students to Recite On Instruments

A student recital will be presented at the Woman's Club Saturday with a program that is sure to interest all, both young and old. First on the bill is Jax Handy rendering a duet solo entitled "Let's Keep Bess This Summer Mary and Have the Hives Together."

Following this selection, Len Koch will play "Down West McGinty" on the bagpipe accompanied on the sither by Tommy Thompson.

Next on the presentation will be Bill Carnody, demonstrating his mastery of the Jew's Harp with the difficult selection, "Tell it all to Mother Dear, It's a Sherry Night Outside."

The recital will be rounded out with a pianistate Fan Dance by Isabel Birke, as only she can do it.

This will be the last one in the student series for the year. Be sure to reserve a snug seat. Soft drinks and candy will be offered for sale during the intermissions.

NAVY PLANE ON MISSION OF MERCY

Washington—May 23.—The navy department announced that a navy patrol plane bearing a medical officer and equipment for an emergency operation took off from Coco-Sole, Canal Zone, at 6:15 a. m. for Galapagos Island, where William A. Robinson, yachtman, is critically ill with acute appendicitis. The navy plane, piloted by Lieut. Commander Herman E. Rollins, was expected to arrive along-side Robinson's 32-foot ketch, "Swamp," after about nine hours flight covering 748 nautical miles, or 909 land miles.

Lieut. Commander Rollins W. Hutchinson of the navy medical corps being rushed by Holland's plane was believed to be carrying one or two hospital corps men to assist Hutchinson if an emergency operation is needed. The destroyer "Hale" is also enroute. It will be used to transport him to a hospital if he is believed.

CHINESE BANDITS HOLD AMERICANS

Chinow, Manchukuo, May 23.—Chinese bandits are holding a group of Americans for $15,000 ransom each, the Japanese garrison here is informed. The Americans were riding in three automobiles owned by the Standard Oil Co. of New York, when they were kidnapped 10 days ago. It is said the abduction occurred in a desolate area some sixty miles northeast of Peiping.

WRB ALMA ARCHER

New York's new night season got into full swing just about the time you are filling your lungs with the first spring robin and hunting for a crocus. There were some propheta who would have bet you a year ago that no night haunt would open over again and that the revolutionists would have taken over all the best locations. But we here in the fray have proof that New York is getting riotously gay and spending quart of champagne on itself and dressing itself up in the newest clothes to be found. The woman who has hooped through a few years with a $12.50 rag on her back is now flaunting a $75 number, and the skiff is not a member of her table either. The Place Pigalle, one of the gayest spots in town after theater, and where Darius and Diana dance madly, is bidding in the class women. They definitely have bought the best of the Molyneux, Mambacher last-collection-Paris clothes and that scream the Japanese trend, bordered, large pattern prints, tulle silhouettes, etc.

TED EHRlich PLACES FIRST IN ORATORY

Robertson and Roth Win Second and Third in the Sprague Contest

With a burst of fiery oratory, Theodore Ehrlich took first place in the 1934 Sprague Oratorical Contest held last Thursday evening in the Annie Russell Theatre. His subject was "Propaganda and War." In defeating the other contestants, Ehrlich spoke with firmness and power, driving point after point home to his auditors.

A close second was Robert Robertson with his speech "Social Justice," while Leonard Roth placed third. His topic was "The Fly in the Ointment."

Others who entered in the annual contest were Janet Gibney, who spoke on "Chain Stores," James Holden, who discussed "Honesty is the Best Policy," Margaret Wirt, who declaimed on "The Constitution of the United States," and Joseph Howell, who gave an address in "The Power of the Press."

The contest was originated by Pi Beta Phi Sorority, with the cooperation of Dr. Robert J. Sprague, and since his death has been continued by the sorority, in its memory. This year the contest was cosponsored by Pi Beta Phi and Kappa Phi Sigma Fraternity.

Dr. Lindsay E. McNair and Attorney E. O. Miller of Orlando, and Professor John Martin of Winter Park acted as judges for the contest, while William F. Yast, college librarian, officiated as chairman.

Prizes were awarded as follows: First, $15.00; second, $10, and third, $5.00.

Seven are Initiated Into Pi Kappa Delta Forensic Society

Pi Kappa Delta, national honorary forensic society, initiated seven new members into its organization Friday night at the speech studio. The new members are Dr. Elizabeth Kingsbury, Margaret Wirt, Robert Robertson, Reginald Clough, Leonard Roth, Richard Shattuck, and Harold Hall, a former student of Rollins College.

After the initiation Shattuck was chosen president, Olmstead vice president, and Clough, secretary-treasurer.

Maurice Dreiser of the Rollins Debating Team entertained both the old and new members of the fraternity at an informal dinner at the Fern restaurant in Orlando.

Other members present were Dr. Evelyn Newman, Professor and Mrs. Harry Raymond Pierce, Dean Winslow S. Anderson, Thomas P. Johnson, Bernard Bralove, and Milford Davis.

Final Recital to be Given Thursday Nite

The last Student Recital is to be given Thursday, May 24, at the Woman's Club. Four Conservatory students will give piano recitals, namely, Charles Clawson, Virginia Camp, Eleanor Sheets, and Bonny Callison.

Those who will take part in song recitals are Eleanor Reese, soprano; Theodore Ehrlich, baritone; and Everett Babaria, bass. Ernest Weiss will render his selection on the violin. The concluding number on the evening's program will be the playing of Sonata No. 2 by Brahms. This will be played by Dante Bergenti, violinist, and Jack Carter, pianist.

Washington, May 23.—Another message to Congress, expected to concern war debts was scheduled for tentative transmission by Roosevelt today. If the communication is sent it will be the second in twenty-four hours and leave but two more to be prepared to witness the Roosevelt legislation program.

REGISTRATION MUST BE COMPLETED BY MAY 26TH

Preliminary registration must be completed by May 26th. All those students expecting to return to Rollins next year are required to register, and places will be held in class only for students who comply with this procedure. Those who are uncertain about returning are advised to register, indicating that their registration is tentative.

Lower Division students should report to their advisers and make out a schedule for the full year. Those who will be ready for the Upper Division before the end of the year should make out the schedule up to the time of probable entrance into the Upper Division. Students expecting to return in the fall should make out a tentative schedule for the fall term.

Upper Division students should report to their advisers and check over their schedules for the coming year to be sure that there are no changes in times of the courses. They must then report to the Office of the Registrar but need not make out a new schedule if there are no changes.

Everyone is requested to be prompt in this registration as there is only a short time left for its completion.

HART, OTTAWAY TO BE MARRIED

Former Rollins Students Will Be Wed June 2

Ruth Blackburne Hart and James H. Ottaway, Rollins '32, are to be married in Brooklyn, N. Y., on June 2, at the home of the bride's aunt, Miss Mary B. Woodward.

The couple, who met while at Rollins, plan to make their home in Port Huron, Michigan, after a short honeymoon.

Ottaway will be remembered as an active worker on Rollins publications; he was editor of the Sandspur in 1932 and Advertising Commissioner of all publications in 1933, in which year both he and his bride were graduated. The present issue of the weekly paper is a direct result of Ottaway's work, as it was a tabloid size sheet until the time a few years ago that he revamped it and enlarged it to its current status. He is at present connected with the Port Huron Times-Herald.

One-Act Play Is Presented In Theatre

A one-act play, "The Open Window," by Anne Lawry, was presented last Wednesday morning before an all-college assembly in the Annie Russell Theatre. The play was adapted from a short story of the same name by Saki, and appeared in the March issue of the Flamingo. The play was one of the Spring Workshop productions under the direction of Kay Ewing.

The cast included Frances Ryer, who took the role of Vera; Cricket Newman, who played the maid, Brandy; George Porter as Mr. Nuttel; Marjorie Schulten as Mrs. Sappleton; and Charles Sealover, Jits Tuverson, and Alfred McCarty, as Mr. Sappleton and his two brothers-in-law.

Gamma Phi Beta

Active members and pledges of Gamma Phi Beta were guests of Mrs. Bright at her home Friday afternoon, May 18. Other guests were Miss Ellen Apperson, Mrs. B. Hoffman, Miss Carol Valentine, Miss Jane Willard, and Miss Betty Trevor.

Dean and Mrs. Winslow S. Anderson entertained the active members, pledges, Miss Ellen Apperson, and Miss Jewel Lester at a buffet supper Sunday evening, May 20. After the supper the guests enjoyed various games and games sponsored by Dean Anderson.

The active members and pledges of Gamma Phi Beta were hostesses at an invitational dance at Alma Country Club Saturday evening, May 19. The hall was attractively decorated with palms and ferns while many balloons added a touch of color. Dell Gibbs's Rhythmic Rascals of Jacksonville furnished the music. The chaperones were Dean and Mrs. Winslow S. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Howard, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Bowser, Mrs. Bright, Miss E. J. Bull, and Miss Ellen Apperson. Among the out of town guests were Miss Martha Connor and Lloyd Gibbons of Indian River Ranch, and the members of the Miami University Swimming Team.

SANDSPUR STAFF MEETING

There will be a short meeting of the entire Sandspur Staff in the Publications Office immediately after lunch Thursday, May 24. All those interested in continuing on the staff and all who wish to contribute their services during the coming year are urged to attend.

Rollins Radio Hour Features Talent of Music Conservatory

SPUR-B The regular Rollins Radio Hour was broadcast last Friday evening, May 18, at 8-11. Virginia Ormstrong played two selections on the piano, the first is waltz in C sharp minor by Chopin, and the second Scherzo by Mendelssohn. The next number was a solo by Ted Ehrlich who first sang "The Lotus Blues" by Schumann; he was accompanied by Emile Dougherty.

Nancy Bradford played "Anerania" and "Grandes Stances," also accompanied by Mrs. Dougherty. Ted Ehrlich then sang "Till I Wake," by Plandon.

David Bethe was announcer.

Johnson Installs Student Officers

The new officers of the Student Association were installed last Wednesday morning by the retiring officers in a short all-college assembly, after the presentation of "The Open Window."

Retiring president Thomas Johnson administered the oath of office to David Schragg, incoming president, and also to Richard Washington, new vice president, and Nancy Cochran, new secretary-treasurer.

This completed, Schragg took on the charge of the remainder of the meeting which consisted in introducing Mr. Housa who conducted a "sing" until second period classes were called.

Pi Phi To Sponsor All College Dance

The Pi Beta Phi Fraternity will sponsor a dance at the Orlando Country Club on Friday, May 25th, from 8 to 12. Invitations have been issued to all dormitories, fraternity and sorority houses, and to the faculty.

This dance which is an annual event in being given by the Pi Phi to honor their graduating seniors. This year, the music will be furnished by Al Stanley's orchestra which is featured currently at Daytona Beach.

Although Commencement week does not begin until Monday, the Pi Phi dance will inaugurate a series of final parties which other fraternities and sororities have scheduled for the last week of college.

NEW READING SEMINAR WILL BE OFFERED

Dr. Edwin O. Grover to Conduct Class in Personal Problems

In an attempt to help students with their personal reading problems, a clinical seminar on the Art of Reading is to be offered at Rollins College next year. It is announced. The seminar will be conducted once a week by Dr. Edwin Osgood Grover, professor of Books, and will be given primarily for the students of the Lower Division.

Students who have difficulty with their work in any subject will be assigned to this seminar and given special suggestions and training. Such subjects as the art of rapid reading, skimming, reading for information, reading for pleasure, reading whole-not-parts (increasing one's vocabulary, the value of browsing, the rewards of the reading habits, and similar topics will be discussed. The work, however, will be largely individual.

"It is generally recognized," according to the announcement, "that many of the difficulties which students have in college are largely due to their inability to interpret quickly and intelligently the printed page, and it is hoped that this clinical seminar will be of service in solving some of these difficulties."

Courses in Recreational Reading, Literary Personalities, and the History of the Book have been given during the past several years by the Department of Books. It is considered that those have been successful in stimulating reading habits and in making students book conscious.

Perhaps we won't be amies if we say a little this week about something that is supposed to be in this column. Of course, you can search us as to what it is, but we do think it's high time something was said about it before somebody else says something about it.

For example, we have a grand selection of new movies coming along must any day now, just as soon as ever the Hollywoodish Hollywooders can get things into production now which ought to be soon now, and here are a few now just to give you an idea the sort of thing to expect now:

Cole Emmons takes the title role in Viva Villa; Rebecca Ann Coleman (formerly Becky) does Cleopatra to a fare-you well; Maurice Dreier takes Robin Hood off the bookshelf and puts him where he belongs; Paul Worley interprets Daddy Long Legs; Scripps Chalkins finds himself taking over the leading role in It Happened One Night; Jack MacWatt makes Harold Teed live before your eyes; David Roth does with Tarzan what you would believe could be done; Ben Kuhn reaches the heights in the principal role of The House of Ratschalski; Johnny Raven is supposed in the forthcoming Svenska;

Mary Rickey brings Tarboat Annie to life; Frances Southgate is heart rending as Tess of the Storm Country; and Marjorie Schulten delights with her tender rendition of Peg o' My Heart.

Then there's Carl Goeller in The Barbarian; Maxiea Hess in Spirit Fire; Elfrida Womart as the inspiration for the Song of Songs; Penny Penfexter as Sadie McKee; Bucklin Moon as Elmer the Great; Cricket Manwaring as Queen Christina; Gregory Williams as the Mysterious Mr. X; and last but not least, Trudy Earle as Nana.

The most played songs on the ether the last fortnight were as follows: Annie Laurie enjoyed 234 renditions, Ransons had a few, I Hope It Don't Rain Tonight Cause If It Rains Tonight I Won't Seeje Myself 'Cause Your Uncle Henry Will Sit in the Parlor With Us 'Cause His Corns Will Hurt, Baby I've played 128 times, So, enjoyed a dozen trips over the mike, and a Adote Fideles wasn't played at all by the organist in the Bijou Theatre in Westport, New Mexico, or by the C-sharp xylophonist in the Moulin Rouge on West Canal St., Kookuk. However, it was sung by the Junior Chamber of Commerce A Capella Choir in Abernathy, Maine, and broadcast in part over station KLOD of Broken Water, Maine, with studios in Remsher The, Maine.

There is no excuse for what fellows, but our trilogy of Be, Boast, and Pain-being so all covering a title, we feel free to let loose and about it as it may. It must be understood that all characters in the drama in the next few paragraphs are entirely fictitious, and the appearance of any person's name therein must be construed to be only a coincidence.

The SCENE: You guess where. The CHARACTERS: Anybody free for all. The TIME: Certainly.

Our hero was EATON in a restaurant, possibly a CHILDS. Being LACY, he was out of a job, but he had not been in BEDFORD a good many DAVIES and nights, and he looked HORNE and HAERTY. He must GETTYS job, if

One of the Biggest "Fish" That Ever Got Away

Actual photo of Mortimer F. Hamlock, son of the Oil King, breaking loose from Prof. Osogood Revere, noted Rawlins sportman, who almost had him hooked. He was estimated to be one of the most-prized suckers on the Atlantic Seaboard and Prof. Revere worked on him for three hours before he got away and headed for open water. His loss will be greatly felt.

someone has to FAWCETT on him. "FROST thing EHRlich to-MORROW," he said, "I am going to stop MERTENTINE and get to work. I don't think it would TOUR-TELLOTTE if I got a job."

His wife was named Kay, and he loved her with ALL his HART. How CUDMOORE he asked? He liked nothing more than to BLA-LOVE to her ALTER time, but she was sick with LEFEVER, and it occurred to him to go home. "I OTT to see MCKAY," he said to himself, "BARTLETT the see—I'm OWEN two-BILL here and I've already SPENCE all my money; but I know the boss and maybe if I don't BATTEN eyelash ELLIOTT me go or maybe I am BOK-KOWS some money. Now that I have STZ, I KNCK I ELDERIDGE myself away, that being the FAR-ISH thing I can do. He CLOUGH-ed nervously and got up.

There was a LARGE crowd around the DOER and he had to ask if he could GETHRO. He got so used to KURNS see straight. "My GOWDY cried, HESS no one any decency? Will you PARMLEY please? I ASHTON disturb you, but ABERRANT you CATEEN up a lot of mum!" The only reply he got was "Aw, GOELLER a brick!" Somebody hit him in the stomach and JARDINE considerably, and another came from behind him and let him have it; a woman got in his way but he HAMMOND her with his umbrella and FOSTER back.

"I GLASS KETTLES TEACH-OUT to keep out of my way," he feared, his TAMPA rising higher and HVER. "Take that if you're CONNER got tough." PRENTICE soon be PIERCED his way TRUE-BLOODY but unbowed. "VALE," he said, "I guess it was WIRT if I didn't like it, but you never know just TWITCHELL have to put up with and I always say, WHALEN Rome do as the Romans do."

"WHITE right," said a voice at his side. "I must HANDY to you. I've NEVINS seen NEWBY in my life, but I MARSH say you're a guy after MALONE beat, HUB-BARD drink!"

"That's BERRY nice of you," one here replied, "but I GODDARD get home; I LANG to see my wife—HOWELL love her! But JONES got me STOODARD talking, because once I threw off the CHAK-ALAS there's no HOLDEN me."

"Oh, I WODDULL you," said the stranger. "But can I come home with you and meet your family?"

"HURBERT your life," one here said. "I KARNOFF refuse. It will GINNEY great pleasure to DRAKE you home; KIMBLE-ong with me now. By the way," he asked suddenly, "what is your favorite song?"

"I'm GANSON With Tears In My Eyes, LOUGHREY Girl in My Arms Isn't You," answered the stranger, SCHRAGEING his shoulders. "WISE the REESon you ask?"

"I DUNNs. Mine is TREYOR See a Dream Walking—do you know it?"

"No, I never heard it."

"Well, you SHOWALTER listen to it some time, old me do I LUCAS TERRYBle as I sound?" asked one here curiously.

"Not by a STEARNS sight!" cried his friend, SAINT CYRIL. "AXLINE like a gentleman," commented one here. "Maybe I SCHULTEN have mentioned it. Say, it looks LLOYD rain, doesn't it—looks LOCKWOOD got wet. Have you got a newspaper? LIM-ERICK the weather re-PORTER something, I think we're going to have a NORRIS wind soon."

"SHORI WINANT! But I WAR-REN you, I'll break every BOWEN in your body if you DRECKER get away with this paper."

"Oh, don't BOTHER yourself. I DEMING I want to keep it, I just want to read it."

"All right," said the stranger, "Say no MOORE about it, but I think you're PLUMS crazy. I want to see your wife. I MOSTELLER about this. Oh LORD!" he cried suddenly, ALLEN, a fluster, "I just happened to REMEMBER I'm late for an appointment. How did I forget? I will have in LEE you now. I ought to HALFPENNY of time, but it's late. Do you mind if I go?"

"NEY," assured one here, "You MAXWELL go if you have to. TURNES round and beat it, and don't take any venison NICHOLS. It's time I was hitting the hay myself."

He went to the ant hill, only got lots of kill and a few bites but not being discouraged any which is a good trait he set about cutting out static his battle cry was no mountains no valleys and no empires but what would longfellow have done without a snail's pace live snail, in which you can easily recognize the political cry of a few years ago and this is where it originated but we're not getting on with this thing very fast.

members of his classes for a long time. When interviewed they showed little surprise and only hoped that "he'd get what was coming to him."

Benjamin Pawcett, a former student, said, "I knew he wasn't a professor as soon as I heard him lecture, but it was easy sleeping in his class, so I never said anything." Said Jack Klosterman, another member of his classes: "I began suspecting him when I saw him taking pieces of paper out of the wastebasket when no one was looking, as well as chewing the rubber on old pencils."

A search of Ponce's personal papers showed many pages filled with diagrams labeled "over production," "under purchasing power," "supply and demand." At first the authorities were misled by these findings, but subsequent investigations have proven the drawings to be plans of San Quentin prison and the Atlanta State penitentiary, where the Elpper spent a good many years. Ponce refused to say in reporters this morning, but he'd heard from his "mothpoo," "I'll be out here in no time," was all he would say. "They ain't got outta' on me, see." He will probably get from ten to fifteen years, it is hoped.

Large Shots Express Opinions of New Code

Following the announcement of the new Code of Co-educational Conduct, numerous so-called and self appointed big shots on the Rawlins campus were approached and asked to give their opinions on the new plan. On the hole, the student body seemed most enthusiastic, but there was a general reaction when it was announced that there would be no voting or balloting attached to the adoption of the system.

M. J. "Mildew" Davis: "Good. I'll say it's good. It ought to be. I made it up."

Thomas "Papey" Johnson: "This is the first code I've had all year. Maybe it's my last fever."

Nancy Cushman, the Kappa Menace: "It is a stench in the nostrils of student government—unless I get my cut."

Twilch Kulus, the Dayton Strong Boy: "It's a good code. It matched my grey pants. I like it." Dorothy Smith, the Whirlwind Accompanist: "It don't mean a thing to me, it ain't got no swing."

Duke Wellington, alleged Dean of Women: "I ain't talking."

Katrina Knowlton, P. P. P.: "It's about time we girls got a break. This overtime business is no joke, and with twelve s'lock Senior permission!"

Len Roth, athletic P.M. Beta Kappa candidate: "We haven't had any wages in months. McDougall's been getting too big a rake off. It's about time we cleaned up dirty politics."

Ruth Dawson, the second Ethel Barrymore: "What, no voting?!! What the—"

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

Extreme Existing Exigencies Exceptionally Expertly Exploded

By WANDA LIL LUVV

Dear Miss Love,
I don't know what to do, I'm sure I and my boy friend have got us into all the time and I am eighteen, blond, and falls for I'm pretty and I'm popular. Yesterday he broke a date with me and I saw him out with a red head. What is the matter with me?

Frisky Windup.

Dear Frisky Windup,
A half a lemon squeezed in a glass of non-alcoholic beverages is very good for indigestion. Lavender and red-dish blue should be becoming shades and you do not weigh too much for your height. Tell your boy friend you won't see him till he gives up that red head. Maybe that will listen a lesson.

WANDA LIL LUVV.

—Sole of You—

Dear Miss Love,
I'm in a pickle, will remember help me out? Well, let's see. That's the sort of cut-up I am. What do you think of girls who get? I love my sweetheart and we are to be married next month but last night in the movie I got a shock. There she was with my roommate right in front of me and when the lights went down I saw her kiss him, not to mention holding his hand.

I would of sworn him one but I had my arm around Helen. I forgot to mention that I had a date with my girl's roommate. What do you advise?

Booby Ink.

Dear Booby Ink,
My boy, you are in a real predicament. When gray hairs begin to appear so early in life it is indeed unfortunate, but bear up the best you can, and I'm sure you will be happy again soon.

Necks time you petter, arm around and see his sometime.

Remember, a word to advise is sufficient, and it isn't the water that counts, it's sufficient the water. Yours, WANDA LIL LUVV.

—Jewel of Me?—

Dear Miss Love,

I am eighty years old and have led a very useful life. My husband is seven years younger than I am and he is such a child he is beginning to bore me. He sings "You Nasty Man" from morning to night until I nearly go bald. What's agin to do? Help me, for cryin' out loud.

Yes, Eighty Cuts.

Dear Eighty Cuts,
Grease spots may be removed with a strong solution of cyanide, but don't say I told you. You might have to sing yourself. Let me know how it all comes out, dear.

WANDA LIL LUVV.

—Hot Zigs—

Dear Miss Love,

My big moment and I have had a parting of the ways. We have been together constantly for the last five months, and he could take all I had to offer and then some. Please, Dear Miss Love, tell me if he will come back.

Dotwha.

Dear Dotwha,
Take my word for it, and how. What do you care anyway? It's like hunger, you never get rid of it, and you never really want to.

WANDA LIL LUVV.

—Toss Well—

Dear Miss Love,

I was out with a boy whom I thought was respectable the other evening, and on the way home he tried to kiss me. I never was so shocked in my life. But secretly I am ready in love with him. What shall I do?

Betty Watty.

Dear Betty Watty,
Try the kiss. It won't hurt a bit, and it will do him so much good.

WANDA LIL LUVV.

—Sore You—

Dear Wanda Lil Luvv,
Everybody at home thinks I am a very nice boy. Mother is always telling me the nice things the neighbors say. My grades in school have always been the best. Why, then, don't I attract the women? The last time I spent an evening with a girl I prepared a very interesting talk on Sappho and she SPUR—d fell asleep before it was half over. What next?

Steril.

Dear Steril,
You chose the wrong subject. Next time try Comparative Anatomy and see where it gets you.

WANDA LIL.

—Neff Snuff—

Dear Miss Love,

I have been brought up with the utmost care (Mother has said so many times). I went to the very select schools and was very careful about my companions. But since coming to college I have been hearing some very peculiar terms. Among them are Sex, and others. Please, Dear Miss Love, what does all this mean?

Harles.

Dear Harles,
It would take too much time in answer that here. However, ask your mother to tell you all about the birds and the bees and even the cute little rabbits. Ain't nature grand?

WANDA.

—AlettiSo—

Dear Miss Love,

I am greatly puzzled. I have been going around with a certain young man for three weeks now and he has always kept everything on a very platonic plane. I don't like to brag, but I am considered by most of my friends to be quite well. Hot Cha. What can I do to bring this man around?

Polly.

Dear Polly,
Well, you know, there's always the last resort. Don't be so.

Lots of people write stories extolling the glories of sex, of love and of sin, but the weirdest tale came through the mail today that was ever sent in.

Little Nell at her worst was a gal who disbursed gladness and goodness and joy compared with the twist whose life in the gist of this most unapproachable story.

Six paragraphs through runs the tale of the otter who sired this adorable heroine with a wench for the wench who "gave her birth on a h. Not a cent was on hand for the buryin'.

Develops a wall for the unwanted frail punctuated with beatings from father. Do these old eyes deceive? Shall we really believe that to live in a mansion she'd rather?

Save enough, as she grows, blossoms forth like a rose, comes a Prince in disguise to her gutter. And now comes the rub. This gal like a dub forsakes him, runs off with another.

Fate six or eight years in which it appears the man of her choice is a villain. At length the decision—her life needs revision. She'll go back to her Prince if he's willing.

WENT PFFFTTT

Kleptomaniac

By I. M. GAGA

On an average of once each year—would that it were oftener—the regular perpetrator of this crime to modern literature has a complete nervous breakdown, a total collapse of all mental and moral powers—a condition, it has long been suspected, under which he labors constantly.

So that as it may, while the erstwhile driver Davis is safely tucked away in a nice comfy straight jacket somewhere, we have taken it upon ourselves to fill his boots—or his column. And as a true friend, we feel it our duty to give you the low-down (and when we give you the low-down, there ain't nothing much lower!) on Winchell, Jr. himself.

Davis was born in New York. Why? Probably because he wanted to be near his mother! Anyhow, he was handicapped from the very beginning, because he was born so young. He came to college about nine years ago and fell in love with a beautiful Co-ed, Class of '09. She was a good little girl as far as good little girls go, and as far as good little girls go, she went. Thus disillusioned so early in life, he rapidly went to the dogs, going from bad to worse, from butterflick at Charlie's to casperella floats in the back room at the Colonial, until he finally became a columnist. His stale jokes and pre-war wise cracks made a great hit with the student body, most of whom had forgotten their long ago. His editorial policy is "Half the campus doesn't know how the other half lives—but it has its amputees. You can't believe everything you hear, but you can at least repeat it." All in all, he may be classified simply as "just a bit of dandruff trying to get a head!"

Now to more serious output. Here's the scene of the crime—said meanness, too. Fleet Popoos, who lives over in Chase Hall with a lot of snakes, came into the library the other morning in a gruff mood. "What will you have," asks the waiter, spilling a glass of orange juice down the side of his neck. "Pancakes or hot cereal?" "Neither," snaps the hot viper from Wexiva. "Just bring me two rotten eggs and a piece of burnt toast. I got a tape worm and that's good enough for him." Ain't that simple?"

It is rumored that this hum Bam-lapper who just arrived on campus to haunt us, is really a Pinkerton man in disguise, and in on the trail of the St. Andy's pangs, the annual college joke. Bam-lapper, they say, used to be deaf and dumb but he regained his hearing a few years ago, and so was able to enroll at school this term.

And while we're on unpleasant subjects, there are a few people who we'd like to see done away with. We nominate for Expulsion: Tommy Johnson: Because he is hounding, he spatters, and doesn't own a blazer or emblem.

Nancy Cushman: Because she's been in every student production on the campus since we can remember, and because she calls herself "Naw-naw," and is president of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Alvin Batten and Juanita Lichtenstein: Because neither of them has ever come to Beauty in time for the beginning of a meal since school opened last Fall.

Stu Eakin: Because he can look as if he was working harder and actually does less than any two people on campus.

Teddy Ehrlich: Because he's a good actor—and he knows it.

Eather Earle: Just on general principles.

Mary Ricker: Because she's wasting her time here, when she can make good money as a professional poker player.

Jan Parker: Because, after a

Temperance Rules Lifted, Bottoms Up Returns

With the removal of all temperance regulations at an early hour today, the campus went on a spree and revived the good and ancient cry which ran around like wildfire, "Bottoms Up," was the yell, and above is shown the first student to take advantage of the unlimited privileges.

BOUND FOR THE RED

by DAB

While perusing among a few first editions, I chanced upon a certain book written a while back by a foreigner named Boocsein. For want of a better name I believe he called it The Decameron, and the result is no more amazing than the name.

What he does is take a bit of many old stories and sort of cram them together to one volume as that people who have read these old whizzes won't have to read them again, and those that haven't can skip the whole bunch at one jump. It would take a foreigner to think that anything so obvious could contain the least bit of humor.

Today is the day of the day of the veiled hint, the subtle suggestion. To appreciate this conglomeration of many jokes and broad stories one would have to have the imagination of a fish (I don't know what kind of an imagination a fish has but it sounds like stuff). Enough of this twiddle and twiddle about nothing, etc. We don't advocate wasting your valuable time on this bull-bull even if it isn't valuable. As we always say, Experience is Worth Two in the Book.

Here is another one on a mass of poetry called the Rubolyst and written by a Greek or Persian or something named Omar Khayyam. It is whimsical about that he started Omar the Hill to the moon, but there is nothing definite. However, he was heard to pick out "Khayyam Just a Vagabond Lover" on a sifter, but then this is either here or there; what we are blowing about, or something, is this verse or adverse or adverse, well, just let it go.

His choice bit of poetry was, "This jug of mine, to loaf in bed, and flow." This is particularly ridiculed by last-faded college inmates, or what have you. Read it and weep. Particularly advised for insomnia and disappointed lovers. Take a large portion just before retiring with a glass of hot milk.

Another choice bit of literature is a little number entitled "Prohibiting Poverty," by our own Preston Mann Martin. This thing is stuffed from cover to cover with a lot of stuff. All about a just too ducky plan of working a couple of years on the fall of the land and then living on it (the fat of the land).

The old and is quite hepped up about it and can't see for the world why the rest of us aren't. However, it's swell if you want a good belly laugh, along with a cute little fairy story to put the children to bed with. If you haven't any children put yourself to bed. See if we care. As we always say, there's nothing like a little scotch in a highball. But that is something else again. And that brings up the old question, To bed or not to bed. Ah, Well, we are getting sort of tired of this sort of drivel, and Nothing ever happens here—Don't think we get bad for this.

And now we launch up against a little local talent. Our own little Gilly, with his just too too lovely brainstrom, "Look in the Lightening." Mr. Maxwell flits blither and you blither about this monstrosity peeping up all the sewing circles and Women's Clubs with his choice remarks and willy-nilly side glances. Tough luck, Gile, he's a man's man. Although the books don't seem to be in such demand in these parts, out in Iowa, they outmarke the Sears-Robuck catalogues two to one. We all wish the dear boy lots of success but sincerely hope that in the future he writes nursery rhymes and other economic cluck with clear weather in the office we expect cold rains any day now.

George Washington Chops Down Tree

A Radio Program that met with hearty approval to all listeners was broadcast last Friday from a local station. As the first number, Ted Ehrlich did not sing "Swing Low Sweet Chariot" in response to many requests.

There was a lapse of five minutes and then by popular acclaim Dorothy Parmlay did not read selected poems from her own works. Following this choice bit, the program closed with Dick Shattuck not delivering his great theme on "Sodaine Citizens" to an admiring audience. Also, in answer to thousands of letters, the frog-like voice of the weekly announcer was conspicuous by its absence.

An ignorant is a fellow who doesn't know the meaning of a word you heard yesterday.

STUDENT OPINION

Editor, The Etain Shredlu,
Winter Park, Florida

Dear Editor,

I have enjoyed life at Rollins so much that I am writing to tell you all about it. You see it is a Happy Place. Every evening there is a dance or something to go to and we have such nice teachers and classes aren't a bit hard, really.

I pay $1850 per year and would gladly pay $1575 if the administration asked me to. I like Rollins just that much. Every time I go home people say, "So you go to Rollins?" and I say "Yes," then

Infirmity Sprouts New Life As The Neighborhood Wails

Raucous noises from the Infirmary the other morning—well about 3 a. m. served to disclose a pathetic state of affairs.

Neighbors were certain that someone was having kittens from the racket that was going on, and an investigation was immediately put under way. As none of the Student Association Officers could be located at that early hour of the evening, a volunteer posse composed of Ben Fawcett, Bob Wise, Allen Spitzer, chaperoned by Steadyarm Steadard, barged in on the quivering house of horrors subsistent expecting to find they knew not what.

In the operating room, which is—well, which is the operating room—was, well, if we must admit it, a KAT, and the poor dear was having a few KITTENS, what with spare time on her paws and whatnot and being bored with things in general.

Now, we're not kitten!

Let Burglar—I need glasses. No. 2—What makes you think so?

Le Premier—Well, I was twirling the knobs of a safe and a dance orchestra began to play.

CRAZE for MILK Hits Town

Customers at a local restaurant enjoying milk and stuff like anything. Unfortunately the light was bad and colors did not photograph in their proper shades HONEST!

Chick Prentice—Yes, it's a matter of life and death.

UH—Hello—So your brother is in the realer business?

Camp—Yes, his fix is his fortune.

HUH—Jane—I love the way you glare at me, you cave man.

Johnny—Yes, it sure is love at first sight.

OUCH—Chubby—What's the difference between a cutie and an old maid?

Dad—A cutie goes out with the Johnnies and an old maid sits home with the willies.

—2 OUCHES—Dr. Grever—I have just this moment returned from big game hunting in Africa.

Mr. Spout Well, well, any good.

TRICKY TRAIPSING ON BASE BRINGS GARY GUP, SAUCER

The Gary Intramural Trophy will take a short spin around the lake come next Mickleberry Day by virtue of A Hey-Heh victory in the diamond-ball series.

This victory clinches the Sex Club's chance of losing the cup and is causing some consternation at the Hey-Heh House as to what to do with the thing.

Offers to swap for something more complimentary to the rest of the decorative scheme are being considered by the Hey-Heh house committee. The Gary Cup, for those who have never seen it, is a rather brass affair besides which the spiken in Professor Wattle's room is a thing of beauty. It has nice handles which facilitate passing at about as a ballot box or snootiness beverage rug.

The outstanding performance of the season was turned in by Baby-Face Doil, who succeeded in retaining the same gold of nail polish for the entire 15 innings. He wore a pale green athletic jerkin, the aroma of which incapacitated everyone within a range of 15 yards. This almost proved fatal when Whaler Whalin' came in too close on an attempted double play and went into a catatonic slumber for two innings.

Refreshments were served in the fifth frame while Hines re-explained the fundamentals to Reggie Clue. Ray Miller poured and Ma-line wiped.

It was definitely determined that the Hey-Heh constituency has more and longer horns on their cars than any group of similar size in Central Florida. The Sex Club had ordered a muscle for Jimmiboy Rowdy-Gowdy, but it didn't arrive by game time and the act proceeded in the face of all vicissitudes of mind and Jimmy Gowdy.

In the last inning of the series, Whalen was safe on an error at first, Hines' eight falling for a second or a third, and was knocked in by a line drive to short center field by Schrage; then the tired, happy students strolled arm in arm, as is their customary wont, back to their respective fratricide houses. Sentences of college ditties floated on the lazy air as the last rays of Old Sol filtered through the trees and made the old Chapel Tower seem to indicate a spirit of love that found its counterpart in the heart of each student of Hades as he realized that the year was really over and it hadn't been just a dream after all.

Who knows what went through their minds? For youth anyhow is a spirit which cannot be put in words. Goodnight with love in any eyes.

Tars Shaping Up in Pre-Season Workout at Daytona

Ancient Alumni Go For Each Other In A Big Hotcha Way

Alumni and friends will be happy to learn of the engagement of Herman Hipsomatcher, and Merle Mugwump of the class of '84. They had always been the best of friends, so one ever suspected that they were that-a-way about each other. When interviewed on the subject Myrtle gave the following testimonial.

"We were a settin' on our front piazza a-talkin' about next week's celery crop when Herman sort of waggled his beard playful like, spit out his false teeth and murmured 'Merl, it's got me.' I saw he was artin' kind a queer, as I says 'What is it your indignation agin?' 'None' says he, 'passion.' And then and there he popped the question."

If the dear couple doesn't die before next Saturday of old age, all those interested are invited to the wedding.

Pipe-eye Hop Is Hop Stuff

Everything was just too swell at the P-I-P dance held the other night at the So-Dead Crogue club.

After about the fifth swing about the barn floor it was discovered that 'most everyone had gone out for the well known breath of air. But this couldn't last forever, and at about the tenth canto about everyone was back in time to lift their heel to the highland fling.

Things got to a pretty state towards the end when a certain young man of notoriety tried to go to sleep in the gunch bowl. A slight commotion was aroused when a well known campus orator tried to deliver the famous An-ony funeral oration hanging by his heels from the chandelier. It is suspected that he might have been tripping a bit but nothing definite was proven.

Decorations were the loveliest things you ever saw, with ribbons and stuff hanging from the ceiling, and lovely big balloons fastened to the wall. A lucky time was had by all except the chaperones, who fell asleep during the intermission and were completely forgotten and had to walk home in the wee small hours.

THERE'S NO DOUBT ABOUT IT—SOME- BODY ALWAYS WINS

Which Only Goes to Show What Can Be Done When Something Can Be Done.

Ripping through all opposition like a steamroller, the laundry men have won the laundry men's championship.

For instance, in the tussling encounter there wasn't a bit of gain-coming the fact that the head boys knew their stuff, nor could they be denied in the billiard battles.

Jawed Darle, a ringleader of mean ability, slung his mallet into the spring sunlight during the emerald-hall matches and tossed a good many of the opposing fishermen for a row of nippers, while Courtious Captain, his favorite co-stares, done likewise with Darle's teamsters, throwing a good many engineers for the coast of tennis.

At this point, or perist, your co-dependence is reminded of the taunting history of the present season, and season how this is a summary of the whole darn thing, off we go. A high spot was reached in the diving and swimming meet as Johnny Jiltreys stabled his toe on the tower and splashed to victory in the unintentional diving event, and Bud Coleman discovered his mother's knitting needle in the posterior region of his trunk just in time to make use of its power and tickle his competitors into discouragement.

A bunch of the lady was Caten for a ride in that good golf fricas which was a free-for-allbody in the parkin' place I'm lookin' at.

Incubate—Believe it or not, off-fisher, I'm lookin' for a parkin' place.

Officer—But you haven't got an automobile.

Incubate—Oh, yeah I have. I'm lookin' for a parkin' place I'm lookin' at.
