THE JUNIOR CLASS
OF
JOHN B. STETSON UNIVERSITY
VOLUME TEN

Fellow students, kind reader—fair or otherwise—in publishing this year-book of John B. Stetson University for 1917, we, the Junior Class and Annual Board, wish to present to you a college annual that will help to lighten your moments of care and freshen your memories of school days.

We have found pleasure in our task—though there are rough places on every road worthy of travel—and wish to thank all who have made the publication of this Oshihiyi possible.

THE ANNUAL BOARD.

ELIZABETH HALL

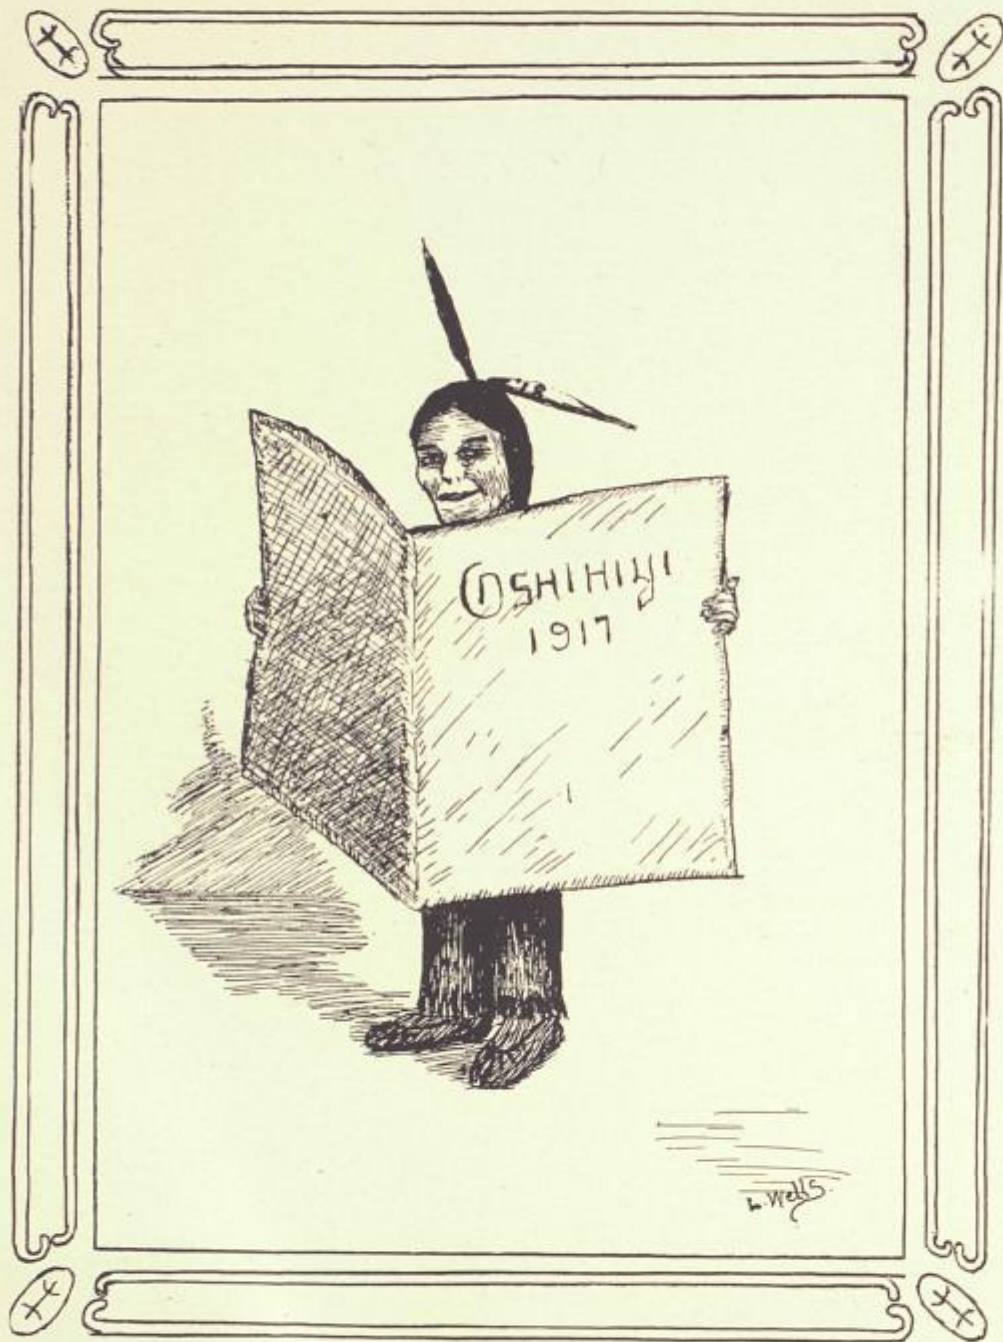

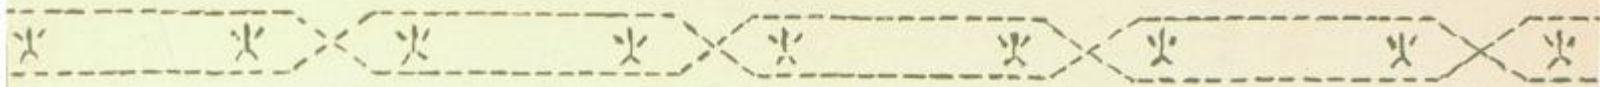

COUNTESS EULALIA

We dedicate this year-book of John B. Stetson University, the 1917 Oshihiyi, to the Countess Eulalia, who has ever been a constant, liberal friend to the University.

ROSE NOWELL, COLERAIN, N. C.

Candidate for Master of Arts.

Pi Beta Phi.—One year at Stetson, Five years at Chowan College.

Senior Critic of Ensophian Literary Society, '17; Green Room Club Play, '17; Y. W. C. A.

Rose,—how your name makes us think of some beautiful garden, where grows a flower that is pure and sincere and true. How appropriate it is! We are proud of you, who,—so young—is worthy of a Master's Degree from Stetson, having received your A. B. from Chowan College in 1916. Surely, there is much knowledge stored up, which, no doubt, you will in future impart and expound to some ignorant ones, who are pursuing what you have already gained. Be kind to them, Rose, and treat them as you were treated. Never lose your temper!

RUBERT JAMES LONGSTREET

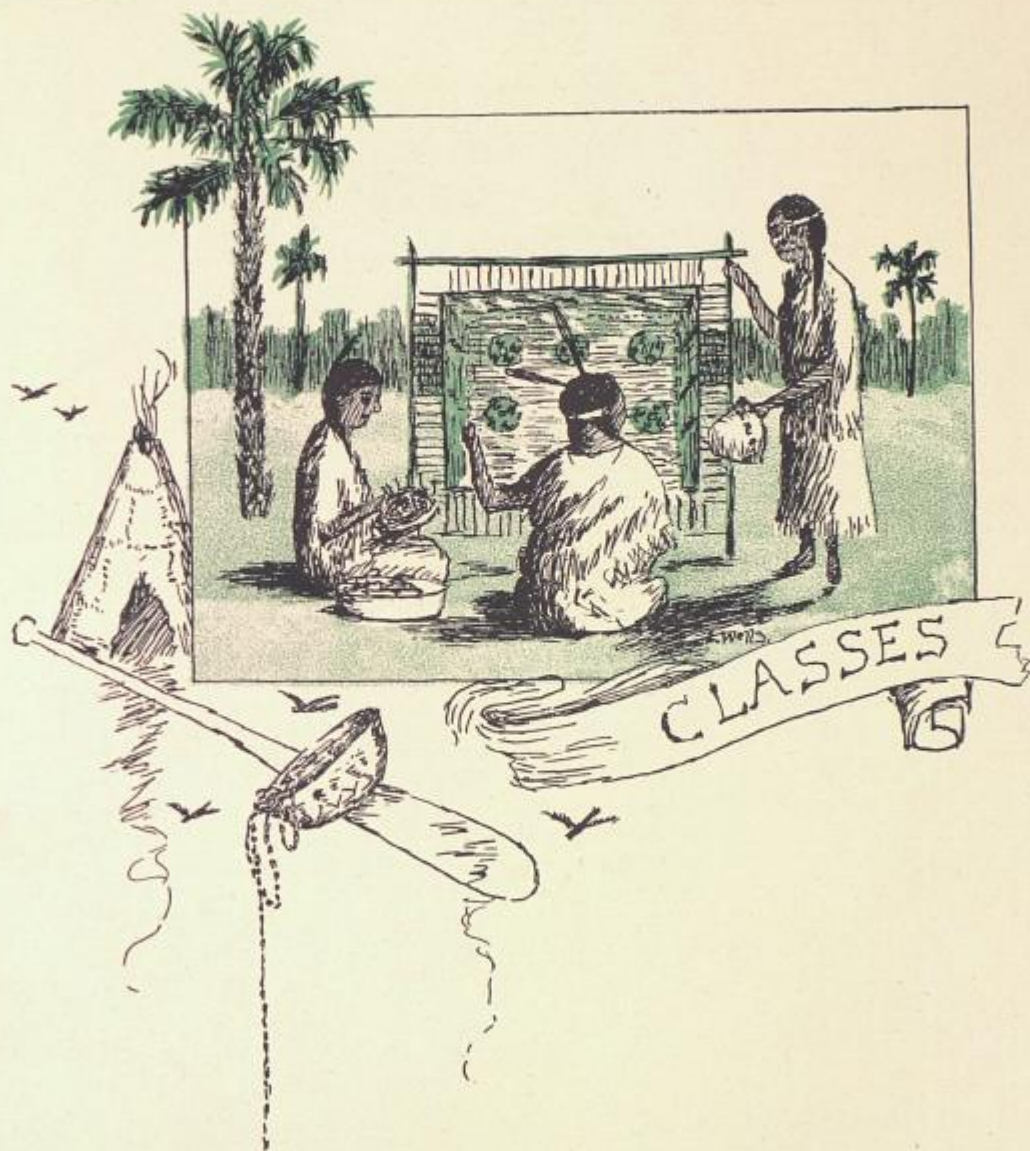

Candidate for Degree of Master of Science.

Mr. Longstreet has passed nine years of his life on Stetson's Campus and we will surely miss his kindly, dignified, scholarly presence in the years to come.

"General" has won the friendship—even love in one instance—of all who know him. His words of wisdom have inspired many a younger student on to the studious path.

Brief summary of "Rube," or "Longy":—Short of stature, deep of thought, long of words, true of heart, dignified of mein, active of body, keen of mind, decided of will, thoughtful of others, busy always, commanding in tone.

Mr. Longstreet is an active participant in most of Stetson's student activities, and in addition assists at the M. E. Church in absence of the pastor—pastor's assistant.

Farewell to Seniors

Farewell Seniors, farewell. You have earned a rest from your years of patient toil and plodding. You've trod the paths of language, science, math., art, law and philosophy and must know about all there is to learn.

We'll miss you, one and all. When out on the battlefields of life, fight courageously for the sake of Alma Mater and for the inspiring of those you leave behind, who are climbing the ladder to graduation.

In our daily associations with you Seniors we have found pleasure and it is with a sense of sadness that we bid you each and all farewell, with best wishes for success.

A Short Biography of the Junior Class

The class of '18 of the College of Liberal Arts is worthy of mention, and their clean record bespeaks for them praise—even though that laudation be from one of their number.

Let us begin with the triumphal Freshman year. Under our leader, Rat Robinson, we signally defeated the Sophs (now our worthy Seniors) in the battle for our Freshman Banner. In baseball we won two out of three games and had R. Donald (playing third) not become prematurely intoxicated with the anticipated joys of victory, we would have won the third game.

Our Freshman party, held in the "drawing rooms" of Chaudoin, was a splendid affair, with the choicest of amusements, music and refreshments.

In the Fall of 1915 we returned to Stetson as Sophomores. A. Joseph Parkhurst was elected president with impressive ceremonies. Though we were few in number, yet our spirit was indomitable. In the wee small hours of a Winter morn the verdant Freshlings hitched their banner ('19) to the tower of Elizabeth hall, near the melodious bells. Here they stupidly awaited our well planned attack, which, coming in a flank movement beautifully executed, deprived them of their burlap flag.

This increased our banner collection, which will be kept for "Auld Lang Syne's" sake.

Our baseball record was not as good as that of the previous year. But our class party held in Chaudoin was an occasion long to be remembered!

We came back in the autumnal season of 1916 with intent of laying aside childish class rivalry and substituting for it rigorous study in the realms of philosophy, history, economics and the higher branches of art and science in general.

Amram Jehu Parkhurst was re-elected president with impressive ceremonies. From the Junior class the Annual Board was selected; the board's trials and tribulations have been plentiful, and several of them are on the verge of nervous prostration, due to the "tooth-pulling" process of extracting funds from a "tight-wad" student body.

The class dinner was enjoyed at the home of President Parkhurst, and truly it was enjoyed! It was a — — — course dinner, and afterwards we repaired to the basket ball game.

Plans are on foot for a winning baseball team.

VIEW OF CHAPEL

Our Junior Law Class

Having typed the above title with great alacrity, I pause to wait for Inspiration. The antiquated method of waiting for Inspiration was to chew the top end of one's penholder; but the modern and efficient writer rattles the carriage of his machine. Personally, I think that's the better method anyway, because Inspiration is more apt to be attracted by a noise than by the silent and pensive chewing of a pen—and it's safer, too; for, if perchance, a chap should put the other end of the penholder in his mouth, he will probably express his opinion about the taste of ink in language not fit for a lady's ears. (I suppose Inspiration is a lady—you never know whether to offer such divinities a cigar or a box of candy.)

But she hasn't come yet; and so I will just begin with the rather startling announcement that this Junior Law Class of the season 1916-17 is the best law class this University has ever had. Now, please do not refer to the annuals (here at Stetson they call them by the Indian name of Osh-ihiyi) of 1916, 1915, 1914, ad. lib., because you will find the same statement made in all of them; and I don't want to get into an argument with you. But I do know that this can not be disputed: It is the largest Junior Law Class Stetson ever had, with a membership of thirty men. They are from all over the United States, they range from five feet three to six feet two,—but they are all lawyers. Of course, we have the usual percentage of those who never agree with any proposition, yet, that is only another proof that they are lawyers. If we always agreed, how could we manage to keep our courts so wonderfully busy? It is a notorious fact that lawyers are conspicuous in public affairs; and we can see the beginning of such public careers in the fact that our law men are conspicuous in all college activities, and they distinguish themselves in whatever they undertake. Why, it was even found that the present session of the Legislature could not be held without the assistance of one of our worthy members!

I regret to say that in the moot court proceedings we were represented in rather ignominious fashion. Two of our members were convicted of murder, one of larceny and one for gross negligence. But let's cheer up; next year we will sit in judgment over the rats. We also did jury duty; and here again we made proof that we are full-blooded Americans: The jury agreed in five minutes that the accused was guilty, but they wrangled for half an hour as to who should be foreman! And, I suppose, they never would have agreed on that point if it hadn't been for the supper bell!

I would love to tell some real secrets about us, but the editor has restricted me to one page, and if I exceed the speed limit, this precious manuscript will go into the waste basket. You know it's the biggest recreation an editor can think of, to throw children of other people's brains into the ever open fangs of the waste paper basket.

It is my firm conviction that we will surpass even ourselves as Seniors—should you entertain any doubts, ask our beloved Dean, to whom alone is due thanks for our success because of his never failing patience and enthusiasm.

LL.B.'s to Be

Have you seen the learned Juniors
Of the Law Department's band?
Have you heard them spreading knowledge
Of the law throughout the land?

Have you heard some of their sayings
Or their questions day by day?
How you may embalm a turnip,
How a cow absconds away.

They've learned a marriage promise
Is a contract in the law;
That you may collect a damage
When a man by invitation
Strikes you hard upon the jaw.

That man has melancholia
When he's worried in his dome,
That you must know the page and number,
Where law rules have their home.

When the Dean asks a question,
With the cutest little look
They just twist around and answer,
"Dean, that wasn't in my book."

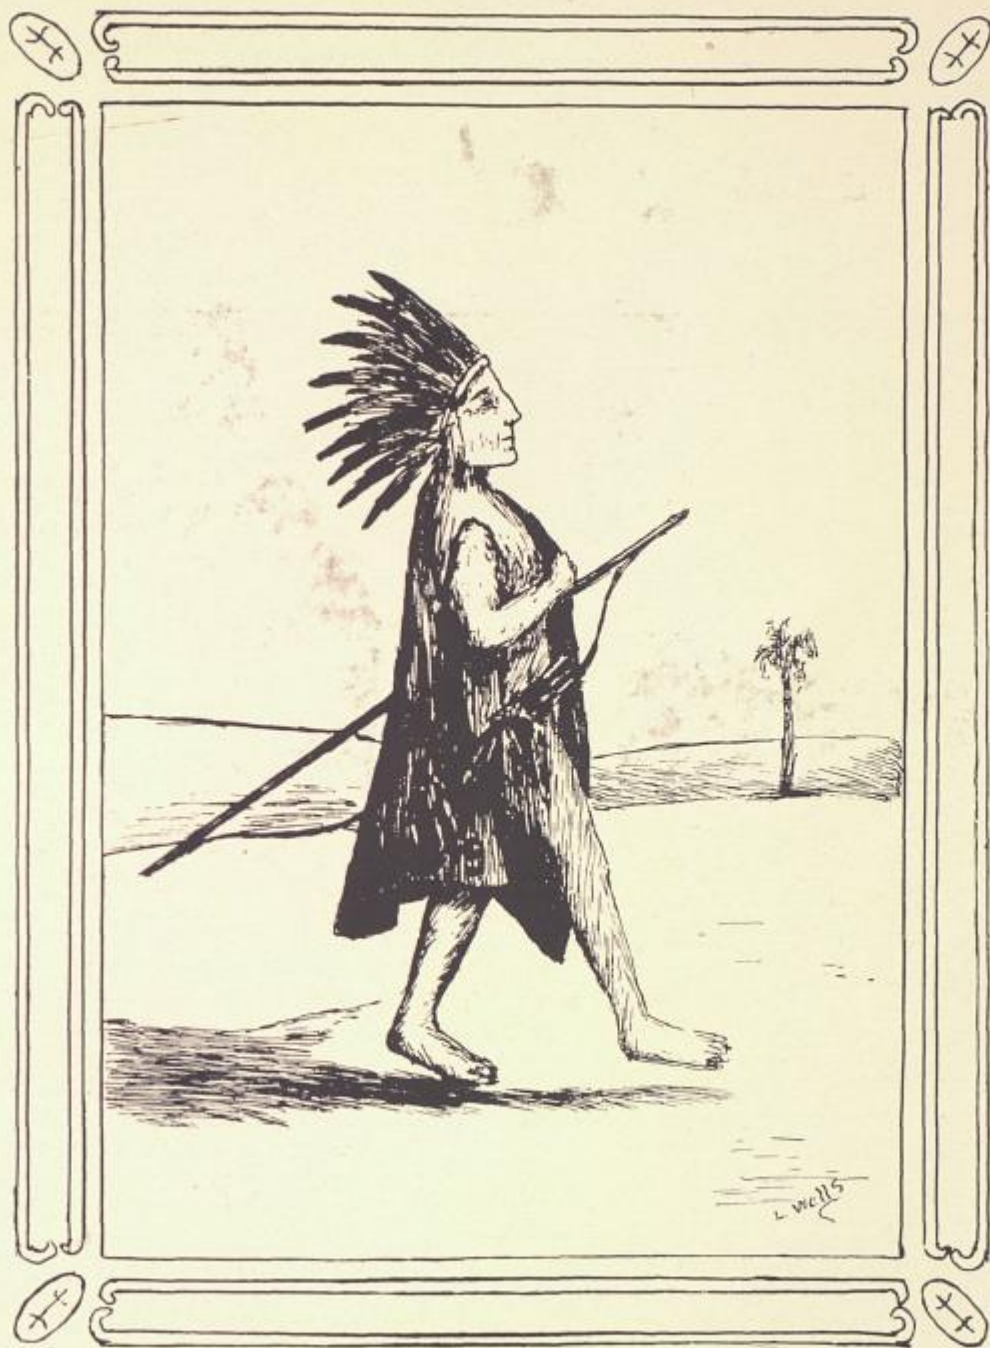

They ask if fifteen years
Will straighten out a line
That was crooked when it started
And stay crooked all the time.

They give dissenting opinions
And arguments galore
Against recorded cases
That were tried in days of yore.

Oh if I only had the knowledge
That they carry in their beans,
Among the greatest statesmen
Is the place I would be seen.

But with all this world of knowledge
That you hold beneath your hat,
The Seniors' heads have swollen
Till they need one twice the size of that.

So we leave you now, Juniors,
In your troubles and your woes,
And if you'd reach your destination
Keep a scratching with your fingers and a diggin' with your toes.

The class of 1920 is a Blue-Ribbon Class in every way. In the first place, it is by far the largest class that has ever been in the University; more than one hundred boys and girls from states in the North, South, East and West are enrolled in this class. Early in the year the Freshmen showed their class spirit by giving a wonderful party in Chaudoin parlors; all attended, and original class songs and yells were given as were the rousing and inspiring songs of our Alma Mater. This spirit increased throughout the Fall term, and early in the Winter term culminated in an exciting "banner fight" between the Sophs and Freshies, which resulted in a thrilling victory for the Freshies. It is not only here that the Freshmen have shown their ability; in class-work, in athletics, and in all other departments of the University with which they are connected, they have won honors; and we all predict great things for the members of this class of 1920.

The 41st Chapter of the Acts of the Apostles of Stetson

Now it came to pass that in a certain year there dwelt two tribes of the kingdom of Stetson, which is some distance removed from Samaria. These tribes were called the Sophites and the Freshmanites, and of all the tribes that dwelt in that region these two were the fiercest and most warlike. The king of the Sophites was Hon, son of Bouvardius, who was the grandson of Malakiah the prophet, and there was none in that land who was so fleet of limb as he. It was his custom to lead his own army into battle. Now the king of the Freshmanites was Earöll, son of Hector, of the family of Roebuck, and he was wondrous wise and well instructed in the laws of the land; for he saith unto one, "Climb this pole," and unto another, "Go get some rope," and behold it is even so.

And it came to pass that early in the morning before the sun was yet risen, the Freshmanites arose and went forth upon the plains of Campus and there upon the highest pole in all that region hoisted their banner in defiance to all tribes. They then encamped about the pole in order that they might protect their banner from any wild marauding tribes that might attempt to seize it. However when the Sophites beheld the ensign of their neighbors waving in the air high from the earth they marveled, saying one to another, "What is this thing which these Freshmanites have done to defy us? Let us capture their banner." For they were exceeding angry. But some of the Sophites feared greatly, and their knees hit together rapidly and with great force because the Freshmanites were a great nation, and all of the men thereof were mighty. But Hon, the king of the Sophites, ordered all his warriors to put on their armor in order that they might go forth against the Freshmanites and conquer them and take their banner with other spoils of war. So when Hon descended from the Fortifications of the Frat-house, he and all the people of war with him, and all the mighty men of valor, he said, "Let us all rush together as one man that we may rend our enemies asunder, and put them to flight in confusion." And so they rushed across the plains of Campus in one body with great swiftness; and the forces of the Freshmanites met the forces of the Sophites with shock and confusion, and the earth trembled because of the impact of mighty bodies. Now it happened that because of the greater strength and cunning of their enemies, the Sophites were overcome and tied even hand and foot with rope, yea, even with much strong rope, so that they were very much humiliated in spirit. They were then taken to the stronghold of the Freshmanites and held as prisoners until they had fully repented of their rashness, and as a result, the Sophites were so humiliated that they decided to spend the day in fasting; and so that day they tasted neither milk nor honey, nor the flesh of any animal.

O, Wad Some Power

The average Freshman leaves home with an unfoundedly glorious notion of his own personal worth, achievements, and potentialities.

When he enters college there is no study too deep for him and he chafes under the unwisely prescribed course to which he is subjected. He would pursue philosophy, economics or astronomy, whereas the ignorant Dean has suggested grammar, elementary English, Latin or French, or perhaps penmanship or spelling.

In the class-room the Freshman glows with knowledge. The professors must be very careful lest they become subject to keen-edged Freshman criticism; for, if there be error in the truths they set forth, the erudite astute Freshman will soon find that error—whether it exists or not.

Furthermore, on the campus, in the dormitories—in short, anywhere, the upper-classman must be careful not to get in the path of the Freshman lest the upper-classman be trampled upon. Always give the right-of-way to the Freshman.

It is with profound respect that we listen to the learned words that fall from the Solomaic Freshie's lips. He discourses from experience coupled with intuitionl foresightedness and 'tis our duty to give diligent ear.

In regard to general conduct, of course the Freshman is beyond reproach, for why has he come to Stetson, if not for exemplariness? In order to attain perfection of etiquettical behavior, observe carefully the daily, hourly conduct of the Freshman. Seeing is believing!

If the upper-classman needs advice in time of trouble or despondency, repair to a Freshman's room, and there all advice conceivable may be obtained, and even gratuitously.

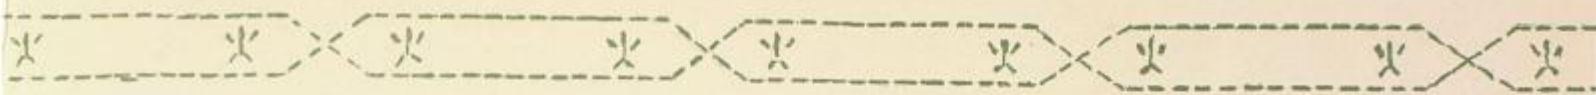

Finally, let us congratulate humanity on its possession of the Freshman. 'Twould be an ignorant, apologetical, tiresome, uncouth, unlettered, yea, even uncivilized world without him.

SECTION OF AUDITORIUM

The Music Department

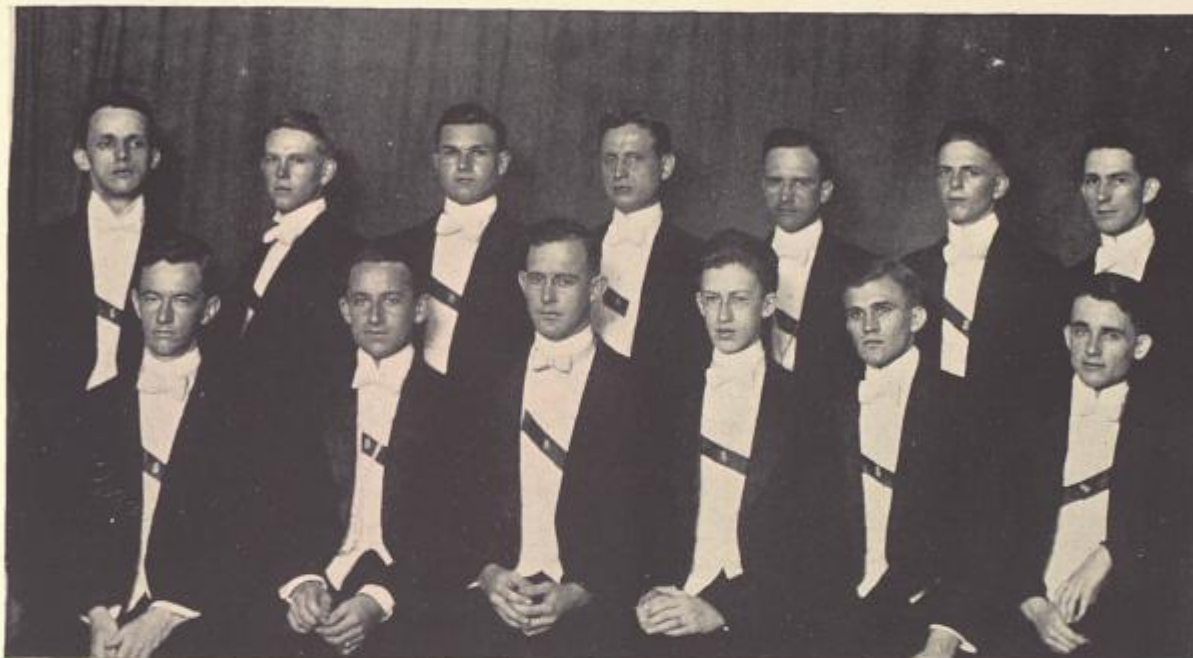

The School of Music has made much progress this year, and is proving that it has a great deal of talent among its students.

The Vesper Choir, under Miss Spofford's direction, has rendered anthems, cantatas, etc., at the Sunday afternoon Vesper services, and has been of great value on many occasions.

Miss Ford, Miss Baker and Mrs. Varn, instructors in piano, organ and violin, respectively, have made a great success of this department, and developed much innate ability in their students, who aspire to become professionals.

There have been several student recitals given during the year, under the direction of their instructors, on which occasions great improvement has been shown.

The Men's Glee Club, with Miss Spofford as director, gave a very interesting and clever concert in the University Auditorium. This club took several trips during the Winter term, and pleased many listeners by their entertaining concerts.

Outside of student and faculty leaders, the Y. M. C. A. was very fortunate during the year in having a large number of very influential and inspirational speakers; including business men, ministers, and several foreign missionaries.

This year the Florida Student Y. M. C. A. Conference, representing the colleges of the State, was held here at Stetson University. A number of the great Y. M. C. A. workers of the nation were in attendance at this conference; among them were such men as Dr. Weatherford, Dr. Brown and Dr. Hounsell. These men brought with them the inspiration and teaching of Christian life. With the inspiration that they have left with us, and realizing that the law of a worthy life is fundamentally the law of strife, and that it is only by painful effort, grim energy, and resolute courage guided by an Almighty Hand, that we move on to do better things; we hope to instill the principles of Christian life into the young men of John B. Stetson University.

Farewell, Farewell

Maid of Stetson, 'ere we part,
Hand, oh, hand me back my heart,
For, since you love me none,
Detain not—let me begone;
Why linger thusly here
When I should'st disappear?

By those eyes so blue,
By those lips so true,
By those hands so soft,
Deceived was I quite oft.
Why linger now we here,
When I should'st disappear?

Many's the hour we've wasted,
With love's cup yet untasted,
Many's the vain pleasure
Indulged without measure
That words can ne'er tell;
But hark! there's the bell.

Maid of Stetson, I am gone,
Think of me, when all alone,
Though another in my place
Carries in his watch thy face,
Can I cease to love thee? No,
Zoe mon sas agapo.

THE KENT CLUB OF JOHN B. STETSON UNIVERSITY is open to all students of the Law Department, and is well represented by both the Junior and Senior Law classes. To become eligible for membership it is only necessary to pay a fee of $1.00 and be passed upon by a vote of two-thirds of the members.

THE KENT CLUB furnishes excellent training for those wishing to take up law for a profession, as it offers every advantage in public speaking. Every member is given an opportunity to improve himself along these lines, both in declamation and debate.

THE CLUB has the "pep," the brains and the energy. Its motto is "Excelsior," and among its members are those who will some day be heard from.

For years the interested alumni of Stetson University have felt the need of an alumni publication. The year 1917 marks the first definite step in this direction. Early in February a letter was sent to every alumnus of Stetson University, whose address was available, asking them to send the Corresponding Secretary data concerning themselves, and about other Stetson alumni matriculates. The response has been gratifying. Not but that many who might and should have responded have failed to do so, but the responses have come from some of the alumni of the early days which show a fine interest in the welfare of Alma Mater.

One number of the Collegiate is to be devoted entirely to the alumni and their interests. Probably more actual up-to-date information about the alumni of Stetson University will be found in this issue of the Collegiate than has ever been brought together at one time. Another step is contemplated along this line. This is the publication of a University bulletin giving the names and addresses not only of the graduates but of the matriculates of the University since its founding. The first effort of this kind will be faulty, but if it has the support of the alumni and former students a second edition will contain practically every address correct.

There will be in place on the wall of the Auditorium by Commencement of this year a handsome marble tablet erected by the alumni of Stetson University in loving memory of John B. Stetson, the Founder of Stetson University. This represents the first concrete gift of the general Alumni Association to their Alma Mater.

The Stetson Alumni Association is on the onward march. Let every loyal Stetsonite join the forces and work as never before to make dear old Stetson bigger, stronger, and finer.

AND
OF THE
PANHELLENIC
ASSOCIATION
STETSON UNIVERSITY
1916-1917

Panhellenic is the Grant of the National Panhellenic Association.

ARTICLE IX.—AMENDMENT
The constitution may be amended by the Panhellenic Association.

BY-LAWS

Pledge Day shall be Wednesday, September 27th, 1916, at 2 o'clock, and a written answer shall be required immediately and without discussion of any kind with anyone.

2. Invitations to membership shall be written by a uniform, impersonal nature, following a form submitted by the local Panhellenic Association. They shall be given on Pledge Day, in the afternoon at 2 o'clock, and a written answer shall be required immediately and without discussion of any kind with anyone.

3. No girl who has broken her pledge to another for one calendar year shall be eligible for membership.

4. A pledge and all alternate rules as active members.

5. A letter containing a statement and necessary information concerning the University shall be given through the University at the time of registration in the fall. It shall be sent to the Grand President of the Panhellenic Association.

6. When the President of the P. A. Secretary-Treasurer shall take it.

7. There shall be a fee of $1.00 for initiation. Any member who fails to pay a subscription.

8. It shall be considered dishonorable or stigma to speak disparagingly of its members, to be in the presence of a member who is in the presence of a member.

9. There shall be no communication between midnight of the afternoon of October 25th, 1916, and the two fraternalities at four o'clock, October 26th, 1916.

10. Any chapter or member of a chapter breaking any of the rules set by the Panhellenic Association which she has promised to abide shall be reported to local Panhellenic and shall be fined the sum of $5.00.

RUSHING RULES.

1. The local Panhellenic of John B. Stetson University shall extend from the first week of the (or first day of school) through the evening of 1916; thereby embracing five weeks.

2. Two parties only shall be allowed each rushing season where rushing may be present. There shall be no rushing between September 27th, and the evening of October 25th, 1916. On these occasions only is a fraternity or a fraternality to be present. The limit of cash parties shall be placed at $10.00. This rule also includes the first week of school from September 27th, 1916, to October 25th, 1916, inclusive, shall be termed Y. N. C. A. week, during which the two fraternalities shall lay aside their traditions.

The Invasion of the North

In July of 1916 the first plans were begun for an out-of-state trip for the Men's Basket Ball Team. These plans were made at the suggestion of Coach Hollander and from that time the Manager was busy working for the realization of these plans. All during the fall term letters and telegrams were sent and received relative to this tour. Almost every team in Georgia and the Carolinas had been asked for dates and by the end of the Fall term, the schedule for this trip was complete with the exception of four games.

The season opened with four games at home during the first two weeks of January, 1917, and all these games resulted in victories for the Green and White. These were strenuous days for the Manager on account of the business connected with the home games and the final arrangements for the trip. However, on the 16th of January everything was in readiness for the order to start.

At 1:30 A. M. ten fellows as happy as any human being left DeLand on the first out-of-state trip that a Stetson Men's Basket Ball Team ever took. They were Wm. Hollander, Coach; R. D. Peterson, Manager; Curtis Gardiner, Rufus Miller, Dud Rutherford, Russell White, Lloyd Fenno, Eddie Gilliland, Glenn Bailey, Forsyth Caro. They were determined that every team they met should lose or know that they had met a good team.

We reached Savannah at 1:30 P. M. Most of the fellows took in the sights of the town during the afternoon.

The game here was fast and hard and Stetson was in the lead the greater part of the time but Savannah had a forward that made four field goals from the center of the floor; that, coupled with some decisions that were not just, took the game from Stetson. The ride of almost 300 miles without any time for rest also contributed to our loss. The men in charge of the game and our entertainment treated us very courteously.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 18, 1917.

We came very near missing our train this morning because we had not become accustomed to the change to Eastern time; Fenno and Peterson saved us from such a calamity. We left Savannah at 7:45 A. M. and reached Augusta, Ga., at 1 P. M., a ride of 145 miles. As soon as we landed we started for a restaurant where we dined at the expense of "Dutch." Jupiter Pluvius made conditions unpleasant for us from a sight-seeing point of view. The Y. M. C. A. Team at this place trimmed us unmercifully by the score of 48 to 19. The game was clean and fast.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 19, 1917.

We left Augusta at 10:30 and reached Spartanburg 4:30 P. M. This game gave Stetson her first victory on this trip but it was hard fought. At the end of the game the score was tied and at the end of the extra period the score was 33 to 29 in our favor. This victory gave the fellows more confidence and put them in better spirits. An alumnus of Stetson, Ruskin Roseborough, was present at this game and many of the girls of Converse College also cheered for Stetson.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 20, 1917.

We left Spartanburg, S. C., at 11 A. M., and reached Asheville at 3 P. M. The scenery in the mountains was enjoyed by all of us who live on the sand plains of Florida. We were placed at the Avonmore Hotel and as our stay in this city was to be for three days we proceeded to make ourselves at home. The game was called at 8 P. M., and again we were victorious by the score of 43 to 20; the game was scrappy but it did not take very long before it was evident who would win. Here, again, we met an old Stetson student, Frank Milam.

SUNDAY, JANUARY 21, 1917.

O blessed day of rest. Some of us attended church during the forenoon while the rest of the fellows either slept or wrote letters. There was one characteristic of this group of athletes; as soon as they had a spare moment they would proceed to take out their stationery and when in hotels, use hotel stationery, and write letters.

Here in Asheville Eddie Gilliland lost his heart and was envied by several of his team mates. During the afternoon, Lanky Miller, Fenno and the manager took a hike to the summit of Sunset Mountain; the weather was ideal for mountain climbing and both together created good appetites.

MONDAY, JANUARY 22, 1917.

This afternoon we played the Asheville High School Team and defeated them 23 to 17. This game was very rough. At night we went by auto over some beautiful mountain roads to the Asheville School for Boys and also defeated them 26 to 22. For a long time it seemed as we were going to be defeated but finally Stetson got the lead and held it. We enjoyed the stay in this city and made a clean sweep of the series of games played here.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 23, 1917.

We took an early start leaving Asheville at 5 A. M., bound for Charlotte, N. C., via Statesville. We passed over some beautiful mountain scenery when the sun was rising and frost was on the ground. This trip gave us the opportunity of seeing beautiful country. We reached Charlotte at 1 P. M., hungry and tired. The Y. M. C. A. defeated us 41 to 32; the long trip today had taken the pep out of the team.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 24, 1917.

We reached Davidson at 9:30 A. M., which is only 22 miles from Charlotte. The boys of the college here treated us very kindly and entertained us in the dormitories. Davidson College is not a Co-ed school. It had been raining heavily and this town was so muddy that it was necessary to get a shoe shine every time you looked out a window. This team was the first college team we met on this trip; they defeated us by the large score of 42 to 17. Russell White had his nose broken in this game.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 25, 1917.

Statesville is only 22 miles from Davidson. Today the sun shone brightly for the first time since we left DeLand. This place of about 5,000 inhabitants has an excellent basket ball club. Stetson started to score in the game tonight but before the game was over Statesville had trebled the score on us, making it 61 to 20.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 26, 1917.

We left Statesville at 10:15 A. M. for Durham, 130 miles distant, reaching it at 6:30 P. M. We played the Y. M. C. A. in the Trinity College gym. Stetson lacked pep in this game, she was eight points behind at the end of the first half and only won the game by eight points, the score being 42 to 34. Several of the Trinity men were out and got an idea what they had to contend with the following night; perhaps a false idea, too, as results showed.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 27, 1917.

We walked over the greater part of Durham today, visiting the large tobacco factories and other places of interest. Trinity College entertained us in the dormitories and we took our meals at a private house. We had heard much of the Trinity team ever since we reached Asheville; they were predicted to be state champions and were fast nearing the goal. So far this season they had won 12 games straight and they were sure of taking the 13th from us tonight. The game was called at 8 o'clock and the gym was filled with students before the game began. Stetson started to lead and then began such a game as is not often seen; both teams played like professionals, the team work was wonderful and the accurate goal shooting of our team made them unbeatable. Stetson led during the first half and when the second half started, Trinity tried to overcome the lead by a rush but they failed in the attempt and when the whistle blew for the end the score was 43 to 37. This victory was worth immensely more than it seemed because Trinity has defeated, since then, the teams that administered defeats to us.

SUNDAY, JANUARY 28, 1917.

We spent the day quietly at Trinity College; every one of the fellows were longing to get back home.

MONDAY, JANUARY 29, 1917.

We played N. C. A. & M. at West Raleigh and received another defeat, chiefly through the expert playing of the referee. The score was 28 to 14.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 30, 1917.

We played Wake Forest College tonight which is only 18 miles from Raleigh. Another defeat by the tune of 25 to 15. This was the most northern game we played and we left this city at 10:30 P. M. after the game on a fast Seaboard train for Sumter, S. C.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 31, 1917.

We reached Sumter at 7 A. M. and slept the greater part of the day. The game with the Y. M. C. A. was an easy victory for Stetson, the score being 45 to 13. We left Sumter at 11 P. M., or as soon as possible after the game.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1917.

We reached Jacksonville, Fla., at 9 A. M., and every one of us were glad that the trip was near its end. Duval High School team beat us this afternoon, which should not have happened, but the team was worn out and exhausted.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1917.

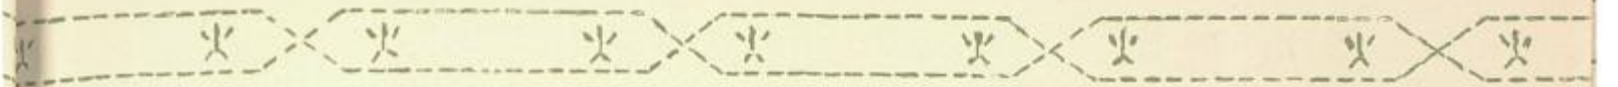

Stetson defeated the Y. M. C. A. tonight by one point, the score being 26 to 25. The game was hard and fast.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1917.

We reached DeLand at 1:30 P. M., and were more glad to get back than we were to leave.

Our journey had taken us through four states and we had traveled a distance of 1750 miles, which is an extended trip for a basket ball team. We had played every night except Sunday for sixteen days and had won eight games out of sixteen. This average of .500 is not low when one considers the hardships and fatigue attendant upon travel. It was an excellent advertisement for Stetson. The men who composed this team were gentlemen in every respect both on the floor and off. Many compliments were given us on the sportsmanlike manner in which our fellows conducted themselves even in the face of defeat.

—PETE.

Girls' Basket Ball Team

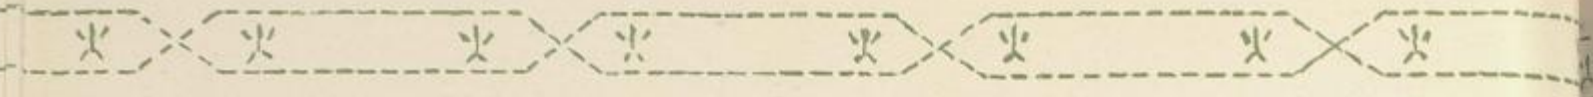

The Stetson Girls' Basket Ball Team furnished the season with their usual success, losing only one game during the season. The loss of this game was due to the fact that many of Stetson's first team were unable to play. The team this year played well, and nobly lived up to the reputation of the past years.

The team was rather handicapped for a while by the loss of their coach, Carl Farriss having been called away on business. Herman Dickey nobly came to the rescue and deserves many thanks for the way he handled his team. The girls of the team wish to thank him for his kindness and the splendid interest he showed in their work. Much praise is also due to the captain, Sara Smith, for her loyal work. During the lack of a coach she worked faithfully, taking upon herself the additional duties of coach. Miss Delta Haynes, the business manager, also deserves much praise for the way in which she conducted the difficult task of managing the team. She showed the old loyal Stetson spirit in her work.

Though some of the players on the varsity team were new, they worked like veterans and Stetson's team worked like a well oiled machine throughout the season.

Games were played with many of Stetson's old rivals. Cathedral at Orlando was defeated once and a second game with them was tied. Stetson easily won against all state teams. Savannah, the only team that defeated Stetson last year, was defeated on Stetson's floor this year. Owing to the fact that all the varsity could not play, Charleston defeated Stetson by the close score of 16—15. We regret that we could not play our old rivals, Gainesville and Ocala.

The team took an interesting southern trip to Orlando, Sarasota, St. Petersburg and Bartow, winning all the games except the Orlando game, which was tied. A trip was planned through Georgia and Carolina, but owing to the poor financial support the team received this year at their games, this trip was impossible.

Tennis

Tennis is a popular sport at Stetson, for our climate permits the playing of it any time of the school year—In January the courts are full, as in April or September. We have a number of shell courts and frequently they are all occupied, with other players waiting for a vacancy.

The men's singles tennis tournament was played during the latter part of the Fall term. There were twenty-six contestants and some hard fought matches were played. Henry Lofquist and Ben Hulley reached the "finals," where Hulley won from Lofquist and thus won the championship.

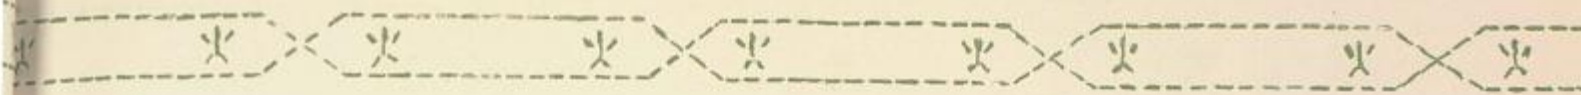

The men's doubles tournament was played early in February and several close matches resulted. In the "finals" Brotherton and Bates succumbed easily before the onslaughts of Dr. Hulley and Ben.

An intercollegiate match with Rollins College, in singles and doubles, resulted in an easy victory for Stetson's representatives. Other matches are being planned.

The young ladies take active interest in tennis and will likely have their tournaments during the Spring term.

A mixed doubles tournament is one of the interesting features in tennis and the many entries supply excitement and even "gossip material" for the onlookers.

On April 9, Stetson won two singles matches from Rollins and lost one doubles match.

The Way They Kiss

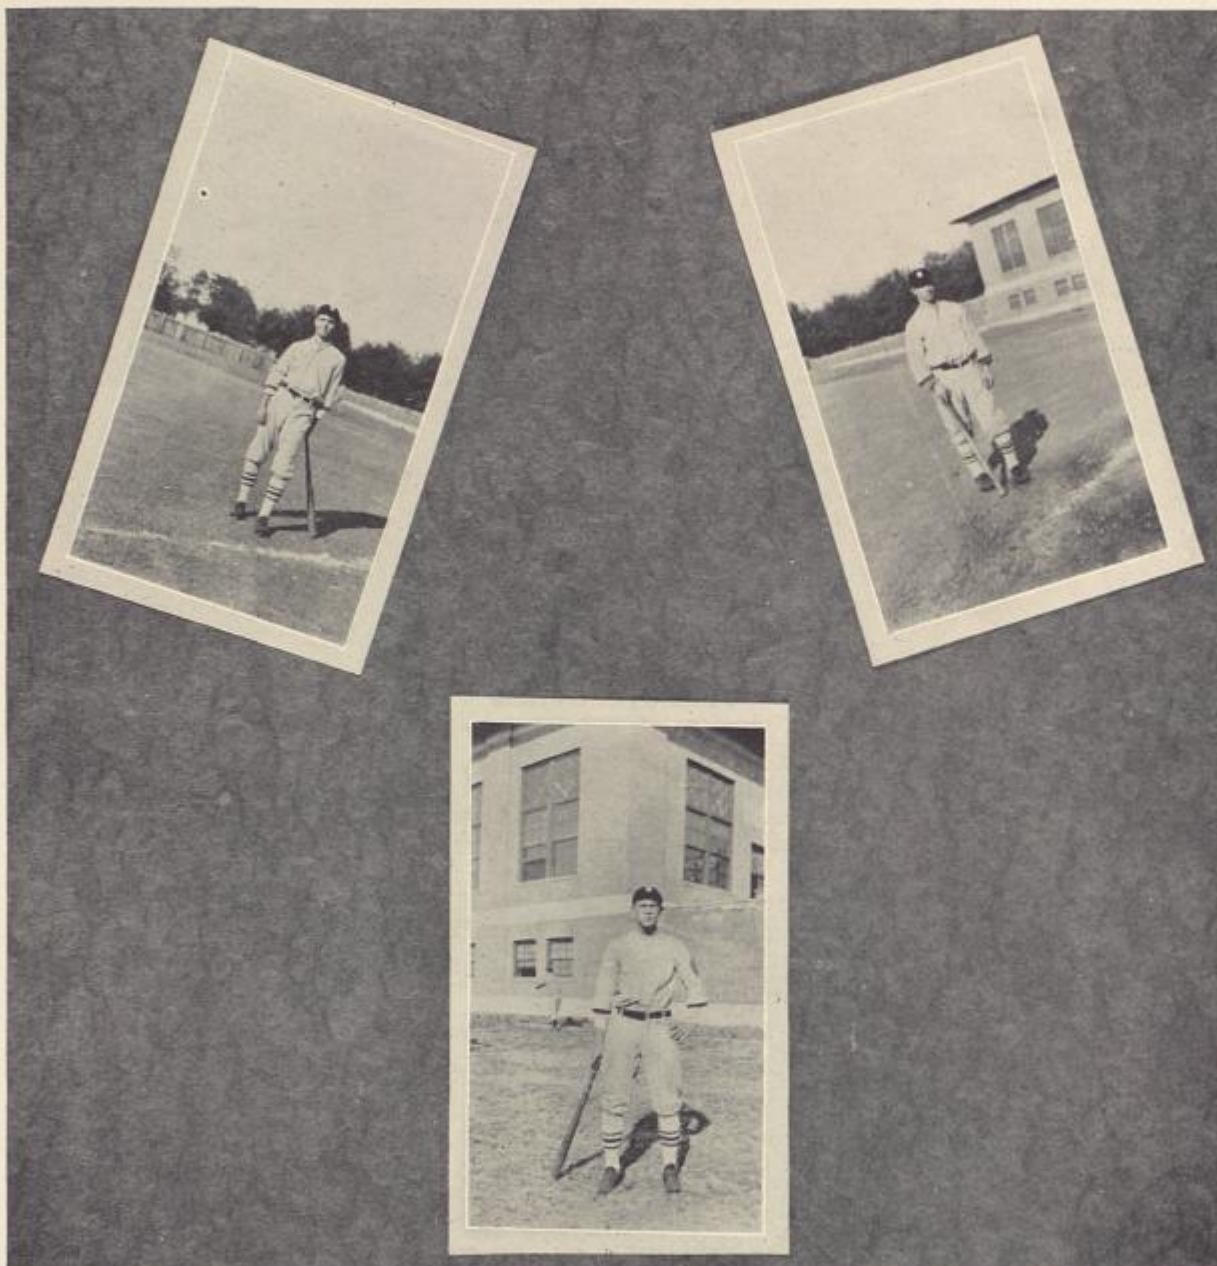

The Freshman girl bows her stately head,
And fixes her stylish lips
In a firm, hard way, and lets them go
In spasmodic little sips.

The Sophomore says never a word,
And you'd think her rather tame
With her practical view of the matter in hand,
She gets there just the same.

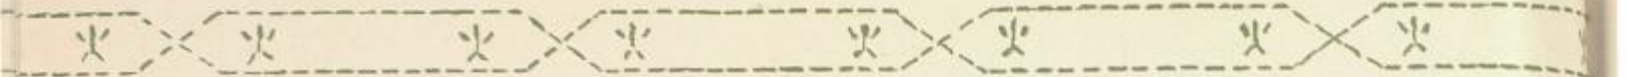

The Junior girl, the pride of the world,
In her clinging and soulful way,
Absorbs it all, in a yearful yawn,
As big as a bale of hay.

I have sung a song of the girls who kiss,
And its sets one's brain in a whirl,
But to reach the height of earthly bliss,
You must kiss a Senior girl.

—Ex.

In General

1.

It is said that college students miss the most there is to learn,
And in DeLand is an awful place to stay,
Just add to that "Money isn't made to burn,"
And you will know all the "Y" has learned to say.
Had a letter from the Dean, "You may have another chance,"
"Oh! DeLeon's awful nice this afternoon,"
Sh—keep it quiet, never tell, can't he do the fox-trot well?
And there's rumor that the Tri Deltas never spoon.
Again do we affirm that it isn't much to tell,
But in General (Don't deny it) 'tis better than a cell.

2.

"Have you bought a ticket yet?"—That's quite familiar, we avow,
"I want to see, I want to see the Phi Phi's more,"
And this is natural, too, and none deny it now,
In the hurry and scurry of excitement's roar,
The Alpha Phi Deltas are hoping with a hope that never dies,
That kind Providence will grant them a charter
So that they'll go national before the Phi Psi's
Or else there may result the death of some martyr.
We shall never quite deny that this college life is gay,
But in General these are chances we're taking every day.

3.

Four o'clock is early and oft the days are hot,
You have seen the look in the librarian's eyes,
Where's the Collegiate? Seen it or not?
Are half the things people say lies?
"Hello;" "Busy?" I'll call around at eight,
There's no place to go and nine o'clock is late!
Living? Yes, 'tis living, but too oft blest with care,
For in General (should we say it?) excitement's rather rare!

Chapter roll is too extensive to publish here.

The charter for this flourishing organization was granted by Miss Martien, the faithful guardian of Chaudoin. In this charter are iron-clad rules which are impartially enforced, frequently to the chagrin of some knight.

Among the most important rules are the following: 1. All chairs, settees and sofas must be placed remote from secluded nooks.

2. Conversation in undertones prohibited.

3. Said conversation must be strictly of a religious, political or educative nature, and any honeyed words of love are to be promptly reported to the Dean of Women.

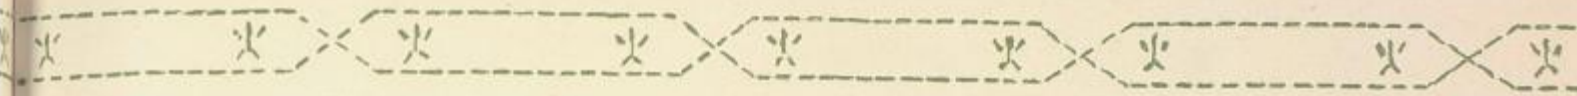

4. The instant the faint tinkling of the curfew is heard every knight every night must rush for the door; positively no dilly-dallying permitted.

The meetings are held nightly save Fridays and Sundays. They never run over the prescribed one-hour law of Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and the two-hour law of Saturday. Early hours are observed in order not to conflict with the Freshman sleeping schedule of 8 P. M. to 7 A. M.

The object of this society is a worthy one; namely: The Prevention of Loneliness among the Chaudoinites.

Membership is attainable by any young man promising to abide by the rules of the charter. Infringement of any rule leads to suspension from attendance, and repeated offence means indefinite expulsion. Application for membership may be presented to the maid in the hall, who in turn offers said application to Miss Martien, and if favorably passed upon, the applicant is admitted. He is fortunate if his lady friend comes down within half an hour; forty minutes is the usual time a knight has for arranging his thoughts.

Dues.—An occasional box of candy or bunch of violets blue.

Ruminations for the Love Lorn

"By day or night, in weal or woe
That heart, no longer free,
Must bear the love it cannot show,
And silent, ache for thee."

"Woman! experience might have told me
That all must love thee who behold thee;
Surely experience might have taught
Thy firmest promises are naught,
But placed in all thy charms before me
All I forget but to adore thee."

Woman, that fair and fond deceiver,
How fond are striplings to believe her;
How quick we credit every oath
And hear her plight the willing troth!
Fondly we hope 'twill last for aye,
When lo! she changes in a day.
This record will forever stand;
"Woman! thy vows are traced in sand."

"Had we never loved so kindly,
Had we never loved so blindly,
Never met or never parted,
We had ne'er been broken hearted."

FONDLY EMBRACING: Prestwood, Prather, Harkness, Bassett, Roberts,
Rufus Miller and other sweet smilers.

Who Will Answer These Questions?

Why does Uncle Dan require Term papers?

Why does Dean Carson assign those delightful student lectures in History and Economics?

Why do the Seniors wear cap and gown? Could they be recognized as Seniors without cap and gown?

Why does Miss Bangs want equal suffrage?

Are the Chaudoin girls allowed too many privileges? If so, how can these privileges be reduced?

Is tennis the prime factor in the mixed doubles and singles played daily on the courts?

Has Pat been to Chaudoin lately?

Is popularity inherited, acquired or bestowed? (Please hand this answer to Freshman Prestwood or Young Prather.)

Should Freshmen be allowed dates at Chaudoin?

Hasn't Miss Gates a large amount of patience with the socially inclined?

Is it the general consensus of opinion that R. J. L. (B.S., LL.B., M.S., etc.) "has wonderful power of eyes" or is it Her biased opinion that prompted the statement?

Who is Carlisle's latest? Isn't he fickle? That fortune teller was right.

The Birds Always Seem Happy Morning, Noon and Night

When the glorious dawn is breaking,
Casting golden sunbeams high,
And the birds in their awakening
Send their voices far and nigh.

Send their music floating outward
In the glory of the dawn,
Over forest, field and meadow,
Over grassy slope and lawn.

Then the mocking-bird is singing
With her joyful warbling song;
And fills the world with music
As she sings the whole day long.

And intermingled with her singing
She combines each songster's call,
Into a glorious medley
That imitates them all.

Then you hear the joyful redbird
With its song so clear and sweet,
The babbling merry sparrows
And the happy Joe-a-reet.

The warbling happy martin,
The jaybird's clarion call
And the tattoo of the wood-pecker
Is from the tree-tops heard to fall.

You hear the cunning crow,
With its caw, caw, far and nigh,
And you see the soaring hawk,
As he sails out far and high.

You see the lonesome buzzard
As he sails across the sky,
And the wandering crane
Seeking water as he passes by.

You see the happy robin,
And the merry bob-o-link,
The thrushes and the swallows
As they pass you with a wink.

The daylight rushes onward
Soon passing into night,
For the radiant sun has drifted,
'Til 'tis hidden from our sight.

The birds of day are sleeping
And the birds of night are out,
The whip-poor-will is singing
While the screech owl flies about.

So the birds all seem happy,
In their sorrows and their joys,
May all enjoy their music,
Men and women, girls and boys.

Ending of Book

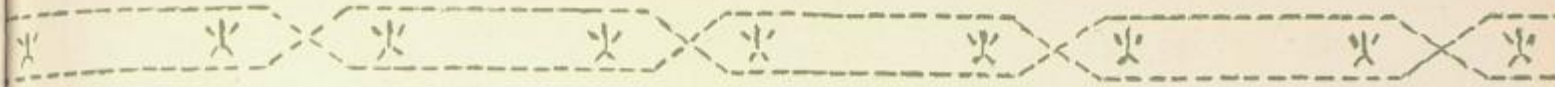

For you, our friends and classmates,
We have labored many a day,
To give to you some idea
Of our College Life—in every way.

From our studies to our pleasures,
From our joy to our pain;
And now may you accept it
As a value of great gain.

May you appreciate our efforts,
And receive from this yearbook
A fuller meaning of the Mocking Bird,
Which Indian name this Annual took.

As you go sailing through the years that are to come,
May you recall with gladness the days that have gone by,
And still cherish in your memories
A love for "Old Stetson" that will flourish 'til you die.

Stetson

WEARERS of Stetson hats expect not only real style, but an unusual standard of quality.

From first to last Stetson style is distinctive and the shape doesn't change with the barometer--not a case of "here today and gone tomorrow." It's the quality behind the style that holds it there.

FAIR ONES, ATTENTION!

ADVERTISEMENT

Realizing how futile have been my personal efforts to secure my heart's desire, now in desperation, I turn to the press for aid. Any of the feminine persuasion matrimonially inclined who sees this ad kindly drop me a card and I will respond in person immediately.

I am in earnest and in DEAD earnest too!

Have lived alone long enough and the sooner replies begin to come in, the happier will I be. Can care for one easily for have had untold experience with the many.
