Basketball school

Applications are being accepted for the UCF Summer Basketball School for boys ages 8 through 17. It will be held in the new UCF Arena. There will be two week-long sessions, June 17-21 and 24-28. Both sessions are daily, 9 a.m.-4 p.m.

Cost is $120 per student, per session, and includes lunches, professional instruction, competition, a camp T-shirt, a camp basketball, motivational speakers and materials.

Enrollment is limited, and applications are accepted on a first-come, first-serve basis.

For information, call the basketball office, x5805, or stop by the education building, room 161, to pick up a brochure.

Talk radio

WUCF-FM will broadcast Alice Eckardt's lecture on "The Impact of Nazism and Shoah on Palestine and the state of Israel" on Wednesday, May 15, at 2 p.m.

The lecture was originally presented at UCF on April 15, and was co-sponsored by the Holocaust Memorial Resource and Education Center and UCF's Judaic Studies Program.

Awards banquet

The 19th annual USPS awards banquet will be held on July 12 at the Holiday Inn/UCF. There will be an informal reception starting at 7 p.m., dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. USPS employees with five, 10, 15 and 20 years of service will be recognized.

The banquet, emceed by former UCF student Channel 9 News anchor Bob Opsahl, will have the theme "Hollywood Knights." Assistant music professor John Whitney will head a combo providing music for listening and dancing. Door prizes will be given, and the UCF employee of the year will be announced.

Tickets are $13.50, and can be purchased from Lois Engley, x2787, or from Kiosk, July 1-8. For information, call Engley or banquet chairman Linda Vail, x5903.

Pay hike approved

Tough Legislative session; fair results

Moves that could impact UCF

• 3 percent increase for state employees
• An educational reform initiative, known as accountability, that would give schools more control over spending state dollars
• State university tuition increase of 15 percent for Florida students
• Reform current state personnel system by July 1992 to allow managers to reward good employees
• The possibility that some vacant state positions may remain open

Despite what University of Central Florida officials consider a "miserable" budget overall, UCF came away from this year's Legislative session, to the surprise of many, with a promised pay hike for its employees.

Though Gov. Lawton Chiles is calling the budget passed last week by lawmakers "lean and mean," state employees will receive a 3 percent raise in January.

News of the pay increase, which seemed unlikely after this year's spending was sliced to avoid a deficit, was among a number of bills passed during the session that pleased University of Central Florida officials.

Legislators also passed a management reform plan to give the state's universities more flexibility when handling their own budgets, a move that President Steven Altman had been pushing.

And all UCF's requests for Public Educational Capital Outlay (PECO) funds were granted. The PECO funds, which have no relation to

Disney honors two UCF programs

Two University of Central Florida programs were among 67 projects in Orange, Seminole and Osceola counties to receive prizes at the 20th Walt Disney World Community Service Awards, late last month.

UCF's college outreach project received the $25,000 Judges Choice Award for its programs helping minority, educationally-disadvantaged middle and high school students prepare for college.

The prize was the second largest of a total of $300,000

Choice Award because of its attempt to help underprivileged children. It targets unmotivated students who are unprepared for college.

"Our purpose is to reach out to an early enough age and to intervene before it is too late to make a difference," Cecelia Rivers, director of UCF's special programs, wrote in the application to Disney Community Service Awards.

She said the money awarded would be used to expand the length of program activities and to increase the number of students served.

The McKnight Achievers Society was also recognized for its work with minority students. The society is dedicated to the academic success of students in kindergarten through 12th grades, and their service to the community.

Academic success is rewarded and reinforced through speakers, programs, ceremonies and distinctive jackets.

The UCF report highlighted the outstanding black students who share their knowledge with others and work in the community on various service projects. Janet Balanoff, director of UCF's equal opportunity office, wrote in the application to Disney.

Memorandum

To: All faculty
From: Cheryl Bennett, PROFS
Subject: New PROFS feature

The following distribution list for group communication through PROFS has been created:

- DEANS — This is an open list, available to deans, assistant deans and general assistants.
- CHAIRS — This is a private list, available only to chairpersons.
- FACULTY — This is a private list, available only to faculty.
- PAYROLL — This is an open list, available to everyone on PROFS.
- GENERAL — This is an open list, available to everyone on PROFS.

This list will be used for distributing general information to all PROFS users in lieu of the ALLUSERS lists (eg. General topics of interest to the university community: campus activities, calendar of events, short course offerings, construction events and road closings).

The lists will operate as an informal medium for encouraging open communication between departments or divisions. You may join or subscribe to a list much like you subscribe to a magazine, by requesting a subscription from the PROFS administrator.

A complete description of the lists and how to access them has been sent out in a separate notification.

The capability to create an ALLUSERS distribution list in PROFS will be removed; the last day of the final examination period for the semester normally will coincide with the last day for use of the rooms, unless arrangements have been made in writing to the circulation librarian for use of the rooms between semesters.

Faculty must reapply each semester for use of a room. There is no guarantee that a research study room will be available to an individual who qualified the previous semester. The needs of those using the space will be considered along with new applicants.

Depending upon demand, two people may be assigned to one room. Requests for those who do not to be excluded.

University pays tribute to local black women

Thirteen black Central Florida women were recognized as pioneers and leaders during a “A Tribute to African-American Women,” a program held at the University of Central Florida, April 28.

The event, sponsored by UCF’s African-American Student Union, honored: Orlando councilwoman Mable Butler; businesswoman Mercedes Clark; educator Thelma Dudley; social worker Kitty Ellison; Valada Flewellyn, representing the humanities field; medical doctor Ann Ashley-Gilbert; Judge Evelyn Golden; Gloria Grant, representing civics; Edna Hargrett, representing music; Annetta Kemper, representing media; educator Margaret Miller; Rev. Julia Whitehurst; and artist Katie Wright.

The event was one of an ongoing number of activities sponsored by the African-American student union.

Pi Kappa Lambda installation
