Rollins Varsity Crew Sets Course Record of 5:5 In Beating Richmond Eight

Tars Get Off to Early Lead and Increase the Distance to 3 Lengths at Finish

Weather Is Perfect With Water Smooth

Visitors' Favored Boat Is Shaky As Their Higher Stroke Fails

"Spoke" Ogilvie stroked his youth rowing boat to an impressive victory over a favored University of Richmond crew in the Tuxedo regatta on Lake Mead. One of the largest crowds to witness a row race over the Meadland course had gathered on the shore to watch the Tars come in ahead with the fastest time ever turned in for the mile course. Ideal weather and smooth conditions favored the mile rowing race.

Both crews got off in an even start, rowing high between a 42 and 44. Shortly after the crews settled down, Rollins worked to a half length lead. At the quarter mark the Tars had a length lead, rowing a 44 to Richmond's 42 and continued to gain. Here the Rollins' rowers turned on the pressure by giving big drives and at the half way mark the Tars had stretched their lead to two lengths and increased their stroke. The favored Richmond crew at this point seemed to slack and go to pieces, and it was Rollins' race from that point on.

As the crews neared the three quarter mark the Tars' stroke was perfect and Capt. Ogilvie and his crew of hardy sweepers finally made their boat leap thru (Continued on page 4)

Rollins To Help Refugee Students Gain Scholarships

Object is to Lend Aid to Outstanding Foreigners; Rollins is Member of Committee

Rollins students are joining the nation-wide effort to bring young European students to American campuses. From the University of Maine to the University of California at Berkeley, colleges throughout the country are cooperating in this effort to enable victims of recent intolerance to continue their studies. In recent instances college administrators have waived tuition fees while student-faculty committees have raised funds for board and living expenses. Harvard, Yale and Princeton are among the colleges expecting refugee students. The Women's College, Radcliffe, Bryn Mawr, Mt. Holyoke, Smith and Wheaton. At Rollins, about the size of Rollins and whose scholarship are awarded, the college already having raised $100 out of $1500. In all, 370 college in 19 states are now active in refugee work.

The International Student Service through its office here, as well as in Vienna, Berlin and Geneva, is able to select the most highly qualified students whose achievement and personality put them on a level with Rhodes Scholars. Rollins is already represented in this work by President Holt, who is on the United States Committee. Albert Einstein, Robert Millikan, Lord Robert Cecil and Albert Einstein are its past presidents.

The International and International Clubs at Rollins are now working with the newly formed International Committee to Aid Student Refugees, which extends and recommends refugee work on the campus. Alan Black, son of Professor Black of Rollins and graduate student at Cornell, has done splendid work as their representative. Another of their student representatives, Robert Ely will meet with (Continued on page 4)

High School Music Festival Held Here

74 Play in Orchestra and 142 Sing in Group Chorus

The seventh Annual State Inter-scholastic Music Festival was held Saturday evening in the Winter Park High School Auditorium. This event was a "Grand Concert" given by the Florida All-State Orchestra and Chorus. When it is considered that the orchestra consisted of 74 boys and girls from all sections of the state and that the chorus comprised 142 students it can be seen that it required considerable skill in directing.

Members of the Rollins Music Conservatory assisted the orchestra and the chorus. Dr. Joseph E. Maddy conducted the orchestra and the chorus was under the direction of William Powell Treadwell, instructor of public school music in Durham, North Carolina.

This large number of extremely gifted young musicians presented an interesting and varied program of songs and orchestral works by such composers as Bach, Mozart, Schubert, Fauré, Tchaikovsky, and Stravinsky. Extreme enthusiasm and joy of the participants made the event one of the most successful of Winter Park musical activities.

Lonsdale Represents State In "Flying Ketchup Bottle"

Is Arkansas Good-will Ambassador; Purpose Is To Stop "High-State" Idea

When Johnnie Lonsdale returned to the Rollins campus about a week ago, he came in the college graduate's dress; for who among that privileged group does not want to appear soon after his release as an striking a way as possible and plus a job? Top it all with a purpose and publicity which give him into almost any exclusive place he wants to get in, and you have that dream, and the pleasure side of Johnnie's trip. There were other sides too, but enough is being said of them by others.

The "Flying Ketchup Bottle" was named out in the past somewhere and has lived up to its title since then. The color was chosen, Johnnie tells us, to attract attention, because he usually makes only one night stand, and so has to impress the public in as short a time as possible and he chose the color himself as a symbol of the warmth of feeling shown to those who would visit the beautiful state of Arkansas. The car itself is Johnnie's and not the state's and was a graduation present last June. Now that our Arkansas traveler has been away from school and all it stands for, for awhile, he tells us he is glad to be out. He says those people who are sorry to graduate and keep that phrase "I was in college" constantly on their (Continued on page 2)

Rollins Fencers Win Five Matches On Eastern Trip

Tars Defeat Princeton, M. I. T., Brown, Boston U. and Harvard Teams

The fencing team returned to campus early Monday morning, thus completing a tour of the Eastern States in which they not only won from several of the best known colleges and universities in the North. Probably the most successful trip of this year the Tar fencers have ever made, it left in the wake the defeated fencers of Princeton, M. I. T., Brown, Boston University and Harvard, which is noted as having the most powerful foil team in the country and the second strongest in all three weapons, Arnisopla being first.

The Rollins group, however, did not find it all smooth going and lost to both the armed forces of the U. S. government—Army and Navy. These were the first two teams met by the Blue and Gold and it is probable that facing with the skilled and well-trained swordsmen put the local men in condition to meet and defeat the teams encountered later.

Honors for the trip should be shared between Captain Don Cetrulo and Manny Ehrlich. Starting in foil, Cetrulo defeated every man on the Army and Navy teams and took practically every bout which he fought from then on. Manny, swinging a mean sabre, was the particular delight of his teammates as he left with one opponent after another. Fencing a high parry and a slashing riposte to the chest, he left many a fencer regretting the fact that he had crossed blades with him. At Cambridge, becoming slightly tired because the judges were missing some of the touches he made, he took such a terrific cut at his rival's mask that the Harvardist's knees buckled and he felt of his head to see if it was still there. The "touch" was promptly awarded.

Undergraduates Take Sailing As Part Of Class Curriculum

DURHAM, N. H. (ACP) — Unlike Sir Walter Raleigh who played hockey from school to school, undergraduates at the University of New Hampshire now take tiller and sheet in hand as part of their college curriculum.

For this semester sailing is being taught as a course in physical education for both men and women. The course has been arranged through the cooperation of the University Yacht club, and will carry the student from elementary theory through actual shipper and sailing.

But it will not be all straight sailing for these students. Examinations and outside reading have their place here as in any other course at the university. The examinations will be on the work of three school; the reading will be about boats of other classes and the history of sailing.

Annual Gypsy Fiesta To Be Held On Rollins Laketrfront Tomorrow; Band To Parade

"Fresh Fields" Is Last Vehicle Of Russell Group

Will Be Presented Friday Night at 8:15 P. M.; Mrs. Trowbridge Has Lead

The Annie Russell Company presents their last production, Fresh Fields, Friday at 8:15 P. M. This story concerns several members of an old aristocratic English family that have gone broke. In order to augment the family's precarious financial position one of the sisters writes a London column. The story is written by the author, who will do her bit by bringing paying guests into the family mansion. This declines leads intrusion of an Australian family which is somewhat rich. This leads to various complications which form the basis for the action of the play.

Julia Trowbridge, well known as an actress, has the lead. Others taking important parts are Margery Merrill, who scored such a hit in Tonight at Eight; Betty, and Dudley Dwyer who did so successfully in the Romantic Age. Jane Russell and Priscilla Page Smith make their debuts on the Annie Russell stage in this play. Others supporting the above mentioned cast are William Webb, Larry George and Becky Hale.

Tony Merrill has designed the set and without a doubt it will be as attractive as the work he has already done in three of the Annie Russell productions. Dorothy Leckhart is directing.

"Fresh Fields" received excellent press notices in both the London and New York papers and should prove excellent entertainment to a College and Winter Park audience.

ALONG THE SIDELINES

By Wendy Davis

SEBRING, Fla.—They're calling him another "Dizzy Dean"—this Ed Levy of ours as he colorfully rounds into shape at the Newark Bears training base here. He's a tall, gangling kid standing head and shoulders over the other rookies and veterans assembled, and his cockiness and self assurance abetted by ever-present chatter has placed Rollins' new "Leffo" at the top of Newark's hopefuls for this year, and the New York Yankees' hopefuls in succeeding years.

In brief, Ed Levy is the current sensation of the Newark Bears, highly regarded minor league baseball aggregation who in recent seasons has brilliantly jumped to the top with future major league material. Ed isn't crowding any new home run records, nor is he setting the baseball world aflame with spectacular fielding gems; yet his mannerisms, his personality and his confidence when the pressure is either on or off has brought him great fanfare and publicity. Right now New York and Newark papers as well as the sheets of the Grapefruit League are playing him up "big". He's the logical answer to the New York Yankees' question mark of the moment, the filling in of Lou Gehrig, who seems to be definitely on his way out. The Yankee organization, the fans and the writers forever in Ed enough potential major league stardom to step into the shoes of a person who is regarded today as one of the greatest first basemen in baseball—Gehrig.

They see in Levy a young first baseman who will draw the crowds, probably not in the manner of Gehrig's attraction, the strong silent type; but they believe that with his Jewish-Irish extraction, his colorful actions on the field, and his "poppings off" to the press and those about him he will easily fill into the scheme of the "McCarthy Maulers."

Now Levy isn't ready for the big leagues, let alone the World Champion Yankees, yet. He isn't as efficient with the willow as he undoubtedly will be. He hasn't faced major league pitching, and he has yet to catch class AA hurling over a season. But with the added experience of a year or two with Newark, he probably will be ready. Johnny New, Yankee scout who signed him up three years ago, told Ed "if you continue to make the progress you've been making so far, you're a sure bet for the first base job of the Yankees in the next year or so. Gehrig is definitely through."

Right now, Levy is battling for the first base job of the Newark Bears, which he has not yet clinched. Les Gehrlisen, a well built lad from the Pacific Coast League, Chas. A.A. Almonides with Levy in the exhibition games in Citrus county. It is up to Johnny New, Bears' manager to decide upon either one by the opening of the International League near the end of April. Until that time the first base position is open.

If Noon were to decide on who was to fill the post a week ago, it would have been Ed's in a walk, for the manner in which Levy had been making the ball at the time, and his errorless fielding was too much for any minor league first base aspirant to improve upon. But Ed had a bad day against Montreal last Friday in which he made a couple of errors. Levy was worrying about that the other day when we saw him. "There's been feeling so good lately," he said, "I haven't been able to sleep, been losing weight and my legs have been bothering me. I'll get over it I guess." And he brightened up as a certain young lady by the name of "Tuppy" Porcher walked into the hotel, a sight unseen for two weeks by Mr. Levy. If Tuppy's had anything to do with it, Levy recently clinched it that afternoon when he made two straight, some five hits in his first two turns at bat, hit the ball hard on his other times in, and played errorlessly afield in leading his team to their first win of the season.

Levy is definitely major league material in the making. His temperament is perfect. Worrying is no obsession with him, as in the case of Newark's sensation of last year, Charlie Keller, who is making his first trip up with the Yankees this year and so far is a failure because of worry. His actions are major league actions today. He is loose up at the plate, loose around the first base seater. His eyes are good and he rarely takes at a bad ball. He has a free swing, backed by strong wrists and long arms which give him his power. At present he is going through the stages of place hitting tanning into a long range cluster. He gives the impression that he is not quite ready for the pitch, but his strength and quickness, as a Jimmy Foxx style, brings him his into quick timing and he usually connects.

It is interesting to watch the crowd's reaction here at Sebring, training camp quarters for the Bears for some time now. They have witnessed many prospective major league "greats" on their way up, and they easily shift from one favorite to another as the faces disappear. This year their favorite is Levy, not because he is the most brilliant of the lot, but because he is the boy "they" want to make good. Levy has put himself into their hearts in the same way he has placed himself in our hearts. In a little game last Sunday, Ed came up with a man on second and two men. The spare crowd warmed up to "Big Ed" and when Levy came through with a single that scored the runner the crowd gave him a great reception. This bit of cheering was the lone outburst from the crowd that day, and was an example of their friendliness towards him.

If Levy can beat out Gehrlisen for the first base job this season, and he seems to be doing just that, he has a great opportunity in becoming the key man of the Bears this summer. Newark usually started with leading stars is not as strong as in previous years. Through recall transfer, only they have lost such men as Charlie Keller, Buddy Roser, Eddie May, Les Scorsella, Buddy Blair, Buster Miller, Joe Vance, and a few others. The Bears are building a new pitching and catching staff, a new infield with the exception of Mickey Wick at second and have only one leftover in the outer parts in Mike Chartak. Wick is the only star left of the great Newark ball club that has performed so brilliantly in the past several seasons and he has had only one year with Newark. Right now he is ready for major league ball, by the way, and will probably be sold at the end of this year for a high price. There is no place for Wick on a ball club that has sensational Joe Gordon on its second sack.

Tar Jayvees Beat Stubbhorn Asheville Crew By 2 Lengths

Demoted Varsity Shows Power in Chippy Going; Time Is 5:42 For Mile Course

Captain Ted Reed stroked his demoted varsity to a sweeping two length victory over the Asheville School for Boys in the opening regatta of the Rollins crew season on Lake Maillard Thursday afternoon.

Inspired by a desire to regain their varsity birth, the J.V.'s were in command of the race from the very beginning. In spite of a rather shaky start they managed to get a slight jump on the Asheville boat, both crews rowing about 40 strokes per minute in the first quarter of the race. As the crews drew near the half mile mark Ted Reed dropped his stroke to a long and smooth 34. At this point the Asheville stroke made his bid for the lead by raising the stroke, but the Tar's answered with a series of leg drives which enabled them to stretch their lead to three-quarters of a length. Again the Asheville stroke went up and again the Rollins boat answered with leg drives adding another quarter of a length to their lead.

As the boats came into the final quarter mile, the Asheville boys were the first to raise the stroke in a vain attempt to overtake their more powerful and experienced rivals. They began to gain back a little of their lost ground, but stroke Reed let them come just so far and then he began to ease the stroke up to a smooth and powerful 36. The reserve power in the Tar boat then showed itself as they fairly leapt away from the Asheville crew in the last few hundred yards to win by a little over two lengths.

The time for the race was not as good as in the first half of the mile course because there was a strong head wind backing the two crews. Rollins navigated the course. In the slow time of five minutes 42 seconds and Asheville crossed the line just 8 seconds later.

The Tar's had the advantage in both experience and weight, even their spirited rivals as they enjoyed seven-point pull in weight, tipping the scales at 173 to Asheville's 166.

Bill Bingham never got started against Captain Pittman of the visitors and lost, 6-1, 6-2, Bingham, generally one of the heavier players on the Tar team, considerably gained the attacking position and

Wah Siskill and Don Riddle accompanied the team as alternates, Riddle taking two out of three full bouts against Boston University, and Siskill doing the same in an unofficial full match with Middlebury College which took place in Anthony Green's Salle D'Arms in New York.

Coach William L. Rousey expressed deep satisfaction in the record of this year's team and looks for even greater success next year, although the last three graduation of Captain Colorado will be a serious blow to the squad.

Annual Fiesta Takes Place on Lakefront; Band Will Parade

full gist of his occult conversation. They guarantee to satisfy you fully on all questions relating to your hidden past, your unconscious present and your hopeful future.

With all the suggestions of dark deeds and mystery, one inevitably must look with suspicion upon the same. The Alpha Psi's activities under the name of cakes, candy, salted nuts and the like, that a roamed crab's claw should thrust itself at one from some delicious looking morsel, or that mysterious and better portions should be consumed beneath a starched white cloth.

But those who would escape the thieving mob and seek a brief peace of peace and quiet may find opportunity to make inventory of their possessions and recover their accumulated gains as they witness the display of the latest Gypsy modes for pre-Easter wear as modeled by the popular young ladies of Pi Beta Phi society.

The Gamma Phi's will have a Thieves' Market which will be, in a sense, a miniature of London's famous Chalcotian Market. One will find there all sorts of interesting old things, and there is promise already of some worthwhile purchases. Don't forget that the Thieves' Market will be the place where you will be able to find those little things you have searched for so often and never have been able to find.

It is reported that the studious members of Sigma Nu cannot repress their scientific predilections even for the duration of the Fiesta but must make trial flights into the stratosphere with a new kind of balloon.

And, according to Jess Gregg, Rollo Rollins, that hot dog with a college education, is advertised to make his regular annual appearance. Press notices of this singular beast, (or is he?) show that he receives high accolades whenever he appears. But strangely, they not only applaud his appearance, but send as his chief virtue the speed of his disappearance.

One reads such comment as the following quoting from Mr. Gregg: "Rollo Rollins has done more to glorify the dog than anyone since Albert Payson Terhune." And in speaking of his weeks the same authority quotes a famous passage from his "Hot Doggon!"

"Rollo Rollins gives you some tips.

Rat hot dogs and attack your lips. They will fill you full of gloom, Gad, what foods these morsels be.

The Book Mart is always one of the more popular spots on the grounds. This year it will be under the name of Miss Nancy Felt, and will give everyone a chance to pick up, for a mere pittance, those books we always meant to get and didn't or the ones we lent our neighbors and didn't get back.

Then there will be many, many flower girls constantly on the wander and selling such flowers as only the gypsies know of, strangely exotic blossoms for your hair and mantelpieces.

Another of the scheduled events is the Acrobatic Dancing Exhibition to be given on the floor of one of the open-air gypsy wagons, (a fencing platform), and later on in the evening there will be one of those impressive fire-diving exhibitions for us to relax to, and the romantic chance of a lifetime in the telescopic views of the full moon and the stars, supervised by Dr. Phyllis Hutchings, a rare opportunity to have the explanation of heavenly matters by one who really knows.

Take the motto of the 39th in heart—"AFTER YOUR BILLY, GO FIESTA"—and run up for the time when you can really let yourself go. Tie yourself up in a bright mask and earrings and hustle over to mix with everything from college presidents to pot-smoking, and at every step you will be tempted by a gypsy whose very eyes assure you she can read the future and tell you all the things you are dying to know.

This whole project will be due to the president of the Rollins Women's Association, Mrs. Winifred Wattle and her able committee including Mrs. Wendell Stone, general chairman, Mr. Fost Felt, aquatics, Miss Marybeth Weber, archery, Mr. Stuart Haggerty and Mr. Harry Plann, musical show, Mrs. John Rao, folk dancing, Miss Laura Neville, tickets, Miss Chloé Lyle and Mrs. Stuart Haggerty, supper, Dr. Phyllis Hutchings, telescope, Miss Roxie Hageplan, music, Mrs. Winifred Anderson, society projects, Mrs. Margaret Cox, fraternity projects, Miss Ellen Apperson, independent projects, Mrs. George Ball, grounds, Mrs. William Melchior, publicity, Mrs. J. M. Schmitt, Thieves' Market, Mrs. Walt Marchman, flower girls, Mrs. Robert D. Ford, card party, Miss Nancy Felt, Book Mart, Mr. Edward F. Weinberg, street parade.
