CHAPEL SETS FUND GOAL AT $750

Thanksgiving Service Held in Chapel Today

Traditional Program Features Dean's Talk

Thanksgiving at Rollins was celebrated in a manner traditional to the college, the annual Thanksgiving Service once more having taken its place among the outstanding programs of the college year. Presented in the Knowles Memorial Chapel, and participated in by Chapel Choir, student and STAR Unit readers, and featuring an appealing address by Dean Edmonds, the impressive service attracted many interested outsiders as well as the numerous Rollins students, administrators, and ASTP personnel who attended.

The chancel of the Chapel was appropriately decorated with bright autumn leaves, festooned from choir stalls and arranged in large sprays along the railings beneath the lectern and the pulpit. Other arrangements of leaves and cat-tails were placed on the chancel steps.

Grace Sebree repeated her chairmanship of last year and again headed the committee in charge of the program. Other committee members were Darlene Loucks, (Continued on page four)

Helen Moore Presents First French Concert

Friday night, November 19, marked the beginning of a series of musical concerts to be given by Le Cercle Français at the French house. At this time Miss Helen Moore, pianist of the Rollins conservatory, gave a concert of selected works by Claude Debussy and Francois Couperin, two noted French composers. Miss Moore is the first to give a recital with the new Steinway grand which Mrs. Homer Gage so generously gave to the French house.

At the first of the "soiree" Madame Boecup spoke to the audience after which Miss Moore explained, in French, the background of the music she played. Besides several encores Miss Moore favored her listeners with the following selections; Leure, de la suite Francaise No. 6, by Bach.

Les Chinois, du 27ieme ordre, by Couperin.

La Fleurie, ou La Tendre Nanette, du 1er ordre, by Couperin.

Le Tie Toc, ou Les Maillottins, Piece Croissee du 18ieme ordre, by Couperin.

La Fille aux Cheveux de Lin du Premier Livre des Preludes, by Debussy.

First RSP Offering Is 'The Mollusc'; December 2, 3, 4

"Oh, I say, there—what a play!" might have been the very words of our English friends, all British reserve lost in enthusiasm, after having witnessed Henry Hubert Davies' The Mollusc some years ago.

The London critics raved—"There are few modern plays so neatly and so pleasantly written as The Mollusc. It is unquestionably Davies' finest achievement." Professor Donald S. Allen is confident that you will be just as pleased when you see the Rollins Players' Presentation of the same play.

Delving into history, we find that for two thousand years dramatists have been reading and discussing the celebrated fragment of Aristotle known in English as the Poetics. There is a widespread opinion that the Greek scholar laid down as immutable laws the three unities of time, place, and action. In The Mollusc, Davies has written his play according to these. History repeats itself and Professor Allen (Continued on Page 3)

Mme. Grand, Now French Instructor, Was Student Here

The most impressive thing to your reporter about the interview with Mme. Grand, new French instructor, was the feeling of oneness that reminded her once more that oceans do not separate people of different races, but only members of the great human family.

Mme. Grand was born in France into one of the oldest families of Brittany—Tanguy de Penhoat. Her father was an officer in the French Navy. She was educated at Sacre Coeur and Ursulines Convents. While still in France she gave literature courses and during the first World War was with the Red Cross and worked among refugees in southern France.

After she came to this country she registered at Rollins in 1930 as a student. Here she received her B. A. degree. From the time of her entrance until 1936 she taught French at Rollins as a part-time instructor. From Rollins she went to Columbia University for graduate work.

In New York Mme. Grand translated old French books for a writer there and engaged in research for him on folk lore and legends of Brittany.

At present, in addition to her teaching, which she resumed this fall, she is doing research in preparation for a book which she has been asked to write.

Mme. Grand smiled proudly when she told that of her three children a son is in the Army Air Corps, one daughter is a WAVE and the other a nurse.

Campus-Wide Soliciting To Begin Next Sunday

Twenty Teams Play In Season's First Tennis Tournament

All-Day Round Robin Matches Featured With Final Exhibition Sets

Sunday marked the opening of the tennis tournaments this season on the Rollins campus. It was a great success with twenty teams entering. The tournament was run on the round-robin basis with each doubles team playing four games with every other team in its bracket.

Playing excellent tennis, Eileen Lawless and Hank Osten won in their division with twenty-one games out of a possible twenty-four, and Georgie Lopaus and Cpl. Penny of AAFTAC won in their bracket with nineteen games. The two teams played each other in the finals, and Georgie and Cpl. Penny won the set in a fine exhibition of tennis 6-4.

The men's doubles winners were Lt. Allen and Cpl. Hawkes of the STAR Unit who successfully turned back every team they played.

Dean Cleveland entered the tournament, and she and her partner, Lt. Northrup, to the delight of the spectators, were the runners up in their bracket.

As the added attraction "Prexy" refereed the exhibition match which found Dodo Bundy and Connie Clifton playing Nancy Corbett and Peggy Welsh. Dodo and Connie were the victors by the score of six games to four.

The tournament was sponsored and excellently run off by the "R" Club. The announcer for the day was Marc Gilmore.

Nine Causes to Gain From Annual Drive

Sunday, November 28, marks the beginning of this year's Chapel Fund Drive. Every year the Chapel sponsors a campus-wide drive for the purpose of collecting money. A goal is set which must come from the campus, for no outsiders are invited to contribute. For one week a concentrated effort is being made on the part of certain students designated to represent the Chapel in collecting money from the students and faculty of Rollins.

Publications Union Approves Tomokan Board of Five

Mansen, Verber, Ragan Hamaker and Rachin Meet Requirements

When the smoke of Student Council's increasing impatience was replaced by the smoke of the literati's pipes—scene: Publications Union's special meeting last Friday night—the 1943-44 Tomokan had an editorial board consisting of five at its head.

As requested in the last S. spur, qualifications of those who desired service on a Tomokan editorial board were turned in for the Union's approval, to be placed on a ballot for an all-college election. At the time of the deadline, letters of application numbered nine. Of these, five were well-qualified third and fourth year students. They are Margie Hansen, Nancy Ragan, Merlyn Gerber, Larry Rachlin, and Jean Hamaker.

The Union voted to enlarge the prospective board from three to five members, thereby utilizing those upperclassmen who were qualified. It was further recommended that those lower division students who submitted applications be used in responsible staff positions. This, it is hoped, will serve the twofold purpose of profiting by their ability and training them for future year-books.

The formality of an election is required. Therefore, although there is no question of choice, the five names will either appear on ballots to be voted on by the Student Association, or will be submitted to the assembled student body on a white ballot.

At present the board is meeting daily, organizing the work to be done prior to calling a general gathering of all those interested in working on the board.

This year the goal is a little above average—$750 — and the college registration is a little below average. As a result each student and faculty member will be asked for a little more than usual. However there is no maximum to the amount accepted.

Budget Tentatively Outlined

No definite budget has been formulated for this year's Fund as yet. However, several worthy causes will be benefited by it. Among them are: Student Emergency Fund administered by the dean of the Chapel on behalf of special cases of need among Rollins students, Foreign Relief in which it is desired to cooperate with the World Student Christian Federation in behalf of less fortunate students in other parts of the world; relief in Winter Park, in cooperation with the city welfare organizations, the Hungerford Negro School project, the Day Nursery.

Approximately thirty-one students are helping this year in the drive under the chairmanship of Sarah Coleman. These students are: Betty Adams, etc.

Invest In Humanity—

To the weighty endorsements given on another page in this issue concerning the annual Chapel Fund Drive, we can add little that would be more sincere, for the opinions therein presented are spoken from the hearts of those, who, over a period of time, have witnessed the true worth of the Fund.

In this Sandspur we have devoted several columns to publicity about the drive, believing that it pays to advertise. Not all of you will read or remember all that appears in those columns, yet no one who understands even one phase of the drive can conscientiously choose to ignore the student solicitors who, beginning Sunday, will canvass the entire campus.

Here, in one concentrated collection period, you give an amount that covers the whole year's philanthropic activities. In comparison to the widespread good it accomplishes, your gift, no matter how large or small, pays great dividends to the company of mankind, of which you are a member. Starting with aiding students right on our own campus, the Fund enlarges its interests to include not only the city of Winter Park and other parts of Florida, but also to the students of the world, for one phase of the drive is participated in by universities and colleges all over the world.

The old law of supply and demand is working overtime nowadays, and as your supply of ready cash decreases the demands upon it seem to be on the upgrade. The important point to remember, however, is that this is also true of others, and whereas we, as Rollins students, may pass up a show or two to give to the Fund, others far less fortunate are being forced to give up not luxuries, but some of life's very necessities—a difficult thing for us even to comprehend.

Think twice before you give less than you are able to the Chapel Fund Drive.

Unassuming yet mighty, sharp and pointed, well-rounded yet many sided, assiduously tenacious, yet as gritty and energetic as its name implies, victorious in single combat and therefore without a peer, wonderfully attractive and extensive in circulation: all these will be found upon investigation to be among the extraordinary qualities of the Sandspur.

East of The Flagpole

Man of the week at the STAR unit has been Sgt. Silvi, whose coaching brought the STAR football team a glorious victory under the lights Tuesday night in the Blood Bank Benefit football game. . . . Outstanding players include Hambalek and Luther for the Army and Harris for Rollins. . . . Congratulations also to the students of Rollins who turned out for the game. . . . The opposite of Walter Winchell's orchids to the neighboring citizenry who were noticed by their abundance of absentees. . . . Nice showing by the High School band and their majorette, Miss Dodd. . . . Do we have dandruff or something like that. . . . This week's Tuesday movie announces "For the College only". . . . Our apologies to that dormitory that has a name something like the opposite of weak. . . . We understand that it was not the dorm that was responsible for the cancellation of the STAR unit show last Saturday night at the dance, but that it was somebody else's doings. . . . If you want to get bit, just grab someone's leg in the presence of Sgt. Wolfe's dog. . . . But, that's an ungentlemanly act under any circumstances. . . . Quite an interesting argument the other evening at the other side of the horseshoe. . . . A STAR boy and his fair maiden were returning from (the library of course) when they came to the border of the horseshoe. . . . Being obedient and observant of rules and regulations, he proceeded to direct her around the horseshoe, but she refused and insisted in walking directly across it. . . . Compromise. . . . They separated and he walked his way and she her way, and they met again in front of Pinehurst. . . . Moral of the story: None. . . . The coeds who have been dishing out the chow in the mess hall certainly have been earning their "bored" the past few weeks what with such a heavy strength at each meal. . . . How about a hand for their efficient work. . . . The crack of the week took place in a class which drifted around to the subject of Thanksgiving, and one little dark haired damsel was asked what she was thankful for and answered that it was because she wasn't a blonde. . . . Why. . . . That's a secret which will be revealed in next week's installment.

What They Think—

by Gail De Forest

WHERE DO YOU LIKE TO GO ON DATES AND WHY?

Charlotte Smith—To Harper's, 'cause there are so many people there.

Lois Sills—I don't know; Brock says the KA House, 'cause there's a fire.

Jean Salter—Well, second choice would be the movies. Maybe a Science Club meeting.

Rose Cannova—Are you kidding?

Nonita Cuesta—When someone doesn't do the steamboat shuffle all over my feet I like to go and dance.

Eleanor Plumb—It doesn't make much difference where I go.

Carolyn Kent—It depends with whom I have a date.

Your Chapel Tower

By DEAN HENRY M. EDMONDS

YOUR CHAPEL TOWER

I give you this week a Christmas poem by Grace Noll Crowell. She calls it "Leisure."

I shall attend to my little
Errands of love
Early this year,
That the brief days before
Christmas may be
Unhampered and clear
Of the fever of hurry.
The breathless rushing that
I have known in the past
Shall not possess me. I shall
Be calm in my soul,
All ready at last.
For Christmas: "The Mass of the Christ." I shall kneel
And call out his name:
I shall take time to watch the
Beautiful light
Of a candle's flame.

I shall have leisure—I shall go
Out alone
From my roof and my door;
I shall not miss the silver silence
Of stars
As I have before;
And oh, perhaps, if I stand there
Very still
And very long,
I shall hear what the clamor of
Living has kept from me:
The angel's song.

General Delivery

It's Thanksgiving, and a similar exodus hasn't been seen around these parts since the old Miami-Rollins games of yore. Not only did a huge contingent of engineers depart, leaving only a mood indigo on campus, but this week end's prospects for company and good fellowship among the students are feeble, if the number of "week-end passes" floating around is an accurate criterion.

For the above reasons there will be no all-college dorm-sponsored Center dance this Saturday night. The next dance will be given by the inmates of Mayflower Hall—the date, December 11, and it will be the final affair of its type before Christmas.

Next Sunday, November 28, will be the second Rollins Day at the AWVS Recreation Center. The hours are from three in the afternoon until ten at night. All girls are urged to register at Dean Cleveland's office to volunteer two hours of their time on that day. It is generally understood that there will be a large number of new STAR Unit men on campus by then, and they invariably seek out the local AWVS. The room is amply provided with fun-material, the boys will be there; be sure you sign up.

Miss Henry, of the women's physical education department, tells us that she has at her office a riding habit for sale, consisting of a black coat and tan jodpurs. Interested parties may procure further details from her.

As eager to praise as we were reluctant to criticize, we wish to go on record as congratulating everyone who had a hand in the improvement of conditions in Beanery. The sparkle of the glassware and the gleam of the silverware that gets the critical eye is a thing of beauty and a joy forever, we hope.

The next meeting of the Pan-American League will be a party. It is, of course, restricted to members and their dates. Scene—the KA House, Friday, December 3. All the seniores and senioritas who are Pan-American Leaguers — please come! And don't forget to give your dues to Barbara Cheney before then.

Gradually all the oldsters who are in the service hear the call and return to the campus. This week saw Ralph Sessions, respondent in a Marine uniform, back from California a short while before shipping out. Jerry Griffin in the Khaki of the Army of the United States presided over the Chi O table to their obvious delight.

At last we've had fall house-cleaning in our S.spur establishment. We're now ready to receive visitors. Under the debris were found several heretofore unnoticed inscriptions—writ by the hand of Reggie, in the guise of the STAR Unit, no doubt. Also found was a photography fiend, who, having entombed himself in the darkroom some months ago, had been trapped in the great avalanche of issues, 1 through 6.

That's all we have to say for this week, except to wish Jack Duffy a very happy birthday!

College Leaders Endorse Worthiness of Annual Chapel Fund Drive, Urge Support

What is the Chapel Fund Drive? How does it stand on campus? What does the faculty think about it? What do the students think about it?

The Chapel Fund has in the past been subscribed to by everyone on campus. To show the campus feeling about it, we have questioned the deans and Prexy and some of the old students.

"I wish to give my earnest and hearty endorsement of the Chapel Service Fund Drive to be inaugurated on Sunday, November 28. If there ever was a genuinely worthwhile endeavor sponsored by the students and faculty of Rollins College, the past achievements and future aims of this group stamp it as pre-eminently deserving of support. I hope and trust every member of the Rollins family will subscribe."

— Dr. Hamilton Holt.

I have always believed that no matter how much or how little money a person has, at least one tenth should be given away. The Rollins Chapel Fund Drive gives us all the opportunity to take stock of our own advantages and to substitute a gift in money for the work we cannot do ourselves. I am sure that this year when we are all so conscious of so many needs throughout the world, the drive will go over the top in record time.

—Dean Marian Van Buren, Cleveland.

It is one of the most worthy campus activities and deserves complete campus support, and it certainly deserves it now.

— Dean Wendell C. Stone.

I have always thought of Christmas, when it has come 'round,— apart from the veneration due to its sacred name and origin, if anything belonging to it can be apart from that—as a good time a kind, forgiving, charitable, pleasant time; the only time I know of in the long calendar of the year, when men and women seem by one consent to open their shut-up hearts freely.— Therefore, Uncle,—I say God bless it.

—Dean Arthur D. Enyart.

By contributing to the Chapel Fund in one fell swoop you take care of all the things you'd be solicited for the rest of the year.

— Tryntje Martin,
Secretary Rollins Student Association.

Beard Reads Senior Chemistry Thesis

A paper dealing with citrus analysis written and presented by Walter Beard featured the meeting of the Rollins Scientific Society held Tuesday evening, November 16, in the Alumni House. The paper, the senior project in chemistry of the author, described the calcium content in orange rind in relation to the elevation of the ground on which the oranges were grown. A higher percentage of the essential element was found in the fruit grown on low ground.

A date was set for the initiation party for the new members of the Society on December 4, at the camp of Dick Potter on Lake Conway.

Portion of Fund To be Used to Aid World's Students

The students of the world have a date with destiny. It involves the future of the entire world, for the youths of today are the builders of tomorrow.

Some students will be unable to keep this appointment... The students massacred at Prague, and many others who were victims of Nazi slaughter. But still others, with our assistance, will be ready to aid us in building our new world. WE must see to it that they are well prepared and qualified. We must help them now... for the students of the world need it badly...

They are the prisoners of war, calling for books to save their minds from the "barbed-wire" disease, and their hearts from despair.

They are the refugees who have had to flee their own countries and are making untold sacrifices to continue their work as students.

They are dispossessed. Though evacuated from their campuses, they have migrated to continue their studies in spite of the obstacles of war.

They are interned. Immobilized for the duration, they are studying to equip themselves for the future.

WE are the ones to help them. Give your dollars for destiny and hear the students throughout the world gratefully cry, "IT'S A DATE."

Partition Solves Soldier-Girl Mixup; Lounge Reopens

Women day students who have missed the lounge and powder room which was closed when the basement of the Center was given over to the STAR Unit were very happy to attend a housewarming and reopening of this room last Friday and to know that it is again available for girls who wish a quiet, private place for study or letter writing, girls with shiny noses, ripped hems or unpressed formals, and tired, sleepy girls who are looking for repose.

The lounge, reached by the stairs in the Center near the mail boxes where a sign sternly says "Soldiers Only" was never used by the military men, but was necessarily closed because the door opened directly into the privacy of a huge G. I. boudoir. Dean Cleveland, Mrs. Wilcox, Mr. Cartwright, and other interested individuals decided that this was not the year to waste space, and that something should be done to enable the girls to reach it without stepping over the bounds of convention—or more specifically, the rows of army cots. With Mr. Cartwright on the job it was practically no time before a solution to the problem appeared, in the erecting of a partition which made the soldiers' sleeping quarters and the women's lounge two separate and distinct items.

The dean, Mrs. Willie, Mrs. Banzhaf, Miss Cameron, and Mrs. Brown all helped to see that the room was cleaned and put in order, and they arranged the meeting which was meant to familiarize the day students with the opportunities of this room. They also supplied the room with scissors, needles and thread, cosmetics, and stationery. Sunny McCain contributed an electric iron, and Jewell Scarboro and Dottie Ault get special credit for the soap and water scrubbing they applied.

At the short social meeting on Friday, the girls decided to maintain a committee to care for the room and keep it in order. Dot Ault was named as chairman and she will choose assistants every two weeks, these names to appear on the bulletin board.

Thanksgiving—

Shirley Polhemus, Carolyn Kent, and Jean Murray.

Herman F. Siewert opened the service with a chorale prelude by Bach on the theme, "To God We Render Thanks and Praise." The invocation, written and read by Private John Billinsky, of The Rollins STAR Unit, was followed by "Prayer of Thanksgiving," a Netherlands Folksong, and the Lord's Prayer, both sung by the Chapel Choir. America's first Thanksgiving proclamation was then read by Thomas A. Brocklehurst. The anthem, "Come, Ye Thankful People, Come" was sung by the Choir. Rosalind Darrow read the responsive reading, which she also wrote, and the Chapel Choir again sang, this time, choosing Rachmaninoff's "Triumph! Thanksgiving." The scriptive reading was Psalm one hundred thirty-eight, and was effectively presented by Nancy Corbett. "Thankful, Nevertheless" was the subject of the address presented by Dean Edmonds. The service closed with the recessional "America the Beautiful," the benediction and choral amen.

Pi Gamma Mu Holds Organization Meeting

Pi Gamma Mu, honorary social sciences fraternity, held its first meeting last Wednesday, November 17 in the conference room of Knowles Memorial Chapel at six o'clock.

Pi Gamma Mu centers its interests in the fields of philosophy, religion, education, economics, and business. The purpose of this meeting was to formulate plans for the coming terms. It was decided to have a series of some five or six meetings to consider social topics suggested by the interests of the group. There will be several speakers throughout the year; other meetings will be of the forum and open discussion type.

Membership in this organization is secured through election. Candidates must be in the upper division, and must have an A or B average. This year's president is Sammy Yopp.

Fund Contributes to Social Service Work

Did you know that you have a Social Service committee? In the past the work of this committee has been carried on with a minimum of publicity, and there are few on the campus outside its members who understand the purpose of the organization. It works in conjunction with the Social Welfare Committee of both the town and county. At their suggestion the Social Service committee has in the past bought beds and bedding, furnished milk and medicine for needy families, and the list even includes glasses, false teeth, a peg leg and trusses. There is glamour in social work after all! Both the Hungerford School and the Hannibal Square Library depend on the committee for aid.

The "Dean's Fund," which provides aid for college students, receives its support. One other purely local service is the newspaper subscription for the Infirmary. A specific list of items can be made—contributions to the health and dental clinics, payment of bills, etc.—but this is sufficiently indicative of the work.

Basketball Scores Continue to Mount As Games Play Off

The hardest and the most outstanding game of the week was played between the Thetas and the Pi Phis in which the Thetas rolled up 21 points to the Pi Phis 7. The first quarter found the Thetas leading 4 to 2; at the half it was 12 to 2; and the third quarter score was 16 to 5. Peg Welsh once again lead the scoring with 18 points, and Colie added a free shot to help the cause. It was a great defensive game with the guards of both teams playing fast, charging basketball. Martha McCord and Nancy Corbett stood out as being two of the finest guards on the campus.

work, there is a tendency to lessen the importance of the social service field. It is imperative to remember that this is a vital field—more important now than in times of peace, for it is in large part thru this field that domestic stability is maintained. This work must be carried on, and it can not be unless we have your support in the CHAPEL FUND DRIVE.

In their other two games of the week the Thetas swamped the Alpha Phis 50 to 3 and the Independents 41 to 5 with Peg Welsh scoring 26 points in each game.

In the Pi Phi's other game they defeated the Gamma Phis 15 to 11. The Alpha Phis and the Phi Mus played an even game up to the half, but then Alpha Phi forward charged ahead to win the game 30 to 11.

In their first game of the season the Gamma Phis defeated the Chi Os 14 to 6 in a defensive game, in the last half the Gamma Phi guards tightened up, and the Chi Os were unable to score a point.

In the Phi Mu Kappa game Powell and Hazelet staged an individual scoring contest with 17 and 18 points respectively. The other Kappas added a few points to take the game 30 to 17.

The Chi Os and Phi Mus battled out a fast game with the Phi Mus once again led by Powell who scored 20 points, winning 28 to 19.

In the Independent — Phi Mu game the Independents rolled up a score of 45 points while the Phi Mus collected 25 points. Once again it was Powell who was high scorer with 21 points, and Wright followed with 18.

The Kappas defeated the Chi Os 16 to 8. J. Bower lead the scoring with 12 points.

Definitely Devastating

Formal gowns dreamed up to swirl against a military background! Drifting nets and marquises, graceful crepes and jerseys glowing with sequin stardust, feathers and beads. Happily priced for Junior budgets.
