Star Unit to Terminate Its Program Here

Army Courses to End March 20, Following Formal Government Notice

ASTP Curtailment Necessitates Move

During the holidays President Holt received formal notice that the STAR Unit of soldier trainees on the Rollins campus will end its program here in March. The contracts of both Stetson University and Rollins with the United States Government concerning the soldier trainees had a ninety-day termination clause, making March 20 the date when the STAR courses will end. As the Rollins winter term ends March 18, this means that the College will be responsible for teaching the STAR Unit during the winter term, and will go on with its regular academic program for the spring term under usual and normal conditions.

Upon receipt of the notice of termination, President Holt released this statement: "Rollins College is, of course, disappointed that the U. S. Government has decided to curtail its Army Specialized Training activities. We have felt it a great privilege to have given this war service to the Army and to our country. Rollins has been especially pleased with the spirit of cooperation of the officers, and the thousands of men who have sojourned on our campus."

Colonel LeRoy W. Nichols, Chief of the Army Specialized Training Branch of the Army Service Forces with headquarters in Atlanta, Georgia, has assured Rollins that its services to the Army have been "highly satisfactory". The termination of the contract is made necessary by the general curtailment of the Army Specialized Training activities.

Captain L. A. Kimball, Jr., Commandant of the Rollins section, complimented the college on its fine cooperation with the Army and concluded his statement with these words: "I am sure that when the last general order is written at Rollins there will be a note of sadness in the heart of everyone, and also a note of cheer, that we shall carry with us to all points of the compass to which we may go."

Bailey Announces Cast of 'Brief Music'; RSP Play Scheduled for Jan. 27, 28, 29

"The best tunes of all go to Carnegie Hall." Rollins can make a similar claim, for the very best plays are produced in the Annie Russell Theatre each season.

"Music hath charm" and so has the Rollins Student Players' next dramatic production, which will be presented January 27, 28, 29. Chopin and Schubert were masters in their art, but you will surely agree that Emmett Lavery's charming play Brief Music is a symphony of words.

"A pretty girl is like a melody" has long been a success. Brief Music features seven pretty favorites who will rocket right to the top of your Hit Parade!!

Lovely to look at—Betty Asher is Lovey Lovington, the class beauty. How sweet you are—With Pat Bastian as Spiff Alexander, you'll hear a rhapsody.

Dixie—Betty Clary plays Jinx and the southern accent is authentic.

The Dreamer—Elizabeth Hensen portrays Drizzle Rainey, the whimsical dramatic poetess.

Down with Love—Marge Humpfer is Maggie Reed whose only interest is the "cause".

Sophisticated Lady—Jane Northern plays Minnie Hall, a college smoothie.

I Know Why—Anita Rodenbaeck as Rosey Rosenthal bubbles over with knowledge.

With Professor Howard Bailey directing and sets by Professor Donald Allen, there's complete harmony in this play of college life. What a play!! What a life!!

New Choir Auditions Being Held This Week

The Rollins Chapel Choir, in other years an organization of about sixty students, has so far this year proved that it can carry on despite wartime shortages, namely manpower. The quality of the work done by the group has been maintained, and on some occasions has been improved upon. This success has been due to a great extent to the men of the STAR Unit who sang with the choir as regular members during their stay at Rollins, and also to the members of the Bach Festival Choir who have on several special occasions augmented the Chapel Choir.

The first rehearsal of the new year found the tenor and bass sections greatly depleted, the STAR Unit choristers having departed during the holidays. The soprano and alto sections also have several vacancies.

Although it is against the policy of the choir to take in permanent members after the fall auditions have closed, Dr. Honaas will make an exception this year, and will hold auditions all this week for students and STAR Unit men who are interested. The service men are particularly welcome, despite the fact that they may not be at Rollins for a long period of time. Membership in the Chapel Choir may greatly increase the enjoyment of their stay on campus, however short.

Two Courses Added To Winter Curriculum

Two new courses have been added to the Rollins winter curriculum. One is a seminar in history, "One Hundred Twenty-Five Years of American Foreign Policy," given twice weekly (Tuesdays and Thursdays, "F" period) by Dr. Kathryn Hanna. It is listed as a lower division

Dr. Kathryn Hanna Opens Lectures Today

Dr. Kathryn Abbey Hanna, speaking on the subject of the 19th Century Pattern of the National State this afternoon, January 12, at 4:00 o'clock in the Annie Russell Theatre, inaugurates the first in a series of ten lectures dealing with the National State System of Hispanic America. These lectures are a part of the Rollins College Adult Education Program and are designed to stimulate intellectual cooperation in the western hemisphere as a means of winning the war and the post-war peace. Students and faculty members of Rollins College and their families are invited to attend the lectures without charge.

The course of lectures is a summary of the pattern of national statehood, as it has developed throughout a century and a half in Latin America and the manner in which each Latin American nation has sought and is seeking to express its life. The eight lectures Dr. Hanna gave in 1943 under the general subject, "Twenty Nations in the Making," were designed to provide a general background of information; in them she sketched an over-all view of the Hispanic American region as a whole. The subject matter of the following lectures has been broken down into national units as a sequel to the more unified picture and as the next logical step in a study of present and future Inter-American cooperation.

Dr. Hanna has been known for twenty years as a student, teacher, author and lecturer on subjects of vital moment to the American people. Dr. Hanna believes that the public should become more realistically aware of the neighbor nations which are the basis of the foreign policy of the United States.

Purpose of Yearbook Meet Is to Assemble Student Help

Honaas Divulges Complete Program Of Bach Festival

Christopher O. Honaas recently announced the complete program and list of soloists for the forthcoming Bach Festival, which will be presented late in February, climaxing the annual Founder's Week activities.

The program will be presented in three performances. On Thursday afternoon, February 24, three of Bach's outstanding cantatas will be sung. They are Cantata No. 140, Wake, Awake!, (requested), Cantata No. 154, My Darest Jesu Now Hath Left Me, and Cantata No. 4, Christ Lay in Death's Dark Prison. On Friday, February 25, the great Mass in b minor, considered Bach's masterpiece, will be sung in its entirety in two performances.

With the exception of Lura Stover, who will appear here for her first time this year, all of the soloists for the Festival have appeared with this organization several times. Miss Stover is a soprano, American-trained, whose voice and musicianship have been highly praised by several eminent critics, among them Dr. Hans Kindler, conductor of the National Symphony Orchestra. The other soloists are Lydia Summers, contralto, Harold Haugh, tenor, and J. Alden Edkins, baritone.

6 New Students Enroll; Others Return Again

Six new students have been enrolled in Rollins College for the winter term. Moulton Lee Adams from Mandarin, Florida, is a Phi Delta Theta transfer from the University of North Carolina, and is interested in botany. Calvin Lambert Beard, brother of Walter Beard, is a former student of the Winter Park High School. Stephen Mark Rosoff from Brooklyn, New York, graduated from the Polytechnic Preparatory Country day school. Sheldon Arthur Terry from Chicago, Illinois, is a graduate of the Von Stuben High School. Doris Kirkpatrick from Winter Haven, Florida, is a transfer from the Florida State College for Women. Mary Belle Randall of Orlando attended the College Preparatory School, Cincinnati, Ohio, and is interested in creative writing.

A number of former Rollins students have been enrolled for this term. They are: Robert Hagnauer, Margaret Clarke Ragsdale, Elizabeth Trotter, Embury Wilson, Betty Jane Winther, Shirley Winther, and Laura May Ripley.

Writers, Photographers and Artists Among Those Urged to Appear for Assignments

Attention! Rollins students one and all: Important event! Big rally Thursday evening at 7:30, Rec Hall, everyone invited.

Now you know. The big event of the week—the month—maybe the year. Because the subject of the rally is the Tomokan, the Rollins yearbook, which is of major importance to those of Rollins. The inside information is that all those who are interested in doing writing, art work, photography, typing, and proof reading for the Tomokan should be present at this rally. This is the only meeting in which people will sign to do the work they are interested in. More and beyond this—and speaking of inside information: Tomokan business is strictly secret from the world at large; only the staff knows what goes. The theme and dedication of the Tomokan are not announced until the book comes out—but already rumors are afoot and speculation has started. The powers that be—the editorial board to you—consisting of Marjorie Hansen, Jean Hamaker, Nancy Ragan, Merlyn Gerber, and Larry Rachlin, have been at work since before Christmas, with Mr. Granberry as faculty adviser on top. The first fruit of their labors—photographs of all the students—is being begun this week by photographer Robert E. Dittrich of Orlando. Other master hands at same—that is, you who can take a snapshot—are encouraged to do so, particularly at college events.

The fun has already started, and now that the Board has decided to let some select members of the outside world in on what has been happening in the inner room, hesitate not to take advantage of this spectacular offer!

Helen Moore Opens Faculty Recitals

The Faculty Recital Series, a group of concerts presented by members of the Rollins Conservatory of Music Faculty, will be opened this year by Helen Moore, associate professor of piano. Miss Moore will appear at the Annie Russell Theatre January 14.

Miss Moore is a Juilliard graduate, and has studied with Isidor Philipp, Harold Bauer, and James Friskin. She has appeared in concert throughout this country, in Cuba, and as soloist with several symphony orchestras.

Other artists to be presented on this series are Lorraine Crittenden, violinist, a newcomer to the Rollins faculty, on February 4; Mabel Ritch, contralto, on February 11; and Louise Homer, assisted by her pupils, on March 4.

Prexy Says—

At this time, as we stand on the brink of the new year, Dr. Holt gives this message to us, the student body, old and new. It is his purpose to set before us the changes and challenges that this year shall bring to us at Rollins and in the world at large.

"All signs point to the year 1944 as being one in which momentous things will happen. The war in Europe is likely to be won with the defeat of Germany, for Germany is a realistic nation and when she realizes that there is no hope of victory she will capitulate tho her troops are on foreign soil as was the case in the first world war.

Japan is a different opposing force—: she will never be conquered until her own soil is actually occupied. Therefore, our young people should realize that we are approaching the end of the third act of the greatest tragedy in the history of the world.

The college is proud of the way in which the students have made those sacrifices which have been asked of them.

When this war is won, I believe that there will be a new era of prosperity for all the American institutions of higher learning. The government is formulating plans even now for the rehabilitation of returning soldiers who will be sent back to the schools and colleges for further education. There should be whole new areas of our population which will come to see that a college education enables one to start part way up the ladder of success rather than at the bottom, and they will send the sons and daughters to college.

The Greek philosopher Heraclitus has said, "Panta rei," "all things flow", so we, too, may expect sweeping changes. After the war some of the present bitterness, but not all of it, shall remain. Just as giving women suffrage did not bring heaven on earth as its proponents prophesied, nor hell as its opponents declared; so, we can discount both the rosy prophecies of the radicals and the fears of the reactionaries as to what kind of a world we shall live in in the post war era.

You students have been fortunate in being old enough to have had this war and its meaning etch itself into your consciousness for so long as you shall live; and furthermore of being young so that you can play a vital part as sovereign citizens in a free democracy should, in binding up the wounds of war and the building up of a post war world based on the ultimate ideals of truth, beauty, and goodness".

With this message Dr. Holt welcomes us back to Rollins. In previewing the year to come he has pointed out those aims and goals towards which we must rededicate ourselves if we are to fulfill our responsibilities both to self, community, and country.

Unassuming yet mighty, sharp and pointed, well-rounded yet many sided, assiduously tenacious, yet as gritty and energetic as its name implies, victorious in single combat and therefore without a peer, wonderfully attractive and extensive in circulation: all these will be found upon investigation to be among the extraordinary qualities of the Sandspur.

East of The Flagpole

Lots of things have happened here since this dribble was last made public . . . We hope that you all had the kind of Christmas and New Year's that you wished for yourselves . . . around here the swellest Christmas party on record took place Thursday night before Christmas and the repeater on New Year's Eve was also a record maker . . . hats off to Rudy who served the swell Christmas dinner . . . Just the right atmosphere and the carol singing of the Misses Waddell and Keith before and after the dinner were appreciated by all . . . Many thanks to Miss Mac for a splendid New Year's celebration . . . Quite a turnover of personnel has taken place here . . . Most of the Spanish casanovas are well into their ASTP studies . . . What former member of section fourteen tried for over twenty hours to reach a Florida city that sounds like a cigar to bid somebody farewell when he was suddenly put on orders? . . . Is there anything that Scotty Munich cannot do? . . . His renown as a basketball player was already well known . . . He topped that off by subbing for Silvi as basketball coach while the Sgt. is on furlough . . . His first effort brought a 46-37 victory over the highly rated team from the Orlando Air Base . . . It was his artistic efforts that resulted in such a fine decorating of the Christmas tree displayed at the Horseshoe . . . To top it off he is our recommendation for the soldiers' medal for saving the life of "The Moose" Moineau when the

Your Chapel Tower

Dr. William A. Constable, who, in Dean Edmonds' absence, so ably took over the Dean's duties at the Knowles Memorial Chapel last Sunday, consented to edit The Chapel Tower this week.

What Is Religion? In order to include all the great religions, we may have to speak of it simply as a binding "Sense of the Sacred" or poetically with Fielding Hall as "the music of the Infinite echoed from the hearts of men"; or in a more limited sense, we may say "The worship of God in spirit and in truth." All that such phrases can do is to suggest something which it is beyond the power of the words to define, but which is vital for the living of the fullest life.

As William H. Carruth puts it:

A picket frozen on duty,
A mother starved for her brood;
Socrates drinking the hemlock,
And Jesus on the rood;
And millions who humble and nameless,
The straight hard pathway plod,
Some call it consecration,
But others call it God.

Many of you, like myself, may prefer to call the ultimate reality with which we seek contact and communion by the name of God; but we must take heed that we do not deny Him by refusing fellowship to those who believe in very much the same reality because they use a different name.

For we cannot limit the ways in which God may make His Presence felt in the human heart or reveal his message to us for our day and generation. In deed the Divine message often comes from the most unexpected quarters and in the most disturbing ways. That is why people have so often stoned the prophets of God. And those people were not what we would call wicked; they were sometimes highly respectable—the representatives of the vested interests in the religion of their time. It is quite easy to be respectable; it is not easy to be genuinely religious in the sense that we have our minds and hearts open to the guidance of the Divine Spirit, and are prepared to follow wherever that Spirit may lead. Religion is not a refuge for cowards; it is a call to heroism. And the reward is not material comfort, but simply that it will fill our lives with greater meaning and nobler purpose—with faith, hope and love, the things that abide.

And a happier New Year to you.

We have with us this week and every week from now until election time, Grace Sebree, in the office of news editor. Grace, who had been hiding her journalistic propensities under the proverbial bushel, was called into service last year to report an event in her major field—the Conservatory. Since then, she has served as a regular reporter, proof reader and copy reader extraordinaire. Efficiency and fun personified, she means business concerning deadlines. Reporters please note.

Upon our return from our holiday in the frozen wastes of the north to the warm and sunny office of the Sandspur, it says here, we found several farewell notes from STAR Unit men who had availed themselves of the use of our battered but trusty typewriter. One was particularly touching. In chalk on our filing cabinet was written these symbols—2 ASTP plus 0 to the second power equals plus 2TS.

We have three witnesses who will stake their meagre supply of chewing gum on the testimony that the four canine attaches of the STAR Unit were heard barking in cadence. Miriam Firestone contributes again! (Trumpet flourish) Her parody on Leigh Hunt's Abou Ben Adam defies comment.

"Miriam Firestone (may her power increase)

Awoke one night from a deep dream of peace

And saw within her moonlit boudoir
A vision of herself as a tennis star,
And aloud she asked 'Can this be true?'

Answered a voice, a voice that knew
"No! Tennis is your Waterloo."

The vision vanished, but once more the next night

It came again with a great awakening light,

And showed the names of rotten players that had tried their best,

And lo! the name of Firestone led all the rest."

For a half hour's real entertainment, get Larry Rachlin to expound on the rooming set-up at KA House. According to him, the halls are like the subways at the rush hour, the wash rooms are reminiscent of accounts of concentration camps, and self-appointed room assigner Nick Morrissey sends all newcomers to the sardine can that is one fifth Larry's abode.

The Case of the Missing Encyclopedia: A fifteen minute search for Volume G of an encyclopedia set in the library had at least one student and one librarian slightly upset the other day, until said volume was discovered tucked under the sleeping form of a STAR Unit man.

Rollins Tennis Players Win Honors During Vacation

Lopaus, Rosenquest, Clifton, Oster Star In Tournament Championship Games

Our Rollins tennis players once again made the headlines. In the National Junior Indoor Tennis Tournament held at Brookline, Mass., this Christmas vacation, Lillian Lopaus, last year's champion, and Betty Rosenquest went to the finals and semi-finals respectively.

With her lightning service and net game Betty had little trouble in making her way to the semi-finals in which she met Shirley Fry. Miss Fry took this match 6-2, 6-3 in a defensive but accurate "slow ball" game.

Lillian Lopaus walked through the semi-final round with a 6-1, 6-3 margin over Norma Miester. In the finals "Georgia" met Shirley Fry and lost the first set 6-1. In the second set "Georgie" settled down to her steady back court game, placing shot after shot on the base line, but when the games were three-all, her backhand faltered, and Miss Fry went on to win the set 6-3 and the championship.

In the doubles finals "Georgie" and Betty played Shirley Fry and Norma Miester. The Rollins co-eds were the favorites to win the championship and retain the title that they have held for the last five years, but in a definite up-set their opponents defeated them 6-4, 7-5.

Connie Clifton, the Florida Women's Singles Champion, retained the title that she received last year when Doris Hart relented the title. Connie played Mrs. Goddard, former number one player on Stetson's team, in the finals and took the championship 6-4, 6-4. Connie's deep drives and steady volleys were too much for the hard hitting Mrs. Goddard.

In the Eastern Indoor Junior Tournament held in New York City this vacation Hank Oster battled his way to the semi-finals. In this match he was defeated by Linton Baldwin 6-4, 6-4. Hank's sizzling serve caused his opponent constant trouble, but Mr. Baldwin broke through and took the match.

In the doubles Hank and Charlie Oliver took the championship 6-1, 6-4, 6-0. This was the most brilliant tennis of the tournament with the champions playing a forcing net game.

Basketball Team to Play WACS Tonight At Davis Armory

A Rollins team has entered the Orlando Girls' Basketball League Round Robin Tourney. Four teams compose the League. In addition to Rollins', there are teams from the Orlando Transit System, the WAC of the Orlando Air Base, and the Orlando High School.

The opening game was to be held on the evening of January 6, when the Rollins girls were scheduled to play the WAC team. However, because almost the entire college basketball team was enjoying the flu at that time, the game has been postponed until 7:30 tonight.

Tomorrow night, Rollins will meet the group from the Orlando Transit. The games will be played every Thursday—one at 7:30 and the other at 8:30—in the Davis Armory in Orlando. Admission to these games is twenty-five cents, plus tax. The support of the entire college will be welcomed.

NO PHYSICAL EDUCATION CLASS CHANGES WILL BE MADE AFTER JANUARY 1!

Lecture Series—

The lectures consist of the following titles:

January 12—The 19th Century of the National State.

January 19—Central America: Area of United States Influence.

January 26—Mexico's Struggle for Stability and Democracy.

February 2—The Canal Region and Its Problems.

February 9—The Pacific States: Hispanic Americans' Most Modern War.

February 16—The LaPlata Basin: Argentina, Paraguay, Uruguay.

February 23—Brazil: Hispanic America's Largest State.

March 1—The Caribbean Nations: Island Republics.

March 8—The Caribbean Nations: Venezuela and the European Colonies.

Several Weddings of Rollins Students Take Place During Recent Holidays

Cupid's antics at Rollins for the past several years were culminated during the Christmas holidays with the marriages of three Rollins couples.

Henry-Acree

The wedding of Alice Henry, member of the Rollins faculty and a Rollins graduate, and Edwin Bruce Acree, Jr., also a former Rollins student, took place in the Presbyterian Church in Newark, New Jersey on Thursday, December 31 at five-thirty.

A reception at the bride's home was followed by dinner for the bridal party at the Sheriton Hotel in Newark.

The couple honeymooned in North Arlington, New Jersey. The groom is studying meteorology at the Naval Air Station in Lakehurst, New Jersey.

Twachtman-Banzhaf

Miss Jean Erice Twachtman and Ensign Parker S. Banzhaf, USNR, were married in Christ Church Methodist, New York City, on December 23. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Ralph W. Sockman. The bride's uncle, Dr. Ashby B. Morrill of Bronxville, New York, gave the bride in marriage. Mrs. Constant J. Ninger, sister of the groom, was matron of honor, and Miss Marian D. Berry was maid of honor. The other attendants were Mrs. J. R. Peddicord, Miss Jocelyn Bower, and Miss Julie Trowbridge.

The groom's cousin, Edwin Banzhaf, was best man. The ushers were Lt. Constant J. Ninger AUS, Ensign David McMillan USNR, Mr. Norbert R. Bensabat, and Mr. Vladimir Dupre.

A reception was held in the Burnside Room of the Church immediately following the ceremony.

Heath-Bittle

The marriage of Miss Ina Mae Heath and Lt. Quentin Bittle of the United States Marine Corps took place in the Knowles Memorial Chapel at four o'clock, Friday, December 31. The double ring ceremony was read by Dean Enyart, assisted by President Hamilton Holt. Mrs. Paul Haley, the former Miss Shirley Bowstead, was matron of honor, and Miss Eloise Bittle, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. The bride was given away by her mother, Mrs. W. C. Heath. The groom's father, Mr. Glenn S. Bittle, was best man. The ushers were Lt. William Justice USMC, and Corporal Gerald D. Griffin of Camp Blanding, Florida.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Alumni House of Rollins College.

Lt. Bittle leaves Thursday for New River, North Carolina. The bride will remain at Rollins until her graduation in March.

Students Involved in Tie-Up Following Tamiami Champion Wreck Had Weary Time

"The Tamiami Champion has met with disaster," the radio said Wednesday morning December 15. How were we supposed to know which section? And how were we supposed to know there even were two sections all the way up to New York? Pretty worried for a while, weren't we? Well, even though the Tampa Champion finally arrived at Washington intact, its travelers had quite a strenuous trip on the whole.

To begin with, a minor accident to a freight train caused the Champ to detour while the track was being cleared. To end with, the wreck of the Miami train prevented them from going back on the main track.

Passengers woke up at four in the morning to find themselves sitting in Florence, South Carolina. Next morning at ten, in Florence, South Carolina, the radio in the club car announced the wreck. This was all very confusing to our friends, as they had by now been in the same spot, unmolested for at least seven hours.

By this time everyone was a trifle disturbed, what with the wreck and the idea of sitting in South Carolina for Christmas, which indeed seemed inevitable at this time. People began plying the conductor with innumerable questions, all of which he answered with a general vagueness so characteristic of all train conductors. "Washington by eight if we are lucky" was all he would say. (They were not lucky).

From eight o'clock that morning, it may also be added, there was no food, water, etcetera, on the train, the lack of etcetera proving to be a very irritating element to all concerned. Everyone managed to survive, however, until the train began to move and finally, in its jerky fashion stopped at a metropolis which sold egg sandwiches, which were not tasty, but were nevertheless eaten, post haste.

In the middle of the afternoon the train was still in South Carolina but there were high hopes now—it was moving. "Wouldn't it be terrible if we didn't get to Washington till after midnight," said a witty someone, in the tone of voice which made everyone realize that that was the farthest thing from her mind.

At eight o'clock, they pulled into Rocky Mount, North Carolina, and at six the next morning they arrived, a little tired and worse for the wear, at Washington, D. C.

The pathetic part is that these people got none of the glory they expected and were no doubt due, having had such harrowing experiences. Their adventures were too overshadowed by the big wreck. People make light of the fact that they were twenty hours late, just because a couple of other trains got rather mixed up.

For this reason your reporter has wished to publish this true account of their trip up in hopes that the public will become cognizant of their sufferings as well as those of the people on the other train.—B. S.

Graduation Highlights Last Convocation; Chapel Christmas Service Presented Twice

On December 15, 1943, Rollins held its first fall term graduation convocation in Knowles Memorial Chapel, President Holt presiding.

The invocation was given by Dean Enyart, followed by the Choir singing the Rollins Chapel Song. A welcome to the men of the Army Specialized Training Program was made by Dean Wendell Stone, educational director of the STAR program, and President Holt.

Professor Willard Wattles, president of the Rollins Phi Society, announced the following students accepted for the Phi Society: Halli-jeanne Chalker, Connie Clifton, Bunny Sloan, Eleanor Lyon, Margaret Knight, Dorothy Churchill.

President Holt awarded the Rollins College social organizations scholarship trophy to the Pi Beta Phi Sorority and Phi Delta Theta Fraternity.

President Holt then conferred the Bachelor of Arts degree to Mrs. Barbara Peddicord, Mrs. Phyllis Cashore, Mrs. Erma Hugh, and Mrs. Sammie Yopp. Walter Beard Jr. received a Bachelor of Science Degree and Richard Sewell received the same in absentia.

Almost two thousand years ago, in a tiny stable in Bethlehem, a little child was born; and the annual celebration of His Birth is dear to the hearts of all the Christian world. And so, at Christmas time especially, the Chapel and its activities, which always stand for peace on earth, good-will toward men, have a special meaning.

Ever of paramount importance in the college calendar is the Christmas service. Its solemn beauty conveys to everyone the full, rich meaning of Christmastide.

This year's service, on December 12, was held twice to enable every-

Mme. Boecop's Novel, 'Kingtree,' Appears; Advance Sales Good

The Baroness Van Boecop, French professor at Rollins, has just returned from a very exciting Christmas vacation. First of all, she toured New England giving lectures in Boston, New York, Worcester, and Scarsdale to large and appreciative audiences.

Secondly, she spent Christmas Day in Brooklyn visiting the families of nine of the STAR Unit men who lived in New York, giving out firsthand information on their doings and whereabouts.

And to top it all, her second book came out on Friday, January 7, 1944. Her first book, Roots, met with great success when it made its debut a short while ago, but the advance sales of this one, The King Tree, have already doubled the advance sales of Roots.

The King Tree is a very dramatic story of American colonization. It follows in great detail three generations of planters down to modern times, and finally emerges with the story of an American girl of ten one to attend. The first, at 6:45, was heard by a capacity congregation; the second, at 9:00, was not so well attended because of insufficient publicity. In a true Yuletide atmosphere of wreaths and trees, the organ prelude from Handel's Messiah ushered in the service, which was composed mainly of musical selections by the choir, with solos by Barbara Balsara, Grace Sebree, and Lucille David. Student readings were delivered by Marjorie Coffin, Ray Biggerstaff, and Jean Twachtman, now Ban-zhaf.

The congregation followed the choir to see the tableau after the service was over. Under Miss Cameron's direction, it was a most impressive sight. Richard Lane was Joseph, Betty Adams the Virgin Mary, Hazel Chitty, Alice and Barbara Neal the Angels, and Gail Cartwright and Penny Starr the Cherubs.

Another highlight of the season was the Carol Vespers program given by Herman F. Siewert, organist, on December 14, at 5:00. All the beloved Christmas carols were presented by Mr. Siewert and the public, free of charge, from 2-5 P. M. on weekdays, and from 3-6 P. M. on Sundays.

Morse Gallery Shows Hoppin's Paintings

Morse Gallery of Art at Rollins announces the opening, on January 5, of an exhibition of oil paintings by Tracy Hoppin.

Mr. Hoppin, a Harvard graduate, obtained his art training in New York and Paris. A widely traveled man, he has lived in France, Italy, Norway, Russia, Egypt, Bermuda, and Hawaii.

Mr. Hoppin is best known as a landscape painter, and has exhibited his paintings at the National Academy and the Century Club in New York, and the Pennsylvania Academy in Philadelphia.

Forty-three paintings are being shown at the Morse Gallery. Among them are portraits, woodland scenes of Connecticut, harbor views of Gloucester and Cape May, Bermuda seascapes, and Florida landscapes.

The gallery will be open to the years ago, with a few months at Rollins College. The book is so new that the critics have not as yet passed judgment, either good or bad, upon it, but the theme is intriguing, and if appearances are a measurement it should meet with very great success.
