Choir Resumes Activities With Record Turnout

The Chapel Choir under the direction of Christopher O. Homaas has resumed its activities for the year with a record turnout of new voices. Following a choir tradition, the new members will be on probation for several weeks during which time they will wear black academic robes for the services in which they participate. On Choir Sunday those who have been finally accepted will march in the procession and wear the uniform blue and white vestments. The new members are: Sopranos—Carolyn Alfred, Alison Cunningham, Elizabeth Bull, Dulcie Elaine Whitney, Jacqueline Biggerstaff, Jeanine Romer, Margaret Williams, Mary Frances Hill, Shirley Christensen, Mary Louise Sinclair, Altos—Margery Reese, Mary Jane Whitley, Barbara Roth, Agnes Hendrix, Lois Cheeseman, Dorothy Best, Nancy Burnett, Barbara McLaughlin, Mary Lee Ayerick, Mary Louis Rothermel, Margy Mountcastle. Basses—Roland Horner, David Larsen, Thomas Mullen, John Murphy, Robert McCue, Richard Johnson, Ernest Bartholomew.

The choir committee, composed of the officers, has met to discuss plans for the year. The committee includes the President, Michael Mallis; Secretary, Barbara Oltch; Social secretary, June Nelson; Student organist, Robert Selzer; Student conductor, Ernie Walker; Librarian, Fred Hartley; Assistant librarian, Kenneth Newburn.

The plans for this term include the services in which the choir regularly participates at Convocation, Christmas and Thanksgiving.

Toward the end of this month, the choir will begin recording. The first records will be used only for the improvement of the choir but it is planned by Christmas to have recordings which the students and public may purchase. The choir has also been given the opportunity of recording under the labels of the two major recording companies.

A number of invitations have been extended to the choir this season to give concerts in neighboring cities. One such trip was undertaken last spring and proved very successful.

All students expecting to graduate by June, 1949, who have not filed Upper Division papers are required to do so before November 29.

Any students who expect to graduate this year should file their Upper Division papers not later than Wednesday, October 20, 1947, if they have not already done so.

Flamingo's New Staff Announced By Editor; Literature First Topic

The first meeting this year of the Flamingo, the college literary magazine, was held last Wednesday night at 7:30 in the Woolson house. Editor-in-Chief Zoe Weston announced her new staff as follows: art director, Dan Hudgens; fiction editor, Bill Shelton; poetry editor, Mary Malta Peters; non-fiction editor, Jean Lipscomb; proof editor, Mary Alice Adams; business manager, Carlyle Seymour.

Plans for this year's Flamingo were discussed, and it was decided that the magazine would run in three issues again this year with a slight change in cover design.

The subject for "Critics Corner," a feature in the Flamingo, was talked about, and it was agreed upon to use literature for the first topic. What piece of literature it is to be will be decided in the next meeting.

It was also voted upon to add an article to the magazine, the title being "The Student Discuss." This article will consist of vital world problems and the students' views on these problems. The problem to be used in the fall issue will be agreed upon in the next meeting also.

As all material has to be into the printers by the 15th of November, the editors and staff will have to work fast to get material from the talented students on campus. Miss Weston has no doubts as to their ability, for as she says, "They are the best staff yet, and we are going to have the best Flamingo that has hit this campus in many years."

First Dance Of Year Sponsored By Phi Mu

The first dance of the year, the annual Paper Moon Swing, will be held at Dukesdread Country Club, Saturday, October 18, from 9 until 12 p.m.

Sponsored annually by Phi Mu sorority, the dance will be on the club patio to the rhythm of Jimmy Hill's orchestra. The dance is semi-formal, so decorations will be simple. Faculty members will serve as chaperones.

Players Open Season With "Joan of Lorraine"; Madge Martin Selected To Play Lead Role

Maxwell Anderson's "Joan of Lorraine," first Rollins Players presentation of the current season, has been cast following tryouts held by Director Howard Bailey. The production, which drew capacity crowds during its recent Broadway run, will be presented in Annie Russell Theatre, November 4 through November 8.

Madge Martin, formerly seen in "Antigone" and many other Rollins plays, won the coveted role of Mary Gray, who also portrays Joan D'Arc. Sidney Lanier, of last year's "Mark Twain" cast, characterizes Jimmy Masters, a director, who turns takes the part of the Inquisitor. Others in the cast include William Barker, Cy Liberman, Barbara Lewis, Pearl

Band Re-organizes as Tar Boosters Plan Instruments, Uniforms

The Rollins College Band was re-organized by Bandmaster Everett Roberts in Recreation Hall last Thursday evening.

Roberts outlined some of the plans which hope to be carried out in the coming school year. He stated that in the past Rollins has always depended upon outside musicians for help when the band performed, but that this year he hoped to keep the organization as a strictly college unit.

The meeting was originally planned in connection with the Tar Boosters, a newly formed organization for supporting Rollins Teams, but at the last minute it was decided that instead this meeting would be entirely an organizational affair.

The Tar Boosters, under the direction of Ray Paschel, have made one of their projects the equipping of the band with new uniforms and instruments.

Prexy Arrives 1:36; Ardent Admirers Plan Big Welcome

The college will turn out en masse today to welcome President Hamilton Holt, who is due to arrive on the West Coast Champion at 1:36. City and college officials will be at the station to meet him, and the entire student body is invited to be there, too.

If, as is quite possible, the train is late, all students will be excused from their classes for long enough to go welcome Dr. Holt. Efforts are being made to secure a band to be at the station also.

With Dr. Holt riding in an open car, a cavalcade will proceed from the Atlantic Coast Line depot down Park Avenue to Holt Avenue, around the Horseshoe, down Interlachen, and to his home, where the parade will end.

Le Corbusier's Works Exhibited Oct. 20-26 At Morse Art Gallery

"The New Spirit," the first comprehensive exhibition of the work of LeCorbusier, Swiss pioneer of modern architecture, will be displayed at the Morse Art Gallery, next week from 2 to 5 p. m. daily and 3 to 6 p. m. Sunday. The exhibit of 96 items will include a group of architectural photographs, paintings and literature, presented on a series of well documented panels, supplemented by individual paintings and drawings.

LeCorbusier, whose given name is Charles Edouard Jeanneret-Gris, was born in Switzerland, studied in Italy, Austria, and with Auguste Perret in Paris. One of the most progressive of contemporary architects, his works include the Domino Project, Citrohan Project, Salvation Army Project in Paris, the Villa de la Garches and other housing projects in Paris.

The Pelican, Rollins pavilion on Coronado Beach, should be ready for use by the students within the next two weeks, according to George C. Cartwright, Supt. of Grounds and Buildings.

The improvements, and extensive repairs which have been in progress since the closing of the spring term, are nearing completion, after a delay caused by the recent storm. The exterior of the building has been recovered with asbestos shingles, an aluminum roof has been put on, and two large picture windows, overlooking the ocean have been installed. The plumbing facilities have been increased by two new showers upstairs, one down, and additional toilet facilities for men downstairs. The porch has been screened to give added sleeping quarters, and the entire building has been refitted. The beach was increased by 30 feet by the storm, which did not damage the pavilion itself.

The same rules and procedure for parties will apply this year as in previous years, with the exception that the resident head will not be expected to assume the duties of chaperone, and all groups are required to provide their own chaperones. Mrs. Lucy Kenyon, who, with her husband, the late Mr. Bob Kenyon, was resident head last year, will remain in that capacity for the time being.

Bates Wants Rollins Girls' Talent To Join Representative Board

Bates Fabrics, Inc., have this year chosen Rollins as one of twelve colleges and universities that they wish to have on their college board. Each year, they select a representative group of students to help them in the designing, coloring, styling and general acceptance of their product for the coming season. This board is asked to help in gathering information about style trends and other pertinent facts about fashion on campus.

Members of the board receive as a reward for their endeavors, $150 in cash, plus a trip with all expenses paid to New York City, where they are billeted and chaperoned in the Waldorf-Astoria for a period of one week. During their stay in New York, they work with top-flight American designers, as well as leading members of the fashion press. They also appear on radio and television shows and tour various advertising agencies and national magazines.

All students on the board must be talented enough to help with a national advertising program, have a flair for fashion or design, be personable enough to conduct group forums with their associates to ascertain facts about fashion, and photogenic enough to appear in the national advertising program.

WE LOOK AT DR. HOLT

In the New York Times magazine section of August 17 is an article entitled "Dr. Holt Looks at Education and Youth." In the article, conventional college president interview though it is, this Dr. Holt emerges as quite a remarkable individual — a man of depth and insight and fervor, one with an abundance of ideas and the drive to carry them out. "I have interviewed many a college president," says the author, "but I can think of none . . . with a more human approach to the problem of education."

And this is Hamilton Holt. It is the same Hamilton Holt that we see wandering around the campus in loud sports shirts and droopy trousers, the same one who may suddenly appear in one of our classes at any moment, the one who delights in playing "I've Been Working On the Railroad" for a group of singing students. This is the man whom we speak of fondly as "Prexy", whom we point out proudly and possessively to our parents when they come to visit.

But it is also the Hamilton Holt whose reputation as an advocate of world peace has been won by years of devoted work, the educator whose theories have had strong influences on modern teaching, the thinker whose ideas have made a college. In spite of the catalogue, which mentions the startling innovations that he has made during the twenty-two years of his presidency; in spite of the articles we see mentioning his achievements; in spite of the admiring comments of those who know him well, we tend to forget these aspects of the man. He is too real, too human, to be thought of as a figure of national as well as campus importance. He is too much our Prexy for us to think of him as an awe-inspiring figure.

Perhaps we don't appreciate him fully — but at any rate, we like him and admire him and think of him as an essential part of the college. For to every Rollins student, "Holt is Rollins" — and we're glad he's back. Welcome home, Prexy! P. M.

LA PENSEUSE

She's unusual, she's lovely, and she might even have a good word for the Ponds Company . . . las-bien grease or something. Anyhow, we're talking about the Rollins Pompadour with the classy chassis, Kaye Haenichen. Some call her Princess for this lush dish is as regal as they come, at least on this campus, or anywhere else for that matter.

As you have probably noticed, Kaye has an intense love for any and everything that is even remotely connected with French. It all started in early childhood when mama dubbed her Kathine (that's kinda Frenchy, no?). She fed her on pot pourri, made a few faux pax, bought a Chevrolet coupe, took her to the Mardi Gras, and sent her off to Rollins with a French book in hand. Since then Kaye has done much to establish tres gay relations with our furriners on campus. She's constantly seen rubbing elbows with Prince Franz, Count Andre, and the bourgeoisie three, Jose, Jon, and Toni. Occasionally she is even seen with the Dozer. Yep, it's the same Kaye.

But Kaye isn't all wrapped up in her French . . . just fully clothed in it, shall we say. Her interests are so wide and varied that she herself sometimes gets them confused. She's artistic to the nth degree; she loves great literature; all types of music appeal to her (ever hear her sing The Man I Love) and she'll philosophize your head off if given half a chance. In fact, there's not anything Kaye isn't willing to plunge into with her whole sympathetic and romantic heart. Speaking of plunges, last year she won the individual honors in the swimming meet. So you can see that Kaye is a most versatile gal.

She can ably discuss for hours the remotest subjects, so unless you're prepared for plenty, watch what you say around her. Nothing is of greater interest to her than people and I do mean that in the plural. She is never more thrilled than when she has met the newest and oddest campus character, explored his soul, and made one more "buddy". The enthusiasm with which she faces everything is a genuine and sincere as her mysteriousness, for they are a part of one another. I believe she attains this air of mystery through her quietness. It is as terrifying as the calm before the storm. Incidentally, the storm is quite exciting.

Princess, or La Penseuse, as she describes herself finds her true

by Mary Malta Peters

Barbara "Benny" Bennett, newest addition to the English staff, must at once be labeled "kind". Just the other day she answered "Yes," when a freshman inquired, "Are we supposed to be adults now?"

Benny, who did her graduate work at Peabody, graduated from Dickenson College, Carlisle, Pennsylvania. A Phi Mu there, she won letters in basketball and softball, was editor of the Little Theatre Magazine, wrote the Christmas Play, was on the production staff for the theatre, and made Phi Beta Kappa.

She considers her foremost accomplishment winning the Women's Pingpong Championship.

At present she is mastering the accordion, and in another two weeks expect to be able to render flawlessly "Two Guitars."

After Peabody, and before Rollins, Benny spent her months wandering from Arkansas State College to Central Michigan College to Alabama College — to a tourist court where she rented rooms to transients.

Benny is browneyed and little, and her "wonderful" reaction to Rollins shines through all her conversation. "Particularly remarkable is the requisitioning department," she informed me — which should assure prompt replacements for 3x5 cards. Since that statement leaves the rest of us no less remarkable, it might prove wise to watch Benny. More than Shakespeare and freshman-sophomore English click behind her wide grin.

Rollins Conservatory Plans Student Recitals

Plans for recitals to be given by students of the Rollins Conservatory of Music during the Fall Term are already under way. It was announced this week. Final plans will be made at a meeting of the conservatory faculty to be held in the near future.

The usual hour of 4:00 P. M. on Fridays for student recitals in Dyer Memorial is expected to be continued. These recitals, open to the general public, will be resumed later this term as students become prepared to perform.

Two senior recitals to be held in the Annie Russell Theater during the Fall Term will be given by Carol Kirkpatrick, soprano, December 10, and Barbara Herring, pianist, December 12.

Slings and Arrows

Anyone passing by the Conservatory late Monday afternoon might have seen us being unceremoniously hoisted through the window of the Sandspur office. The keys had been mislaid again. Numerous suggestions have been offered as to the best method of keeping up with them, ranging from to hanging them from a chain around our necks to tying big conspicuous red bows around them. We are still open to suggestions, however.

We don't know exactly what the basis for this suddenly acquired absent-mindedness is, but it would probably make an interesting psychological study. In a similar case last spring we regularly lost the book to a class we didn't like. It's probably a matter of the subconscious mind taking over when the conscious mind is pre-occupied with other things.

Having for years gone through the receiving lines at wedding receptions congratulating everyone impartially, we were considerably surprised and embarrassed to learn that, while you are supposed to congratulate the groom on his winning so lovely a bride, you must never, never congratulate the bride on catching a man. And although at most weddings it's the bride who gets kissed, the custom was somewhat reversed at the Seavey-Mishehuck wedding, judging from the lipstick on the groom's face. In fact one young lady was so enthusiastically kissed that her hat went sailing across the floor.

Sun-bathing is such a well-established tradition at Rollins that even when the sun isn't shining (a condition all too frequent during the past two weeks) the students manage to get their tans. Every night you can find the room of Bev Clark in the Kappa house jammed with girls waiting to take their turn under her sunlamp.

For the past few days the dignified white walls of Corrin have been haunted by various Oriental hours and Egyptian dancing girls, slinking through the corridors and behind doors. Visitors must be warned that it is only Flip and Paula and Jinx and Lyn, trying to see who can dream up the most effective costume. It's about time for another costume ball, boys.

Eighty-three classes have never been noted for their vivacity and interest, but yawning seems to have reached epidemic proportions in Mr. McKean's 8:30 art class. Conditions finally became so bad that he dropped his lecture notes on the nature of art to expound upon the nature of yawning. As he explains it, there are three types of yawns: the polite one stifled by the palm of the hand, the deep hearty snore type which is more than audible, and the one that is partially disguised as a cough. It seems that yawning detracts Mr. McKean from his talk so much that he forgets what he is saying in trying to decide who will yawn next. Needless to say, the students took the hint, and held their yawns, though with considerable difficulty, until the class was over.

Many comical mistakes appear in news print, but one of the funniest of the year was in the invitations to an Alpha Club party. They calmly announced that the party would be stag and that there would be dancing. The mental pictures presented by this statement are endless in variety. —H. E.

Selections From Unpublished Works of John Shakespeare, to His Constituents at Rollins

Discovered and Arranged by Jack Flannelly

Dear readers, last Wednesday evening at approximately sixteen past eight in the upstairs of the library I was browsing about attempting to find a book titled THE LOVE LIFE OF INSECTS IN THE DAYS OF THE ROMAN EMPIRE. Unable to find it, I was ready to depart, when my eyes became focused on a volume called THE COMPLETE PSYCHOLOGY OF WHAT WITH UNCONSCIOUS ABSURDITY IS OFTEN CALLED "THE WEAKER SEX".

"Ah ha," I muttered, "here within may rest the key to all the mysteries of woman's nature." With alacrity I opened the book to chapter one whose caption read, THE SILKEN CORDS OF INTIMACY. But before a single sentence had registered in my mind two single sheets of faded yellow paper fell from it to the floor. On picking them up I observed that they were clothed in pencil-driven verse.

A flash of pleasure swept me as I scanned the first poem. After reading the second one I began to compare the author to a Damascus blade gleaming and glancing in the sun. In a near state of exhaustion at the finish I knew that the author, who signed his name John Shakespeare, had made the experiences of the world of souls his special study. And furthermore, that everyone of his lines was a direct reflection of his personality.

After a brief respite I left the library like a Man-Of-War coming down the stretch on a fast track. Within fifteen minutes I had crowded into my room the intellectual might of the campus. As to who John Shakespeare might be, where he might have lived, and at what period, the literary lights could not for certain ascertain. However Ed Copeland summed it up quite admirably by saying, "Gentlemen, by deductive reasoning I have come to the conclusion that John Shakespeare was related to William. After all they both bear the same surname. Then too, we must not forget that we really know very little about William so it is only natural that we know the same about John. Therefore gentlemen, on the basis of obscurity, I contend that John Shakespeare was the direct descendant of William."

To some these poems may seem uninspired, imperfect and crude. But to the student of the psychology of literary art, they might prove most stimulating, because they enable one to penetrate into poetic origins, and into radical and creative energy.

Now dear readers let us turn our attention to John Shakespeare. The first poem bears no title.

"Oh thou vague perplexing wench
Dost thou believe my thirst thou quench?"

Empty-headed, go thy way
All thy know is how to play."

George Coccals' comment on this poem is, "This fine poem has a sharp stabbing quality about it. It is to be chiefly noted for the sharply etched, realistic picture it presents." Raoul Salamanca says, "This elaborate poem has an emotional range and intellectual validity rarely found in present day poetry." Bill O'Hara says, "It is remarkable for its construction and intensity."

The second poem to be analyzed is named,

TO A ROLLINS GIRL

"To a Rollins co-ed I did speak,
Said she, 'Knowledge is what I seek.'"

"What have you read?" said I to her,

"Oh many, many things, fine sir.
Why every week I'm prone to

Inside the stores for comic books".
Concerning this poem "Dozer" Graham says, "It contains no elaborate philosophy, yet the author has an irresistible way of expressing himself." Enrique Buse, the hazy striking bard from Lima, Peru remarks, "The expectation of finding in his work some quick, perverse and illuminating comment keeps the reader's interest from flagging." The third poem under consideration carries the appellation,

A BAG OF GOLD

"Oh Rollins woman with thy bag
of gold,
Is that what makes thee proud and bold?"

If it so thou cheatest none
Except thyself oh wasteful one."
Of this poem Joe Master says, "This poem is indeed a clearing-house for modern psychology and social doctrine. It stresses the need of society to rejuvenate and revitalize itself."

The last poem I will bring to the readers attention is left untitled.

"Oh Rollins woman,
Fool thou art to stand upon thy monied shrine;

Cause I for sweet revenge's sake
Shall marry thee and may thy money mine."

Burt Mullen the Nestor of Rollins College, comments on the above; "It is a well-organized poem presenting the spectacle of a distinguished poet placing much emphasis on a dogmatic materialistic belief." Howie Fisher says, "I have derived a great deal of satisfaction from the poetry of John Shakespeare. If sometimes his similes and metaphors seem to be devoid of languid aesthetic elegance, they are surely quivering to express living ideas."

To recapitulate for a moment, my foreign correspondent Andre Stenbock-Pernor has informed me that the first poem which bears no title is truly existentialist in mood. He says that the poem points with remarkable accuracy man's revolt against the tragic limitation for the full expansion for all his capacities. Being encircled in a hostile world by the stoups and halucinating shapes of that "vague and perplexing wench," man has to be, according to John Shakespeare and Sartre, fully responsible for all of his actions. Dear readers, Dick Knott has just now acquainted me with a strange phenomenon that is about to take place on the campus. It appears that one of the co-eds is readying herself to go into Winter Park by her favorite means of locomotion—the broomstick. I must try to interview her before she takes off.

Rollins Tea Party

"Get acquainted" tea parties have been a raving success at Rollins this weekend, not only in the sorority houses and the Independent dorm, but elsewhere. We could have been mistaken, but we are quite sure we heard the following requests:

SUGAR: Who's the hit of sweetness John Grey is looking for down at the Chi Omega house? Congrats to Sally Talman and Billy Henderson. Have you noticed that Nita D. seems to be buying Fuller brushes lately—the lovely couple that Laura and Harry are—and the beautiful wedding of Ted and Ellie Mischuck, two wonderful people.

LEMON: A state of extreme "acidity" exists between Phil H. and Betty B.—while Jim Anderson made a sour face at his Lake Virginia dunking birthday party, minus clothes. It's been rumored that the relationship between Bev C. and Don P. is strictly one of "franship." Why had Tenna Head been refusing dates this week?

CREAM: The smooth looks between Joe Popeck and Ginger Brooks—Julie thinks Harry is simply "devise"—while constantly together are Keith T. and Carol Alfred, Dana Abbot and Pete Fay, Buddy Behren and Judy Baker.

Bishop Louttit Talks With Canterbury Club At Episcopal Church

The Canterbury Club, organization of the Episcopal Church, will get under way this year with a supper meeting on October 22 at 6:15. All old and new students professors, and house-mothers who are Episcopallians, or who are interested in the work of the club, are invited to attend.

This group, which meets annually once a month, exists for the purpose of promoting general discussions on religious subjects among members of the college. The first meeting will be held at the Parish House of the All-Saints Episcopal Church, with dinner at 6:15, to be followed with a speech by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Henry Louttit. It will be adjourned promptly at 7:30, so as not to interfere with other college activities that evening.

The Canterbury Club is also sponsoring Youth Sunday on October 19, which will be observed by the Winter Park Episcopal Church with a corporate communion and breakfast celebrated at 7:30. There will also be an evening service conducted by the Canterbury Club at five p. m.

We would like to know if there is something between Marjorie Colt and the Governor?

HEARTY PARTY: The gay gatherings at the Tepee, Robbies, and Harpers on Friday night—the Lambda Chis and their dates were in fine voice at Harps. Harmonizing were Sab and Van Lewis, Fyergle and Pat, Chuck and Jan, Jim and Nan, Dudley and Barbara, Long John and Agnes, Mac and Zoe, Ernie and Tiny, and Carol and Tom. The El Patio was taken over Saturday night by Ed Brinson and Betty Roebuck, Bill O'Hara and Carol Austen, Betty Blizer and Frank Allen, Elly Cain and Gordon Marks, Mickey Branning and Jim Lister, Lallie Rogers and Buddy Lowe, Pat Purrey and Van Buren, while Abby, Margie, Sunny and Pat had dates with Phil Deils.

OHIT CHATS: Overheard: "We don't go with anybody, we just go." Bob Humphries saying his prayers: "Now I lay me down to awruff, Mrs. Dean to one of her students: "What did Menelaous do?" Student: "He didn't speak to me at supper." Joyce Junglas: "My little peasant, drop dead?" From the Illiad-Cecil Van Housar: "Nestor reminds me of chocolate." Ken Roswell: "Now I know why they put bars on the windows."

SIDE LINE GLANCES

by Lefty Saurbrun

Lest we forget, let us pay tribute to our victory over the highly favored Richmond Spiders. The determination to win was too much for the Virginians. How well we remember Frank Pollacks great catch between those two Richmond backs down on their 30 yard line, and Horton's great return of a punt far down into enemy territory. The blocking of our line was tops; Harry Hancock's block on the aforementioned run was a masterpiece. Speaking of Harry, that Number 50 was all over the field. We take our hats off to him for being the best defensive player of the night. Harry also proved his ability in Baseball this past year when he put on a spirited batting drive to finish second to Buddy McBride in the final averages. Harry has come in to his own where he truly belongs.

Come Friday night our boys will go into the Orange bowl again the underdog. Going back one year, it was about this time that Princeton upset a highly favored Penn team 18-14. Princeton played the bigger and faster Quakers off their feet. You know Miami can have only eleven on that field at one time. I believe they are in for a surprise from a Tar squad that will be greater than on October 4. The natural feeling will prevail that Rollins is a soft touch for the Hurricanes after battling TCU. It is bound to have a psychological effect on them. Rollins has speed, brains and a great will to win. Good luck, boys, most of us will be there to see you give them hell.

Cheerleading Co-Eds Elect New Members

The Rollins College cheerleaders held a meeting at Rec Hall Friday, October 10 at 5 p.m. in order to choose new members. Members from last year include Pat Van Sickle, Mary Uphigrove, and Dottie Aubine. New members are Jodie Wheeler, Jackie Bullock, Ginger Rogers, and Gloria Parker.

The cheerleaders outfit consist of blue skirts and white sweaters with the Rollins "R". Each girl has been making her own skirt. Small megaphones have been ordered for the cheerleaders, too.

All the cheerleaders will go to Miami Friday, October 17 when the Rollins Tars play the University of Miami.

Monday, October 13 there will be a meeting at 5 p.m. to choose a junior varsity cheering squad to cheer for visiting teams at Rollins.

CALL IT ANYTHING

By Jim McMenemy

Tomorrow night is a big night for the Rollins Tars. If they can pull this Miami game out they might have an excellent chance to continue through the season with only one defeat. This however is just a matter of wishful thinking. With the idea that I could garner some valuable information from the coaching staff I hopped aboard my trusty Hercules and had an interview with Joe Justice. His statement for the Sandspur was "It's going to be rough and tough". This is hardly enough to fill up a column, but it will have to do. A few facts to be remembered before you go wagering any greenbacks on the boys. For example, that field is going to be a sea of mud, which is going to hamper both teams considerably. I can hear Rob Custer (is that how you spell it?) saying "no kidding" . . . and I'm not. No game can follow true to form on a muddy field. Couple this with the fact that this game is a resumption of a series that has always been bitterly fought and you can see what I mean. I think Peacock and company have it in them to grab this one. So keep your fingers crossed.

Ken Roswell and I would like to welcome Dick Saurbrun to these hallowed, not hallowed, pages. I'm sure that every one will get a kick out of reading his column entitled "Sideline Glances". Good luck, Dick—the deadline is Monday at four.

Last Monday the Lambda Chi's and the Independents opened the 1947 intramural football league. The strength of the league seems to lie at the KA house and in Rollins hall. However much to the annoyance of one Ken Roswell I am going to go out on a limb and make a couple of predictions. The first is that there will be no undefeated team as was the case last year. And here is the one that will shock "carrot top". The team that took it last year to repeat, with or without Smiley. And here's another while I'm in the mood. Coach Brakefield to throw me out of Hooker, after he reads this.

Date Unknown For '47 Tomokan, Announces Prince

Marie Prince, assistant editor of the 1947 Tomokan, does not know when the yearbook will be out.

Under editor-in-chief Ann Craver, Rollins alumna, and staff of assistants, the first half of the book was sent in by April 1, and the last half was bundled off to the publishers by May 10. It was expected that the Tomokan would be issued by July 1, but the proofs were not sent back to be read till September 20.

A list of seniors and students who did not come back has been sent to the publishers and copies will be mailed directly from their offices. The bulk of the books will be sent back to Rollins, where they will be distributed immediately.

Miss Prince, who doubled as photography editor, said that the Tomokan will be well worth waiting for. With 286 pages and over 1,000 pictures, it is the biggest annual to be published in the history of Rollins.

Undercroft in Chapel Contains Innumerable Statues, Books, Relics

The undercroft, which is below the Knowles Memorial Chapel, is a source of innumerable fascinating religious and esthetic relics. These objects have been either collected from old churches, or given to Rollins by people interested in the college.

Found here are some interesting old breviaries written on parchment and bound in wood covered with leather. These are the manuscripts of an ancient order of monks. There are also some heavily embroidered robes owned by Priests.

One very extraordinary statue, is that of Buddha, which was originally in a Buddhist temple in the Orient. This was given to Rollins by the grandfather of Carl Fowler, a graduate of Rollins.

Several of the first Bibles ever printed are included in this classic collection. There is, in fact, an edition of a Breeches Bible.

A hand carved crèche of the nativity is also stored in the under-vault. This was carved by Alois Lang, a German who played the part of Christ two times in the passion plays at Oberammergau, Germany. This crèche is displayed in the Chapel at Christmas time.

Frosh Assembly Amuses, Instructs

Student Council held an assembly last Wednesday morning to welcome the freshmen and clear up some of the misunderstandings about rapping at Rollins. Present were all members of the freshman class, as well as student council representatives who conducted the meeting.

Joe Masters, Master of Ceremonies, introduced Dick Every, Student Council President, who welcomed the freshmen and announced that the upperclassmen would present an entertainment to remove any doubts in the freshmen's minds as to the talent evidenced in various freshman shows of the past.

Participating in the program were Barbara Lewis, Burt Mullins, and Ed Copeland, who sang "Cecilia"; Penny Crane, with an imitation of Beatrice Kaye; George Cocalis, singing his own song, "A Couple of Feet Too Small"; Joe Dietrich and Bill Barker, who entertained with German songs, and Bill Gordon, George Cocalis, and Dick Sauerbrun, who also sang. The cheerleaders led the entire assembly in Rollins cheers.

The entertainment concluded, Dick Every explained the situation about "rapping". It was emphasized that rapping is not being carried on, as the faculty disapproves and the student council has voted not to continue the custom. However, certain regulations must be observed by the freshmen. They are required to wear freshman caps, to "button" when they see an upperclassman, and not to walk on the grass. Violations will be reported to the Student Council, and disciplinary action will be taken.

It has been announced also that the freshmen, too, will participate in welcoming Prexy. They will be lined up around the Horseshoe as the cavalcade approaches, and required to "button" as his car passes.

"The Old Maid" Is Announced by Dir. Allen As Initial Production of Fred Stone Theatre

Sandspur Exchanges Copies With Colleges

The Sandspur is now exchanging copies of its editions with several other college newspapers, and hopes that the list of such papers will be increased during the year. It is believed by the editors that many new ideas for columns and features will be found, as well as slants on problems in other colleges that are also found in Rollins.

Among the colleges that are exchanging papers with the Sandspur are Alabama College in Montevallo, Alabama; Palm Beach Junior College, Palm Beach, Florida; Salem College, Winston Salem, North Carolina; the University of Stanford, Palo Alto, California.

Director Donald S. Allen has announced "The Old Maid," Zoe Akin's adaptation of the Edith Wharton novel, as the initial production of the season in the Fred Stone Theatre, opening November 18.

The drama was first presented at the Empire Theatre in New York, starring Judith Anderson and Helen Menken, and later filmed by Warner Brothers Studios with a cast headed by Bette Davis and Miriam Hopkins. It won the Pulitzer Prize in 1935 and was included in the Burns Mantle edition of Best Plays of 1934-35.

The cast includes seven women and five men. There are also six roles for children of elementary school age. Tryout notices will be posted upon arrival of scripts.

Oslo Session Unanimously Votes To Institute Exchange System

The following letter was recently received by the Student Council: Your school was one of 98 colleges and universities throughout the United States represented in the Summer School for American Students, the University, Oslo, Norway.

Miss Marcia Huntoon, your unofficial representative here, along with the entire student body of 218, unanimously adopted the enclosed resolution calling for the establishment of an international student exchange program.

This unanimity of opinion was the result of the stimulating experiences and feeling of international responsibility achieved by the students during the summer school session.

The student body here felt that if the universities and colleges of America would give their support to world-wide student exchange, a significant contribution to world-peace would be made.

We are therefore attempting to set up some machinery whereby our educational experiences abroad can be shared each year by increasing numbers of American students.

If you are interested in cooperating in a program for furthering worldwide student exchange please write to Dean Norman Nordstrand, St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minnesota, so that it will be possible to make plans for future action.

Dean Nordstrand was the Dean of the summer school in Norway on leave of absence from St. Olaf. He has consented to act as a pre-

Gently Down The Stream

Reasons of space last week eliminated a couple of personal bonquets to the administration. They are a little dated now, but still deserved as far as I am concerned. One: registration in the Center, complete with a play by play scoreboard was a great improvement over last year's chaotic riot centering around the library doors and spreading all over campus. Also, the posting of a list of required books for classes saved a lot of time for me in bucking the line in the bookstore.

Nice to see Orlando Hall under construction, finally and at last. Of course, and as usual, it is promised that it will be ready for the winter term. Well, maybe. At the moment it sort of clogs traffic between the Center and points southeast, and is somewhat of a menace when it rains. Still, when it is finished, it will cut the rain problem out quite a bit. For one thing, the arcade will be there with additional cover. And the building should just about put Pinehurst out of the classroom business. Orlando Hall has six classrooms, and there are never more than five classes in English being taught at any one period during the year.

That item in the Sandspur a couple of weeks ago about me working in a summer theatre was an error, I'm afraid. Actually I loafed on Cape Cod. Once a day I went out and looked at a little vegetable garden I had in the back yard and occasionally pulled a weed out of it. It didn't grow very much; perhaps it took after me. One day Sam Burchers, on a swing around the Eastern seaboard, drifted in and stayed for three weeks. He was going to do a lot of writing. He did a lot of sailing, and beerdrinking, some of it with Alex Graves, now gone into the rewarding slavery of nurses' training. By the way I think she would like letters: School of Nursing, Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, Mass. I also have a photograph of Sam cheating at cards, which I will be glad to show around. Sam had a pretty good time.

Liminary clearing-house for this program.

We think a scholarship fund may be a start toward implementation of this exchange idea.

If you have any suggestions please include them in your letter.

Very truly yours,
Student Body,
Oslo Summer School.

I got hold of the list of entering women the other day. Names fascinate me, and there are some very interesting ones now with us. There are two girls named Alison, and I've always wanted to know a girl named Alison. I hope they aren't called Al for short, darned if I will. One of the Alisons owns a horse called Snookums, or sweetie-pie or something like that.

Riolame is definitely one of the prettiest names I have ever heard of. I have reason to believe, tho I am not positive, that she is called Rima for short. That is a dangerous nickname to apply. It gives me definite impressions of a small gentle maiden who can talk with birds. And in the meantime, I wonder what she looks like!!!

Also Margot Hache. Everybody tells me she is easy to recognize, she looks just like Lydia. So all I have to find out now is what Lydia looks like. She was gone before I got back. One name I enjoy particularly is Judy Baker. That's because I like people to look like their names, and Judy Baker looks and acts just like what Judy Baker ought to look and act like. Good thing.

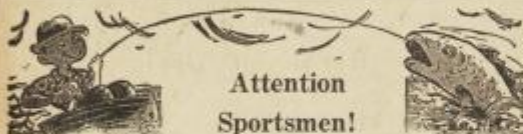

Should be a good touch football season. There appear to be lot of people out practicing.

And another thing. The bagger's name is Ed Rosevear, and he comes from Bloomfield, N. J., and he is a music major. I consider it important that people should know the more outstanding, or noticeable people on campus...

The Pi Phi's have as a visitor this week Gwen Smith, of the University of Missouri, who is staying with Bickley Hilliard. This summer Bickley traveled through Colorado and Texas.

Jean Bohrer and John Brown were married in West Plains, Missouri, and now have a small cottage here while both are attending school.

The Thetas are looking forward to this weekend, when many of them plan to go to Miami to see the Rollins-Miami football game.

News comes from Shirley Holt, now attending Webber College in Babson Park, Florida, and Lois Monahan at the University of Missouri.

Betty Rosenquest is in California dividing her time between tennis and work. Betty Lou Rasmussen married Don Ferguson of Shreveport, Illinois. Sue Eurey and Hank Copps were married and are now living in Gainesville, where Hank attends the University of Florida.

June Hash, a former student, visited the Theta house this weekend.

The Kappas are duly proud of Diane Raymond, who was elected homecoming queen at Colorado College. Alice O'Neal has been playing in a men's golf tournament at Dubsread, and rumor has it that she did very well.

Hardy Webb was down from Gainesville last weekend to see Boe Godfrey while everyone was delighted to see Tom Brockelhurst, who came up from Miami to see Lee Bongart.

Although the Chi Omegas lost three girls this year, one returned to continue her studies. Barbara Duquette transferred to Katherine Gibbs in New York to study business. Barbara Anderson went back to her home state of Arizona and is now attending the University. Keenie Saunders became Mrs. George Matthews early in September and is now keeping house in Chapel Hill. Beverly Ott who left school for California a year ago has come back to get a degree before becoming a full-fledged career girl.

New York seemed to be the favorite vacation place for all the Chi O's. Nan Van Zile, Isabel Mallet, Jimmy Seymour, Janet Ott, Agnes Hendricks and Jan Chambers all headed for the bright lights. But not all of us spent the summer traveling. Mary Peters went to summer school in Texas, and Isabel studies French and art part of the time Mickey Branning, worked for a utilities company and has an electricity meter to prove it.

Mary Peters, Hickey and Bev Burkhart all ended up the summer in Miami with Zoe Weston. Then Zoe drove up to school in her new Buick coupe. G. B. Wright also arrived with a brand new automobile. The best thing to come out of the summer we all agree was Pat Purey's engagement to Van Buren. One way or the other we all had a good time.

The Phi Mu's have had an especially busy time this week. Olga Llano manifested her talents by playing at a tea given for the presidents of the Wednesday Music Club at the Sorosis Club in Orlando. Francis Maring entertained Dick Carney, a guest from Gainesville, and Patsy Fitch spent the week-end at home in St. Petersburg. The rest have been working on get-acquainted teas and the Phi Mu dance to be held at Dubsread Saturday. We hope to see you all there.

The Gamma Phis are glad to announce that Elaine Miller finally got to school, a week late, after having been in an automobile accident.

Monica Egan modestly admits that she took flying lessons this summer. Although she hasn't soloed, she will be very glad to take anyone that wants to go for a ride!

Ellie Seavey's wedding was one of the prettiest we have seen. All of the Gamma Phis, actives and alumni, turned out en masse.

Tenna Head tells us she has had a successful week turning down dates — almost one a night.

Sylvia Verdin had an exciting half-hour when she thought she

Council Advocates Food Conservation, Groups To Decide

At the second student council meeting Monday night, the matter of food conservation was discussed. It was emphasized that the needs of starving Europe make it more than ever imperative that we conserve vital supplies in this country. The council passed unanimously a move that Beanery observe eggless Tuesdays and meatless Thursday, and this matter will be voted on by the individual groups next week.

It was also mentioned that the college has not yet received verification as to the state of the roads to Miami, so individuals planning to go to the Miami game are advised not to make a definite choice of route until this information is received.

Rollins Girls Invited To Join Mademoiselle National College Board

Once again, Rollins girls are invited to participate in the MADEMOISELLE College Board, which offers many opportunities to alert girls interested in getting an early start on future careers, or interested just in getting valuable practical experience in magazine writing.

The College Board, which is composed of girls from every important college and university in the country, is the source of all the articles on college trends which appear in MADEMOISELLE from time to time. Members do three assignments during the school year, and are graded on them, with the three highest scorers receiving awards every time. At the end of the year, the twenty best board members are chosen as guest editors, which gives them the opportunity of working in MADEMOISELLE'S New York offices in the months of June and putting out the annual college issue of the magazine, as well as participating in the Career Conference, which gives a thorough and personal analysis of job aptitudes and possibilities. They may also have the chance of being delegates to the College Forum which gives col-

Neil, who has had two drawings published in a national magazine, was just commissioned to work on a series of portraits. He'll spend the rest of the year commuting between Sarasota, Winter Garden and Winter Park.

Class of 1951 Begins Election Campaigning

Nominations for officers of the freshman class were held on Wednesday, October 15, in Annie Russell theatre during the assembly period. Dick Every, as President of the Student Association, conducted the elections, aided by an election board of upperclassmen.

Candidates are allowed a week for campaigning before the actual election is held on Wednesday, October 22, in The Center from ten to four, and the campus will undoubtedly be plastered with posters as high pressure campaign managers get under way.

Tennis Champions Add Power To Rollins Team; Copeland Reaches PLTA Tournament Semi-Finals

Coach Eddie Copeland has hopes that his present tennis squad will be the strongest men's team that he has ever assembled. Back for another year at Rollins are Enrique Buse, Gus Peeples, Norm Copeland and Bill Windham, while newcomers Buddy Behrens, the U. S. National Junior Champion, and Ricardo Balbiers, national champion of both Chile and Brazil, will bolster the team no end. Then, too, there is the possibility that Gardner Larned, National Inter-Collegiate Champion, will be in school soon and wielding a racquet for the Tars.

Eddie Copeland is to be congratulated for the fine showing that he made in the recent National PLTA Tournament. Eddie reached the semi-final round of this tournament in competing with such nationally known tennis stars as Elwood Cooke, Welby Van Horn, and Martin Buxby.
