NO FINANCIAL CRISIS EXISTS

Reginald Clough, Rollins Class of '36, has been a member of the Board of Trustees since February 1947. He is presently editor and co-owner of Tide Magazine and has been a contributing editor for Time, Inc. While at Rollins he was editor of Sandspur, a member of Press Union, ODK, Rollins Key Society, and X Club.

Winter Park, Fla.

April 15, 1951

To the editor of the Sandspur:

Although my visit to Rollins for the trustee meeting this past week-end was rather brief, I did talk with enough people and get enough information to convince me that the "situation" at Rollins is really not complicated at all.

It has only been made to seem so. Certainly, it can be solved speedily in a way that will serve the best interests of the majority of people involved, and of the college. It is thoroughly regrettable, of course, that the "aquablie" had to reach the intensity it has, and had to be dragged out. But I am certain, now, that the result will be an even better college and one that everyone here will be proud and privileged to be associated with.

The basic fact that must be understood and appreciated is that there is no financial crisis at Rollins. The financial status is not as good as one might like, but it is no worse than that of many other small, independent colleges, and nowhere near as bad as some of them. Actually, the figures show indisputably that Rollins' present finances are better today than at any time in recent years. In the last three years, for example, the college's assets have increased nearly $1,000,000 and the net worth, which is the assets less liabilities, has increased approximately $1,200,000. Its finances are substantially better today than they were a year ago. Only a precipitous decline in new registrations could change this, and the most honest predictions simply do not indicate any such decline. The students' offer to help on this problem is just too tremendous to require any comment.

It is fantastic that this side of the situation was not described fully and factually to the trustees in February, or to the students, faculty, alumni and townspeople since then. Had this been done properly, this whole terrible situation could have been prevented and Rollins would not have suffered, as it has, in its national publicity and academic reputation.

Another point that had concerned me before I visited Rollins was the interest and behavior of the students, faculty and other groups—about which there have been such contradictory reports. The truth is, everyone connected with Rollins should be immensely proud of the interest shown in the college's affairs, by the students. Also, I did not see, hear or sense anything except interest and behavior of the most mature, most exemplary sort. I only wish all the trustees could have been here this week-end, too. Then I believe there would be no doubt whatever about a rapid return to a policy that will virtually guarantee the future progress of the college.

Rollins is far more important than single individual, or small minority connected with it. If the students will stick to that fundamental belief, and a little more patience and forbearance to the terrific amount they have already shown, they will be well repaid with the only thing we all really want—a college with a set of decent values that we can all believe in and be proud of, everywhere and always.

SURPRISE MEETING CALLED

IN SEARCH OF DIVINE GUIDANCE

Student Committee And Wagner Issue Last Minute Statements

Regardless of reports made within the next few days, and regardless of accusations and charges, it is imperative that the whole student body conduct itself with calmness and dignity. Nothing is more important than the restraint of action which might discredit the student body in any way.

The Board of Trustees expressed their complete confidence in the student body on Sunday, and it would be injurious to our fondest hopes if they lost that confidence and if they lost it because of our behavior.

DAN EASTWOOD,
MARY HOBART,
KEN HORTON,

TO MEMBERS OF THE STUDENT BODY:

Throughout the barrage of rumors and accusations that have circulated throughout the community and the campus during the past month I have been obliged to maintain silence because of my responsibility to the board of trustees and to Rollins College.

Recent events make me believe that the best interests of Rollins College will now be served by a complete disclosure of all the facts. You are entitled to them and I am anxious to make them public.

The senior class has kindly agreed to postpone their meeting to enable me to schedule a student assembly to be held on Wednesday, April 18, during the assembly period at the Annie Russell Theatre.

EDITORIAL

Sandspur Policy

The true purpose of any college newspaper is properly to serve the school which it represents.

Accuracy, speed, and thoroughness in news presentation, the proper varied viewpoint in the editorial columns, and interesting feature and sports sections are the Sandspur's objectives.

In fulfilling these standards the Spur will seek to render the following services:

(1) To provide an organ of information that will present all the news desired by those who are actively interested in Rollins—the students, faculty, administration, parents, and alumni.

(2) To provide an organ for the expression of student thought and to unify ideals and objectives.

(3) To create, encourage, and support the college spirit, traditions, activities and scholarship.

(4) To create a desire for journalism and to supply an outlet for creative work in writing, art, and photography.

(5) To record a living history of Rollins College.

In endeavoring to reach these objectives I have assembled a cooperative staff who will use their ability with enthusiasm.

I sincerely hope we will be able to advance the Sandspur, not merely attain the standard of previous editors.

BETSEY FLETCHER.

STATEMENT

Thanks To Trustees

On behalf of the student body, I would like to thank the panel of trustees who unselfishly gave of their time and efforts this past weekend. The students are aware of the great expense and inconvenience that was involved in the meeting of the trustees and also aware of the great strides made possible by this meeting.

I would like to call to the attention of everyone the great work that has been accomplished by the co-ordinated efforts of students, faculty and alumni committees.

To the people comprising those committees and to the others who have contributed greatly in the past six weeks, I extend the thanks of the student body and earnestly hope that as a result of their labors we will have a still greater Rollins upholding the principles of a true democratic education.

ED CUSHING,

Student Council President.

REQUEST

For a future edition, the editor would like to have your views regarding the ideals of Rollins College, or the nature and purposes of education under a free educational system. We hope that faculty members and the administration staff will feel free to express their ideas, so that the Sandspur may present an interesting review on this subject.

The Student Committee has released the following statement to the Sandspur: "Two weeks ago some members of the board of trustees urged President Wagner to report to the students."

Second Sight

EDITORS NOTE: For purpose of analysis, the editor felt that this review, reprinted from the Sandspur of September 29, 1949, would be of special interest to its readers.

"I hope the students will forget they are talking to the president." This is a remark Paul Wagner, Rollins popular new president, made while being interviewed last Monday morning, August 29. The atmosphere there in the president's office recently vacated by the memorable Dr. Holt, was one of friendliness, enthusiasm and cooperation while discussing President Wagner's new position.

"I have come back to school," he replied, when asked how it feels to find himself as the country's youngest college head. He went on to say it has been his long ambition to become a college president. In introspection, President Wagner pointed out it was gratifying to realize an opportunity to complete his life's education in addition to his experience as an active business executive for the wealthy Bell-Howell Photo Supply in Chicago.

"I have left the world of action for the world of ideas," was his remark when comparing his job as an educator to that of a business practitioner. He continued the comparison by pointing out that a college administrator, like a business executive, must capitalize on the value of group thinking, which has become so necessary in the increasingly complex world in which we live. "The day of the one man institution or business is past. The future is in team work," the president added in explaining his approach to administering. In extension of this thought he emphasized that he was a strong advocate of a strong student government.

"We have a unique job to do here at Rollins. We are different. We must capitalize on it." By this President Wagner meant he believed strongly in Dr. Holt's theory of education. That is the valuable exchange of ideas in the conference plan and the round table of discussion. He further stated he was very much interested in keeping the school small.

"The college never stands still. It goes either forward or backward." This was a truism President Wagner discovered in business and mentioned in reply to a question about any alterations of policy he might intend to institute. He elaborated on this point by saying he will not rush in with new ideas but will continue to run the college the first year by sticking to the original blue print.

The new president laughed heartily and answered affirmatively when asked about the twenty-five new ideas which Prexy Holt made as a "must" for any individual aspiring to his position as president of Rollins. President Wagner pointed to his idea drawer in his desk; but added he did not intend to put them into effect until he is more familiar with the situation at Rollins.

His two years at Bell and Howell confirmed a conviction that had been growing—that team play paid dividends. "The day of the one-man industrial organization and educational institution is over," he said. "Whatever I do at Rollins will be done with the help of the faculty and staff."

REQUESTED STATEMENT

Parent's View

The present controversy at Rollins reveals the existence of fundamental differences of opinion between its president, on the one hand, and the student, alumni, and faculty groups, on the other, as to what constitutes progress at Rollins.

It appears that these differences of opinion are so deep-rooted as to preclude their satisfactory resolution by any compromise.

At this point, Rollins needs a leader capable of rallying all groups and welding them into a united body.

It is hoped that the Board of Trustees views their problem in this light.

BRIG. GEN. JOHN F. EGAN.

TO THE EDITOR

Football Had To Go?

Must Rollins College drop all intercollegiate Athletics? The reason given by the Board of Trustees in their recent decision was that of a manpower shortage for the coming year. Since this decision was made, a much brighter forecast for college enrollment has been predicted for next year. If a manpower shortage is the reason for dropping Intercollegiate Athletics then it seems feasible that sports should be re-instated at Rollins.

Perhaps the reason for the decision to drop athletics was due to finances. If this is true, then the following plan should remedy the problem:

(1) An increase of $5 per Student Association Fee, plus a reduction in budgets already in effect will raise $8,000 which would be enough to defray the expenses of our athletic teams.

(2) An interested businessman in Winter Park has stated that he would personally donate the salary to keep a basketball and baseball coach. The crew and tennis coaches are members of the returning faculty; therefore, their salaries would be no additional expense to these sports. The golf coach is no problem. Clyde Kelly, the present golf coach, is a student at Rollins. Upon Kelly's graduation Billy Key, an outstanding golfer, could certainly take over the chores of the golf coach.

(3) Mr. Hollinshead, chairman of the development foundation, has stated to Don Brinegar, student comptroller, that he can raise enough money each year to bring five athletes to Rollins. He further pointed out that athletic scholarships can be raised just as well as other types of scholarships.

What is the importance of intercollegiate athletics to Rollins college? Sports create within a group certain intangible feelings which we define as spirit. But what is spirit? We really cannot explain it in black and white terms, but we do know that spirit is a sensation which comes from within—from the heart and from the soul. Have you ever belonged to an organization or club which had nothing to offer you? If so, you may recall that the spirit of the group was practically nil. Why? Because the organization had nothing to offer you, nothing to spur you on, nothing to arouse your competitive attitude. It would be sad indeed if Rollins became such an organization, and with athletics scratched from the activities list much of what Rollins has formerly had to offer is gone.

For a moment, let us consider what athletics have contributed to the Rollins campus. Let's divide the approximately 335 male students into two groups, the group that comprises the athletic teams, 35, and the remaining 300 students.

In looking over the activities sheet for the past year, we note the following interesting items:

(1) Student Government—three offices were held by male students. The offices are: President, Vice-President, and Comptroller. All three offices were held by scholarship athletes. The other 300 male students were not represented.

(2) Who's Who in Colleges and Universities in America selected 5 male students from Rollins. 4 of the 5 members selected were scholarship athletes.

(3) The Omicron Delta Kappa (ODK) national honorary service fraternity which recognizes outstanding work in leadership, character, scholarship, and activities, has only 3 student members this year. That means that for every 100 male students in Rollins only 1 holds the ODK honor. All three of these student members are scholarship athletes.

We need intercollegiate athletics at Rollins College and we need the

SO THEY SAY

This Is The Challenge

The following is the preface to the constructive brochure presented by the student committee, to the Board of Trustees. It speaks for itself:

It is rapidly becoming apparent, to even the casual observer, that due to the present international situation and stemming directly therefrom, the American "Small College" is in serious danger of being numbered among the casualties of the opening phases of World War III. The indirect effects of this world problem, the inflation, the rising cost of living, increased taxes and various other financial contingencies, are gradually moving the small privately endowed college from the list of casualty "possibles" to the tragic "probables."

The long range connotations and implications of this possible loss should be at the utmost importance to every thinking American citizen. The future fate of this nation rests directly upon the shoulders of the men and women who are the finished products of today's educational institutions.

In the past half century many advances in every major field and on every social level have become common-place and familiar aspects of the American scene. In exchange and while these physical advantages were being created, we, as individuals, have suffered the loss of the many little things that helped make this nation great. We cannot today be numbered among the nations who have, as their backbone, the small businessman. We cannot be termed a nation of shopkeepers. Even the savings account, the one-time mainstay of the average American family, is rapidly becoming a thing of the past. The Jeffersonian or Jacksonian democrat cannot, faced with today's difficult economic problems, successfully provide his family with any sort of preventative medical care, including dentistry. These and many other loss factors are the inevitable results of two world conflicts and a drastic economic depression.

If we stand idly aside and permit the small college to fall by the wayside or to become a useless discard, we will stand adjudged and convicted by future generations as violators of a sacred trust. Nor can we create, as an adequate substitute, half or three-quarter colleges. Their graduates would be measured by the same yardstick.

This is the challenge and the responsibility that faces the members of the Rollins Family today. It must be shared equally by each individual, whether as a Student, a Faculty Member, Alumni or Trustee.

As our major consideration we must realize that the answer lies in whole-hearted and unselfish cooperation. We face the difficult task of merchandising our product in an overloaded and over-worked market. We must, at this time, become fully aware that if not this year, the coming years may necessitate a reduction in operating expenditures and that this problem will have to be met with honest realism.

We the students of the present Rollins Family, offer the following suggestions as a sincere effort, on our part, to share the responsibility of strengthening Rollins in its efforts to surmount today's difficulties and to better prepare the college in its task of meeting the many tomorrows.

HAL SUIT.

type of men athletics develop. Do the individuals who decide the policies of Rollins College realize the value of the "asset" they have just sold?

Benefactress Comes To Rollins' Aid

Editors Note:

The Executive Committee, composed of the local members of the Board of Trustees, Dr. Paul A. Wagner, Mr. Ray Greene, Dr. Eugene Smith, Dr. Louis Orr, Mrs. Frances Knowles Warren, Mr. Webber Haines, and Mr. Arthur Shultz, issued the following statement April 16, 1951 through the Rollins publicity office.

Mrs. Frances Knowles Warren, a member of the Rollins Board of Trustees, again demonstrated her faith in the College by offering to finance a constructive survey to clarify the current and long-range problems that face the institution.

Appearing before the Executive Committee in a session after the adjournment of the meeting of the Board, she said: "It seems to me that the only way to resolve the unnecessary turmoil and conflict that now prevails both on the campus and among the members of the Board of Trustees, is to obtain the impartial advice of three outstanding educators who are familiar with the administrative and financial problems of small co-educational colleges."

Mrs. Warren requested that the Carnegie Foundation or the General Education Board of the Rockefeller Foundation be requested to select three administrators for the committee.

Dr. Louis M. Orr immediately moved the acceptance of this offer, and the Executive Committee voted unanimously to authorize the acceptance, and to take immediate steps to put the plan into effect.

The Executive Committee authorized the following statement:

"The meetings of the Board of Trustees of Rollins College on Saturday, April 14, which unexpectedly was adjourned Sunday immediately after convening, did not arrive at any constructive conclusions in regard to the problems of Rollins College. The Trustees took no action on the financial problems of the college. No decision was reached whether the Board would reconsider its action directing President Paul A. Wagner to 'reduce the faculty in the various areas of study to conform to the budget voted by the Board'."

None of the Trustees questioned the fact that they so directed the President in February, but spent hours hearing a detailed report of mistakes alleged to have been made in the execution of this order. The manner in which the President carried out the order of the Board of Trustees had been unanimously approved by the executive committee at its meetings.

"Mrs. Warren had intended to make her proposal to the Board of Trustees but the unexpected adjournment made this impossible.

"The meeting was adjourned to April 27. This developed a controversy, seven of the trustees proposing that the adjourned meeting be held in New York and seven opposing the move from Winter Park.

"Mr. Winthrop Bancroft, chairman of the Board then cast his vote in favor of meeting in New York, which the executive committee believes to be inadvisable because of the time inconvenience, and expense involved.

"Immediately after the adjournment, Mr. Bancroft gave out a press release announcing the adjournment and which included the following statement:

"The board therefore voted to adjourn to meet in the south lounge of the Shelton Hotel in New York City on April 27, 1951, at 10:00 a.m. The board will be prepared at that time to hear President Wagner's full reply to the particulars in the investigating committee's report, and to consider further steps to assure the continuing welfare and academic progress of the college.

"However, up to this time neither the President nor the Executive Committee, which has been endeavoring to carry out the plan determined upon at the annual meeting in February, have been provided a formal copy of the so-called report of the investigating committee which is mentioned in the announcement of the adjournment.

"The unanimous resolution about which the controversy resolves, follows:

"Because of present conditions which seriously impair the financial security of Rollins as well as other colleges, it has become necessary to curtail expenses. The Board of Trustees reluctantly in faculty in the various areas of study to conform to the budget voted by the board according to the following plan:

"Faculty members, aside from the following exceptions, shall be retained in accordance with seniority in their areas of study. This rule is established only because Dr. Wagner has assured the trustees that this plan at this time will result in the maintenance of an excellent staff of professors and instructors. The rule is to apply only until the next annual meeting of the Board, at which time it will expire. The Trustees recognize that seniority, applied blindly and without consideration of the competence of younger teachers is a dangerous rule, seldom in the best interests of any college.

"This plan is to be administered with the following exceptions:

"1. Part-time instructors may be retained despite seniority factor if it appears financially advisable to do so.

"2. All regular faculty members who could retire with Social Security at the end of the academic year 1951-52 shall be retained.

"3. Seniority will not rule where a man is the only one in his division qualified to teach a particular subject that is considered essential.

"It was moved . . . and unanimously carried that the President be authorized to provide funds, not to exceed a total of $1,000, to assist such faculty members being released at this time in their attempts to secure new employment."

ROLLINS AWAITS VERDICT

Trustee Board To Resume Debate On April 27

April 15, 1951

To the Students, Faculty, Alumni and Other Friends of Rollins College:

Fourteen of the 21 members of the board of trustees of Rollins College met in special session at Winter Park on Saturday, April 14, from 10:00 a. m. to 7:00 p. m., to consider and act on the report of the Special Committee of the trustees appointed by the chairman to investigate the conditions at Rollins.

The committee delivered an exhaustive report and the meeting then adjourned to reconvene at 10:00 a. m., Sunday, April 15.

At this meeting, it was recognized that the gravity of the situation at Rollins demanded that as many members of the board as possible be present. The board therefore voted to adjourn to meet in the south lounge of the Shelton Hotel in New York City on April 27, 1951, at 10:00 a. m. The board will be prepared at that time to hear President Wagner's full reply to the particulars in the investigating committee's report, and to consider further steps to assure the continuing welfare and academic progress of the College.

Gamma Phi's KA's Presents "Moon Mist"

Everyone is invited to enjoy the full moon and tropical atmosphere of the Gamma Phi Beta-Kappa Alpha "Moon Mist" dance Saturday, April 23, at Dubadroad Country Club.

It will be a semi-formal affair and Carl Hallberg will provide music for dancing from 9:00 p.m. until 2:30 a.m. The decorations will follow a tropical theme, complete with coconuts, palm trees, and a waterfall.

Darlene Evilsizer and H. B. Roberts, dance committee co-chairmen, announced, "The refreshments are sure to be a big surprise. This is going to be a dance no one should miss!"

Eugene Smith Gives Counsel Sports Report

During the Monday night Student Council meeting in the Alumni House, Norby Mintz read a statement written by Dr. Eugene Smith concerning the abolishment of Sports at Rollins.

The following points were presented: 1. There is no intention of abolishing or interfering with golf, tennis, or crew. 2. There is every intention of supporting intramurals. 3. All present athletic scholarships will be maintained. 4. Baseball and basketball teams were thought to be impossible because it seemed unlikely that there would be enough men who are qualified to play on such teams. If we have the men who are capable and interested, we see no reason why the decision to omit such competition should not be reconsidered, Dr. Smith stated.

Dr. Smith concluded "May I add that the decision to omit teams that would not be likely to have the required man-power was reluctantly made. Many of the trustees have themselves been athletes, and most, if not all of us, believe in the importance of Athletics."

The following committee members have been appointed: Inner Council Committee, Derek Dunn-Rankin, and Jean Weislogal; Student-Faculty Committee, Mary Bailey and Don Corrigan; Social Committee, Dale Travis and Bob Tiller; Traffic Committee, Dick Snyder and Pete Sturtevant. The Comptroller will be elected at a later date after filling the following requirements: must be a Junior, a Business Administration major, and a letter, must be submitted to the Student Council by the candidate, as well as a letter from a professor.

Representatives to the three departments who get money from the Student Association Fees are: Publications Union, Derek Dunn-Rankin; Theater, Marianne Dillon-Lorenzo; Cheer Leaders, Dale Travis.

Mary Bailey brought up the topic of where the Fiesta Scholarship money would go. Dean Cleveland suggested that a committee be formed to investigate those students who need scholarships. It was mentioned that a student, already at Rollins, would be more honored to have a scholarship because it would help him finish college.

A committee consisting of Mary Bailey, Bob Tiller, and Hester Davis are to investigate students who need scholarships.

The Independents edged out the Kappas by one point, 24 to 23, at the intramural horse show Sunday, April 24. The Thetas followed in third place with 18, and the Alpha Phis in fourth place with 13.

Mary Ann Hobart with 14 points, and Bev Vickerstaff with 11 points were the individual top scorers for the day. Mary Carter's excellent horsemanship won her the championship cup presented by Anna N. Wheeler. Mary also gave an exhibition of side-saddle jumping.

The beginner riders were judged for their ability to trot, walk, and address the reins. In the Intermediate class the canter and the difficult figure eight in a trot were added. The command to ride the rail was a further job for those in the advance class.

The men's class, which was an added attraction to the show, was won by Dick Colabella. In spite of rain all participants rode well. Don Bradley, Bill Mumsey and Don Kura came in second, third and fourth places respectively. Jack O'Keefe and Hank Mooberry also entered.

What kind of competition is this? The girls' golf ladder was made up approximately three weeks ago; then last week a new name was added—not at the bottom of the ladder, but in second place. Everyone will agree that the "more the merrier" but shouldn't there be a uniform way of getting in this honor (?) sheet?

Just how is this done without any challenging at all? How is this so called golf ladder organized? Would someone give a little information on the subject?

Rollins Blues Split Series

Last weekend Joe Justice's Tars split a two game series with Florida. The Blues annexed the first contest 3 to 2 on Friday but were drubbed 8 to 1 on Saturday.

Featuring Friday's win was the excellent mound performance of Don Work, who held the Gators to four hits. Don's control was letter perfect and he was constantly ahead of the batters. His big overhand curve had the opposing batters guessing all afternoon.

After blowing an early two run lead, the Justicemen rallied in the ninth for the winning counter. After loading the bases with none out, Joe Justice inserted pinch hitter Del Helms who broke the game up drawing a base on balls.

On Saturday the Tars played a sloppy brand of ball behind Fred Baldwin. The little pitcher deserved a better fate but his support collapsed completely. Rollins was never in the game as Florida scored three runs in the first inning.

Why study? Why work? Why fight for what we want? The draft will catch you sooner or later, or a drastic change in the college will give you ample reason to transfer. This is all quite probable. This might happen, but it definitely won't save you from anything, although it might postpone your reckoning day.

It only stands to reason, backed by statistics, that the well-educated person gets ahead in business, in life, and even in the Army, while the uneducated person—if they're lucky—will end up just as they started, but no further. Life in general can use only those who are prepared for its rigors, and those who are willing to accept defeat as well as victory. The sad fact is that the unprepared are not likely to be so well taken care of.

The habit of loafing or doing just a half-way job can easily become a habit and for some reason it spreads.

The uprising on campus should not lower our morale; it should make us realize the value of leaders, and the great need for leaders today in every field.

If you are thinking about the draft just remember that your future is not gone with the wind, just because you have received, or are going to receive, one of those letters direct from Uncle Sam. It merely requires you to give up your civilian freedoms for a period of perhaps two years. Get the most out of your classes, athletic events, and school activities now, while we still have all of the opportunities here at Rollins College.

Gal-axy of Sports

HIGH-LIGHTS: The Kappas vaulted into first place in the intramural volleyball race last Monday by racking up a decisive 25 to 17 victory over a good Independent team. The Independents, previous winners over the third-place Alpha Phi aggregate, seem a clock for second place honors. Could be a three-way tie for first, though, if the Alpha Phis slip past the Kappas Wednesday.

SCORE BOOK: That intramural race is still plenty tight, and it looks as though a great deal, probably the cut itself, will be decided in the year's last event, the swimming meet which is scheduled for May 13. At the moment the Independents are leading the field, closely followed by the Kappas and the Alpha Phis.

COMING EVENTS: This Saturday will find an ambitious group of athletes over at Lakeland for State Play-day, trying to maintain Rollins' winning reputation at this yearly event. Softball practices have been going on all week but the starting line-up is still anybody's guess. We stand a good chance to do well in volleyball, tennis, and golf with slight chances in swimming, ping-pong, and softball.

ODDITIES: Something new in the current volleyball tourney. Instead of 4 strong teams, 2 good teams, and 2 hopefuls, we have only 3 strong teams and 5 hopefuls. Been a long time since that situation has existed. Less and less good intramural players, though.

SIDE-LIGHTS: A philosophical gem learned on the archery range: when you are far away from the target, you must raise your sights high in order to hit that bull's eye.

Play Day Set For April 21

Twenty of Rollins most athletic co-eds will soon be chosen to participate in the state play day at Florida Southern, on Saturday April 21.

The girls have been energetically practicing the various sports which will include: volleyball, badminton, tennis, swimming, golf, bowling, archery, softball, and table tennis.

About nine Florida colleges will be represented, providing pretty stiff competition for the Rollins girls.

Girls intramural volleyball got in full swing Monday, April 9. In the opening game the Kappas closed out the Phi Mus, 59 to 18. The second game was closer as the Independents spiked the Alpha Phis, 24 to 16.

The Pi Phis upset the Thetas, 33 to 25 in a close game on Wednesday, and the Gamma Phis clicked well to shut out the Chi Omegas, 42 to 15.

Friday, the thirteenth, was a bad luck day for the Pi Phis who lost to the Chi Omegas by 2 points in a very tight game, 32 to 30, and also for the Phi Mu team which lost to the Alpha Phis, 48 to 26.

Again the Kappas showed fighting spirit as they ousted the Independents 28 to 17 in what was expected to be one of the tightest matches of the year. In the second contest the Gamma Phis topped the Kappa Alpha Thetas 27 to 24.

Tar Crew Adds Two Victories

The varsity oarsmen will run their winning list to four when they out rowed the Washington and Lee outfit and also edged the Dartmouth green and white crew.

The Tar watermen have lost only one race and that was to Boston and Southern in a three way meet.

The capable men that have been rowing in the Rollins shell are: John Thibedeau, Ed Metc, Dan Brinsgar, John Vercen, Max Grulke, Don Jones, Russ Sturge and Tim Lofton.

The J. V. men are Scotty Whitrell, Bill Gordon, George Jahnke, Emory Hunter, Jack Sandford, Charles Robinson, Tim Chilton and Bob Heath.

Previews

The varsity oarsmen will not against Tampa May 28, on Lake Maitland. May 12, Rollins, Tampa and Southern row in Tampa for the state championship which was last year by the Tampa crewmen when they made a photo finish against the other crews. Rollins placed second by trailing four feet behind the victors and only shot three feet ahead of Florida Southern.

The "all out" race of the year for small colleges, Dad Vail Regatta, will be May 19. A definite place for this year's race has not yet been decided upon. However, Poughkeepsie or Boston are the likely spots.
