Applicants for president of the student body are Tom LeClere and Dan Matthews.

Tom transferred to Rollins two years ago from Stetson University where he was a member of Pi Kappa Phi fraternity and Sigma Pi Kappa, an honorary journalism fraternity. He also belongs to the "Scabbard and Blade", an honorary military organization and was the co-military editor of the Stetson year book. Mathews

LeClere

Chapel reader. This year Dan was chosen for ODK, a men's honorary organization at Rollins and was chairman of the Fiesta midway.

Last year Dan was also chief announcer for Station WPRK. He had also been photographer for the Sandspur and the Tomokan.

Candidate for Council vice-president is Bill Karslake. A Delta Chi representative to Council, he is also vice-president of Community Service and chairman of the Social Rules Committee. Bill belongs to the "R" Club having been a member of the Cindy Wellenkamp and Joy Woods have applied for the position of Student Council secretary.

Cindy, Phi Mu treasurer, was her sorority's representative to Council. She was this year's French Club secretary and a member of the Chapel choir. She also did layout on the "Flamingo" literary magazine. Cindy has seen much activity in the field of dramatics taking part in the Shakespeareana, "Trial by Jury" and performing the lead in the last Annie Russell production, "Bell Book, and Candle."

Joy, Kappa Alpha Theta Council representative, is a member of the Chapel choir and Rollins Glee Club, the Self-study Committee, and was Theta's representative to Fiesta. This fall Joy travelled to the Stephen Foster Memorial at White Springs, Florida where she was runner-up in the "Jeanie with the Light Brown Hair" contest.

All of the candidates have fulfilled the requirements of the Student Government constitution stating that each applicant for office must have attended ten meetings prior to the elections.

McKean Given Gifts From Korean College President

Rollins College has received a name plate, four tape-recorded lectures, and other items from Cho Young Sik, president of Shin Hung University, Seoul, Korea.

The gifts from the Korean college president to President Hugh McKean include the following tape-recordings of lectures delivered at the university: Retrospection Upon The Korean War by Prof. Young Chun Yun; The Trend of Korea's Educational Work During the War Years, by Prof. Joseph Chu; The Traits of the Korean Constitution, by Prof. John Cook Lee; The Korean War and Religion, by Prof. Pil Gun Chae. The lectures are in English.

The name plate bears the name of President McKean, the letters inlaid with mother-of-pearl on a lacquer-faced wooden plate.

Also included is a Korean doll which Pres. Cho Young Sik said "is the most beloved object of the Korean people of all classes for many centuries."

In the winter of 1950 Shin Hung University was forced to flee from Seoul to Pusan, where students had to study in makeshift buildings. Pres. Cho Young Sik, however, reported that the university is now being moved back to Seoul.

Honorable Mention Awarded By NSF To Two Rollins Students

Two Rollins College students have received honorable mention for fellowships being offered by the National Science Foundation of Washington, D. C., it was announced this week.

They are William T. House, 60 North Hughey St., Orlando, and John Richard Joy, 5 Winthrop Place, Taunton, Mass. Both are majoring in chemistry at Rollins.

The two Rollins students were among 1,355 applicants who were accorded honorable mention in the selection. Predoctoral graduate fellowships were awarded to 657 applicants in the natural sciences.

QUIZ PROGRAM IS SLATED FOR WPRK AGENDA

The first radio program since the reopening of Rollins station WPRK will be presented from the studio in Mills Library tonight at 8 p.m.

The program is a sorority-fraternity quiz with contestants being composed of two representatives from each social group on campus. Tonight representatives from Delta Chi, Chi Omega, and Kappa Kappa Gamma will vie for first place in the quiz covering such categories as Rollins history and tradition, current news and history plus other general subjects. Winners will compete in the semi-finals and from there will go on to the finals in the weekly quiz program.

Contestants must be in the studio by 7:30. Any students wishing to attend the program should be at the library by 7:45.

The new quiz show is written and directed by Joe Grolmund. Chief engineer is Elmer Puddington.

WPRK is an FM channel of 91.5 megacycles, the first station on the FM dial.

Faculty Board To Consider Dunn's Appeal At Meeting

In Student Council meeting last Monday, Sue Dunn made an appeal concerning her disqualification in the race for the editorship of Sandspur. After discussion of the case, Council referred the decision to the faculty board with the recommendation that Sue's appeal be accepted.

During the confusion of Fiesta float preparation last Friday morning, it was announced by Bill Karslake and Louis Ingram that D period classes were to be dismissed, so that the groups could get their floats in the horseshoe on time for the parade. This was a complete misunderstanding on the boys' part because classes were not actually called off and they both expressed their regrets to Council.

President Hal Broda announced that he had received an invitation from students at Swathmore College asking Rollins students to join them in organizing a trip to Russia this summer. Any student interested in the project may contact Hal Broda for further information.

At the close of the meeting it was announced that the proposed plan to put a coke machine and cigarette machine in the library will have to be brought up before the library board for approval. In the meantime students are reminded that food and drinks are not allowed in the library.

The election roster for next year's Student Council officers was announced. Candidates are president, Tom LeClere and Dan Matthews; vice-president, Bill Karslake; secretary, Cindy Wellenkamp and Joy Woods.

FIESTA COAST-TO-COAST

The following is an excerpt from the script which was read over a coast-to-coast CBS hook-up from the Fiesta Dance at the Coliseum Saturday night;

"Let's take a minute and peek behind the scenes of the Rollins Fiesta. The Fiesta is a celebration in which student social organizations transform the Rollins campus into a gay carnival to raise money for the student scholarship fund.

"Here at Rollins, there is a spirit of friendship. The Fiesta brings forth this friendship as the social groups join together in a common effort to raise money to help fellow students who might not otherwise be able to attend Rollins.

"In the past, the students, with the aid of the faculty, staff and their families, have raised many thousands of dollars through the Fiesta.

"Among the events in this gala celebration there have been, in addition to the carnival Midway, a parade through Winter Park and Orlando with each group exhibiting its own brilliantly designed float, and many athletic events featuring teams from the Northeastern and South-eastern conferences.

"The Rollins Fiesta is one of the many ways by which the students demonstrate the friendly Rollins spirit by lending a helping hand to students who might not otherwise have the privilege of studying at Rollins."

If the Fiesta had raised no money, and this is certainly a false assumption, Harry Chauncey and his helpers would have done a tremendous job in giving Rollins the best positive publicity it has had in quite a while.

From coast to coast there lingers the name of Rollins College, whose students have given generously of their time and money in order to help a friend in need.

EDITOR'S NOTE

The Sandspur is a newspaper.

As such it must publish "all the news which is fit to print" and which pertains to the interests of its subscribers, the student body.

It must give credit to campus organizations when that credit is due since these organizations can better themselves only through campus recognition of their accomplishments.

The Sandspur must also be willing and able to fight for what it believes. These "fights" can take the form of crusades if such is necessary, or they can be won through the printing of all the facts in the case in question. Either way, these fights must be won by the use of the journalistic weapons; the battleaxe of Logic and the rapier of Truth.

But, in all things the Sandspur must work for the good of the students since the student body is, in the last analysis, the most important part of the college which the Sandspur represents.

Before Ireland was given home rule a London reporter was sent over to find out what the rank and file thought. The first native of the old sod said, "Faith and Home Rule will be the salvation of us yet."

"Well," said the reporter, "It looks as though Parliament will vote it next month."

"For shame," said the Irishman, "It will be the ruin of us all."

"What?" asked the Englishman, "You say you are for Home Rule and now you cry shame?"

"Sure," said the Irishman, "But you English are thick. If I told you you were going to Heaven you'd be pleased. But it is as plain as the nose on your face if I told you now that you'd be there in five minutes the devil you'd be scared."

Criticism without responsibility is a luxury, so we shouldn't over do it.

All Over the Nation

World News In Brief

The biggest showdown concerning the Indochina war will be held in France this coming April when the Communists will try to oust the shaky Laniel government. Also, there are many non-Communists who are doing their level best to overthrow Laniel.

Some non-Communists leaders would bargain away France's chances for a unified army in Europe, for peace in Indochina. That would wreck the defense plan that the U.S. is committed to in both Europe and Asia. U.S. diplomats are awaiting the outcome of the squabble with baited breath because it just might happen.

In the meantime, British businessmen in Hong Kong are quietly drooling at the prospect of being allowed to start up business deals with Red China once again. They hold the optimistic belief that the conference at Geneva will end the embargo placed upon strategic goods destined for the Communists.

The British diplomats will definitely remember this when talking to the Communists over the conference table. Even more important is the general attitude of the businessmen who feel that the British merchants will have an important role to play in the further development of Asia.

The Student Mirror

Soviet occupied Germany — A court in the Soviet zone sentenced the twenty-year old student of the University of Jena, Lutz Ehrhardt, to three and one-half years of hard labor, because he had distributed "inflammatory literature against statesmen" in Erfurt and Jena, and because he had sent an "inflammatory letter" to the State Secretary for Security in East Berlin.

Turin, Italy — The Turin student paper "ateneo" conducted a survey on the sources, the amounts and the ways of spending of students' pocket money. The result revealed that students on the average have a sum of 5,000 Lira (approximately $8) per month at their disposal for personal expenses. In 61% of the cases surveyed this money came from the students' parents, 18% were earning it themselves by private teaching, and 13% earned it by doing other work.

Cambridge, England (The Varsity) — Oriel College, Oxford, is haunted by a ghost on the twenty-eighth of every month. On this date every month, mysterious noises and footsteps are heard in the college and it was suggested that members of the college may try to catch the ghost.

Ithaca, New York (The Cornell Daily Sun) — Plans have been made for a direct wire hook-up for the purpose of rapid, efficient exchange of news between the daily newspapers of eight Eastern colleges and universities. Each newspaper on the hook-up will have equipment to receive and transmit copy over the wire to and from the other schools. This circuit was installed for a six-week trial period.

Marburg, Germany (Marburger Blatter) — The student government of the University of Marburg has rejected the suggestion that the fund of voluntary contributions for sports be used to introduce courses in social dances at the university.

Madrid, Spain — Prince Akihito, Heir Apparent to the Japanese Throne, during his stay in Spain paid a visit to the Spanish University Syndicate. He visited the University Town of Madrid was shown around S.E.U. institutions, and expressed eager interest in all student problems.

Tibet (dpa) — According to reports received in New Delhi, the Chinese authorities are planning the construction of a university in the Tibetan capital, Lhasa. No institutions of higher learning have existed up to now in Tibet; rather education took place exclusively in cloisters. Wealthy Tibetans, who until now have sent their children to study in India, have already been called upon by the government to bring their children back.

'ROUND ROLLINS

By LOUIS INGRAM

It has taken some time for your columnist to remove all the corn starch pie filling from his hair, but now we are more or less back to normal. Looking back on this year's Fiesta, it can be said, without reservation, that it was the best ever. Beginning with the parade and going through the midway and other special events, the ingenuity and spirit of the students was never more dramatically demonstrated. The school spirit soared to great heights when the chips were down; let's try to retain some of this spirit throughout the next eight weeks.

The Kappas and the Club entered the prize winning floats in a parade in which every entry might have been a winner. The festive spirit of Fiesta time was brilliantly captured by the gay and clever floats. Back on the midway, the booths displayed much hard work and planning. The Thetas came up with a splash and a prize winner. In general the midway featured a lot of fine new students, and for the first time the ever popular teddy bear was introduced as a prize at the Rollins Fiesta. This singularly popular animal has probably led more people to exhaust their fortunes in an attempt to capture him than any other carnival prize.

The students who shunned the Fiesta Ball must be a sorry lot. This turned out to be the highlight of the weekend, and deserved the attendance of every student who knows how to have a good time. The Sauter-Finegan Orchestra provided a wonderful compliment of dance music with a few of their famous specialty numbers for entertainment. It was a fine party.

The students owe Harry Chauncey a big vote of thanks for his wonderful work in developing the Fiesta to this all time high.

Monday found the Seniors basking in the sun at Sanlando Springs. President McKean declared a senior skip day as a result of the tremendous success of the Fiesta. The unexpected chance to relax was appreciated by all.

WPRK officially got back on the air this Monday. Congratulations to Mr. Frutchy and his staff for a wonderful opening week. Many plans are being considered to improve the station for next year. The acquisition of a new and more powerful (25 times more) transmitter is a step in that direction.

The Phi Mus were amazed when one of their white mice gave birth to a litter of five in the comfort of their livingroom. A cat is lurking around the door waiting to be similarly accommodated.

The "Bradley" Story

The Rollins Crew From Crisis to Crisis

It was forty-eight years ago that the precocious Rollins Tars took their first tottering steps toward an uncertain future with the inauguration of inter-collegiate rowing. It was also this same epoch-making year, 1906, that Rollins students picked up their Sandspurs and in shocked disbelief read the startling headlines, "SHELL DEMOLISHED." So temporarily ended the newly initiated sport by a disaster that to Rollinsites might be compared with the ill-fated voyage of the Titanic six years later.

According to all reports resurrected from the musty archives of the Sandspur sports department that day in 1906 was a particularly notable occasion for Rollins was writing the first chapter in its turbulent rowing career.

With high hopes and an eight-oared shell of dubious origin, the Tars had mustered together a derelict crew and had scheduled a race with Georgetown University to be held in Jacksonville. All was in readiness for the festive event when shortly before race time cruel fate intervened in the form of a coaching launch which went out of control, rammed and annihilated the shell.

Bradley

With dampened spirits the now defunct crew picked themselves and what remained of the shell out of the water and returned to school from their ignominious debut. Thus ended this initial phase of rowing, for Rollins was to wait until 1934 for her first inter-collegiate race. In the year prior to 1934, the Tars had conducted their first rowing venture in the north, handily losing races to Brown, Nichols, and the Harvard freshman second crews. The mode of transportation used on the Tars migration northward consisted of two battered Model T Fords preceeded by the uninhibited coach who bounced along in regal splendor astride a motorcycle.

That same year, 1933, Dr. U. T. Bradley arrived on campus to take over the reins of coaching as well as to conduct history courses. Dr. Bradley decided, and rightly so, that if Rollins was going to lose races she would lose them to college varsity crews. Happily complying with Bradley's decision such shells as Rutgers, Manhattan, Marietta, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin practically swamped the little upstarts for the south with their wakes. Rollins soon discovered that the feat of losing to these long established varsity shells was no more enjoyable and no less difficult than losing races to the prep school class.

The Tars first win in 1936 against Manhattan in New York was no great achievement as far as sports copy went, however, an austere crew world was suddenly taken aback by a momentous happening unparalleled in the annals of the sport. Before an incredulous bevy of sports-writers the coxswain of the winning Tar shell was disclosed to be a girl. This clever bit of bamboozle was instigated out of necessity by Bradley, who lacking a male cox utilized its feminine counterpart, Sally Stearns. Although this episode was a heinous offense to the racing code of etiquette it gleaned Rollins College a large-sized chunk of national publicity whose re-occurring reverberations even now come back to haunt Dr. Bradley.

Having lurched from crisis to crisis the quixotic Tars, in spite of themselves, were growing in prominence. Rollins held its first intercollegiate race on Lake Maitland in 1937 defeating Washington and Lee. In 1939 the Dad Vail Rowing Association was formed with Rollins a charter member.

The name was derived from the trophy offered in 1934 by Mr. Russell S. Callow, then coach at Pennsylvania but who has since gained fame as crew coach at the U. S. Naval Academy. He created the trophy for the promotion and encouragement of rowing

The Rollins Crew, vintage 1934. The first Tar oarsmen to carry the colors in inter-collegiate competition. It was also the initial year under the tutelage of Dr. U. T. Bradley.

in small colleges, naming it for his friend, the late, and great "Dad" Vail, for years coach at the University of Wisconsin. Included with Rollins as charter members were American International College, Manhattan, Boston University, Rutgers and the Dartmouth Rowing Club. Rutgers and Boston University no longer row in the Dad Vail, having pulled their way into what is commonly referred to as "big time rowing".

The intervention of World War II temporarily stunted rowing at Rollins. However, since the resumption of the sport in 1947, the Tars have acquired two state championships and have finished second five out of the past six years at the Dad Vail. Perhaps destiny will smile her benevolent smile upon the Tars this year at the Dad Vail, at any rate the law of averages should play a dominant role if the Tars should happen to come home with the laurels.

Looking in retrospect on those first tender years when crew at Rollins was in its infancy, it is impossible to over-emphasize the imprint of Dr. Bradley on the development of rowing at Rollins.

He has achieved success despite over whelming odds and often without sufficient funds to operate on. Dr. Bradley, or "Brad" as he is affectionately called by the students, has paddled the Tars into one of the top small college rowing aggregations in the country. Largely through his pioneering efforts in paving the rocky road of rowing, two other Florida schools have been enticed into undertaking the sport, the University of Tampa and Florida Southern College.

The future looks bright for Rollins College. Brad has earned the backing of the college and its student body. He has a J. V. which is always a fertile ground for varsity replacements, and he has the driving energy and complete devotion to the sport so necessary if Rollins is to remain atop the pinnacle of the small college rowing world.

LOHR LEA

A Saturday night head count at the Sauter-Finnegan Fiesta dance was proof positive that MOST Rollins students DO like drums and fifes. If attendance records weren't broken, enjoyment did go sky high. Some non-dancers WERE seen at the after hours session with the orchestra. The uke has now been abandoned on campus in favor of the piccolo, chimes, and kettle drums.

Innovations were tried in other departments, but failed, as Mrs. Hansen shook her head at the suggestion of coke machines in the basement of the library. Seems they cause holes in the pages of books in the reading room. Explanation went from coke in hand of student, upstairs to reading room, coke set on page of book, syrup soaking into pages, books but back on shelves, students going home and ants coming to life in the library, and on, and on, and on.

Many Theta's attended the dance with straight hair and aching pains from their hours as mermaids — many were dropped in their tub of water for the cause, which later swam away with the well-deserved prize "Best Booth on the Midway!" Several pined Pi Phi's at the next stand looked longingly at the tub of water which was becoming so distasteful to their neighbors. Meanwhile the stars of the Rollins basketball team walked away with teddy bears and rabbits from the Kappa booth, and the Phi Mu's put exhausted mice through their paces until they dropped in their tracks.

On the editor's spindle: election results. Phi Beta chose new members Frances Chapman, Mary Enck, Cary Lea Keen, and Geri Pacino. For the Rollins Players, Mary Enck and Bobbie Spencer. Stray Greeks chose Ronnie Butler as President, Jack Bisson to handle the books, and Tom LeClere to attend Monday night Council meetings. Mike Abney, KA from Gainesville chose Theta, Mary Ann Norton to wear his pin, while Nancy Polk, Chi O '54 was elected wearer of Jack McVay's (KA '53) engagement ring. Bride of the week, former Spur Editor, Betsy Fletcher, Gamma Phi '52 was married to Bob Rae, Minneapolis, Minnesota.

FILLING SPACE

by Ross Fleischmann

This column writing job can be difficult. Knowing nothing about music and little about anything else, the writer is in a bad spot. Maybe an attack on the Beanery would do, but that is handled nicely elsewhere. There is a wealth of campus gossip, but who could scoop Marcia Mattox and her Party Line? Fleischmann

Nonetheless, there is space to be filled and it is too late to call on a guest columnist for help, so here goes.

A group of amateur promoters learned a great deal in their recent association with the Sauter-Finnegan Orchestra and the Fiesta Ball. Depending on how you measure the success of an undertaking, in dollars or goodwill, the result of the dance is a toss-up.

The places where mistakes were made are rapidly being discovered. A late publicity and ticket push turned out to be too late, and just missed placing large blocks of tickets in the hands of Cocoa Air Base visitors, which would have practically insured financial success. A last minute controversy on reservations may also have hurt attendance.

Despite these difficulties, the dance went on and those in attendance enjoyed themselves. The deficit will not be generally felt nor will it be held against an otherwise successful Fiesta and its directors. It is hoped though, that the experience gained in this venture will be put to good use next year. And also that the appreciation of the students be expressed to that generous group of dance underwriters, who found themselves enjoying a most expensive evening.

SUCCESSFUL SEASON CLOSED BY SINGERS

By JIM GRASSKAMP

Last night at 8:30 p.m. at the Annie Russell Theater, the Rollins Singers climaxed their season with a near-professional concert of vocal chamber music and American spirituals.

The Singers are a group of eighteen students who are seriously interested in music, so that their director, Robert Hufstader, is free to choose a repertoire which is far more exacting than that of a larger and more unwieldy glee club type of organization. The Singers are particularly interested in the intricate part singing of the madrigal, a music form that presents a central theme on which many voice and instrumental parts elaborate in counterpoint.

The Singers were formed last year by Dr. David Swing at the suggestion of Mr. Hufstader and gave several short performances, but they did not actually hit their stride until this year. A heavy program schedule kept the group in constant trim.

While at first glance the titles and composers of the group's repertoire sometimes seemed rather forbidding to the music novice, as this writer is, the listener is pleasantly surprised at the wonderful music that a combination of singers and chamber music can produce. For instance, in one number two sopranos sang in harmony with a part for two violins. The violinists were Alphonse Carlo and Dorothy Allen, and were assisted by Geraldine Gee, viola; and Rudolph Fischer, cello.

Butler Scores In Rollins Rally

Tars Sweep Series From U. of Florida

By ARTHUR WEISS

The Rollins Tars made an early bid for a second straight state championship Friday and Saturday, fashioning two wins over the University of Florida Gators, 5-2 in Gainesville and 11-9 at Harper Shepherd field.

Bill Cary twirled the victory at Gainesville Friday, his second win against a lone defeat. Cary was in serious trouble only once when, in the bottom of the fifth, the Gators filled the bases with only one out. Delton Helms leaped high to snag a liner off the bat of opposing third baseman Wayne Clark and doubled the runner at third to curb the rally.

Florida scored once in the first and again in the eighth while touching Cary for eight hits and four walks. Rollins committed two errors.

Rollins supported Cary by tallying five times. The Tars scored twice in the third and three more times in the eighth when they drove Gator pitcher Bailey from the hill. Rollins won on seven hits, four walks, and three Florida errors.

The second game began almost as dismally as the weather, for Rollins. Clark drew first blood for Florida, homering over the left-centerfield wall with two aboard in the first. Florida scored once more in the third and fifth and three times in the seventh when catcher Larry Jaffe homered off the glove of Al Fantuzzi.

Rollins scored first in the third inning when Connie Mack

Rollins Netters Stop Duke, Orlando Club

Rollins picked up its third and fourth consecutive victories of the tennis season recently, defeating Duke, 7-2, and the Orlando Tennis Club, 6-4, in the Tars' final matches before stepping into state competition against Stetson and Miami this week.

Despite a long match with Dave Schimmel and Bob Green of Duke, who went three sets before losing, 6-4, 8-10, 6-4, last Thursday, Alfredo Millet and Alberto Danel kept their two year undefeated skein intact.

Millet lost his first singles match of the year to Gordon Warden, 7-5, 6-1, as Rollins defeated Orlando Tennis Club Sunday. Gordon, brother of Chuck Warden of the Tars net squad, has proved a nemesis for Millet.

TAR '8 BEATS AMHERST, EDGED BY RUTGERS

The Rollins Tars rowed past Amherst at the midway point of the short Lake Maitland course Thursday afternoon to defeat the eastern crew by 1 3/4 lengths for the Tars' first 1954 crew victory but were overtaken in the final feet to lose by a bare two feet to Rutgers, Saturday.

The Tar eight started at a 32 stroke pace in the Amherst race and trailed by half a length until past the midway point when they took advantage of a calm strip of water to step up to a 35 count and pass the visiting crew. Both varsity crews were bothered by a stiff wind. Rollins rowed the course in 5:15.2, Amherst in 5:23.

The Rutgers-Rollins race was so close that spectators on the dock were unable to identify the winner until notified of the official decision. Rollins took an early 3/4 stroke lead rowing at a 32 count to Rutgers' 34. The Red of Rutgers never went below a 34 as they made their bid near the first quarter mile to pull almost even with the Tars.

Both crews increased to fast strokes during the final 200 yards as the two shells crossed the finish line almost simultaneously. Rutgers' time was 5:37.5 for the mile and three-sixteenths; Rollins was 5:37.7.

Rollins Jayvees lost to both the Jayvees of Amherst and Rutgers in preliminary races. They finished two lengths behind Amherst with a time of 5:13.9 to the visitors' 5:4.4. Rutgers rowed to a four length win in 5:46.7 to Rollins' 6:08 time.

Rollins will row Brown today on Lake Maitland.

The Locker Room

by Dick Haldeman

A decade ago such Rollins tennis players as Pauline Betz, Jack Kramer, Connie Clifton, and Dorothy Bundy were making the college world tennis conscious. During the intervening years 50 to 60 colleges have added tennis scholarships and the Tars have been forced to share the spotlight with such squads as Miami and the University of North Carolina.

Now Rollins, under coach Jim McDougall, has taken the lead in a new move to spread the advantages of tennis to all college students, and to give the better calibre non-varsity players a chance to play in collegiate competition.

With the formation of the junior varsity team this spring the Rollins system of teaching tennis, under which the coach is interested in every student learning to play the game, has borne results.

McDougall stepped into a position of long tradition six years ago when he took over as tennis coach at Rollins. The origins of Rollins tennis date back to the early 1890's and an organization known as the Rollins Tennis Club. Rex Beach, the famed author, and Bobby Odham, "with their rackets, white ducks, and a few of the boys" went to Orlando in April, 1895 to defeat two members of the Orlando tennis club, 6-2, 6-2, 6-4, in the Tars' first recorded match.

Tennis has been at Rollins ever since, reaching its peak in 1944 when the Tar girls won 12 major women's championships. Material has been scarcer in recent years, but McDougall has continued the Rollins traditions with 59 match wins in 66 matches and undefeated seasons in 1948-49.

Mexican Davis Cuppers Alfredo Millet and Alberto Danel, Chilean stars Memo and Nano Garcia, and such promising players as Chuck Warden, George Longshore, Guy Filsof, and Paul Driscoll are making the Tars' effort to regain the state championship from Miami this year.

McDougall's formula for success is simple. "Fundamentals are meager. A player must love tennis, be intelligent, and practice. A coach can only show him the fundamentals and help him develop timing. Tennis gives one a wonderful social background, gives him an opportunity to meet people, opportunity to be in the air and sunshine, and teaches mental balance. A player with the desire to learn, can learn."

This Sunday at 1:30 the horse-show will begin the last term of intramural competition between the girls social groups at the Dubsdread Country Club. Judging for the show will be Mrs. Virginia Robinson who comes from Tampa, Florida. Mrs. Robinson judged for the show last year also.

Starting at the top of the program is Beginners class which will probably be divided into two groups. Following this will come the Intermediate and Advanced classes. Further entries will exhibit their skill in the Jumping, Side Saddle, and Bareback classes.

In the first three events, girls riding in the intermediate group may compete in one of the other four classes while those in the advanced class may appear in two.

Eligible for the cup class can only be those riding in the advanced group who have taken either first or second place.

There is strong reason to believe that the Pi Phis will find the Gamma Phis stiff competition. For the last two years the Gamma Phis have been extremely close behind, losing in 1952 by only one point, while last year they were only 1/2 a point short of tying for the championship. Such new riders as Sandy Taylor, Sue Cameron, and Barbi Berno will add to the strength of the title-holding Pi Phis, while Sis Atlass, Gail Donaldson, Delle Davies and Jackie Kovorkian will lend their talent to the Gamma Phi team.

Sara Jane Dorsey is on the Horseshow committee assisted by Janet Patton. Sis Atlass is acting as the student chairman of the committee with a girl from each group working under her.

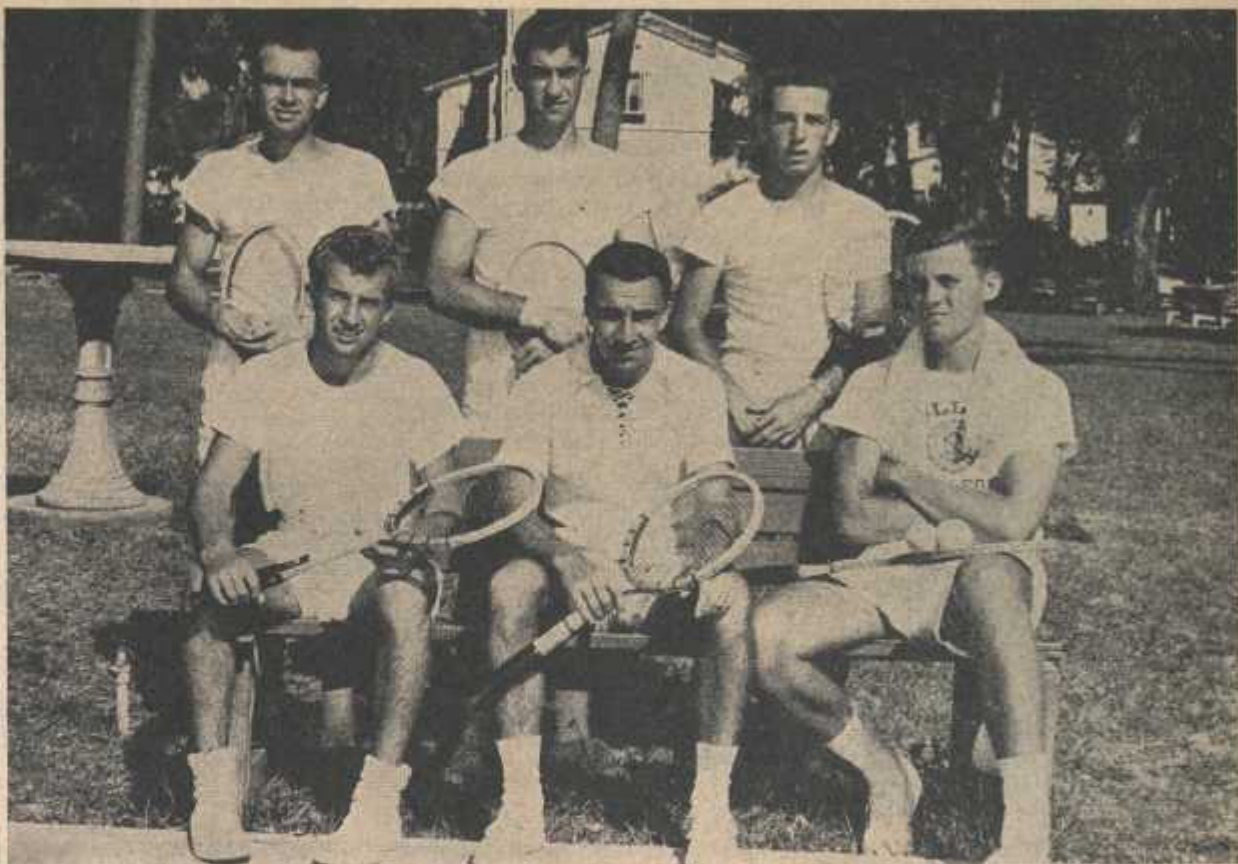

After the Horse Show comes the intramural girls golf tournament on April 26. Names for this must be in by April 21 in order to enter. All girls must go out and qualify before the 26.

Running for a period of three weeks, starting April 14, is the third big team sport of the year, volleyball, for all women's groups. The games this year are scheduled so that they will not come at the same time as any of the varsity baseball games.

April 14, the following teams will play:

- Theta vs. Phi Mu
- Gamma Phi vs. Chi Omega
- Kappa vs. Alpha Phi
- Independents vs. Pi Phi

'54 Tars Set For Miami

Tar Netters To Meet Undeclared Miami; Rollins, Hurricane Nines Play Two Games

Rollins netters will attempt to take their first step towards capturing the state tennis championship from Miami for the first time since 1949 tomorrow when they meet the Hurricanes here as part of a weekend of sports between Rollins and Miami which will also see the two teams play baseball games tomorrow and Saturday.

Rollins lost twice to Miami's unbeaten squad last spring, the Tars' only losses of the year. The Hurricanes won easily, 7-2 in Miami, but the Tars came within a whisker of holding them even in the Winter Park match before losing, 5-3.

Florida Golfers Defeat Rollins, 19 1/2-7 1/2; Marlene Stewart Is Medalist For Tars

The University of Florida golfers had too many big guns for Rollins Sunday afternoon, defeating the Tars, 19 1/2-7 1/2, despite a fine performance by Rollins Marlene Stewart, in only her second appearance as a member of the men's team.

Marlene had a 75 to share medalist honors for Rollins with Stewart Ledbetter and defeated Jim McCoy, 2-1, for one of Rollins' two victories, but Florida, led by Doug Sanders' 70, generally dominated play.

Sanders, playing number one, defeated Bill Boggess, 3-0. Pat Schwab defeated Ledbetter, 3-0 and Florida won the first four, 3-0.

In the second match Memo Garcia was forced to default because of leg cramps while within two points of a win that would have tied the match. Orlando Garrido, Cuban Davis Cup star, returns to play his second season in the number one spot for Miami. Alfredo Millet defeated Garrido in straight sets, 9-7, 6-3, in one of the top matches of the 1953 season. Garrido downed Calhoun Dickson of Rollins in Miami.

Miami is undefeated in nine matches this season. Both Garrido

Intramural golf entrants must play 36 holes before April 11 to qualify for match play. The low 14 scorers will play off April 12-21. Each match win will count five points toward the intramural trophy. Qualifying must be in mixed groups.

and Millet triumphed over Allen Morris, high-rated Presbyterian College player recently. The remainder of the Miami squad includes Bo Anderson, Swedish star, Al Harum, national Junior Indoor Champion, Slobin Kupferberger, South African veteran of European tours, Reynaldo Garrido, and Jerry Slobin.

The baseball Tars will be going after their ninth and tenth wins of the season and sixth and seventh in a row in the weekend series. Eleven lettermen from last season are on the Hurricane nine which split four games with Rollins last spring. Proceeds from the Friday game will go to the Fiesta.

Sigma Nu Surprises X Clubbers, 12-10, On 7th Frame Rally

In a hard fought contest, Sigma Nu upset the X Club, 12-10, Monday at the Sandspur Bowl. The Club led until the sixth inning when the Sigma Nu's pulled temporarily ahead, 7-6.

The Clubbers rallied to go into the lead, 9-7, but Sigma Nu slugged pitcher Bruce Remsberg for five runs in the seventh to go ahead, 12-9. The Club came back with a run in their half but fell two short.

In action last week, defending champion Delta Chi, led by pitcher Don Anderson, defeated Kappa Alpha, 11-8, and the X Club bowled over Lambda Chi, 19-11, in a game marred by errors.
