transmitter. Listeners within a 12 to 15 mile radius will be able to hear WPRK, and the fringe area will cover about ten more miles. The call letters "WPRK" and the location of 91.5 on the dial will remain the same.

WPRK has applied to The Federal Communication Commission for a license to operate a station of this power.

Campus limited is a system of broadcasting by which students in Rollins will be able to hear WPRK on their AM radios. In order to make this possible, special equipment will be installed in each dorm.

Director of WPRK, Mr. Frutchey states that, "Any merit to programs and operation of WPRK in the past three months is due to the efforts and loyalty of students who have worked on WPRK. With the increase in power, WPRK will continue to try to serve the campus and community with programs designed with the idea of appealing to a multitude, with variations in taste among our listeners."

Next year more live studio programs will be heard and more Rollins talent will be presented from all departments in the college. Students will write and produce drama productions and there will be more audience participation programs.

I REMEMBER THE FOUR GOOD YEARS

It is hard to believe that the four good years are over. It is hard to believe that the last year is rushing toward its close. It is unpleasant to believe that life as a student is finally drawing to an end.

The seniors graduating this year are the last ones who have seen the entire rebirth of Rollins College. Many of us journeyed to Tallahassee to watch the legislators handle the Rollins bill, and after the battle was won, many of us helped carry the new president, Hugh McKean, on our shoulders as he left the Annie Russell Theatre.

We then watched the new president step into office and calm the troubled waters. It was not an easy job. But he did it; he did it well, bringing the college through its most serious period of crises to the position of high national esteem that it holds today. It was an honor to have taken part in it all.

I remember my first visit to the campus, it was in June and it was the hottest day I have spent in Florida. I remember sitting in the Ad Building at the big table in front of the registrar's office, where later I was to sit many times filling in course cards, writing a short essay on why I wanted to come to Rollins. I remember answering Dean Stone's searching questions and then hearing the wonderful decision that I had made the grade.

That's when the four good years began. When I think back on all the stupid questions I asked as a freshman, I shudder. But I remember the kindly patience of my faculty advisor, professor Mendell, as he steered another freshman, wet behind the ears, down the straight and narrow. I can see Dean Darraw, hidden behind a cloud of vile-smelling cigar smoke, as he darted his philosophical thoughts on dousing towards the "unbeliever", Dr. Vestal.

From that point on, things began to happen faster and faster. There were courses I liked and courses I hated, perhaps I should say there were easy courses and hard courses. But no matter what the situation, there was no escaping the fact that everyone was working towards a common goal in whatever they were doing. Everybody was trying to make Rollins a better educational institution and trying to turn out a higher caliber type of student than ever had been done before.

There was more and more to do, and more and more that needed to be planned for in the immediate future. There were times of bitter disappointment and times of even greater elation when something went through and fitted into the general plan of the college. There were times of hard feelings and furious arguments, and then there were the times when the friendships that were formed became something wonderful.

During these four years, I have been prepared to go out and face life. And, as I leave here, I cannot help but believe that every person in the college has had a part in the job.

I will always remember Rollins and the four good years.

In Sallinger's, "Catcher in the Rye" the bemused school boy says, "What I was really hanging around for. I was trying to feel some kind of a good-by. I mean I've left school and places I don't even know I was leaving them. I hate that. I don't care if it's a sad good-by, but when I leave a place I like to know I'm leaving it. If you don't you feel even worse."

This is the end of the college year, for some it is the last of their days at Rollins. Now is the time for good-bys. Good-by to friends and places! But some things we don't leave behind but take with us. These are the things that will make all the difference in our lives.

GEORGIA TECH PREXY LABELS DRAFT "A FORM OF BRIBERY"

Atlanta, Ga.—(I.P.)—Branding Selective Service as a "form of bribery" that allows the best qualified to escape military service, President Blake R. Van Leer of Georgia Institute of Technology, a reserve Army officer since 1916, recently called for universal military training to "make everybody serve."

Leer stated that "anybody who was anybody and wanted to" has been able to avoid the draft.

President Van Leer said 40 per cent of the boys reaching 18 years of age cannot pass the mental and physical requirements to be a buck private. Some two million boys have been exempt in the past two years because they were married and if a boy wasn't married he had other honorable methods of neglecting his duty, he added.

The same criticism applies to college students who escape service by maintaining high grades or passing special examinations. Colonel Van Leer said ROTC enrollment is the only "valid reason" for deferment of a student.

"When I hear these learned and profound talks about manpower shortages, I grow sick at my stomach," he said. "What they really mean is that of those qualified mentally and physically, very few of them want to fight for their country, and few of them do." The government, he said, has been paying what amounts to a $5,000 bonus "to keep those who do go quiet for at least two years." The "bonus" consists of the best medical care in the world in and out of service, the best clothing and food and $110 a month from the government for three years if the ex-serviceman will go to a college. "So nobody complains about conscription, and the only person who gets a rough deal is the taxpayer, and he doesn't know what is happening to him," said Van Leer.

"LEGS ARE BACK THIS YEAR" "WHY HIDE OUR PRIDE"

(From the Daily Collegian, State College, Pennsylvania, (ACP).

Legs are back this year. And it's all because of the Women's Student Government Association.

No longer will women students wear slickers over their Bermuda shorts. No longer will the fair sex complain about the inequalities of the double standard. Bermuda shorts have been made legal.

But there's a catch. Shorts are legal only for side entrances. Bermuda-clad femmes will be forced to sneakily sneak past the front doors into the unwatched, unmanned side portals. The reasoning: Shorts in dormitory lobbies would be disruptive. Absurd! A little bit of cheesecake never caused indignation.

This is a modern world. Let's face it, hoop skirts are gone and legs are here to stay. Why hide our pride?

After all this is coeducation.

INTERLUDE . . .

At the University of California three male students wearing black hats and sporting mustaches and cigars, burst into a class lecture on "imperialism," shouted "Viva Puerto Rico," fired cap pistols, hurled a sputtering fuse-bomb in the air and departed.

Commented the professor, "Boys will be boys."

by Louis Ingram

This week we are going 'round Rollins together for the last time. It will be the twenty-seventh such exploration of the favorite nooks and crannies around the old campus, and that means that over twelve thousand words have been penned here. In spite of that great number of words, the time which they cover has swept by faster than it seems possible, and next year I will miss this corner as one misses a favorite old chair.

With classes coming all too close to the end and term papers all too close to their beginnings, students were a little too harried to appreciate this weekend as fully as they did the immediately preceding one. The big event was, of course, the Annual Juke Box Hop — otherwise known as the Senior Dance. Bill Karlslake Lumpsum, and his committee of little lumps, arranged a very enjoyable evening for the many couples that gathered beside (and in) the pool at the Aquasium.

The famous Adonis H. added to his accomplishments by founding the first formal swim party at that site. Candidates are disqualified unless they are fully attired.

While the aqua impura was being splashed about, Jim Locke made a desperate attempt to escape to the moon in some sort of a dime operated "flying" machine.

The announcement that busses were leaving for Folkston, Georgia, right after the dance was greeted with mixed emotions.

"Mr. Roberts" has been tripping the light fantastic down at the lakefront all this week, while over at the Fred Stone Theatre, "Black Chiffon" is holding its audience spellbound.

And, Last week the Campus Sing sponsored by the Independent Women drew a large crowd to see the Phi Mus and the Indie Men walk away with top honors.

Next year everyone will be pleased at the new "R" Books. They are bigger and better than ever, and there has been a request for a new binding which will make turning the pages easier. Also membership cards with Coca-Cola privileges will be issued by the Library.

That brings us to the end of another column and another year. In spite of everything that has been said in this commentary heretofore, I wish you all the best of luck — and remember, your college is what you make it.

JOHN PHILLIPS HAS RECITAL IN ANNIE RUSSELL

John Phillips, pianist, presented an Honor's Recital Wednesday, May 19, at the Annie Russell Theatre. The program consisted of three sonatas by the contemporary American composers, Mac Dowell, Griffes, and Barber.

In order to graduate with distinction in a major field, a student must undertake a special project, such as John's Honor's Recital, and present it before a committee to approve it.

John, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Phillips of Brownsville, Tennessee, is a member of the Chapel Staff, ODK, Music Guild, Pi Kappa Lambda, the French Club, and the Key Society. Recently he was awarded an Oslo Scholarship.

When his Oslo Scholarship expires, John plans to stay in Europe and study music for a year in Paris.

Sorority Frat Quiz Completes Season With Final Round

The final FRATERNITY-SORORITY QUIZ will take place tonight, from 8:00 to 8:30 p.m., in Studio B, of WPRK, when the championship of the campus will be determined.

In the finals will be the Pi Phi's and the Independent Women. Last Friday the Indie Women won the second round of the semi-finals over the Indie Men.

The final quiz will be a team contest, where the contestants will work together, without oral aid. The program is very similar to Herb Shriner's "Two for the Money."

The contestants must be in the studio by 7:30. All who wish to be members of the studio audience must be in the studio by 7:45 p.m.

Students who won awards were Frances Chapman and Ronald Fishbaugh, both of Orlando; Kathleen Cooper, Lead, S. Dakota; Diane Herblin, Maitland; Cary Lee Keen, Ruxton, Md.; Mary Marsh, Silver Springs, Md.; John Phillips, Brownsville, Tenn.; Sallie Rubinstein, Yonkers, N.Y.; and Katherine Siegler, Towson, Md.

"Music At Rollins" Placed On Exhibit This Week At Library

An exhibit entitled "Music at Rollins, 1885-1954" is now on display at Mills Memorial Library.

Many of the items which include photographs, programs, newspaper clippings, building plans, instruments, etc. came from the college archives. However, several rare items were contributed by Ray Trovillion, Andy Ahik, Ben Ayerigg, Dr. Edwin O. Grover, and Alvera Barbor Martin, of Winter Park, Prof. Edward Jones of Orlando, Rollins Alumni, Inc., and Knowles Memorial Chapel.

Winter Park and Orlando residents whose pictures or programs are included in the display are Mrs. F. W. Shepherd, Manly Duckworth, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Johnston, Dr. Philip Reece, Jeanette Dickson Colado, Elizabeth Wheatly Johnson, Ahik, Trovillion, and Mrs. Martin.

Many honors have come to Rollins music students since the founding of the college in 1885. In the "Student Musician" auditions conducted by the National Federation of Music Clubs, a Rollins student has won the highest rating in piano in Florida for eight consecutive times. Winners were Ely Haimowitz, Dafne Takach, Mary Upchurch, Carlyle Seymour, Olga Llano, Jeannine Romer and John Phillips.

"Mr. Roberts" Production Deemed As Excellent Theatre Entertainment

By LOUIS INGRAM

For people who enjoy really good entertainment, the current Rollins Players' production of "Mr. Roberts" is the answer. To my recollection, there have been very few shows here to equal this production from the standpoint of smoothness.

The play has been beautifully directed by Wilbur Dorsett, who seems to make the most of the scripts many possibilities, although, as has been remarked before, the cuts were a little too severe. In spite of this, however, the mood of the situation is well established and maintained by the cast.

I have not changed my opinion of the gimmick involved in this production. The fine set is cleverly designed to move the play easily through its many scenes. But "on the water" aspect of the production can add very little to the effectiveness of the excellent setting provided by Dick Verigan; and as the editor of "Theatre Arts" pointed out later, the idea was "not earth shaking."

The mood of the play was established immediately by Bruce Lee who had little to say but was none-the-less first rate. Jerry O'Brien plays the part of the blustering Captain very well, and by end of the first act one has the unmistakable impression that he is taking out his earlier hardships on his crew.

Dick Lesneski was the star of the show, any way you look at it. His handling of Mr. Roberts was complete, but not overdone. It was sensitive and genuine, and displayed the talents of one "star" whose light has not been seen enough. The role itself is a powerful one which generates the play's chief empathy.

In the shadow of this part is Ensign Pulver, around whom a great part of the story revolves. The play traces his development from a "weak sister" to a mature man of the world. It is a very difficult role in which, in spite of his lack of experience (which is no discredit), Pete Adams is quite adequate.

Jack Randolph is very convincing as Doc, a sympathetic role which demands more than the usual efforts on the part of the actor. Pat Green stands out in the lone feminine touch in an otherwise all male cast.

One of the most important aspects of the success of this production is the team work of the many minor roles. Very seldom have I seen such a multitude of seeming "also-rans" take up their burden, which is too often neglected, and add so much to a production.

Credit for the success of the final show of the year cannot go to any one (or even a few), but to the team as a whole. This is a demonstration of what our theater can do.

Campaigns Acquaint Public With Role Of Sports In Character Development

Millions of Americans of all ages will be "going to college" this year in one of the most comprehensive radio and television campaigns ever launched to acquaint the American public with the great role of our educational institutions in character development through sports.

This information campaign comprises a part of the ABC Television proposal that the National Collegiate Athletic Association Television Committee found "attractive" and "important" in the network's bid to televise the NCAA football games this coming season.

Details of the 39-week "information course" which for the first time is divided between 13 weeks of football, 13 weeks of winter sports events and 13 weeks of spring sports events, are being completed by the American Broadcasting Company which will utilize its vast radio and television networks for a series of programs to bring the college campus into virtually every home in America.

The concept of 39-weeks of college sports programs on Saturday afternoons throughout the college school years was presented to the NCAA committee by Robert H.

O'Brien, Executive Vice-President of ABC.

This series of radio and television programs will place the greatest possible emphasis on the tremendous contributions of America's colleges and universities and the part played by sports in the building of the body, mind and spirit.

Students, athletes, school officials and leading Americans who found courage and inspiration in the challenge of college sports programs will be the "stars" in these broadcasts and telecasts that will originate from college campuses throughout the country.

The first of these programs devoted to America's colleges and universities will have its premiere over the ABC Radio Network during the week of July 24. This weekly half-hour series titled SUMMER JOB will show how college athletes spend their summer vacations, how they are planning for the coming academic year and their hopes and aspirations after graduation.

A week before the nation turns its attention to the opening grid-iron games, the ABC Radio and Television Networks will simulcast a full-hour program to salute America's colleges and universities and the great men our schools have produced.

Top personalities in all fields of achievement will participate in the full-hour simulcast to pay tribute to their Alma Maters and explain the individual contributions these schools have made to their personal lives and to the American way of life. Also in the "cast" will be men prominent in the entertainment field, college marching bands, a university glee club and some of the most interesting and unique college traditions associated with football.

The part played by college rallies will be dramatically presented in a series of Friday evening programs over the ABC Radio Network. ABC's microphones will be set up on college campuses throughout the country beginning Sept. 17 to broadcast a series of football rallies with their inspiring and enthusiastic demonstrations.

To enable wider participation in ABC's college information campaign, schools slated for the NCAA football telecasts will be excluded from the colleges participating in the RALLY broadcasts.

On Saturdays, beginning Sept. 18, the ABC Radio Network will present a weekly two-hour VICTORY DANCE series with the favorite campus tunes, football scores and salutes to colleges.

Harvey Cassill, Director of Athletics for the University of Washington and Chairman of the NCAA Television Committee, stated in announcing the NCAA agreement with ABC for televising the NCAA games:

"We are extremely happy that ABC-TV will present our expanded 1954 schedule of collegiate football. To the NCAA the ABC proposal was the most extensive and imaginative since it placed the greatest emphasis on promoting collegiate football and the college way of life."

This expanded schedule will cover a series of 12 games to be seen over 150 or more ABC-TV Network stations on successive Saturdays, Sept. 18 through Dec. 4 and will include a special Thanksgiving Day telecast of one or more outstanding grid game.

The ABC-TV Network will have 477 football games from which to choose with at least one game originating from each of the eight NCAA districts. A college may appear only once on these "live" football game telecasts.

Rounding out its college information campaign, the ABC-TV Network will present additional television programs on the days it telecasts NCAA games. At half time, ABC will telecast COLLEGE CLOSE-UP highlighting the contestants of the day as well as their respective colleges. Campus tradition and color will be shown, presidents and other leaders of the schools will be interviewed and half-time activities presented to convey the importance that college athletes play in the entire curriculum.

ABC-TV's pre-game SOUVENIR PROGRAM will present campus shots, campus music and interviews with players and coaches. A post-game series, SATURDAY'S SCORE BOARD, will follow the game.

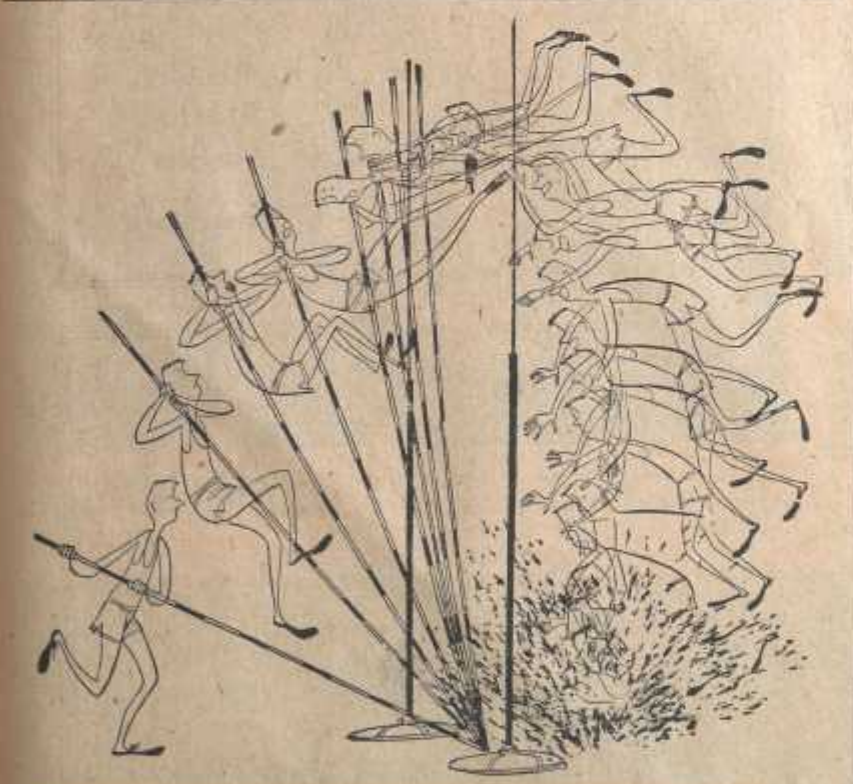

ABC's role in this vast undertaking is summarized by Robert E. Kintner, ABC President, who explains:

"The American Broadcasting Company is proud to have been selected by the NCAA to bring this substantially expanded schedule of top college football contests to our nationwide audience. But we at ABC feel that we should go beyond televising the games themselves. We must present to both our radio and television audiences the broad background developed through the college way of life."

THIS YEAR IN PICTURES

New Student Council Officers were sworn in by the 1953-54 president, Hal Broda. In passing the gavel to Dan Matthews, Hal drew to a conclusion a successful year that saw many recommended projects completed. Other officers are Bill Karslake and Cindy Wellenkamp.

The long awaited opening of WPRK, Rollins' own FM voice took place. The new director is the very capable Mr. Frutchey. Shown with him are Mr. George Cartwright, Jr. and Rod Collins. Radio courses are set for next year.

As usual the religious side was not neglected with many activities centering in the Chapel. This scene is of a Holy Week talk.

The passing in October of Mrs. Frances Knowles Warren marked the end of a life devoted to philanthropic pursuits. The donor of several Rollins buildings, Mrs. Warren remembered the College in a most generous manner in her estate.

Under the tutelage of Dan Nyimicz the Tar cagers had a most successful season, with the finale being a NAIB elimination contest.

The winning X-Club float was but one of the many features of the most successful Fiesta ever staged at Rollins. An exciting parade and midway were capped by a dance featuring the Sauter-Finnegan Orchestra, and broadcast coast to coast.

The Independent Men's Annual Talent Night brought out this hula dance as well as many other features as there was keen competition to gain the new trophies. Winners were the Delta Chi's and the Gamma Phi Beta's.

Party Line

By Janet O'Day

The last big social event of the year rocked the Coliseum Saturday night as the seniors were the Student Council's guests at the annual dance. There were all sorts of goodies to drink — and some food.

Jim Locke tried to take a trip to the moon in the kiddie boat but he only succeeded in upsetting his constitution. Where there is a swimming pool at a party there are usually people in it: such as Bruce Lee, Marcia Mattox, John Haussermann, Jerry Faulkner, Dot Campbell and Betty Brook. Betty cheated — she didn't go formal!

Harry Chauncey and Frank Johnson were discussing throwing each other out of the windows of their minds (I don't know what it means — ask them).

Among those seen dancing and living it up with a great exuberance were Jenny Lou Blakley, Ed Dinga, Sue LeClere, Brian Bird, Phyllis Lockwood, Bob Finney, Carmen Lampe, Stu Maples, James Christen Felix, "Rosebud" Voor and Jean Day.

A new addition noted at this dance was a bus line running to Folkston, Georgia.

The Delta Chis had their annual senior banquet at the Eola Plaza Saturday night before the dance. During the proceedings Mrs. Burke announced the engagement of Madge Wood to Bruce Elwell.

Friday night Joan and Tom LeClere gave the Delta Chis and their dates a barbecue at their home.

The X Club held their senior banquet at the Pine Hills Country Club Wednesday night. Even Face went.

The KAs had their Pelican this weekend. Among the various games played was "flip off the sand bank". Participating in this entertainment were John Boyle, Geri Pacino, Dick Potter and Joyanne Herbert. Others there were Mary Lou Tullock, Joan Bucher and Harry Smith, Betty Merrill and Jerry Griggs.

A champagne party was given for Marie Perkins at the Eola Plaza after her senior recital Friday. Among those attending were Allee Chatham and Sandy Hose. Marie attended with Ronnie Butler.

Sue and Ed Travis held an open house last week. The highlight of the party was a new concoction called Moosehead Punch, which was served to the guests. Ask Harry Chauncey for the recipe.

The R Club initiated last Sunday. The new members are Dick Potter, Dave Feldman, Dave Bowen, Al Fantuzzi, Tom Hulihan, Hal Lawler, Guy Filosof, Stu Maples and Ed Dinga.

The Sigma Nus initiated Monday night. Their new actives are: Al Fantuzzi, Ra Moody, Ross Fleischmann, Pete Adams, Tom Hulihan, Fred Shoaff, Dick Dixon and Stu Maples. Congratulations!

Friday the organized sophomore class of next year had a disorganized freshman skip day. Half the freshmen went to Daytona, half went to the Pelican and the remaining members stayed in bed.

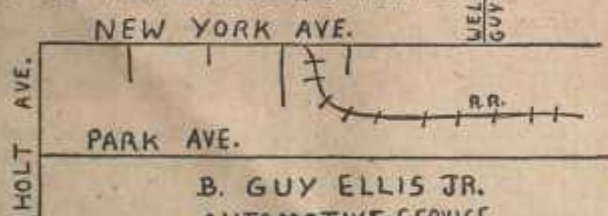

The Science "Fiction" Class met Monday and Tuesday night behind the Morse Art Gallery — to view the stars — can this be true?

Those who fled from the hallowed halls last weekend were: Marie Perry, Sally Sowers, Kathy Swartz, Ellen McPhee and Carlyne Rhodes. They went to Daytona for a little peace and quiet. Pat Greene, Joy Woods, Sue Dunn, Bob Harding and David Hull went to Erlene Roberts' house in Jacksonville. And, Pat Feise escaped to Miami.

Sara Jane Dorsey bought a kite last weekend. She went mad racing up and down Daytona Beach trying to get it in the air. Watch Out! Kite flying might be a new intramural sport.

Engaged: Jerry Faulkner, KKG to Bummy Townsend.

ROLLINS GRADS SET OUT FOR HIGHER GOALS

As the seniors receive diplomas on June 4, many of them will be receiving their last formal education.

For a smaller group, the Baccalaureate is but the first step, and pursuit of higher degrees is their ambition.

Typical of these students is Don Weber, who is looking towards graduate work at Northwestern University. Don will study finance at the University's Chicago campus.

An assistantship in chemistry at Purdue University will be the next academic endeavor of John Joy. Having served as a special student assistant at Rollins, John was notified of his selection in January. Bill House will also attend Purdue, furthering his studies in chemistry.

George Saute, a psychology major, has plans for further work at Duke University in North Carolina.

Recently notified of an assistantship at the University of Miami was Kathy Siegler. Kathy will teach English there while attending school for a higher degree.

Betty Jean Lang and Faith Emeny plan to attend the University of Hawaii. They will start to school in the second semester, which begins after Christmas.

Sid Katz, pre-med student, will continue his studies at the University of Tulane Medical School.

Another pre-med major, Sam Barley, will go to the University of Michigan Medical School.

Phi Beta Presents "Black Chiffon" at FST

by Louis Ingram

"Black Chiffon" is a fast moving play built around the close relationship of a mother and son. In her anxiety over his approaching marriage, her strained relations with her husband, and the confusion of the last minute preparations she steals a black chiffon nightgown. Rather than expose the unhappy plight of her family in court, she pleads guilty and goes to prison.

Alison Dessau plays the part of the bride-to-be with poise, while Ross Fleischmann is excellent as the son. Both Mary Enck and Sonny Dorwitt give warm and personable performances, adding much to the play. The psychiatrist is a very real part of the intrigue, and is very well portrayed by Klaus Wolfe.

This thoroughly competent cast under the direction of Joan Jennings added up to a show well worth seeing.

FILLING SPACE

by Louis Ingram

As a finale, a graduating senior will take a backward glance over four years at Rollins. R. F.

The pride of graduation is invariably accompanied by a sense of frustration and loss. It is a significant milestone, and should not be thought of as a millstone. Four Fleischmann years is a long time, and in it much has happened.

As a freshman, I saw the college throw off the yoke of despotism, and turn toward the future with new vigor and spirit. The next year the spirit melted to only a shadow of its former self. Its ups and downs have wrought a great change in the character of our college.

After four years, I should say that the most important aspect of a Rollins education is the important experiences arising from extra-curricular activities, but the fulcrum of its weakness is disregard for the importance of mental discipline. It is through discipline that honesty and integrity are bred. The world has no more room for cheaters — even those who kid themselves that the particular instance is unimportant. The duty of education is to mature and train.

Everyone must be prepared to evaluate their strengths and weaknesses in terms of reasonable standards, and four years of college education should provide those standards.

This is a stern hour. To all of you goodbye and good luck.

NCAA DISTRICT FINALS HERE

Tars To Oppose VPI June 5-7 For Slot In Omaha Finals

The Rollins Tars will play host to V. P. I., champion of the Southern Conference, June 5, 6, and 7, in a best two out of three series to decide the District 3 representative in the national N. C. A. A. baseball championship tourney in Omaha, Nebraska.

Coch Joe Justice will call upon lefthanded ace Bill Cary to oppose the Virginians in the opener, which will be played either as an afternoon contest at Harper-Shepherd field or a night game at Tinker field in Orlando.

The Tars drew their third consecutive bid to the District N. C. A. A. playoffs Friday afternoon and drew a first round bye when four Southern Conference squads turned down bids to play in the tournament.

V. P. I. defeated Clemson College, the Atlantic Coast Conference titlist, in two straight games Saturday and Monday at Clemson, South Carolina, and Blacksburg, Virginia to gain the District 3 finals. Justice won the right to play host by the luck of a coin toss Monday night.

The Tars resumed full scale workouts last week. Shortstop Nick Vancho, out since mid-season with a broken ankle, was announced to be in good playing shape by Coach Justice. All State second baseman Fred Talbot's broken thumb is healed and the Rollins double play combination will be able to go at near full speed.

Southpaw Art Brophy will oppose the visitors Saturday either at Harper-Shepherd or Tinker field, with either Don Tauscher or Bob Leader hurling the final game at Harper-Shepherd field Sunday afternoon if it is necessary.

The freshman ineligibility rule, which hurt the Tars considerably in last years tournament, is ironically enough the cause of their advancing closer than ever before to the national finals this spring. Georgia, champion of the Southern Conference for the second straight year, balked at playing without freshmen. Runners Miss.issippi and Auburn turned down bids for the same reason and Florida, third place finisher in the eastern division of the conference nixed a bid because it interfered with final examinations.

A scheduled District 3 conference slated for the past weekend was cancelled and Walter Raab, District Chairman, extended a bid to Justice by telephone at noon Friday. The formal acceptance of the bid was recieved Sunday.

X Club Beats Indies; Delts Take Second Straight I-M Crown

By virtue of a 13-11 X Club victory over the Independent last week, Delta Chi clinched first place in the Intramural Softball League for the second year in a row.

Delta Chi is now two full games ahead of the second place Independents and with only one game remaining on the schedule, cannot lose the championship.

Don Anderson, the Delta Chi speedtaller, was the main stay of the team. Don compiled an 18-2 record during the last two seasons.

Although the title race is over, the Independents must defeat the new league champions Tuesday to hold second place. If they lose they will end the season with a 6-4 record and a tie for second place with the X Club, which shares the same record.

Five Tars Make All-State Squad

Butler Leads Batters With .339 Average, 6 Homers, 25 RBIs

Five of the players who helped the Rollins Tars gain their second consecutive state championship and third straight N.C.A.A. tournament bid were named to the Florida College All State baseball team Sunday.

The five, chosen by state coaches, were slugging leftfielder Connie Mack Butler, pitchers Bill Cary and Art Brophy, second baseman Fred Talbot and catcher Don Finnigan.

Cary, Butler and Talbot were repeaters from last season's All State squad, while Brophy and Finnigan made the squad for the first time. Finnigan was previously chosen as the most valuable player in the 1952 District 3 NCAA playoffs.

Finnigan and Cary were the top vote drawers for the Tars. Cary compiled a 6-1 record with a 1.57 earned run average to lead all pitchers, while Finnigan's outstanding defensive work behind the plate, steady .260 average and ability to score made him a top vote getter.

Butler supplied most of the power for the Tars championship drive, smashing six homeruns and driving in 25 runs while leading the squad in hitting with a .339 mark.

Art Brophy, the other half of the Tars star lefthanded pitching duo, compiled a 6-0 record to complete his second consecutive season undefeated. Brophy had an earned run average of 2.93.

Talbot, out since midseason, nevertheless took the keystone position on the squad for the second consecutive season. Fred, who led Rollins in hitting last season, saw his average drop to .216 this season but continued his outstanding job in the field.

Bob MacHardy, who was voted all star firstbaseman on last season's team, was nosed out this season by Fred Twomey of F.S.U., despite his .312 batting average. Other Tars making honorable mention on the team were third baseman Delton Helms and shortstop Nick Vancho.

The Locker Room

by Dick Haldeman

The Rollins Tars will play their third consecutive N. C. A. A. District tournament next week with the odds more heavily weighed in their favor than in either of their other two appearances.

With only one freshman, Al Fantuzzi, seeing extensive duty this season, the freshman rule which bothered the Tars last season will be virtually non-existent. The inexperience which hurt the team two years ago when it won its only N. C. A. A. victory, over Duke, is also gone.

Certainly this is the best team ever to represent Rollins in the tournament. Bill Cary, who pitched the win over Duke and is pitching in his third N. C. A. A. tourney, and Art Brophy give the Tars one of the top college pitching combinations in the country. Experienced men man every position, with Cary, Fred Talbot, Delton Helms, Connie Butler, Don Finnigan and Bob Leader all seeing action in their third tournament.

Other than gaining a shortcut to the District finals by the refusal of four Southeastern Conference teams to play in the tournament, perhaps the biggest break of all is that allowing the tournament to be played in Winter Park. The Tars have played their best ball at Harper-Shepherd field this season, where the fence makes a tempting target for Butler and MacHardy.

The Southeastern Conference might have been putting the pressure on the N.C.A.A. to drop its rigid tournament eligibility rules by the mass refusal to play without freshmen. Kentucky refused to compete in the N.C.A.A. basketball tournament this winter without its post graduate players and the loose eligibility rules and grant in aids of the Southeastern conference have often conflicted with the policies of the Association.

Florida did not win the N.C. A. A.'s everlasting gratitude by its premature announcement of the tournament bids Sunday either.

The question of whether or not to drop intramural football was scheduled to come up at yesterday's intramural board meeting. No matter what action was taken, it seems silly to suppose that last season's type of game can be continued without the same number of needless injuries. But it is sillier to suppose that equipment would lower the number of injuries under the present rule. No pads ever devised can protect an unwary, out of condition, stiff jointed person from a hard blow on the side of the legs.

Butler, Cary, Brophy Talbot and Finnigan On Coaches' Team

Connie Mack Butler, despite a late season slump, led the Rollins Tars in batting with a .339 average for the regular 1954 season. Butler also led the club in hits with 38, homeruns with six, and runs batted in with 25.

Placing second to Butler was outfielder Dave Robinson with a .314 mark, followed by Bob MacHardy, who hit .312.
