Joe Justice

By Carol Fortier

Here at Rollins we amble around the campus day after day almost colliding with professors who show no outward signs of being unusual. We hardly ever stop to wonder about them and their histories. Perhaps we would be a good deal richer if we did, for many of these people have had most interesting lives.

Take for instance Dean Joe Justice; his story is a fascinating one.

Dean Justice comes from a family of five boys—Jack, Bill Neil, Charlie and himself. All the boys except Charlie, whose choice was the University of North Carolina, came to Rollins. Charlie, known as "Choo Choo", is the member of the Justice family who received national recognition for he was All-American at the University for four years and played football professionally for the Washington Redskins for five years after completing his college career.

Here at Rollins, the other four boys all played football, but Dean Justice was the only one who made the All State team. He played All State football, basketball, and baseball, and was elected to the All-Star team of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association.

In 1933, he became a member of the All-American baseball team which represented the United States in the International Tournament held in Habana, Cuba.

The family scattered somewhat after college days, and for a few of the boys, sports took a back seat. Jack is Secretary of the Y. M.C.A. at Kenton, North Carolina; Choo Choo is in dealership for Phillips 66 in Hendersonville, N. C.; Neil is a sales representative for the Pure Oil Company and Bill is football coach at Clearwater High School in Clearwater, Fla.

Speaking of Rollins football history, Dean Justice stressed that the most flourishing period was when Jack McDowell was coach (1928-1949). At this time, Rollins was recognized as having the best football team in Florida, and one of the better small college teams in the country.

Several of the boys were mentioned for little All-American and the honor was actually bestowed upon Charles Lingerfelt in 1940.

During the years that Rollins played football, the University of Tampa won only one game, and from 1937 to 1949 Stetson did not manage to come out on top in a single one.

Dean Justice took over as coach during the last year of Rollins football which was in 1949. The team was given up because of the costs of managing it and the expenses of the numerous athletic scholarships.

Concerning the possibility of reinstating football at Rollins, Dean Justice says,

"There is no concerted effort being made toward it right now ... the prospect is not too promising for at least the next couple of years."

Dean Justice now divides his time between four time-consuming jobs: that of father to five children, Dean of Men, Director of Athletics, and baseball coach. A busy, accomplished man.

Jack McDowell

By Penny Mensing

Jack McDowell, recently retired Director of Athletics, is the next Rollins faculty member with a football past. And this was a glorious past.

He was born in Alachua County—a native Floridian yet—and went on from the secondary schools of Gainesville to higher education, earning degrees at Duke University and North Carolina State.

After graduation in 1928 from North Carolina State, Jack came to Orange County and was appointed Athletic Director and football coach at Rollins. From then on, his name has been synonymous with Rollins athletics, building Rollins into a small college football power in the South and also coaching basketball and baseball.

He was absent from Rollins to serve his stint in the Navy during World War II. He turned the gridiron reins over to Joe Justice the final year of Rollins football in 1949 and ran the athletic department from the front office until his recent resignation.

McDowell was forced to resign from his position here at Rollins because of outside business pressures. In 1952 he had run for and was elected County Commissioner of district five. In the 1956 elections he ran against H. C. Buchanan in the May 8 Primary and won. Then in the November elections he ran against Joel P. Phillips, Jr. and beat him. He is also Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners. All this requires much of his time—more time than he had to spare as an athletic director.

In October of 1956 there was an article in the Orlando Sentinel-Star which was entitled "McDowell Belongs in Hall of Fame" and it cited him for election to the Hall of Fame on the basis of the well-qualified observation of Gus Tebell, present Athletic Director at the University of Virginia and coach of McDowell when he was the State College star of the late '20's.

He has been called one of the greatest performers the Raleigh, North Carolina, school has had in its long football history.

During a football gabfest recently the question was put to Tebell whether McDowell was worthy of consideration in Foot-

Sue Jones, Phi Mu pitcher, takes a hefty swing Monday during the Phi Mu-Theta game. Theta's won in one of the season's top games.

Bermuda Sports

by Roma Neundorf

Game of the week! The Theta's and the Phi Mu's had a battle on Monday, ending in an 8-7 victory for the Theta's. At the end of five innings—the end of any "usual" game—the score was seven-all. The Mu's, up first, didn't get a run; then the Theta's didn't do anything. In the seventh, the Theta's got one run to win the game.

Kathy Schwarz made a spectacular catch to save the Mu's in one inning, and the Theta's with their best batters up, finally scored a run.

The Mu's showed very good team spirit and very good sportsmanship during the entire game. Sue Jones and Judy Earle pitched well and deserve a lot of credit.

Alpha Phi was victorious again, this time over the Chi Omega's. The game was close all the way until the Phi's scored six runs in the fifth inning. The Chi O's had trouble trying to find a pitcher that wouldn't walk the "Proxies". I don't think they should have switched pitchers in the last inning—that was their downfall. The Phi's won, 8-3.

Indies defeated the Kappa's, 7-1, in a thriller on Saturday. Those Indies are just too tough to beat.

Theta won over Gamma Phi, 18-1, on Friday. Cookie Lindgren and Nancy Williams hit three-basers, and D. A. Sharp hit a two baser for the Gamma Phi's.

Tennis intramurals are under way, but very few matches have been played so far. In case you don't have the dates straight, here they are: first match in singles by Feb. 4th; second by the 13th; third by the 17th, and finals by the 20th. If your matches are not played on time, you will have to default them. Seeded players in the singles are Owen McHaney, Julie Van Pelt, and Lloyd Hoskins in that order. Get going on those matches kids!

PANIC, PANIC. I need someone, anyone, to write this column starting in about four weeks for the trial editions. The only qualifications are interest and time. I would like to have a girl who is interested in all intramurals and who would be willing to give a few hours of her time to write for the Sandspur every week. If you will send your names in to me through Campus Mail, I would appreciate it. Thank you.

Swimmers on television this week, on the Garry Moore show, were Sue York and Sue Dunn. By the way, they won trophies for out-stroking the panel.

Baseball Hopefuls Begin Practice Drills On Monday

Baseball coach Joe Justice announced this week that baseball practice will get underway on Monday, Feb. 18, at Harper-Shepherd field. The opening session will begin at 2:30.

The Tar mentor urges all interested males to report on Monday, as the diamond sport is open to all men regardless of whether one has been awarded a baseball scholarship.

All of last year's players, with the exception of shortstop Nick Vancho, outfielder Jim Doran, and third baseman Dick Williams, will be returning to the diamond.

Ed Overstreet, Al Fantuzzi, Hal Lawler, Ra Moody, and Tommy Hulihan will be playing their final season for the Tars as seniors.

Justice has recruited four freshmen for the spring sport. They include three pitchers, southpaws Bunky Davis and Charlie Allan and righthander Stover McIlwain. Frosh Ralph Farina will be vying for an infield position.

The biggest position to fill this year will be that of shortstop. This position was held last year by Nick Vancho, who was selected to the All American second squad this past summer.

Jack Gaudette and Bob Richmond will probably make strong bids for Vancho's spot and the third base position.

The Tars will have one full month of practice before their opening game with Georgia on March 18. Basketball players will join the squad on Monday, Feb. 25.

SPORTS AGENDA

Varsity Basketball — Tars face Mercer University tonight at 8 p.m. in the WPHS gym.

Baseball—First practice session begins Monday at 2:30 at Harper-Shepherd field. All interested Rollins males are invited.

IM Basketball — KA's face the Sigma Nu's at 4:15 today, while the Delts and Lambda Chi's meet in a preliminary game to tonight's varsity tilt at 6:30. All-Stars and Stetson will vie on Tuesday night in the WPHS gym.

Tars Lose To Teachers, Mercer On Georgia Trip

By Lowell Mintz

The Rollins Tars' trip through Georgia turned out to be the exact opposite of Sherman's march through Georgia as Georgia Teachers and Mercer devastated Rollins by the scores of 88-78 and 104-78.

The game with Georgia Teachers on Feb. 9 proved to be sweet revenge for the Professors who had previously lost to Rollins here in Winter Park.

As in most Rollins basketball games the score was close for most of the games. Rollins led early in the first half, 14-10. Teachers went ahead, 15-14, on a field goal by Chester Curry. The score was then knotted at 19-19, 21-21, and 32-32. Halftime found Georgia out in front, 36-34.

The second half got under way with the Professors taking the lead, 42-34, but Rollins with the aid of injured forward Chick Bezeemer came right back to lead, 48-47. Rollins also led, 60-58, and was tied at 60-60. This was the last time the Tars could stay with the Teachers as they went out ahead to stay.

For Rollins the work of guard Boyd Coffie with 32 points for the night was the only consolation. Coffie was high scorer for the game.

From Statesboro, the Tars traveled to Macon to play Mercer on Feb. 11. The Tars got off to an 8-0 lead before Mercer could hit a bucket, but when they began to score they did it in abundance.

Mercer tied the score at 8-8. The lead changed hands three times and the score was tied three times before Mercer went out in front to stay with about 13 minutes remaining in the first half.

At halftime Rollins was losing 53-35. Mercer completed the dismal night by pouring 51 points through the hoops to go over the century mark for the night. This was the second highest point total score against the Tars this year.

For the Tars Lee Martindale was high scorer with a total of 18 points. Martindale hit 12 straight free throws before missing one.

TAR RACKETEERS VIE IN FLORIDA OPEN TOURNEY

By Guy Filosof

The week-long Florida State Open Tennis championships, now being held at the Orlando Tennis Club, offers to the interested Rollins fan an opportunity to witness well-ranked tennis in action.

The tournament is featuring nationally known figures such as Eddie Moylan, fifth ranking U.S. player, Pete Schoil, one of Germany's best, and Laura Lou Kunn, Florida's top woman player, along with some highly regarded local entries.

Rollins players competing in the net event include Ben Sobiera, Guy Filosof, Dave Hewitson, Vic Antonetti, Phil Lubetkin, Gene Foster, and members of the Tar junior varsity.

The women are well represented by Owen McHaney, Julie Van Pelt, Joan McClelland, and Lloyd Hoskins.

Competition is being held in seven divisions with much of the attention focused on the men's singles and doubles, women's singles and doubles, and the always exciting mixed doubles.

Tournament semi-finals are slated Saturday with the final matches in all divisions set Sunday at the Tennis Club.

IFC Gives Approval To SSS Fraternity

A new local men's fraternity, SSS, has been approved by Inter-fraternity Council by a 4-1 vote, it was announced in Council meeting last Monday night.

Randolph Strout, chairman of the new group, appeared at Council to ask for Council's approval of Inter-fraternity Council's action. Pres Hull explained that Council's approval is not necessary; the petition will go now directly to the faculty for its approval.

SSS will be on a probationary period for a year. They will be allowed to attend the Council meetings, but will have no vote until their year's probation is over.

Treasurer of the College John Tiedtke visited the Council meeting to request that a committee be appointed to constructively look into the Beany problems.

Apparently complaints of a general and unconstructive nature have increased of late. Mr. Tiedtke attributed the problems of this term to the illness of Mrs. Mays, saying her absence has "crippled" the Beany administration. She has been in the hospital with a severe illness since Christmas.

Mr. Tiedtke expressed hope that general gripes be dispensed with, although he, the Beany, and the new committee will welcome any helpful criticism for which solutions may be found.

Pres named to the Beany Committee: Bruce Beal, Tom DiBacco, Marion Polson, Dottie Englehart, Karen Serungard, and Bill Dunnill. These students will study menus to find ways to have more variety and balance in the meals and will also meet with Mr. Tiedtke and Mr. Mays to talk over possible solutions to the present Beany problems.

Pres requested that representatives ask their groups for constructive and specific criticisms to be looked into by the committee.

Pres read the names of those students who have attended ten Council meetings, making them eligible to run for Student Council offices in the spring elections. The list of these students will be posted on the Center bulletin board, he announced. There are five weeks, or five Council meetings, before the elections will be held.

JOAN BENNETT OFFERS FIESTA BAND SOLUTION

Joan Bennett, Fiesta Chairman, brought to Council meeting last week a suggestion from her committee that the $1,000 originally granted by Council for dance expenses including a big-name band be returned to the Council General Fund; she followed this suggestion with a request that Council grant the Fiesta Committee only $500 for a less well-known and less expensive band of equal quality.

Tom DiBacco requested that this suggestion be referred to each social group for approval, as the big-name band had originally been "promised." Representatives will vote next week on the suggestion, after presenting it to their groups.

Joan pointed out that the individual members of the groups will still be asked to pay one dollar each, bringing the amount Fiesta Committee may spend to $1,000. Only if students are willing to pay three dollars apiece, will Fiesta have the $2,000 necessary to hire a big-name band of the Johnny Long variety. It was not expected that students would be willing to pay the extra amount.

Of the $1,000 which Fiesta would like to spend on the dance, $250 will be spent in renting Bahia Shrine Temple in Orlando as the site of the dance; $100 will be given the Studio Club for decorations, and the remainder will be available for hiring the band.

Joan expressed hope that the over-all expenses will be less than $1,000, and she went on to suggest that the extra money, along with the $500 returned to Council, be given to the floundering FLAMINGO or TOMOKAN through the General Fund.

You Chan Yang

Scholar, Egyptian, Korean Statesman, Stetson Prexy, Cartoonist Join Animag

The Korean Ambassador to the United States, a Greek scholar, a noted Egyptian statesman, a popular cartoonist, and the President of Stetson University have been added to the Animated Magazine, Pres. Hugh F. McKean announced this week.

The five new speakers, who along with historical novelist Gene Markey and Hungarian patriot Bella Varga will make up the 1957 talking magazine Feb. 24, are Korean Ambassador You Chan Yang; Sir Richard Livingstone, former Vice-Chancellor of Oxford and visiting professor at Rollins; Saba Habachy, Egyptian diplomat and scholar; Roy Crane, author of the Buzz Sawyer comic strip; and Ollie Edmunds, president of Stetson University.

You Chan Yang has been the Republic of Korea ambassador to the United States since March 1951. A physician, he was trained in American medical schools and hospitals, attending Boston University and receiving his M.D. from Boston University Medical School.

He was born in Pusan, Korea, but his parents moved to Hawaii in 1903. He was a baseball and track star at McKinley High School in Honolulu, where he graduated in 1916. After two years at the University of Hawaii he was awarded a scholarship to Boston University.

Dr. Yang received his M.D. in 1922 and returned to Honolulu where he retained a private practice until he was named ambassador in 1951.

While still in college he was a leader in the organization of the Friends of Korea in the United States, a movement to liberate Korea from Japanese domination. In 1939 he became leader of the Korean community in Hawaii. During World War II he was director of a medical unit under the Office of Civilian Defense.

As Korean Ambassador to the U.S., he relayed Pres. Syngman Rhee's terms for a Korean armistice. Following the armistice he submitted a request for assistance from the United States in rehabilitating war-devastated Korea.

Dr. Yang was one of three South Korean representatives attending (without treaty signing power) the Japanese peace treaty conference in San Francisco in 1951. Later he headed a delegation to Japan to arrange a treaty of "peace, amity and commerce" with the Japanese government. He also took part in drawing up the Japanese-Korean peace treaty.

Dr. Yang recently proposed an all-Pacific conference "to which all anti-Communist nations would be invited to join hands in a collective security pact against the common enemy."

Sir Richard Livingstone is well known to the Rollins family for the courses in Greek drama and Plato's Republic he is teaching here this term. Formerly vice-chancellor of Oxford and president of Corpus Christi College at Oxford, he is one of the world's foremost Greek scholars. He was knighted by King George V for his outstanding accomplishments in education.

A second knight will appear on the Animag in the person of Dr. Saba Habachy, knighted by George VI in 1941 for his work in Egypt as Minister of Commerce, Industry and Supply, and for participation in the Allied war effort. He was also decorated by the Italian and Ethiopian governments, while serving three terms under King Farouk of Egypt as Commerce, Industry and Supply Minister. From 1946 to 1952 Dr. Habachy was a member of the Egyptian senate.

A graduate of the Universities of Cairo and Paris, he holds the degree of Doctor of Laws from the latter university. Dr. Habachy is schooled in the Muslim, French, English, American, and international systems of law. He is held in the highest esteem throughout the Middle East by both Moslem and Christian leaders.

During the past ten years Dr. Habachy has worked as a legal counsel to the top executives of Arabian-American Oil Company in the many and complex problems that Aramco has had with the various countries in the Middle East. In his private law practice Dr. Habachy has represented financial interests of Egyptians, British, and American clients.

In addition Dr. Habachy served as a judge of the General Court of Cairo from 1919 to 1930 and was a professor of law at the University of Cairo in 1919-22 and 1936.

Roy Crane is the author and creator of one of the nation's top funny paper strips, "Buzz Sawyer." He has been a comic strip writer for 33 years, during which time he also created the popular strips, "Wash Tubbs" and "Captain Easy."

Born in Abilene, Texas and educated at Hardin-Simmons University and the University of Texas, he has adopted Lake Jesmin, Florida as his home.

He served as a seaman on a tramp freighter before getting his first newspaper job with the New York World. His first strip creations, "Wash Tubbs" and "Captain Easy," were done for N.E.A. feature service in Cleveland. Since 1943 he has authored "Buzz Sawyer" for the King-Features Syndicate. He previously appeared on the Animag in 1948.

J. Ollie Edmunds, President of Stetson, is a distinguished educator and lawyer. He has been president of Stetson since 1948 and before that served as Duval County judge from 1930-44. Edmunds is also an officer in the Coast Guard Reserve.

Strong Hall Hosts Nina Oliver Dean's "Shakespeareana"

The Strong Hall patio will play host February 21 at 4 p.m. to the eleventh annual production of "Shakespeareana," presented by Nina Oliver Dean's Shakespeare class.

The performance, open to the public without charge, will this year honor Annie Russell, for whom the Rollins Theatre was built 25 years ago by Mrs. Efram Zimbalist, then Mrs. Edward Bok. Songs, scenes and soliloquies from some of the Shakespearean plays produced at the Annie Russell Theatre since its opening will be offered.

The atmosphere will suggest that of the Globe Theatre or of a 16th century innyard. The "groundlings" will have chairs, and the orange girls will exchange their wares for Shakespearean quotations from those in the audience who have "brushed up on their Shakespeare."

The program, which began as a class project, is an example of co-operation between the English and Theatre Arts Departments, the Conservatory of Music, Rollins Radio Station WPRK and many individual members of the Rollins Family. The Shakespearean scenes are directed by Peter Dearing and the singers and pianists are pupils of Ross Rossaza and John Carter of the Conservatory faculty.

Students appearing in "Shakespeareana" are Pete Adams, Caroline Aubry, Ann Bowers, Mike Crecco, Ann Derflinger, Jon Dunn-Rankin, Bob Eginton, Mary Jane Doar, Delle Davies, Sandra Fogarty, Lynne Kaelber, Ford Oehne, Liz Otis, Ken Pahel, Bill Smith and Clark Warren.

Orange girls will be Kris Allen, Leona Becker, Mimi Haupt, JoAnne Lange, Sally Peck and Ann Smith. Ushers will be Bob Bell, Bayard Guild, Hugh Mitchell, Dick O'Laughlin and Bill Ward.

Elizabethan music will be piped in to Strong Hall from station WPRK by Dave Bowman through the co-operation of Marc Frutchey.

Posters are the work of Kris Allen, Carol Enz, Mary Fulerwider and Barbara Mead. Campus publicity members are Dick Halde-man, Lynne Kaelber and Todd Persons. The off-campus publicity is handled by Don Vincent.

Pete Adams, as Benedick, and Liz Otis, as Beatrice, arguing lovers of Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing" rehearse for their part in Shakespeareana, to be held Thursday in the Strong Hall Patio.

The Chapel Tower

By T. S. Darrah

I am all for apologizing and making up differences. But I just wonder what we mean when we say, "I'm sorry." Are we really? So often when we have repeated the formula of reconciliation we think we have undone the hurt or affront. But despite the words the unkindness or meanness with all its sting remains. If we really were sorry we shouldn't go on doing the same things over and over.

Darrah

Unless we check our arrogant ways we sometimes will go so far that, "I'm sorry" won't be able to heal the breach or undo the deed. To be sorry or contrite should involve a change in our way of thinking, feeling and behaving.

ANIMAG AND US

The Animated Magazine is the part of Founders' Week that belongs most fully to us, as students. Animated Magazine means much to Rollins. It is of great publicity value to the college that distinguished men and women will take part of their time to speak at Rollins College. And it is a time of sharing, when members of the Rollins family join together with members of the community to hear the well-known speakers.

But the Animated Magazine has its fullest meaning for us. One of its primary purposes has always been to expose students to vibrant personalities.

The small, informal conferences of students with the Animated Magazine speakers before their speeches, when students are allowed to question and discuss with them, can prove to be the most valuable experience we may take away from the Animag.

In this time of strife in the Middle East and Hungary, Rollins students are being given a marvelous opportunity to discuss the situation with world figures who are a part of those troubled regions.

TIME TO ACT

This is the time to act if you want to be eligible for a publication office come the April elections.

The deadline for submitting your letter of application and qualifications to Sandy Hose, chairman of the Publications Union, will be March 1.

Eligibility requirements may be found in the R Book.

Seven publications positions will be at stake during the spring elections, editor, advertising commissioner and business manager of the Sandspur, editor and business manager of the Tomokan, editor of the Flamingo and editor of the R Book.

Many of the eligible candidates for editorial positions on the publications have already made their decisions to run by this time, but there remain two lucrative, rewarding positions on the Sandspur business staff open for candidates, those of Business Manager and Advertising Commissioner.

For the person with initiative these jobs are both well recompensed and replete with valuable business experience. Anyone interested in running for these two positions should get in contact with Bob Tate, the present Advertising Commissioner, and Jack Powell, the present Business Manager, immediately.

OPPORTUNITY CALLS

The Photography award won this summer by a Rollins College student over the best New York press photographers, pointed out again that some of the best, and most useful, training to be gained at Rollins, is available in the Photography Dept.

With Lyman Huntington's professional training and some of the best equipment available, several Rollins students have left college with the foundation of a genuine photographic skill.

But as Lyman explains, far too many get late starts, so that at just the time they are beginning to get results, they graduate.

A great deal of this year's dark room force will be graduating this year or next. If fullest advantage is to be taken of these facilities, it must be by freshmen and sophomores.

Letters to the Editor

Atlanta, Ga.

February 3

Dear Editor:

My weekend reading included the February 1 issue of the "Sandspur" sent me from the Admissions Office.

I was particularly impressed by Tommy DiBacco's keen insight into the matter of football at Rollins.

Let's improve those athletic activities which we have before considering the return of one which, for good reason, has been dropped.

Considered opinions such as Tommy's greatly assist in making the Sandspur good reading.

Sincerely,

Malcolm F. Scott
Admissions Counselor

February 8

Dear Editor:

"To shave or not to shave." The dark ages have descended! A few of our male students have acquired beards in the course of the last month—varying from the conservative goatee to the flowing moustache. I have taken a consensus of opinion of females at Rollins, and I have received these comments: "Escapeses from the 'Lost Weekend'," "Resemble consumptive diamond kings," "Should use Wildroot Cream Oil to keep their beards manageable," "Like kissing a screen door." — Plot your course from there, fellows!

Sincerely,
Celia Salter

McKEAN SOLVES JINX?

"There will be no failure of the Public Address systems used by Rollins College during the events celebrating the 72nd anniversary of its founding," Pres. McKean announced recently.

In making the announcement Pres. McKean revealed the appointment of his long-time friend John Tiedtke, Treasurer of the College, as chairman of the committee on loud speakers.

"I am confident that our troubles are over," McKean said with a sigh of relief, "If anyone can lick the jinx on our loud speakers it is my friend John Tiedtke."

"The failure heretofore has been unexplainable," Mr. McKean said, as he lauded the work of the engineers who have previously installed the systems.

For two consecutive years, public address systems failed President McKean when he needed them most. During two editions of the famous Animated Magazine, when world celebrities were addressing the audience, speaker systems failed completely or produced such a riot of sound that parts of the addresses were lost to the audience.

Last year when President McKean was addressing the Patrons of the College at the annual Founders' Week Dinner, the loud speaker system, as he put it, "went on the blink."

Mr. Tiedtke, who flies his own plane, manages his own ranch, vegetable farm and packing house, and who is a prominent orange grower in addition to being one of the most successful treasurers and vice presidents in the long history of Rollins College, is well-known for his many abilities. When asked about the new responsibilities connected with his important post, Mr. Tiedtke set his jaw in a familiar look of determination and said, "I'll see that Mr. McKean is heard this year. We will now see if he can say something worth hearing."

SCHOLARSHIP FOR TEACHERS

Students interested in training for a teaching career in Florida's elementary or secondary schools or for a career in nursing are eligible to compete for $400-a-year General Scholarship Loans offered by the State of Florida Department of Education.

William Cecil Golden, coordinator of the Scholarship Services, requests that students register with the Dean of the School of Education by today for taking the scholarship test. This competitive examination to fill vacancies for the scholarships will be held in each county on Tuesday, March 19, beginning at 8:30 a.m., and under the direction of the County School Superintendent.

In order to compete for these awards, college students must have been residents of Florida for at least one year (if applicant is under twenty-one years of age, his parents must be residents of Florida) and must be registered as Education or Pre-med majors at Rollins.

Each student awarded a General Scholarship Loan must agree in writing to begin teaching in Florida immediately following graduation from college with the Bachelor's degree and must continue teaching until he has taught for at least as many years as he received scholarship assistance; each student awarded a State Nursing Scholarship Loan must begin practicing nursing in Florida immediately after the completion of the program and continue for at least the period of time specified by the type scholarship fund.

Interested students may contact Mr. John Rich, Admissions Director, for additional information.

Bits O' News

"Hamlet" will be the Shakespearean play discussed during the three concluding lectures given February 18, 25 and March 4 by the Reverend and Mrs. William A. Constable in the Courses For the Community. The lectures are at 4:15 at the Fred Stone Theatre.

'ROUND ROLLINS

By Edge

Young Peter Roberts was brooding over a womenless Saturday night in his room. The only light was from the hall coming in through the open door.

Peter got to his feet with a start and carefully closed the door, but did not lock it. He turned on a small desk lamp. He took the volume of "THUS SPAKE ZARATHUSTRA" and placed it next to the paper bag "SAINT JOAN" on his desk. He opened the desk drawer and drew from it a revolver.

"Man only lives when he is choosing," he said to the room, "and I can choose."

The door behind him slammed open. He turned trying desperately to hide the pistol behind his back.

"Why the hell don't you get some light on in here," asked the young man standing in the doorway.

"I like sitting in the dark," said Peter. "You would-be artists are all the same moody, temperamental, but oh, sooo interesting," the voice in the doorway slapped the wall and the overhead light bloomed yellow. "Why can't you be normal, well adjusted and boring like we business majors?"

"It's no joke, Josh," said Peter waving the pistol like child with a flag at a parade.

"Put that damn thing down," exclaimed Josh.

Peter stared at his hand as if it didn't belong to him and then dropped the pistol on the desk.

"Don't you know you can hurt somebody with a thing like that?"

"It's my life and I can do with it what I want," said Peter looking down his shirt front, "and if I feel like it, I'll do it."

"You weren't thinking of killing yourself?"

"I'm sick of it all."

"Who isn't at times, but we all have got on living."

"That's why . . . I'm not living, I can live alone. I want to be strong and it seems like I just keep on getting weaker. I do have the courage to live my life my own way, I just follow what everybody else is doing." He paused to inhale a sob. "Heavenly says the only time you know you're alive is when you're facing a crisis. My life is just one big compromise so I won't have to face a crisis. I don't know I'm alive."

"You read too much. You've got to get out more," Josh paused and looked at him. "C'mon we're all going down to U.T. for a couple of beers, you come with us and you feel better."

Peter shook his head negatively.

"Now you either come or I'll boot you tail down three flights of stairs," Josh grinned at him.

Peter replaced the pistol in the desk drawer and followed Josh down the stairs with a feeling of intense relief.

On Mike

By TRAN SMITTER

As we promised, Mike On returns to the Sandspur relating stories and gags about the everyday operation of station WPRK-FM.

A famous gathering place for electronically minded people and artists, (both talented and consistent), the Rollins College radio station offers something for everyone. Among the personalities who have helped WPRK become a bigger station with a greatly increased audience are: Buck Class, Dick Burns, Sidney Kromer, Clark Warren, Jim Cook, Perry Ellwood, Sandy Hose, Joe Haraka, John Reid, Jarrett Brock, Rod Collins, and many more who have since departed.

Speaking of Rod Collins reminds us of the numerous times his nerves held up under many trying circumstances as both announcer and engineer, but more important in the time where he cracked under the strain. The seconds were creeping away within hairs breadth of Rod's show, "Rod Comes Around" and there was a very complimentary script prepared for the announcer to introduce him. Instead of the gratifying and almost flowery opening announcement expected, the engineer began on a long spiel which was so far from complimentary that we can't even print it here.

The joke was prepared in advance by some of the crew so that the listening audience would not hear a word of it, but as far as Rod knew, the station was in fine repair and every word was going out over the air waves. Rod's face became numb, his eyes bulged in disbelief and his jaw dropped to the floor in awe.

The introduction rendered him speechless (the first time in his life) and it was a full three minutes before Rod regained anything resembling composure. After some time the joke was revealed to him and as punishment, he refrained from speaking to the crew for two weeks.

A very interesting experiment is being conducted in conversational programs at WPRK. It is a new half hour show entitled "Poetry and Conversation" and has as its guests every week two of Rollins' finest interpreters of poetry and dramatic works, Dr. Irvin Stock of the English department and Mr. Wagner of the Annie Russell Theater. This show has received many favorable comments in its infancy and provides much fresh, relaxing and educational diversion. In my book, this program will rank on top. Tune in Rollinsites.

Another very popular half hour spot comes to you every Thursday from 9:30 to 10:00 bringing the Rollins Pan American Club with Vincente Antonetti, Roberto Muvdi, Dale Morris, Mano de Uresti and many more contributors. Each week is presented music, conversation and a general discussion of the many different Spanish cultures by natives of the respective areas.

Some talent comes from Rollins and some comes from outside, an example of which is from 8:30 to 9:30 on Wednesday nights. This hour is reserved for Mr. Hollander, program annotator for the Florida Symphony Orchestra, who comes "on mike" with good "Music Old and New" and background into the composer and his work.

This week we are beginning a new stunt on WPRK which might be called "Letters To the Editor" only they should be addressed to TRAN Box 471 Rollins College. If there are particular suggestions or requests that you would like to hear, we would be glad to try to include them in the schedule.

Win Taylor Wins NY Press Photo Award For 1956

Win Taylor, Rollins Sandspur photographer, was informed this week that he had won the New York Press Photographers' award for the best sports photograph of the year 1956.

In winning the award, Win's picture was chosen over the best photographs submitted by the metropolitan New York press photographers.

Taylor was serving as a reporter-photographer for the Mt. Kisco, New York, Patent Press when he took the shot last summer. The picture, taken with a Roliaflex camera at a Little League baseball game, was of a player sliding into base and being tagged out, while the umpire was lying prone on his side calling him out.

A handsome plaque was awarded to the Mt. Kisco paper for Win's award.

Win, a Rollins junior, has been working with Lyman Huntington in the Rollins photography department since his freshman year and it is at Rollins he has received most of his training.

He first became interested in photography when he toured Europe after his senior year in high school and his father gave him a camera to take on his trip.

Despite the award, Win, an English major, still considers photography as a hobby rather than a profession. He plans to become an advertising writer following his graduation in June of 1958.

Reprints of Sandspur photos are available from the Rollins Photographic Department located in the basement of the Student Center.

Vincent Price Will Appear On Final Town Hall Series

Vincent Price, well known to motion picture and stage audiences, will appear at the Annie Russell Theatre on February 19 on the Town Hall Series.

Price's most recent accomplishment was his appearance on the popular TV show, "The $64,000 Challenge," tying for the jackpot prize twice with his vast knowledge of art.

His initial aim in life was to be a professor and collector of art, an aim that was stimulated by his purchase of a Rembrandt etching when he was but 12 years old. He graduated from Yale University with an art major, studied further in fine arts at London University and, while working for his master's degree there, spent a great deal of time in the archives of the British Museum.

His first dramatic role was at the age of 22 in a play entitled "Chicago," which was staged in London. In December of 1935 he made his American debut and became a Broadway star overnight. In 1953 Price appeared with Jose Ferrer in the New York City Center's production of "Richard III," and recently he has toured with Estelle Winwood and Marsha Hunt in "The Cocktail Party" and with Miss Hunt in "The Lady's Not For Burning."

Although he doesn't sketch or paint, Price has gained renown as a major art collector and critic. He has an honorary doctor's degree from the California College of Arts and Crafts, is a member of the art council at UCLA, an art juror for the Los Angeles County Museum and an official of the West Coast Institute of Modern Art.

His own preference in acting, he admits, is for comedy. "Still," he has said, "I'd never turn down a villain. They're the most fun in the world to play."

On Tuesday Price closes the Town Hall series with his reading of Vincent Van Gogh's letters. Tickets are available at the Hamilton Hotel for the 2:30 matinee performance only.

Dean French Asks Students Reasons Of College Career

Dean of the College Sidney J. French this week tossed the After Chapel group a stumping question—"Why Am I in College?"

Each student tried to put into words his reasons or objectives in coming to college. The Dean had explained that it is always possible to "buy" a degree from some fly-by-night school, and he said there must be other reasons than simple degree-seeking for making the investment of a college education. After first asking his question, he remarked, "It's not a $64,000 question, but it comes pretty close to being a $25,000 one!"

Bill Ward rated round-the-table laughter with his remark, "Some say that college gives you a veneer. If not that, at any rate it gives you a pretty good shellacking."

More serious observations seemed to bring out the idea that objectives change from the freshman year. Everyone agreed that a reason for the change was simply that college opens up new fields and activities the entering student does not expect to find.

Parents, it was decided, are generally an influence. They either remember their hard times of the depression days and want their children to have the opportunity they did not, or they themselves are college graduates and feel their offspring should follow the tradition.

Some students came to college because of high grades in secondary school and urging by their teachers. Others came because they felt it was the most natural thing to do. Dean French observed that it is becoming the social custom to go to college.

From these answers and conclusions, the discussion drifted to the question of liberal arts vs. technical schools. For obtaining a broader outlook and seeing more than one side of a situation, it was decided that the liberal arts education was the more beneficial. Dean French remarked that the graduates of a liberal arts college in the end are usually the holders of higher managerial positions, while the products of the technical schools remain technicians.

The familiar "The hour has come full-circle . . ." from Dean Darrah, with his announcement that Professor Richard Rowland will speak next week on the meaning of poetry, closed the meeting.

Deadline Set For Submitting Essays To Annual Contest

Mme. van Boecop, chairman, has announced that March 10 is the deadline for the annual Lecomte du Noy Essay Contest.

Open to all Rollins students, the contestant must first read du Noy's book "Human Destiny," then write an essay on the subject, "Can And Should Government Be Based On Morality?"

The essay must be typed and signed with a pen name. The name of the contestant must be written by hand and placed in a sealed envelope attached to his (or her) essay. The essay must be deposited in the post office box of the Chairman, Mme. van Boecop, not later than March 10.

The winner will receive $100 cash.

For those who wish further information it is suggested they speak to Mme. van Boecop.

Papers submitted may be written either in French or English.

The winner of the Lecomte du Noy Essay contest last year was Ken Pahel.

ball's Hall of Fame. He replied immediately, "He's the greatest football player I ever saw." Tebell stands firm on his statement that no player was the equal of Jack McDowall and I quote:

"He was 6-2 and weighed only 165," recalled Tebell, "but he could broad jump 24 and a half feet and high jump 6-4. He couldn't see. In baseball he would strike out three times but when there were two out and the winning run on second he would hit a home run. In basketball he would tell me when shooting a foul that he couldn't see the rim of the basket, but he would make shots in the clutch from everywhere. In a football game he would kick the ball 40 yards until he was kicking from the end zone—then it would go 80."

"I saw him on an end run one time when he was pinned to the sidelines. He saw he couldn't go anywhere so he kicked the ball 60 yards while on the dead run. I've seen a lot of good ones but there hasn't been another as good. And I ought to know. I was lucky enough to have him when I was coaching at State."

So you see now what a terrific athlete our Jack McDowall was and how well-known he was. And if he gets elected to the Hall of Fame, his name may become immortal to the football world. President McKean made this statement on acceptance of McDowall's resignation: "... You occupy a special and enviable place in our hearts and memories and there is no way you can escape becoming one of Rollins' legends."

Dr. Waite

By Kris Allen

Students aren't the only athletic ones on Rollins campus, for behind all the B.S., B.A. Ph.D.'s, and other degrees in front of our professors names are some mighty interesting backgrounds.

Take Dr. Alex Waite, for example (psychology professor for those of you who don't know him personally.)

While in high school, Dr. Waite played on every athletic team possible in the Erie, Pennsylvania, school. He was excellent in all of them, too.

He swam the fifty and one hundred yard free-style and 220 free style on the swimming team, was a guard on the basketball team, and a star on the football field. At one time he was captain of the football, swimming, and track teams, and Dr. Waite won four varsity letters.

After high school he studied psychology at the University of South Carolina, and was an outstanding tackle on the football team. The versatile athlete continued with his swimming at college, and was the state record holder for the shot-put and javelin.

Dr. Waite won eleven varsity letters during his college career, and this is quite an accomplishment for ANY athlete.

After South Carolina, he entered Duke University for his graduate work in psychology. For his Ph.D. thesis, he wrote on "Psychology and Learning Athletic Skills." In conjunction with this subject selection, Dr. Waite stated that he always enjoyed psychology, and it follows through in his interest in sports; knowing how to handle boys, etc.

While at Duke (figure this one out) he was athletic coach as well.

He had visited Rollins before coming here, and after a talk with Dr. Hamilton Holt, then President of the college, he definitely decided to teach and coach here. He arrived in 1937, and was line coach for the football team until it vanished from the campus in '48.

At the time football left the scene, Rollins had a good team, one of the better teams in the entire South.

When asked if he'd like to see football back at Rollins he replied that he'd enjoy it very much, but the former coach realizes the problem of competing against large schools where athletic scholarships can be more freely given.

Besides teaching at Rollins, Dr. Waite is Director of Eagles Nest Camp in the Pisgah Forest of North Carolina, during the summer. It is a large camp for boys and girls with a competent staff, mainly Rollins and Winter Park people.

In his spare time Dr. Waite managed to raise two children, both Rollins products. The elder, Mariella, is studying for her Masters in History at the U. of Florida; the other, Mosely, is a junior Chemistry major at Rollins at the present time.

So it seems Dr. Alex Waite has quite a credible athletic background besides his brilliant work in the fields of father, camp director and psychologist.

Four Rollins Girls Appear On Garry Moore TV Show

Rollins co-ed's, SuSu Dunn, Kris Allen, Jo Davis, and Sue York took a week-end trip to the Florida Citrus Exhibition in Winter Haven to appear on the Garry Moore television program.

It all began when Jo's uncle, Mr. Bob Eastman, a personal friend of Garry's, called long distance to ask if three girls wouldn't come down to swim Garry, Derwood Kirby, and Ken Carson in a relay on the Monday morning show. Jo contacted the three, and everything was made ready.

Sunday was rehearsal, and they arrived in Winter Haven early to be rushed into bathing suits and upstairs to have pictures taken with Derwood Kirby, Moore's colleague on the show. There were many introductions made, and among them was Eileen Woods, currently a singer on the Arthur Godfrey show. Finally the star himself appeared.

That afternoon, after the girls had familiarized themselves with the cast, full rehearsals began, and the relay took place. The winners were to be awarded trophies on the live show Monday.

The next day, the cast and crew had to report at 8:30 sharp, and preparations for the show were underway. Garry Moore appeared and talked casually to the audience for about fifteen minutes before show time and completely charmed them.

The show began, and it ran very smoothly. The girls won the relay, leaving clowning Derwood far behind, and they were awarded beautiful trophies. Jo Davis did not swim but advertised oranges and took part in a grapefruit peeling contest with Mr. Moore.

After the show the girls ate lunch with Garry Moore and his cast. They describe both Moore and his sidekick Kirby as very charming, funny, and human. Garry told Kris, who is planning to work in TV this summer, to call upon him if she needs any help.

Moore also told the girls that he had done everything he had ever wanted to do during his entertainment career. He reminisced about his radio show with Jimmy Durante, and told SueSue, Jo, Kris and Sue that he had done everything from wrestling an alligator to walking tight rope on television. He was to catch a python on the stage of his Tuesday show, and learned to waterski for the same show.

The Rollins girls watched the crew set up and run the show, which required 85 crew members and $45,000 to move down to Winter Haven.

THE SCRATCHY PEN

By Pointless

The past week was colorful as the first touches of spring fever hit Rollins... Slim Willie K. has been observed trotting past Lingerlong in his very briefest athletic-looking attire and at 7:30 in the a.m. yet!... And if you're really sharp you'll see "From Here To Eternity" action just ALL over... once again action in the afternoon to shock the dinky's most stern engineers... and the Sigma Nu's are singing in their very best Broadway voices "I've Got You Under My Pin!" Neat, huh?

Well, in chronological order, Friday was something a little different at the Park Avenue resort... Dick Kaye startled everyone by bursting into song, accompanied by Betty Lee Graves on the drums... it was frantic, believe.

While all this was going on, the Alpha Phi's were trying to have a beer party at Showalter... but how Val Greene got atop a fence and tore her lacies is something one just doesn't ask... seen on ground level were Bitsy Keller, Jack Gavin; Joan Bucher, Nick Waln; Anita Wadsworth, Evan Griffith; Debby Williams, Ed Overstreet; Sally Peck, Manuunuu... all this was Saturday night and they lived to initiate Sunday! See below.

Marty Decker and Sandy Hose played hosts to lots of people... and entertained with 154 lbs. of beer minus keg weight... Although Perry couldn't find the party, seen there: Jo Cayll, Bud Traylor; Joan Wheatley, Webb (where he go?) Walker; Joan Brand, Ed Gray; Guerrie Brown, Pete Benedict; Sue Strong, Harry Glass; Willie K. and Margie Bristol.

Castleberry saw action also... it was Jack Powell's doin'... I was unable to find a reliable source, so guess it was a festive evening... those foggly remembered: Marge Myers, Jim Heliotis; Beth Halperin, Len Wood; Ronnie Paiva and his date (?)... liquid and marshmallows... party!

Pres and Phyllis Hull entertained at their home... despite guitar music blasting forth from a healthy hi-fi, heard carrying on were: Marijo Boulware, Seth Mendell; Sherry Voss, Bob Lorenzen; Ginny and Ed Fawcett; Ann Palmer, John Greene & stray Delts.

Kappa Kappa Gamma initiated, then fed at Eola Plaza on Saturday: Sue (Best Pledge) Strong, Jill (Brainiest Pledge) Shoemaker, Sandy McKean, Sandy Sands, Linda Carroll, Mary Beth Weir, Julie Van Pelt, Lloyd Hoskins, Muff Murphy, Joe Ellen Craig, Pattie Dunlap... Go Key Key Gee!

Initiated to Alpha Phi on Sunday, then more Eola: Bett Goodman, Elena Colucci, Sally Peck, Sue O'Boiger, Sandy Whittington (brainiest), Debby Williams, Jeanne Donahoo (best), Val Greene, Barbie Satterfield, Penny Mensing, Jean Rigg.

Pinned: Judy Hoffman, Theta, to Larry Lavalie, Sigma Nu; Jody Boulware, Phi Mu, to Ra Moody, another Sigma Nu!

Phi Mu Officers: President, Sarah Barber; Vice Pres., Margie Myers; Recording Sec., Jannie Hamilton; Corr. Sec., Pam Rial; Grand Treas., Janet Marksens; Treasurer, Marilyn Dupres.

BELIEF AND HOPE — The Tars' hopes for a winning basketball team this year have vanished from their minds, for the record after 17 games stands at five wins and twelve losses, with five games remaining to be played.

About this time of year, much talk is heard around the Center tables which strives to point to the faults of the team during the past season. Some of the talk makes good sense; some, not so good.

In any event, this column is dedicated to those who, to our minds, do not make good sense in their oratory amidst coke glasses. It is directed to those who feel that the hoopsters would have been better off "If Dan might have done this at that time . . ."

Everyone is entitled to opinions. We have ours. We like opinions that are supported by evidence and good reasoning, rather than the sometimes unjustified fault finding and sneering comments of the cynic.

Idealistic as we may sound, we feel there has been improvement in the cage results and program this year. Had the Tars been defeated in their games by wide margins, one might be justified in criticizing the coach and team. This has not been the case this season, for in many cases a field goal or a free throw has made the difference.

In such cases, it is difficult for the average spectator to point to the specific cause of the loss, just as it is difficult for the average reader to interpret the underlying meaning of an author's word or phrase, especially when it is taken out of context.

When we do examine the record, we find that in the first sixteen games the Tars scored 1257 points as compared to an identical number totaled by their opponents. Moreover, their free throw and rebound percentages are higher than those of their opponents.

These figures are significant, as they are a betterment of last year's record. If there is the remote possibility of improvement, we sincerely believe there is hope for the future, especially when the facilities under which the team has been working are not adequate.

If the Tars' performance showed no improvement had they possessed a field house or a gymnasium, we might be tempted to blast someone. Until then, we'll talk, talk, and talk about the urgently needed equipment, such as a whirlpool bath, and facilities.

We hope by doing this it will stir up the thoughts of students and administration alike. If enough people firmly believe in such a campaign, something will be done.

We feel confident the Tars, under Dan Nyimiez, will continue to show improvement. Before the class of 1959 graduates, we think we'll have a winning season.

It took four years for the varsity crew to defeat Wisconsin and as yet they have never won the Dad Vail. This year may be the year to win it. Success will come to all of our sports if the Rollins student is patient, hopeful, and optimistic.

Crew Breaks Three Year Trend; Defeats Badgers For First Time

By Moe Cody

Vengeance at last! Four years ago the University of Wisconsin began to visit Rollins College during their inter-semester break. Wisconsin coach, Norm Sonju, thought that this was a good way in which to give his boys a taste of competition before they began their regular season with the big crews of Yale, Syracuse and Navy.

For three years the Badgers continually trampled the smaller college crews of Rollins. Of course, the Tars couldn't take this annual drubbing sitting down, so Coach Brad Bradley sought to upset the visitors from the North this year.

Building his crew on the experience of last year's varsity, two of his championship JV crew, and one former varsity oarsmen, Brad managed to boat a crew which could give the Dairyland boys a tough race.

On Saturday, Feb. 7, the Rollins Tars met with the crew of Wisconsin on Lake Maitland for their usual competition. There was a surprisingly light wind from the head of the course and a surprisingly large crowd at the finish line to watch the race.

True to form the Badgers jumped to a one-half length lead at the start while Rollins trailed at a steady cadence of 32 strokes per minute. The two shells remained in this position till the half way mark when the determined Tars stepped up the stroke and swept up to the big "juggernaut" from the North.

With one-quarter of a mile to go, the Tars' freshman cox, Danny Laurent, called for a sprint and the "Rebel Yell" jumped out into the lead. This was all the crew needed to spur them on as they settled down and inched their small lead into a decisive edge of one-quarter of a boat length.

In the last hundred yards the advantage was never challenged as the tiring Badgers gave way to the tune of a loss by three-quarters of a length.

Reprints of Sandspur photos are available from the Rollins Photographic Department located in the basement of the Student Center.

The time for the winning crew was 5:02 for the 7/8 mile course.

Coach Bradley, jubilant in his victorious crew, hopes that this win will be the first of many for his boys, while Coach Sonju, very gracious in defeat, wished the Tars the best of luck during the regular season and warned them to "watch out next year."

Wisconsin travelled to Tampa on Feb. 8, where they met the University of Tampa. This time the Badgers eked out a three-foot margin to beat the Florida crew.

From the performance of the Badgers, it is evident that they are not up to the standards they have exhibited in the past. It also appears that the Rollins crew will have its hands full in defending its leadership in the southern inter-collegiate rowing conference.

The Tars' next race will be against Florida Southern College on Feb. 23 on the home course.

THREE YEARS TO VICTORY!

Club, Sigma Nu Victorious

Delts, Lambda Chi's Triumph All Stars-Hatters To Clash

On Monday the Delta Chi's, recovering from a defeat by the Sigma Nu's earlier in the previous week, overwhelmed the Independents, 86-61. The Delts, ahead in every period, used their superior height to advantage as they controlled the boards throughout the game.

George Fehl and freshman Walt Hallstein led the offensive scoring with 26 and 19 points respectively. With freshman coach, Jack Bofinger, substituting freely, the offensive scoring was distributed equally among the pledge class and actives, Perry Ellwood and Dick O'Loughlin, who were definite scoring threats throughout the entire game.

Other games of the previous week saw Sigma Nu trounce the Delts for the second time by the convincing score of, 72-50. With Jim Johnston hitting for 20 points in the second half, the Snakes' rebounding and bench strength proved to be too much for the Delts. Bruce Longbottom played an outstanding game in defeat for the Delts as he scored 17 points.

With the Independents forfeiting to the X-Club, the remaining game of the week was the Lambda Chi-Kappa Alpha game in which the steadily improving Lambda Chi's defeated the Kappa Alpha's 67-43.

With the Lambda Chi's injured starter, Philippe Mussard, out of action, the Kappa Alpha's dominated the boards with Bob Brown throwing in 22 points. However, due to the consistent shooting of high scoring forward, Ed Flory, who hit the bucket for 24 points, the Kappa Alpha's could not cut down Lambda Chi's lead.

A Rollins All Star intramural team will face a Stetson squad on Tuesday, Feb. 19 at 6:30 in a preliminary game to the Tar-Stetson varsity game in the WPHS gym.

An All-Star squad will be chosen by the Intramural Board.

It's a puzzlement:

When you're old enough to go to college, you're old enough to go out with girls. When you're old enough to go out with girls, who needs college? Oh well, there's always Coke.

Pres Hull Offers Pelican Committee By-law Amendment

Pres Hull, at last week's Council meeting, offered his amendment to the by-laws concerning the Pelican Committee for approval.

As stated in the Pelican rules recently approved by the faculty and President McKean, the president of the social group having a Pelican is held accountable for the actions of the members of his group.

If the chaperones report any violation of rules, the president will be called within 72 hours to appear before the Pelican Committee to explain the matter. If he knew of the incident, and if his group has disciplined the violators to the satisfaction of the committee, the matter will be dropped. However, if the president cannot account for the incident, the committee has the duty of hearing the case and inflicting a penalty, subject to the approval of the Student Deans.

Three students, at least one female, will be named to the committee, along with two alternates, also one of which will be a woman student. These committee members will represent different social groups; when the group before the committee is represented by a member of the committee, an alternate member will take his place.

The committee will also handle other than disciplinary problems of the Pelican.

Master of Ceremonies Gary Goldfarb presents the Women's Talent Night trophy to the Gamma Phi Beta "Mountain Folks" at the annual Indie Men's show Feb. 14. The Sigma Nu's, like the Gamma Phi's, retained their Talent Cup with "The Story of a Piano."

Marine Reserve Officers To Visit Here On Monday

First Lieutenant Antoinette S. Willard, Women Officer Selection Office, will be in the student center Monday and Tuesday afternoons to interview Rollins coeds who are interested in becoming commissioned officers in the Reserve of the Marine Corps.

The military duties in the Marine Corps for which college women are needed are as varied and challenging as the scope of our whole national effort. Women Marine Officers receive many types of assignments as administration, communication, food service, finance, special services, public relations, journalism, recreation and entertainment, and personnel administration.

As a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps Reserve, a college woman today can step into a world of new experience, new work, new associations and new values.

The Marine Corps Women Officers Training Class held at Quantico, Virginia, where all selected applicants undergo training in an officer candidate program, is designed to train women who can assume responsibility as commissioned officers.

MARTIN HOUSE IS SCENE OF EVENING FORUM

"What Shall The Policy of the United States Be in the Middle East" will be the topic for discussion between three members of the West Point debate team and the Advanced Study Group of Rollins Political Science students when they meet at 8 p.m. this evening at the Martin House.

The group from West Point will arrive this morning at 8 and remain on campus until Sunday morning.

The three West Pointers include Mike Higgins of Indiana, John Witherow of Missouri and Bill Yates of Florida.

Representing Rollins in the discussion will be Philippe Muscarel, chairman, Judy Pazolt, Terry Cunningham, Tom DiBacco, Frank Wolfe, Ginger Grimes, Bob White, law and Shirley Leech. Ann Webster Futhey will be the moderator.

The meeting is being sponsored by the International Race Relations Committee of the AAUW. Mrs. Harris being the chairman. The discussion will be broadcast live over Rollins Radio Station WPRK.
