Senator Clifford P. Case To Address Seniors

Senator Clifford P. Case of New Jersey will speak at this year's Commencement exercises to be held in the Knowles Memorial Chapel on June 7. President Hugh McKean announced this week.

The Republican senator is from Rahway, New Jersey, and was elected to the United States Senate on November 2, 1954, for the term beginning January 3, 1955.

Before his career as a congressman, Senator Case practiced law. Admitted to the New York bar in 1928, he practiced in New York City from 1928 to 1939, and from 1939 to 1953 as a member of the law firm of Simpson, Thatcher, & Bartlett.

Graduating from Rutgers University in 1925 with an A.B. degree, the senator went on to get his LL.B. degree from Columbia University in 1928. In 1955, he received an honorary LL.B. degree from Rutgers; and in 1956, he was honored with Middlebury College's LL.D. degree.

Senator Case has been active in the state government of New

SENATOR CASE

Jersey since 1938 when he served four years as a member of the Rahway, New Jersey, Common Council. From that position, he moved on to become a member of the New Jersey House of Assembly during 1943-44. For the next eight years, Senator Case served as a Member of the House of Representatives from the Sixth New Jersey District (Union County).

Besides his duties with Simpson, Thatcher, & Bartlett and his governmental duties, the senator has served as trustee, president, and chairman of numerous institutions and councils. He is a member of the general committee of the Department of International Justice and Good Will, the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U. S. A., the Council of Foreign Relations. He is also a member of Delta Epsilon and Phi Beta Kappa fraternities.

The subject of Senator Case's address to the graduates of 1957 has not been announced.

Council Discusses Fac. Committee's New Resolutions

Dr. Alex Waite, chairman of the faculty Committee on Social Organizations, appeared at last Monday's Student Council meeting to discuss and clarify the social policies approved by the faculty that afternoon.

Of the 14 resolutions submitted by the committee to the faculty, only one did not pass. This was the sixth section, stating that there should be a common period for fraternity and sorority rushing.

Dr. Waite emphasized that his committee had not intended to "investigate" the social groups, but that it was trying to clarify the purposes, functions, methods of communications, and procedures for operation of the many elements entering into the students' social life.

The purpose of the committee, as well as the role assigned to both the faculty and Student Deans and the students, was clearly stated in the first item in the resolution.

Dr. Waite also said that the faculty in their resolutions wanted to state the principles that would bring about a "healthy social life" for the students. The faculty in their earlier questionnaire had wanted the social groups to see if their actions and policies were helping to bring about this result.

Frank Wolfe, Council president, suggested that the social groups review the resolutions and remind the representatives that any specific section could be appealed.

Frank also reported to Council in reference to a meeting held last Friday by some of the alumni. The alumni felt that the Rollins "conference plan" was non-existent and that it was impossible for the students to confer with the student deans.

In regard to this opinion, Frank spoke to the alumni and expressed

First Diamond Jubilee Reunion Successful; 600 Alumni Return

More than 600 alumni attended the First Formal Alumni Reunion, according to Mr. Ray Kirk, executive director of Alumni Incorporated. The Alumni Office was highly gratified by the many letters and telegrams which were sent by those who couldn't attend wishing success, as well as the actual attendance, he said.

Mr. Frank Miller, who graduated in the Class of 1895, and is now a resident of Sanford, Florida, said, "the campus has been improved, but additions such as Mills Memorial Library have caused it to change considerably." Students walked to Orlando or took a train for 20c in Mr. Miller's day.

As a student, Mr. Miller remembers heavily wooded areas surrounding the lakes, and a lack of housing developments. In 1895, there were also three male and three female professors, which is quite a change from the present faculty.

The general feeling of the Rollins alumni during the weekend seemed to be that they liked the campus and students, and they longed to be back at Rollins themselves.

Fleet Peeples, swimming instructor who has been at Rollins for 36 years, was quite busy at the Alumni House during the weekend showing scrapbooks and souvenirs which dealt with Rollins in years gone by. He felt that the reunions should be continued, for they serve to stimulate interest in the college.

The Reunion was not all pleasure for the alumni; there was also work to be done. An alumni workshop took place on Saturday morning to discuss ways and means of making the alumni program stronger.

There was a meeting of the Alumni Association at which the annual meeting date was officially changed from Founders Week to Charter Day weekend.

At the picnic on Friday evening, about 600 alumni, the largest number ever to return to campus, enjoyed food and a sports show, after which many attended a special vesper service. Dean Darrah recruited at the picnic with a sign on his back encouraging alums to "come as you are."

The Gay Nineties Luncheon for alumni of the period 1885-1889 was held Saturday at the Parsonage, at which housemothers were hostesses.

Saturday evening, class reunion dinners took place at the Imperial House, Barbizon, and the Langford Hotel. At the latter affair, which comprised all classes except 1927 and 1952, Charles A. Noone was Toastmaster, and there were also speeches by Dale Montgomery, Len Wood, Robert Whitelaw, Pete Adams, Tom DiBacco, Frank Wolfe, and President Hugh McKean. Lambda Chi fraternity entertained with a serenade.

Culminating the First Formal Class Reunion was the Charter Day Convocation, addressed by Olcott Hawthorne Deming, '35. Decorations were bestowed on Berkeley Blackman, '07; Ruth Ford Atkinson, '97; Frederick Clark Lyman, son of a founder; and Ida M. Missildine, '90, the oldest living alumna.

Frank Underwood Wins $100 Prize In Talent Contest

Frank Underwood, Rollins piano major, won the annual "Talent Extravaganza" sponsored by the Orlando Sertoma Club last Saturday night, April 27.

Frank was chosen winner, out of the 28 acts entered, by the applause of the 1500-strong audience. He won the one hundred dollar first prize for his playing of "Autumn Leaves" and some boogie-woogie.

The original 28 contestants were narrowed down to eight and then to four before the final winner was chosen. The acts came from the Orlando-Winter Park area and included talent from Rollins, the high schools, and townspeople.

Other acts from Rollins were Clark Warren, whose singing was accompanied by Frank, and Tom Moore, Patti Dunlap, and Mary Fairchild with their dance act which appeared in the Freshman Show.

Libra Taps Three In Ceremonies Tuesday Evening

Libra, the Rollins honorary society for upperclass women, tapped three new members last Tuesday night in a candlelight ceremony after closing hours. Ann Derflinger, Sandy Fogarty, and Ann Webster Futhy were chosen for outstanding leadership, scholarship, and service in campus activities.

Ann Derflinger, a junior, is president of Chi Omega, president of Rollins Players, secretary of Theta Alpha Phi and treasurer of Phi Beta. She has also served as vice president, rush chairman and Pan Hellenic representative for her social group and has worked on the Tomokan.

Although Ann's activities are varied, the major part of her day is spent in theatrical doings or at WPRK. She produces two radio shows, Sketches in Solitude and Hollywood to Broadway. She has worked on the Indie Show and Shakespeareana, and has designed costumes, stage managed, and worked backstage for numerous ART productions. She appeared in "Skin of Our Teeth," "Mrs. McThing," "The Tempest," and "Pygmalion," in major roles.

ATTENTION — Any junior or senior student interested in applying for the Harvard Summer School Scholarship must submit his name to Dean French by Monday, May 6.

The scholarship provides for study in any field during the 1957 summer session at Harvard.

Her last appearance at the ART was in "The Crucible." She also finds time to read in Chapel occasionally on Sundays. She received the Theta Alpha Phi award her freshman year.

Sandy Fogarty, a junior, has been the Student Council representative from Chi Omega for two

The Chapel Tower

By T. S. Darrah

"I find myself often idle, vagrant, stupid, and hollow. This is somewhat appalling and, if I do not discipline myself with diligent care, I shall suffer severely from remorse and the sense of inferiority hereafter. All around me are industrious and will be great, I am indolent and shall be insignificant. Avert it, heaven! Avert it, virtue! I need excitement." This was written by none other than Ralph Waldo Emerson when he was seventeen. Obviously Emerson overcame his shortcomings. I don't doubt for a moment that as a young man he was guilty of these shortcomings. But I do feel that Emerson at seventeen had one great advantage and it was this: When he was idle, vagrant, stupid, and hollow, he knew it.

"MANY ARE CALLED..."

It was Sunday, April 28. The time was 9:40 A.M. In five minutes the Charter Day Convocation, commemorating the seventy-second anniversary of the granting of a charter by the State of Florida to Rollins College, was to begin.

Rollins senior John Doe was awakened by the sound of footsteps and organ music as he lay in bed. He rubbed his eyes slowly, yawned lazily, and sat up in his bed. What a hell of an hour to get up, he thought. He had drunk a little too much the night before; consequently, he had a bad taste and a very dry mouth.

John got up from the bed and made his way to the water fountain in the hall. After returning to his room, he rummaged through the various and sundry articles on his dresser, striving to find a cigarette. Two minutes of searching led to no successful results, so he went to bed again. Sitting up, he looked through a window and noticed the procession of faculty and students lined up in front of the Chapel. He smiled in a scornful way as he remembered that he and the other 113 seniors had been urged to march in the procession. John counted twenty-two of his classmates who were garbed in the black robes.

He reclined and began thinking of when he would no longer have to put up with the rigors of college life. He thought of when he would be able to sleep undisturbed. He thought of the $10,000-a-year position he would probably land after his graduation in June. He would be a success, he concluded, and turned over in his bed, catching sight of the letter D marked in red on an exam paper on the floor.

Within five minutes John was asleep again. Moreover, his dreams were very pleasant.

Emanuel Swedenborg once said, "Conscience is God's presence in man."

TRIBUTE TO DR. HANNA

The first of Rollins' five Diamond Jubilee Reunions was most successful. To those members of the faculty who worked so hard the sight of so many alumni arriving last weekend was a gratifying one. Probably the most pleased of the entire group of workers was Dr. A. J. Hanna, who was in charge of organizing the reunion.

To Dr. Hanna and all who helped him we take off our hats. We do this, for we sincerely feel that this first successful reunion will lead to the organizing of many in the future. Possibly twenty or thirty years from now our classes will come together as a result of this year's efforts of Dr. Hanna and his associates.

It would have done the heart of any Rollins student a great deal of good to have seen the expressions on the faces of alumni recognizing someone whom they hadn't seen for thirty or forty years.

Moreover, it would have been an unforgettable experience in the life of a Rollins student to have talked with Miss Ida Missildine, the oldest living Rollins graduate.

Even if Rollins were to stop progressing tomorrow, it could still pat itself on the back for bringing joy to so many of its older members last weekend.

A SOLUTION TO THE TRAFFIC PROBLEM

Letters To the Editor

'Sting' Defended; Students Praised By Oldest Alumna

STING PRAISED

Dear Tommy,

Congratulations on your apt reply to Win's letter concerning Sting's column.

It seems that when insight is combined with a tongue-in-cheek sense of humor and the mixture is manifested in the writing medium called "Round Rollins," the finger of suspicion automatically lines itself up with the author screaming "bitter, cynical, radical" with thoughtless abandon.

What makes the Stinger sting, Win? Has Rollins made him like he is? I hope so. If Rollins is responsible, it may take the credit for three things: giving Sting the open mind he has to work with, the literary ability to express the products of his open mind and the guts not to care about the comments of the people whose intellects he must necessarily overpass.

Sincerely,

Lynne Kaelber

PRAISE TO STUDENTS

Dear Editor:

The officers and directors of Rollins Alumni Inc., would like to express their heartfelt and sincere thanks for the wonderful cooperation and assistance from the student body of Rollins College during the first Diamond Jubilee Alumni Reunion.

We especially appreciate the help from those who gave their time to the many special activities in which they participated. Without their help it would not have been the success that it was.

We can only hope that in the years to come each of you will get the same warm and hearty welcome from future Rollins students when you return for your own class reunion.

You were all wonderful.

Alice M. Egan
President.

ROMEO AND JULIET PRAISED

Dear Sir:

I happened to read a copy of your newspaper for the first time the other day and although I found it above average for such a publication I was quite unable to understand the criticism of the recent production of "Romeo and Juliet" done in the College Theatre.

Having seen many productions of this play both professional and otherwise it is my opinion that the performance I saw on the Friday night was nothing short of first rate professional theatre; the staging, the speed of playing and the whole approach to what is a very difficult play impressed me beyond words and I sincerely congratulate the director, the cast and all concerned with the production.

I can only assume that your critic either dislikes or does not understand Shakespeare or perhaps he saw a different performance to the one I enjoyed so much; if this last is so I think it should have been made clear as I consider his review most unfair to all who did so well on opening night.

Yours faithfully,

Virgil C. Bacon
2204 Aloma Avenue,
Winter Park.

OLDEST ALUMA

Dear Editor:

"God made a web of loveliness
Of clouds and stars and birds
But made not anything at all
So beautiful as words.
They shine around our simple
Earth with golden shadow wings,
And every common thing they Touch is exquisite with wings."

To me the most beautiful words are "thank you" and I have rarely had occasion to use them with more sincerity than now. Thanks to Rollins for giving me memories of many happy hours and close association with the fine group of men and women who made the first faculty.

The warmest thanks to the Lambda Chi Fraternity and the other men and women, boys and girls, who have showered me with kindnesses and honors.

Miss Ida Missildine,
Class of 1890.

FOSTER CHILD

Dear Students,

It is cold again after a few days warm weather, however it will be flowery spring pretty soon. Our long winter vacation is over and our school was opened again from the first of this month.

According to our calendar, the 21st of January was Lunar New Year's Day. It is our custom to worship our ancestors on that day, visiting their graves. Everyone was dressed with their best and had sweet dinner specially prepared for the day. In the early morning we bowed to the elder. Such greeting is called Sabea in Korean. The Lunar New Year's Day is one of our big holidays.

In these days children are playing tops and fly kites on the hill. At night we play YUT. I am going to enter middle school coming spring, so I am now busy preparing my lessons for an entrance examination.

I close this for now, sending you many good wishes,

Yours Lovingly,
Kim Young Hwa.

EDITOR'S NOTE — Kim Young Hwa is a fourteen-year-old Korean orphan supported by funds from the Rollins Chapel Drive each year. The Chapel Staff acts as his foster parents.

'ROUND ROLLINS

By Sting

Spring's the time of year when new romance springs forth and blossoms in profusion. It's the season when petals of old romance that blossomed the previous Fall begin to fall from flowers of love no longer quite so fragrant. This doesn't always take place in the solitude of a greenhouse. It even happens in the tumult of a bean house, our own Rollins Beanery. It was breakfast time when this occurred.

"What a lovely day. What a lovely, lovely day. Don't you think so, Charles?"

"What is it that makes it so lovely?"

"Honestly, Charles. Sometimes I wonder."

"Why you spend the lonely night dreaming of a song?"

"You're impossible, positively impossible."

"Was anyone ever negatively impossible?"

"Oh, Charles, you know what I mean."

"True, but do you?"

"Do I? Of course I do. That was an absurd thing for you to say."

"Was it? I didn't notice."

"That's not unusual. You never notice anything."

"Never" and "anything" are rather all-inclusive, Annette."

"When did you notice that it was a nice day or that I had a new dress or a new perfume or that my hair was different? When?"

"I noticed some time ago that your hair was quite different."

"You didn't even remember my birthday and I began telling you when it was six weeks ahead of time."

"Are you sure I forgot?"

"Would the park keeper at Yellowstone be likely to forget the times Old Faithful didn't erupt?"

"Hardly a plausible analogy."

"I see nothing implausible about it."

"Oh, I don't remember dates very well, Annette. You know that."

"How well I know that."

"Didn't I give you a birthday present?"

"Three days late, after I reminded you about it."

"Well, better late than never, wasn't it?"

"Honestly, Charles. Sometimes I wonder."

"Why you spend the lonely night dreaming of a song?"

"Please. That was unoriginal the first time."

"So was your remark that provoked it."

"I apologize for provoking it. I apologize for provoking you. I apologize for being alive."

"Why feel sorry for what we can't remedy? It's pointless."

"It's pointless for us to try to eat breakfast together any more, too."

And now there is one less vacant table than there was.

Overheard: "When I'm in New York I never feel like I'm in America. Everybody and his brother just stepped off the boat." "If he tells us once more about the intellectual apathy of the college Freshman, I'm going to scream." "Sure I put my feet on the table at home. Why can't I do it here in the Center?" "Rollins is a great school, but even an eight-month vacation can get pretty tiresome."

Science Exhibit Featured In Knowles Hall Today

The Science Open House is being held today, May 3, at the Knowles Hall Science Building, from 9:00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M. and from 7:00 P.M. to 9:00 P.M.

Leroy Oetjen, president of the Rollins Scientific Society, is in charge of arranging this annual affair, which is sponsored by the Society and in which science students exhibit their work.

The Chemistry Department will show the production of cosmetics, toothpaste, rayon, cold light, disappearing ink, dust explosions, smoke rings, and a Christmas tree of pure silver. It will also demonstrate silver-plating and the absorption of color.

Two features of the Physics Department will be the demonstration of sound and radio control.

The Astronomy Department will have a telescope set up outside, for spectators to view Jupiter if it is a clear evening. Their laboratory will also be open.

The movie, "The World at Your Feet," will be shown four times by the Biology Department, and there will also be on exhibition a collection of snakes, chick embryos, and a number of apparatus for testing one's intelligence.

The Geology Department is planning to show rocks and minerals which are either typical of Florida or are mined in the state.

An exhibition of insects will be a highlight of the Zoology Department.

The preceding features of the various departments are just some of the exhibitions to be seen at the open house. Many more are planned. The Annual Science Open House is held with the purpose of showing Rollins College student advancements within the several fields of science, and to generate enthusiasm in the various subjects.

Since science is gaining an ever-increasing importance in the world of today and is thus a great educational instrument, the open house would in itself signify the benefits the student body would reap by attending, urges the department.

All science classes will be dismissed today, in order that students may take part in the open house activities.

BASEBALL PARK HONORS WARD, '96 PRESIDENT

As one of the reunion weekend activities, Rollins alumni who attended the college during the presidency of Dr. George Morgan Ward in 1896 were present at the dedication of a bronze plaque at the George Morgan Ward Memorial Park last Saturday.

The forty-acre tract composing the planned park and recreation center was donated and deeded to the city of Winter Park last December in memory of the former Rollins president. It is located in the Aloma subdivision.

Mr. Charles M. Graves, Park and Recreation Engineer of Atlanta, has designed a plan for the park. It will include a Community Building as well as a football field, a baseball field to be used by Rollins and local high school teams. The plan also provides for baseball diamonds for Little Leaguers, tennis and shuffleboard courts and lawn bowling.

The main baseball field will be known as the "Zack Taylor Field," for the former (1913) Rollins baseball team catcher who graduated into the Big League. Mr. Taylor now resides in Winter Park.

Mayor Ray Greene presided at the dedicatory program, which included speeches by Mr. T. W. Lawton, '03, and Dr. Kathryn A. Hanna. President Hugh McKean represented Rollins at the ceremony.

She has taken part in Shakespeareans, reads at Vespers, is the organist for the Junior Choir at the Methodist Church in Winter Park, and was a member of the French Club besides playing intramural sports for Chi Omega and leading them in Campus Sing last year.

Ann Webster Futhy, a senior, has served Pi Beta Phi as Student Council representative, corresponding secretary, Pan Hellenic representative, and as president for two years. She has been president of her dormitory, a member of the Orientation Committee, and led the Pi Phi's in Campus Sing for two years.

The Honor Roll sees Ann's name often and she belongs to the Phi Society, Pi Gamma Mu, and was awarded the Washington Semester Honor Scholarship. She worked on the Freshman show and sang in a trio and quartette her first two years. Her chapel

Rollins Art Department Hosts Eighth Symposium

The eighth annual symposium and exhibition of the Florida Artist Group will be presented under the auspices of the Rollins College Art Department at the Morse Gallery of Art today through Sunday.

Registration for the Symposium will begin at 9:30 A.M. today. The highlight of the Symposium will be an address at 4:00 P.M. by Robert B. Hale, Associate Curator of American Art, Metropolitan Museum of Art.

A meeting of the executive committee and a buffet supper at the home of Pres. McKean are also included in the first day's activities.

Dr. Paul Douglass Attends Workshop At Penn State

Dr. Paul F. Douglass, Professor of Government, will attend the Tenth Annual Pennsylvania Conference at Pennsylvania State University this weekend.

On Friday, May 3, he will address a Workshop meeting there on "Personnel Evaluation and Supervision." Faced with the major problem of increasing productivity, management is finding difficulty in securing competent leadership and in recruiting, developing, and holding capable personnel.

In recent months, Dr. Douglass has summarized research findings in this field and has, through addresses and articles, made a helpful and valuable contribution toward understanding the serious nature of the problem.

As Chairman for the National Advisory Commission on the Recruitment, Training and Placement of Recreational Personnel of the National Recreation Association, Dr. Douglass addressed the annual meeting of Affiliated Personnel Societies in Sacramento, California.

On Saturday, Mr. Hale will lead a panel discussion on the topic "Influences and Trends in the Current Exhibition by the Florida Artist Group." At 1:00 that afternoon a luncheon will be held at the Langford Hotel. At this time awards and selections for the traveling exhibition will be announced.

Members of the group will spend the afternoon visiting The Center Street Gallery, the Beal-Maltbie Shell Museum, and the Smith Watchkey exhibition.

Saturday night they will attend the final performance of the two musical one-act plays at the Annie Russell Theatre.

Sunday morning, seats will be reserved for the members at the Knowles Memorial Chapel until 9:40.

The Florida Artist Group was organized to encourage high standards of art in Florida and is open to all artists with professional standing and to younger artists whose achievements justify membership. President McKean, Mrs. McKean, and Rollins art instructor Constance Ortmayer are members.

An exhibition of work of the Florida Artist Group will be on view at the Morse Gallery of Art during the Symposium and will continue through May 20.

ART Musicals Lauded By Edge, Deemed Entertaining, Delightful

By Edge

The current musical fare at the Annie Russell Theatre is fun for the entire family.

If you happen to like the jazz idiom and a little intellectual spoofing of the progress of mankind since the Garden of Eden, you will enjoy TROUBLE IN TAHITI by Leonard Bernstein. If you are inclined towards fairy tales as which of us isn't when they are as charmingly told as this one is, there is James Thurber's fable of the THIRTEEN CLOCKS set to lilting music by Mare Bucci.

The most outstanding thing in TAHITI is a Rollins colossus of the theatre named Ann Bowers. Her portrayal of Dinah was sung clearly and with a mixture of Broadway brass and concert hall finesse which made it one of the most delightful experiences of the current season.

Her TROUBLE IN TAHITI solo had her re-enacting a technicolor extravaganza that she had seen in an attempt to kill her housewife boredom. Her imitations of the various characters with voice and dance brought down the house. Equally as good and showing her versatility was the solo sung in the psychiatrist's office, a ballad type thing which might be called for lack of another name, A Garden.

Ann's performance shows her to be one of the most proficient actresses as well as singers in recent years at Rollins.

Not far behind her was the performance of Ken Pabel. Ken played the husband, Sam, with an insecure robustness which caught the meaning of the play and gave him the depth of character to stay on the same stage with Ann.

His best number was a bit done in the shower, while stripping in reverse, called The Winner.

The chorus manned, and womened, by Bill Hardy, Sharon Voss, Joan MacLelland and Barbara Works sang the sunshine ditties with a remarkable likeness to singing commercials, which was good because that is the way they were supposed to be sung. An excellent job.

TAHITI is a satire with tragic overtones about man's progress since the Garden of Eden. Bernstein asks the question "Where has Love and Understanding between two people gone?" Effectively using the ironic voice of the chorus singing the sunshine ditties in contrast with the modern domestic situation, Bernstein creates something which is both funny and sad.

Musically he uses the jazz idiom which projects and underlines the tensions of his two members of "The Lonely Crowd" with terrifying reality.

The play was directed by the Annie Russell Theatre's man of letters, Peter Dearing. Mr. Dearing seems to have a talent for satire.

The THIRTEEN CLOCKS is a charming bit of fluff, beautifully done by a very excellent cast.

Jack Mette, as the Prince sings and acts with a sureness and ability. He is Princish, but is relaxed about the whole thing, which adds to his performance immeasurably.

Walton Wing, who only has one role in this play, so I couldn't get confused about it, does a prodigious job as the Golux, who is the son of a witch. His vitality on the stage, as well as a very pleasant singing voice (the two or three lines he sang) gave the show a bit of verve.

The evil old Duke, whose weakness (everybody has 'em) is being wicked, is portrayed by Peter Adams with Satanic glee.

Pati Foley sings very well and is very lovely as the fairy Princess.

The chorus of 13 mixed voices (male-female) and Jeanne Newton, Tom Moore, Babs Wyman, Joan Brand, Robin Dearing, and William Hardy (Bill gets around,) do an excellent job of supporting the principals.

The play deals with the evil old Duke, who steals his niece (but she really isn't his niece) from her mother. In order to preserve her for himself (He can't marry her until her twenty-first birthday because of a witch's spell), he sets impossible tasks for her suitors. But this does not daunt the handsome young Prince, who braves being slit from zatch to gutle (or something like that) and fed to the Stoop (or something like that) and with the help of the Golux achieves his task and wins the hand of the Princess. Which is nice for all concerned, except for the evil Duke who is eaten by the Stoop (or something like that).

Director Dick Hill has given us a delightful evening's entertainment.

The musical accompaniment was rendered on the Steinway by Robert Hufstader and Robert Tate. Both gentlemen are to be congratulated for the sterling way they performed a most arduous and difficult task.

Bob Grose and his stagecraft class again accounted for themselves in a most admirable manner. (Bob's new book is entitled BERNSTEIN EXPLAINED.)

And so if you haven't already done so, I would suggest a quick trip to the ART box office where the staff headed by Mr. Dearing himself, will be more than glad to give you the best seats left in the house. It is a trip well worth your while.

THE SCRATCHY PEN

By Pointless

Mid-term was trying to pass quietly, but President McKean shook study schedules up last Tuesday night when he toured the campus ringing a huge bell...the occasion was a fire-drill, coke-party and social-gettogether...the highlight of the event was the President's words about wearing smiles for the alums...everyone smiled...it has been observed that Rollins men had never seen most of the coeds without paint, nor with curlers and other devices worn for sleep...Here's to bigger and better after-hour parties...

The pinball machines are functioning nicely...they have a great following, but they're not busy during lunch in case anyone would care to join me...

This column slighted Delta Chi last week...they had a steak fry at Titusville, but no one talked about it...the biggest turnout in history for Delta Chi...seen with crisp sandy dinners: Sally Reed, Dick O'Loughlin; Bitsy Keller, Jarrett Brock; Sid Burt, Walt Holstein; Sid Kromer, Sid Katz; Cam Chapman, Dick Lesnesky; Sandy Shell, Teddy T.; Sandy Schiele, Larry Hoyt; Pat Foley, Nick Waln; Dotty Englehardt Jim Simmons; Margot Leroy, George Fehl; Kay Klein, Kenny Pabel; Pris Drake, Bob Humph; Bet Goodman, Pablo Ackerman; Chris Jones, Bruce Longbottom; Anita Alexander, Stu Harvey; Others made it too...pinees etc.

The tennis courts are featuring the latest in colorful beachwear inspired by exotic vacations...everyone used to wear white, but this addition to athletics is interesting...

People who are going together are dressing alike it appears...do you shop for a shirt to match your friend or a friend to match your shirt?...Please advise...

Name tags were all the rage on Friday...did YOU fill in YOUR name? Someone caught someone without...and frowning!!!

The Delta Chi's had their pelican just LAST weekend...we're catching up on them...seen hunting some strange little shells to make some strange stew were: Perry Ellwood, Annie Robinson; Gail Pfluger, Guy Filosof; Jannie Hamilton, Dick Haldeman; Willie and Marijo; Winn Taylor, Jean Rigg; Pete Kimball, Em McGiffen; Dick Holman, Libby Daniels. Others seen during the daylight hours: Stu Harvey, Bob H., Chase Peabody, Nick Waln, Pablo, Dave and Kathy Bowen...

Engaged: Marion "Chris" Crislip, Phi Mu, to Tom Graves, Rollins grad...this summer...

Matt Sinnott and wife Linda are beaming...new son, Cory, was born last week...he looks like Dad!!!

Sun Glasses, Blue Raincoat
Typify Anita Wadsworth

By Carol Fortier

At some time or another we have all noticed a slight figure, draped in a blue raincoat and obscured by dark glasses, wandering around the campus. This inconspicuous person is Anita Wadsworth.

Why is it that invariably some of the people who are most worthy of praise and recognition go unnoticed? Certainly this is the case with Anita.

Her life has been rich with activities and honors, but it is a well-known fact that the people who have something in their record that is really worth talking about rarely publish it. I think it is high time that Anita receives some sort of tribute for her very admirable achievements.

HONORABLY ACTIVE

Anita's last year in high school was really when her outstanding activities began. She was secretary of her senior class, editor of her yearbook, and valedictorian, besides receiving an English award and being active in tennis and basketball varsities. Nor did her achievements stop there.

SCHOLARSHIP AWARD

Anita, toting an Honor Scholarship, quietly tackled college with the same driving energy. She made the Dean's list her first term, which testifies to her scholastic ability. But since straight curriculum was never enough for this little girl, she immersed herself in all kinds of extra-curricular activities.

She worked back-stage in several ART productions, took part in the Indie Musical, made softball and volleyball varsities, worked on the SANDSPUR, was in Community Service Club, and was Student Council representative.

Besides all this, Anita lent a helping hand to her sorority, Alpha Phi, serving as treasurer and vice-president in charge of scholarship. When the year was over, Anita, without even stopping to rest up, took off for summer school at the University of Florida.

FOUR YEARS IN THREE

The following year, Anita started off by switching her major from Art to English. She became News Editor on the SANDSPUR and made Phi Society, worked on WPRK and lent her aid to the Indie Musical again. She was tapped for "R" Club and Libra, a double honor seldom acquired by a second year student.

This year is Anita's final one, for she is going through college in three years—another commendable feat.

She wrote "The Creation," Alpha Phi's presentation for Talent Night, and has continued work on WPRK, made the softball varsity, and served as secretary-treasurer of Libra.

SILK PAJAMAS & WOOL SOCKS

It's hard to believe Anita when she states that she is lazy and sleeps all the time. In fact, I find it hard to see when she has time to sleep at all. But when she does, it is inevitably in a pair of silk pajamas and wool knee-socks.

Anita likes writing more than anything else, "but only as a hobby." She is not interested in the professional angle of it for, "In order to write for money, you have to shut yourself away from everything, and I don't like to be away from people that long."

MERRY-GO-ROUND & MUSIC

Anita is obviously fond of the human race for she says, "People are wonderful—I love people. However, the only faith I have in human nature is in its inconsistency...but the thing that makes people interesting is their inconsistency."

When asked about her opinion on life in general, Anita said, "Life is such a merry-go-round that I never get off it long enough to find out what I think about it."

Anita is an ardent hi-fi fan and collects records, mainly semi-classics and Broadway musicals. She loathes Elvis and rock-and-roll.

SUMMING-UP

Looking at her record—scholastically, athletically, or any way, Anita excels.

ANITA WADSWORTH

Professor's Home Viewed
As Place For Conference

By Ron Atwood

Recently I spent an afternoon at the house of one of my former professors. He introduced me to his family, and then we settled down to a couple of hours of conversation interrupted only by a snack.

During our talk I asked him why there isn't a closer relationship between the students and professors at Rollins. I pointed out that during this last Christmas vacation I spent a day at a state university. While there I visited two professors with some friends of mine. I enjoyed the visits, and I asked my friends if they did it very often. They appeared surprised at my question.

Such visits are commonplace for them. They said that if they didn't spend at least one or two evenings a week, at their professor's request, visiting their homes they didn't consider it either a successful or a complete week. That university is infamous for its low salaries and relatively high enrollment, so I felt that it wouldn't be fair to compare Rollins, a school much smaller than the university, to such a system.

But then I talked with a few more friends who attend small colleges in New England. They told me similar stories. They especially stressed the fact that when they had chosen their major in their last two years, they would often times have classes or private interviews at their major professor's home.

This seemed a little fairer comparison. Here were two small liberal arts colleges, both with enrollments approximate to ours, and both exhibiting a very intricate relationship between student and professor.

When I finished my story, I asked why more of the professors here at Rollins don't ask the students to dinner once in a while, or for that matter, why they don't invite them over for just an afternoon. Many times I have heard professors complain when they try to fit in time for conferences on campus. Couldn't they have it at their houses just as well, and at a time when both parties could be free?

My host said that at one time there was a fund set aside for just this purpose. The professors could ask students over for dinner, and the school would pay for it. Now that fund no longer exists. The enrollment has increased, and so have the classes. This means that instead of one or two, the professors would have to invite three, four, or larger numbers of students, and, on the present salaries, that just isn't feasible for a married man.

I can remember only once having actually been invited to dinner by a professor here at Rollins. It was during the Thanksgiving vacation. There were three other guests in addition to myself. The whole affair was very pleasant, and, at the same time, rewarding. Being away from the grounds and dorms during vacation was in itself excuse enough to feel elated about the invitation, but the companionship and good feeling expressed during the dinner was an experience well worth remembering.

Sometimes, under the stress of work and classes, we forget that the faculty are merely humans. They seem to push us to our intellectual limit, and we often resent this. But who can blame them for doing their job, and when we feel that our faculty are showing an interest in us as individuals, we can better appreciate what they are attempting to do.

We are a small school, and there is no reason why there cannot exist a better relationship between faculty and students. I'm not recommending free dinners as a routine for the students, but I am stating that perhaps one of the ways in which we can further improve student-faculty relationship is to get away from the classrooms and buildings for conferences and interviews. Let's make the "Rollins family" something that exists beyond the campus grounds.

ON MIKE

By TRAN SMITTER

Several people have inquired about the very popular Wednesday night show, "The Mood Vendors," or formerly, "The Rollins Balladiers" and have asked the reason for its time changing from a half hour to fifteen minutes. The problem simply rests on the fact that two members of the original cast have been absent from the microphones for many weeks. One, Mark Frutchey, returned to the studios last week to turn out his usual fine performance along with the always scintillating Lynne Kaelber and Sid Kromer.

It takes a lot of people to put together a whole thirty minutes of good folk music and for two weeks, Ann Frutchey pitched in with some real fine tunes to help keep "The Mood Vendors" in the top brackets of Central Florida's popularity poll. It is strongly hoped that Ann will return along with Perry Ellwood and the whole crew to help build "The Mood Vendors" back into another enjoyable half hour show.

A letter to Tran this week:

"I am quite in accord with your philosophy that an educational radio station should diversify their musical selections so as to include all schools of composers and their contemporaries, but why must you hit us with a tape recorded program of some scientific discussion in between such music shows? It would seem....."

Listeners from Pinecastle

TRAN. Friends, you have partly answered your own question by stating that we are an educational station and therefore, consider all aspects of programming that will construct a more enlightening schedule for you. Diversification of the type of programs we present is also very important. As you well know, the symphonic mood is very emotional and sometimes very tense; so much so that a definite change in trend is needed. We feel that not more than one hour of the more classical works should be broadcast without a break of some kind. This is sometimes accomplished by a short interval of either panel discussion or educational speech. We hope you continue to enjoy our selection of the classics as much as you have in the past. —TRAN

Another letter to the studios of WPRK itself from Patrick Air Force Base, Florida came recently stating: "Our hospital has installed a music system. Would it be possible to receive an advanced program of your FM Radio Broadcasts? We would appreciate it very much."

Very Truly Yours,
Paul Lance, Col. USAF

TRAN: A program schedule is on the way and both letters prove the growing popularity of radio station WPRK.

REQUESTS TO TRAN this week consist of another turn at Frank Underwood and his "Sketches." Frank, it seems the girls in the Theta House are wanting to hear once again your version of "Blue Moon."

The second request is for that avid Wagner fan, ME, to please continue educating the listening audience in Ricard's vein.

Stay tuned to WPRK at 91.5 on the FM dial until two weeks from today for more news about our campus station. ADIOS!

If anyone would have come to the baseball game with Stetson on Saturday without knowing how we were doing this year, they might have thought it was just like last year. The 12-11 game had all the earmarks of a 14-13 game played with Tampa last season.

Rollins had the better extra point kickers last year. The hitters finally broke loose for this two-game Stetson series, as they threatened to do all year.

It has been getting a habit with the school lately to get their signals crossed. It first became evident with the horrible lack of knowledge at the recent Student Council meetings. Nobody seemed to know who was responsible for what. Somebody gave the steal signal but nobody wanted to take the blame when the runner was thrown out.

Mintz

The second example of the crossed-signal's disease broke out with the issuance of last week's ROLLINS CALENDAR. It plainly stated under April 26 and 27, that the baseball games would start at 3:00. The ORLANDO SENTINEL publicized the fact that the baseball games would start at 3:00 on account of alumni activities. The college, alumni, and public were told the games were to start at 3:00 and it was considered a good idea.

There were only a few people who were not aware of the new game time. It seems a shame that one of these people happened to be Coach Joe. He was unaware that anyone had flashed a new set of signals. He did not see any reason to change game time after all these years.

The real story behind the change of times is really simple. With all the fuss about the team not hitting, it had to be proved that we could meet the bat with the ball and cause the law of action and reaction to take place. It was actually a deep, dark plot to get people out to watch practice.

It was entirely unnecessary to do this as the Rollins' hitters had less pity on the Stetson pitchers than they had against the batting practice pitchers.

The first four shell championship crew race was held on Lake Maitland last Saturday. One of the unfortunate mishaps of the morning occurred during the JV championship race.

Florida Southern had the far lane. They were supposed to aim for a tree directly past the finish line. Dennis Richards, the mathematical whiz, was stationed in the water to stop the shell before it hit the tree.

He successfully accomplished this with J.V., during the varsity race. In the JV race FSC crossed the finish line aimed at the wrong tree. To add to their troubles they failed to hold water to slow themselves down. Dennis, quickly calculating the speed of the shell against the thickness of his body, decided against stepping in the way of the speeding shell.

A cyprus tree at the water's edge provided all that was necessary to stop the shell. The pointed part of the bow stuck about four inches in the tree. Just think of the inconvenience the math students would have had if they had to go to the cyprus tree to ask Dennis questions. It might also have been a little uncomfortable for Dennis, being pinned to the tree.

Varsity Crew Retains State Title By Length In Four Crew Regatta

By Moe Cody

For the fifth consecutive year the Rollins Tars have proved their supremacy in rowing. Last Saturday the Tars came through with a victory over three competing crews to win the State Championship.

After suffering a severe setback when they were defeated by La Salle College one week earlier, the big Blue was ready to give everything. A strong ten m.p.h. head wind brought heavy water with severe rowing conditions as Tampa U., Florida Southern, Jacksonville U., and Rollins lined up for the start.

After a brilliant job of maneuvering, the starter, Jim Anderson of Jacksonville, got all the crews off their marks. Immediately Jax jumped out to a short lead, but was quickly challenged by the big Tampa crew, followed by Rollins and Southern.

Before the boats reached the 1/3 of a mile mark, Tampa had extended a small lead into a full length and a half over Rollins with Southern in hot pursuit half a length further back. The novice crew from Jacksonville broke a seat at this point and faded badly.

Coming into the last quarter of the distance, Tampa had a decided advantage of 3/4 of a length on Rollins who had passed Southern, lying an open boat length to their stern. With less than a fifth of the race remaining, Rollins made their bid. Stroking a steady 34 per minute all down the course, the Tars now lifted their stroke up to 38 and overtook the tiring Spartans.

With a phenomenal burst of speed and power, Rollins spurred out into a lead to finish 3/4 of a length ahead of Tampa. Southern finished two lengths behind the winners, and Jax trailed. The time for the winning crew over the one mile, 550 yards was 6:04:0.

In a junior varsity race, Florida Southern's fiery little crew pulled an upset by defeating the highly favored JV Tars by one length.

'Canes Defeat Tars As Sobieraj Upsets Star Miami Netman

The tennis Tars traveled the dreary route to Miami last Thursday to play the top-ranked U. of Miami, at Coral Gables. The Hurricanes added the Tars to the new win streak they are composing. Rollins bit the dust by the score of 6-2.

In the singles play Sobieraj of Rollins pulled one of the biggest upsets of the year by whipping Kupferburger of Miami, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4.

This was only the second time in collegiate play that the Miami ace has been beaten. He is rated 17th among all the amateurs in the U. S.

The rest of the Rollins' players did not fair so well except for Hewitson who defeated Rosen, 6-1, 4-6, 8-6. Ochoa lost to Rubinoff, 6-4, 6-0; Foster lost to Quay, 6-2, 6-3; Antonetti lost to Harum, 6-3, 6-0; and Goller lost to Rohe, 6-2, 9-11, 6-3.

In doubles Kupferburger-Rubinoff defeated Sobieraj-Ochoa, 6-2, 6-2; and Quay-Harum defeated Antonetti-Foster, 6-2, 6-1.

TAR CREWS SEEK FIRST DAD VAIL REGATTA TROPHY

A determined Rollins crew left for Philadelphia on Wednesday. After a successful season, they were finally going for the main prize of all small college oarsmen—the Dad Vail championship. The winner is considered the top small college crew in the nation.

Having posted the most successful season in Rollins crew history with eight wins and one loss, the Tars added to their laurels by grabbing the Florida State Rowing Championship.

Coach Bradley figures that this is the year to make his "bridesmaid" crew a "bride." In the many years that Brad has been the coach of the rowing Tars he has not been able to capture the elusive Dad Vail title.

His crew has been second in the annual competition eight times in the last nine years; thus, the nickname the "bridesmaid crew."

Last year Rollins was second to LaSalle in the Dad Vail by one length. During the regular season they beat LaSalle. This year they lost to LaSalle for their only defeat. Maybe this will have a reverse effect at Philadelphia.

With the return of Larry Breen to the regular roster, the Tars have found the spark they failed to stir when they met LaSalle.

The junior varsity has also left with the varsity for North. They have high hopes of retaining the Rusty Callow Cup which they won last year. Both crews race tomorrow.

Ten girls leave for Miami today to represent Rollins in the annual all-state Sports Day. The University of Miami will be playing host to the event this year. Tomorrow the girls will compete with eight other Florida colleges and universities in volleyball, golf, tennis (singles and doubles), badminton (singles and doubles), ping-pong (singles and doubles), and softball.

A full day of activities will start tomorrow at 9:00 in the morning with registration. The girls will compete individually in their specialties and as a team for softball and volleyball competition.

The R Club has selected the following girls to attend the Sports Day: Sue York, Julie VanPelt, Sid Kromer, Burt Marling, Roma Neundorf, Rainey Abbott, Bey Nabers, Owen McHaney, and Judy Hoffman.

Rolly Colly will be matching talents with Stetson University, University of Florida, Florida State University, Florida Southern College, Webber College, Barry College, University of Tampa, and University of Miami.

Owen McHaney and Julie VanPelt will be leaving early today to play a tennis match with Miami prior to the Sport Day.

Golf intramurals have reached the semi-final stage with only several matches left to be played before the finals.

Golf intramurals have progressed smoothly with many outstanding scores recorded. All in all Dubsread has received very little damage from the female contingent despite the many novice golfers participating in the intramurals.

The Independent Women defeated the Kappas by one point in an exciting runoff for second place in volleyball intramurals last Monday.

The intramural standings to date are:

Golfers Close Regular Play With FSC Win, FSU Loss

by Chuck Doyle

The Rollins linksmen trounced Florida Southern at Dubsread last Wednesday and got bruised at Tallahassee by Florida State last Saturday. This was the second win for the Seminoles against the Tars this year.

Rollins was out for blood against Florida Southern after the scare FSC threw into them at Lakeland. The Tars let loose their vengeance to the tune of a 24-3 win.

Ron Terpak philosophized upon the match by saying, "We were seeking revenge for the trouble they gave us at their place." Jim Curti followed up between cigar puffs by adding, "Florida Southern never stood a chance."

At Tallahassee, the Tars made a good showing with a 73½ total stroke average. It is unfortunate that they hit Florida State on one of their excellent days as they fired 71½ for their team average. Par is 72.

It is easy to see by the team stroke average that both teams played well. One of the oddities of the day happened against Bob Craig. His opponent, who seemed to have an immense dislike for putting, fired a hole-in-one.

The team felt extremely bad about dropping this important match to State. As a team member put it, expressing the old Brooklyn Dodger philosophy, "It would have taken our best to beat them, but we weren't playing at our best. Next year, though, we'll tear them up."

The match scores were:
Berry def. Ross (R) 2½-½
Diversi (R) def. Shaver 2-1
Best ball FSU 2½-½
Veghte def. Curti (R) 3-0
Jenkins def. Dinga (R) 3-0
Best ball FSU 3-0
Terpak (R) def. Shoemaker 3-0
Shuman def. Craig (R) 3-0
Best ball FSU 2-1

SPORTS AGENDA

Varsity Baseball—The Tars travel to Lakeland tomorrow to play FSC. On Monday, Rollins will play FSC at Harper-Shepard Field at 3:30. It is the next to last regular home encounter of the season.

Varsity Crew—The annual Dad Vail Regatta will be held at Philadelphia tomorrow. Both the varsity and JV will be racing.

Varsity Tennis—Rollins plays Georgia at Athens tomorrow and hosts Stetson on Tuesday at 1:30 on the college courts.

Varsity Golf—The golfers are participating in the Southern Inter-collegiate at Athens, Georgia. It is over tomorrow.

Softball—The Deltas and X Club, both undefeated, will play today at 4:15 on the Sandspur Bowl.

Tars Whip Stetson Twice To Up FIBC Title Hopes

By Chick Bezemer

Beware all opposing pitchers! The Rollins hitters have finally donned their hitting shoes. The batters carried the load in a two game series against Stetson last Friday and Saturday afternoons.

Friday the Tar batters flexed their muscles and Harry Bennett displayed his pitching skills for the returning alumni as Rollins soundly thumped the pitiful Hi-Hatters, 14-3.

The Tars started the scoring in the second inning. Walks by the losing pitcher, Jack Parker, and a couple of timely hits accounted for the four Rollins markers.

The third inning must have seemed like a nightmare to Parker as Joe's boys continued to barrage with six more runs. This onslaught was climaxed by Al Fantuzzi's grand-slam homer.

Stetson finally broke the ice on a cheap three-run blast by first-baseman Hugh McInnis. The ball was not hit over the fence but struck a tree limb extending inside the playing area. Thus it was declared a home run and ruined Bennett's bid for a shutout.

Bob Usseglio produced the last two runs of the game with a two-run roundtripper in the seventh inning. The Tars combed the Hatter hurlers for twelve hits all told.

Saturday's game turned into a marathon soon after it was under way. Stetson scored a run in the top of the first off the Rollins starter, Bunky Davis. Rollins bounced right back in their half of the inning for four runs off the servings of Stetson ace, Dick Saltrick. Elmer Lott's opening triple ignited the rally.

The Hi-Hatters picked up two tainted tallies in the second. The Tars scored a single one to pull out ahead, 5-3. Another run was added to the Rollins total in the fourth before Stetson pounced on the services of Rollins' freshman reliever, Jack Jordan, for four markers and a 7-6 lead.

The Hatter lead was short-lived as the Tars picked up three big runs in their half of the sixth. Bases-on-balls and timely hitting were combined by Joe's boys to bring home these runs for a 9-7 lead.

Joe went to his bullpen once again to try to preserve his two run margin. He selected Chuck Allen to close out the poor hitting Hatters. Allen was also a victim of wildness and gave up three runs.

The marathon wasn't over yet, though. In the eighth inning Stetson scored four runs to jump into the lead once again, 11-9. The Tars scored the tying markers in the eighth and then Al Fantuzzi wrapped up the win with a bases-loaded hit in the ninth.

Tuesday morning the Tars traveled to the hostile encampment of the Florida Gators. A victory would have put the Tars at .500 for the first time since early in Baseball Week. A win would have also avenged an earlier 5-3 loss to the Gators.

Joe couldn't talk the "Rain-maker" into letting him play the game. Thus, the weather picked up its fourth win over Rollins. The Tars hosted FSU Thursday.

IM Golf Finals, X Club-Delt Game Scheduled Today

Softball nears the close of first round play and IM golf goes into the championship match as the scramble for IM points continues.

Les Sladkus, X Club, and Ken Pahel, Delta Chi, play each other in the 36 hole championship match. The last 18 holes are scheduled for this afternoon.

Pahel, last year's champion, defeated Jack Ruggles, X Club, 3 and 1, while Sladkus, medalist for this year, squeezed over Chuck Hartman, Lambda Chi, 2 and 1.

Three IM softball games were played last week while one was played this week before press time. Last Tuesday the Lambda Chi's nipped the KA's 13-11. On Wednesday X Club slammed Sigma Nu 13-2, and Delta Chi beat Lambda Chi 13-6 on Thursday. This week on Monday the Club whipped the KA's 13-5.

In the Lambda Chi-KA game the players of both teams hit the ball freely. KA had 11 hits while Lambda Chi had 19. The Lambda Chi's bunched six hits for six runs in the top of the sixth to provide the winning margin.

The X Club kept their undefeated record by slamming Sigma Nu and beating KA. The Club made 12 hits and eight hits respectively in each game. Sigma Nu hit for six safeties while KA hit for five.

X Club in the KA game won, but it is said that KA won the moral or thirst victory. The Club has now provided for another's party, intentionally and unintentionally, twice in a row.

Delta Chi also remained undefeated when they ran over Lambda Chi. The Deltas out-hit the Pies 7-2. Delta Chi gathered three runs in the first and five in the third for their win.

Today the X Club and Delta Chi engage in a contest to test league supremacy. The Deltas have beaten three opponents, while the Club has whipped two.

The game should feature the fast ball pitching of Jack Boffinger, Delta Chi, against Mike Creeco or Jack Ruggles, X Club.

Ronald Fishbaugh To Give Senior Recital Wednesday

Ronald Fishbaugh will present his Senior Recital on Wednesday, May 8, at 8:30 P.M., in the Annie Russell Theatre. Ron is a student of Piano professor Helen Moore.

The program will include the following selections: Organ Prelude and Fugue in A Minor by Bach-Liszt; Sonata in A Major, Opus 101, by Beethoven; Poems for Piano by Vincent Persichetti; Jeux d'Eau by Ravel; and Symphonic Etudes, Opus 13, by Shumann.

Ron, an Independent, has been active in all music activities of the college. He is an honor roll student and is a member of Phi and Key honor societies.

He is active in the Rollins Music Guild, and is a member of the Chapel Choir and Rollins Singers. He has consistently won awards for his musical ability.

His freshman year, Ron received the National Music Guild Award, followed his sophomore year by the Piano Teachers' Guild Recording Prize and the top award in the 1955 National Piano Recording Festival.

Ron took part in the Phi Beta Concerto his freshman year and made another appearance at the piano last April when he presented his Junior Recital. He was recently a guest speaker at the Sanford Women's Club.

Ron is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd B. Fishbaugh of Orlando.

TRAINING GIVEN FOR CAREERS IN PUBLISHING

Radcliffe College is again offering its six-week publishing course, open to both men and women graduates and designed to bring publishing career ambitions to reality, to be held from June 19 to July 30.

The Publishing Procedures Course, devoted half to magazines and half to books, is highlighted by lectures by leading publishing executives.

Guest lecturers from the magazine field will include Stewart Beach of "This Week," Frederick Birmingham of "Esquire," Frank Gibney of "Newsweek," Edward Weeks of "The Atlantic Monthly," and A. C. Spector of "Playboy."

A magazine work shop, dealing with design, production, and editorial procedures, will be conducted by two "Life" magazine executives.

The book business will be represented by John O'Connor, president of Grosset and Dunlap; William Spaulding, vice-president of Houghton-Mifflin Company; W. Bradford Wiley, president of John Wiley and Sons; Evan Thomas of Harper's; and Jerome Hardy of Doubleday.

The course, now in its tenth year, surveys the requirements and opportunities of publishing. It further provides basic training in such publishing skills as production, design, layout, editing, sales, advertising, and general administration.

Placement service is provided for those who complete the course. Application forms and further information may be obtained from the Publishing Procedures Course, Radcliffe College, Cambridge 38, Massachusetts.

Oslo Scholarship Deadline Set For Monday, May 6

The May 6 deadline for application for the Corrin Strong Scholarships to the Oslo University summer school sessions in Oslo, Norway, was announced last week by Dr. Wendell Stone.

This competition for the scholarship is open to any male student with a good academic standing. Interested students may apply by leaving their names in the office of the Dean of the College. No letter of application is required.

The scholarships, $800 per award, are based on past records of achievement at Rollins. Ken Pahel and Pete Adams were selected as last year's winners. During their six-weeks stay, they joined about 180 other American students in learning something of the Norwegian culture.

The scholarship is given by L. Corrin Strong, the former trustee of Rollins who now serves as the American Ambassador to Norway. He gave Corrin Hall to the college, while his mother donated Strong Hall.

The former trustee has given the Oslo scholarship to two Rollins men each year for several years. The curriculum of the summer course includes trips and weekend excursions as well as the required three courses on Norway. All classes are conducted in English on the lecture system.

Courses offered include: Survey of Norwegian Culture, Norwegian Literature, Survey of Norwegian Economics and Political Institutions, and Norwegian Culture.

During last year's course, awardees Ken and Pete visited Parliament and had the opportunity to hear the members of Parliament discuss questions with the students. The American Ambassador and Norwegian political leaders spoke, followed by a reception for the students given by the governor.

The trip was highlighted by Ken's winning an essay contest promoted by the Scandinavian Airlines. Ken won a free one-week trip from Oslo to the Arctic Circle on the Russian border.

The winners of the this year's awards will leave in June for Norway.

Marines To Visit Rollins Next Week For Interviews

The Marine Corps Officer Procurement Team will be on campus on May 8 to interview students who desire to earn a commission while completing college.

Freshmen, sophomores, and juniors are eligible to apply for the Platoon Leaders Class. Seniors and graduates may apply for the Officer Candidate Course of the Aviation Officer Candidate Course.

Training for all programs is conducted at the Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Virginia. Successful candidates are appointed to commissioned rank in the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve, agreeing to serve on active duty for three years.

The Marines who will visit on May 8 will furnish complete information, without obligation, about these opportunities. See them at the Student Center.

Reprints of Sandspur photos are available from the Rollins Photographic Department located in the basement of the Student Center.

Student Council

his feelings that this was an exaggeration of the situation.

At Council, Frank said: "If any student is treated in any manner that does not reflect the 'Rollins way of life', he should go to the president of his social group and the Student Deans to state his complaints." These alumni were failing to express the feeling of the student body, Frank reported.

Speaking of a meeting he had recently with Dean Helen Watson, Frank told Council of their decision that the regulations regarding women should be made by the women students themselves. A meeting attended by Dean Watson and an elected representative from each dormitory will be held to draw up these regulations. Other rules will be worked on by the new Official College Regulations Committee, of which Ken McCollister is chairman.

Frank appointed Bob Shermer, KA representative, to the Beary Committee. He stated that he had formed a new committee to look into the seating facilities for students at the Annie Russell Theatre. He named Sue Jones, Stan Moress, and Mike Crecco to this committee.
