Phi Society Honors 11 Sophomores In Surprise Tapping Tuesday Morning

The Rollins Phi Society added 11 students to its membership in a surprise tapping ceremony Tuesday morning. The members of the scholastic honorary organization went in a body and tapped the new members in their B period classes, conducted them to the center for coffee, and informally welcomed them into the society.

The Phi Society, an affiliate of Phi Beta Kappa, recognizes and grants membership to sophomore students who maintained an outstanding academic average during their freshman year. This year's group of two men and nine women maintained overall averages for the year of from 7.33 to 8.08.

The new members are Mary Amick, Matt Carr, Janet Cummings, Barbs Goldner, Arthella Hines, John Hughes, Georgianna Hunter, Sandy McEntaffer, Lee Rogers, Shoreen Tews, and Nini Thompson.

Mary Amick is an English major, an Independent, and a member of the Sandspur staff. Matt Carr is a physics and premed major, plays for the Independent men in intramural sports, and writes for the Sandspur.

Janet Cummings, a Pi Phi, is a Chapel Reader, a participant in the Reading for Honors program, in intramurals, and a member of the Sandspur staff and the Pan American Club.

Barbs Goldner, Student Council representative for Phi Mu, is an English major and is participating in the program of Reading for Honors. Mrs. Arthella Hines, Independent, is an education major and an astronomy lab assistant.

John Hughes, a pre-law and language major, represents Lambda Chi in Student Council. Georgianna Hunter, Independent, is a chemistry major and recipient of a Sorosis scholarship. Sandy McEntaffer, Independent, English major, and Sandspur staff member, was pianist for the production of "A Doll's House" in the ART last fall.

Lee Rogers, in addition to being a lab assistant in her major, biology, serves as treasurer of the Independent Women, news editor of the Sandspur, and is a member of the French Club.

Two of the new members, Shoreen Tews and Nini Thompson, were participants in the "Term 'n' Tour" in Europe this past summer. Shoreen, a Theta, is an English major and a participant in the Reading for Honors program. Nini, a Pi Phi, is an education major, a Chapel Reader, and a member of the French Club, Community Service and the Flamingo staff.

The tappees will be initiated at 5 p.m. today in the Frances Chapel. This will increase the membership of the honorary to a total of 28.

Concert Series Opens Sunday With Horszowski Piano Recital

The 1959-1960 Rollins Concert Series will open this Sunday at 8:30 p.m. in the Annie Russell Theatre with the appearance of Mieczyslaw Horszowski, pianist.

Mr. Horszowski was appointed visiting professor of piano last year and returns to Rollins from Europe where he appeared at festivals this summer.

A member of the faculty of the Curtis Institute of Music of Philadelphia, Mr. Horszowski has been the recipient of international praise as a pianist of foremost caliber.

Virgil Thomson, critic for the New York Herald Tribune, described the pianist's playing: "Few pianists play with such beauty, such distinction, such unflinching seriousness of thought..."

At the age of 14 he had made several tours of Europe, had played as soloist with leading symphony orchestras, and had given a recital before Pope Pius X.

The pianist is perhaps best known for his artistic collaboration with Pablo Casals, the illustrious Spanish 'cellist and conductor.

Horszowski and Casals have made many tours of Europe together, doing programs of Bach, Beethoven, and Brahms. As a conductor of repute, Casals had often invited Horszowski to appear as soloist.

Last November Horszowski accompanied Casals at the latter's

Run-Off Elections Slated For Monday

Thirteen run-off elections for class offices, originally scheduled for today, will be held in the Student Center from 9:00 to 4:00 on Monday, Nov. 2, Student Council president Dick Mansfield announced Thursday morning.

Reason for the delay in the run-offs is that a complaint about election procedure has been lodged with the Election Board. Until the Board has a chance to meet and discuss the complaint, run-off elections cannot be held.

As a result of Wednesday's voting, in which 465 ballots were cast, only three offices—freshman president and vice-president and senior secretary—were decided. According to election by-laws of the Student Association constitution, these final results cannot be announced until all run-offs are completed.

Run-off contenders for the office of senior class president are Dale Montgomery, Sigma Nu, and Wally Ramsey, Lambda Chi. Sandy Logan, Kappa, and Bob Lerner, X Club, are in the run-off for senior vice-president while Jody Boulware, Phi Mu, and Debbie Williams, Alpha Phi, are running for class treasurer.

With 70 per cent of the seniors participating in the voting, 84 ballots were cast for these offices.

Eighty juniors, 65 per cent of the class, turned up at the polls in an election that resulted in run-offs for all four offices.

Candidates for the office of class president are Dick Bishop, X Club, and Luis Dominguez, Lambda Chi. Martha England, Theta, and Ted Murray, X Club, are vying for the vice-presidency of the class.

In the other junior elections, Jane Goodnow, Kappa, and Ginny Willis, Chi O, are running for the office of secretary; Jerry Beeta, X Club, and John Looby, Delta Chi, are candidates for the position of class treasurer.

With the highest percentage of class members voting, 141 sophomores, 80 per cent of the class, cast ballots in Wednesday's elections.

Vying in the run-off for the class presidency are Linda Qualls, Kappa, and Jack Sutliff, Sigma Nu. Steve Cutter, Delta Chi, and Chuck Mattraw, Sigma Nu, are candidates for vice-president.

In competition for the office of sophomore secretary are Rena Ortstadt, Kappa, and Ruth Lynn Whitaker, Theta; in the race for class treasurer are Pat Ganson, Kappa, and Joan Watzek, Theta.

For the first time since 1955 when Conrad Bolinger won the office of freshman president on the first ballot, the frosh presidential post was decided Wednesday without the necessity of a run-off.

Freshman offices at stake are those of secretary and treasurer. Virginia Campbell and Sandra Rainey are vying for the office of secretary, while Paul Brennan and Woody Woodworth are running for freshman treasurer.

Only 160 freshmen, or approximately 65 per cent of those students who are ranked in the freshman class, participated in the balloting.

Seventy per cent of the student body voted on Wednesday; the 465 ballots cast was an increase of 46 over the number cast at class elections last fall.

Mansfield Appoints Looby, Moress Fiesta Co-Chairmen

At Student Council meeting Monday night Pres. Dick Mansfield appointed and representatives approved Stan Moress and John Looby to head Fiesta. Mansfield followed last year's precedent in appointing co-chairmen because of the amount of planning and work involved in the Fiesta program.

Representative Julie Smith asked that the automatic beer can opener taken from Dubsdread the night of the Phi Mu Dance be returned. Mansfield pointed out the privileges Dubs offers to Rollins students and urged that nothing be done to offend the management.

At a recent meeting with Dean Scroggs, Mansfield reported, an agreement was reached on the proper procedure by which Student Council business will be presented to the faculty.

All Council motions pertaining to academic problems will be referred to Dean Scroggs, who will either place the business on the faculty agenda or refer it to the proper faculty committee. All other business will be treated similarly by the Student Deans.

A balance of $5,998.65 at the end of the '57-'58 year was reported by Comptroller Chuck Allen. Total income of the Student Association for '58-'59 was $31,603.64; expenses were $24,888.63, leaving a balance of $6,715.01.

Vice-president Tony Toledo, chairman of the Social Committee, reported that no group had shown interest in sponsoring a Christmas Dance. A motion for Council to sponsor such a dance, if possible, was passed by the representatives.

The next Student Council dance will be held November 7 from 8:30 to 12:00 in the San Juan Hotel. Dress will be formal.

Rollins Radio Station Wins Prize In State-Wide Safety Contest

WPRK, under the direction of last year's staff headed by student manager Sandy Logan, placed second in a state-wide contest promoting highway safety, new student manager Robert Fleming has announced.

First prize went to WGRO in Lake City. Station WSUN in St. Petersburg was third, and Florida's largest station, WQAM in Miami, won an honorable mention. The prize for second place was a citation and a check for $60.

The radio students organized a series of five 30 minute panel programs dealing with all aspects of highway safety. One student even went so far as to produce two five-minute spot announcements—one entitled, "Highway Safety from a Mortician's Viewpoint."

The other new staff members of WPRK along with Fleming are: Frank Healis, special events director; Dale Montgomery, chief announcer; Chuck Morley, Mark Tiedje, Maggio Carrington, production staff; Anun Pora, Sid Abel, Mike Proudfoot, sports department.

Sandspur Cancels Mid-Term Issues

There will be no Sandspur next week. The next edition of the paper will be published on Friday, Nov. 13.

The issue originally scheduled for Nov. 6, as well as the editions that would normally be printed during the mid-term weeks in the winter and spring, has been cancelled both as an economy measure and to allow the Sandspur staff members to prepare for mid-term tests.

To keep Sandspur readers informed of campus activities, some stories have been included in this issue concerning events scheduled for the week of Nov. 9.

Famous Film Series To Feature Prize-Winning Movie From Italy

A penetrating story of modern youth, filmed by Italy's renowned director, Federico Fellini, is scheduled as the second offering of the current Famous Film Series at Rollins College. It will be shown Sunday evening Nov. 1, at 6:30 and 8:45 in the Fred Stone Theater.

The film Vitelloni describes the pathetic young men without occupations who are supported by parents and friends, whose useless lives are spent in pursuit of physical pleasure and money. The story deals with the experiences of one of these "Vitelloni" and the tragedy he brings into the life of a young girl.

"Fellini sees his people straight and whole, most warmly and naturally loves them and hates them and takes them as they are...And in Fellini's hands, people sometimes seem more important than the screen has made them appear for years; they seem large, somehow, even the lowliest and most hopelessly lost among them," the movie critic for Time magazine commented.

Vitelloni has won a number of international awards, including the Grand Prize at the Venice Film Festival, the French award for the best foreign film of the year, and the Italian award for the best film of the year.

The director, Fellini, also created La Strada, the opening film in this year's series.

The Italian film comes complete with English subtitles. Tickets may be purchased at the box office on Sunday evening or by mail to Box 276, Rollins College. Individual tickets for the film are 70 cents for the public and 50 cents for Rollins students and staff.

College Celebrates 74th Anniversary

Wednesday, Nov. 4, marks the 74th anniversary of Rollins College. Since the college was founded in 1885, with the backing of the Florida Congregational Association, close to 3000 people have been graduated from the school, and many others have been students here.

In recent years an all-college convocation has been held each November to commemorate the college's anniversary, but this year no convocation has been scheduled. Explains Dr. A. J. Hanna, vice-president of the college, "We're saving our fire for the next year, the 75th anniversary." The academic year 1960-61 will be highlighted by a special Diamond Jubilee celebration.

Although no special activities have been planned for the college, Hanna announces that in observance of the anniversary this year the Orange County Association of High School Teachers has been invited to tour the campus. Refreshments will be served for the visitors Wednesday in the Mills Memorial Library.

Other annual events held in honor of the college's history include Founder's Week with the Animated Magazine in late February and the Charter Day Alumni Reunion in April.

Dean Discusses Faith In Education

By CHARI PROBASCO
Sandspur Staff

Dean Schiller Scroggs addressed the After Chapel Club last Sunday on the topic of "Faith in Education."

Each member of the club received a copy of the booklet "College and Church" which contained an article by Dean Scroggs on the subject for discussion. The students were acquainted with the article and used it as a source of questions.

"Everyone builds his own private world of ideas," began the Dean. "The problem is getting the worlds together."

He explained that science has made difficult the unification of ideas with the modern method of thinking which requires a validation of every hypothesis. "It makes the student question religion by asking 'How do I know that this is true!'" stated Dean Scroggs.

To separate religious beliefs from beliefs which can be proved, Dean Scroggs suggested "compartmentalizing," since religious belief cannot be simply disregarded.

Dean Scroggs brought out the fact that only recently has man conceived of a "God with feeling." This is connected with the idea that the world is now a better place, and has improved over the centuries.

To sum up his remarks the Dean explained, "We know the truth with certainty when we are able to accept the convictions of the human race."

The students questioned Dean Scroggs on the theory that the world is improving. Bob Fleming asked, "What about the existence of war?"

"It is an idea and not people that we fight in wars," said the Dean. "There is nothing in the Bible which says that man should not fight for right."

"Your thesis is that man has become closer to God over the years. But has human nature actually improved?" asked Anita Tanner. The Dean said that this is hard to answer since there is such a fine line dividing the "inherited," and the "learned."

Dean Scroggs' final remark was his basic reason for accepting God. "The other alternative is purely unthinkable," he explained.

Cheerleaders Add Two More Members

Ann Berry, junior independent, and Celia Smith, senior Chi O, have been selected as the two new members of the cheerleading squad.

Seventeen girls entered the preliminary tryouts, and from these were chosen the five who competed in the finals last Thursday night.

"We were very pleased with the turnout we got," said Nancy Pfanner, cheerleader captain.

Jack Sutliff and George Elliott were also added to the squad earlier this month. Other returning members are Joan Brand, Jane Goodnow, and Ginny Willis.

Omar Khayyám writes a new jingle

Old Omar has come up with another corker of a couplet. Freely translated from the Persian:

It's what's up front that counts
If it hasn't got it there it hasn't got it

True, the lines don't scan. But what do you expect from a tent-maker—the perfect rhyme of "Winston tastes good like a cigarette should?"

We'll admit that something may have been lost in the translation. But when it comes to Winston, nothing is lost in the translation of rich, good tobacco taste. That's because up front of a pure white filter Winston has Filter-Blend—a special selection of mild flavorful tobaccos specially processed for filter smoking.

Winston is designed to taste good. Or, as Omar puts it:

The Moving Lighter lights;
and having lit,

Flicks off. Then you draw on IT,
And bit by bit smoking pleasure

mounts;
With Filter-Blend up front,
Winston's got what counts!

Rollins Players Start Season With Song; 'Guys And Dolls' To Open Nov. 9

By LINDA KIMPTON
Sandspur Staff

The Rollins Players are starting off the season with a song . . . or to be more specific, with songs. The first production in the Annie Russell Theatre this year will be the Broadway hit musical, Guys and Dolls, opening on Monday, Nov. 9, under the direction of Arthur Wagner of the Theatre Arts Dept., and Robert Hufstader, Director of the Conservatory.

Last year the first student night was introduced in Rollins theatre productions and met with great enthusiasm and success. "Opening night," comments the ART director, "I'd like to have a full house . . . and we should." Mr. Wagner also expressed a hope that on this night the social groups on campus would give the play a break by having any meetings finished before curtain time.

Tickets will be available on Monday, Nov. 2, at the Beanery during lunch and dinner, as well as at the ART box office from 3-5 during the day. Every student with a student association card is entitled to one free ticket.

The cast of 50, the costumes, the musical comedy plot with its guys, girls, lyrics, and gags is a big undertaking for a group with only 18 hours a week for rehearsals, but Wagner and Hufstader appear confident that all will go well.

The story of a New York gambler, Sky Masterson, (Chuck Morley), who falls in love with an anti-sin campaigning Salvation Army worker, Sgt. Sara Brown, (Mary Goodall), forms the basis for the musical comedy. This production has everything from the well-known music (directed by Mr. Hufstader) and choreography (directed by Barbara Zeigler) to an interesting and amusing plot.

The correlation of two major themes—the romance of the dice-throwing Masterson and the soul-saving Sgt. Brown, plus a long-lived romantic attraction in the form of a 14 year engagement between gambler Nathan Detroit (Steve Kane) and chorus girl Miss Adelaide (Sara Reed)—makes this a one-of-a-kind double header.

The part of Sky Masterson is done by Rollins senior, Chuck Morley. A member of the Rollins Players, Morley appeared in Life with Father in his sophomore year and last year in Pride and Prejudice, The Italian Straw Hat, and took the title role in Androcles and the Lion.

Mary Goodall, former member of the Rollins Singers and the Chapel Choir, portrays Sgt. Sara Brown. In her freshman year at Rollins, Mary appeared as Monica in The Medium.

Nathan Detroit is played by Steve Kane, junior. Last year Kane appeared in Teahouse of the August Moon, The Italian Straw Hat, The Three Sisters, Androcles and the Lion, and played the lead in the Southern Savoyard production of H.M.S. Pinafore.

Theatre Arts major Sara Reed took the lead two years ago in the production of Born Yesterday. Last year she played in The Three Sisters as well as directed an excerpt from J. D. Salinger's Catcher in the Rye. Sara is a Theta Alpha Phi and the secretary of the Rollins Players.

Claudia Melton, a Rollins sophomore this year, one of Damon Runyam's "Dolls" as well as the understudy for the part of Sgt. Brown, is a member of the Chapel Choir. She appeared last year in Sister Angelica and Pride and Prejudice.

Panhell, IFC Give Halloween Dance

A bermuda dance will be held at Pubsread Country Club, on Saturday, Oct. 31, from nine to 12 p.m., it was announced last week by Bunky Davis, chairman.

The Halloween dance is an annual affair sponsored by Panhellenic and Inter-Fraternity Councils to offer organized recreation for Rollins students on Halloween night. Until last year when the first such dance was held, that night was known as a time for dormitory raids and riotous actions by Rollins students causing much damage to facilities and occasionally to the students themselves.

"We hope that this year, as last year, boys will go to the girls' dorms to pick up dates—not parties," Davis adds.

Rollins Initiates Co-op Plan With Georgetown

Details of a co-operative program with the Foreign Service and Graduate Schools of Georgetown University, Washington, D.C., were announced to the Sandspur last week by the Dean's office and by Dr. Robert Plumb, assistant professor of history and co-ordinator of the program.

Under the plan a student will spend three years at Rollins majoring in history and government. He will be expected during this time to develop adequate backgrounds in English, economics, and geography and will study three years of a foreign language.

At the end of the third year the student, upon acceptance by Georgetown, may enter the Edmund A. Walsh School of Foreign Service for a year's professional study.

Upon completion of the fourth year the student will receive an A.B. degree from Rollins and will be eligible to enter the Graduate School at Georgetown for a further year's work in Foreign Service.

The program is designed to provide students with the advantages of pre-professional training in a small liberal arts school coupled with professional training in the oldest and largest foreign service school in the nation.

The Georgetown Foreign Service School opened a new building last October. Housed in the building is the Institute of Languages and Linguistics with individual booths and tapes of over 100 languages.

Dr. Plumb, who received his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Georgetown, pointed out that an important advantage of the Institute is the Washington location, with its access to government experts and persons connected with foreign embassies in Washington.

Any qualifying junior will be eligible to enter Georgetown under the co-operative program in the fall of 1960. Interested students should contact Dr. Plumb in Carnegie Hall.

In addition to the Georgetown program, Rollins has co-operative programs with the Amos Tuck School of Business Administration at Dartmouth, the School of Forestry of Duke University and with the medical schools of Duke, Tulane, and Vanderbilt.

Wagner To Speak On Musical Comedy

Mr. Wagner, head of the Theatre Arts Department, will give a lecture at the Annie Russell Theatre on Saturday, Nov. 7, at 2:30 p.m.

The lecture, entitled "American Musical Comedy," relates to the coming production of Guys and Dolls. Mr. Wagner may read or play selections from other musicals as examples; he will also discuss some of the production problems of Guys and Dolls.

Many people of the community turn out for these lectures, but Wagner feels that most students do not know about them, for the student turnout has been poor in the past. Explaining that the talk will last only an hour, he comments, "I sure would like to see more students there."

SANDSPUR EDITORIALS

PUBLICATION ELECTIONS NEED REAPPRAISAL

There is one aspect of the student government of Rollins College which we feel deserves careful study and perhaps a reappraisal—that is the current practice of electing a business manager for the yearbook and both a business manager and an advertising commissioner for the newspaper.

According to policy now in effect, these business positions on the publication staffs are filled in the spring of the year when Student Council officers are elected. Interested students must submit a letter of application to the Publications Union; the Union then approves the candidates, and the students decide the matter at the polls. To be eligible to run for Sandspur business manager, a student must have taken a course in accounting, but there are no other necessary qualifications for the business offices except that candidates must be sophomores or juniors.

While the publications have had many excellent business managers and advertising commissioners in the past, we fail to see why these staff positions should be elective. All other masthead positions are appointed by the editor and come under the jurisdiction of the editor; there seems to be no logical reason why there should be any difference in the method of selecting these staff members than in choosing assistant editors or circulation managers. If it is felt that these positions carry enough responsibility that there should be some extra check on how they are selected, the students appointed by the editor could be approved by the Publications Union, or interested students could submit letters of application to the Union and that group could make the final decision.

Certainly, these business positions on the two publications are not political offices. Advertising commissioners and business managers can wisely be selected only on their ability to sell ads and to keep books, but whether or not a candidate has these qualifications is not readily obvious to the student at the polls; as it is now, the voter must make the decision, but he does not have the first hand knowledge necessary to make that decision.

Our student publications, in addition to being workshops in journalism, are small business enterprises, and, as such, they are run most efficiently when the person in charge—in this case the editor—has a certain amount of control over all of the publication's functions.

For these reasons, we feel that elections for these business positions should be discontinued and that these offices should be chosen by and be directly responsible to either the publication editors or the Publications Union.

A PERFECT DAY

By FROST

We are usually routed out of bed by the jarring sound of our trusty alarm clock; however, this morning, sweet music from the hi-fi of our suitemate drifted in through the door, and we were awakened most pleasantly. Donning clothes, we trundled to breakfast. Surprise! The eggs had been cooked for at least four minutes past that glutinous embryonic stage at which they are usually presented, and the coffee more than faintly resembled.....coffee. At A-period, a scrawled note upon the blackboard notified us that class was to be called off. Our post-office box was spilling over with mail at 9:30, and the jukebox in the Center had abandoned rock 'n' roll in favor of Rimsky-Korsakoff.

So it went all day. WPRK was operating on AM, and as we turned on the news, we heard that Khrushchev had agreed on complete disarmament and a unified Germany. Upon reaching the Winter Park Bank, we found that our small pittance of a balance had been increased substantially by a kindly donation from home. The evening went splendidly. It had not rained all day, and the stars were breaking through the twilight dusk. The sacrificial offering at Beans was roast beef, and, as we cut into it, there issued forth no protesting "moo." Homework was negligible, and so we sacked out early. While dropping off to Sleepsville, however, we heard a most peculiar noise. It was a sound akin to the shattering shriek of.....an alarm clock. Then we woke up for good.

By Deb n' Air

This week Deb n' Air have the pleasure of passing on to you a selection written by a sorority member who, as you will see, must remain anonymous. In printing a guest contribution we are merely following our great leader, the editor of this attempt at journalism. If she can have guest editorials, then we, by Jove, can have guest literary works. Should you have an inspiration you think worthy of this column, send it to the feature editors. We'll pick it up from there and give it a tumble.

"Arguments are to be avoided," quipped that master quipster Oscar Wilde. "They are always vulgar and often convincing."

This may be a sane observation but it still leaves out the chief reason. Billy Phelps, of Yale fame, disliked controversy because it usually leads nowhere. ## Labor Act Source Of Contention

By PROF. FLORENCE PETERSON

(Written for the Sandspur)

The "Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959" is the first major labor legislation since the passage of the Taft-Hartley Act in 1947. The new law represents a hotly contested compromise among numerous bills which were introduced in both houses of Congress, all of which were incited by the McClellan Committee disclosures of corruption and racketeering by certain union officers and by some employers in collusion with union officers.

Two years ago the AFL-CIO expelled half a dozen unions because of their officers' dishonest practices, but expulsion from the parent organization did not always result in a clean-up, especially in the case of the powerful Teamsters' union. Realizing this the AFL-CIO, although traditionally opposed to government intervention in internal union affairs, actively supported proposed legislation which would be anti-racketeering but would not, as they expressed it, "destroy the ability of honest unions to do an effective job to improve wages and working conditions."

The bone of contention during the Congressional debates, therefore, was not over proposals related to corrupt practices but over other matters concerning employer-union relations which various groups wanted to include in the new law. Most, but not all, of these latter were eliminated in the law as finally enacted.

The anti-corruption provisions of the new law specify that all unions must submit annual financial reports to the Secretary of Labor showing receipts, loans and disbursements, including officers' salaries when more than $10,000; union officers must report any gifts received from employers and any stock purchased by them in companies with which the union deals; employers must report any gifts made to union officers and all expenditures (other than salaries of regular employees) used to influence union members; union officers must be elected by secret ballot at least every three years and must be bonded upon taking office; no person may hold a union office who, within the preceding five years, has been a member of the Communist Party or has been convicted of a crime.

Provisions not related to corruption place a ban on secondary picketing and restrict organizational picketing; give to the states the right to intervene in labor disputes where the National Labor Relations Board refuses to enter; allow construction unions and employers to negotiate contracts providing for the union shop except in states where such contracts are illegal; permit agreements in both the construction and the garment industries which require that subcontract work be done by unionized firms.

Employers are much disappointed with this watered-down version of the original Landrum-Griffin bill which had contained many more restrictions against unions. Organized labor is vigorously opposed to the new restrictions on picketing which it feels will seriously affect the unions' ability to extend their membership into new areas. The constitutionality of these picketing provisions as applied to particular situations will undoubtedly be contested in the courts.

The anti-corruption features of the Act will serve to deter racketeering and corruption in employer-union relations and dishonesty among union officers, but only the future will tell what effect the law will have on the chief offender, the Teamsters' union. Pres. James C. Hoffa has engaged a battery of smart lawyers who say they are finding many loopholes by which the intention of the law can be circumvented—or at least enforcement can be delayed through prolonged litigation.

Not that it's unusual that Jim Brown dates, but this is carrying it too far! Just what seems to be the matter, Jim? Give Halibut a break.

Man, like this party was so far out it was in! All the local "Beats" drifted to the Delta Chi pad and sipped Espresso while Myrna Mathis gave a real earthy performance reading poetry. From our vantage point, ideally situated near the Espresso pots, we noticed most of the girls were real, including one silver-haired "mummy." Did you learn that beard-growing technique in Greenwich Village, Jackson?

The campus thief got nine months. The bail was set at $1100; obviously the poor guy didn't have it. Thanks to Rich, Dan, and Clay for being our heroes.

After their serenade last week, the Snakes were greeted by a friendly delegation of Clubbers; this resulted in a near rumble. Mrs. Belton was taking bets on the winner. Incidentally, this was Bruce's third serenade at the Pi Phi house; what's the big attraction?

In spite of Chief Buchanan's warning, many Clubbers really hung one on last week what with a beer party Saturday night and Sunday. The party more or less ended when the keg ran out at 9:30. It's a certainty that the Chi O's and the Kappas were a great aid in polishing off the beer.

All the freshmen candidates this year are really counting on the girl's votes; in fact, Bob Carlson has been seen carrying trays in the Beanery and lighting girls' cigarettes. "Sam" Palmer is showing loyalty by making Pete Kellogg's posters.

Old Rollins students never die; they just return here to party. The campus was crowded this week. Andy Anderson returned to see the Chi O's or Phil; we don't know which. Sonny came back in the nick of time to give the new pledges lessons in drinking. Bill Dunnill is beginning to look like he's doing graduate work here. Also seen were Bev Taylor and Carolyn Beer.

Noisy Fans, Publicity Confusion Upset Chapel, Theatre Routine

ART's first "pre-professional" production of the year is in chaotic rehearsal. What with 50 odd people working on the show, rehearsals for different phases of the show have been at opposite ends of the campus....You can always spot a cast member by the muscles in his legs....

We guess that the rainy season's heat and humidity finally got the better of Dean Darrah...he became a bit upset by the whirl of the fans near the altar...an obliging choir member rushed to assist!

Bach choir is slated to sing "Mozart's Requiem" for their February festival...oh, well....

Also, the Chapel Choir plans another choral vespers in the spring of this year.

Two weeks ago, some Guys and Dolls principals, accompanied by Messrs. Hufstader and Wagner (have motorcycle, will travel), sang for the Lions of Orlando.

Their one small problem was that they arrived at the wrong luncheon....just as they were about to sit down to someone else's luncheon, they discovered their mistake and made a hurried retreat to the Lions!

Maybe the other group will invite them back....

If there is one person who thinks music is in the air, he's Mr. Hufstader as he rushes from Bach Choir to Guys and Dolls to Chapel Choir and back again... anyone for a throat lozenge? ???

Don't be surprised if you hear such sounds as "Follow the Fold" and other ditties wafting over the night air. It's just the Salvation Army group out "gathering recruits"....

After 7-Day Pursuit, Philosophy Major Bob Rauch Consents To 'Spur Interview

By JUDY CARL
Sandspur Staff

After some gentle persuasion (specifically, a seven-day pursuit, accompanied by threats to life, limb, and highly-valued position as associate news editor of the Sandspur) modest senior Bob Rauch finally succumbed to the polite interrogation of a somewhat frazzled 'Spur reporter.

However, once Bob had agreed to talk, he philosophized contentedly on various subjects from rock 'n roll at Rollins to philosophical phenomena.

Bob's interesting and profound opinions on such a variety of subjects may be credited to two things: (1) his staying awake the night before the interview to think of topics so that he wouldn't have to talk about himself; or (2) his major being philosophy. As for his major, Bob explains, "I began just because I liked it, but my reasons for continuing have changed.

"Philosophy cuts across other areas of study and investigates some very important problems which students of these other subjects, because of their high degree of specialization, ignore. The way philosophy handles problems gives it great power. In its abstractness it stands in relation to other subjects as mathematics stands to science," the Indie men's Student Council representative comments.

One of his more serious pastimes is music. Presently Bob is president of the Chapel Choir, in which he has participated since the beginning of his freshman year. A piano student for three years, Bob has also served in the capacity of "official music reporter" for the 'Spur.

"I'm always amazed, when sitting in the Center, at the interest of so many Rollins students in rock 'n roll. One of the best recent developments in popular music is the appearance of an idiom expressive of teen-age years, but I wonder if the emotions of college students should not have deepened and broadened beyond those expressed in current popular songs."

Switching from music to the college, Bob continued, "it seems to me that the Rollins of 1959-60 is not quite the same school it was four years ago.

"Rollins has lost much of its 'Southern charm' and has begun to place more emphasis on the academic performance of students, as evidenced by this year's Orientation Program, the recognition of academic superiority through the honors convocations, and the generally higher demands of the school.

"Rollins has literally been invaded by the North and its traditional efficiency. A great deal of the former spontaneity has been lost; the school is fast becoming thoroughly respectable and conventional."

The smallness of Rollins, Bob believes, is beneficial "because the very close contacts with teachers and students allow us to share the knowledge and experiences of both. It forces us to be more thoughtful and perhaps more responsible toward others, although it sometimes forces us to be less sincere and truthful with ourselves.

"In a school where almost everyone knows you and where there are such close, constant contacts, you are almost forced to be a part of others' actions and thinking, sometimes to the sacrifice of your own."

Bob thinks that Florida living is "in a sense, very tempting, luxurious and catching. But, the thing I miss most about the North," he explains, "are the seasons. Natives have tried to convince me that Florida has seasons, but unsuccessfully."

50 Co-Eds Attend Community Service

Over 50 Rollins co-eds were present at the first meeting of the Community Service Club, held Wednesday, Oct. 21. The Club is sponsored by the Knowles Memorial Chapel.

A committee was chosen to make Halloween favors for the patients of the Winter Park Hospital and the Florida Sanitarium. A number of girls offered to help the Social Committee decorate for all-college dances. Many of the Community Service girls will also participate in the annual "Buddy Poppy" sale, sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, which will be held on Saturday, Nov. 7. In addition, Community Service Club sponsors the All-College movies.

Many other projects are also planned for this year. "And this is only the beginning," says president Linda Wolowitz. "We're going to help and have fun doing it!"

37 Upperclassmen, 17 Freshmen Qualify For Fall Honors Program

The 37 upperclass students who have earned an overall average of 7.0 and the 17 freshmen admitted to Rollins with Honors at Entrance are eligible to take part this term in the Honors Program.

Participation in this program may lead to graduation with honors if a sufficiently high academic average is maintained. An average of 7.5 is necessary for a student to be considered by the Honors Committee for graduation with distinction, 7.8 for graduation with high distinction, and 8.1 for graduation with highest distinction.

Freshmen, sophomores, and juniors may obtain one to three hours credit per term for independent reading.

In the senior year, candidates for graduation with honors do a research project or paper.

This program, under the direction of Dr. Alex Waite, chairman of the Honors Committee, Prof. Bernice Shor, and Dr. Geneva Drinkwater, is now in its second year.

Students qualified to participate in the Honors Program this term are:

Washington Semester Deadline Named

Applications are now being accepted from students who wish to study in the nation's capital under the Washington Semester Plan. Any Junior is eligible to participate, although preference may be given to those who have completed a course in government.

Representatives of Rollins College will be selected by the Faculty Honors Committee on the basis of scholarship, character, and interest in government.

Under the plan, those selected will join representatives of 70 other small colleges in four and a half months study of political and international affairs at the American University in Washington, D.C. The plan is to acquaint these students with the functions of government by a three-part program:

1. Each student will have the opportunity to talk with important people connected with the government.
2. Each student, aided by an adviser, does a research project on some subject concerning the government.
3. Each takes an additional nine semester hours in courses offered by the University.

The students selected will attend the spring semester at the American University, beginning in early February, and will live in campus dormitories. Travel expenses are the only cost to the student.

Last year, Celia Salter, Phi Mu, and Anita Tanner, Theta, were selected to represent Rollins in the Washington Semester plan. Rollins has been a part of this program since 1953.

Tars Host Three During Baseball Week In March

Rollins baseball coach Joe Justice recently announced that the 1960 Tars will play host to Ohio State University, Amherst College, and the University of South Carolina during the Rollins 1960 Baseball Week held through the week of March 21st.

Ohio State is a regular at the Tars baseball week. Coach Marty Karow's boys have always been among the toughest competition which Rollins has had to play year after year.

Last year Ohio State won the top position at the end of the baseball week, but Rollins did not let them go until the Tars had defeated them once.

Amherst is a new member of the Baseball Week teams. Amherst has always been on the Tars schedule, but this will mark the first time that the Massachusetts college will stay in Winter Park for a week.

South Carolina is also a newcomer to the Rollins Week. Little is known as to the past performances of this squad, but they are expected to give Justice's boys a better workout than N.Y.U., the team whose place they are taking.

Rollins will open the week's action with a double-header on Monday against Ohio State and Amherst. The rest of the week the Tars will see action once a day as the four teams plan to play two games a day throughout the week.

Hoopsters Prepare For Rugged 18 Game Schedule

This year's Rollins basketball team will face a rugged 18-game schedule which will include ten Florida Intercollegiate Conference games.

The only new team to be added to the Tar cagers' schedule is Transylvania College, Lexington, Ky. Non-conference games will include Mercer University, two games; Georgia Teachers, two games; and a single game against Florida State University.

Coach Dan Nyimicz has been pleased with the showing of his prospective team to date; however, he makes no bones that his 1959-60 squad will suffer from the lack of height.

In FIC competition Rollins will be out to improve on last year's fifth place finish in the six-team league. Last year's winner was the University of Miami, and Stetson Univ. was a close second. These two teams are again expected to be the teams to beat.

Nyimicz is building his '59-'60 squad around his four returning lettermen: Dick Bishop, Ralph Tanchuck, Bob Griffith, and Claude Crook, but he is looking towards the freshmen class for his reserve strength.

The 1959-60 schedule is as follows:

Dec. 1—University of Miami, Coral Gables
Dec. 4—C. I. T., Lakeland
Dec. 5—C. I. T., Lakeland
Dec. 8—Jacksonville U., Jacksonville
Dec. 10—Stetson, Rollins
Jan. 8—Transylvania, Rollins
Jan. 13—Florida Southern, Rollins
Jan. 15—Mercer University, Rollins
Jan. 18—Georgia Teachers, Rollins
Jan. 21—Tampa, Tampa
Jan. 23—Jacksonville U., Rollins
Feb. 2—University of Miami, Rollins
Feb. 5—Mercer University, Macon, Ga.
Feb. 6—Georgia Teachers, Collegeboro, Ga.
Feb. 11—Florida State U., Tallahassee
Feb. 13—Tampa, Rollins
Feb. 16—Stetson, Deland
Feb. 20—Florida Southern, Lakeland

One of the outstanding players for the University of Florida Soccer Club team which defeated the Tars last Saturday at Gainesville was Emilio Lebolo, a former Tar booter.

Lebolo, a Colombian, spent three years at Rollins and was a member of the Tars soccer team when the sport was started here.

Delta Chi Trounces Lambda Chi In Men's IM Softball Action

The men's intramural softball league finally got into full awing this week, having outlasted the October showers. In what could prove to be one of the big upsets of the season, Delta Chi romped over Lambda Chi, 16-7 in the only game played last Tuesday.

The inspired Delts scored six runs before a man was retired in the first inning and ended the inning with seven runs off the combined deliveries of John Stuts and Nat Mendell.

Jack Bofinger hurled all the way for the Delts, and he proved to be mighty stingy with the base hits in the clutch. This was Lambda Chi's second defeat of the young season. They opened the year losing to defending champions X Club.

In other action played this week the Indies up-ended Sigma Nu, 12-2 as hurler Bell pitched one of the best games of the season. Carl Mutter provided the Independents with all the runs they needed when he banged a bases-loaded homer in the third inning.

During last week's action, X Club moved another notch closer to winning the first half as they defeated Delta Chi, 5-3, in one of the better-played games.

During Friday's action, the Faculty suffered their first defeat of the year at the hands of Lambda Chi. The teachers led by one point during the contest, but Lambda Chi proved too persistent.

In Friday's other games, Sigma Nu won its first game of the season trouncing Kappa Alpha, 19-6. The Snakes' winning pitcher was Winky Williams; both teams opened up in the first inning with a combination of 14 runs.

Time Out

Rollins Basketball Presents Unique Problems As Tars Ready For Season

By BOB STEWART

With the start of the Rollins College basketball season just four short weeks away, I feel that it is necessary that I give an introduction, or rather an explanation, to those members of the Rollins family who are not acquainted with the Tar hoopsters and the circumstances under which they play.

The last time that Rollins had a winning basketball team was 1954-55. That year the Tar cagers managed to compile a 14-12 record. The year before, the Tars had their best season under coach Dan Nyimicz as they finished their 29 game schedule with a record of 17 triumphs.

In other words, Coach Nyimicz, who is entering his seventh year as the hoopsters' mentor, has had a losing record for the past four seasons. Why doesn't Rollins win basketball games, and what are the chances of the Tars producing a winning team this year? These are the natural questions which stem from the above facts.

Although Dan Nyimicz has a six-year record of 62 wins and 83 defeats, I would personally like to give him a vote of confidence. I cannot see how Adolph Rupp, the Kentucky genius, could have done any better.

Coach Nyimicz has been faced with enough problems while coaching at Rollins to merit his hanging the college in effigy—it's usually the other way around, but not at Rollins.

No college team can have a winning season unless it has two essential ingredients: the material to start with, and a reasonable amount of say-so in the making up of a schedule.

Unfortunately for Dan Nyimicz, he and Rollins have failed in both these categories. Rollins cannot get the type of material to match the majority of teams it competes with, and the Tars are rendered helpless when it comes time to draw up a schedule.

However, there are obvious reasons why Rollins cannot match other schools in these two phases of athletic life.

First of all, Rollins cannot offer an athletic scholarship to a prospective student if his parents are in a financial position to send their son to college.

This means that if a high school star from New Jersey, 6'9", makes the all-state team and wants to attend Rollins, but his parents have access to a reasonable amount of money, the college cannot offer the boy a scholarship. Final result—even if the outstanding boy wants to bring his basketball talents to Winter Park, the college would not give him a scholarship.

How can Coach Nyimicz fight this? If you have the answer please let Dan and me in on it.

As far as scheduling goes, it is an undated, but extremely valuable, phase of the makeup of the game. In this department Rollins is so deficient that I don't believe there is another college in the South that can match the Tars in number of problems faced.

First of all, Rollins does not have a home court. The Tars this year will play in the Winter Park gym and at the Orlando Air Force Base. Last year the Tars played some games at the Davis Armory, and the year before Rollins played on the Edgewater High School court.

Besides being a team without a home floor, Rollins does not receive enough cooperation from the visiting colleges. The schools make temper reached the boiling point.

During the first quarter Southern scored the only goal, but the Tars came back with Ed Leal and Ellis Terzopoulos scoring goals. The halftime score read 2-1 with the Tar booters on top.

During the third quarter of the rainy game, Southern, last year's Florida Intercollegiate Conference soccer champs, scored two goals to regain their first quarter lead.

In the fourth period, Chick Guerrero booted the ball past the Southern goalie for the final score of the game. At the completion of the regular time there was a ten minute overtime, but it did not prove profitable to either squad.

Rollins did not play as well as was expected due to the roughness of the game. At the very end of the overtime period Tibor Menyhart was kicked in the knee and suffered from a broken cartilage. He will be out for the remainder of the season and his presence will be sorely missed. Also injured during the battle was Guerrero. He missed the Florida game.

traveling plans, and they come South. If Rollins happens to have a free spot, and if Rollins happens to be able to find a court on which to play, then there is a possibility of the game's being played.

Dan Nyimicz has worked diligently at solving both problems. He is currently trying to arrange a schedule as far ahead as the 1963-64 season, and he does continue to go all out in an effort to give Rollins material for a winning basketball team.

This may seem like a trivial matter to some readers, but to Dan Nyimicz, his players, and the interested fans this is a problem which needs solving.

The players whom Rollins has are good ball players. It's just that the Tars have to compete with colleges which take a more liberal view on athletic recruiting, and the end result is that Rollins loses basketball games.

Last year the Tar cagers had lost seven games before they ever played a home game. This year they play their first four games away from home before opposing Stetson on Dec. 10, at the Winter Park gym.

As for the chances for the Tars having their first winning season in the past five years, the outlook is not the brightest. The Tars have only four returning lettermen and must count heavily on the freshmen players.

I would not be surprised if Dick Bishop sets all kinds of scoring records this year, nor would I find it unusual if Ralph Tanchuck started to show shades of Dick Bezemer, the Tars NAIA All-American two seasons ago.

If Nyimicz can come up with some prospects to back Bishop, Tanchuck, Bob Griffith, and Claude Crook, then Rollins will make its presence felt in the Florida Intercollegiate Conference, where the team finished with a 3-7 record last year.
