Newly-Elected Class Presidents

Council Adjourned Early Because Of Absences

With six of the 17 representatives absent, Student Council held its shortest meeting of the year Tuesday evening. After 15 minutes, the session was adjourned because not enough representatives were present to form the necessary two thirds quorum.

Due to the lack of a quorum, several issues that had been brought up in the Council meeting the previous week could not be voted upon Tuesday night and have been postponed until next week's session.

One of these issues concerns the bringing of Dave Brubeck to the Rollins campus sometime in February for a concert. Through a Southern association of collegiate student governments, Brubeck and his band may be obtained by a college for the fee of $1600.

The proposal brought to Council was that tickets at the price of 50 cents be sold to students for the performance with the rest of the expense being paid for out of Student Association funds.

Groups have been asked to discuss the suggestion and report whether or not enough of their members want Brubeck's performance at the college to justify the expense.

Another matter which had been scheduled for discussion at Tuesday's meeting concerns bermuda shorts in the Beanery. The question was raised in Council whether the students might prefer being allowed to wear bermudas to supper on Friday night rather than on Sunday.

Representatives were to find out from their groups whether students felt that bermudas should be allowed on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday evenings or just on Saturday and Sunday as at present.

Faculty Approves MIT Co-op Plan

At its last meeting, the faculty approved a new cooperative program between Rollins and M. I. T. Now Rollins students may go here for three years and then go on to M. I. T. for two more years; at the end of the five years the student receives a B. S. degree from Rollins and a Bachelor of Engineering from M. I. T.

Prior to the faculty meeting, Rollins had received permission from the Dean of M. I. T. to submit the cooperative program for approval here. More details of the plan will be announced later.

Dr. Schiller Scroggs, dean of the college, stresses that this plan, as well as all of Rollins other cooperative programs, is not automatic. They are selective programs, and only students who have maintained a sound academic record may participate.

Fiesta Heads Name Committee Chairmen

Fiesta co-chairmen John Looby and Stan Moresse have announced the names of the committee chairmen who will work with them in organizing and planning Fiesta, 1959.

The co-chairmen commented in making the selections that "last year's Fiesta is going to be hard to top, but with the help of our committee heads we hope to do so."

Moresse and Looby have followed the policy of using on the committees as many students as possible out of those who applied.

Named to help Moresse and Looby in administrative work is Ann McCarthy, secretary. The business manager for the spring event has not yet been chosen.

Beth Halperin, secretary of last year's Fiesta, will serve as carnival chairman. Miss Halperin will be in charge of setting up and running the midway, the major money-making part of Fiesta.

The major social event of the weekend will be handled by Sid Burt, chairman of the Fiesta dance. Miss Burt, who headed the social event last year, hopes to bring another big name band to the school again this year for the dance. Buddy Morrow and his orchestra drew large crowds to the Fiesta dance last year.

As last year, Sue Lewis will again handle the dance decorations.

Phil Scott and Andrea Avery will be in charge of both the Miss Rollins contest and the King and Queen Contest. The Miss Rollins contest, a beauty competition, will be held for the third consecutive year while the King and Queen contest again appears as a traditional part of Fiesta.

Nancy Pfanner will work under Scott and Miss Avery is planning and supervising the fashion show.

Heading the publicity committee will be three experienced students. Jay Banker, chairman, gained experience in advertising this summer. Assisting him will be Barbara Walker who did publicity this summer for the movie, Gigi and Mary Whitman, who served as chairman of the fashion show for the past two years and did public relations work in New York during the summer.

Jim Swann will be in charge of all art work for the Fiesta booklet.

Bruce Aufhammer will be in charge of floats for the second consecutive year. Floats were reintroduced into the Fiesta activities last year under Aufham-

Looby

Moresse

mer's supervision.

Named to arrange all parade plans is Linda Qualla. Miss Qualla, as parade chairman, will handle this traditional feature of Fiesta which proved so successful last year.

Work on the Fiesta program, one of the major events of the school year, will begin this term with the committee chairmen making plans for the various events.

Last year's Fiesta under the supervision of Lloyd Hoskins and Toni Perzia was the most successful in the school's history with a profit of approximately $2800. Profits from the event are given in the form of scholarships to students.

Plans For Fieldhouse Get Underway

By JOAN SPAULDING
Sandspur Staff

A much-needed improvement which has been discussed for years is rapidly becoming a reality—Rollins own fieldhouse.

Mr. Ray Kirk, Executive Director of Rollins Alumni Inc., announced this week that definite plans for this alumni project would get underway next week with the arrival of the National Chairman, Henry S. Lauterbach, class of '37, President of the Star-Right Manufacturing Company of Wisconsin, who will meet with Kirk.

Formal announcement of the alumni's plans to raise funds for the fieldhouse was made by Pres. Hugh F. McKean at the alumni reunion banquet last April 25th. The announcement was made as part of the tribute being paid to Arthur D. Enyart, Pean Emeritus of Men, after whom the fieldhouse will be named.

The alumni organization began thinking of raising funds for the fieldhouse as its Diamond Jubilee project in November, 1958. Having studied the various needs of the college which are included in the Diamond Jubilee goals, the alumni chose the fieldhouse project, believing that it would serve the entire campus.

The purposes and functions of the fieldhouse and the facilities necessary to fulfill these functions were also discussed in April by a committee composed of alumni, student faculty, administration and trustee representation.

The Arthur D. Enyart fieldhouse will serve several purposes. The alumni hope that all sports activities, including inter-collegiate basketball, physical education classes and intramural activities will be accommodated.

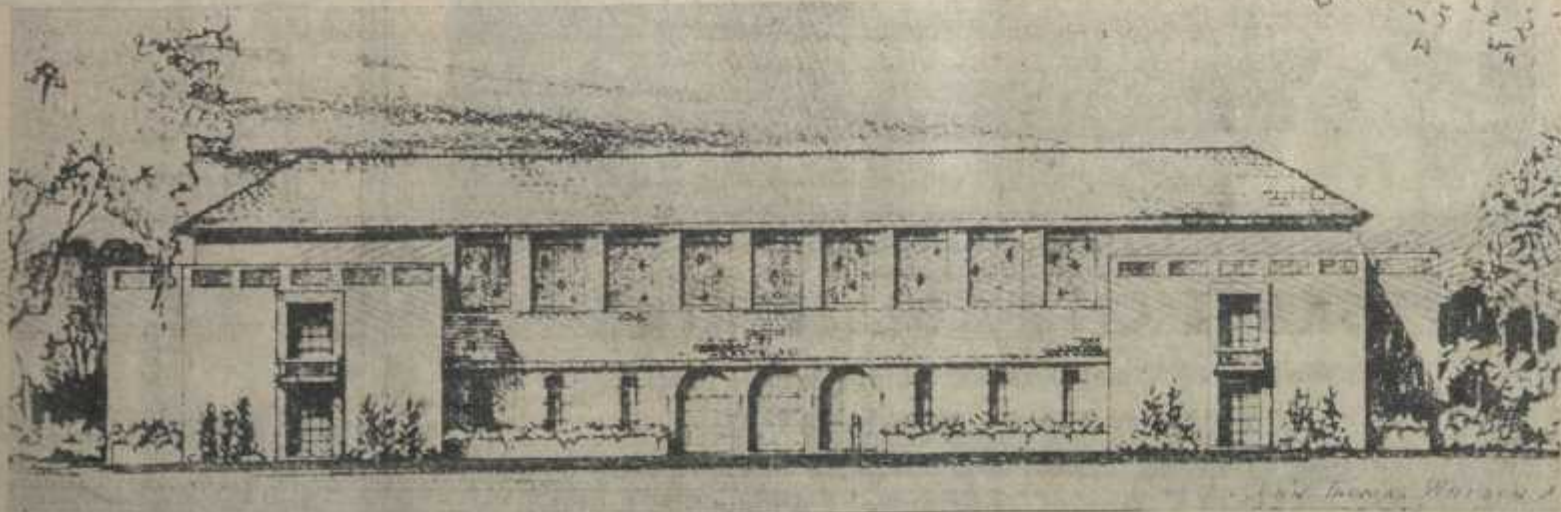

Plans include auditorium uses, the gymnasium, which will seat about 2,500, and ample parking space. The fieldhouse may also be used for such events as the Animated Magazine.

Although a professional college planner has been consulted, no definite location for the facilities has been chosen. The alumni feel that it would be most useful on, or adjacent to, the campus.

On April 23rd the alumni took a complete proposal of their plans to the trustees who assured them of their backing.

This being the first major gift campaign of the alumni association, the Alumni Board plans to contact former Rollins students throughout the country and abroad asking for their support.

Said Kirk, "We feel confident that we can do it."

LOCAL ARCHITECT John Thomas Vatsen has prepared this preliminary sketch of the proposed Rollins fieldhouse. The exact location of the building has not as yet been determined, but plans are now underway for raising funds for constructing the fieldhouse.

Woodrow Wilson Professors Nominate 7 Students For Annual Fellowship Competition

Seven Rollins students have been nominated by their major professors for Woodrow Wilson fellowships, Dr. Robert Morgenroth, campus representative for the national fellowship program, announced last week.

Students named as candidates for the fellowships are Joan Brand, Walter Cain, Dan Laurent, Wally Ramsey, Bob Rauch, Gordon Struble, and Debbie Williams.

Organized for the purpose of encouraging outstanding college students to consider a career in college teaching, the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation offers a stipend of $1500 plus tuition and fees for the first year of graduate study.

To be eligible to apply for a fellowship, a student must be nominated by one of his professors. A regional committee reviews the credentials of the candidates and then interviews those applicants which it finds most promising. A limited number of candidates from each region in the United States is then recommended by the committee to the national headquarters of the foundation.

Fellowships are awarded to students interested in college teaching in the fields of humanities and social sciences, but candidates from the natural sciences will also be considered in exceptional cases.

Details Announced For Formal Rush

Women's formal rush officially starts Tuesday, Nov. 17. There will be one last open house on that afternoon from 4:00 to 5:30.

At 5:30, immediately after the open house, silence goes into effect. This means that there will be no communication between sorority women and those going through rush.

Silence will last until the distribution of bids on Saturday, Nov. 21.

There will be two formal rush parties on Wednesday night, Nov. 18. These will last from 7:00 to 8:00 and from 8:30 to 9:30. On Thursday there will also be two formal parties—lasting from 6:30 to 7:45 and from 8:15 to 9:30. The last formal party will be Friday night Nov. 20, from 8:00 to 9:30, after which the entering women will return to Elizabeth Hall where they will be given their preferential slips. Bids will be distributed at 1:30 on Saturday afternoon.

As a few last words for the entering women, Valerie Greene, Panhell president, advises, "Be sure that the sorority you select is your own choice. Don't be influenced by your best friend or your date—remember you'll be living with the girls in that group for the rest of your years at Rollins."

For the past four years, Rollins has had a Woodrow Wilson winner in the fellowship competition. In 1956 Shirley Miller won one of the awards; in 1957, Kay Klein; and in 1958, Charles Scudder. Last year, when the program was opened to juniors on an experimental basis, Phyllis Zatlun was one of three juniors in this region to be awarded one of the fellowships.

Musical Comedy, Debate On Agenda For Open House

"Politics Into the 21st Century" will be the theme of the annual Open House given by the Center for Practical Politics. Two thousand and engraved invitations have been issued for this event which will be held on Nov. 18 in Carnegie Hall from 3:00 to 9:00 p.m.

The Center will provide a program throughout the day. An original musical comedy entitled "Politics is 'Won' by One" will be presented at 2:30 and 8:30. At 4:00 p.m. Jerry Carter, Democratic national committeeman from Tallahassee, will debate Leland Hyzer, Miami attorney and Republican candidate for United States senator, on the subject of "The Two Party System in Florida."

At 8:00 p.m., a discussion forum will be presented on the subject of "Qualities We Want in Our Political Leaders." Members of the panel will be John Pennekamp, associate editor of the Miami Herald; Lynn Brudon, editorial cartoonist of the Orlando Sentinel; Mario Plerene, political columnist of the independent Cuban newspaper, El Mundo; and Dean E. R. Latty, head of the Duke University School of Law.

Exhibits will be on display showing the kind of world politics must be prepared to deal with in the year 2000.

Rollins Study Tour Of Cuba Highlighted By Near Arrest, Glimpse Of Castro

A free trip through Havana's infamous prison, crowds cheering Castro riding a city bus, and a view of a U.S. cattle ranch in Camaguey added to the excitement of the Advanced Study Group's recent annual trip to revolution-torn Cuba.

The travelers from the Rollins Center for Practical Politics arrived in Havana by plane on Oct. 28 for a five-day study of Cuba's revolutionary government in action.

The group included Dr. Paul Douglass, professor of government; Miss Alice McMahon, director of Rollins Center for Practical Politics; and students Betsy Harshaw, Bill Moulton, Art McGonigle, Sally McCutchen, Jamie Magirl and Demetrios Contasoloutsos, student-leader.

For Contasoloutsos and Dr. Douglass, their introduction to a revolutionary government in "action" began at the airport where the "immigration vigilante police" detained the Greek student for lack of a visa.

A four hour "guided" tour of the prison for anti-Castro politicians, Cabana, ensued until their release was obtained from an Havana attorney, a personal friend of Douglass. The two were treated well by guards and officials; however, "They were pretty firm," Douglass said.

The five day seminar opened in the Havana law library of Nunez Mesta and Machado, leading attorneys in Cuba. Later orientation studies were conducted by Mrs. R. Hart Phillips, chief of the New York Times Bureau in Cuba.

In meetings with national Cuban officials, student leaders at the University of Havana and members of the editorial boards of several Cuban newspapers, the group explored the progress of the revolution, land reform, youth programs and the economic consequences of the Castro leadership.

Although Castro had staged his giant rally two days before the arrival of the Rollins party, members said that they had experienced no anti-American feeling while in the city.

Douglass said that although Communism, now outlawed in Cuba, has made inroads among the peasant classes, he felt that the revolution is more nationalistic than Communist inspired at the present time.

"The Cuban people like us as a nation," Douglass said. "They just hate our government and press."

Rollins To Host Secretaries' Meet

The Florida Division of the National Secretaries' Association will meet at Rollins tomorrow for the purpose of continuing its Liberal Arts Institute, which also met here last year. Mrs. Anne Ramsey, secretary to Pres. Hugh McKean, is chairman of this program, which has been developed to broaden the knowledge of liberal arts within the Association.

Speakers for the program, which will begin at 10:00 a.m. in the Annie Russell Theatre, will include Nina Oliver Dean, associate professor of English, who will speak on the topic, "What Can Literature Do for You?"; Arthur Wagner, assistant professor of Theatre Arts at Rollins, who will discuss "American Musical Comedy"; and Pres. McKean, whose talk will be "What is Modern Art?"

Problems Of Young People Treated In Sunday Film Series Offering

A Swedish film, The Time of Desire, is next on the agenda of the Famous Series at Rollins College. Scheduled for Sunday evening, Nov. 15, the movie will be shown at 6:30 and 8:45 in the Fred Stone Theater.

The Time of Desire, one reviewer explains, is the story of two sensitive young women living in a man's world, and of their first experience with love.

Their mother died when they were very young, and they are being raised by their father, a horse dealer in a small Swedish village. They isolate themselves from their father's world of physical pleasure, but into their private existence comes a young man who seduces one of the girls.

The shock of this experience serves to break the bond between the sisters, but after mature attempts at understanding the problems and each other, the entire family is brought together.

Written by Arthur Lindquist and directed by Egil Holmsen, the film is the result of work by two men who are well known in Sweden for their concern with young people and their problems of adjustment.

A local honorary organization, the society recognizes outstanding science majors in their junior and senior years and includes the members of the science faculty. As a result of the recent tapping, there are now 12 students in the honorary.

Zeta Alpha Epsilon Honors Outstanding Science Majors, New Faculty Members

On Friday afternoon, Oct. 30, Zeta Alpha Epsilon, Rollins scientific honorary fraternity, sponsored a discussion hour for science students on "The Problems and Philosophy of an Education in Science," during which they tapped 10 outstanding science majors and two new members of the faculty for membership in the organization.

Zeta Alpha Epsilon, which was established at Rollins more than 20 years ago, grants membership to outstanding junior and senior science students and to the science department faculty, and promotes a broadened interest in science on the campus.

To be eligible for membership, a senior must maintain a B average in his science courses and overall work and must have taken 40 per cent of his courses in the sciences.

A junior must maintain a 7.5 average, both in science and overall, and also must have taken 40 per cent of his work in the sciences.

Granted membership at this time were seven seniors, Evelyn Arndt, Fred Courington, Garrett Crotty, Jack Leffingwell, Elizabeth Moore, Larkin Ramsdell, and Gerrit Verberg; three juniors, John Harkness, Tony Toledo and Jane Wright; Dr. Donald Lovejoy, assistant professor of geology and Dr. Bruce Wavell, assistant professor of mathematics.

Miss Arndt, an Independent, is a pre-med major and president of the German Club. Courington, a chemistry major, is treasurer of the Independent Men and president of the Rollins Scientific Society.

Crotty, an Independent, is a pre-med major, a biology lab assistant, a member of R.S.S. and was on the Dean's list last year. Leffingwell, a chemistry major, is treasurer of Delta Chi, a member of R.S.S., and a lab assistant in chemistry.

Miss Moore, an Independent, is a biology major, a member of the German Club, R.S.S., the Community Service Club, and has served as lab assistant in several courses in the biology department. Miss Ramsdell, an Independent, is a pre-med and chemistry major, a member of the Human Relations Club, R.S.S., and the Indie Intramural Basketball team.

Verberg, an Independent, is an Education major, and has qualified for membership in ZAE through preparation for teaching high school science.

Harkness, a pre-med major, is a biology lab assistant, TKE's Student Council representative, Traffic Committee Chairman, past president of the German Club and has done work for the Sandspur.

Toledo, a pre-med major, is president of Lambda Chi, vice-president of the student body, a biology lab assistant, and a member of the Vespera Committee.

Mrs. Wright, who transferred from Emory last year, is an Independent, a Physics major and a lab assistant.

Dr. Lovejoy, who earned degrees from Harvard and Columbia, taught at Columbia and the University of California before coming to Rollins.

Dr. Wavell, a recognized British author and lecturer on mathematical logic, is a graduate of Cambridge University and received his Ph.D from London University.

State Association Elects Dr. Stone

Dr. Wendell Stone was elected president of the Florida Philosophical Association for a one-year term last month at Florida State University.

One of 95 leading philosophers from all over the world selected to attend the East-West Philosophers Conference at the University of Hawaii in August, Dr. Stone has been a distinguished member of the Rollins faculty since 1933, having served both as Dean of the Faculty and Dean of the College.

432 Ballots Cast In Run-Off Election

Four hundred and thirty-two Rollins students turned up at the polls last week to decide 13 run-off elections for class offices.

On the first ballot two weeks ago, only three officers were elected. At that time Pete Kellogg won the presidency of the Freshman Class with 94 votes, and Tony Hammock became freshman vice-president with 84 votes; 160 freshmen cast ballots in the first election.

In the senior class, Betty Van Mater received 48 of the 84 votes cast to become secretary.

Turning out the highest percentage of class members voting in the run-off elections, 101 seniors, more than 80 per cent of the class, elected Walter Cain, president; Sandy Logan, vice-president, and Jody Boulware, treasurer.

Cain received 51 votes to defeat Ed Brady and Dale Montgomery, who polled 20 and 30 votes, respectively. The first election for senior class president was invalidated when the Election Board learned that one of the candidates was not eligible for the office.

Miss Logan defeated Bob Lerner by a vote of 61 to 40, while, in a very close contest, Miss Boulware polled 51 votes to Debbie Williams's 48.

As a result of the Junior Class run-off Luis Dominguez was elected president; Martha England, vice-president; Ginny Willis, secretary; and Jerry Beets, treasurer.

With 86 juniors, approximately 70 per cent of the class, voting, Dominguez outpolled Dick Bishop 52 to 34. Miss England received 54 votes to Ted Murray's 31, and Miss Willis defeated Jane Goodnow 60 to 25.

In the closest contest in all four classes, Beets was elected treasurer over John Looby by a vote of 42 to 41.

Jack Sotliff was elected president of the Sophomore Class in the run-off election in which 121 students voted. Other officers are Chuck Matraw, vice-president; Ruth Lynn Whittaker, secretary, and Joan Watzek, treasurer.

Sotliff defeated Linda Qualla with a vote of 70 to 50 while Matraw outpolled Steve Cutter 73 to 45. Miss Whittaker received 80 votes to Rena Ortstadt's 41, and Miss Watzek defeated Pat Ganson with a vote of 82 to 39.

In two very close contests in the Freshman Class, Ginny Campbell defeated Sandy Rainey for the office of secretary with a vote of 63 to 61, while Paul Brennan edged past Woody Woodworth 63 to 59 to become class treasurer.

Only 124 freshmen, 50 per cent of those included on the class voting list, participated in the run-off balloting.

Representing Rollins College, Dr. J. Worth Banner, head of the language department, attended a conference of the Florida Association of Colleges and Universities last week.

The purpose of the organization, Banner explains, is to study the relationship between the colleges and universities of the state and the secondary schools in order to bring about closer cooperation among the various component parts of the state educational structure.

SANDSPUR EDITORIALS

RUSSIAN AT ROLLINS POSSIBLE NEXT FALL

In an editorial last May, the Sandspur set forth reasons both why the study of Russian is vital to the United States and why Rollins should take steps to offer a credit course in the language as soon as possible.

From recent talks with various members of the faculty and administration, we have come to the conclusion that Russian on the Rollins curriculum sometime in the near future, possibly even next fall, is a distinct possibility. Perhaps the greatest deterring factor is that, before making arrangements to offer such a course, the administration must be sure that enough students really plan to enroll to make the addition of Russian to the curriculum economically feasible.

Last spring, following the SANDSPUR editorial, Student Council passed a resolution to recommend to the faculty that Russian be offered here, but this vote of approval does not indicate how many students will actually take the course; for this reason, the SANDSPUR is requesting that any student who would definitely enroll in a course in Russian next fall if it were offered as a regular credit course write a letter to the editor stating this intention. The letters need not be written for publication and may be just a signed note to the effect that the writer is interested in studying Russian.

Certainly the study of Russian is of interest to people in this area as is indicated by the turn-out for the elementary Russian course now being taught in Operation Boot-strap on the Rollins campus. With a class enrollment limited to 20, the course is being taken by a number of armed forces personnel from McCoy Air Force Base, Orlando Air Force Base, and Sanford Naval Air Station, several townspeople, and three Rollins co-eds.

We sincerely hope that enough Rollins students will take advantage of a Russian course in the curriculum to justify the college's offering it next fall. With the world situation what it is today, the addition of Russian to any collegiate language department is vital. The increasing awareness in the United States of the importance of Russian study to the American people is clearly indicated by the fact that 200 high schools across the country, as well as a number of grade schools, are offering courses in the language this year. So are many American colleges and universities, and we trust that Rollins will be included among them in 1960.

HAVE YOU LOOKED AT THE CALENDAR?

By FROST

- Say, gang, what day is this?
- The first day of the week-end.
- No, no. One more time.
- Hm...mm... Arnold Shulzmore's merry unbirthday.
- Oh, no. You are really O.T.L. This is Friday the Thirteenth!

Yes, folks, this is in sooth Friday the 13th, the infamous day, the black-edged day, the thirteenth-of-the-month day that just happened to fall on a Friday. All sorts of goody-type things have taken place on Friday the thirteenth. Let us dredge the depths of our enfeebled brains and recall some of the particularly outstanding events of past Fridays.

The Beanery, many years ago, opened on a Friday the 13th, and Robbie's began recruiting I.D.'s on this day. Rush rules and freshman orientation were inaugurated on a Friday the 13th, people on scholarship started having to work, D- and F-slips were invented, and the Board of Trustees decided that this school must start holding classes if it were to stay open at all.

Need we say more about this horror show of days? We leave you with a parting cry: Take care, lest you encounter felines of a darker hue.

'ROUND ROLLINS

By Deb n' Air

A couple of weeks ago we were sitting in the Center on a Tuesday night. The things that usually happen in the Center were happening and there was the usual warm, friendly feeling of fellowship and general well-being. As we sipped our coffee we watched as the usual, friendly game of bridge was being played. We watched as the usual, friendly students ordered their usual, friendly hamburgers and Cokes and malteds and french fried potatoes, and told their usual, friendly jokes to one another.

We saw students dressed in their gay, refined sweat-shirts and Bermuda-shorts and sneakers. And we saw the gay, refined and decorative Greek letters printed on the gay, refined sweat-shirts and we thought to ourselves: How pastorate, how touching; how sweet to see these young men and women enjoying a brief moment of relaxation and companionship at the end of a day of mentally stimulating seminars, classes, laboratories, and enthused discussion.

As we sat there, slowly drifting off into a stupor, we noticed a crumpled newspaper stuffed behind one of the pinball machines. Something caught our eye and we crossed the Center to examine it more closely. As we made our way through the Center, we saw coeds gayly and happily trying out each others' lipstick. We saw personable young men gayly and happily hand-wrestling with one another while their bemused companions shouted out friendly encouragements. "Yes!" we thought, "How all-American and clean. How magnificent is this dance-of-life before us. How majestic and clean-limbed. Yes!" we continued, "all is well with the world."

And we reached the newspaper and picked it up and we saw a rather faded photograph and we read the somewhat cryptic caption beneath it:

"RUSSIANS NAME FEATURES ON MOON'S FAR SIDE."

As we stared with no little amazement at this nasty document before us, we thought it a dirty shame that these clean-limbed American youths surrounding us were denied the chance of making the Moon an American victory and having the wreath of laurel for themselves.

However we soon realized that the clean-limbed American youth surrounding us didn't give a damn about the nasty Russians or the nasty old Moon. We felt great relief almost at once.

As we left the Center and slowly walked home we gazed at the sky and noted that it had started to drizzle. "Odd," we thought, "that a little rain should make us so uneasy."

College students in the first flush of intellectual prowess have a cavalier way of dismissing the great characters and great themes of the human tradition. The very daring of: "I can't stand Bach or Shakespeare" for instance makes you wonder if the student ever tried to stand very much. Or is this just the way of being content with ignorance and being proud of it?

The great themes and figures should at least intimidate us even if we don't fully appreciate them. For our business is not to solve problems beyond mortal power but "to see to it that our thoughts are not unworthy of the great theme." (W. MacNeile Dixon)

Act To Benefit College Students

By DEAN DYCKMAN VERMILYE

The 85th Congress enacted legislation that could result in almost $1000 million in federal funds being spent over a four-year period in the improvement of educational programs in the nation. This legislation is known as the "National Defense Education Act," and the title suggests the rationale behind such an outlay of money. College students and college academic programs can benefit under certain provisions of the Act.

In general, money can be made available for student loans and fellowships; for the acquisition of suitable equipment and for supervising services in science, mathematics and foreign language study; for guidance, counseling and testing programs; and for "research and experimentation in more effective utilization of television, radio, motion pictures, and related media for educational purposes." Many colleges and universities have already received funds, and Rollins College has also established its own student loan fund with federal monies.

Under the provisions of the Act, the federal government has allocated to each state a portion of the entire appropriation determined by the total number of full-time college students in each state in relation to each other state. Each college is required to put up one dollar for every nine dollars provided by the government.

A college student in good standing may borrow up to $1000 a year, and up to $5000 during his entire educational program.

A promissory note is required, but repayment of the loan need not be started until one year after the student has completed his educational period. Repayment will normally be made over a ten-year period. The loan will bear 3 per cent interest, but this shall not begin accumulating until the repayments are scheduled to begin. The loan may be paid back in less than ten years, if desired. Extensions in the time allowed for repayment, and reductions in the amount to be repaid are possible. Up to half of the total loan can be cancelled if the borrower becomes a full-time teacher in a public elementary or secondary school. Ten percent of the loan, plus interest, is cancelled for each academic year in teaching.

Another provision of the Act established National Defense Fellowships, and one of our recent alumni has been granted one of the 1500 fellowships awarded for this academic year.

This is not a loan program, and both the student and the institution he attends receive money to pay for his academic program. The fellowships are for graduate education without any stated limitation insofar as field of study is concerned. The applicant should be planning to teach at the college level after earning his graduate degree.

Until recently, the typical student (and his family) who needs money to complete his academic training has been reluctant to borrow and may probably postpone or abandon his education rather than do this. It is possible that other factors enter into such a decision than a question of reasonable interest rates and reasonable time for ultimate repayment of the loan. For the on-coming needy student who has that as his major concern, however, the student loan plan may be useful and beneficial.

All current students anticipating graduate programs leading toward college teaching may well want to acquaint themselves with the provisions of this Act as it describes fellowships, and to learn more about the institutions and graduate programs within them which have been approved by the Commissioner of Education for the award of fellowships.

Opening Night Of 'Guys And Dolls' Meets With Students' Approval

By BARBARA GOLDNER
(Written for the Sandspur)

Those rare students who were awake enough to whistle on their way to breakfast were whistling new tunes Tuesday morning; there have been snatches of "Follow the Fold" and "I'll Know" heard all over the campus ever since — evidence that Guys and Dolls was well received by Rollins students on its opening performance Monday night.

The musical fable of Broadway, directed by Arthur Wagner, with Robert Hufstader as musical director and Erwin Feher as technical director, was the first ART production of a season which promises much variety.

The plot revolves about Nathan Detroit (Steve Kane), the originator of "The Oldest Established Permanent Floating Crap Game in New York," his fiancée — for 14 years — Miss Adelaide (Sally Reed), star of the Hot Box show girls, Sky Masterson (Chuck Morley), the best-known gambler on Broadway, and Sargeant Sarah Brown (Mary Goodall) of the Save-A-Soul Mission.

One of the problems involved in producing a musical at a college is that of finding enough people who can both act and sing well. An actor's timing and convincing characterization makes it difficult for someone who is primarily a singer to hold his or her own — until the musical numbers come around and the tables are turned. However such versatile and outstanding performers as ART veteran Sally Reed and a talented freshman, Pete Kellogg, prove that the combination does exist.

There were a few characters who over acted or were unconvincing for other reasons, but out of the cast of 61, there were more people who deserve recognition for making much out of their parts, large or small. Pete Kellogg, Ralph Ostreicher, and Don McLaughlin, three vocalizing gamblers, give a boost to the beginning of the first act with their rendition of "Fugue for Tin Horns." Mary Goodall's lovely voice makes "I'll Know" another memorable number.

In "Adelaide's Lament," Sally Reed does a magnificent job bringing out the hilarious lyrics. Then, setting an entirely different mood, comes Ginny Davenport as an exciting Cuban dancer.

Act Two gets off to a good start and a faster pace with Adelaide and the Hot Box Girls doing "Take Back Your Mink." The play becomes better and better with each scene of the second act. Sky dynamically puts across an intensity of feeling when he calls upon Lady Luck. Singing "Sue Me," Adelaide and Nathan not only display their own skill, but also bring out one another's; then Pete Kellogg gives a sinner's testimony in "Sit Down, You're Rocking the Boat," which, by the reaction of the audience, is one of the best numbers in the show.

In the same scene, Gloria Pasternak, as General Cartwright, an ardent missionary, lets forth a "Hallelujah!" which may become as famous as the K.A.'s rebel yell. The climactic scene in which Sarah and Adelaide sing the duet, "Marry the Man Today," is another which would be exceedingly difficult to improve upon.

When colorful sets, an excellent orchestra, and clever staging (such as the vision of the domesticated gamblers) are added to a lively presentation of a witty play, the combination, as we see in Guys and Dolls, results in a success.

Hayward To Speak At Casa Cafezinho

Mr. Wyndham Hayward, Director of the Hispanic Institute of Florida will be featured as the principal speaker at the second Cafezinho of the year which will be held in the Casa Iberia at 10:00 tomorrow morning.

Mr. Hayward, a graduate of Brown and Harvard Universities, is a student of Spanish and Portuguese literature and history. He will review "The Life of the Admiral Christopher Columbus" which was written by Columbus' son Ferdinand, and translated and annotated by Benjamin Keen.

Guest of honor at the book review and coffee will be William Moulton, '60, who will discuss briefly his recent study of Cuban conditions in Havana.

ODK President Jim Lyden Plays Triple Role As Busy Student, Husband, Father

By JUDY CARL
Sandspur Staff

Big Jim Lyden, senior Sigma Nu prexy, "leads three lives," but not exactly in the same manner as the guy on T.V. In addition to his student role (in which he does a good job both academically and extra-curricularly), Jim is a busy husband and father.

The latter position Jim acquired eight months ago when he and his wife Kris were blessed with Scott, "an aggressive little runt." Kris was a Theta here, a transfer from Wisconsin. They were married in Jim's sophomore year. Of vital importance is Kris's job as Editor-in-Charge-of-Reminding-the-Assistant-Circulation-Manager (Jim, of course) to pick-up-the-Sandspurs-on-Friday.

Jim's student life is occupied with such things as the presidency of Pi Gamma Mu, social science honorary organization; and the captainship of this year's varsity crew team. On a crew scholarship, Jim has enjoyed rowing for four years.

Swimming is another of Jim's big interests. He first became interested in it through the Y.M.C.A. program. This summer he worked as a lifeguard and taught swimming at the Winter Park Racquet Club. "I like working with young folks," said Jim.

Business Administration is his chosen major, a switch from an earlier interest in chemistry. "I guess I've taken a course in just about every field," Jim smiled. His post-graduation plans are indefinite, but he has several job offers from Winter Park businesses and is also considering graduate work in law at Stetson University. Presently he's working part time as an insurance investigator. "I hate monotony," Jim declared when asked if he thought the business field boring. "The amount of boredom depends entirely on the job."

After a half year of school at Iona College, New Rochelle, New York (his home state), Jim contributed two years to Uncle Sam's Army in Korea, later continuing his education at Rollins, which he chose for its smallness.

The pleasant, sports-minded, blue-eyed senior had some timely opinions to offer on the soccer vs. football question here. He thinks that football could help school spirit, but dispelled the idea as simply "too expensive."

"Soccer," Jim emphasized, "offers just as much fun and excitement as football and is, moreover, comparatively inexpensive, which is good for such a small school as Rollins. Boys have a better opportunity through soccer to get on a varsity team, for the simple reason that soccer is easily learned. You don't have to be brought up with it to be good! Anyone with a little co-ordination stands a chance."

School support and spirit, Jim believes, would be improved considerably if the students were better informed as to the form and objectives of the game. Literature and films were his suggestions.

One gripe Jim had about the Campus concerned activities. "Rollins activities are so varied and plentiful that there's a chance for everyone to participate, but the school appears to be run by just a few people, and that's not good!"

Dippy Disturbs ART Rehearsals

The aura of dice and soul-saving was temporarily lifted from ART when Mr. Horszowski commenced the Rollins Concert Series and the month of November.

He played works by Pablo Casals, Bach, Brahms, and Beethoven for an appreciative audience.

All the rehearsal clatter and clutter has died down to a reasonable roar as our friends from Runyon Land go through their nightly paces at the theatre.

Many memorable memories... those late late technical rehearsals... light crew people skittering up and down ladders on Halloween... Dippy the Dog in the Greenroom... Dippy in the audience... guys and Dippy (we mean dolls) dancing and singing, parking gum on the prompter's chair, solving world problems, and spouting lines about dope games...

It's all over now but three more performances and the cast party (!), sooo if you haven't caught the bit yet, hurry, hurry, hurry and get your tickets!

Rollins Singers will probably band together after everyone has recovered from Guys and Dolls (that name again!) Better start tuning up there, singers...

Back to the Concert Series, the next scheduled concert is Nov. 20. Ross Rosazza will be featured soloist. Following in January will be Quartetto di Roma and Mr. Horszowski.

Chemistry Tank Sprouts Goldfish

The "isotenscope," a shining array of glass and metal equipment prominently featuring a large, round glass tank filled with specially treated water kept at a constant temperature was put to novel use in Knowles Hall recently.

This involved device is normally used in complicated physical chemistry experiments but several weeks ago the "isotenscope" gave rise to "spontaneous generation."

Dr. Herbert Hellwege, professor of chemistry, noticed the day after the experiment was set up that something had gone wrong. Air bubbles were rising from the bottom of the tank, a highly irregular and undesirable development.

A small aerator was in the water, accompanied by sand, colored shells, plants, a ceramic bridge and two fat, dumb, and happy goldfish, accompanied by a small pink card, signed by the Rollins Ichthyology Society, instructing whomever it concerned to feed and clean, etc.

The physical chemistry experiment has been dismantled, but at this time the fish, with accompanying paraphernalia, can be seen in the Chapel garden pool.

Tower Rebuilt To Make Home For Big Bell

By CAROL SITTON
(Written for the Sandspur)

The other night at 6:30 the bell in the Chapel tower summoned members of the Rollins family to the bi-weekly vespers service. Last Sunday, 15 minutes before the beginning of the Chapel service, the bell tolled, as it always does, and announced that the service was about to begin.

The Chapel bell is a main part of the way of life at Rollins and it probably is the least thought about and most by-passed of any feature of the campus. Students hear it and quicken their pace down the loggia in order to get a good seat at Vespers or hurriedly finish dressing so they won't be embarrassed by walking into Sunday Chapel late.

The bell that now hangs in the tower, originally belonged to the old Winter Park Congregational Church. However, when the new Congregational Church was built, its tower was not constructed strongly enough to support the 1100 pound bell. The steeple was built to survive hurricanes. In order to do this it was made so that it would sway slightly with the strong winds. The tower couldn't sway and have the bell too, so the bell was put in an old church yard.

Dr. Edwin Grover, vice-president emeritus of Rollins, found the bell in the church yard covered with vines, and thought that it would be a nice addition to the Rollins Chapel. It seemed to be the perfect bell for the needs of the Chapel since a swinging bell would not work in the narrow tower. He presented the idea to Pres. Hugh F. McKean and, as coincidence will have it, a group of students had been thinking of the same thing.

Plans were made to install the bell, but when its skirt was measured, it was found to be four inches wider than the opening of the belfry. While the arrangements were being made to alter the tower to fit the bell, the clapper was removed and the bell was placed in front of the Alumni House. It was the center of attraction there, and a custom began for the boys who passed by after soft ball games to hit the bell a few times with their bats.

As one story goes, Pres. McKean decided that he would join in the fun and beat the bell too. Someone who was standing next to him (and apparently hadn't been around Rollins very long) cautioned him not to beat the bell because the president might hear of it and get angry. The president stopped his beating, turned to the boy and replied, "I AM the president."

When the masonry of the tower had been cut and all preparations had been made for the bell's "new home," a giant crane was used to carry the bell from in front of the Alumni House, up the 120 foot tower, and into the belfry. Merely transporting the bell from one place to the other took a full three hours.

The very first time the bell was used in connection with Rollins was on April 17, 1885, when it rang from the steeple of the Congregational Church to announce the decision to open a liberal arts college in Winter Park. Two years ago the bell became our own and was hoisted to the top of the Knowles Memorial Chapel tower.

The Lambda Chi's are taking up where the Sigma Nu's left off; last year it was the Sigma Nu Princess; this year it's the Lambda Chi Pledge Queen. To help matters a bit, they're even forcing the pledges to bring gals over to their living room on Tuesday night. Don't be too hesitant to accept, girls — this may lead to an invite to one of Dave Stevens' parties!!!

We've noticed that sorority prexies do a "certain something" to Tony Hammock — on the other hand (left or right, which ever is remaining), perhaps Julie and Carol see a "certain something" in Fresh boys!!!

Lately the campus has been very mysterious with kidnappings, raids, thefts, and beatings. Defenseless Tootie was captured right from the loggia by certain "hunks" from the Club. The Kappas organized a reconnaissance mission and set out after her.

In the wee hours Sunday morning, a few unmentionable Fresh girls besieged the Sigma Nu House, the Club and the Mansion. This move was highly (?) organized by a Snake charmer. The plaques were appropriately hung on the Elizabeth Hilton sun deck where they could be seen by all.

We'd like to know what's so particular about the X Club showers. Don't the other Frats have them? (G-2 Ed.: "Yes, but not next to the living room!!!")

Grad Awarded National Fellowship

Jacques Mitchell, a Rollins alum, is currently doing graduate work at Florida State University under the auspices of the National Defense Fellowship program.

One of 1500 students to be awarded a fellowship under the new National Defense Education Act, Mitchell is studying English. Graduating from Rollins in '58, Mitchell then held a job at NBC before enrolling at Tallahassee this fall.

While at Rollins, Mitchell was active in the theatre department, appearing in Pygmalion his junior year and taking the role of the stage manager in Our Town his senior year. He was a member of KA fraternity.

Van Doren Discussed At/After Chapel

A dozen or so of the After Chapel Club "Faithfuls" drifted into the conference room of the Chapel for their cup of coffee last Sunday morning and were informed by a subdued Dean T. S. Darrah that there had been a mix-up concerning dates.

It seems that the Dean was a week ahead of himself when he set the date and was disappointed last Friday night when he went home expecting to return to the theatre for an evening's entertainment. Prof. Wagner will speak this Sunday if the dates are in order.

The discussion soon drifted to the portion of the Dean's sermon of the morning dealing with the recent T. V. scandals and especially the part played by Mr. Charles Van Doren.

Robert Fleming opened the discussion by asking, "Why is it that we feel sorry for Van Doren? Intellectually we can see that he deserves exactly what he is getting, but yet we still sympathize with him."

"I don't understand what the big furor is all about," said A. J. Weber. "Television is just entertainment. Doren was paid for a good acting job. If the public believed it all, it's their fault."

"Much of the concern stems from the fact that this man is a member of 'The Family of Letters' in America today and that he is a professor. His betrayal of the unwritten code of his profession comes as a shock to many of us," commented the Dean.

"The general public seems to be more concerned with the cheating on the television show that with Van Doren's committing perjury," commented Bob Rauch.

"Doesn't the breaking of an unwritten code cause a greater stir than the breaking of the legal code?" replied Fleming. "Most of the rules we live by are not to be found in law books. Cheating on a quiz show isn't illegal yet. Perjury is."

The Dean closed the session by commenting, "the sad fact is that not only must Van Doren suffer, but those around him must also share his punishment."

Time Out

Tar Hoopsters To Face Tall Opponents During Coming Year

By BOB STEWART
Sandspur Sports Editor

One of the many benefits a sports editor receives is all the publicity which other colleges release on their athletic teams. At this time I would like to share my knowledge concerning the Rollins College basketball team's opponents for the coming season with you.

First of all, let's look at the prospects of the Tars first opponent, the University of Miami. "This group may be the finest in UM history," said conservative Coach Bruce Hale; and well this might be said. If Rollins were to upset Miami on Dec. 1, it would be one of the greatest achievements in the world of sports.

Heading the list of Miami stars will be Dick Hickox, the amazing 5'8" junior guard who poured 453 points through the hoops last year for an average of 18.1 points per game.

Also returning to the Hurricane squad, which finished first in offense among the nation's major colleges last year, is Harry Manushaw, who holds all UM rebounding records. The true worth of the Miami squad might be realized when you learn that Hale is keeping 7'1" Mike McCoy out of action until next year.

Rollins next Florida opponent will be, if the Tars make good in the Citrus Invitational, Florida Southern College. F.S.C. placed third in the FIC last year, and this year they have six returning lettermen.

Southern is expected to field a strong rebounding team with good experience in front court. Heading the list of players will be Robert Goding, who scored 389 points last year and led the team in rebounds with 282, and Frank Scuderi, the elected captain, who holds the single-game Moccasin record of 36 points with 36 in 1957.

Southern will field a team including one 6'7", three 6'5", and two more players over 6'3". It is little wonder that they are expected to be strong on the boards.

Stetson University, runner-up to Miami last year in the close FIC race, is again thought to be one of the top teams in the Sunshine State. The Hatters will have six returning lettermen and a prize package of newcomers.

Heading the list of first year Hatter Hoopsters are: Barney McLaughlin, 6'3" junior who led the Parris Island Marines in scoring for two straight years; Charles Warren, 5'11" junior guard who was chosen All-American Junior College last year; and Russell Milton, a 6'5" star who was outstanding in junior college play.

Height seems to be the big drawback for Rollins, and it has become quite clear that they will be facing their share of tall men. Jacksonville University sports a 6'7" center along with four men over 6'3".

Transylvania College should be the tallest opponent Rollins will face. Starting with a 6'7" center, their roster reveals one 6'6" player, two 6'5" hoopsters, and five 6'4" candidates. Oh yes, they also have two players listed as 6'3". Just goes to prove that they really go in for big boys in Kentucky.

While on the subject of basketball, you may be interested in knowing how Wilt Chamberlin and the Philadelphia Warriors are doing in the NBA. The Warriors won their first four games (Boston won their first five), and Wilt the Stilt looks as if he is going to reset the record books.

Chamberlin scored 120 points in his first three games as a pro for an average of 40 points per game. He also grabbed off 102 rebounds for an average of 34 each time out. You decide for yourself — would you like him on your side?

Tar Netters Off To Successful Beginning, Conquer Orlando Club

With their victory over the Orlando Tennis Club now a week old, the Rollins College tennis squad will seek fresh blood Sunday when the Tar netters travel to Ormond Beach to take on the Ortona Tennis Club in what promises to be an exciting exhibition match.

In their first outing of the year Rollins squeaked past its Orlando opponents, 4-3, last Friday. The most interesting match of the afternoon proved to be the number one battle between Rollins' Dave Hewitson and Orlando's Roger Pharr.

Hewitson, captain of last year's squad, but ineligible for intercollegiate competition this year, overcame a control problem and defeated Pharr, 7-5, 8-6.

Other scores were: Ralph Powellson def. Luis Dominguez Rollins, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3; Steve Mandel, Rollins def. Champ Williams 6-3, 6-2; Bob Robertson def. Bill Moulton, Rollins, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Also, Barry Barnes, Rollins, def. Les Talley 6-3, 6-4; Bill Kahn, Rollins, def. John Gibbons, 8-4, 6-2; and Fritz Schunck def. John Henriksen, Rollins, 7-5, 6-2.

X-Club Wins First Half Of Intramural Softball; Delta Chi Finishes Second

Although several postponed games are yet to be played in the first half of the men's intramural softball league, it appears quite certain the X-Club will cinch the first half championship.

Sporting a perfect record, the Club combined a good fielding team with top hitting and tough pitching to march through their first six games without a blemish.

Against both Delta Chi and Lambda Chi, the Club's two closest rivals, the pitching and fielding were the outstanding features. Pitcher Mel Nevergall was in good form, allowing only two hits in each of these games.

The second place Deltas lost only to the Club. Aside from their sole defeat, Delta Chi played outstanding ball. Lead by pitcher Jack Bofinger, the Delt team mowed down five opponents, including Lambda Chi, to grab second honors.

Although losing to X-Club and Delta Chi, Lambda Chi finished a strong third. Finishing with a record of five victories, Lambda Chi tamed the Snakes twice last week to clinch third position. Both Nat Mendell and John Stutz defeated Sigma Nu on consecutive days.

Winding up in fourth place with a .500 record was the Faculty. Lead by slugger Dudley Degroot and speedy Joe Justice, the Faculty made their debut in the intramural league felt as they chalked up three wins.

Sigma Nu finished fifth, followed by the Independents, Kappa Alpha, and TKE in that order.

Rollins Grabs Early Lead In FIC Race For Soccer Crown

With the soccer season reaching the halfway mark, the Florida Intercollegiate Conference standings reveal that Rollins College is the only team to remain undefeated.

The Tars record of one win and two ties puts them on top of the race. The Stetson Hatters are running a close second with a 2-1 record. The DeLand school's only loss was at the hands of Rollins, 5-1.

The FIC soccer standings are as follows:

	Wins	Losses	Ties
Rollins	1	0	2
Stetson	2	1	0
Jacksonville	1	1	1
Florida Southern	0	2	1

and Lambda Chi will play three games a piece, while Sigma Nu, X-Club, and Indies will play two games. The Faculty and Delta Chi will participate in only one contest.

Tar Hoopsters Oppose Catawba In CIT Opener

December 4-5 the Rollins College basketball team will travel to Lakeland to participate in the Citrus Invitational Tournament along with three other college squads.

Also appearing in the two day tournament will be Catawba College, Atlantic Christian College and host Florida Southern College.

Rollins will open the tourney on Dec. 4th when the Tars take on Catawba. Last year Catawba defeated Rollins, 79-76, during the Western Carolina Invitational.

In the second half of the Dec. 4 doubleheader Atlantic Christian will tackle Florida Southern. The following day there will be a consolation game followed by the championship game.

Last year Rollins lost to Florida Southern and Tampa University during the C.I.T. in the first two games of the season.

Starting time for the Tars' Dec. 4th battle is 7 p.m. All games will be played at the Lakeland High School Gymnasium.

Reversal In Score Leaves Theta's Record Unmarred

On Wednesday, Nov. 4, the Theta's suffered a short-lived defeat at the hands of the Kappa's in an intramural basketball game. At the end of the fourth quarter, the score read 37-36, Kappa; however, after both teams had left the court, an error was discovered in the running score, changing the official score to read 36-36, necessitating a play-off.

The exciting two-minute overtime period played before an enthusiastic crowd the following evening resulted in a 44-40 victory for Theta.

Although the Kappa's were no longer in contention for first place, an upset victory over Theta might have reduced the latter's chances for the top spot.

The unbeaten Phi Mu team chalked up a 32-13 victory against the Alpha Phi's, while the Chi O's also extended their winning streak by defeating the Independent Women 54-32.

The freshman teams finally met and struggled through a close game, although the Sands managed a 19-14 victory. The outstanding freshman forward was again Sandy Jordan, who tallied up 12 points.

Positions on the women's golf ladder have been announced; match play begins this week. Women assigned an even number on the ladder will challenge those in odd-numbered positions to a match.

Wait a minute, I'm stuck.

Hoopsters Prepare For Season's Opening Game Against Miami

With the opening date of Dec. 7 nearing, Coach Dan Nyimicz has his basketball prospects scrimmaging with regularity. Tomorrow the Tar hoopsters will travel to Gainesville to scrimmage against the Univ. of Florida in what Nyimicz feels will be a rugged test.

As was expected, Dick Bishop has been carrying the burden of the Tars attack on his shoulders. He has been receiving help from Ralph Tanchuk, George Crook, and Bob Griffith, but it is Bishop who will control the Rollins scoring.

Of the newcomers Nyimicz is particularly pleased with the showing of Mike Meriney and Leon Hollon. These two freshmen are being counted upon to help deliver the Tars offense.

Coach Nyimicz has given his approval to the offense, but is concerned over the defense. Nyimicz plans to use a man-to-man defense whenever possible, but as in the case of offense, Rollins will have to worry about its rebounding strength.

It will be Rollins strength on the boards which will eventually tell the story of the 1959-60 Rollins College basketball team.

FIC Top Spot At Stake For Local Tar Booters

Tomorrow afternoon the Rollins soccer team will go after win number two in the Florida Intercollegiate Conference as the Tar booters entertain Florida Southern at 2:30 on the Sandspur Bowl.

Presently leading the FIC with a 1-0-2 record, Rollins will be out to better the 3-3 tie to which the Tars and Southern fought earlier in the season. Southern is defending conference champ while Rollins won the top spot two years ago.

Southern proved to be an extremely rough opponent for the Tars at Lakeland earlier in the year, and tomorrow's game is expected to be of the same nature. The Lakeland college is winless in FIC competition and will be out for victory number one, while Rollins will attempt to maintain their league leading record of no defeats.

Last Saturday Rollins traveled to Jacksonville to play the Jax. U. Dolphins in a conference game. The final score, 1-1, marked the second time that the Tars had played to a standstill.

Rollins scored its only goal during the first period of action, as Enrique Huber booted an outside kick to Chick Guerrero in front of the J. U. goal. Guerrero made good on the follow-up shot, and Rollins had its only lead of the game.

In the second quarter both squads marched up and down the rain soaked field, but neither team could penetrate the outstanding defensive work of the respective goalies.

The third quarter was again marked by excellent work by both goalies. Rollins was hampered by injuries received by several players. Pemetrious Coutsolotas was kicked in the shins and missed the better part of the last half; his injury was a severe blow to the Rollins offense.

After the completion of the four regular quarters, the two teams played two five-minute overtimes in which both squads threatened, but neither could score.

Men's IM Golf Starts With Qualifying Round

Play in the qualifying rounds of the Intramural golf tournament got underway the past week, and all those entered are to play an 18-hole qualifying round by Monday, Nov. 16.

Five organizations have entered teams in this sport with the TKE's, Independents, and the Faculty passing up this activity because of lack of entries.

The X-Club will be the defending champions; they have been given the role of favorite for the present tourney. The battle for individual star should prove to be interesting.

Such top golfers as Rolly Lamontagne, Lambda Chi; Tag Bowman, Sigma Nu; and Bob Lerner, X-Club, will be competing for the top honor.

The week prior to the J. U. game Rollins entertained Stetson University at the Sandspur Bowl. The Tars did not prove to be very gracious hosts as they soundly defeated the visiting Hatters, 5-1.

In winning their initial FIC contest in an action-packed game, the Tars put on an offensive display which had Stetson baffled.

The Tars started their close teamwork and scoring parade after 16:07 of the first quarter when Ed Leal booted a corner shot past the Hatter goalie. Leal scored his second goal of the afternoon in the next period when Guerrero set him up after faking the Hatter defense out of position.

Guerrero scored next, only nine minutes later, as he broke out of a pile in front of the Stetson goal and booted the ball into the net.

Behind 3-0 at halftime, Stetson changed its offense and pressed the Tar defense as the third quarter got underway. After 7:56 of play in this quarter the Hatters hit for pay dirt with a strong boot by their left inside, Gordon Muller.

Rollins reiterated in the same quarter when Huber drove the ball home inside the Hatters goal. This goal was marked by outstanding footwork on the part of the Tars ace, Bill Tone.

In the final quarter Rollins scored their first goal of the season as a unit. Once again it was Leal who booted the ball into pay dirt, but it was the fine play of the reserves which made the fifth and final score possible.
