Casting Completed For Winter Plays; 'Arms And The Man' To Go On Tour

By DANA IVEY
Sandspur Staff

Casting results for both "Arms and the Man," the next Rollins Players production, and "Romanoff and Juliet" were announced after the readings last week.

"Arms and the Man," by George Bernard Shaw, will be directed by Mr. Arthur Wagner. It is considered one of Shaw's most delightful comedies, and was the basis for the operetta "The Chocolate Soldier." The hero, Bluntschli, is one of Shaw's famous anti-heroic heroes, and the play's theme is an attack on the romantic notion of war. Bluntschli is played by Robert Bunim, and Raina, daughter of a Bulgarian major, is played by Nelle Longshore.

Other characters will be played as follows: Louka, Ginny Davenport; Catherine, Marion Love; Sergius, Rick Halsell; Paul, Don McLaughlin; Nicola, Chuck Morley; Officer, Dale Ingmanson.

Before its production on the ART stage, Feb. 2-6, the Rollins Players will take "Arms and the Man," on the road. The group will participate in conjunction with the performances of the Florida Symphony Orchestra and Jose Greco in the Eustis Music and Drama Festival, Eustis, Fla.

The group will also perform before the Sanford-DeBarry Entertainment Association. Mr. Wagner said that the Rollins Players hope to get several additional bookings in Central Florida before beginning the road trip for these performances at the end of January.

Critic John Chapman has described "Romanoff and Juliet" as a "deft, delightful, funny fable." This second ART production of 1960 is by playwright, actor, producer Peter Ustinov. It is a farce which takes place in a mythological country—the smallest nation in Europe.

The Russian ambassador's son, Igor, a romantic at heart, falls in love with the American ambassador's daughter, Juliet. This is, obviously, a take-off on Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet," involving a feud between the two families of the lovers. The play is spiced with romantic and humorous characters, giving Richard Watts good reason to comment on it as "witty and charming."

Although director Robert Chase has said that he may have to do a little changing around in the cast, up to date the following students comprise the players: First Soldier, Bob Haines; General, Steve Kane; Igor, Gary Brouhard; Juliet, Dana Ivey; Hooper Moulsworth, Ralph Oestricher; Beulah Moulsworth, Claudia Melton; Vladimir Romanoff, Pete Kellogg; Ev-dokia Romanoff, Carol Wiese; Marfa, Candy Diener; Freddie Vanderstuyt, Crick Hatch; Archbishop, Chuck Morley; the Spy, Maurey Merkin.

Production for "Romanoff and Juliet" is set for March 1-5.

Council To Hold All-College Dance

The Student Council is sponsoring a rock 'n' roll dance tomorrow night from 9 until 12 at Dubsread Country Club. Tony Toledo, chairman of the Council social committee, has asked that all students "attending the dance conduct themselves as college students should."

Due to vandalism of students at the last Rollins dance held at Dubs, the management has doubled the price for using the country club. The future availability of Dubs for Rollins' dances will depend upon the conduct of students at this dance.

Newspaper Adds Two Staff Posts

Starting with today's paper, two new staff positions have been added to the Sandspur masthead.

Filling the newly-created post of managing editor is Lee Rogers. Now a sophomore, Miss Rogers began working for the newspaper during the fall term of her freshman year. She became associate news editor winter term last year and assumed the position of news editor last spring term.

During the summer, Miss Rogers has been employed by the Clearwater Sun, her hometown daily.

Bob Rauch has moved up to the job of news editor. Rauch, a senior, has served as associate news editor since last spring term.

The other addition to the masthead is the position of copy editor. Joan Murray, a freshman who has worked on the paper both as a typist and a copyreader, has been appointed to the post.

Co-Directors Reveal Frosh Show Theme

The subject of much excitement and enthusiasm among this year's freshmen is the up-and-coming Freshman Show, to be presented on Feb. 12, in Rec. Hall.

The Freshman Show, by tradition a variety show, is undergoing some interesting changes this year under the co-direction of Dee Stedron and Jerry Green. As a variety show, this will be as unlike the over-worked vaudeville-type of M.C.'d introductions as possible.

The theme is to be a musical comedy one with a Broadway touch, incorporating all available frosh talent.

Since the real purpose of this show is, besides to provide entertainment for the Rollins Family, to bring the freshmen together as a class, with a common goal, everyone who wishes to participate, in a large or small way, on stage or off, is given a chance to do so.

The title, On Broadway: Fiasco, is giving free rein to the script writers, under the direction of Sally Schreiber. Music for the show is being handled by Woody Frierson; the choreographer is Candy Diener.

In years gone by the show has been strictly amateurish, but this year the directors are anticipating a professional show, even under such handicaps as lack of time and facilities.

Dee Stedron, co-director, is a graduate of Mariemont High School in Cincinnati, Ohio. In her junior year in high school she played Lorian Sheldon in a production of The Man Who Came to Dinner. Then, in 1959, she was the student director of her senior class play, Our Town. Dee was also the co-director of her high school variety show.

The other half of the directorship, Jerry Green, is a graduate of a local high school, Edgewater. Jerry directed in a drama course in high school and wrote several one-act plays himself. He was stage manager for Best Foot Forward in his sophomore year and for The Night of January 16 in 1958. As a junior he also acted in Ever Since Eve and The Little Dog Laughed.

Sophomores Plan Leap Year Dance For Late January

The sophomore class as a money-raising project for this year's March of Dimes campaign will sponsor a Leap Year Dance. The dance, which was announced in Monday evening's Student Council meeting, will be held in the Student Center from 8-12 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 30.

The women will invite the men to the dance and will pay for the tickets, which will be $1.00 per couple.

Sophomore class vice-president Chuck Matraw urged that everyone support this dance, as the proceeds will go to a worthy cause. It is one of the few events of the year to be held in the Student Center, Matraw added, and the students will not have to worry about transportation to attend it.

Use of the Center on the Saturday night has already been cleared with the administration, Matraw continued. He and Linda Qualls are in charge of dance arrangements.

It was also announced in the Council meeting that Mr. George Cartwright, building and grounds supervisor, has installed two five-minute parking signs in front of the Center for students who wish to pick up their mail.

John Harkness, traffic committee chairman, emphasized that this privilege must not be abused, or the signs will be removed.

Harkness also reminded the representatives that all students who have brought cars to campus for the first time this term must register them.

Fiesta Plans Include Costume Party

Since the theme of this year's Fiesta will be the Roaring 20's, one which lends itself well to a masquerade motif, it has been decided by the Fiesta Committee to sponsor a "Roaring 20's Party" on the night of Friday, April 1.

It has further been decided to give free rein to the imaginations of the people on campus by encouraging the students to get into the swing of things and dress up in good old prohibition style.

This means the return of the flapper-and-skimmer era of fringed dresses, cloche hats, and short skirts for the girls, and blazers, straw hats, and raccoon coats for the guys.

Co-chairman John Looby stresses that you get out of Fiesta just what you put into making it a success. "This year's theme can be a lot of fun if it's given a chance," he says.

The other half of the Fiesta Chairman combo, Stan Morress, urges that everyone start digging for costumes right now.

GUN MOLL Linda Bridgers and gangster Pete Kellogg get in the mood for Fiesta. Miss Bridgers was Miss Rollins last year.

$150 Contribution Starts Fund Drive

The three showings last Sunday of the award-winning movie, "Father Panchali," netted approximately $150 for the Chapel Fund Drive reported Robert Morgenroth, professor of French. Le Cercle Francais, sponsor of the Famous Film Series, donated the proceeds from this movie in the series to the Fund.

The Chapel Fund Drive, to be held Jan. 17-23, enlists the support of the Rollins Family for the Chapel program on the Rollins campus and throughout the world. More information on the Drive will be found on pages 2 and 3.

$2,500 Goal Set For '60 Fund Drive

'Make The Chapel Garden Grow' Rally Scheduled For Week Of Jan. 17-22

Dear Rollins Family:

HOW DOES YOUR CHAPEL GARDEN GROW?

It would be nice, wouldn't it, if it grew money trees? But it doesn't, and neither does your Chapel fund garden. The Chapel fund garden, as any garden, needs rain. Say, pennies from Heaven? Or, more realistically, quarters and dollars from Rollins students, faculty, and staff.

Look around you. The Chapel tower appears on everything from the catalogue to class rings, even the shoulder patches on Winter Park policemen. The Chapel is one of your most important and most loved Rollins traditions. It needs your support to continue its activities.

The Chapel serves first the Rollins family. The Dean's Fund provides private loans to students in need of cash.

Community-wide, your Chapel Community Service Club helps nearby schools which care for children and adults suffering from mental diseases and cerebral palsy. The Chapel contributes to local organizations for community projects, helps needy families, and this fall has been doing a special service project for the Winter Park Hospital.

World-wide, your Chapel is a member of the World University Service, assisting in the creation of adequate living facilities for students and an intensive program to improve student health, particularly in the Middle East and Far East.

Through participation in the Foster Parents Plan, the Rollins family, through its Chapel, helps support two very wonderful war orphans.

Human Relations Club works for the betterment of conditions and opportunities for Negroes in libraries, nursing homes, and hospitals.

The Chapel is yours; it needs your help. This year, the Chapel Fund Drive begins on Sunday, Jan.

17, and continues through Friday, Jan. 22. Again this year, the fund drive goal is $2500, and we're asking each member of the Rollins family to contribute $2.00. If each one of us gives just $2.00, we can reach our goal and can continue to help give others their share of happiness. If this is more than you, personally, can afford, please donate as much as you feel you can.

Sincerely,

Anita Tanner, Chairman

Chapel Staff Adopts European Children

Through the Foster Parents Plan, the Rollins Chapel Staff helps support a boy from an impoverished Greek family and a Ukrainian girl in a displaced persons' camp in Germany.

Michael Kalogerakis is a new addition to the Chapel Staff "family," as foster child Michael Mavarakis, who was "adopted" by the Staff last year, is now 16 years old and no longer eligible for the Foster Parents Plan.

Until 1952, Michael Kalogerakis' father earned enough money to support his family as an employee of the Red Cross Hospital. Tragedy struck the family when the father suffered a grave nervous disorder, and he has since been in an insane asylum off and on to receive treatment for what his doctors consider a hopeless case of schizophrenia.

The family receives an allowance of $36.67 per month from the Social Insurance Fund, which also pays the father's hospital bills. As Mrs. Kalogerakis must stay at home to care for Michael's sister Helen, 8½, and his brother Spyros, 4, who is ill with asthmatic broncho-pneumonia, this allowance is the family's only source of income.

Michael, a straight "A" student while in primary school, wants to enter the Navel Academy when he graduates from the gymnasium (junior and senior high school) he is now attending. He has ambitions of becoming an officer in the Royal Greek Navy when he grows up.

"Michael is keenly aware of his mother's desperate plight and tries to do everything possible to ease her burden," writes the Plan director.

In his latest letter to the Chapel Staff, Michael wrote:
Dear Foster Parents,

I feel so happy at the thought that I am communicating with you again! The new school term has begun! I shall start attending my lessons with great zeal and I hope that the results will be satisfactory.

I received the $8.00, and I thank you from the bottom of my heart. I'll always be grateful to you. Thanks to your kind help I shall be able to buy my school books now, my school pinafore, and also pay my registration expenses. If you hadn't been so kind to me I should have never been able to afford all these things, because my mother hasn't been working very often lately, unfortunately. You see, there is a great unemployment wave.

Your kind help is really valuable. I always think of you with love and I always wish that you are enjoying the best of happiness. With gratitude and respect,

Your foster child,
Michael Kalogerakis

The other foster child, Nina Nastiuks, has been supported by the Chapel Staff for some time.

Nina was born in a DP camp and she and her sister and brother, Lydia, 7, and Bohdan, 1, have known no other kind of life.

Nina's father fell ill with tuberculosis in 1949, and, although he is well enough now to do light work, the family's application for immigration to the U. S. was rejected because of his lung condition.

The mother has had two operations and is under constant medical care. Their monthly income is $45.65 which they receive from Public Assistance, T. B. Sick Fund, and Unemployment Assistance.

The Plan director in Germany describes Nina, who speaks both Ukrainian and German, as "a charming child, very quiet and observant; . . . a good student, particularly talented in needlework and drawing."

In her monthly letter, Nina writes:

Hello, dear Foster Parents,
I thank you so much for the monthly present of money and the skirt and the jacket. Daddy bought food with your money.

On August 28, we had a school-feast. We had to race, jump long and throw the ball. It is called three-fights, and I made 45 points. Those making 45 points received a winner-certificate, and those children making more than 60 points got a prize.

We competed in track with another class and which ones were there first were the winners. We also competed in hanging the laundry on the line. The boys played soccer and handball. They played other schools. Our team won.

The mothers and the little girls made an egg-race, and the teachers and fathers competed in tug of war. The fathers won. We exhibited needleworks and art pieces too, and the works were prized too. Now I don't know what to write anymore.

Sincerely yours,
Nina Nastiuks

Dean's Fund Aids Rollins Students

Another portion of the money you give to the Chapel Fund Drive goes into the Dean's Fund to help out Rollins students who need the loan of a small amount of money for a little while. Any student on campus may borrow from this fund for non-tuitional expenses.

In the past, loans have been made for traveling expenses or to pay for books, for having broken glasses repaired, for fees on over registration, or simply for spending money which the student may not have.

Any student may secure a loan from this fund by discussing it with Dean T. S. Darrah.

Chapel Chest Helps Around The Globe

Community Service Club Assists Local Charities

One of the ways in which the Chapel Fund is put to work is through the Community Service Club, which carries out charitable projects in the Winter Park-Orlando area.

Among the activities of this organization are making Christmas decorations for Winter Park and Orlando hospitals, buying school shoes for needy children, and sending get-well gifts to faculty members who are hospitalized.

Community Service Club has also made donations to orphanages, in order to enable them to secure needed supplies, and paid for piano lessons for a child who could not otherwise afford to further her musical ability.

Last spring Community Service members took a group of orphans to the Fiesta midway. These children were presented with money and allowed to spend it on the midway in whatever manner they chose.

In addition to investigating organizations and individuals in need of financial or material aid and sending them contributions, Community Service tries to offer personal service whenever possible.

"Instead of merely allocating money to worthy recipients on request, as has mostly been done in the past," states president Linda Wolowitz, "we are trying this year to seek projects in which we not only contribute money, but in which we may actively participate and see our donations at work."

Working with Linda as officers of Community Service Club, are Ginny Willis, vice president; Lynn Egry, secretary; and Judy Carl, treasurer.

THE KOREAN CHILDREN had only light American clothes to wear during the cold winter months before the Rollins boxes came.

Korean Children Benefit As Result Of Campus-Wide Clothing Drive

Work done by the Chapel includes, not only contributions to such organizations as the World University Service and Foster Parents Plan, but also projects by which Rollins students may directly help those less fortunate than they.

Last year, one such project was the collection of winter clothes for Korean children, who otherwise would have had no warm clothing to protect them from the cold.

Suggestion for the project came from Rollins graduate Lynne Kaelber, Class of '58, who was serving with the American Red Cross in Korea. Miss Kaelber has since returned to the United States and began working for the Rollins News Bureau during fall term.

Boxes for the collection of clothes were set up on various parts of the campus. After gathering the clothing, the club had the contributions dry cleaned, boxed them, and sent them to Korea for Miss Kaelber to distribute.

"I wish I could tell the donors how much those clothes meant," Miss Kaelber told Dean T. S. Darrah when she returned to campus. She brought with her pictures of the Korean children, showing how excited and happy they were when the packages arrived from America.

"The winter is fast coming and each child possesses one set of clothes. There are no jackets, sweaters or coats for them," Miss Kaelber had written when she made the initial suggestion for the clothes drive.

"Their heating system is so primitive; I was shocked to discover that many freeze to death or die of pneumonia each winter. If we could do just a little to help them, it would mean so very much."

The Community Service Club answered the plea.

World University Service Outlines Ambitious Program

The World University Service, to which the Rollins Chapel Staff is donating $1,100, has outlined for the coming year an ambitious program of aid to students around the world.

Major emphasis during 1960, which has been designated as World Refugee Year by Secretary General of the United Nations Dag Hammarskjöld, will be in the area of aid for refugee students.

The WUS program will stress a comprehensive health service aimed especially at tuberculosis. The plan will provide all forms of individual aid, including scholarships for the outstanding few, and help with food, vitamins, clothes, books, and housing for the many.

Particular attention will be given the urgent needs of refugee students in China and the economically poor countries of Southeast Asia, not only in the form of financial help, but also in the encouragement of cooperation between universities and the increase of their international contacts.

Special assistance will also be granted to students left homeless by recent typhoons and floods in parts of Japan and India.

"By these means, and by staff-student cooperation," states the WUS News, "refugees and underprivileged students, who are not only poor but have been confused and disoriented by hardship, political indoctrination, civil war, and personal experiences often of the most distressing nature, can be helped towards a wider horizon and a sense of direction, and so to a useful place in the community."

HAPPILY INVESTIGATING the contents of boxes from America are the Korean children who received the clothing sent from Rollins.

Fulbright Scholar

Visiting Professor Of Geography Added To Rollins Faculty This Term

Prof. Robert S. Platt, a leading authority in geography, arrived at Rollins at the beginning of winter term to begin his duties as visiting professor of geography.

Prof. Platt, who has spent the last two years as a Fulbright Scholar in West Germany, will be in charge of the Area Studies Course and will also teach Regional Geography.

Mr. Platt has held several important professional assignments for the government. He has acted as Adviser to the Officer of the Geographer, U. S. Department of State, was Chief, Division of Maps, in the Library of Congress, and served as adviser to the National Geographical Council in Brazil.

As an educator, Prof. Platt taught geography at the University of Chicago for several years. While there he became a member and officer of many professional and honorary organizations.

Prof. Platt is the past vice-president and president of Sigma Xi, the national science honorary, a member of the Association of American Geographers, a holder of the Phi Beta Kappa key, and a member of Gamma Alpha and Zeta Psi.

Prof. Platt's family will arrive in Winter Park later this term to join him. Until this time he will be staying at the Casa Iberia.

Rollins Praised For Helping ICA

Rollins College has received a letter of commendation and a Certificate of Merit from the International Cooperation Administration. The commendation was issued to Dr. Joseph Romita, Rollins professor of economics, for the college's part in helping to make a study trip of a Brazilian railroad management team a success.

The ICA project manager, in thanking Dr. Romita, said, "Only such hospitality and assistance as your organization gave could have made their visit to the United States the success it was."

The Brazilian executives climaxed a tour of the U. S. last fall with a three day seminar during which they participated in panel discussions and management conferences on the Rollins campus.

Constable Lectures On Modern English Poets Free To Students

The Constable lecture series on Modern English Poets will be held at Rollins from Jan. 11 through Feb. 8, as part of the Courses for the Community program.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Constable are presenting the Monday afternoon series, which Rollins students may attend free, in the Annie Russell Theatre at 4:15 p.m.

Robert Louis Stevenson was the first poet discussed. The remaining lecture subjects will be Frances Thompson, Rudyard Kipling, Rupert Brooke and Walter de la Mare, and James Stephens and Ralph Hodgson.

A native of Northumberland, England, Mr. Constable received his M.A. degree at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland. He studied theology at the Yorkshire Independent Theological College at Bradford, England.

On his first visit to the U. S., Mr. Constable lectured at the University of California summer session on "Modern Poetry." Since coming to the U. S. in 1941, he and his wife have been joint ministers of the First Unitarian Church in Orlando.

Mr. Constable joined the Rollins faculty in 1943 to teach Shakespeare and Modern Drama.

During the past five years the Constables have given Community Course lectures.

Winter Agenda Cambridge Professor Makes U. S. Radio Debut Over Rollins' WPRK

Rollins College was one of the first to hear Dr. C. S. Lewis in his American radio debut yesterday when WPRK began a new series of talks broadcast on Thursdays, from 5:30-5:45.

A radio exclusive in Central Florida, the Lewis talks will analyse Human Love in its four varieties—between near relatives, between friends, the love of man and woman, and the love of God. The talks are forthright and typical of Dr. Lewis' subtle wit and keen intellect.

After listening to the recordings, Dr. Edward McCrady, Vice-Chancellor of the University of the South, Sewanne, Tenn., said, "Lewis speaks with complete frankness, but always with dignity and sincerity. . . I have rarely been so greatly impressed with the richness, conciseness, and subtlety of treatment of so large a theme in so small a compass."

The series is designed to give opportunity for self-study of problems and crises of youth, parenthood, family life, and every relationship in which some facet of love plays a part.

Lewis, who is a professor of Medieval and Renaissance English at Cambridge University, has sold nearly 250,000 copies of his book "The Screwtape Letters," which fictionalizes man's struggle with temptation. He is also author of "Mere Christianity," and a science fiction trilogy which begins with "Out of the Silent Planet."

The WPRK talks, of which there are ten, were produced by the Episcopal Radio-TV Foundation of Atlanta and were made available to Rollins by All Saints' Church, Winter Park. The series has only been released since Jan. 1, 1960, and is part of a larger work soon to be published.

WPRK Manager Mark Frutebey has offered to replay the tapes for class discussions following the weekly broadcasts.

Another addition to the WPRK schedule is the production of the first live series of the Advanced Radio class—"Renaissance in 2060." Having worked mainly with interview shows the first term, the second year students are getting their first taste of creative showmanship.

"Renaissance in 2060" is an avant-garde production featuring Shakespeare read over jazz, "way-out" poetry, and word jazz.

American Art Society Forgets Rollins Gallery

Rollins Morse Gallery of Art has been forgotten by the American Watercolor Society.

MGA exhibition director Jeanette Genius McKean ordered the 92nd Annual Traveling Exhibition from the society; the display, which was to have opened last Sunday, however, did not arrive.

"I waited; it didn't come in," Dr. Janis Silins, gallery director explains. He telegraphed Toledo, Ohio, where the exhibit was to have been before coming to Rollins. He received no reply.

Finally, the gallery received a call from the society's headquarters in New York. "Forgive us; we made a clerical mistake," the society's secretary explained, adding that she had completely forgotten that the exhibit had been booked for Rollins.

The watercolor exhibit, therefore, is now in Illinois, and Mrs. McKean and Dr. Silins are working on an exhibit to be taken from the Rollins Museum of Living Art.

This exhibit, scheduled to open on Jan. 20, should be interesting, Silins comments, "for we have fine works of art on campus." The exhibit will include paintings, ceramics, and furniture.

WHAT HAPPENED TO THE HONOR SYSTEM?

In the fall of 1957, with the approval of Student Council, a committee was formed to study the "need for and the advantages as well as the disadvantages of an honor system at Rollins College." After several months of work, including study of honor systems used in nine colleges comparable to Rollins in size and interviews with Rollins students and professors who had worked under honor systems, the committee presented its final report and recommendations on March 31, 1958. The honor plan devised by this group of students eliminated both a tattletale stipulation and a student court, but proposed a method of curbing cheating by giving the student individual responsibility through his classes.

In order to give Student Council an idea of the feelings of the student body concerning both the committee's proposal and honor systems in general, the students were given an opportunity to express their views in a yes-no vote. Only 37 per cent of the student body showed up at the polls. The 243 students who did vote rejected the honor committee's plan, but expressed a desire for an honor system at Rollins.

Although this yes-no vote was considered inconclusive because of the low percentage of voters, the next step in either approving or rejecting the honor plan was to vote upon it in Student Council. However, the issue was not voted upon in Council in the spring of 1958, nor has the matter been discussed in the year and a half since then. The fate of the honor committee's final report and recommendations has not as yet been determined.

When the honor committee began its investigations two years ago, the college was faced with a definite cheating problem. The students who worked with the committee felt that the student body should accept at least part of the responsibility in curbing cheating. The whole idea was vigorously opposed by many students, some of whom conscientiously objected to an honor system and felt that the entire responsibility lay with the faculty, and some of whom apparently objected to honor. The issue was hotly contested on both sides, but, if the turn-out at the yes-no vote is considered, obviously many students were not interested at all.

Currently, Rollins does not have a cheating problem and the over all student body is probably one of the best the college has seen. Perhaps now is the time to pick up where the honor committee left off in 1958 and continue the effort to bring an honor system to Rollins College. If the students do not approve the proposal presented by the original honor committee, a new plan could be drawn up. Perhaps some of the honor societies on campus could work with Student Council both in reevaluating the former committee's recommendations and in reaching conclusions of their own.

We are firmly convinced that some sort of honor system would be of benefit to Rollins College and that this is the type of project that can and should be undertaken by the student body. The time has come for the student leaders to take action and complete the work begun by the honor committee.

HOW'S YOUR LOYALTY?

Shades of McCarthyism! We're tangled in this sticky matter of allegiance. And this time, it's none other than YOU, dear student, who is being questioned. You must now sign an affidavit proving yourself loyal to Uncle Sam before that benevolent relative will loan you the sum often so necessary to obtain your higher education.

The insidious oath, inserted in the 1958 National Defense Education Act demands that a student must swear he "does not believe in, and is not a member of and does not support any organization that believes in or teaches, the overthrow of the United States Government by force or violence or by any illegal or unconstitutional methods."

Those before us have fought the issue of saluting the flag, coined a term—conscientious objector—for those who refuse to fight, and now we fame because apparently, without our signatures on a piece of paper, we are all potential subversives. Even though some of us fought the Korean War, jumped ship at Lebanon, and sweltered in North Africa, we may not be lily white citizens, but rather slightly pink.

The question is moot. Can the government impose loyalty by a scrap of paper? Nelson Rockefeller says it can. However, "collegiate" John Kennedy, along with Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Amherst and a half-dozen others, is leading the show of dissenters. He is sponsoring a repealer, which he hopes will pass this session of Congress, to delete the oath from the Education Act.

Meanwhile, when in doubt, remember two things: you are planning to major in American Citizenship and, there are only three colors in the rainbow: red, white, and blue!

The petunias in the patio are slowly approaching the prime of prettiness. They should be in full bloom by early April according to the judgment of a noted authority on the Practical Principles of Planting Petunias in Patio Potholes.

Labor and management are skillfully working together with a new method in the Beanery in an attempt to find a good recipe for a good spaghetti sauce.

The reason for the change came about when, on rereading the recipe for the spaghetti sauce, they discovered that the essential ingredient was a pinch of a rare form of Jello which, strangely enough, was not included in the Beanery's annual budget.

As opposed to last term when they were working on the principle of practice makes perfect, and tried the same thing over and over again, they are using the process of elimination and are trying a new recipe each time.

Nine recipes have been tested—and eliminated—since our return from the fall term, and progress is expected to continue at this same rate or better until satisfactory results have been achieved.

The Chapel Tower

By T. S. Darrah

Lewis Perry tells the story of a Sunday School teacher he had when he was a small boy. The teacher thought it would be a good idea if each member of the class repeated a Bible verse or sentiment as the collection was taken. "The first two givers were little girls. One of them said while dropping in her pennies: 'It is more blessed to give than to receive'; and the teacher beamed. The second little girl said sweetly: 'Blessed are they that give to the poor.' The third was a boy who remarked rather gruffly: 'A fool and his money are soon parted!'" Obviously the task of raising money is to bring the ungenerous sinners to repentance. Next week the Chapel Fund Drive will begin, and we hope that all will join generously in sincere repentance spelled out in hard cash.

Foreign Aid - Ad Infinitum?

By DR. JOSEPH W. ROMITA
(Written for the Sandspur)

To many people in less developed countries, the difference between democracy and communism remains academic so long as hunger and economic instability stalk their lands.

Prior to World War II, the United States had not engaged in planned economic, technical and military assistance programs in foreign countries such as we have today. It seemed possible, in those days, for the United States to rather "go it alone" in the isolation of the North American continent, leaving other countries to make such progress as they could, through such financing as they could find.

Further, many countries were then dependent upon some western country. Today nearly all such countries are free and independent, struggling in a hectic world to establish their new governments on sound and socially progressive courses.

As early as 1940, the United States started giving technical aid to Latin America, and for the past 12 years we have been sharing our knowledge and our material wealth—something less than 1 per cent of our gross national product—in organized programs to speed development of countries on all continents.

We had the field literally to ourselves for a few years. But, during the past five years, the Communist bloc—largely the USSR—had entered into agreements for the provision of $2.4 billion worth of economic assistance to 21 countries, primarily less developed countries on the periphery of the bloc itself.

The Communist bloc is probing on the economic front all over the Free World and appears to be eyeing with increasing interest the great continent of Africa. As the productive capacity of the Sino-Soviet bloc grows, particularly in the USSR, we can expect a continuous increase in Communist efforts at economic penetration and political subversion.

Now to return to the main theme—must foreign aid continue indefinitely? The major components of the current American foreign aid program, or some alternative thereto, will continue in some magnitude for the foreseeable future. Since the program's inception, a grand total of $26.8 billion has been obligated through the fiscal year 1959 solely for economic programs.

But, in our concentration on costs we have many times lost sight of value. The real question about American foreign aid is not "What does it cost?" but "What is it worth?"

What is it worth to the United States that the balance of power for peace remains with the free world? What is it worth to the United States to have partners for defense and to have the use of air, naval and communication bases at strategic spots around the world? What is it worth to the United States to have prevented economic and perhaps political collapse in Western Europe and in countries like Iran, Turkey, Korea, Vietnam, and Pakistan? What is it worth to the United States that most of the developing nations turn first toward the West when they look for outside help in developing their resources and their institutions? What is it worth—ad infinitum.

We should go further. In this area of change—are there available better or less costly alternatives for achieving these goals? In the years ahead the economic and technical parts of the United States foreign aid program will become even more important than they have been up to the present time.

A Christmas Vacation With Mexican Family Treats Marilyn Dupres To Foreign Customs

By JUDY CARL
Sandspur Staff

"Just fantastic!" exclaimed senior Marilyn Dupres about her recent Mexican Christmas. Having visited our southern neighbors this past summer, Marilyn was invited to return to her host family, and did so to enjoy a holiday season that was "really different."

This friendly, red-headed Phi Mu first went to Mexico through a non-profit exchange program, An Experiment in International Living, which has approximately 28 participating member-countries. The first month she spent living with a family in the same city where the other members of her group stayed. Then, with their leader, the group toured the rest of the country.

Marilyn was a little worried about spending Christmas in another country, but when she saw, from the plane, that the streets were brightly and colorfully lighted like ours, and, later, after she had seen the store windows decorated with greetings and discovered that the Mexicans had Christmas trees too, she "felt much better."

She spent two days in Mexico City, then traveled 300 miles north to Leon, Granajuato, where she attended a Christmas night "posada" or party.

Marilyn related how, at the party, the pinata (a crepe-paper star with a crockery center filled with goodies) "was regulated on strings by two boys from the roof, while each one was blindfolded and would hit it with a broom handle. "I really enjoyed that," she recalled.

Sugar cane was served. . . "you peel it and chew on the sweet center," Marilyn explained. "Oh, and then we had a lot of fun," she continued, "playing games in the street. They reminded me of our grade school games, and this was something much different than I expected, because they seem to be so very formal at other times. But it was Christmas, everyone was happy, and everyone played just for the sheer fun of it."

"On Christmas Eve, the family met and attended the Midnight Mass together. It was a beautiful service. We returned home, opened our gifts, and then ate a light meal. . . about 3:00 in the morning!"

MODELLING one of her souvenirs from Mexico, Marilyn Dupres discusses her summer and Christmas experiences in a foreign land.

Marilyn went on to describe the Mexican dating system. "In the evening, everyone goes to the plaza, a gathering place something on the order of our ice-cream parlor. But they're always very dressed up and quite reserved. The boys walk around in one direction and the girls in the other. A boy may greet you and, after several days he may stop to speak or ask you out."

"Usually there are a few girls walking together, and they will go on ahead if previously informed that their friend is interested in this boy. This, then, is a favorable sign for him. Girls and boys don't date alone, and they don't stay out after 10:00, because such things simply aren't done."

"There is no future for anyone who does not conform. It's just like a fairy land; everything's so provincial. . . and it's all so simple and easy."

"They think our morals are horrible because they get all of their impressions from movies, which are the big thing down there. To them, we're all rockin' and rollin' hot kids who just don't give a damn. . . and after a while among them, you can start to see us through their eyes and can realize, just how ridiculous are some of the things we do!"

Marilyn, an academic wonder, is a member of Phi Society and one of the three members of Key Society, both academic honoraries.

Organists Gleason, Milburn Present Musical Vespers Series In Chapel

Organ Vespers, a series of musical programs featuring works of the 17th century masters to those of contemporary composers, are being presented by Catharine Crozier and Janice Milburn in the Knowles Memorial Chapel each Wednesday afternoon at 5:00 p.m. until Feb. 17.

In the program this Wednesday, Jan. 20, Miss Crozier will play "Suite for a Musical Clock" by Franz Joseph Hayden and "Chorale in E Major" from "Soul Longing for Heaven" by Cesar Franck.

"Suite for a Musical Clock" was composed by Hayden for the "musical clock" popular in his time. Both Handel and Mozart composed many pieces for the "musical clock."

Franck's "Three Chorales," as explained in the program notes, are not, as with Bach, based on a chorale melody, but are rather in the nature of variations.

Other selections to be included in this Wednesday's Vespers are those of William Boyce, Dietrich Buxtehude, Johann Pachelbel, and Olivier Messiaen, a contemporary composer.

At future Vespers programs will be heard Masses for the Organ by Couperin and Bach, two parts of Messiaen's "Preludes for the Sunday of Pentecost," the second and third parts of Franck's "Three Chorales."

Divinity School Prof To Meet Students

Prof. J. Phillip Hyatt of the Divinity School at Vanderbilt, will be on the Rollins campus on Wednesday, Jan. 20. Students interested in entering the service of the church may meet and talk with Prof. Hyatt at 4:00 in the Chapel Conference Room.

"He is a first rate scholar of the Old Testament and we are pleased to have him visit us," Dean T. S. Darrah commented.

Girl Hoopsters Provide Few Fans With Exciting Action

By BOB STEWART
Sandspur Sports Editor

After a somewhat arduous search through the old dusty stacks of the Sandspurs of the past I found that I am about to make history this week in this column.

My search, in vain, was to find out if any sports editor of years gone by had ever written about a rather important, and definitely overlooked, phase of Rollins sports. What form of athletic endeavor am I speaking about? The Girls' Intramural Basketball League.

Directing myself to the male population of our closely knit colony, I know that less than 20 percent of the Rollins men have ever watched a girls' basketball game; after observing such a match, I know that the remaining 80 percent have something to look forward to.

Stewart

Although the intramural schedule was played last term, it is not too late to see a girls' basketball game. Later on in this term the Rollins girl cagers will play an intercollegiate match with an opponent which has not been named as yet.

If you are looking for a real treat, don't miss the girl hoopsters in action. I know that you will be surprised with the speed and accuracy which the females exhibit. There are quite a few male basketball players, at least that's what they call themselves, who could take a lesson from the "fairer sex."

It is interesting to note that on Jan. 18 the Rollins hoopsters are scheduled to play Georgia Teachers College in a home game. However, Georgia Teachers College is no more.

The night of Jan. 18 will find the local cagers playing host to Georgia Southern College. The players for the Southern team are the same as those of the Teachers squad, only the name is different.

The name of the state college at Statesboro was changed by the state Board of Regents, and was requested by school officials to more accurately reflect the educational scope of the institution.

While on the subject of Georgia Southern, it is interesting to note that of the 808 four-year colleges playing intercollegiate basketball last year, only Georgia Teachers College had TWO players scoring more than 600 points.

Chester Curry scored 638 points, while Whitey Verstraete poured 620 points through the nets. Curry was named "Georgia College Player of the Year," while Verstraete was named to the third team NAIA All-American squad. These two stars will lead their team against the Tars Monday night.

Another Rollins opponent, the University of Miami, has been rolling up win after win in convincing manner. The Hurricanes, led by 6'6" Dick Hickox, won 12 of their first 13 games, including eight straight.

Miami opened up with a 110-86 triumph over Rollins; other wins for the Hurricanes came over such top teams as the University of Houston, Loyola U., Murray State, the Univ. of Fla., University of South Carolina, and a two point victory over Iona College of New Rochelle, N. Y.

The Iona win marked the first time in Miami's 24 year basketball history that the Hurricanes had played in Madison Square Garden, the capital of collegiate basketball.

Miami appears like a sure repeat as FIC champs. IF the Hurricanes can get past their Feb. 5 meeting at DeLand with Stetson University. The Hatters have run hot and cold this year, but, when they are on, they look like a championship ball club. This game should be the best match of the 1960 season in the state.

Basketball, Tennis Highlight Return Of Men's Intramurals

Basketball returned to the intramural scene this week as the IM cagers started going at each other Tuesday night. Games are scheduled for every Tuesday and Thursday evening, with two games a night being played.

This year's basketball schedule is divided into two halves, with the winner of the first half playing the 2nd half champs, for the Championship.

Last year's winning team was Sigma Nu, and it is expected that most of their competition will come from the always strong X Club cagers and the rising Lambda Chi quintet.

The men's intramural tennis is scheduled to get underway on Monday, Jan. 18, when Delta Chi plays the Faculty, and Lambda Chi takes on KA.

This year's rules have been changed, and, for the first time, each match will be one pro set. In other words, the first player to win eight games, wins the match. Each team will play four singles and two doubles.

Three courts will be assigned each match, so two singles and one doubles shall be played at 4:15 on Mondays and Fridays, the two afternoons set aside for IM tennis.

An organization may use different players for singles and doubles, and the team winning four out of six matches is the winner. Ties of three all will not be played off.

X Club is the defending champ, and last year's runner-up, Sigma Nu, Delta Chi and Lambda Chi are expected to be the chief contenders. The season ends March 4th.

Tars Play Host To Mercer Bears Tonight at OAFB

By JIM SWAN
Sandspur Sports Writer

Tonight the Rollins hoopsters play host to Mercer University's Bears at Orlando Air Force Base in what should prove to be an exciting match.

Wednesday night the Tars entertained Florida Southern College at the Winter Park Gym in a Florida Intercollegiate Conference game. The result was not available at the time the paper went to press.

Last Friday evening the Tars returned to action after a four week lay off, and their performance was anything but impressive.

Before a capacity crowd gathered at the Orlando Air Force Base Gym, the Rollins cagers were crushed by an aggressive, fast-moving, sharp-shooting Transylvania team, 106-79.

The first 12 minutes of this game were exciting, and closely contested. Rollins took the tip and scored first, and maintained a slight lead during the first ten minutes.

With the 20 minute period reaching the half way mark, Transylvania, led by 5'11" guard Jennis Stidham, took possession of the scoring and moved to a 56-38 halftime lead.

The visiting Pioneers widened this gap to 23 points after three minutes of the 2nd period. Rollins made a desperate bid with 10 minutes left in the game as Ralph Tanchuck hit for four baskets and three charity tosses to pull the Tars within ten points of the final winners.

This attempt failed as the Pioneers once again maintained possession of the ball and the scoring.

High man for the Tars was Claude Crook who made 11 field goals for 22 points. Captain Bob Griffith was next in line with 16 followed by Tanchuck with 15. Rollins high scorer Dick Bishop hit for 14 points in the first half, but was held scoreless during the final period.

Next Monday night the Tars will oppose a strong Georgia Southern team at the Winter Park Gym. It is hoped that the student body will support the Rollins cagers for this and the remainder of the local games.

Rollins Netters Boast Tough 13 Match Slate

By MAURY MERKIN
Sandspur Sports Writer

The Rollins tennis team recently revealed its 1960 intercollegiate schedule, one which will provide the local tennis fans with more than their share of exciting matches.

Facing some of the top teams in the nation, Rollins will open its schedule March 7 against Florida Southern College. The Tar netters close their 1960 season May 14 against nationally-ranked Miami at Coral Gables.

Coach Norm Copeland believes that the Tars second foe, Georgia Tech, will be the top team in the always tough Southeastern Conference. This match should be the Tars acid test.

Another Rollins foe, Princeton, looms as one of the best in the always powerful Ivy League. Other out-of-state foes include Duke University and Concordia Seminary.

Of the 13 matches this year all but four will be held on the Rollins courts. Lacking only seniors on this year's squad, Rollins should prove to be formidable opposition for all its foes.

Rollins' 1960 schedule is as follows:

DATE	GAME	PLACE
Mar. 7	Flor. South.	Home
Mar. 23	Georgia Tech.	Home
Mar. 25	Flor. South. Lakeland	Home

All Star Hoopsters Check IM Winners

The annual game between the All-Star team and the Girls' IM champs, the Theta's, was won by the Stars, 59-37, in their Jan. 6 clash.

The well-played game moved at a fast pace with the All-Stars harboring a six point lead at the half. Good defensive and offensive teamwork during the second half clinched the win for the All-Stars.

The Stars team was composed of the top 12 players from various IM teams. The Stars were altered after each quarter, thus giving everyone an equal chance to play. High scorer was Theta's Betty Van Mater, who netted 16 points.

Winter term is softball time for Rollins women, and, judging from the practice activity on the Sandspur Bowl, everyone is out to try and dethrone the Independent squad, last year's winners.
