Government Gives Nod To Rollins For Loan Fund

Rollins College has been approved to participate in the program known as the National Defense Education Act. Through this act the Federal Government makes funds available to be used by colleges and universities over a four year period for the improvement of the educational program in the nation.

As a part of this program, Rollins has received a limited amount of funds. These funds are now being made available for student loans.

The program is designed primarily to encourage students to study education, science, mathematics, engineering, and foreign languages. In selecting the recipients for these loans, preferences will be given to students who are majoring in these fields.

Loan recipients from this fund who become full time teachers in a public, elementary, or secondary school will have 50% of the loan, plus interest, cancelled at the rate of 10% each academic year that they teach.

A full time student in good academic standing who must borrow money to continue his education at Rollins may apply for one of these loans providing that he meets the stipulations required in the program.

Any student interested in such a loan should see Miss Chloe M. Lyle, cashier of the school.

Confab Slated At Founders' Week; Two Animag Speakers Announced

As part of Rollins Diamond Jubilee Celebration, a special conference on "The Arts and Sciences: Language for the Future" will be held on campus following the Founder's Week activities in February.

The conference will be conducted under the leadership of Dr. Elmer Stuart C. Northrop, Sterling Professor of Philosophy and Law at Yale University and visiting professor at Rollins for spring term.

Other members of the panel are Dr. Henry Margenau, physics pro-

Election Rules To Be Amended

Tony Toledo, vice-president of the Student Council, announced the following proposed amendments to the Student Association Constitution in the Council meeting last Tuesday. The amendments are concerned with general election rules.

Elections shall be conducted by the Election Board composed of the following members: the president and vice-president of the Student Council, two Student Council members and two alternates appointed by the president, and one faculty member of the college. The presidents of ODK and Libra were eliminated from the Board because they are not a part of the Council.

All candidates running for office must submit their names no later than five days in advance so that their eligibility can be checked.

Only those persons appointed by the chairman of the Election Board shall sit at the voting table and have access to the voting list.

Two days prior to the election two posters must be displayed stating the time, place, and date of the elections.

These amendments will be voted on at next week's Council meeting.

Freshman March Of Dimes

FRESHMEN, who will participate in tomorrow's roadblock, display some of the signs they will use in collecting for the polio drive.

Frosh Sponsor Roadblock For March Of Dimes

Tomorrow, Jan. 23, the Freshman class will set up a "roadblock" at the intersection of Maitland and Orange Avenues in Winter Park to collect money for the March of Dimes.

The "roadblock" will be operated by Freshman class members placed at strategic points of the intersection to accept donations from passing motorists. The "roadblock" will operate from 8 a.m. until 6 in the evening.

Freshman class president, Pete Kellogg, commented, "The success of the March of Dimes project depends upon every member of the freshman class. We hope that everyone will be able to give at least one hour of his time to help these crippled children."

This project has been undertaken in answer to a challenge by the Sophomore class, which will hold a "Sadie Hawkins Day Dance" in the Center on Jan. 30. The proceeds from this dance will go to the March of Dimes campaign, and the Freshman class through the "roadblock" tomorrow hopes to top the contribution of the Sophomore class.

Working with Pete Kellogg on the organization of the freshman project have been the other class officers.

Pres. Hugh F. McKean, representing the field of art, will also participate in the conference. Announcements about the conference are being sent to 600 selected colleges and to all the members of the Florida Philosophical Association, Dean Schiller Scroggs adds.

Invitations are also being sent to college patrons and friends living in Central Florida, and arrangements are being made for interested students and faculty members to attend at least some of the conference sessions, Scroggs adds.

The conference will overlap with Founder's Week activities. The Monday morning convocation, which brings Founders' Week to a close, will also be the kick-off for the conference.

Two of the conference participants, Northrop and Margenau, will speak on the Animated Magazine, Scroggs discloses.

Kiefer, Spaulding Join News Staff

Two freshmen have been named to serve as associate news editors on the Sandspur staff.

The two, Lauren Kiefer and Joan Spaulding, have been working on the news staff since the beginning of fall term. They have both had previous publication experience in their high schools.

The freshmen will help news editor Bob Rauch in planning and supervising the work of the news staff.

Honorary To Hold Forum Wednesday

The first in a series of forums to be sponsored by Pi Gamma Mu, social science honorary, will be held Wednesday evening, Jan. 27, from 7 to 8:00 in the Visitor's Lounge in Carnegie Hall.

"We are planning to have at least one forum a month," Julie Van Pelt, president of the honorary explains, adding that the Pi Gamma Mu members felt that there was a definite need on campus for a series such as this.

"We will be filling in a missing link," Miss Van Pelt commented. Last spring a series of three forums were held in Dyer Memorial and proved to be highly successful.

The topic for discussion at the first forum is to be "Is the American Moral Fabric Disintegrating?" Dean T. S. Darrah will serve as moderator of a panel composed of Rev. Claxton Dogget, minister of the Winter Park First Methodist Church; Dr. W. Stephen Sanderlin, Jr., professor of English; and Dr. Bruce Brooks Wavell, assistant professor of mathematics.

The panel members were selected in order to have different fields represented, thus giving several points of view on the problem, Miss Van Pelt explains.

Each panel member will talk for ten minutes on the subject. Then there will be a half hour question and answer session.

Speakers and topics for the following forums will be selected by members of the honorary after evaluating the first session.

Dean Darrah, a graduate of Harvard and Harvard Divinity School, is dean of the Knowles Memorial Chapel and president of the National Association of College and University Chaplains.

Nine Groups Plan To Enter Sing

Five women's social groups and four men's groups have announced their intentions of participating in this spring's Campus Sing, co-chairmen Astrid Delafield and Margaret Pederson have disclosed.

The sororities which have notified the Campus Sing heads of their plans to enter the May 15 choral singing contest are Alpha Phi, Chi Omega, Gamma Phi Beta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Phi Mu.

Men's groups planning to participate are Delta Chi, Independent Men, Lambda Chi, and Sigma Nu.

Prize songs for the competition will be chosen later this term.

An ordained Methodist minister, Rev. Dogget is a graduate of Yale Divinity School. He is presently the president of the local United Nations Society.

Dr. Sanderlin, a member of Phi Beta Kappa, earned his A.B. from William and Mary and his M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Virginia.

A graduate of Cambridge and London universities, Dr. Wavell joined the Rollins faculty this fall.

25 Rollinsites Make Top Grades For Last Term

Twenty-five Rollins students earned a grade point average of 8.00 (A minus) or better during fall term, 1959-60; this is an increase of five students over the number who maintained the 8.00 average for fall term last year.

The following is an alphabetical listing of the students with an 8.00 or better average for fall term:

Student Night Tickets Ready

Tickets for the student opening night of the forthcoming Annie Russell Theatre production of "Arms and the Man" will be available in the Beanery at lunch or supper time starting Monday, Jan. 25.

Day students may obtain their tickets for the special performance, which will be held on Monday evening, Feb. 1, at 8:30 in the ART, at the theatre box office.

The box office will be open from 3 to 5 daily, starting Monday and continuing through the last night of the production, Saturday, Feb. 6.

Choir members, who will not be in town for the student performance because of their trip to Washington, are reminded by Arthur Wagner, head of the theatre department, that they should get their tickets for one of the other performances before leaving town.

Wagner points out that the student night of "Guys and Dolls" was a sell-out, while only 250 students went to the opening night of "The Chalk Garden."

Staffers Set Up Display

WORKING on the Chapel fund drive display in the Center are Carol Sitton, Pete Noyes, Val Baumrind, Bob Fleming, and Linda Wolowitz.

'Experiment' Offers Students Passport To Understanding

By MARILYN DUPRES

If you find the thought of travel intriguing but find disagreeable the thought of being "just another tourist," the Experiment in International Living provides the answer to travel—travel with understanding.

Since it was founded 28 years ago, the Experiment has reached more than 70,000 people through its program. A non-profit, educational organization, the Experiment has, through the "outbound program," offered the opportunity for Americans to travel to other countries and has arranged for people of other countries to live in the United States as members of the "inbound program."

The Experiment is unique and unlike any other plan in that it provides members with the opportunity to live with the people of a foreign country, instead of just among them. For a month, an Experimenter lives with a family in a foreign country and participates in the family life with the hope that he will come to feel as a member of that family.

Each Experimenter is a member of a group of ten whose members live in the same city with their respective families and encounter the day-by-day problems of effective communication and the understanding and cooperation required when two cultures live under the same roof.

An Experimenter is not just a tourist or a traveler catching glimpses of the way of life but is participating in it and is therefore better able to understand the culture.

After this part of the program has ended, the group travels about the country for a month with the Experiment "brothers and sisters" and the group leader, a former Experimenter who has a command of the language and a firsthand knowledge of the country.

The countries now accepting Experimenters number approximately 30 and include countries of Central and South America, Western, Central, and Eastern Europe, Africa, the Middle East, as well as Asia.

The program is exciting and inviting, yet challenging. The latest brochures from the Experiment are available to interested students and may be obtained by writing to Box 105, Campus Mail.

If you're between the ages of 16 and 30 and are interested in living in a foreign country, the Experiment in International Living offers an invitation to consider its program as a passport to understanding.

Organist To Present Program Of Masses

Catharine Crozier will present a program of Organ Masses Wednesday, Jan. 27, at 5:00 p.m. in Knowles Memorial Chapel for the fourth afternoon of the current Organ Vespers series.

Couperin's "Organ Mass," a selection of Organ Chorales from "Organ Masses" by Bach, and the "Communion" and "Sortie" from "Mass for the Sunday of Pentecost" by Messiaen will be heard.

Messiaen, organist at the church of the Trinity and professor of Composition at the Paris "Conservatoire," writes in a highly individual style and bases much of his music on Biblical subjects, making frequent use of pictorial illustration.

Union Planning Group Continues Investigations

The Rollins Union Planning Committee held its third meeting this past Tuesday. Jack Sutliff, chairman of the committee has announced. The committee was formed last term by the student deans and Dick Mansfield to explore the possibilities and advantages of organizing a student union board.

Such a union board would work to coordinate existing student activities, introduce new ones, and work towards improved recreational facilities and programs for the student body.

In issuing an invitation to those who attended the opening conference last fall term, the student deans wrote, "An increasing number of students report that there is nothing of interest or value to do on our campus in spare time through the week and over weekends. This, alone, suggests that we might profit from a guided re-assessment of our philosophy, facilities, and intentions in regard to the varied activities that are available or that might be made available."

Sutliff reported that the committee is asking for and watching student support for campus activities, particularly those that would be associated with the Union after it has been organized. "Unless the student body shows enough interest in events of this type, such as the March of Dimes Dance to be held in the Center Jan. 30, we can be sure that the Rollins Union will not be a success," commented Sutliff.

Further details on the current work of the committee will appear in next week's edition of the Sandspur.

LED BY GENERAL Robert E. Lee (Stan Mores), the Southern Gentlemen invaded the Beanery last Thursday at supper to announce their secession.

KA's Rebel, Fly Dixie Flag Over Campus

By JUDY WELLS
Sandspur Staff

Sound the drums! Hoist the flag! Bring out your old money! After the Damnyankees! The South's going to rise again!

Thursday evening, the KA's, dashing in their Confederate uniforms and sabers, led by Stan "Bobby Lee" Mores, marched into the Beanery from all sides, accompanied by two musicians from the Winter Park High School band and three well-timed explosions. General Lee then read the proclamation of secession, after which the entire group attempted to sit down without severing a limb.

Earlier in the day, the "Southern" gentlemen, actually about 90% Northerners, traveled to the Cherry Plaza Hotel with the help of a police escort to greet Florida's governor, Leroy Collins, who met each "officer" personally.

The Orlando Sentinel's article that told of the week's festivities included a formal flag raising ceremony which didn't exist. After being informed that many townspeople planned to attend, the Kappa Alpha's organized, as only they can, a most impressive ceremony. However, less than a dozen students were on hand to witness the display.

Friday night, members and their dates attended a dinner dance held at the Rio Pinar Country Club, where the hat-check girl was somewhat confused when asked to check sabers and Confederate hats. The evening's activities included the crowning of Marge Best, K.A. Rose, and Dyer Moss's auction of Pi Phi slaves. After celebrating their independence with mint juleps, at midnight the "Southern Yankees" returned to the Union.

As an anti-climax, a Bloody Mary party was held at the Barn to nurse the effects of the previous evening and to remove an occasional beard.

Rolly Colly welcomes back the clean-shaven KA's and congratulates them on their unique celebration of Robert E. Lee's birthday.

Horszowski To Perform Beethoven, Mozart At This Evening's Concert

Mieczyslaw Horszowski, visiting instructor in piano, has returned to Rollins for the second year, to give a series of Master classes and a recital at the Winter Park High School Auditorium this Friday, Jan. 22, at 8:30 p.m.

Recognized internationally as a pianist of the foremost calibre, Horszowski is a faculty member of the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia.

Perhaps best known for his artistic collaboration with Pablo Casals, noted Spanish cellist and composer, Horszowski performed with Casals in an international concert celebrating United Nations day at the United Nations Building in New York City in the fall of 1958.

The Polish-born pianist, "an intellectual giant, with a commanding grasp of style (and) sensitivity," has amazed critics and audiences since his childhood, when, at the age of 14, he played for Pope Pius X.

Horszowski's recital on Friday, one of eight concerts of the Rollins Concert Series, is the second of his three appearances during this academic year.

For the opening selection of his Friday recital, the pianist will present "Homage a Chopin" (1949) by Villa-Lobos. Following this will be Schumann's "Scenes of Childhood, Opus 15," a potpourri of childhood delights.

An intermission will follow Beethoven's "Sonata in B flat major, Opus 106," ("Hammerklavier").

To close the program, Horszowski will play "Sonata in F major, K. 332" by Mozart.

The Master classes began at Martin Hall this last Wednesday, Jan. 20, at 2:00 p.m. and will continue Saturday, Sunday, and Monday afternoons at this time. The final class, Tuesday, Jan. 26, will be given at 9:40 a.m.

Horszowski will present his final concert of the year on May 1.

18 Quality For 'Rollins Scholars' List; Program Stresses Independent Study

Eighteen students have qualified for the designation "Rollins Scholar" as of the end of fall term, 1959.

In order to be a Rollins Scholar, a student must have an accumulative average of 7.0 and must have engaged in at least one term of Independent Study for Honors.

The students fulfilling these requirements are:

Walter Cain
Virginia Campbell
Garrett Crotty
Marilyn Dupres
Jody Frutchey
Barbara Graham
Leo Hansberry
John Harkness
Georgianna Hunter
Daniel Laurent
Sally Ragsdale
Lee Rogers

Language Society Schedules Films

A tour of the historic buildings and sights of Rottenburg, Germany, via the German film "Ein Kleinod Deutscher Romantik," will be presented to the German Club, Tuesday, Jan. 26, at 7:15 p.m.

The film, translated "A Treasure of German Romanticism," will be shown in the Library projection room for a portion of the club's meeting. Other German films, obtained for this special showing by Fritz Baer, will also be shown.

Evelyn Arndt, president of the German Club, advises that plans for a party to be held near the end of winter term will be discussed. Every student who is presently or has in the past studied the German language is invited to attend the meeting.

mittee are Dr. Alex Waite, chairman, Dr. Geneva Drinkwater, and Miss Bernice Shor.

The program of Independent Study for Honors, designed to break down departmental lines, consists of independent reading either within or outside the major field during the freshman, sophomore, or junior years.

For each term of this Honors reading, the student may receive from 1 to 3 hours of credit, with a maximum of seven hours during the year. This work, it is emphasized, is designed for students whose interests lie in intellectual development rather than minimum academic course requirements.

Those students who have taken part in at least one Independent Study project, although the Honors Committee recommends more frequent participation, may apply, either in the spring term of the junior year or the fall term of the senior year, for permission to do an individual Independent Study for Honors at Graduation.

This work, which may earn from five to ten hours of credit, includes a thesis by the student, a written examination in the major field, and an oral examination on his thesis by a faculty committee.

After fulfilling these requirements, those who are approved by

Chapel Fund Drive Ends Today; Final Results Not Yet Available

The 1960 Chapel Fund Drive officially ends today. Though a final report on the results is not yet available, the drive is on the way toward the $2500 goal set by the Chapel Staff to meet its yearly budget.

The offering at the Christmas services, which goes to the Chapel Fund, amounted to $655, putting the Fund well on its way toward the goal.

The Indian film, Pather Panchali, which was shown on Jan. 10, brought in proceeds amounting to $147.20, which Rollins Circle Francis has given to the Chapel Fund drive.

Thus a total of $802.20 had been contributed to the Fund before the drive started officially last Monday, and it was expected that the individual contributions during this past week would add to this amount considerably.

Fund Drive Chairman Anita Tanner comments, "Today is the official closing of the Fund Drive, and we would like to have all contributions in this evening. We will, however, accept contributions at any time later in the year."

BENEFITS SEEN FROM CLASS PROJECTS

During the past two weeks both the freshmen and sophomores have announced class projects for joining this year's March of Dimes campaign. The freshmen are conducting a roadblock to raise money for the polio drive, while the sophomores are sponsoring a dance next weekend in the Student Center, the proceeds of which will also go to the March of Dimes.

We should like to congratulate both classes for deciding upon these worthwhile projects, and we wish them success. The beneficial results from these projects will, we feel, extend beyond the contribution to the polio drive. The classes themselves will gain greater unity by working together for a common cause. The roadblock will no doubt help create better college-community relations by letting the townspeople of Winter Park know that Rollins students are interested in serving the community. The Leap Year dance is also an excellent idea, one which could help to fill the existing gap in the Rollins social life.

Guest Editorial

PRO HONOR PLAN

There are three basic reasons why we feel that the introduction of an honor plan would be beneficial to Rollins College. First, an honor plan would add a certain degree of prestige to the college in the academic community. Second, the fact that Rollins did have an honor plan of some sort would impress entering students with the serious attitude of the college concerning academic matters, especially if the movement for the plan were to begin with the student body. Third, the honor plan would help prevent a serious cheating problem, such as the one with which the college was faced two years ago, from ever arising again.

We can not dispute the fact that honor is an individual problem; however, the actions of each individual reflect upon the community in which he functions. As the situation now exists, it is tacitly assumed that cheating is socially acceptable. Thus Rollins, as an educational institution, could only gain a great deal by taking a positive stand on an issue as fundamental as honor. The mere signing of a statement by an entering student that he realizes cheating is not condoned at Rollins would in itself create a changed attitude on campus over a period of years.

Although an ironclad system is not the solution to a problem so basic as individual honor, we feel that some sort of recognition of the principle of honor is necessary and that it should be objectionable to no one. An honor plan, such as the one presented two years ago, would give the student the privilege of taking individual responsibility in seeing that no cheating problems arose in his own classroom situations without forcing upon him the odious duty of participating in an honor court or, for that matter, even reporting the name of an offender.

Beyond this, an honor plan would give the campus a more uniform method than has existed in the past for handling cheating situations. As it now stands, a student who is found cheating could be expelled or might receive little or no punishment depending upon the class. Although we respect the authority of the professor in his classroom, nonetheless we feel that some uniformity in the policy of the school in this matter would be of benefit to everyone concerned.

Although it has been suggested that the proposed honor plan could be detrimental to the college by giving the students more opportunity to cheat, we feel that the only satisfactory way to determine this is to adopt the plan for a trial period. Then a final judgement of the plan can be made by the students on a rational basis.

A committee, similar to that suggested in the SANDSPUR editorial of Jan. 15, might be the most effective group to initially deal with the problem. Such a committee, composed of representatives from the several honoraries on campus and perhaps an officer of Student Council, would take a sincere and effective approach to the problem of formulating an honor plan.

Gordon Struble

We sincerely hope that the student body will give its full support to these two class projects and that they will prove to be only the first of a series of constructive ideas which will strengthen the role of the class organizations on campus.

By Deb n' Air

With the first three weeks of 1960, and the usual brief good-impression-on-new-teachers period of intensified study behind us, we have seen the addition of several new potential trees along Holt Avenue, including one to replace the mass of moss which fell on a car last year; a new roof on Carnegie, to replace the one that was damaged in the 1945 hurricane; and a few changes in the Center and the dining hall.

It's a great year for progress at Rollins, even though "Old Glory" has not flown above the "horseshoe" since the middle of last term. The steeplejack, who was supposed to visit Rollins during the holidays, was called away on a special assignment—something to do with putting a flag on the moon—and has not yet returned.

It should be a wonderful year, especially for aspiring young steeplejacks. And girls... it's leap year, so it should be especially good for you too.

The most obvious evidence that there will be 29 days in February this year is the large number of diamonds being flashed in front of envious eyes around campus. Ferment, in last week's "Grapevine," announced eight engagements, representing an increase of 273% over the average of the past three non-leap years.

There are also more subtle evidences, of which the calendar is the most subtle. There are fewer girls in the dormitory on Saturday night (based on a room-to-room check by one of the girls who doesn't know it's leap year), more girls with cars, and a strange new look of hope in the eyes of the girls who do realize it's a special year.

The boys are waiting with open arms and empty wallets. In a very short time, after initiations of various sorts, there will be a large increase in the number of unclaimed frat pins. Plan ahead girls, get your pins while they are fresh out of the box, shiny, and untouched by sorority hands.

It's your chance; make the most of it!

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." Maybe this is so, but few of the dullards I know have arrived in that condition from a too strenuous application of concentration on the books.

A sage once remarked, "You may be worked to death or bored to death. Choose your path." As I look about me I wonder what percent of the toll is taken by work. James Barrie said toward the end of his life, "I leave to you the most precious possession I ever had—hard work. She is not all heavy-jowled and weary." Maybe work—just plain work—would cure many of our maladies and the novelty might be exciting.

On Learning To Learn

By DR. LAURENS H. SEELYE

Colgate University has an annual "Washington Seminar" for some of its Juniors majoring in government. They spend a half-year in Washington, D.C., while the other student majors in government follow their study on the Colgate campus. The Washington group lunches every day or so with an invited government official who gives them his extended noon-hour to be questioned on his office, its policies and problems.

I asked Dr. Mott, chairman of the department of government at Colgate, "Do you notice any difference between these two groups of majors as a result of the Washington experience?" He replied, "The main difference between them is that the boys who went to Washington and questioned the officials learned to learn from people, while the boys who stayed on the campus only continued learning from books."

Nicholas Murray Butler, a noted president of Columbia University, was a good friend of Al Smith, the then governor of New York State. I heard Dr. Butler relating memories of Al Smith, as follows: "I don't suppose Al Smith opened a book after he left the public school on New York's East Side. Yet he became Governor of the State and had a distinguished career. In fact I'd call Al an 'educated man.' He didn't get his education from books; he got it from people. He could ask questions that went right to the point, draw forth essential information, and then he did his own thinking about the answers."

Someone in our group asked Dr. Butler what he meant by this, so Dr. Butler continued, "Once Al heard a lot of dissatisfied talk about the state legislature dealing with public electrical power. Gov. Smith inquired around and learned of a Judge Brown in Elmire, N.Y., who had long interested himself in power legislation and was considered to be learned and unprejudiced on the subject. A wire went from the Governor's mansion in Albany to Judge Brown inviting him to dine at the Mansion on the coming Thursday to talk about power and spend the night. Judge Brown dropped everything and accepted."

"Thursday night after dinner Governor Smith settled down in his den with the Judge. 'Judge Brown,' he said, 'I hear you know a lot about the power situation in our State and the legislation we have and what we need. Please talk to me about it.' So Judge Brown launched forth. Every once in a while Al broke in with a question or argument to which the Judge would reply. After midnight the conversation ended, and after breakfast next morning Al thanked Judge Brown and bade him farewell."

"Al then went to his office and summoned his speech-writing secretary, Mrs. M. To her he said, 'I shall talk to the legislature this p.m. at 2:00 on the subject of revised power legislation and I wish you to prepare a speech for me with the following points. . . . Late in the morning Mrs. M. laid the speech before the Governor. He corrected and amended it, and at 2 p.m. he delivered it to the assembled legislators. New York City papers reported the speech, with editorial comment like, 'Again Governor Smith shows a remarkable grasp of the legislative needs of our state.' That's what I mean," said Dr. Butler.

Teaching students to learn from books is an aim of any school or college. After college, however, how many former students ever look at a serious book? Teaching students to learn from people: what do colleges do about this? Is it ever mentioned? Is it left to accident? Are listening to formal lectures and/or half-hearing haphazard conversations in class (sometimes called "discussions") the answer? . . . Was Gov. Al Smith an 'educated person' or merely a stuffed ignoramus?

Letters to the Editor— Council Prexy Corrects Editorial, Gives Views On Honor System

Editor:

There are several points in your last week's editorial that I differ from slightly.

First, let me say that unlike you I feel there is a cheating problem here at Rollins. This is not true in all classes, but in those classes where it does exist, it is in full swing.

I also disagree with your idea that the time to institute an honor system is when cheating has subsided. The students have to have a need and a desire for an honor system in order to have one that is going to be supported.

This brings up another point about Student Council's voting on any proposed honor system. I was a member of the committee considering the proposal for an honor system, and I remember that we all agreed that only the student body as a whole could decide whether to adopt it or not.

In fact, the committee report of 1958 reads: "The committee recommends that this plan become effective in September, 1958, if passed by a majority of the student body through a referendum vote."

I believe that the 17 members of Council should never have the power or right to impose an honor system on 700 students. If an honor system was not supported enthusiastically, it would be a sham that would only make the dishonorable. In 1958 when only 30% of the student body voted, there did not seem to be much enthusiasm. The exact figures were:

Are you in favor of the honor system proposed? YES—76, NO—

Are you in favor of any honor system? YES—124, NO—113. So all I'm saying is that Council was not supposed to vote on the proposal after this and has not been derelict in this matter for a year and a half.

There are many good and bad points about an honor system. I do not think anybody can be labeled irresponsible or as against honor just because he may be against an honor system. There are also many different kinds of honor systems. The issue is not as black and white as it may seem.

If the students through Student Council feel that the question of an honor system should be looked into again, I will be very willing to appoint a committee with the approval of Council and to help them in every way I can. However, I do recommend that students with this idea look first at the minutes of the past committee, which I will make available.

The fact remains that cheating still exists, and it should not. Until we decide what to do about it as students, I hope some professors will follow the examples of their colleagues who have successfully thwarted cheating in their classes.

Record-Holder For Broken Equipment, Chemist Struble Plans Teaching Career

By JUDY CARL
Sandspur Staff

To those who know the tall, dark-haired figure that daily haunts the science building clad in a white coat or long apron, the names "Gordon Struble" and "Knowles Hall" are practically synonymous.

Gordon, an ardent chemistry major (so ardent that he's working five years to complete his major), finds it necessary to spend most of his waking hours—and a lot of sleepy ones, too—in the labs and classrooms of Knowles.

But it's not as bad as it sounds, Gordon clarifies, because he really enjoys his work. Planning to attend graduate school and concentrate on nuclear chemistry, Gordon hopes ultimately to teach in college. Getting a little practice in early, he has served professors here as laboratory assistant.

Another reason for the late hours at Knowles is a project that Gordon is helping Dr. Don Carroll with. The National Institute of Health is conducting research on cancer and contracts various schools and laboratories to do projects. At Rollins, they are attempting to synthesize various compounds that might aid medicine in curbing or curing cancer.

One of Gordon's more popular distinctions is that he holds the college record for breaking lab equipment and having explosions (no, not Gordon... his concoctions). Speculation has arisen as to the cost of damages to Knowles when he leaves; that is, if there's any science building left at all!

Another unique distinction, Gordon has held the office of president of Key Society, academic honorary, for two years, something possible only because of his being a "five-year man."

To explain Gordon's five-year stretch, he began as an organ major and decided to switch to chemistry at the end of his sophomore year, necessitating an extra year to complete required courses.

Music is Gordon's second love. He took organ lessons in his first the Honors Committee and have cumulative grade averages of specified levels, are graduated with honors.

With the recommendation of the committee, a student is eligible for Graduation With Distinction if he has maintained an average of 7.50; Graduation With High Distinction if he has a cumulative average of 7.80; and Graduation With Highest Distinction if his average is 8.10 or higher.

A student maintaining a general average of 8.10, but not participating in the Honors program, may be awarded his degree With Distinction.

Seven seniors are presently participating in Independent Study projects for Honors at Graduation.

PROVING HIS DOUBLE interest in music and science, chemistry major Gordon Struble conducts an experiment on Bach in Knowles Hall.

three years here, at which time he was assistant organist at All Saints' Episcopal Church. He has also played for Vespers and various other functions.

Gordon considers himself lucky because, when he wants to "get away from it all—namely the science building—he can 'head for the conservatory and practice organ.'"

Speaking of Mrs. Catherine Gleason, one of his main reasons for coming to Rollins—the other being the school's "kind generosity"—Gordon believes the college is most fortunate in being "blessed with the best organist in the nation, if not in the world."

As far as the science department here is concerned, Gordon feels that its excellence is far underestimated by many potential college students planning science majors. He blames this "unpopularity" on "the awkward position of being a small liberal arts college with high tuition."

His suggested remedy is "more than just publicity, but more numerous and higher scholarships." At this time, Gordon couldn't resist putting in a plug for a new science building.

Gordon, president of Zeta Alpha Epsilon, scientific honorary, and a member of Phi Society and ODK has participated in Rollins Singers and Chapel Choir and has served as crucifer, likes to play tennis or water ski—that is, when he finds time to make time. "I think I appreciate my leisure much more, when I have it, for having to work hard when I work," he commented.

Vestal To Speak At After Chapel

The first After Chapel Club meeting of the winter term will be held this Sunday morning, Jan. 24, at 11:00 in the Chapel Conference Room.

Speaker for the meeting will be Dr. Paul A. Vestal, professor of biology. Following his talk, a discussion period will be held.

All students are welcome to attend After Chapel. Coffee will be served at the informal session.

Sunday Singers To Go Secular; February Promises Musical Goodies

By MEL ODY

Some say Winter Term is dull and dreary—nothing to do. We beg to deny this! January is (and will be) most jazzy with the Chapel Choir's migration to the nation's capital on the 29th.

The Sunday singers will go secular. Instead of the traditional religious anthems, executed in the traditional blue and white vestments, the group will render show tunes a la glee club.... MEMORIZED YET....

Don't be surprised if you see some of the members wandering around with an early symptom or two, it's from such selections as "It Might as Well be Spring," "Younger than Springtime," "I Whistle a Happy Tune," "Without a Song," "Great Day," "Time on My Hands," and many, many others!

Besides all this, they are traveling in a private railroad car and singing with a professional orchestra.

Last week marked a change from run-of-the-mill play rehearsals at the ART. Bursts of rapid Italian and botfigured figures, madly exercising, replaced the usual wild screams of the director and the equally wild run-throughs by the students.

The Quartetto Di Roma appeared as a part of the Rollins Concert Series, sponsored by the Conservatory of Music. The group played the works: Faure, Mozart, and Brahms, with a particular beauty not often heard in this country.

Last Saturday, the Ballet Royal Concert Group presented "An Evening of Ballet," produced by Theta Alpha Phi. Included in the program were such well known works as "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue" and "Graduation Ball." Culture, culture everywhere...

For February, we have all shapes and sizes of goodies! On Wednesday afternoons until Feb. 17, the Chapel will be open at 5:00 for organ vespers. Everyone is invited to come in and listen to the music of the world's greatest composers or just simply meditate.

The next day commences the annual production of Shakespeareana, presented by the classes of Mrs. Dean. This program of music and scenes from Shakespeare's works is usually presented in the Strong Hall patio—for that Globe-Theatre feeling!

The Freshman show is also slated for Feb.—with original music and book! We know everybody will want to roam down to Rec Hall and catch this bit... always lots of talent and surprises in store...

Well, didn't we tell you? Don't just blindly become apathetic between now and June—live in the ART and become an organ vesper!

Calendar Includes Meetings, Lectures

Dean of Men, Dyckman Vermilye, has announced that an officer-selection team from the United States Coast Guard Reserve will be in the Student Center today, Jan. 22, to talk to seniors interested in the service.

The Phi Mu pledges are planning an open house on the evening of Jan. 24. Entitled, "Shipwreck Rock," the event is to be held at Fox Hall. All Rollins students are invited to attend.

William A. Constable, assisted by Mrs. Constable, will give a lecture on Rudyard Kipling on Monday, Jan. 25, at 4:15 p.m. in the Annie Russell Theatre.

Foreign students and staff members must report their addresses to the U. S. Immigration Service during January. Cards for this purpose may be procured from the Winter Park Post Office or from the Information Office, Ad. Building.

An After-Chapel Coffee will be held on Sunday, Jan. 24, at 11:00 in the Casa Iberia for the purpose of introducing Mrs. Richard Boynton, new Resident Head of Casa Iberia; Dr. Robert S. Platt, Visiting Professor of Geography; and Mrs. Platt to the Rollins Trustees, Faculty, and Staff.

The Hamilton Holt Chapter of the Florida Student Education Association will hold a meeting Tuesday, Jan. 26, at 7:00 p.m. in the Alumni House, president Margaret Carmichael announces. Dean Schiller Seroggs will be present to speak to all those interested in a teaching career.

There will be a Cafexinho (book review followed by coffee) held in the Casa Iberia Saturday, Jan. 23, at 10:00 a.m. Dr. Kathryn Abbey Hanna will review Florida on Trial 1593-1602 (1959) by Charles W. Arnade.

All filter cigarettes are divided into two parts, and...

"Weni, widi, Winston!" Thus did Caesar (a notoriously poor speller) hail the discovery of Filter-Blend—light, mild tobaccos specially selected and specially processed for filter smoking.

He knew that a pure white filter alone is not enough. To be a complete filter cigarette, it must have Filter-Blend up front. And only Winston's got it!

That's why Caesar would never accept another brand even when it was offered gratis. In fact, history tells us he'd glower at the extended pack and sneer, "Et tu, Brute?"

In a stirring peroration to his legions, Caesar put it this way: "For the Numeral I filter cigarette—for the best-tasting filter cigarette—for the noblest filter cigarette of all—smoke Winston!"

"Winston tastes good like a cigarette should!"

P.S. to bachelors. If you're lucky enough to find a gal who'll keep you in Winstons, Caesar!

Time Out Rollins Fortunate To Host Fla. State Open Tennis Tournament

By BOB STEWART
Sandspur Sports Editor

For the sports enthusiasts of Rollins College last week was perhaps the most active one of the school year. What with two varsity basketball games and the Florida State Tennis Tournament, there was actually little time for studies.

Rollins was quite fortunate in being able to play host to such an excellent conglomeration of tennis players as was assembled at the nearby courts for the seven days of matches.

This was the 30th Florida State Tennis Tournament, and it was deemed the most successful. It must also have been some kind of record as far as country representatives was concerned.

Stewart

There were 14 different countries represented in the tourney, including such far distant lands as Brazil, Japan, Chile, Argentina, Germany, Australia and California. All in all there were 48 entries in the men's division of the tournament, 22 women's entries, and 20 hopefuls in the senior division, a total of 90 topnotch tennis players, who provided us, the lucky fans, with excellent tennis.

Among the many top stars in the tournament were Mike Davies, the winner, who is ranked 3rd in England; Don Candy, the runnerup, who is ranked 6th in Australia; Ed Zuleta, second ranked in Ecuador, and the doubles team of Jon Hammill and Rodney Mandelstam from South Africa, the number one ranked Junior doubles team in the world.

Many of the players in the Tournament, which was blessed with wonderful weather, represented the Jr. Davis Cup teams from their respective countries. A crowd-pleasing team was the Japanese combination of Matsumoto and Suga. These two small netters comprised the first Jr. Davis Cup team ever to represent their country, and I believe it safe to say they were the sentimental favorites against their larger opponents.

The Jr. Davis cuppers, plus the majority of other players, now have moved on to Miami to continue the play of the circuit of Florida tennis tournaments. The strength of the foreign teams rather sorely points out the need of good American tennis players. Anyone with an answer is urged to contact Perry Jones and friends, not Jack Kramer.

Aussies' Candy

While on the subject of tennis you might mark down the date Feb. 24th, for that afternoon at 2:30 Maureen Conolly, the number one girls' tennis player for two years, and Eddie Moylan, once ranked second in the U.S., will hold a tennis clinic—sponsored by Wilson Sporting Goods. It should be worth attending.

Again tennis—anyone who witnessed the Davies, Zuleta semi-final match must have been shocked by the horror show Mr. Davies produced. Publicity said he was from England, but if you didn't read the papers you probably thought he was from Hollywood. Sadly enough he won his match from a game competitor, but although he won the game in points, he was crushed in any contest for sportsmanship by the traveling retriever.

The night of Feb. 12 will see Joe Justice and his staff, plus the soccer coaches of the other FIC squads, traveling to DeLand for the annual soccer banquet. At this time Jacksonville will be presented with the Arthur McKean Trophy.

An interesting note on soccer — The first year of the conference Rollins won the top spot and the following year the Tars dropped to the bottom as Florida Southern took top honors. This year J. U. won first spot as E. S. C. ended last. Conclusion, Stetson will win next year, and J. U. will end up in the cellar!

Rollins' cagers defeated Mercer, 62-61, but high scorer of the game was Donnie Veal of the Bears with 28 points. Donnie's big brother — Coute Veal — is a promising shortstop for the Detroit Tigers. Athletic ability runs in the family!

Through the Mercer game Dick Bishop was high point man with 130 points for a 18.2 average. Ralph Tanchuck and Claude Crook both were tied with 109 points for a 13.6 average.

Tanchuck was running away with rebounding honors with an average of 10 per game, while Crook was the second with five per game. Bishop had committed the most fouls, 31, had tried the most field goals, 111, and had made the most free throws, 43. At this point the Rollins hoopsters had a 4-4 record.

If you ever wondered what expenses are incurred during a tennis tournament it might be interesting to note that the Florida State Tennis Tournament consumed 504 tennis balls. Tennis anyone?

IM Basketball, Tennis Action Pace Men's Sports

The men's intramural season for the winter term got underway, as the basketball and tennis campaigns opened last week.

The X Club, runners-up to Sigma Nu in last year's basketball race, started off on the right foot again by defeating Kappa Alpha 77-15. At halftime the score was 44-5 as the Clubbers showed the Southern Gentlemen how to play basketball.

Sam Seales was high man for the Club with 18 points followed closely by Ronnie Brown, with 15. In the second game of the evening the men of TKE, led by Gene Ashby, beat the Independents, 23-19.

Sigma Nu kept up their winning ways by defeating Delta Chi, 46-31. The halftime score in this meeting was 32-12 in favor of the Snakes. The Deltas out-scored their opponents in the second half, 21-15, but it wasn't enough to overcome the first half lead. In a game that followed, KA beat TKE, 33-22.

On the tennis scene Monday, the KA's and Lambda Chi's played to a three apiece tie, while the faculty eeked out a 4-2 win over the Deltas.

The KA's took one singles set and both doubles sets, one by forfeit when Lambda Chi could not find another man to play the match.

For Lambda Chi, Dale Ingman-son def. Chuck Morley, 8-4, John Stutz def. Fritz Baer, 8-4, and Jeff Sellen won over Rodney Dillard, 8-3.

Chuck Berger put the damper on Nate Tracy, 8-4, while the team of Baer and Dillard was doing the same to Stutz and Sellen, 8-4.

Meanwhile, Jamie MaGirl was teaching John Hamilton a little tennis English as MaGirl won his set against the faculty, 8-3. The other Delta Chi winner was Dave Powers, who outplayed Arthur Wagner, 8-6, in the closest game of the afternoon.

The two singles winners for the faculty were Bob Chase, who defeated Clay Nicolaysen, 8-2, and Clint Trowbridge, who topped Ed Brady, 8-0.

The doubles team of C. L. Varner and Wagner defeated Powers and Brady, 8-5, while Chase and Hamilton proved to be too much for Nicolaysen and MaGirl, 3-2.

Cagers To Try For Third Place

Rollins College will have a shot at 3rd place in the FIC this week. A victory over Tampa Thursday, coupled with a Saturday win over Jax. U. would give the Tars a 3-3 conference record and move them within reach of the leaders.

DICK DIVERSI, the Tars leading golfer over the past four years, shows championship form as he blasts out of a sand trap at Dubsdread.

Diversi To Lead Rollins Linksters After Record

By BOB STEWART
Sandspur Sports Editor

The Rollins College golfers take to the golf links Wednesday afternoon when they open the 1960 season against the University of Wisconsin at Dubsdread.

During this match the Rollins linksters will be shooting for their 27th straight dual match without a defeat.

One of the chief reasons the Tars have been able to achieve such an accomplished record is the outstanding scores which Dick Diversi has turned in over the past three seasons.

A senior this year, Diversi has never been ranked lower than two on the Rollins ladder. The 28-year old X Clubber has been playing his favorite sport since the age of 11, and it was not long after he started swinging the clubs that he started winning tournaments.

During the years 1946-1949 Dick won the Junior Championship Maine Interscholastic Golf Tournament, while in high school.

After graduating from high school he went into the Navy for five years, but still found time to return to Maine to win the Maine State Championship Tournament 1953-1957.

At Rollins on a golf scholarship, the likable star won the Miami Invitational individual play in 1958 as he guided the Tars to a team victory. During his first three years, Diversi lost only four of 42 collegiate dual matches, quite a record when one considers the fact that he has been playing the number one players from some of the best golf teams in the country.

As for this year's prospects, Dick believes, "We can have a real good team if the boys get out and work. We won't be as well balanced as last year, but we are potentially strong."

Tar Quintet Chalks Up Two Victories

The Rollins cagers got back in the win column last week as the Tars chalked up wins number three and four at the expense of Florida Southern College and Mercer University; however, Monday night the Tars dropped their fifth game of the young season, bowing to a strong quintet from Georgia Southern College.

Although losing to Georgia Southern, 70-62, Rollins played its best game of the season as the Tar cagers pushed the highly touted visitors all the way during the second half.

Scoring the first nine points of the game, the Eagles opened their lead over the slower Tars to as much as 14 points, 32-18, after 17 minutes of action. Rollins cut the difference to 36-26 by halftime, due mainly to the accurate shooting of Captain Bob Griffith, the losers' high point man with 18 points.

The second half saw the Rollins hoopsters come alive. Using a pressing zone defense, the Tars urged the visitors into throwing away many passes—all to the home team's advantage.

With only five minutes remaining in the game, Rollins had cut Southern's lead to five points, 59-54. This surge was paced by Griffith, and the ball handling of Mike Bailey, the 5-6 guard.

At this point the taller Georgians used their height to good advantage as they controlled the boards, and two jump shots by co-captain Whitey Verstraete clinched the Eagles' eighth win in ten outings.

A week ago tonight the Tars battled Mercer University and downed the game Bears, 62-61, in an exciting contest.

The Tars led almost all the way in the ball game and held a 35-27 edge at the half. Mercer woke up and took a one point lead with less than two minutes remaining in the game.

EXHIBITION GAME

On Thursday, Jan. 28, the women's varsity will take on the Tars in an exhibition contest at the Winter Park High School gymnasium.

Captain Bob Griffith and company will be attired in boxing gloves for this engagement. The donation for this game is 50 cents per person, and tickets are available through the social organizations.

Later in the evening, last year's champions, Sigma Nu, will play host to last year's runners-up, the X Club, in an intramural battle.

19 Tar Netters Play In State Tennis Tourney

Owen McHaney led a field of 19 Rollins College tennis hopefuls into the Florida State Open Tennis Tournament held last week on the Rollins and Winter Park courts.

Miss McHaney advanced to the finals of the girls' division before she was defeated by Orlando's Carol Prosen, the number one ranked player. Along the way Miss McHaney defeated young Vivian Curry, and Mary Habicht of Brazil, before running into the strong strokes of Miss Prosen.

In the men's division the Tar netters were less productive. Only Dave Hewitson and Burnam MacLeod survived the first round, and these two players were defeated in the following round.

Hewitson, last year's team captain, upset Mexico's fourth ranked junior, Alfonso Acuna, 6-3, 6-3, only to be defeated by quarter finalist Don Kierbow, of California, 6-4, 7-5.

MacLeod defeated Craig Linton of Winter Park, 2-6, 7-5, 6-1, but was set back by Don Candy of Australia, 6-1, 6-0. Candy went on to the finals only to be crushed by Mike Davies.

Coach Norm Copeland explained that the Tar netters were outclassed by the visiting players, but that the locals' showing was anything but disgraceful as the Rollins participants received valuable experience for the oncoming season.

SPORTS AGENDA

Basketball — Tomorrow night the Tar cagers play host to Jacksonville University, a 80-57 early season FIC conqueror of the Tars, at the Winter Park Gym. Tuesday, Feb. 2, Rollins entertains a powerful U. of Miami quintet in a FIC battle. Next Friday and Saturday Rollins hits the road, playing Mercer and Georgia Southern on successive evenings.

Men's IM — This afternoon Sigma Nu vs. TKE, and X Club plays the Indies in IM tennis action. Monday the Faculty will play Lambda Chi, while KA opposes the Snakes. In IM basketball Tuesday night, Ind. vs. Delta Chi, and Lambda Chi takes on X Club. The following night the KA's and Delts take on the Indies and TKE respectively.

Girls' IM's — The girls' softball teams tangle with each other daily, with games starting at 4:15 on the Sandspur Bowl.

Theta, Phi Mu, Indies, Gamma Phi Open Softball Season With Wins

The Theta-Alpha Phi game on Jan. 13 marked the opening of the women's softball season.

Susie Morgenthaler slammed the first home run of the season giving the Phi's a two point lead at the end of the first inning. However, this lead disappeared in the third inning when the Theta's scored 9 runs thanks to home runs hit by Shay O'Beirne and Sandy Smith.

Due to the good pitching and fielding by the Theta team, the Alpha Phi's were unable to score again resulting in a 14-2 victory for the Theta's.

The following day the Phi Mu team tromped the Chi O's 29-3. The Chi O team scored their only 3 runs during the first inning, but were unable to compete with the consistently hard hitters of the Phi Mu team during the rest of the game.

The game on Jan. 15 between the Independent women and the Pi Beta Phi team was a continuous battle ending with the Indies ahead 7-5. Although the Indie women held their lead throughout the game, the Pi Phi's rallied scoring 3 runs during the last inning.

Again this year it appears that the success of the Indies team will depend on the pitching of Marge Smith.

Softball activity resumed again on Jan. 18 with the Pi Phi's struggling against the Theta's. Hitting was nil for both teams during the first inning but improved, and the Theta's compiled a 19-8 win.

The Kappa-Gamma Phi game on Tuesday resulted in a 32-11 victory for the Gamma Phi's. Sensational hits by the Gamma Phi's completely baffled the Kappa's giving the winning team 29 accumulated runs during the first two innings. Kitty Ondovchak hit a home run and Sue Scribner accounted for many runs batted in.

The golf ladder matches resumed this week, and July Jones still occupies the first position on the ladder. Women interested in playing on the ladder this term are required to pay the $10 fee for use of the Dubedread country club.

DICK BISHOP, the Tars leading scorer with 144 points through the first nine games, goes up for two points in the F.S.C. game which Rollins won, 58-56.
