Student Council Votes To Accept Cheating Proposal

The uniform method of dealing with cheating, as proposed by the Faculty Honors Committee and the Student Academic Affairs Committee, was passed by a 10 to 6 vote at the Monday evening meeting of the Student Council.

Reservation about the proposal was expressed by some representatives. It was their opinion that there should be more student participation in the committee which decide the course of action to be taken with a student found guilty of cheating. After some discussion, a motion was passed to investigate the possibility of including a student on these committees.

John Reese, chairman of the Campus Improvements Committee, reported that the telephone company would not allow the free phone in the Student Center to be placed in an outside location. He also announced that the problem of "flies in the beanery" was being investigated.

The council approved an appropriation of $200 to the Photographic Department for the purchase of additional equipment.

In other matters of appropriation, the Rollins Union requested $2000 to be used mainly for next year's social events. The Theatre Arts Department requested $2000 for the 1960-61 theatrical season. Final vote on these two appropriations was postponed until the next meeting.

Ginny Campbell, Kappa representative, announced that their scholarship trophy has "disappeared." The trophy is valuable and the Kappas would appreciate its return.

President Bob Fleming announced that the Fiesta Scholarship Committee would consist of John Harkness, Jean Abendroth, Stan Morris, and John Looby. They will meet with Miss C. M. Lyle, Cashier of the College, to decide who will receive these scholarships.

Sandspur One Of 2 Small College Weeklies To Earn All-American

The Sandspur is one of the only two small college weeklies in the country to receive an All-American rating, the highest rank awarded by the Associated Collegiate Press, for the first half of the 1959-60 school year.

In awarding the Sandspur its ninth consecutive All-American rating, an ACP judge commented, "You set the pace in standards for college newspapers everywhere with an interesting and lively product."

Examining the newspaper on the basis of coverage, content, and physical properties, the ACP judge awarded it a total of 3520 points—20 more than the minimum necessary for the All-American rank. Rated in 23 specific areas, the Sandspur received four "superiors," 13 "excellents," five "very goods," and one "good."

The judge noted improvement over last spring's papers in two areas: treatment of copy, which went from "very good" to "excellent," and editorials, which rose from "excellent" to "superior."

Other areas receiving the "superior" ratings were balance of news sources, creativeness of features, and editorial page features.

"There's something for everyone," the judge praised the "Spur." "Your staff is at its best in pro-

NEW LIBRA MEMBERS, initiated Monday, are Jody Bilbo, Dr. Geneva Drinkwater, and Carol Sitten. Not pictured is Mrs. Hugh McKean, who will be initiated when she returns from a trip to New York.

Four Join Libra Ranks In After-Hours Tapping

Recently honored by membership in Libra, local women's leadership honorary, are senior Carol Sitten, junior Jody Bilbo, and faculty members Mrs. Hugh McKean and Dr. Geneva Drinkwater.

With the exception of Mrs. McKean, the new members were initiated into the society last Monday evening, May 9, in the Frances Chapel. Mrs. McKean, who is currently in New York City, will be initiated following her return to campus late in May.

The four women were tapped by members of the honorary last week one evening after closing. Jody Boulware, secretary of the society, relates that the tapping involved quite a bit of traveling, for Miss Bilbo was in enforced isolation in the Winter Park Hospital with the chicken pox.

Miss Sitten was tapped at the Gamma Phi house, while Dr.

Drinkwater was honored by the white-clad, candle-bearing Libra members at her apartment. Mrs. McKean was tapped by long distance.

An honorary organization for junior and senior women and faculty members, Libra recognizes those women who have displayed outstanding scholarship, leadership, and character.

Past president of Gamma Phi Beta sorority, Miss Sitten is a member of the Chapel Staff, serving this past year as publicity chairman. She is copy editor of the Tomokan and a member of the Sandspur staff.

Miss Sitten has also participated in the Community Service and the French and German clubs. She has served on Panhellenic Council and has participated for her sorority in intramurals.

Miss Bilbo will serve as editor of the Flamingo, student literary magazine, for the coming year. An independent, she is a student assistant in Elizabeth Hall. She has appeared in a Fred Stone theatre production, in her Freshman Show, and in the Chapel Staff Party. She has also worked on the Sandspur staff.

Wife of the president of the college and director of exhibits at Morse Gallery of Art, Mrs. McKean has made many outstanding contributions to the Rollins campus. This past summer she was instrumental in the redecoration of Cloverleaf, and the preceding year she helped plan the

Toledo Named Oratorical Winner

Tony Toledo was judged the winner of the Reeve Oratorical Contest, which was held Wednesday afternoon, May 4, in Carnegie Hall.

Toledo competed against the other two winners of the Reeve Essay Contest, Burt Jordan and John Harkness, in the speech competition.

Speaking on the organization and structure of the deoxyribose nucleic acid molecule, Toledo, a sophomore Lambda Chi, was awarded the $50 prize for content and delivery of his speech, in which he cited experimental evidence to prove that DNA is the message-carrying fraction of the cell nucleus.

New Rollins Union Becomes Official

Wednesday morning in the Student Center, students began signing up for committee work in the newly organized Rollins Union. With the formation of these committees, the Union will begin to function.

At the Union's first official meeting, Tuesday, May 3, Jack Sutliff was elected Chairman of the Board of Managers and president of the Rollins Union Ruth Lynn Whittaker was elected vice-chairman of the Board of Managers, and Dean Dyckman Vermilye was appointed secretary. Students interested in applying for the position of comptroller should submit applications to Sutliff as soon as possible.

The remaining members of the Board of Managers, which is the governing body of the Union and was appointed by Pres. McKean are Virginia Campbell, John Harkness, Peter Kellogg, Harold Mutispaugh, Dr. Dan Thomas, and Dr. Dudley Degroot.

During the fall term, a number of students approached the student deans with the complaint that there wasn't enough to do in their spare time. Dean Watson and Dean Vermilye discussed the problem, and Dean Vermilye invited the Director of the union at the University of Florida, Mr. Rion, to speak to Rollins students.

Mr. Rion met with about 40 students during a weekend in December, and at this meeting, he explained to the students the function of a union, what activities it is concerned with, and what its obligations to the college are.

From this group of 40 students, a committee of 11 was chosen by the Student Deans and Dick Mansfield, then Student Council President. This committee drew up a charter for the Rollins Union, and presented it to Council, which passed it almost unanimously.

As set forth in the charter, the objects of the Rollins Union are "to serve as an official center of student life, to unify student ac-

Qualls Elected Chapel Staff Head For Coming Year

The officers of the Chapel Staff for 1960-61 were elected last Tuesday night. Chosen as president was Linda Qualls. The new vice president is Ginny Willis and the secretary is John Reese.

Miss Qualls, a sophomore, is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. Last fall she served as co-chairman of Freshman Orientation, and she is presently a student assistant in Elizabeth Hall.

She has worked actively in many "March of Dimes" projects since she was in high school. Last year, she served as secretary of the freshman class.

Miss Willis, a member of Chi Omega sorority, is a junior. She has recently been elected president of the Community Service Club. She has also served as a cheerleader this year.

Reese, a junior Independent, has just been chosen as co-chairman of the Orientation committee for next year. He is Student Council representative and chairman of the Campus Improvements committee. Reese is also a member of the Sandspur staff.

The Chapel Staff members will hold their annual picnic this Sunday afternoon on the lawn of President McKean's home.

Mansfield Explains Financial, Academic Problems To Council

Ed's Note: The following is the second half of a condensed version of past president Dick Mansfield's final report and recommendations to the new Student Council. The first half appeared in last week's paper.

There were three major projects that I had said I would attempt to work on as president: 1) to clear up the mess of the financial records of the Student Association; 2) to take student suggestions on academic matters to the faculty; 3) to set up an information group on the extra-curricular activities of the campus.

I am indebted to Chuck Allen, who as Comptroller put in the extra work to bring the Student Association financial records up to date for the first time in seven years.

The academic committee was formed and later made a standing committee. It suggested the new honor list that was accepted and presented cases for the instituting of cum laude and a Russian language course. It has also started work on investigating the possibility of having a three year college curriculum with a summer term each year. The work on this exciting new idea in education should be carried on.

UNION IS ANSWER

Dean Vermilye's idea of a Rollins Union was the answer to my project on extra-curricular activities. I helped kick off the project with Dean Vermilye and Dean Watson, and the committee that we appointed did the hard work of drawing up the Rollins Union.

On the other side of the coin, there were plenty of mistakes too. For example, class elections in the fall were an unholy mess. It was a fault of mine that I did not keep a closer check on the vice-president who was in charge of the elections.

During this year I tried to establish proper channels through which Council could take matters to the faculty. The Dean of the College and I agreed that after approval from either him or the student deans, I would present the Student Council projects in person. This procedure, however, seemed to upset certain members of the faculty who thought the matters should go through their many and varied committees first. I never was able to achieve a set procedure, and I leave this problem to my successor. The faculty has improved in answering our suggestions, but it still takes too long. Sometimes it takes a term to get an answer.

SCHOLARSHIP PROJECT

One achievement of the past administration, with which I had nothing to do, was the scholarship project. This was entirely the work of the vice-president, Tony Toledo. Although I think there is no great need for this scholarship project, it will definitely improve our relationships with the high schools in the surrounding area. Tony should be congratulated for his fine work on this project.

The saying that no man is an island is very true. I could not have been elected if I had not had the support of others. In the same vein, I could not have done any sort of job without the help of several particular individuals. I want to thank all the members of the staff and the faculty who have helped me and who I have enjoyed getting to know through my work with them. Of the students, I would like to thank Ginger Cornell for her excellent work as beanery chairman; and Bruce Aufhammer, who through his work on many committees including the Rollins Union has given invaluable service to the student body. Also, my thanks go to our corresponding secretary, Val Baumrind, who did a consistently good job. Most of all, my thanks go to Sue Lewis, who in my opinion was the best secretary the Council has ever had, at least since I have been here. She not only did her job well, but she took the initiative to do even more than was required of her. She is the major reason why the elections ran so smoothly this spring.

NEW ADMINISTRATION

You have a new president now.

'Old Glory' Flies Over Rollins Again

The American flag is flying over the Rollins campus again for the first time since fall term, when the flagpole ropes were deliberately cut one night after closing.

George Cartwright, Jr., superintendent of buildings and maintenance, explains that there was such a delay in repairing the flagpole because the only steeplejack in the area who will climb a bare pole had been traveling out West. Because the man was traveling, working his way back to Florida, he did not receive the mail sent to him by Cartwright.

Cost of repairing the flagpole will run close to $100. The cost for labor alone was $80.

Cartwright explains that the old ropes were actually comparatively new, for they were only two or three years old and such ropes can ordinarily be used for from six to eight years.

In addition to putting new ropes on the flagpole, the steeplejack repainted the pole.

Rollins Graduate Presents Recital

Ann Bowers, 1957 graduate of Rollins, gave her graduation recital at the Juilliard School of Music in New York City on May 4, 1960. Ann has been attending Juilliard as a scholarship voice student of Mme. Marion Szekely-Freschl since her graduation from Rollins. Miss Bowers also holds a full scholarship for study in repertory with Mme. Povla Frijah at the present time.

This year Miss Bowers was invited by Juilliard composition faculty to sing some original songs in a composers forum held especially for visiting Soviet composers. Among these visitors were Dmitri Shostakovich and Dmitri Kabelensky.

While Miss Bowers was a student at Rollins, she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and of Phi Society. Her musical activities included Rollins Singers, Chapel Choir, Student Music Guild, and Pi Kappa Lambda, music honorary.

She was also a member of Rollins Players and appeared in major roles in ART productions. Among these roles were Liza Doolittle in Pygmalion and Ariel in The Tempest.

Reading Theatre To Present Shaw's 'Don Juan In Hell'

The third and final reading theatre production of the year will be presented this evening in the Annie Russell Theatre at 8 p.m.

Offering for the evening is "Don Juan in Hell," the dream act from George Bernard Shaw's comedy "Man and Superman." Directed by Bob Chase, the production features Chase in the role of Don Juan, Jim McKaye as the Devil, Clint Trowbridge as the Statue, and Dana Ivey as Donna Ana.

"Man and Superman" produced in its entirety is an unusually long play, but Shaw wrote it in such a manner that the dream act may be omitted, leaving a comedy of standard length. The dream act, or "Don Juan in Hell," may also be produced independently. "Don Juan in Hell" is essentially a Platonic dialogue in which Shaw expressed the underlying philosophy of the whole comedy. The theme of the play is creative evolution, the development of man into superman, and the dream act emphasizes this theme.

Dr. William A. Constable, former Rollins professor of English, points out that Shaw's play has had successful performances for many years. Constable recalls having had the opportunity to see the first successful revival of "Don Juan in Hell" when it was produced by Harley Granville-Barker in London in 1907.

Written in 1903, Shaw's comedy shocked audiences of the early twentieth century, for it expressed the idea that the woman chases the man instead of the other way around. Shaw contended that Shakespeare's heroines also did the choosing, citing the example of Rosalind, who pursued Orlando.

Shaw's view was entirely incompatible with the idea his audience held that the woman's place is to wait until her prince charming comes along, Constable explains.

Several years ago a production of "Don Juan in Hell," starring Charles Boyer as Don Juan and Charles Laughton as the Devil, ran for the entire season on Broadway, where it met with enthusiastic audiences and good reviews. The company later went on tour and also made a recording of the production, which was done as reading theatre with no scenery.

Chase, who will take the title role at tonight's performance, has played Octavius in the full-length production of "Man and Superman" at the Hedgerow Theatre.

Jim McKaye, who plays the Devil, has had experience with the Pasadena Playhouse. He is the husband of Rollins student Alyse McKaye.

Assistant professor of English, Trowbridge portrays the Statue. He has previously appeared on the ART stage in productions of "The Doll's House" and "Macbeth."

A freshman, Dana Ivey has appeared this year in "Guys and Dolls," "A Chalk Garden," and "Romanoff and Juliet." She has had previous experience in summer stock.

Following this evening's production of "Don Juan in Hell" there will be a discussion session.

STUDYING THE MUSIC they will perform at their junior recitals this week are Jim Page and Cliff Berry. Jim is a piano major, while Cliff is majoring in the organ.

Junior Music Students Berry, Page To Present Organ, Piano Recitals

Two junior music students, Cliff Berry, organist, and Jim Page, pianist, will present junior recitals this coming week. Other students in the Rollins Conservatory will assist in the programs. Berry is a student of Catharine Crozier Gleason, and Page is a student of John Carter.

Berry, who will present his recital Wednesday, May 18, at 8:30 p.m. in Knowles Memorial Chapel, will play a group of four organ works by old masters, "Trumpet Tune and Air" by Purcell, "Vom Himmel hoch da komm' ich her" by Pachelbel, and "Von Gott will ich nicht lassen" and "Prelude, Fugue and Chaconne" by Buxtehude.

Sandra Wyatt, soprano, accompanied by Janice Milburn, assistant organist at the Chapel, will sing Mozart's Motet "Exultate Jubilate" on the Wednesday evening program. Berry will conclude the recital with Franck's "Prelude, Fugue and Variation," Honnegger's "Fugue," and Dupre's "Ave Maris Stella."

Page will present his recital Friday, May 20, at 8:30 p.m. in the Music Room at Martin Hall and will be assisted by Barbara Behm and Margaret Pederson, sopranos, who will sing four duets by Mendelssohn.

Page will begin his recital program with two sonatas, Clementi's "Sonata in C major," (The Hunt) and Beethoven's "Sonata in G major, Op. 14, No. 2." He will play "Des Abends" from the "Fantasiestücke" of Schumann and the "Spinning Song" from the "Songs Without Words" of Mendelssohn.

The program will be concluded with Chopin's "Waltz in A-flat major, Op. 34, No. 1" and Rachmaninoff's "Barcarolle" and "Humoresque."

Both Berry and Page have participated in musical activities on the campus. Berry has served as vesper organist; Page is a member of the Chapel Choir and the Rollins Music Guild.

DEADLINE SET

Applications from students who wish to be considered for appointment as proctors in the freshman men's dormitories next year should be filed in the Dean of Men's office on or before Friday, May 20. The application should be in the form of a letter stating the student's reasons for believing that he is qualified to do this kind of work.

Rollins Initiates New Study Clinic For Freshmen

A clinic designed to improve the study habits of entering freshmen will be inaugurated at Rollins this fall. The clinic will be conducted by Rollins faculty members and will be held the week before orientation. All prospective freshmen are being informed of the program.

The clinic, inspired by Pres. Hugh McKean, is under the direction of Dr. Schiller Scroggs, Dean of the College. There will be seminars on the most efficient use of the library, improvement of reading skills through the use of the fully-equipped reading laboratory, instruction in the techniques of listening and speaking, self-analysis of written compositions, and suggestions for profitable note-taking.

Analyses of leadership activities, purpose and value of class discussions, and the significance of the Rollins conference system bring the clinic courses to nine.

According to President McKean, the goal of a liberal arts college is to develop the mind, the body, and the spirit. This cannot be done successfully if the student must surmount unnecessary obstacles from the beginning of his undergraduate days.

"We hope," he said, "that this clinic will remove those obstacles."

Plans Announced For Campus Sing

Campus Sing has been scheduled to be held Friday evening, May 22, at 7:30 in the Student Center patio. All sororities and fraternities, except the X Club and the Kappa Alpha, have registered to participate in the event, sponsored on alternate years by the Independent Women.

Each group will sing two numbers. One is chosen by the chairmen and the other is selected by the social group. The required number for girls' groups is "Dedication." Boys will sing "America, the Beautiful."

Judging the groups on the basis of balance, interpretation, ensemble appearance, and tone production are Robert Hufstader and Lamar Simmons. The third judge has not yet been selected.

Freshman music majors Astrid Delafield and Margaret Pederson are chairwomen of the music fete.

Prizes will be awarded to the fraternity and sorority winning the competition.

Chi Omega and Delta Chi were the winners of the 1958 Campus Sing.

Freshmen Plan Skip Day Outing At Sanlando

An all-day outing at Sanlando Springs will highlight freshman skip day, Tuesday, May 17, which has been reestablished, after being eliminated last year.

Freshman class president Pete Kellogg, who gained faculty permission for freshmen to cut classes on that day, stresses that the party at Sanlando is not to be a date affair.

"This is a day for all the freshmen," Pres. Kellogg emphasized. "Its success depends on their participation."

Those freshmen who have cars will furnish their own transportation from the college. A "shuttle service" will be provided for those who can't get rides.

Plans for the day include a cook-out at the springs. Music will be provided over the P.A. system. The event will be free to all who have paid their freshmen class dues.

Hendricksen Wins Achievement Prize

John Hendricksen, junior math and business major, has received the Wall Street Journal Achievement Award for academic achievement.

In a special ceremony held at the Center for Practical Politics on May 2, Hendricksen was presented a citation and a silver medal by Dr. Paul Douglass who cited him for "sound groundwork in education," which he said is preferable to "academic credit-seeking."

Hendricksen, captain of the Rollins tennis team, was included on the Winter Term Honor List. After graduation from Rollins, he plans to study accounting to become a C.P.A.

The Achievement Award, which is presented by the Wall Street Journal upon the recommendation of Dr. Douglass, includes a subscription to the Journal for a year.

Six Honorary Organizations Elect New Officers For Coming Year

Six honorary organizations on the Rollins campus have announced their newly-elected officers for the coming year.

The following students will serve as presidents of the individual organizations: Sandra Wyatt, Libra; Tony Toledo, Omicron Delta Kappa; Warren Keene, Key Society; Leo Hansberry, Phi Society; John Harkness, Zeta Alpha Epsilon; and Maggie Carrington, Rollins Players.

Jody Bilbo, newly-elected secretary-treasurer of Libra will officiate with president Wyatt during the coming year. Miss Wyatt, a junior music major, is a member of Chi Omega and an officer of the Chapel Choir and the Music Guild.

The men's honorary, ODK, has elected John Harkness to the office of secretary. Toledo, president, is a junior pre-med major, past vice-president of Student Council, and past vice-president of Lambda Chi Alpha.

Key Society president, Warren Keene, an Independent business administration major, is the assistant organist at All Saints Church.

Phi Society has announced Mary Frances Amick as its secretary. Hansberry, Phi Society president, is a junior, Independent, and has done art work for both the Flamingo and the Tomokan.

INTEREST IN CHEATING PROBLEM GROWS

Last Monday night, Student Council voted final acceptance of the proposed uniform method of dealing with cheating, drawn up by the Academic Committee and the Faculty Honors committee, by a vote of 10-6. Previous to this, the proposal had been tabled for two weeks in order that it might be discussed with the rest of the student body.

The fact that this policy generated so much interest and discussion among the students is almost as encouraging as its actual acceptance. Perhaps this is an indication that the student body will be ready to approve an honor system when it is presented to them by the Honor System committee. At the least, it is to be hoped that it shows enough interest on the part of the students that there will not be a repeat of the 1958 vote on the honor system question, when only 30 per cent of the student body expressed an opinion at the polls.

The uniform method of dealing with cheating, as it was accepted by Council, does not, by definition, create any real changes in the way cheating is now handled. Its major purposes are two.

First, as its title implies, it establishes a uniformity in the punishment for cheating offenses. Thus, it assures the student caught cheating, by any professor in any department of the school, just treatment; and it enables him to know just what to expect if a professor finds him cheating.

Secondly, it should improve the morale of the college, and perhaps the student attitude toward cheating, to have faculty, administration, and students officially denounce cheating. With the acceptance of the uniform method of dealing with such offenses, this attitude toward cheating is no longer merely implied, and the student cannot now fail to realize that cheating is not tolerated.

A number of students have expressed the opinion that cheating is not now a major problem in classes at Rollins. This does not mean, however, that we should sit back and wait for it to become a problem before something is done about it. Indeed, this is quite possibly the best time to consider the problem. While proposals dealing with cheating are now less likely to meet with resistance and resentment from the students, the extensive discussion of the recently-passed proposal, both within Council and, apparently, outside it, and perhaps the high attendance at Council meetings, show that there is no lack of student interest in the cheating problem.

Rollins Union

Needs Student Support

The Rollins Union last week elected officers and presented its request for allocations to the Student Council, and it has now become an official organization of Rollins students, faculty, and staff.

While the main project of the group this year will be to take over the work of Student Council's social committee in sponsoring the senior dance this month, during the 1960-61 school year the Rollins Union will begin work on a broadened program of co-curricular activities for the college.

Wednesday in the Student Center, students were asked to sign up for the committees which will be established to work under the Union in achieving this goal. Any student interested in taking part in this work who did not sign up at that time should see some member of the Union Board of Managers. Only with the enthusiasm, encouragement, and, above all, participation, of the student body can the Rollins Union achieve its potential position as "an official center of student life."

Atom With A Dream

By ED SCHEER
Biology Instructor

Once upon a time there was an atom of hydrogen. His name was Sam. Sam lived in a water molecule with another hydrogen atom and an atom of oxygen.

Sam looked and acted just like any other hydrogen atom. He was very tiny, with the usual hydrogen equipment—one proton and one electron. And like every other hydrogen atom he was generous with what he had and he had a tendency to share his lone electron.

But, in one way, Sam was different. Sam had a dream. Sam was in love with Brigitte Bardot, and despite the laughter and derision of his friends, Sam was determined to go out with her one day. The more they told him that Brigitte would never even look at a hydrogen atom, the fiercer his determination became.

Sam was growing rather tired of his usual humdrum existence—falling from a cloud to the earth and being evaporated right back again with a few minor detours—when one day he fell into the soil and found himself being taken prisoner by a root hair. Sam's molecule traveled quickly up a trachea, and before long he found himself in a palisade cell of a blade of grass. Here Sam, with his brother hydrogen atom, was forcibly separated from the oxygen atom, which reunited with one of its own kind and hurried back to the atmosphere. Before they had time to think, they were quickly thrown in with some carbon dioxide to form carbohydrate. Then again without having time to breathe, he was quickly incorporated into glucose and then to cellulose.

In this form, Sam sat for several days as part of a cell wall, just relaxing and dreaming of his lady fair. Then suddenly, without warning, he found himself dodging the teeth of a champion steer and then sliding down his esophagus.

In the alimentary canal of this beast, Sam's cellulose molecule was suddenly pounced upon by some protist and broken down, and Sam found himself once more in a molecule of glucose.

This state did not last long either, but instead of being released in the process of respiration, Sam went through still another conversion—to a fatty acid, to an amino acid, to a protein—and as such, he managed to find another quiet place, near our steer's backbone, where he might sit and sigh over the girl of his dreams.

For a couple of days, Sam daydreamed, and it bothered him not at all when his steer was slaughtered and butchered. He did feel a little flush of pride when he realized that he was part of a filet mignon. For most atoms, this would have been enough, but Sam still held fast to his dream of BB.

Sam's steak was sent to the best hotel in town, and prepared by one of the world's greatest chefs. Then Sam suddenly found himself on the table, looking up at—his idol!

Breathless with ecstasy, Sam climbed eagerly onto her fork, and soon he had been eaten, converted back to glucose, became part of a glycerol molecule, then of a molecule of fat, and he dwelt joyfully on Brigitte Bardot's shapely calf!

True, in a short time, he was reconverted to glucose, broken down to elemental hydrogen, united with oxygen to form water and breathed out of Brigitte's cute little nose as water vapor.

But still he was happy. For Sam was an atom with a dream, and Sam's dream had been fulfilled.

I am a sneak. I have violated the "Faculty Forum Code." The above prose was received earlier this year as one of the answers to a botany test. My only significant comment concerning this rather unusual bit of writing is an evaluation—an unqualified "A"!

By Deb n' Air

Letters we would like to see written:
Dear Sir:

Please send 30 yards of wire screen, 20 gauge mesh, and 600 pen staffs. It seems that the architect who designed our eating establishment, which is known as the Beanery, Dining Hall, or Skillman's to some, has made no provisions to keep flies away from Beanery food, also known as Commons food, and sometimes designated by non-printable names. The purpose of this requisition is to provide 600 do-it-yourself short-handled carbine action fly swatter kits.

It is not that we dislike flies, but we believe, if they're going to die, it is more humane to end their lives quickly with a blow from a fly swatter than to see them die before our eyes from food poisoning.

This fly-swatter is to be especially designed with a short handle to prevent students from swatting flies out of their own territory.

Yours truly,
Chairman, Campus Improvement Committee

Dear Madam:

It has come to my attention that your daughter does not approve of wearing bermuda shorts to the Beanery. We therefore regret to inform you that we find her to be much too apathetic to fit into the Rollins family. Bermuda shorts are certainly one of the most important issues upon the Rollins campus, and we feel that if your daughter is unwilling to support our persistent fight for such attire, she should be withdrawn from school.

Yours truly,
The President of Panhellenic Council

Dear Sir:

I have recently heard of the proposed Uniform Method of Dealing with Cheating which has been the subject of much discussion in recent Student Council meetings.

I feel that the policy proposed to deal with cheating is quite good in all respects save one: it would seem to me the first thing to strike anyone's eye upon reading this policy would be the title, for this indeed is the depth to which most students tend to explore literary material. Does the word "dealing" imply it is necessary to make deals with cheaters? It would seem to me that it does. And if people wish to drag out discussion of this policy for such an interminable length of time, I believe they first should revise the title before going on to the more trivial details involved in the subject matter of the statement.

Yours truly,
I. M. A. Cheat, LHD

Dear Sir:

Would you please send one of your steeplejacks to Rollins College to remove a bicycle from a lamppost? Aside from the fact that the bicycle is relatively useless in its present position, it is a rather sloppily done job and gives the Center Patio an unbalanced appearance. To do the job properly, posters should perhaps have been put up advertising "All-College Bicycle Day," and certainly all the lampposts, rather than just one, ought to have been decorated with bicycles.

A Sandspur of about three years ago shows a picture of a bicycle on top of the flag pole. It is fortunate that the Rollins student of today does not set his sights so high. Perhaps it is even more fortunate that there are no ropes on the flag pole.

Yours truly,
A more-or-less anonymous bicycle owner

Applications Available Next Week For Fulbright, IACC Fellowships

Applications for Fulbright and Inter-American Cultural Convention scholarships for the 1961-62 academic year will be available May 20, the Institute of International Education has announced.

About 900 Fulbright scholarships for graduate study or pre-doctoral research in 30 different countries will be available. IACC scholarships for study in Latin America will also be available. The IIE administers both of these programs for the U. S. Department of State.

The Fulbright scholarships cover travel, tuition, books, and maintenance for one academic year. Countries participating in the program include Australia, Austria, Belgium and Luxembourg, Brazil, Chile, Republic of China, Colombia, Denmark, Ecuador, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Iceland, India, Iran, Italy, Japan, Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Pakistan, Peru, Philippines, Spain, Sweden, Turkey, Thailand, the United Kingdom, and the United Arab Republic.

The IACC program covers Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, the Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Mexico, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, and Venezuela. These scholarships cover transportation, tuition, and partial to full maintenance.

Requirements for both types of scholarships include: 1) U. S. citizenship at time of application, 2) a bachelor's degree or its equivalent, 3) sufficient knowledge of the language of the country to carry out the study project and communicate with the people of the country, and 4) good health.

A good academic record and capacity for independent study are also necessary. Preference is given to those applicants who have not previously lived or studied abroad. Applicants are also required to submit a plan of proposed study for the year.

Applications for the scholarships will be accepted until November 1, 1960. Requests for applications must be postmarked before October 15. Interested students now enrolled at Rollins should consult Dr. Wendell Stone, campus Fulbright adviser.

tivities, and to sponsor a broad program of co-curricular education, recreation, and entertainment for the College community; (2) To serve as a tie binding faculty, students, and alumni; (3) To aid in establishing a cultural pattern which will distinguish Rollins students."

The charter calls for a governing body, called the Rollins Union Board of Managers, whose duty it is to act as a liaison between Faculty, the Student Council, and the Union. This Board is a self-perpetuating group.

Below this Board, is another group, the Rollins Union Program Board. This group is composed of the committee heads of the various standing and temporary committees.

"In order for the Rollins Union to be the dynamic organization we hope it to be, it must have the strong backing of the entire student body," Pres. Sutliff told students Wednesday morning in the Center. "The way you can support this undertaking is to become a member and a worker on these committees. There are organizations in the Union to interest almost everybody on the campus, and if there are any we have missed, we will be more than happy to include them in the organization."

The Student Council has turned over its social committee to the Union, and the first undertaking of this unit is the Senior Dance later this month.

Flamingo Entry Deadline Today

Today, May 13, is the last day that manuscripts may be submitted to be considered for publication in the spring 1960 issue of the Flamingo, editor John Hickey reminds students. The works used in the literary magazine are selected from those submitted by the Flamingo editorial board.

The spring Flamingo will be circulated in students' mailboxes during the final week of the term.

Since coming to Rollins, Dr. Drinkwater has served on several faculty committees. She is currently a member of the Faculty Honors Committee. She has served on the Chapel Staff and presently is adviser to Key Society, Rollins highest academic honorary.

Other members of Libra are seniors Sarah Barber, Jody Boulware, Margaret Carmichael, Marilyn Dupres, Beth Halperin, Owen McHaney, Anita Tanner, and Julie Van Pelt; junior Sandra Wyatt, and faculty members Clara Adolfs, Nina Dean, Sara Jane Dorsey, Cynthia Eastwood, and Jan Patton.

Play Review

Student Directed 'Six For Tonight' Among Best Of Season's Productions

By SANDY McENTAFFER
Sandspur Staff

Drama returned to the Fred Stone Theatre this week with the presentation Tuesday and Thursday nights of "Six for Tonight," a group of five scenes from major Broadway hits.

Six students of the advanced acting class—Mary Jane Strain, Chuck Morley, Nelle Longshore, Stephen Kane, Jean Cook, and Kay Leimbacher—did an outstanding job of displaying the famous Stanislavsky "method."

Completely student conceived, acted, and directed, each scene was given a short introduction by Arthur Wagner.

The first scene, from "Dark at the Top of the Stairs," saw Mary Jane Strain and Kay Leimbacher playing the roles of two sisters, both unhappily married. The scene, one of tremendous impact, was treated excellently by both girls. A rather ticklish theme, even for modern audiences, of sexual unfulfillment, was handled with an insight which gave credit to the acting training the girls have received.

Kay returned again to play Chuck Morley's mother in "Glass Menagerie," in a tense scene which was for the most part Chuck's. He did a more than credible job of portraying the young man beset by emotional tensions, and Kay handled the age problem nicely.

In a part not so very different from this, Chuck played the dope addict Johnny in "Hatful of Rain." This was the role that Ben Gazzara created on Broadway, and again Chuck turned in an excellent performance. In this scene he was very ably supported by Jean Cook, as the wife left in the dark by her husband's addiction.

The star performance of the night, however, was turned in by Steve Kane, in his portrayal of the most dissimilar personalities of the Major of "Separate Tables" and Stanley Kowalski in "Streetcar Named Desire." The character of the Major, a sexually maladjusted man accused of molesting women in movie theatres, was beautifully conveyed with all the psychological undertones which make him a person worthy of pity rather than contempt. At the opposite end of the pole, the Stanley Kowalski which made Brando famous was played with all the animal fervor and overflow of emotion which the part requires. Yet in the relationship between Stanley and his wife Kane succeeded in introducing a note of underlying tenderness which gave his character the depth necessary for the "real" performance.

Kane had support from Misses Strain, Longshore, and Cook in the two scenes, which complemented his roles perfectly. Nelle, especially, played the part of the near-mad Blanche to the hilt.

After the performances Directors Wagner and Chase moderated an audience-student discussion of the plays, intended to give the audience a chance to understand better the method of teaching employed at Rollins, the preparation—both long-range and curtain—of the students for the stage, and the relation of the playwright's work to the actor's interpretation. Members of the faculty, as well as community people, raised questions for the student actors which threw considerable light on what our theatre is producing and why.

These productions were some of the best seen this season—and the scenes presented only whet the appetite for more of this type of work. Undoubtedly we will see more in the forthcoming Directing Class plays... we hope so.

Exhibit Includes Sargent Sketches In Chalk, Charcoal

An exhibition of charcoal and chalk drawings by John Singer Sargent, one of America's best known painters, opened at the Morse Gallery of Art recently. The exhibition is under the sponsorship of the Corcoran Gallery in New York.

The 28 drawings on display are those of male and female figures, horses, heads and expressive movements. The show, the last one in this year's series, will continue through May 30.

According to Dr. Janis Silins, Director of the Gallery, the charcoal drawings are the prototypes of the murals that Sargent designed for the rotunda of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and the Boston Public Library. They represent only a part of the work that the artist did while working on the two projects.

The drawings show how a famous artist painstakingly studies the different elements of his pictures and how he explores the different possibilities of expression.

The drawings now on exhibition were given the Corcoran Gallery by Sargent's sisters, Mrs. Francis Ormand and Miss Emily Sargent.

The exhibition is open daily from 2-5 p.m.

A REMINDER

Students who have subscriptions to magazines and newspapers are reminded that it requires four to six weeks to have the address to which these periodicals are sent changed for the summer. Due to the shortage of space, the Rollins post office cannot be responsible for magazines over the summer months.

Change of address cards to be sent to publishers are available at the post office upon request.

Seven Tapped For Membership In Theatre Honorary Last Week

Seven new members were taken into Rollins Players last week. They were Ralph Oestricher, Gary Brouhard, J. J. Mautner, Mike Herwig, Linda Coke, Bonnie MacSwan, and Ann Lynn Kettles.

Rollins Players, local theatre honorary, is composed of students who have done outstanding work in dramatics. The organization chooses its members on the basis of their contribution to theatre productions, either onstage or backstage.

Oestricher, a senior, has appeared this year in major roles in "Guys and Dolls" and "Romanoff and Juliet." Brouhard, a sophomore, was seen this year in "Romanoff and Juliet" and in "Macbeth."

Mautner, a junior, has worked backstage on a number of productions. Herwig appeared this year in "Macbeth." He is a sophomore.

Miss Coke and Miss MacSwan have both done backstage work on many productions in the Annie Russell Theatre. Miss Kettles, a sophomore Theatre Arts major, was seen this year as Lady Macduff in "Macbeth."

The Rollins Players have also held elections recently. Maggie Carrington is the new president; Bob Haines is vice-president; and Mary Jane Strain is secretary.

After Year In Scotland, Sarah Barber Finds Small Classes 'Intensely Exciting'

By JODY FRUTCHEY
Sandspur Staff

"I think Rollins is terrific," states English major Sarah Barber emphatically. "There was the usual disillusionment that every college student goes through, the feeling of being bogged down, and the belief that no more stimulation exists. However, after my return from Scotland, I discovered the intense stimulation Rollins' small classes can offer, along with the relaxed atmosphere."

Sarah studied last year at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, after three years at Rollins. She then returned to Rollins to finish her studies.

"I have found this year highly satisfactory in every way," Sarah continued. "Much of this is due to the sound background in English I've received and the stimulation of a few professors and their classes. These professors I will remember most about Rollins College. They helped me change my outlook and appraisal of college; they helped me acquire a love for knowledge and books; and they helped me gain self-confidence."

Originally from New York, Sarah has worked for Look magazine for the past few summers and plans to work on their editorial staff or research staff upon graduation from Rollins.

Two great loves of Sarah's are books and music. She enjoys both reading and writing and has contributed many works to the Flamingo. She recently had a poem accepted for the National Anthology of College Poetry, and in 1957 she tied for first place in the Orlando Poetry Contest.

A member of the Chapel Choir, she commented thoughtfully, "I was originally a music major, so I enjoy singing in the choir. I greatly cherish the afternoon rehearsals on Tuesdays and Thursdays in the Chapel, because they give me a chance to sing, to collect my thoughts, and to meditate in the serenity of the Chapel."

TERM PAPER TIME finds English Major Sarah Barber surrounded by reference works and note cards. Sarah studied last year at the University of Scotland in Edinburgh.

"Before I became an English major, I more-or-less stumbled from one subject to another to locate the right field," Sarah stated. "Finally I registered for a certain English course and enjoyed the course so much that I knew English would be my major."

A member of Libra, Sarah has been on the Dean's List and the Term Honor List and has taken part in the program of independent reading for honors. A past president of Phi Mu sorority, she is now an inactive member.

Sarah's trip to the University of Edinburgh was her third visit to Europe. She has also traveled outside the United States to Mexico and Canada.

After first leaving Rollins, the idea of a big university appealed to Sarah, but, as she recalls, "It shattered my dreams." The University of Edinburgh was so large that the classes, all lectures, had 400 or 500 students present.

"It was after this experience that I decided to return to Rollins. I also realized how intensely exciting the small classes can be."

Choral Vespers Bring In $112

Money collected at the Choral Vesper service last Sunday, May 8, amounted to $112.72, an increase of $12 over the preceding year's program.

After the expense of the programs is deducted, proceeds from the collection will go to the choir fund.

Choral Vespers was originated as a means of earning money for choir expenses. However, in recent years the money-making aspect of the program has been deemphasized, and the Choral Vesper service has become a spring term goal of the choir and an opportunity for the college and the community to hear the choir perform.

T.G.I.F. again! This was the theme of the little get-together at Green's Groves last Friday afternoon. Those present were people who believe that Friday afternoons are designed especially to provide a time for relaxation and recuperation from the week's exhausting travels down the path of knowledge.

At other places last weekend, the relaxation was not so complete. For example, at the Lambda Chi Pelican, the World Championship Ping Pong Tournament was in progress. Ruth Lynn Whittaker went home for Mother's Day, though, so Louie and John Hughes went canoeing (!) Friday night.

Rick Hariton and Larry Struble have registered a complaint with the Gamma Phi's concerning certain fleas in the lodge. Seems that a stray cat slept on the couch one night and two trips from the exterminator have not been able to eradicate the effects of his (or her?) visit.

Ned Rippingille has given Judy Illges another Delta Tau Delta pin to replace the one lost in Nassau. He couldn't just mislay the pin or wash it down the drain of a sink, but had to be different. Don't ask!

The Grapevine staff nominates Nick Longo for the award of Most Hard-working "Coffee, Tea or Milk" Man-of-the-Week. This will be a regular feature from now on; your suggestions for the award can be mailed to Ferment, care of the Sandspur, by Sunday for the following week, along with any other news-worthy items.

Rail Fan Rod Chabot Likes 'Anything On Tracks,' Prefers Steam Engines

By SUE REYNOLDSSEN
Sandspur Staff

"I guess my interest in trains started when I was about ten," says Rod Chabot. "I took a trip with my cousin to Brewster, New York and rode in one of the early steam engines. Right then I knew that I was destined to be a rail fan."

For many years after that, Rod's passion for trains was thwarted to the cellar of his house where he kept his electric train layout. When he moved to Vero Beach, Florida, however, he started riding in the cabs of freight trains. The trains had steam engines, which are Rod's preference, and he spent many happy hours riding freight trains just for the fun of it.

With his driver's license came a new era in Rod's career as a rail fan. Three summers ago he drove to Montreal where they still have steam engines. In Montreal he rode in the cab of a steam engine of a commuter train which was taking people to work. When he asked if he might hold the throttle for a minute, the engineer jumped out of his chair, pushed Rod into it, and said, "You be the engineer."

"It gave me quite a feeling of importance," admits Rod, "to know that I was in control of all that power and that it was up to me to get all those people to work that morning."

His next trip was to Roanoke, Virginia, which was one of the few places in the United States that still had steam engines. Rod did not have a chance to play boy engineer again, but he rode on a steam powered train that was chartered especially for rail fans.

One summer ago Rod returned to Canada for a convention of the National Railway Historical Society. There were 1000 rail fans at the three day affair which included an all day ride behind an old, historical steam engine, a tour of the largest locomotive works in Canada, and a trip from Toronto to Niagara Falls, where he toured the Niagara Falls Round House. "I also looked at the Falls," Rod admits.

He spent one day in Toronto just riding Toronto trolleys all over the city. "Well," says Rod, "they run on tracks, don't they?" Rod is interested in anything that runs on tracks and even in the tracks themselves. When he was studying trains in Europe, he was surprised to find that the tracks in Spain were five feet apart instead of 4'8 1/2" as they are in the United States.

Rod has a collection of thousands of color pictures and slides of trains that he has taken himself. Some were even taken from trains he was riding on at the time. "There were open gondola cars especially for photographers. You just snap the engine in action as the train rounds a curve," says Rod. He likes the color slides best because "they make you feel like you're really there."

Rod even has hi-fi records of steam locomotives and train sounds. "When I miss a train or haven't been on one for a long time, I just put on a record and it brings back happy memories."

When asked why he preferred steam engines to diesels, Rod replied, "A diesel looks just like a car on tracks but a steam engine chugs and snorts and puts out smoke. A steam engine has character!"

"I imagine some people think it is rather unusual to have a hobby of trains. I don't think they realize how big the National Railway Historical Society is. It is a national organization with chapters all over the country—just like a sorority or fraternity. We don't like to brag though," says Rod, "We just go quietly around watching trains. That's why we're so obscure."

Rod's slogan is "fly and die."

"I never take a plane unless I have to," says Rod. "Of course I have flown occasionally to check up on the competition."

Kappa Takes Women's Swim Meet, Places In All Events Except Diving

The Kappa's displayed their excellent swimming talent at the women's meet last Sunday. Defending champions, the Theta's, were not able to offer much competition to the spirited Kappa swimmers. The winning team, the Kappa's placed in every swimming race of the day and in several instances two Kappa's captured top positions in the same race.

25 Yard Freestyle: Julie Meers (KKG); Owen McHaney (Chi O); Bonnie MacMillan (Chi O); Carol Weise (Gamma Phi). 16.8.

50 Yard Freestyle: Pat Ganson (KKG); Sid Burt (Pi Phi); Owen McHaney (Chi O); Sue Sue Curtis (Theta). 16.8.

25 Yard Back Stroke: Sid Burt (Pi Phi); Dee Stedron (KKG); Julie Meers (KKG); Carol Weise (Gamma Phi) and Bonnie McSwan (Chi O) tied for fourth place. 18.9.

25 Yard Breaststroke: Sylvia DuBois (Phi Mu); Ginny Campbell (KKG); Sue Curtis (Theta); Linda Qualls (KKG). 19.4.

Plunge for Distance: Sylvia DuBois (Phi Mu); Ann Smith (Gamma Phi); Pat Ganson (KKG); Diane Scott (Chi O). Sylvia's best plunge was 55 feet.

For the second consecutive year

Nini Thompson has placed first in the diving exhibition. Jo Ann Wagner (Chi O) placed second, Nancy Harding (Pi Phi) third, and Sue Reynolds (Theta) was fourth. The Kappa's won the relay race their time being 1:37:00, while the Pi Phi's placed second.

the Chi O's third and the Theta's fourth.

The "R" Club recently released the 1960 members of the varsity swimming team. The elected members are: Julie Meers, Owen McHaney, Sylvia DuBois, Sid Burt, Pat Ganson and Nini Thompson.

Theta, Kappa Battle For IM Trophy; Spring Varsity Teams Selected

As the termination of the women's intramural program draws closer, the Theta's and Kappa's are struggling for the number one position. At present the Theta's have 681 intramural points, while the Kappa's are close behind with 668 1/2 points. Other group standings are: Phi Mu 552 1/2, Gamma Phi Beta 409 1/2, Chi Omega 382 1/2, Alpha Phi 380 1/2, Pi Beta Phi 378 1/2 and the Independent women 375 points.

Activities included in the above totals are basketball, softball, tennis, archery and swimming. The outcome of the volleyball games and remaining golf matches will determine the winner of the O'Brien trophy.

Women tried their luck at archery this past week-end and the Theta team, Jeanne Deemer and Linda Hicklin, walked away with top honors. The participants shot a qualifying and final Columbia round which is 24 arrows-50 yards, 24 arrows-40 yards and 24 arrows-30 yards.

Miss Deemer was the individual high scorer with 361 points giving the winning Theta's a total of 496 points. The Phi Mu's placed second with 450 points. Other high individual scorers were Rocky Crockwell 302, Gayle Jordan 258 and Judy Carl 222; these girls and Miss Deemer were named to the varsity archery team.

Although all final golf matches have not been played, the championship flight winner has been determined. Judy Jones captured the golf title after defeating Jerri Sessions in a close match which ended 2 and 1 in favor of Miss Jones. Miss Jones' winning score was 78 while Miss Sessions' was very close with a 81.

The varsity golf team has been chosen and the following girls are members: Judy Jones, Bonnie McSwan, Joyce Whitten, Jerri Sessions, Joan Pinkerton, Betsy Harshaw, Gayle Jordan, Ginny Willis, Jean Abendroth and Babs Bertaash.

In the round-robin of volleyball games played, the Thetas have remained undefeated with a 4 win no loss record. Recent volleyball scores are:

Indies def. Phi Mu—15-3, 10-5
Pi Phi def. Gam. Phi—14-5, 9-12, 14-7
Phi Mu def. Chi O—13-8, 8-14, 13-9
Indies def. Pi Phi—11-9, 6-12, 12-10
Alpha Phi def. Gam. Phi—11-8, 11-9
Theta def. Kappa—6-10, 15-2, 13-2
Theta def. Al. Phi—10-8, 14-7
Chi O def. Indies—13-11, 15-2
Alpha Phi def. Pi Phi—12-9, 6-11, 15-6
Theta def. Phi Mu—14-5, 5-13, 15-0
Gamma Phi def. Kappa—11-7, 6-12, 12-10
Kappa def. Chi O—7-14, 14-7, 15-2

The varsity Water-ski team was chosen at the recent "R" Club meeting and Owen McHaney, June Worthington, Sue Morganthaler, Sue Curtis, Madge Best, Betsy Reuter, and Charlotte Probasco are the new members.

Varsity tennis team was announced and this year's members are: Owen McHaney, Julie Van Pelt, Janie Feise, Lynn Egry, Rocky Crockwell, Bonnie Stewart, Julie Smith and Amelia Hunt.

Cheating Forms Problem In Colleges, Universities Throughout Nation

By JULIA HATCHETT
(From the Daily Texan)

(UPS) At TCU a young coed walked into one of her classes for the first time during the spring semester. Noticing a young man with whom she was acquainted sitting on the back row, she said hello and started to sit down. Then she stopped and asked, "Do you cheat?" "Well, yes," he admitted. "Good," was her reply as she sat down beside him.

This incident from The Skiff at TCU is not fictitious—nor are hundreds of others just like it on campuses across the nation. The problem of cheating or "intellectual dishonesty" is widespread and is causing great concern. Almost every college newspaper has deplored the situation, taken polls, offered solutions, suggested punishments, or decided who is to blame.

At UCLA a poll of all students showed that 49 per cent cheated. The poll defined the typical campus cheater as an undergraduate under 21, likely to be a student of business administration, education, or one of the biological sciences. The cheater is single, most likely to be in a fraternity or sorority, and is in some phase of student government or intercollegiate sports. The cheater is also a non-veteran and is fully supported by his parents or similar sources. The most cheating was found among students with a grade-point average between 1.0 and 2.0 on the three-point system.

The importance of getting a degree has been so emphasized that the manner in which it is obtained has been forgotten. The importance of the grade average instead of the knowledge has also been blamed for the practice of cheating. A big problem lies in the fact that even the honest students will not report a cheater; a tattletale is not popular.

Many students justify their cheating by saying that it is okay to cheat in a dull class because the instructor who appears to be disinterested and not alert deserves to be cheated.

A swimming team member due to graduate in June from the University of Kentucky was suspended from school for taking a chemistry final for a fraternity brother, the third quiz he had taken for him during the semester. His overall standing for four years of work was a 2.9 grade average—before he was suspended, that is.

Europe Employment Opportunities Open

Any student interested in obtaining summer employment in Europe this coming summer is urged to apply immediately to the World Student Service, Weststrasse 31, Frankfurt/Main, Germany.

Employment is available with American and European firms, on farms, and at various resorts. Pay is not high, but will cover all expenses plus pocket money. Assistance can be given applicants for greatly reduced transportation to and from Europe.

Rollins Golfers Conclude Season With Athens Loss

The Tar golfers concluded a successful season at the Southern Intercollegiate Golf Tournament at Athens, Georgia, with a 12 win, three loss, and one tie record for the season.

In the team championship, Louisiana State University dethroned the N.C.A.A. champions, the University of Houston. Led by Dan Essig, who lost in the play-off to Cobby Ware of Georgia, the Louisiana State team beat Houston for the first time in five years of tournament play. The tournament had representatives from the top 35 golf colleges in the United States.

Rollins was paced by Jay Dolan, with rounds of 76-69-73-74, and Dick Diversi with rounds of 76-74-73-77. The other three Rollins linkamen, Roland Lamontagne, Tagg Boman, and Bob Lerner didn't make the 36 hole cut-off. Another casualty was Richard Crawford of Houston, the U.S. Collegiate Champion, who also failed to make the cut-off.

Coach Dan Nymiez again enjoyed an excellent season and is hoping for freshman aid next year to replace Diversi, Boman, and Lerner.

TRICK SKIER Barth Engert is a member of the varsity water ski team which will take part tomorrow in the Southeastern Intercollegiate Water Ski Tournament at Cypress Gardens.

Tar Skiers To Take Part In Southeastern Tourney

With the Southeastern Intercollegiate Water-ski Tournament only one day away, the final varsity teams have been chosen.

Suzie Morganthaler will be skiing slalom and tricks for the girls. She will be backed up on slalom with Chari Probasco, Betsy Reutter, and Madge Best. Sue Curtis, Owen McHaney, and June Worthington, team captain, will be the other trick skiers.

Bruce McEwan and Roger Ray, team captain, will be skiing in all three events for the boys. Stan Moress will be jumping and skiing tricks, while Barth Engert will also double and be entered in slalom as well as tricks. Tom Miller will be in the slalom event for the Tars, while Gerry Payne will be jumping.

"Gramps" Suydam, the teams' coach, feels sure that both teams will do well, even without Bob MacCuspie, two letter man, who is unable to ski, and McEwan partially hampered with a broken jaw.

Miller, Moress, McEwan, Engert, Miss Morganthaler, Miss Probasco, Miss Worthington, and Miss McHaney all received letters last year, so the team certainly has the experience and the ability to win. The Rollins girls have only lost once in twelve tournaments. The boys are definitely at a disadvantage as Rollins does not have a ramp for jumping, but with Roger Ray's record and experience and with the little practice the boys have gotten at Cypress Gardens, they should be able to take the meet.

The team is hoping that a large segment of the student body will take advantage of the free admission tomorrow at Cypress Gardens and come down and support the team. The team will leave this morning for and afternoon of practice and the tournament begins tomorrow at 7:30 A.M. with the boys' slalom as the first event. The tournament will last throughout the day and will not interfere with the famous Cypress Gardens Ski Shows, which will be held as usual.

Library Receives Technology Books

Thirty-five technological volumes belonging to Martin Orlando were given the Mills Memorial Library on a permanent loan basis, Prof. Alice Hansen, Librarian, announced today.

The books, which will be used both by Rollins undergraduates and students taking advanced courses in physics and mathematics, were written by some of the best known authorities in the country.

One volume, The Mathematics of Physics and Chemistry, was written by Prof. Henry Margenau, a leading atomic physicist and Atomic Energy Commission's consultant, who has appeared here on the panel of the Pioneering Arts and Sciences Conference in February.

SPORTS AGENDA

Crew—The Rollins crew left Wednesday for Philadelphia to compete in the Dad Vail Regatta tomorrow.

Water Ski—Men's and Women's varsity water ski teams will compete tomorrow in the all-day Southeastern Intercollegiate Water-Ski Tournament at Cypress Gardens. Rollins students admitted free.

Tennis—Tomorrow Tar netters meet the University of Miami team in Coral Gables, in their last match of the season.

Men's Intramurals—Softball: The intramural tournament will finish next week, with teams one and four playing this afternoon, two and three on Monday, and one and four on Tuesday in the Sandspur bowl.

Ping-pong: Four intramural ping-pong games are scheduled for Tuesday, May 17, on the TKE and Sigma Nu tables. Sigma Nu will play the Independents; the TKE's meet the Delta Chi players; KA will oppose Lambda Chi; and Faculty plays X Club. Horseshoe Tournament: With four games scheduled for today, the semi-finals will be held on Monday, May 16, and the finals will take place Wednesday.

State Champion Tar Crew Trys For Dad Vail Win

After setting a record in Tampa last Saturday to become Florida State champions, the Tar oarsmen left Wednesday for Philadelphia to try their skill in the biggest race in Dad Vail Regatta history.

Eighteen varsity, six junior varsity, and 10 freshman crews will compete for top honors in the Saturday race.

Under the coaching of U. T. "Brad" Bradley, Rollins has come close to winning the Dad Vail Regatta for several seasons, placing second or third in most of the races in which they have competed there, and sometimes losing by only a few inches.

Hoping that this will be their year for a victory or two in Philadelphia, both the varsity and junior varsity crews go to Dad Vail with near-unblemished records. The varsity was outrowed only once, by a strong LaSalle crew, and the JV's have won all of their seven races.

Competing last weekend against Florida crews in the Florida State Regatta in Tampa, the Tars took the state rowing championship crown in the fastest time ever rowed over the mile and 5/16 course.

Rollins edged out Jacksonville by a half length in 6:45.5 seconds. Tampa University, the defending champion, placed third, a length back, while the Florida Southern College crew was in last place.

The junior varsity crew made it Rollins' day all around by winning their race with a time of 6:55.4 seconds. Tampa took second place, Jacksonville was third, and the Florida Southern JV's placed last.

The Tar lineup, both for the Tampa race and tomorrow's Dad Vail includes Ed Rupp, stroke; Tim Morse, seven; Whit Chase, six; Jim Lyden, five; Art McGonigle, four; Bill Kintzing, three; Dennis Kamrad, two; and Bob Carlson, bow.

The undefeated Rollins JV's are Jay Banker, stroke; Sid Chase, seven; Bob Anderson, six; Larry Strimple, five; Peter Davenport, four; Bill Houston, three; Jim McDermott, two; and Bob Todd, bow. Jerry Thompson will coxswain both races.
