Fiesta Undaunted By Traditional Rain

TAKING TOP HONORS among the fraternity float entries in the Fiesta parade was the Sigma Nu creation representing a chariot race. Riding the float is the Fiesta Queen, Dianne Dicks. The parade took place Thursday afternoon.

Parade Attracts Crowds To Midway

The traditional rains came to Rollins Fiesta leaving many of the student-built booths paint-streaked and water soaked. However, the weatherman co-operated with Fiesta parade chairman Jon Darrah and Thursday presented a sunny afternoon for the parade which would its way through Winter Park.

Nine floats, all carrying out the Roman Holiday theme, high school bands, and candidates for the Miss Rollins contest were viewed by Winter Parkers, students and visitors. Chi Omega capped the women's parade trophy for the best float with their theme Nero Played White Rome Burned. Sigma Nu retired the men's parade trophy for their float of Chariot Races. Judges for the float contest were Mr. Richard Wolfe, Mrs. Lillian Bause Cadiens, and Mr. T. F. Peterson.

On the midway, Delta Chi retired the trophy for the best decorated fraternity booth, while Gamma Phi won the sorority award in the same category. The most successful booth trophies went to Pi Phi and Delta Chi. Mr. Frank Hutsell, Mrs. Lorena Hendry, and Mrs. Linda Hutsell were judges in the booth division.

Kappa Alpha Order and Kappa Kappa Gamma were announced the winners of the Field Day awards. Ann McCarthy was presented with a gift for being the best Fiesta Committee worker, and Ann Breathwit won a dinner at Morrison's Imperial House for selling the most raffle tickets. Sandy Warren was presented a trip for two to Nassau, the winning ticket drawn by Barbara Hogan, the new Miss Rollins.

John Looby was named Mr. Ugly Man and presented with a picture of himself. Dianne Dicks and Pete Hall were crowned Fiesta King and Queen by last year's King and Queen, Dick Bishop and Ruth Lynn Whittaker.

Proceeds from the dances and all other Fiesta activities will go into the scholarship fund.

Presidential Candidates Present Plans Elections Held Today In Union

The elections for Student Council officers will be held today from 9 to 4 in the Center. The runoffs, anticipated for the office of Secretary, will be held on Tuesday also from 9 to 4 in the Center. The two candidates for the office of President, Linda Qualls and Bill Tone have released their platforms to the 'Spur. They are as follows:

Linda Qualls:
"As a candidate for President of the Rollins Student Government, the voter has the right to know how I stand on certain issues.

"The first and most important is to make the new Student Government (proposed for the coming year) work. This means putting Rollins' loyalty first in the minds of everyone. This can be done by the new president by calling informal meetings of the Student body and explaining its workings; having work shops for the new representatives; having discussion groups on student government during orientation in order to acquaint the incoming students with the program.

"Another way of having better government on this campus is to co-ordinate the work of Rollins Union and Student Government. The result would be greater efficiency in organization and less friction among the leader of various activities.

"It will be necessary for the new President of Council to discuss problems with various members of the administration. My past experience in working with Dean Vermilye as Orientation Co-Chairman, Dean Watson as a Student Assistant in Elizabeth Hall, and President McKean and various faculty members as Fiesta Co-Chairman will alleviate the strain from my self that my opponent will have to face for he has never participated in these activities!"

"Students must accept the responsibility that is theirs to elect a president whose experience will eliminate much of the 'Red Tape' when one deals with the Administration.

"In return for your vote, I Linda Qualls promise an impartial,

Council To Send Representatives To Va. Meeting

The Committee for Evaluation and Reorganization of the Student Government submitted its plan in the form of amendments to the old Student Council Constitution Monday night. The revised system was moved and tabled for discussion in the groups preparatory to the final vote next week.

If approved, the new system will not become operable until after the Rules Committee have met and created a basic nucleus of rules. As the different compartments are readied, the Executive Committee will have the authority to install them.

"Do not vote down the whole system because of a few details," urged President Bob Fleming, "as the organization is fluid enough to allow change."

The election committee announced that the polls will be open from 9:00 to 4:00 Friday. If run-offs are necessary, they will be held Tuesday, April 18th.

A $500 appropriation to the photography department was approved. This money was requested by Lyman Huntington, College photographer, for a new photo

'Tiger At The Gates' Opens Run Monday Night In ART

By DANA IVEY
Sandspur Staff

Student night for the coming production of "Tiger at the Gates" will be this Monday, April 17. This will be the last ART presentation by the Rollins Players for this year. The play is written by French playwright Jean Giraudoux, and translated by Christopher Fry. In recent years, "Tiger at the Gates" won the New York Critics Circle Award as the Best Foreign Play of the Year.

The drama was written in 1938 before World War II, and is partially an anti-war play. Using the Helen of Troy legend, Giraudoux adapts the classical myth of life-like human characters. The story of the play takes place prior to the Trojan War when Hector has returned fighting in the north. He finds his city ready to go to war to keep Helen, who has been carried from her home by Hector's brother Paris.

During the course of the play, Hector fights narrowmindedness, false patriotism, meaningless tradition, and stupidity to stop the impending war. The characters of the play are divided into two camps — either eager for the war, or against it. In the end, war erupts in spite of logic.

Some changes have been made in the original casting. Steve Kane is now playing Busiris; Rusty Friedman is playing Abneios; Butch Gibbs, Olpides and Cadmus; Craig French, the sailor; and Nate Tracy, the messenger.

Because of the boys originally cast in the play have been placed on academic probation, Director Robert Chase will also be playing a role. He will take the part of Ulysses.

Technical director Erwin Feher has designed an open, platform setting for "Tiger." Using ramps and platforms to define the basic stage areas, he has incorporated with this open atmosphere set pieces of welded aluminum pipe. Done in tones of blue, the set creates a slightly formal atmosphere with its simplicity.

Rehearsals for "Tiger" have been inconvenienced by the concerts and appearances scheduled for the Annie Russell the last few weeks. The actors and Mr. Chase rehearsed strenuously during Fiesta to get the show ready.

Tickets are now available in the Beanery.

Music Students To Give Concert Today At Martin

Susan Jekel, Jeanne Deemer, Cordelia Bruce, and Barbara Behm will be featured in this afternoon's recital at Martin Hall. The program which begins at 4:30 will also include James Page pianist.

Barbara Behm will sing two French folk songs, "Le Roy a fait battre tambour," and "Reveillevous, belle dormeuse," by Ferrari; Susan Jekel will present an aria from Gluck's Paris and Helen, "O del mio dolce ardor," and "Nina" by Pergolesi. Jeanne Deemer, soprano, will sing "Connais-tu le pays" from Mignon by Ambroise Thomas, and Cordelia Bruce will present "Still we die Nacht," by Behm and "Do Not Go, My Love," by Hageman.

Miss Deemer and Miss Behm will be assisted at the piano by Mrs. Phyllis Sias, and Miss Bruce and Miss Jekel will be accompanied by Mrs. Carlo. All of the vocalists are students of Professor Ross Rosazza.

James Page, who is a student of Professor John Carter, will present Sonata in D Major, K.576, by Mozart.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

Grad Exam Set For Next Week

Graduate Record Examinations will be given in the Mills Memorial Library on April 22 at 9 o'clock. The tests are required for admission to many graduate and professional schools in the United States.

The tests, which are given twice a year at Rollins, are the equivalent to a College Board Entrance Examination for schools on the graduate level. They are also set up in the form of an Aptitude Test which covers verbal ability and quantitative ability, and Advanced Tests which cover comprehension of the materials basic to success in the field of the graduate major. The objective of these tests is to emphasize understanding of the concepts and methods which are essential to advanced work in the field.

Registration for the April test is already closed; the following Graduate Record Examination to be administered at Rollins will be in November of the next academic year. However, the test will be given at other dates in the year in various test centers in the United States.

Barbara Behm To Present Junior Recital Tuesday At Martin Hall

The Rollins Conservatory of Music will present Barbara Behm in her Junior Recital on Tuesday, April 18 at 8:30 p.m. at Martin Hall.

Miss Behm, a pupil of Professor Ross Rosazza, sing compositions by Schubert, Puccini and Nordoff, among others. The program will consist of Deux Bergerettes, "Reveillevous, belle dormeuse," and "Le Roy a fait battre tambour," by Yvette Guilbert; two songs by Franz Schubert — "Lied eines Schiffers an die Dioskuren," and "Bei dir."

The next group will include: "There Shall Be More Joy," by Paul Nordoff and "The Pasture," by Charles Naginsky. Miss Behm's last two selections are: "The Mountains are Dancing," by John Duke, and "O mio babbino caro" from Puccini's Gianni Schicci.

Miss Behm will be assisted by Mrs. Phyllis Sias at the piano.

As it is the custom in giving a junior recital to have an assisting performer, Roland Penney, pianist, will also appear on the program with Miss Behm. He will present a group of selections which includes three pieces by Chopin — Nocturne Op.48, No. 1, in C min., Etude Op. 25, No. 3 in A-flat min., and Tarantelle Op.43. Penney, who is a student of Mrs. Carlo, will also present one movement from the Beethoven Piano Concerto No. 3 in C min. Op. 37.

Miss Behm is a member of Chi Omega sorority and Collegium Musicum; she is Vice-president of the Student Music Guild, and past Social Secretary of the Chapel Choir. She had appeared in the ART productions of "Sister Angelica," "Guys and Dolls," and "Brigadoon." Barbara is also a Student Assistant in Elizabeth Hall.

Geisel To Address Meeting Of Fla. Phi Beta Kappa

Dr. Paul Geisel, Assistant Professor of Sociology, will be the speaker at the spring meeting of the Central Florida Association of Phi Beta Kappa, April 15, at 2:30 in the Alumni House. Dr. Geisel will discuss his experiences at Tuskegee Institute and selected aspects of the present movement toward integration.

Dr. Geisel, a native of California, has his degrees from Willamette University and Vanderbilt and has taught at Vanderbilt, Peabody, Fisk, Tuskegee Institute, and Rollins. His research has been in such areas as morbidity and morality studies, suicide studies, family aggression patterns, time budget study, and study of retardation of Negro youth in the South.

In addition to the address, there will be installation of the following officers: President, Dr. John Hodges of DeLand; Vice-President, Dr. John W. Oliver of Maitland; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Agnes G. Ronald of Daytona Beach. The current members of the executive committee are: Dr. Gerald Critoph, DeLand; Dr. Stephen Sanderlin, Winter Park; and Mrs. William Creening, Daytona Beach.

Members of the Rollins Key Society will be guests of the Association.

Radcliffe Schedules Summer Course For Grads Interested In Publishing

Barney Rosset, president of Grove Press, will give the keynote speech. He will be followed by Hiram Haydn, president of Atheneum Publishers; John Updike, author of Rabbit, Run; Helen Meyer, president of Dell Books; John Fischer, editor of Harper's Magazine; Allene Talmey of Vogue's "What People Are Talking About" column; Cipe Pinelis, art director of Mademoiselle; and Edward Wees, editor of Atlantic Monthly.

Applications for the course should be sent to Mrs. Digory Venn, Executive Director, Radcliffe College, Cambridge 38, Mass. Tuition is $200, and there are two full scholarships available.

dryer to replace the dilapidated one now in use, and for a wide angle lense to improve group pictures.

The expenses for two delegates to the Inter-Collegiate Women's Organization Convention in Richmond, Virginia, will be assumed by Council. The delegates are Nini Thompson and Sally Schreiber, both of whom were on the Committee for the Evaluation and Reorganization of Student Government, and will be members of the Legislature next year. Alternate is Diane Scott.

The purpose of this delegation is to discuss rules with women from other schools to gain ideas and ascertain the practicability of their rules for possible incorporation in Rollins' new rules.

Despite opposition, $500 for the Student Council Scholarship was allocated. This scholarship is awarded to qualified incoming freshmen from Orlando or Winter Park high schools. The reason for discussion was that Student Association money is used for the scholarship with no benefits for the Rollins students whose money also partially supports the Fiesta Scholarships.

President Fleming pointed out that the scholarship has already been publicized, and for reasons of public relations, it should be awarded this year, with future renewals to be decided next year.

24 Named To Rollins Scholars

Twenty-four Rollins students have achieved as Rollins Scholars as a result of Winter term grade averages. The qualifications for standing in The Rollins Scholars are the maintenance of an academic average of 7.00, B plus, or above, and participation in the Individual Reading Program for at least one term.

The fifteen women constituting better than fifty per cent of the Rollins Scholars are Susan Altman, Elke Arndt, Ann Baker, Patricia Corry, Mildred Dunlap, Barbara Greene, Rosalie Halbauer, Arthella Hines, Sandra McEntaffer, Joan Murray, Martha Niebold, Judith Rogers, Jane Ruble, Shoreen Tews, and Lee Bronson Warren.

The nine men who have maintained an average of 7.00 or better are Steve Browder, Matthew Carr, David Chinoy, Leo Hansberry, John Harkness, James Mosher, Joseph Mozer, Frank Passini, and Gustav Zamorsky.

ELECTION DAY CALLS FOR THOUGHT

Today is Election Day — a day that calls for much thought on the part of all the students. We have all probably been told, advised, and urged before to vote for the candidates whom we consider to be the most qualified. This year this is particularly important.

With a few weeks the new plan for Student Government Reorganization will be going into effect. This plan, we hope will begin a new day at Rollins, a day of a stronger and more effective student government.

The officers that are elected today will be the people who will put this plan into effect. Therefore, they must have the best qualifications.

The three officers up for election will form the addition of an appointed comptroller and corresponding secretary, the Executive Branch of the new student government.

The vice-president and secretary will be members of the Standards Committee along with members of the Upper Court. The President will preside over the Legislative Branch of the government which is the present council of representatives from each social group.

The present Council officers have with the help of others worked out this plan and it is up to the new officers to make it work.

By this time everyone has been bombarded by speeches and their eyes are full of posters. All the candidates are convinced, as they must be to campaign well, that they are the best for the job. The decision is now up to you.

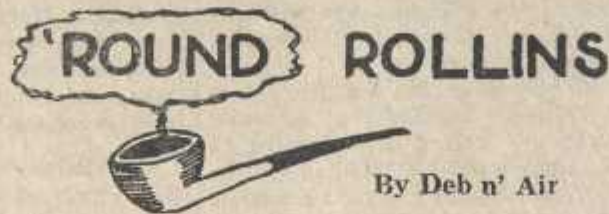

On this campus, many candidates try to insure votes by influencing social groups and trying to get them to vote as a group. This tactic in effect takes away the individual's privilege of his own vote.

Social groups also are inclined to vote for a candidate if he is a member of their group. This is usually because of group loyalty and also because a group likes to see one of its members get an important office as it will add prestige to the whole group.

In this case also the group may not be voting for the candidate that the individual members feel will make the best officer.

We urge you to take all these factors into consideration when you vote today, and most of all to vote.

It's elections time again at Rollins, that delightful period when campus buildings are obscured behind campaign posters and campus candidates behind tooth-paste smiles. Deciding whom to vote for is an important and often very difficult task, so Deb'n'Air, as a public service, will hereby set forth their guide to selecting a candidate.

There are, of course, two basic factors to consider in making this decision — qualifications (what the candidate says he has done) and platform (what the candidate says he is going to do). We will discuss both of these main headings individually as to what the voter should look for and how much of it he should believe.

In the field of qualifications, elections at Rollins this year will have a similarity to our recent national elections. A noted political cartoonist pointed out last fall in a noted national news magazine (names on request; please include a self-addressed, stamped envelope), that an important factor in the presidential campaign was the distinctive shock of hair that became a trademark of one of the candidates (name on request; see above instructions). Presidential elections at Rollins have for some time been simply a decision between crew-cuts. This year, however, Rollins' voters, like the nation's, will have a choice of hair styles when they go to the polls today.

This brings us to a discussion of the platforms presented by candidates for the various offices. Here a voter has two possible avenues of action. He can take the advice of somebody-or-other in the Reader's Digest (don't waste your stamped envelope; we've forgotten who it was) and vote for the candidate who promises least, on the grounds that he has fewer promises to break. The other approach is to vote for the candidate promising the most, in hopes that the winning candidates for the other offices keep their campaign promises. On second thought, pick a hairdo, any hairdo...

For those few voters who have not by this time decided how to vote, despite the invaluable advice rendered in Deb'n'Air's last-minute election guide, we, in our public-spiritedness, have not yet given up trying to help you out of your dilemma. For those voters who do not care for the hairdos or campaign promises of any of the candidates, there are still three choices.

The first, or Coward's Way Out, is to refrain from voting at all. This gives the voter one advantage, in that, whoever is elected, he can disclaim all part in it with a casual, "Well, don't blame me!" This, however, is not very public-spirited...

The second, or Give-Up-Gracefully-and-See-If-You-Can't-Get-A-Little-Something-Out-Of-It-On-The-Side method, is to cast your vote for the candidates you figure will win anyway. While this method has often been applied with great success on the national scene, we do not guarantee equal success here. If it does work, however, we ask you to bear in mind that Deb'n'Air deserves ten percent, for advice rendered.

The final course of action open to you, the voter, is the I-Have-Done-My-Duty method. Simply cast your ballot for the candidates you think will lose. This will give you the satisfaction of being able to say of the winners, "Well, I did my best to keep them out of office."

Soviet Russia-Red China Relations Seen As Stronger Than Ever

By Fulton Lewis, Jr.
From Human Events

Arrival in Peiping of a Soviet delegation to discuss trade and loans has dashed cold water on the belief that the Russians and Chinese Communists are near a breaking point.

The idea that the two nations have severe ideological differences has been put forward by many "experts" in this country and abroad. One, British Prime Minister MacMillan, has said that the future will find the West and the Soviet Union joining hands to meet a common enemy, Red China.

Reports from behind the Iron and Bamboo Curtains indicate this is wishful thinking. Early in February a Soviet Mission arrived in Communist China to map plans for expanded trade between the two nations and to arrange for new grants for the Chinese.

The Soviet group was led by Pavel N. Komykin, Deputy Minister of Foreign Trade, and I. V. Arkhipov, Deputy Chairman of the State Committee on Foreign Economic Relations.

The Soviets were met at the Peiping airport by top-ranking Chinese leaders. Foreign Minister Chen Yi made a major speech in which he paid glowing tribute to the Soviet aid and voiced his opinion that the ties between the two nations were stronger than ever.

Marshal Chen declared the past Soviet aid "has played an important role toward consolidating the victory of the Chinese Revolution, restoring our national economy and laying an industrial foundation for building socialism."

There are other indications that the Sino-Soviet relationships are in fine shape. They include:

The visit to Red China of a nine member "friendship delegation" from Moscow. The group was led by F. V. Konstantinov, alternate member of the Communist Party's Central Committee and Editor-in-Chief of the Communist, theoretical and political journal of the party's Central Committee.

Intelligence agencies report a banquet for the Soviet visitors was held in Peiping on the night of February 8. Wu Yu-chang, Vice President of the Sino-Soviet Friendship Association, spoke on the ties that bind Moscow and Peiping:

"The Sino-Soviet alliance has become a tremendous force inspiring the peoples of the two countries in their common struggle and has exercised a profound influence on the history of man."

Wu Yu-chang went on to declare the solidarity between the Soviet and Chinese Reds "as firm as rock and as hard as iron and steel. Our two peoples support each other in the common struggle against enemies and bear great responsibility in the sacred cause of the complete emancipation of mankind."

Russia Campaigns For Youth

Every other year, for more than a decade, long-range planners high in the Moscow hierarchy have staged a huge propaganda jamboree called the World Youth Festival. The Kremlin has come to regard this enterprise as crucial in its unflagging drive to capture the minds of young people in the non-Soviet world.

The seventh and most recent of these Festivals was held for ten days last summer in Vienna, attended by some 16,000 delegates from over 100 countries.

The U. S. delegation consisted largely of college students untrained for the task at hand. Our loyal kids in Vienna were amateurs playing against seasoned professionals.

We do not need propagandists. We need only intelligent, articulate young people who know the score and tell the truth. If we are to participate at all, the time to prepare is now. Otherwise the Kremlin will win still another round in its relentless campaign against the integrity of the world's youth.

"Arguments are to be avoided," quipped that master quipster Oscar Wilde. "They are always vulgar and often convincing."

This may be a sane observation but it still leaves out the chief reason. Billy Phelps, of Yale fame, disliked controversy because it usually leads nowhere. "In a wordy quarrel... those who listen are generally more interested in the combative skill of the antagonist than in the question discussed—the appeal fundamentally is not to the love of truth, but to the sporting instinct. Being both a lover of sport and a man of peace, I enjoy the violence of strife in games and the calm of study and contemplation. I do not like to see one usurp the other's place."

Union Helps To Balance Academic And Social Life On College Campus

Why does Rollins need a student union?

We are all aware of various statements of student needs and the way the student union meets them. Social activity is not necessarily incompatible with high academic achievement, but there are two or three needs of our college campus which are deeper than social and recreational needs, and which are extremely important to the primary objectives of our college.

One of these is the representation of the student union, as both a physical structure and a concept, of one of the most valuable forces in cementing positive campus elements together.

Elections . . .

unprejudiced ear to any problem that you bring to Student Council."

Bill Tone:
"The new Student Association government being based on the principle of government by the students, and by virtue of the fact that the President of the Executive Branch is elected by the majority of the students, compels the President to represent the majority of the students. The President must at all times strive to work for the benefit of the majority and must never be swayed in his decisions by individual pressure groups.

"Because the President is elected by the students he must represent the student's views and must always work to achieve the aims of the students.

"Because the power structure in Rollins' government flows down from the trustees through the faculty to the students the President must at all times be on guard against attempts to remove, limit, and curb the rightful authority delegated to the students. He must always be looking for feasible methods of increasing student authority so that the new government may truly be called a student government.

"The new government is untested. The President must be able to build this organization into a concrete entity by working with his fellow students.

"Because the government is young, the President should see that all members of the student association are kept informed on the progress made by the various organizations. This could be done by an all-college meeting for the interested students. The students must build their own government.

"The President must at all times strive to unify the student body, so that school spirit and environment become prevalent in an atmosphere of Democracy.

"If elected President, I promise to fulfill these obligations to the best of my ability, always working to build a strong, unified, and democratic government to be run for the benefit of the students, and by the students."

The candidates for Vice-President are Mike Maher and Frank Dunnill; secretarial candidates are Joan Spaulding, Posy Wilson, Barbara Wolcott and Sherry McMath. The representatives of Independent Women and Independent Men will also be chosen at the elections. Since the candidates for Publications posts are again running unopposed, the election for these positions will be only a formality.

The Election Board has announced that there will be no write-in votes allowed in this election and that no results will be made known until after the run-off on Tuesday.

Rollins needs a cohesive force of an all-institutional nature — a place where students may meet with each other in the common interests of the college, whether they be fraternity or non-fraternity members, physics or art majors.

This is not something which merely makes student life more pleasant. It is necessary for our understanding as to what is the true sense of learning — the fellowship of scholars — which is so badly needed to give intellectual stimulation to our Rollins campus.

Our student union, by its environment and program, can help to balance values and demands because of its central position on our campus and the influence its program of activities has on the total extra-curricular life here.

There is a second important need for our Rollins Union which is pointed up by this dominant role which the student union plays in extra-curricular life of our campus. Not only do we need an agency which gives emphasis and a feeling of belonging to the campus community, we need an agency to give positive direction and leadership to campus life outside of the class-rooms.

Our student union performs an important function which is almost impossible for any other agency, by leading the way in initiating programs which are timely in their emphasis and relevant to the changing objectives and role of the campus community. It combines the interests of students and institution and, therefore, is a continuous influence on the campus community.

Thus, our union has a unique responsibility because of its organization and relationship to the campus. It must carry on programs and activities to meet present student needs and desires, but at the same time it must be ahead of the popular demand and institutional trends by initiating new programs and giving emphasis to the areas about to become significant.

Jerry Beets Praises College Atmosphere; Dislikes Lack Of Competition On Campus

By ANN PUDDINGTON
Sandspur Staff

Baseball fans will be interested to know that Jerry Beets thinks this is one of the best years for the team. "I'm grateful for the chance to play on the team," says the active ball-player. "It was the first thing I heard about Rollins."

Jerry also appreciates the atmosphere of the college, the chance to get to know everyone, and the location. Hoping to stay in Florida, he feels that when you come here, you get "sand in your shoes." A Business major, staying here depends on a job, "preferably sales and then management," he added.

Prefers Competition

Plenty of competitive spirit is Jerry's policy. "Rivalry among social groups is a good thing, but it's deceased since I've been at Rollins," says the treasurer of the X Club.

"Lack of competition is also evident in elections, whereas a candidate might now run for a big office without opposition." As president of the R Club, treasurer of the junior class, and business manager of the Sandspur for two years, Jerry is a good example of the competitor.

Opposes Required Courses

Loyal to the business administration department, Jerry is all for liberal arts education, "but if the student knows what he wants and it doesn't include a science or a language, he shouldn't have to take such courses. If this is necessary, then a science major should have to take business courses so that it works both ways. Actually, there are plenty of courses by which you can obtain a broad education without the possibility of wasting time on a required course."

Jerry hopes to see the Rollins Union become a more stable organization soon. "It will probably take three or four years and will require plenty of interest from students, but it will have more to offer."

Fieldhouse Necessity

"Another definite advantage will be a Fieldhouse. On a campus this size and as well-known as it is, it's practically a must. The whole student body should definitely support the campaigns in one way or another," Jerry concluded.

Law School Admission Test To Broaden Scope, Add Sections

The Law School Admission Test, now required by 86 of the nation's law schools, will include separate tests of writing ability and general background beginning next November. This announcement was made today by the executive committee of the Law School Admission Test Policy Committee at the Conference of Western Law Schools.

In its present form, the Law School Admission Test is administered in a single half-day session and is designed to measure aptitudes closely related to specific aspects of the study of law.

With the addition of the two new tests, the scope of the test will be broadened to include the measurement of achievement in the areas of writing and knowledge of cultural background, and it will occupy a full day. Separate scores will be reported on the aptitude test, the writing test, and the test of general background.

The writing ability test is designed to measure the student's command of grammar and diction as well as this ability to recognize verbose or unclear writing. It will test his skill in organizing ideas and require him to demonstrate his competence by re-writing and editing prose passages.

The general background test is to measure the student's awareness of the intellectual and cultural context in which the law functions. The test is designed to indicate the candidate's understanding of important ideas, events, and cultural developments of the past and present.

The Law School Admission Test is administered four times a year in November, February, April, and August at test centers throughout the United States and abroad. Educational Testing Service of Princeton, New Jersey, constructs, administers, and scores the examination for the Policy Committee of the Law School Admission Test.

Fla. Man Wishes To Foster New Relationships With Rollins Coeds

Editor:

The primary purpose of this letter is to foster closer relations between Florida Men and personable Rollins Women. You see, with a minority of girls on the Florida Campus, dating becomes a problem and many males here are becoming "frustrated." And, since pessimism is growing rampant on this campus, I and other Florida Males conclude that it is time to do something about this problem.

Therefore, I would greatly appreciate any response (speaking on behalf of myself and friends) to this letter. My friends and I shall be happy to exchange personal interests, snapshots, and personal characteristics. Please address all replies to Bill Hodges, P. O. Box 2874, University of Florida, Gainesville, Fla.

Sincerely,
Bill Hodges
Social Chairman of Murphree Hall

P.S. This letter is not a farce nor is it the beginning of a lonely hearts club; this letter is only a letter to foster new relationships for the Florida Male.

New Style Trends Emphasizes Simplicity

By Alyse McKay

Written For The Sandspur

The fashion news this week was definitely Fiesta with all its spills and excitement — from Togas to tea dresses. And what more appropriate theme could we have asked for, not only in setting a fiesta mood, but in setting a background for striking fashions, than Rome, the Mecca of the fashion world.

Dianne Dix and Sue Goodier make a delightful picture as they try on their Fiesta finery for the big occasion of the holiday. Sue is cool, calm and lovely in her white square-neck sheath that she selected for the Miss Rollins tea as Dianne, our new Fiesta Queen, wearing a most becoming and exotic print silk, gives her a few last minute pointers before the pageant. She must have given her some pretty good ones too, judging from the results of the contest. Both girls drew high praises at their recent triumphs not only in beauty but for the poise with which they conducted themselves. Congratulations Dianne and Sue.

The ensembles modeled in the fashion show last Saturday were simple, colorful, and feminine. Each girl was a winner in spite of the nervousness that held back several contestants. It was Phi Phi's pretty Barbara Hogan, however, that had that certain something for which the judges were looking. Congratulations to you too and to Missy Jones and previously congratulated Sue Goodier.

Not all was ribbons and laces this week, however. The standard outfit for a Theta was a short water-stiff toga and a pair of chains. It's a good thing the sorority has lots of pretty legs. Phi Mu selected blue jeans and a sweat shirt for their float-making uniforms, and an outstanding float it was too. But in spite of the mass invasion of work clothes, the word from Mademoiselle is that the fashion show was the event that best reflected the coming trends. Simplicity — this is

Feher To Stage Exhibition This Summer In Vienna

Erwin Feher of the Rollins Theatre Arts Department has been asked by the Academy of Dramatic Arts in Vienna to arrange an exhibition of contemporary American stage designs there this summer. His exhibition will be shown in connection with the cultural activities of the Vienna Festival.

Feher has also been asked to write a number of articles on the University Theatre for the Linzer Theaterzeitung, a European theatre magazine, in Linz, Austria. Commenting on this Feher said, "The editor of the publication has shown great interest in the vitality of the theatre in this country and Rollins College has gained great theatrical interest abroad."

The Rollins instructor will leave for an extensive visit of Europe in June, with an invitation also to lecture at the Austrian Summer Festival in Graz.

Sue Goodier and Dianne Dicks pose in new fashions representing this year's trend in styles toward simplicity, femininity, and color.

the keynote to most college wardrobes these days and it denotes comfort. Femininity—and are the boys on campus glad to hear this! They've been crusading on this subject for some time. Color — the leading colors this summer will be pink, from petal pink to hot, hot pink; cool lavenders to deep purple; black will be used more than usual, "black and white with one sizzling accessory" says Mademoiselle, black and white checks; and pure, fresh summer white as always.

Some of the other season specials will include colored head bands and shoes with tiny heels. The real campus scoop this spring is the new knee skirts especially popular at Florida colleges with very brown legs and very white tennis shoes. This is like a kilt with no pleats. Another outfit taking the country by storm is the "Moo-Moo," a casually belted sun dress that is really rivaling the conventional shirtwaist.

Oh, yes, and if you're going touring in Europe this summer, be sure to check with Mademoiselle first. It's jammed packed with passport and economy tips, specials for students, and job opportunities in Europe. And remember when you shop that the type of clothes you'll need will be different. The outfit most in demand will be an ensemble that will take you sightseeing all day and still be ready for a thrilling evening by the lights of the Paris skyline. The dress plus coat being featured this season and in this issue of Mademoiselle is a natural for these occasions.

In next week's issue we will be announcing the Rollins Fashion Board and the remaining copies will be dedicated to spotlighting some of our "best-dressed girls on campus."

We invite and encourage you to write in any fashion question or program or article suggestions. By this means we hope to make the Mademoiselle program useful and exciting at Rollins.

'Jean Giradoux' Topic Of Wagner Lecture Saturday

Theatre director Arthur Wagner will give a lecture on Saturday April 15, at 2:30 p.m. in the Annie Russell Theatre. The title for this talk is "Jean Giradoux"; the lecture will deal with the man and his works, with special emphasis on "Tiger at the Gates," which is this season's last production.

Filling station attendants were going out of their minds last Friday night trying to figure out why people were running around wrapped in sheets and saying, "How do I get to the Temple?"

Jane Faxon, what'll it be this week . . . Club or Sigma Nu?

Chick Guerrero wanted to get as close to the keg as possible as he sat on it!

Diane Manning, don't forget to take some winter clothes to Michigan — it's cold and it will probably be snowing.

The Sigma Nu's ought to change the line to "Please! Take! My! Pin!" How about it Bob Anderson and Gary Payne? Actually though, John Hirsh is having quite the opposite problem . . . you see, Mariellen Mercke has this charm bracelet and . . .

Janet Cummings danced until her pretty gold heels bent.

Rich Buckley is really a housekeeper . . . he even vacuums his sheet!

Congratulations Kappas for bringing the Field Day events to a splashing finish! As their canoe capsized, Sandy Rainey was worried about being seen all wet while Suzy Dix was exclaiming gleefully, "Oh, isn't the water just great!"

Bill Lauderback, Bill Camp, Sam Scales, Bob May, and a few of "the boys" plus Jody Frutchey have been having a terrific problem fighting off several recording companies since their performance last Friday night. (That really wasn't a dance that Sam was doing . . . he was stage struck.)

The Alpha Phi's "Mercury Girls" are wondering what to do with so many pairs of gold tennis shoes now that Fiesta is over.

Frank Healis has been attending Temperance Union meetings . . . otherwise he would never mix drinks with water. That's one way to make a cocktail party a real success.

The word for the day is "crude." Right, Kay Ross?

Everyone says Babs and Woody Breen had "quite a reception." It started with the wedding in the morning and finally ended with the Elks at night.

Ginny Lawrence is a firm believer that variety is the spice of life. Kip and Tim Shepard were "bopping the rod" on the Phi Phi house balcony while Donna Lavelle was playing Juliet.

Hank Molt likes Glasser's lawn, the Theta bushes, and sleeping in cars . . . but all in one night?

Ask Gena Pendergast to sing "Mother-in-law."

Imagine the reaction of a stranger upon walking into the Pi Phi house and seeing it covered by 2,000 pies "setting."

Tom "Snook" Weber and "Chuck Cogger" Cortese acquired new nicknames on the Jacksonville baseball trip.

What's this intimate relationship between Don Nesbit and Bruce Aufhammer?

The KA's and Lambda Chi's are staring over Ray Reed.

Paul Jones and Jack Sutliff walked home from the Saturday night dance.

Hey, Sandy Warren . . . a trip for TWO to Nassau?! Hmmm.

Hear Al Lipsky can't wait to get up in the morning.

Sleep much, Chuck Girk?

Gotcha King Kellogg dropped again (twice!) after the dance Saturday.

Tar Varsity, JV Oarsmen Outstroke AIC; Race Fla. Southern Tomorrow

Both the Rollins varsity and Junior varsity crew defeated a game American International Crew last Friday afternoon on a rough and windy Lake Maitland. The twin victories were held on the mile and a quarter course ending at the Rollins boathouse.

In the varsity race, AIC jumped out on the start to lead the Tars by a quarter of a length. This lead was increased to almost a full length by the halfway mark.

The turning point in the race came when the Tars, who had been rowing at a low stroke in the rough water, turned on the power going into the third quarter and passed their opponent. From then on it was Rollins all the way, stroking to the finish line a length and a quarter ahead of the American International Crew. The times for the race were 6:08 and 6:13.

The Tar JVs, applying their usual strategy, took command of the lead at the start and held it throughout the race. The times for the JV race were 6:16 and 6:23. Rollins rowing to a length and three quarter victory over AIC.

A few changes injected by Coach Bradley before the race found Terry Murphy rowing number two in the varsity while Dennis Kamrad was moved up to stroke the JVs. Larry Strimple and Alec Arnold were also placed in the JV for their first race of the year.

The Tar's next race will be this Saturday when they come up against Florida Southern. The race will be held at 11:00 a.m. over the long course ending at the boathouse.

Sportin' Life

Intramurals Lack Sportsmanship; Competition Becomes Obsession

By HARDHEAD

Someone said the other day that they more or less despised one of their frat brothers because he wasn't super-loyal during a softball game — in other words, this fraternity brother liked to fraternize with guys on the other team, joke, and ham it up a little.

To most guys apparently this thing of not taking the softball game seriously so as to win, win, win, for the fraternity is a fault of the first degree and anyone like this has a bad attitude or shouldn't be allowed to play.

This situation may or may not be a universal one, on this campus even, but it does point up one problem with fraternities and sororities, too, I suppose. The problem is: just how serious do you have to be about a softball game? What is so important about being the best softball players on campus? Does life begin and end on the intramural athletic field? Does the IM athletic trophy mean that much to a group, that they lose sight of the fun value of sports and operate for the sole purpose of winning prestige?

Now, man, I'm not degrading competition at all. America thrives on competition; we as individuals thrive on it. But something is failing miserably when two groups go out on the athletic field as just that, two groups — not friends even, when separated by the chalk line on the base path or the net on the volleyball court.

Something called sportsmanship, which I think could be re-defined for Rollins, is lacking out there.

When I play, I play my heart out to win, but I enjoy it as clean, hard competition between friends meant first for enjoyment and secondly for the competition. What has happened in many cases at Rollins, is the latter is placed before the former and many times petty group feelings get in the way of the former completely.

Too much emphasis is placed on athletic achievement here at Rollins and not enough on the really important things, the thing we're here for: education, maturity, how to think.

What I'm trying to say may be getting balled up here, but in effect, sports is part of living — an important part. And I feel that sports are divided into three purposes, physical exercise, competition and enjoyment. I think that our values have pushed "competition" so far that it has become an obsession with us. These are some of my reflections on the matter, what do you think?

Contemporary Arts On Display
Currently In Morse Art Gallery

By Mar Fairchild

Written For The Sandspur

The Contemporary Arts, Inc. presently has an exhibition of paintings in the Morse Gallery of Art. This exhibition will be on campus until April 24th and the paintings in the collection seem to be some of the most interesting works seen this year.

Most of the paintings are renditions achieved through "abstraction." This particular method is, as most probably know, very typical and is often employed by today's artist.

When one looks at these paintings he should not try to be critically analytical because these are not the kind of paintings one tries to figure out in terms of a realistic likeness to the intended subject matter or title. One must remember that the artist intensifies his intent through original means.

His work becomes original in the sense that the artist tries to identify himself with his work. Often an artist of today's "abstract" movement intends to intensify a particular element and the public reads something into the work that was never originally intended.

This can be the fault of the artist as well as the public and perhaps the problem is partially answered by Jacob Drachler's "Because." Maybe someone asked Mr. Drachler "Why?" and his answer was "Because."

William Chaiken renders his work through the use of thick easin. Florence Kawa's "Green Field" is the water color in which she has pasted strips of painted paper on a single piece of paper. Sam Middleton's "Chorus" is a college painting. He has pasted newspaper on a canvas and then overpainted, the end result being one of unusual effects and of interest to the spectator.

Ellis Wilson's "Beggar and Fisherman" are the only two paintings which do not seem to be up to par with the others. He uses dull and uninteresting browns and has no variations of color. There is no variation of shapes within the paintings and there is poor placement of the figures. He has emphasized the figures and they themselves have not been fully developed.

Lastly, Alwyn Lazansky's "Still Life" is a geometric painting in which rectangles are cleverly juxtaposed throughout the picture. The artists that have been mentioned are only a few of those represented in the Morse Gallery of Art. If you have not seen this exhibition, do so because it is well worth your time.

The war-time comedy, "Mr. Roberts" will be shown Sunday April 16, as the next movie in the Rollins Film Series. Starring in the coming film, which will be in color, are Henry Fonda, Jack Lemon, and James Cagney. The showing will be at 6:30 in the Fred Stone Theatre.

Placement Bureau In Carnegie Helps
Seniors, Others To Find Needed Jobs

By PAT TEAGUE

Sandspur Staff

On a warm June day this year when the Rollins Class of '61 files out from the graduation exercises, perhaps one question above all will be mulled over underneath the mortarboards:

Where will the future's paycheck come from?

The Class of '54 considered this question and did something about helping to answer it. As a direct result of the work of some Rollins seniors, a job placement bureau was organized in the fall of 1953 under the supervision of two business administration professors, Dr. David Robbins and Dr. Melvin Greenhut.

The present director, Miss Emily Merrill, came to the bureau in 1954 from personnel posts with the American Red Cross in New York. With the help of the pleasant, personable Miss Merrill, most job-seeking seniors have two strikes in their favor.

Each year a copy of the current College Placement Annual is given free to each senior. The large catalog, published by the College Placement Council, lists job information for 1800 companies plus requirements for the potential employees. Information is also regularly sent out to students about visiting representatives of various companies doing campus recruiting.

Composing credentials files for inquiring employers is another job that the placement bureau does for the career-bound senior, says Miss Merrill. The student fills out an application for a file, supplies needed information including sources for references, and from then on, he has a permanent file in the bureau office. Years later, when he may be looking for another job and may be thousands of miles from Rollins, he can still write the bureau to send his credentials to a potential employer. Miss Merrill points out that making up a file in the senior year, even when the student may already have a job lined up or may be going into the service, has a definite advantage. Teachers whom he will need to have for references in the future can make out recommendations while still in close contact with the student.

Years later, the teachers may no longer be at Rollins or will most likely have hazy memories of what the student was like.

The placement bureau director has noted that many of the women students go into teaching, secretarial or social work, and also into the retail field. One interesting line of work where former Rollins women have been employed is the Proctor and Gamble Market Research. Women travel around the United States in groups of four, interviewing from house to house to see what the public wants. Miss Merrill points out that Rollins is the only college in Florida that Proctor and Gamble visits in its recruiting.

Rollins men graduates usually go into business such as manufacturing, retailing, insurance, government or foreign service, or else continue their education at graduate school. Those who leave college to go directly from college to join the armed services find that a credential file in the placement bureau is handy to have waiting for them when they finish their military service and look for jobs.

What should the student job-seeker do?

"First, define what you want to do or at least the general field," says Miss Merrill.

Her second recommendation is to take the opportunity to be interviewed on campus.

"Students have the tendency to feel that if they go for the interviews, they'll have to make up their minds. But this isn't the way the employers work," the bureau director explains. "It takes time for them to select an employee — often several interviews and a visit to the home office or plant. I advise some discriminate job-shopping."

The vocational guidance and placement service is free to all students and graduates of Rollins. The placement bureau office is on the second floor of Carnegie Hall.
