Nineteen Freshmen Chosen For Honors At Entrance Study

Each year a number of freshman are selected to be part of the honors-at-entrance program. They have the privilege of reading for honors during their first year.

The nineteen freshmen who were selected to be part of the program for this year were presented to the school at last Saturday's Convocation, "A Tribute to Academic Excellence."

They are: Ann Beaver from Taft High School, Hamilton, Ohio; Sara Brown from Eustis High School, Eustis; Gail Buettner from St. Patrick Academy, Des Plaines, Ill.; Karen Cattanaach from Grants Pass High School, Grants Pass, Oregon; and Jean Christy from Stranahan High School, Ft. Lauderdale.

Also, Frieda Clifford from Colonial High School, Orlando; Elizabeth Drissel from Fountain-Fort Carson High School, Fountain, Colorado; Irene Ebert from Danbury High School, Danbury, Conn.; Robert Ennis from Cocoa High School, Rockledge; Steven Fehmerling from Cedar Key High School, Cedar Key; and Karen Kaltenborn from Graham-Eckes School, Palm Beach.

Also, Michael Levine from Lane Technical High School, Chicago, Ill.; Ronald Maffia from Bloom Township High School, Chicago Heights, Ill.; David Schechter from Redford Union High School, Detroit, Mich.; and Steffen Schmidt from The Bolles School, Jacksonville.

Also, James Treadway, Jr. from Union High School, Union, South Carolina; Virginia Walker from St. Margaret's Preparatory School, Tappahannock, Virginia; Arthur Western, Jr. from Madison High School, Madison Heights, Michigan; and Sara Zimmerman from Clearwater High School, Clearwater.

ODK requests that all Junior and Senior men bring their activity cards in the Student Deans Office up to date as soon as possible. In order that proper recognition of college achievements may be insured these records should be kept up to date.

New Student Government Approved By Faculty

The new Student Council constitution and student courts are now formally in operation. Student Council president Linda Qualls announced that the college faculty voted on November 6 to approve the constitution and student courts which were presented for their approval last spring.

A proposal to initiate Amateur Radio operations on the Rollins campus was presented to council at last Monday's meeting in the Kappa Lodge.

Ken Graff, spokesman for the newly formed Rollins Radio Club, explained that the Amateur Radio Station will provide a free communication system to all parts of the United States and its possessions for the students and faculty of the college by radiogram and "phone patch."

Supervised by Mark Frutche, Director of Rollins Radio Station WPRK, the "ham" operations will be located in the WPRK studios in the basement of the library.

Additional advantages to be provided by the Amateur Radio Station include insurance of communication during emergency conditions, publicity for Rollins, instruction in elementary theory and Morse Code to prepare students for "ham" licenses, and means of electronic experimentation.

Graff and three other members of the Radio Club came to Council to ask for allocations for equipment — $527.00 for an antenna and transmitter. Use of the WPRK mast for the antenna and a $300 receiver have been volunteered.

In accordance with the constitution, the allocation has been tabled for a week and will be put to a vote at the next Council meeting on Tuesday.

Dr. Teller Stresses Scientific Importance

By JANE MORGAN
Associate News Editor

"Unless everyone, the great public, has a proper appreciation of science, we shall not find our way in this complex world. And unless the plain man is informed about science . . . he cannot be called an educated person."

These were the words of Dr. Edward Teller, speaking on "Education for the Space Age" at Rollins 76th Anniversary Convocation, Nov. 4. In his discourse on this subject, the world-renowned physicist spoke about scientific progress in the U. S. and Russia, space exploration, the need for world-wide cooperation in science research, and the responsibilities that man gains as he learns more about his world.

"In our century, science has produced new ideas so remarkable, so startling, that the majority of the people still, sometimes a half century after the discovery, have not caught up with these ideas," Dr. Teller said, speaking as a scientist of the progress made in his field. "Science must be exact in the hands of those who practice it . . . but for the general public, exactness is not the first requirement. Understanding and appreciation is. I hope that we shall develop means to teach science appreciation."

In comparing the scientific progress of the U. S. and Russia, Teller said that appreciation was not enough.

"Today Russia is graduating 50% more engineers than we are. They have a plan to double and redouble this plan, while our own engineering enrollment is falling off."

"If the technological surprises will come from Russia," he warned, "then they will have the power, by peaceful or other means, to conquer the world."

"It is dangerous for me to make any predictions about what we shall find in space," the scientist said cautiously.

He said that the same chemical structure has been found in all living beings on earth, and that scientists hope to find a comparative form of life on Mars.

"Our star is one of a billion star systems," the scientist explained. "On these there must be many things as strange as life and possibly stranger. The distances are so vast that we cannot believe, even today, that we can ever span these distances. But signals, like radar, can be received." In answer to those who have questioned the wisdom of trying to reach the moon, Dr. Teller made this statement:

"In the future there is something new and something unknown . . . and we should and must find out. I hope that I perhaps have managed to give you the impression that in science there is something that applies . . . to our valuable possession: curiosity."

Continuing his discussion, the physicist said, "I think I have also pointed out to you that the consequences of our great knowledge will be a number of problems" (continued on page 8)

'Thieves Carnival', First ART Production Of Season, Opens Monday For Students

By DANA IVEY
Sandspur Staff

The Annie Russell Theatre 1961-62 season will open this Monday on student night; the public opening is Tuesday. The play holding the first spot of this year's Rollins Players' productions is Thieves' Carnival, written by the French playwright Jean Anouilh.

Thieves' Carnival is a hilarious farce about a group of pickpocket-well-to-do Britishers on vacation, some French dandies, a musician, and other assorted personages. As a high farce the play has elements of musical and visual humor, and the old stand-by of mistaken identity.

Director Robert Chase has expressed his pleasure in the progress of the play, especially since many major roles have been filled by students who are new to the ART stage. Veterans heading the cast are senior Bob Haines, junior Dana Ivey, and junior Crick Hatch. Sally Schreiber, also a junior, was put in the role of Juliette two weeks ago.

Candy Diener has done the choreography for Thieves' Carnival, and Marion Love has worked as head of the crew. Many of the costumes have been made in the ART, and some of them have been ordered from a New York costume company.

The new technical director, John Ezell, has designed and built his set on a basic wing and drop arrangement. But he has added embellishments that heighten the farce through the setting, which is painted in a magenta tone.

Tickets for the student performance on Monday night are available in the Beanery. Any students who want to go to the production on any other night can get free tickets by presenting their Rollins Student Association cards at the box office of the ART.

Thieves' Carnival is a good season opener. It is a light, fun play in which everyone has a good time. The setting is in an exclusive watering-place in Europe during the 1880's. The setting itself, gay and romantic, lends an air of the fantastic.

Key Society Taps Three At Saturday Convocation

Three students were tapped for the Key Society, Rollins highest honorary, last Saturday in convocation. The three students are Matt Carr, Kathleen Johnson, and William Taggart.

Founded in 1927 for the purpose of fostering interest in all campus and scholastic activities and promoting the welfare of Rollins College, Key Society opens its membership to juniors and seniors who have maintained the equivalent of an A minus (8.0) overall average for no less than six consecutive terms including at least one term in the junior year.

Matt Carr, recipient of an Oslo Summer Scholarship this past summer, is also chairman of the Men's Rules Committee. He is a member of Phi Society, Pi Gamma Mu, a Term Honor List student, and Rollins Scholar.

Both William Taggart and Kathleen Johnson are President's List students, having attained an 8.0 average or better.

Other members of the honorary are Mary Frances Amick and Arthella Hines.

The U. S. Air Force Recruiting Team will be on campus November 13, 1961, to talk to interested applicants for the U. S. Air Force Officer Training Program for college graduates.

has agreed to synchronize the library clocks.

She also reported complaints from students and the library staff concerning excessive noise in the library. After a lengthy discussion, Council voted to report to the Lower Court the names of violators after their third offense. Persons annoyed by noise are to report to council the names of the offenders, who, after the second offense, will receive a warning from Council.

Traffic Committee Chairman David Hines reported that ten to fifteen minute parking in front of Elizabeth Hall is permissible. At present traffic tickets are not being given at night.

Council will request the administration to sit in on the investigation committee of the proposed Florida Intercollegiate Football League. An opinion poll of the social groups by their council representatives yielded a 66 percent affirmative vote from the men and an 88 percent affirmative vote from the women for Rollins to participate in preliminary talks with other Florida colleges.

The medical staff of the Winter Park Memorial Hospital has complained to Council of unruly conduct displayed by Rollins students visiting Rollins patients.

After discussion on remedial measures Council passed a motion that a sign-in sheet be placed at the hospital desk for all Rollins students to sign before visiting a Rollins patient. This action will be suggested to the hospital medical staff.

Drabik Appointed Speech Chairman

Mrs. Patricia Drabik of Sanford, assistant professor of speech at Rollins College, has been appointed chairman of the State Public Relations Committee for the Florida Speech Association.

FSA met recently in Lakeland in conjunction with the Florida Theatre Conference. Delegates to the session discussed ways of informing the citizens of speech services available to them and the importance of these services.

Mrs. Drabik, who holds the Ph. D. degree from University of Illinois, also belongs to the Speech Association of America, American Educational Theatre Association, and the Association for Professional Broadcasting Education.

Catherine Crozier Returns From Tour; Will Give Recital In December

Audiences of Europe responded this fall to the playing of Catharine Crozier, organist of Rollins College.

Her series of concerts in England brought such reviewers' comments as "A distinguished musical evening," "Catharine Crozier of Rollins College, Winter Park, Fla., scores a triumph," "Catharine Crozier held the audience spellbound."

After her September recital at Portsmouth Guildhall, the Evening News said Miss Crozier charmed her audience "both with her supreme skill and technical ability and the delightful programme she presented."

From England the Rollins organist went to Paris, where she played the new organ at L'Institut des Jeunes Aveugles.

The large audience included many French musicians, members of the American Colony in Paris, and music students.

She and her husband, Dr. Harold Gleason, noted American musicologist, returned from Europe last week.

The extensive concert tour began shortly after they arrived in London in July. It was Miss Crozier's second tour this year. She also performed in leading cities across the United States last spring.

She will be presented in recital Dec. 1 in the Rollins Concert Series. Miss Crozier will also give her annual Organ Veasers in January and February.

'HAM' RADIO ADDS TO CAMPUS

Last Monday night an interesting new project for Rollins was proposed to Student Council. It is the establishment of an amateur radio station which would provide various services to the campus.

The most important of these services, as far as most Rollins students are concerned, would be that it will provide a free communication system to all parts of the country for the students and faculty. To the students, this will mean free calls home and to friends — calls that they otherwise could not afford to make.

The proposed radio station would also provide good publicity for the school. Many other colleges and universities have amateur radio stations. It would be a good drawing point.

The station would also serve as a means for instruction for interested students in elementary theory and the international Morse Code. In this way students would qualify for Federal Communication Commission licenses. The station would also provide a means of electronic experimentation and education.

Another important function that the proposed station would perform on campus would be the provision of a valuable means of communication during and after an emergency. It could also be used for personal emergencies.

The radio station would probably operate for at least one hour a day and would be available at any time for emergency messages. The operators could not guarantee to get the message through because a local operator might not be on the air at the destination of the message. However, chances would be good that the communication would be made.

If Council approves the allocation request for the station, it would be ready for operation sometime after Thanksgiving.

For all these valid reasons we think that the proposed amateur radio station would be a valuable asset to the Rollins campus and a truly exciting new project.

By Deb n' Air

This is a private liberal arts college. It is supported to a great extent by the very students who study here and leave to become successful figures in the world who can afford to support such institutions. For this we are indebted and we who are a part of Rollins now should always consider it a part of our life here at Rollins to make ourselves and our school a thing of which alumni can be proud.

In theory this is a wonderful idea. We all know that in practice both alumni and students let the college down in many ways.

For example, the Anniversary Convocation held on Saturday November 4 drew many alumni and friends of the college from this area. They sat and listened intently while the well-known Dr. Teller spoke. When he had finished, and the part of the program which most concerned the people here at Rollins began, there also began a great exodus of the faithful alumni and students who apparently had no interest in the present state of academic affairs at Rollins.

Granted, the college does have a number of very faithful and spirited alumni who do much to help Rollins. But this group should not have to support Rollins by themselves. All former Rollins men and women should take an interest in the affairs of their alma mater.

But enough of this example of alumni support. Now let us turn attention to the students who must generate reason for interest and pride.

Unfortunately there were also a number of students who were as disinterested in academic affairs as were the alumni at the Convocation on Saturday morning. In fact about three fourths of the students in the balcony section were guilty of this act.

Alumni who attend the weekly services held at the Knowles Memorial Chapel are very much impressed by the beauty and charm of our chapel and the services held there. They are also impressed by the impressive array of young men who assist them in finding seats and provide them with the program for the day's service.

They are probably not impressed by the absence of the majority of the Rollins students who apparently cannot brave the "morning after" and attend the services. Nor would they be impressed if they knew that a goodly number of the young men who assisted them when they came in do not bother to stay for the remainder of the chapel service but instead adjourn to the Student Union or their dormitories for the remainder of the morning.

Due to the high esteem in which the chapel ushers are held here at Rollins, it would seem that more could be expected from them than merely being physically present for about fifteen minutes on Sunday mornings.

To get back to generalities, if the present Rollins student body cannot show any interest in school affairs, how can we expect alumni to do so? It is up to us to set an example, and we seem not to be doing such a good job of it at present. Since the very existence of Rollins depends on alumni interest and support, the college is in serious trouble when it cannot count on students for support in college activities.

Americans Should Face Communism With Faith

By JANE MORGAN

Last week in Orlando's Edgewater High School auditorium, two men were brought before the public under the auspices of a local movement called "Project Alert." One, Edward Hunter, was a government consultant on brainwashing and has written five books on the subject. The other, Herbert Philbrick, was the author of I Led Three Lives, the story of his experiences as an FBI agent in the communist underground.

A number of Rollins students attended these programs and came back with reactions that ranged from enthusiasm to scorn. One called Philbrick's speech "a lot of bunk," and said that such tirades do not present the other side of the question. Another, who disliked the flag waving, singing, and the local politicians' introductory remarks, called the program "pure emotionalism."

Both Hunter and Philbrick emphasized the responsibility of the American citizen to be informed about the communist menace and do something about it. "There can be absolutely no doubt that this is a zero hour for America," said Philbrick. "Yet, there are still people in this country who don't believe what the communists say," although they have been crying "world revolution" for 45 years now.

"In every country of the world that the Reds have occupied, they have boasted of the infiltration that they have made beforehand," Hunter said. And the next night, Philbrick drove home this statement by saying that there are 10,000 hard-core Soviet agents operating in the U. S. now who are Americans.

What, we should ask, induced these U. S. citizens to work for a power which had long since declared itself our enemy? And even more important, why, today, are we so

Hospital Behavior Of Rollins Students Obnoxious

Winter Park Memorial has become more than annoyed with Rollins students — the healthy ones.

A letter from the hospital administrator Leon Bennet-Alder to Student Council president Linda Qualls pinpointed the problem, one that students should have put away with their tinker toys.

Mr. Bennet-Alder's complaints concerned the obnoxious behavior of student visitors. Staying beyond visiting hours, defying requests to be quiet, hiding from hospital authorities who requested overtime visitors to leave — all these offenses have given Rollins a bad name at the hospital.

Besides a disregard for human life and health, the visitors have shown that they care less for the hospital property. Mr. Bennet-Alder reports that some of the emergency exit doors have been splintered by "unauthorized wedging open to allow Rollins students to gain entrance beyond visiting hours."

The hospital administrators point out that the hospital exists to care for the sick and injured in the community and that Rollins is a part of this community.

Before carrying out the recommendation of the medical staff to refuse all visitors to Rollins students, Mr. Bennet-Alder asked for possible solutions from the student government.

And a solution was suggested at last Monday's Council meeting — all Rollins visitors will be asked to sign their names in a guest book upon arrival at the hospital and to check off their names when leaving.

Banning all visitors to Rollins patients seems drastic, but it will be necessary if the welfare of the hospital patients continues to be jeopardized.

An even the guest book solution won't work if the 18-to-22-year-old offenders still confuse a hospital with a kindergarten playground.

Americans Should Examine Selves

Editor:

Americans, take a look at the U. S. or us. What are we doing? What are we producing? What have we done? This dream of America as no. 1 is not a peccadello. Why do we think we are so wonderful? What problems have we solved? What great and noble deeds have we accomplished to make us feel this satisfaction? True we have done much. But still there is much to do and much we lack.

Is it the richness of our own land that makes it so difficult for us to see the obvious lacks of others? Or is it characteristic of a young nation that its intentional good will should be so misguided or should we say abused? Can we not see that starving people do not need weapons of war? Or can it be that America is not solely unselfish in her aid to others?

Can we be guilty of what Byron termed "greasy domesticity"? Is the comfort of our own self important? Is it more important than the lives of hundreds who are suffering for our interest in one instead of many? For one person with a universal concern can alleviate the sufferings of many.

Dr. DeGroot Speaks To After Chapel Club On Satan In Today's Sociological World

By DON BROWN

Sunday October 29th the sun rose at 6:25 a.m., the choir arose at 9 a.m., and the After Chapel Club held its first meeting of the 61-62 season at 11:00 a.m. It isn't known exactly what time Dr. Dudley DeGroot got up, but it is certain that he was well off to a busy day before he arrived early to be the guest speaker and discussion leader.

The topic for discussion was "Where has He gone?" He was capitalized for special emphasis. As a matter of fact He turned out to have several names ascribed to him. It was decided that a Rose by any other name is still a Rose, so we called him by his modern day moniker, Satan.

Dr. DeGroot pointed out that mankind has always faced the problem of Good and Evil. But in recent times he has noticed a gradual disappearance of Satan from preacher's sermons and people's minds.

The group of students present who comprised the main audience decided that Satan, affectionately known as Splitfoot, was not mentioned very often in some of the following churches: Episcopal, Congregational, Roman Catholic, and Christian Science. But He was mentioned quite often in the fundamentalist Baptist churches, Methodist, and the Pentecostal churches. Why do some churches retain a vivid verbal image of Satan while other churches do not? What type of people inhabit those churches where the Devil is still to be found?

Dr. DeGroot here pointed out some interesting sociological studies in this field that showed a definite relationship between the income class of people and their conception of Satan.

Then Dr. DeGroot stated he would take his neck into his own hands and make the broad generalization that as the level of education increases, concern with Devil goes down. Thus it was seen that the higher income, more highly educated were the dominant inhabitants of the first churches mentioned, and that the lower income and lesser educated were dominant in the second group of churches mentioned.

It was decided that a safe assumption could be made. "With increased education people are less apt to believe in supernatural explanations."

Dr. DeGroot stated his professional idea on the sliding scale of importance that Satan seems to be riding. "The concept of the type of society, predominantly a rural, agricultural base, wherein the functional necessity of the society is to stick together to survive... The more affluent, complex societies can tolerate a wide range of concepts (of the Devil)... When emphasis on right and wrong being necessary to functions of life (survival) is lessened, then the concept of Satan tends to disappear."

Tom Dooley can be said to have had more than interest in self in his work. He worked with the Laotians, he worked for the alleviation of their suffering from diseases that we did not know were still in existence.

He learned from them, their language and way of life. He went to Laos with the idea of helping the people to help themselves. He did not go to teach the American way of living to a country who was still suffering from lacks that have ceased to be heard of here in the states. Help is meant to help those who are in need of help. It is of no consequence whether or not those who help are rewarded.

Americans read the words of Albert Schweitzer and THINK: "You will always find happiness if you seek and find: HOW TO SERVE."

willing to shrug off these facts as "a lot of bunk" and "pure emotionalism?"

Hunter, in his discussion of communist psychological techniques, has offered us some startling answers to these questions. "The American public is being softened up," he said. This "softening up" is the first step in the process of brainwashing. "During this period," he explained, "it is not necessary to mention communism at all, but just to break down the person's belief system... so that his is the type of mind that comes forth with such sayings as 'I couldn't care less.'"

From his research work with the returning American prisoners of the Korean War, Hunter learned what kind of men could be brainwashed and what kind could not be. "I found," he said, "that the main elements that gave men the capacity to go under this brainwashing and survive were... convictions, faith, and prayer."

Truly, few Americans relish the thought of a communist America. But we must heed the warnings given us by those men who have come face to face with the reality of communism. The only course of action open to us is to actively resist its psychological attacks as well as its military aggression. And to do so, we must have conviction, faith, and prayer.

Experiment In International Living To Be Explained In Meeting Tuesday

Sandy Brown and Dianne Dicks will discuss their experiences in Europe this summer in a meeting at the Fred Stone Theatre on November 14 at 7:30 p.m. The meeting is being held to interest students in the Experiment in International Living program for the summer of 1962.

The Experiment in International Living is an international corporation which encourages American students to travel to other nations for a period of three months, during which time they live with a native family and travel informally with groups of other students. There will be a film on the international program as well as slides taken by Sandy and Dianne in the countries to which they travelled, Spain and Switzerland respectively.

Anyone who is interested in this program is invited to attend, and all others will be welcome. Admissions Dean John O. Rich is the regional representative for the program and Martha Niepold is the student contact.

POVERTY CAN BE FUN

It is no disgrace to be poor. It is an error, but it is no disgrace.

So if your purse is empty, do not skulk and brood and hide your head in shame. Stand tall. Admit your poverty. Admit it freely and frankly and all kinds of good things will happen to you. Take, for instance, the case of Blossom Sigafos.

Blossom, an impecunious freshman at an Eastern girls' college, was smart as a whip and round as a dumpling, and scarcely a day went by when she didn't get invited to a party weekend at one of the nearby men's schools. But Blossom never accepted. She did not have the rail fare; she did not have the clothes. Weekend after weekend, while her classmates went frolicking, Blossom sat alone, saved from utter despair only by her pack of Marlboros, for even an exchequer as slim as Blossom's can afford the joys of Marlboro—joys far beyond their paltry price: rich, mellow tobaccos, lovingly cured and carefully packed, and an exclusive selectrate filter. Croesus himself could not buy a better cigarette!

However, Marlboro's most passionate admirers—among whose number I am paid to count myself—would not claim that Marlboro can entirely replace love and romance, and Blossom grew steadily morose.

"Accept these Gifts from Tom."

Then one day came a phone call from an intelligent sophomore named Tom O'Shanter at a nearby men's college. "Blossom," said Tom, "I want you to come down next week for the barley festival, and I won't take no for an answer."

"No," said Blossom.

"Foolish girl," said Tom gently. "I know why you refuse me. It is because you are poor, isn't it?"

"Yes," said Blossom.

"I will send you a railroad ticket," said Tom. "Also a hard-boiled egg in case you get hungry on the train."

"But I have nothing to wear," said Blossom.

Tom replied, "I will send you one suit of cashmere, two gowns of lace, three shacks of velvet, four shoes of calf, five socks of nylon, and a partridge in a pear tree."

"That is most kind," said Blossom, "but I fear I cannot dance and enjoy myself while back home my poor lame brother Tiny Tim lies abed."

"Send him to Mayo Brothers and put it on my tab," said Tom.

"You are terribly decent," said Blossom, "but I cannot come to your party because all the other girls at the party will be from rich, distinguished families, and my father is but a humble woodcutter."

"I will buy him Yosemite," said Tom.

"You have a great heart," said Blossom. "Hold the phone while I ask our wise and kindly old Dean of Women whether it is proper for me to accept all these gifts."

She went forthwith and asked the Dean of Women, and the Dean of Women laid her wise and kindly old hand on Blossom's cheek and said, "Child, let not false pride rob you of happiness. Accept these gifts from Tom."

"Oh, bless you, Wise and Kindly," breathed Blossom, dropping grateful tears into the Dean's reticule. "I must run and tell Tom."

"Yes, run, child," said the Dean, a smile wrinkling her wise and kindly old eyes. "And ask him has he got an older brother."

Dr. Carol Burnett, New Psychology Faculty Member, Explains New Testing Services

By ANN PUDDINGTON
Sandspur Staff

Dr. Carol Burnett, a new member of the Psychology faculty, has a number of things to say about the additional services of the Psychology Department this year and her own position as coordinator of these services. "They include a testing program, administered by Dr. Likely, which is concerned with aptitude and vocational preferences," she explained. The testing takes about three hours—one hour with the student to decide what type of test he needs, one hour for administering it, and the rest for discussing the test results and how they can best be applied to serve the student.

Beginning the winter quarter, Mrs. Burnett will teach a section in general psychology, while she is now teaching Growth and Development in the Master of Arts in Teaching program. "A new method of 'Programmed instruction' will also be introduced to Psychology students," she commented. This is the programming of basic factual material. Mr. Landsman will be in charge of this.

Already in operation is a Developmental Reading Program. All freshmen have been screened by diagnostic reading tests. "Rather than a program of remedial reading," Mrs. Burnett went on to say, "this is a program for everyone.

Unfortunately, people who start off with adequate reading skills on entering college, but who could make phenomenal progress beyond this, do not take advantage of the opportunity." She is the consultant in the reading program, but soon the entire psychology faculty will be involved in a counseling service, open to any student who feels a need for this.

Adding praise for the college, Mrs. Burnett said, "It has purchased one of the newest and best devices in perceptual training in speed reading—daylight films under normal reading conditions."

Coming from a state university, she finds a different atmosphere here. "There are some real advantages here," she continued. "The conference plan is a very favorable way of getting to know the students, as well as being able to tell if they are learning." A person very interested in young people, and herself the mother of a twelve year old boy, Dr. Burnett finds the students "mannerly, nice, and very pleasant to work with."

Professor Attends Meeting In Atlanta

Charles Mahan, Rollins College English instructor, is presently attending the annual meeting of the South Atlantic Modern Language Association in Atlanta Nov. 9-11.

The delegates, mostly teachers from colleges and secondary schools, will discuss problems related to languages or the teaching of them. Mahan, who served on the faculty of University of Kentucky from 1955-61, came to Rollins in September.

X Club, Sigma Nu Lead In Football; Club Defeats Delts In Big Game

By CLARENCE VARNER

In the big game of the week the X Club defeated the Delta Chis 20 to 9. The Delta Chis started off with a pass from the kick-off that put them in X Club territory and they went right on from there to score in the first few minutes of the game.

However, the Club came back with three scoring plays with Bob Detling catching two and Frank Dunnill catching the other pass for a TD. Jesse Lee did all the passing for the Club and the Delta Chi defense was unable to stop them.

The Delta Chis scored a safety when the Club lost the ball in their own end zone.

A change has been made in the schedule for next week with the big game between the X Club and the Sigma Nus being rescheduled from Tuesday to Wednesday. This game should be the deciding factor in the league play if the Sigma Nus can beat the

Kappas, Thetas, Indies In 3-Way Tie For 1st Place In Women's Basketball

By BONNIE STEWART
Sandspur Staff

With the completion of two weeks of intramural basketball, there is a three-way battle for the number one spot. Sporting undefeated records are the Kappas, the Independents, and last year's winners, the Thetas.

With an opening win of 44-13 over the Phi Mus, the skillful Theta team also defeated the Chi Omega and the Pi Beta Phi teams with the respective scores of 41-18 and 48-6. Although the Gamma Phi Beta team proved to be a genuine challenge, the Theta six continued their winning streak with a score of 28-17.

With a record of three wins and no losses, the Independents defeated the Phi Mus 37-16. Against the Chi Omegas the score was 37-22; and, they topped the Pi Phis with a score of 41-19.

The Kappa Kappa Gamma team has bolstered two victories by defeating the Pi Phis 78-11 and by working up a score of 38-12 against the Sandspurs. This vivacious Freshman team was also forced to bow to the Gamma Phis in an exciting game which ended with a score of 18-15. On the other hand, they found the way to the winner's circle when they defeated the Alpha Phis 55-4.

The Chi Omega group has twice been among the winners. In one of the closest and most exciting games of the season, they edged a two point lead over the Phi Mus to end the game 30-28. They defeated the Alpha Phi team 54-4. This latter team also suffered a 45-1 loss against the persistent Gamma Phi team whose record is two wins and one loss.

As the season progresses, it is most probable that the chief competitors for the IM crown will be the fast-moving Thetas and the accurate Kappa Kappa Gamma Team.

Tars Loose First Soccer Match

By ENRIQUE HUBER
Sandspur Staff

A day of bad luck and a rough and willing Fla. Southern team marred the Tar's efforts for a perfect conference record.

Last Friday afternoon the Lakeland fans saw their home team win their first game for this season. Early in the first quarter, the Fla. Southern front line squeezed through for the first goal of the game. A hard fought but scoreless second quarter gave a halftime score of 1-0.

The third quarter was another scoreless and hard fought episode. The last quarter, however, saw much action on the part of both teams. A chance to tie the game was ruined by Enrique Huber on a free penalty shot. Soon after, Fla. Southern scored another and near the end of the game scored another goal after a scramble in front of the Tar's goal. This gave them a 3-0 lead. Tibor Menyhart scored Rollins' lonely goal on a free shot during the last seconds of the game, giving a final score of 3-1.

This weekend the Tars travel to DeLand to face a strong and eager Stetson team.

Coffie Drops Baseball For Army; Detling Tops Flag Football Scorers

By WAYLON LEE

Sandspur Sports Editor

BOYD COFFIE HAS BEEN CALLED INTO THE ARMED SERVICE FOR ONE YEAR. Boyd graduated from Rollins in 1959 and went into organized baseball right away. He was assigned to Kearney, Nebraska, in a Rookie League, and went on to lead the league in hits, rbi's, and was second in home runs. This earned Boyd a berth on the all-star team.

In 1960 Coffie was moved to Greensboro, North Carolina, and it turned out to be a trying year for him. It seemed as though nothing went right. Last year, however, he was sent to Binghamton, New York, in the New York-Pennsylvania Class A League, and had a great year. The manager of the Binghamton team was Bill Dickey, and Boyd really enjoyed playing for him. Bill Dickey is the man responsible for Yogi Berra and Elston Howard's greatness.

Boyd had a real good season last year and was really looking forward to next year. But Uncle Sam called the "control group," which is his Reserve Unit, into active duty for one year, and now he is looking forward to year after next.

The Top Ten Scorers of the Intramural Football Race:

JEFF HEITZ IS FAST BECOMING THE MOST RESPECTED BASKETBALL PLAYER ON THE ROLLINS CAMPUS. Says Coach Nyimicz, "I don't want to say much about Jeff until I see him under fire, (game conditions) but I will say this much, we're fortunate to have him. He could play basketball for practically any school in the country and for Rollins to have him without a scholarship, is a real pleasant surprise." Not only does Dan think highly of Jeff, but the rest of the players respect him also. The basketball team this year is continuing to have a real good attitude and they are feeling more and more like a good season is in store.

Edward Teller Holds Informal Question And Answer Session In Union Last Sat.

By JANE MORGAN
Associate News Editor

The Rollins Union had a special visitor last Saturday after Convocation — Dr. Edward Teller himself, who consented to hold an impromptu student question-and-answer session there during his lunch period. Seated at one of the tables and surrounded by students, he talked for about an hour. The following comments are excerpts from his discussion.

On the development of the neutron bomb:

Dr. Teller reported that he was not in a position to comment at this time on the course of action planned by the U. S. concerning the neutron bomb.

On the resumption of nuclear tests:

The U. S. is planning to set off a big nuclear blast underground on Dec. 10, he said. But he added that atmospheric tests are an absolute necessity if we are to perfect small nuclear weapons that are needed in the U. S. arsenal. On the dangers of fallout as a result of nuclear testing: Radioactivity is all around us and is caused by elements in the universe as well as by nuclear explosions, the scientist explained. The dosage of radioactivity which we receive from natural causes is 50 times greater than that resulting from nuclear fallout. Therefore, fallout caused by nuclear testing is not dangerous, he said. On the responsibility of a scientist in developing weapons of destruction:

"What our job is is to find out what the facts are, to find out what we can construct with the help of these facts, and to speak clearly about the possible effects of these facts . . . It is up to the plain man and to the elected representatives who are responsible to the plain man (to decide) how these things should be used."

On the peaceful uses of atomic energy:

"This is the thing in which I am most interested," he said. In discussing the possibilities of nuclear explosives, Dr. Teller listed the building of waterways, the manufacture of industrial diamonds, the derivative of metallic iron, and the harnessing of a cheap energy source from the soil as targets for exploration.

He reported that nuclear reactor technology, which has progressed slowly because of radiation dangers involved, promises to produce unlimited electricity at a low cost. Scientists are also working on fusion reactors and exploring the use of radioisotopes. On "peace" groups, such as the Committee For a Sane Nuclear Policy:

"I do believe that their arguments may well lead to war. Weakness, in the peaceful countries and strength in the aggressive countries is the situation which has, in the past, led to war and which may do so again."

On who is winning the arms race: "I do not know, and nobody really does, what the Russian power is. We do not know to what extent they can wipe out all our retaliatory power . . . We know that with nuclear tests we can make our weapons smaller so that smaller missile sites can be prepared. If we keep moving and developing, there is every reason to believe that we shall have power enough to retaliate . . . The moment they know that they can defend themselves we will be in very serious danger."

On Rollins' proposed space school:

"I think that it is necessary thing and I think that it is a wonderful thing. In studying space, you can study almost any type of science . . . I think that here, so close to the base of operations, you have a wonderful opportunity."

On the theory of bombing earth from space:

"It is one of the most expensive and impractical things to do," he said.

On the existence of a "doomsday machine":

"I say that it can be done, because I doubt that there is anything that cannot be done. (But) Certainly it cannot be done today." He said that the cobalt bomb, which could produce radiation lasting for 5 to 10 years after the explosion, has been invented only to scare people. It could kill everyone on earth only if nobody made any effort to defend themselves.
