ROY E. CRUMMER SCHOOL OF FINANCE AND BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION AT ROLLINS COLLEGE — Rollins College President Hugh F. McKean announced Wednesday night plans for this new home for School which will serve the Central Florida business and financial community. The School will be housed in a $700,000 building of Spanish-Mediterranean style (as shown in this preliminary sketch) to be located on the Winter Park campus. Architect is James Gamble Rogers, II, of Winter Park. The School is named for Roy E. Crummer, prominent businessman and former resident of Winter Park, whose $1 million gift took the School off the drawing boards and made it a reality.

Businessman Roy E. Crummer Gives Rollins 1 Million Dollars

The business, banking and industrial community of Central Florida will be enhanced in the future because of a $1 million gift to Rollins College.

The gift from Roy E. Crummer, prominent businessman and former resident of Winter Park, will make possible establishment of a $1.5 million School of Finance and Business Administration. Rollins President Hugh F. McKean made the announcement Wednesday night at a dinner given by the College's trustees at the Country Club of Orlando.

Mr. McKean said that the Crummer gift had come in recognition of the pioneering effort in this field by Rollins and in tribute to the College's distinguished service to Florida private higher education.

This is but a prelude, he said, to what Rollins is planning as it forges ahead toward its Centennial in 1985. He pointed out that the oldest college in Florida is projecting a series of new developments to serve the needs of a scientific, business and cultural age. Among these are the addition of several endowed chairs for distinguished faculty, a science building, a fine arts center, several new residence halls and a field house at an estimated long-range investment of $25 million.

The new school, to be known as the Roy E. Crummer School of Finance and Business Administration, will train "leaders in business and finance, granting them the master or bachelor degree in business administration," McKean said.

Scheduled to open in September, 1965, the Crummer School will be housed in a $700,000 building of the traditional Rollins Spanish-Mediterranean style to be constructed on Interlachen Avenue between Fairbanks and Lyman. The architect is James Gamble Rogers, II, of Winter Park. The building will feature a library of 25,000 volumes, an auditorium seating 230 persons, and a number of conference and seminar classrooms. It will be air-conditioned throughout.

Besides underwriting construction and equipment of the building, the Crummer gift will provide $300,000 endowment for the School. The Rollins trustees have guaranteed an additional $500,000 for endowment and for furnishing books for the library.

Calling the Crummer gift "one of the most significant grants ever made to an institution of higher learning in Florida," McKean said that many busy days lie ahead before the School is operative next fall. Among activities to be undertaken almost immediately, he said, are making of final plans for construction of the building, appointing the dean of the School and raising funds to add to the School's endowment.

"We must do these without delay," McKean said. "The free enterprise system needs such schools. There are less than two score in the United States, a fact which underscores the importance of this development on Rollins' campus. Central Florida can bring distinction and prominence to itself by working with and supporting Rollins," he said.

The Crummer School, according to McKean, will introduce its students to the most advanced methods of using the capabilities of automation in business. The aim is to show young executives how to utilize automation in order that their time and energies may be used for the real function of an executive which, according to McKean, "is to reason, to evaluate, and to make the right decisions."

To serve its highest purpose, McKean said, "such a school must have a clear direction. The Crummer School will seek to strengthen the human element in business. It will strive to make men of its students — not machines. The business world needs leaders prepared to think clearly and responsibly, not to rely on pushing buttons and pulling levers."

Rollins undergraduates who qualify may enter the School at the end of their junior year. The School will accept a limited number of candidates from other colleges with strong programs in the prerequisites.

At the announcement dinner, Mr. Crummer, who worked extensively toward the rehabilitation of the public debt in Florida during the 1930's, expressed his satisfaction in establishing the School. Referring to Florida's struggles in the '30s, he said, "Other difficult days may lie ahead. We hope this will not be the case, but they are probably inescapable. In a free economic system such as we enjoy in this country, difficulties must be met by independent leaders. We must not leave the solution to our economic problems up to government officials. I look to this School to train business leaders with a sense of rightness, a sense of responsibility, and with the preparation necessary to meet and solve the problems and difficulties which confront them."

McKean cited two local leaders, both trustees of Rollins, as being instrumental in making this School a reality.

Introducing F. Monroe Alleman, president of Leedy, Wheeler & Alleman, McKean called him, "the man in whose vision the project first took shape."

McKean said it was Alleman, "who led the way in bringing the Crummer School into being, who traveled from one end of the country to the other, who telephoned, wrote, talked and organized it into a reality."

Alleman told the gathering, "I am pleased to see this development in education in Florida. I am confident that this school will be of great service to the business, banking and industrial community of Central Florida. The part I played in bringing this School about has been a source of pleasure."

Rollins To Join U. N.

This March the Rollins Speakers Bureau will try to send a delegation to the 38th Annual National Model General Assembly at the U. N. in New York. The Model General Assembly is a series of mock sessions where the countries of the United Nations are represented by delegations from various colleges. Once a school has been assigned a country, the chosen delegation studies the place of their country in world affairs and prepares to represent that country's views fairly among the other member nations of the General Assembly. Thus, the General Assembly provides students the opportunity to learn about the problems facing the world, within the framework of the United Nations. Moreover, the Model General Assembly is an exciting event, providing frustrated diplomats with an outlet for their scheming, bargaining, and other machinations.

The conference will be held on the 4-7 of March, at the Commodore Hotel and United Nations headquarters. The sessions of the Model General Assembly are smaller committee sessions which produce resolutions on various topics. There will be six of these committees: Political Committee, Economic Committee, Social Huvided between general plenary sessions, of all the delegates, and The Special Political Committee, for example, will have as its area of discussion: Disarmament, Admission Requirements, People's Republic of China.

Rollins is one of the few Southern colleges invited to this conference. No other schools were listed in Georgia, Alabama, South Carolina, or Florida.

Professor Bull Gave No Thanks, Got No Giving

A FABLE
(About Thanksgiving Vacation)

Once, a long time ago, the Pilgrims had worked all fall gathering their harvests of wheat, corn, and oats. And after all the crops had been harvested, the Pilgrims decided to take a short, four-day repose. But the Indians, who also had been working in their fields all fall, didn't even think of taking such a lengthy vacation; instead, they took only one day for a brief respite.

Many years passed, and the Pilgrims, who were wise in seeing that periods of rest helped the morale of their communities, expanded their lands, gradually pushing the unrelenting Indians further and further West; and many battles took place between the settlers, who were wise, and the Indians, who were not wise; and finally, the settlers conquered the Indians' domain, a domain of a people who never relaxed their work for more than a day.

Moral: All work and no play makes Sitting Bull a dead duck.

THE 'SPUR SPEAKS

Why have a Student Council, a Rollins Student Handbook, or rules and regulations when they are not heeded by students?

The following are the most flagrant violations of the Rollins Student Handbook:

Article two, section D—No sports activities are allowed on the library lawn, specifically that area enclosed by the horseshoe drive extending to Holt Avenue.

Article two, section F—Dress at all times shall comply with the rules of good taste. Flagrant violations of good taste shall come within the jurisdiction of the Lower Court which is vested with the authority to take whatever action is deemed necessary.

Article three, section D—Salesmen are not allowed in any residence hall without written permission from the College Purchasing Agent.

Article three, section E, parts 5 and 6—Students will be assessed for unusual damage to college property for which they are responsible. Nails, tacks, and cellophane adhesive may not be used on residence hall walls.

Article three, section F—Fish which are properly confined to tanks are the only pets allowed in residence halls.

Article four, section A—There will be absolutely no drinking of alcoholic beverages on college property.

Article four, section F—Students on academic warning or probation and students on social probation are not permitted the use of the Pelican housing facilities.

Personal Conduct . . . Shoes are to be worn in classrooms and all public places. . . Smoking is not permitted in the dining hall line.

Dormitories . . . Rooms should be neat with the beds made by a time specified by the individual house council.

We could continue to point out examples in both the men's rules and the women's rules as well as the general regulations of the college which are constantly and completely disregarded by more than a few students.

The point is that if we are going to have rules they must be enforced. And, if they are not enforced, the various students in charge of the mentioned areas are not performing their duties and should be removed immediately.

Perhaps disregard for the alcoholic beverage laws of Florida begins with students and faculty and administration allowing a constant disregard for college laws.

The Chapel Tower

A very, very sociable college student found himself in academic difficulty, and was summoned to the Dean's office. "Sir," he began, "do you think a tutor could help me?" "No!" came the Dean's reply, and he continued. "Young man, did it ever occur to you that it might be helpful if you helped yourself?"

Something of this same point was in the mind of the English poet and journalist, Sir Edwin Arnold, when he said to a group of American students — I think it was at Harvard — "In 1776 and 1812 you conquered your fathers. In 1861 to 1865 you conquered your brothers. Will you permit an Englishman to say that your next victory must be over yourselves?"

Book Review

by Gael Greene

"I never yet heard a girl say she wants to marry a virgin," a Rollins co-ed is quoted as saying — on page 146 of Gael Greene's Sex and the College Girl, now out in paperback after having run the popular magazine circuit.

You're right! It is another book on sex. Sex and the College Girl merits a review because it was not written to follow the tack of Helen Gurley Brown's Sex and the Single Girl or of Havelock Ellis's creations. Or, worse yet, of Tell Me, Doctor, the fatuously written gynecological column in Ladies' Home Journal.

Gael Greene, author of Sex and the College Girl, documents her study with personally conducted interviews with girls (and with some of the young men they "date") from more than 100 colleges and universities. Essentially, those who were interviewed tell their own stories in this book, along with perceptive comments and directional insertions by Miss Greene. She has compiled her book with a scholarly care reminiscent of Betty Friedan's The Feminine Mystique.

Then there is the "double standard": one Harvard graduate student declared that he believed in free love, and he stoutly refused to censor women who practice what he believes. But . . . the girl he marries must be a virgin.

Sex and the College Girl is sensitively and perceptively presented — through the experiences and the candid, thoughtful remarks of the college students themselves. And one of the more pensive remarks was a co-ed's recalling a phrase from the Alexandria Quartet: "One makes love only to confirm one's loneliness."

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

In almost any situation we face in life, we are in authority, be subject to that authority, or both. Rollins, it is true, is subject to student government, but it is obvious that overriding authority must be vested in the faculty and administration.

The "challenge" that appeared in the Sandspur "speak up or shut up" seems to me, therefore, ridiculous. Even if the situation presented with regard to Dean Watson were true, the campus newspaper has the proper place to air personal grievances, such as "Spurs" invited, especially with regard to a respected member of the administration. Criticism of this nature might better be confined to other forums. Many of us recall what occurred last year when the president of the Student Association freely expressed his mind in a Sandspur reprint of his speech to the Student Council.

If the Sandspur is trying to wake students out of their apathy, that is fine. If it is trying to stir controversy for the sake of controversy, the editor might do well to remember that discretion is the better part of valor.

Sincerely,

Jean Christ

Dear Editor:

The Dean of Women doth catch the blame,
Each time the students wish to complain,
About mode of dress,
about women's hours,
About cutting classes,
about drinking 'neath the bowers.
And I wonder, oh I wonder,
If the students will ever know,
That she doesn't mind the brickbats
If it helps the students to grow.

Nellie Jane Young

Secretary, Dean of Women's Org.

Dear Editor:

May I call your attention to the faculty minutes of February 4, 1963, in which the Thanksgiving Holiday is limited to one day, and to the admonition on page 46 of the current catalog:

"Absences immediately before or after a holiday or vacation are considered a violation of the attendance policy. Students disregarding these rules are liable to suspension or probation."

The student deans are administering this policy, declining to give any permission to be absent from campus except in event of the death or serious illness of an immediate member of the student's family.

For your historical interest, I might point out that this rule is of long standing, having been adopted in June, 1957, as follows: "Absences immediately before and after a holiday or vacation are considered a violation of attendance policy . . . disregard of the above will make the student liable for suspension or probation." In November, 1958, "the Faculty asked student deans to act for them in a disciplinary capacity where necessary with students who leave early and return late. Any disciplinary action will be backed by the faculty." And finally, at the December 1959, meeting: "No change was made in the policy established by the faculty at the meeting in June, 1959. The faculty agreed to cooperate in reporting to the deans of students' absences immediately preceding or following a holiday."

May I therefore request that you adhere to this policy and notify the student deans of any absences before or after holidays or vacations.

Edwin S. Burdell

Dean of the College

Dear Editor:

It is gratifying to note the comments in the Sandspur of Oct. 21 which discussed in a commendable manner the State laws on alcoholic beverages. Dean of the College, I think it might be helpful to make clear the policy of the College as follows:

As the student body is aware, student leaders, administrative officers, and the Faculty have attempted during the first few weeks of school to clarify the matter of compliance with the liquor laws of the State of Florida. During orientation week, meetings were held by the Student Deans and the Chief of Police to inform the freshmen of the restrictions imposed by these laws as to the procurement and consumption of alcoholic beverages by persons under twenty-one years of age. Subsequent meetings were held by College officers with each housing group on campus. In the light of this, several students were arrested on October 12 and sentenced by the municipal authorities to the following weekend.

Rollins College has always maintained the position that all students must comply with the laws of the State of Florida. Compliance with these laws is an adult responsibility to be discharged by each individual student. Should a student fail to adhere to the law he must be prepared to suffer the penalties which the law imposes. A student does not enjoy special dispensation but rather, as a citizen of the community, an individual responsibility to conduct himself in a mature and adult manner. Rollins College is committed to this principle.

Edwin S. Burdell
Dean of the College

YOU NAME IT

THE VOTERS CHOICE

Who'll be the next President of the United States? This is the question on millions of minds now, but few people today realize how different the question was in 1787.

Then, at the Constitutional Convention, one hotly debated question was: Should we have a President? Many of the delegates feared that one chief executive would have too many chances to become a dictator. They favored a three-man executive committee to carry out the will of the legislature.

But supporters of a oneman executive won out, mainly because everyone was sure that George Washington — whom all the delegates knew and trusted — would get the job.

This tempestuous convention was still not as much of a three-ring circus as party-nominating conventions can be. The claim for holding the first (in 1830) goes to a party now long forgotten — the Anti-Mason Party.

Today's President holds not one, but five jobs — and any one of them could fill an eight-hour day. The man in the White House is: Head of State, the nation's Chief ceremonial officer; Chief Diplomat; Commander-in-Chief of the armed forces; Chief Legislative Policy-Maker; and Chief Executive.

What can you do in this Presidential year?

- 1) Know the candidates and the issues.
- 2) Enroll in a party and vote in its primary elections — which is where choice of Presidential nominees begins.
- 3) Make a contribution of money to your party or to the campaign committee of the candidates you favor — your donation and those of thousands of other private citizens can keep your candidate free from financial obligation to special-interest groups.
- 4) Be a campaign-committee-of-one — talk up your candidate to your family, friends, associates, and remind them to vote. But don't listen to or spread unfavorable rumors about any candidate. Anything you don't read in the news column of a reputable newspaper almost certainly isn't true and at best conjecture.
- 5) Finally, don't you fail to vote.

Remember, when you go to the polls this November, you'll be an employer choosing the best man to handle one of the world's toughest jobs — President of the United States.

Arthur Wagner Heads Fla. Theatre Conference

Dr. Arthur Wagner, director of the Rollins College Theatre Arts Department, was elected president of the Florida Theatre Conference at the Ft. Lauderdale meeting this past weekend.

Dr. Arthur Wagner

More than 120 delegates from 30 theatre groups in the state met at Pier 66 in Ft. Lauderdale for the annual meeting. Concerned with raising the standards of theatre in the state of Florida, the group meets twice yearly. In addition to the annual meeting, the Florida Theatre Conference holds a Florida Theatre Festival for one week each year. Each night of the Festival a play is presented by a different theatre group. This year's Festival will be held the second week of June in St. Petersburg.

Director of the Annie Russell Theatre, Dr. Wagner was elected to a one-year term of office as president of the Conference. He served this past year as a vice president, and is taking the place of Mrs. Sunny Gray of Daytona Beach, who has been president for the past two years.

Also representing the college at the Conference this past weekend was Robert O. Juergens, assistant professor of Theatre Arts at Rollins.

The Rollins College morning worship will feature a guest minister Sunday, Nov. 1, All Saints Day, and the famed Rollins Chapel Choir will present two selections. Open to the public, the non-denominational worship service will be held at 9:45 a.m. in the Knowles Memorial Chapel.

The Rev. Arthur L. Teikmanis of the Winter Park Congregational Church will preach on "The Church in a Theological Perspective."

The Rollins Chapel Choir will sing "Blest are They" (Requiem) by Brahms as the morning anthem, and "Adoramus Te" by Orlando DiLasso as the choral interlude.

Each Sunday morning worship services are held in the Knowles Memorial Chapel on the Rollins campus. Dean of the Chapel is Theodore S. Darrah, professor of religion at Rollins.

New Memberships Increase Book-A-Year Club Endowment

The Rollins College Book-A-Year Club was increased by two new memberships during the month of September, bringing the present endowment to $106,945.

Rollins' first vice president and consultant to the Mills Memorial Library, Dr. A. J. Hanna, reports that $133,055 is still needed to reach the endowment goal of $240,000.

One of the new memberships is a memorial for Michael Benaroyo, a Rollins student who died this past summer after his freshman year. The memorial was given by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Benaroyo, Wheaton, Ill.

Classmates of Benaroyo, the Rollins Class of '67, gave toward the endowment of another Book-A-Year Memorial in his name.

A sixth Book-A-Year Memorial was completed and a seventh one begun for Edward A. Wagner. Relatives, friends, and members of Sigma Xi gave toward the endowment bringing the Edward A. Wagner memorial fund total to $910.

In memory of former Rollins College Professor of Chemistry Dr. Donald W. Carroll, who died Sept. 11, endowments toward a Book-A-Year Memorial were given by Miss Carol Blackman, Rollins Class of '63, Chapel Hill, N. C.; Towner B. Root, and Dr. and Mrs. Rhea Marsh Smith, Winter Park; and Dr. and Mrs. Dan Thomas, Jacksonville.

Mrs. B. L. Spence, Winstead, Conn., gave toward the endowment of a sixth Book-A-Year Memorial for Miss Betty Jean Lang, Rollins Class of '54.

A gift toward the endowment of a Book-A-Year Memorial for Ralph Alonzo Snyder, Rollins Class of '52, was given by Mrs. Patrick C. (Ann Groves) Ross of Akron, Ohio, also a member of the Class of '52.

The present endowment of the Rollins Book-A-Year Club stands at $106,945. This produces approximately $4,278 annually for the purchase of urgently needed books for the Rollins Mills Memorial Library.

The Rollins Book-A-Year Club was established in 1933 by Dr. Edwin Osgood Grover. A $150 investment provides an income assuring that year after year an essential book will be placed on the shelves of the Mills Memorial Library. Each volume has inscribed on its plate the name of the donor and the person for whom the memorial is established.

Study of Conference Plan Asked

The Rollins Conference Plan is among other things, according to the 1964-1965 catalogue, designed to "Keep students in touch with the forces at work in the national life — scientific, economic, political and aesthetic. This contact is achieved by a wide range of public lectures, concerts, and conferences and by bringing national leaders in many fields to the campus."

The conference plan was designed to bring with it an inner dynamic — a motivating force which would inspire and involve the students totally in every aspect of campus and national life. At Rollins the student is expected to perform his own duties, AND TO CULTIVATE HIS OWN INTERESTS IN A MATURE, INTELLIGENT MANNER.

My question is: HOW CAN A BASICALLY IMMATURE PERSON, OR A BASICALLY SHY PERSON, OR A BASICALLY DISINTERESTED PERSON DEVELOP INTERESTS IN AND PARTICIPATE IN THE MANY ADVANTAGES OFFERED BY THE CONFERENCE PLAN? The truth of the matter is that he can't. This is proved by the students' total apathy in many areas; it is manifested every time one attends a lecture by some distinguished person and finds in looking around that the audience is comprised almost totally of the same faithful Winter Park citizens — NOT OF ROLLINS STUDENTS.

So what must be done? To me the most important and immediate matters are:

(A) A careful study of the conference plan and its effectiveness on campus by the administration.

(B) The decision by all social groups on campus to devote their time and effort to participation in all events of importance.

(C) The decision on the part of Student Council that our student government will be the vehicle to revitalize and strengthen the element of INTEREST and COMMITMENT on this campus.

(D) The pledge BY THE PROFESSORS that they will not limit their extracurricular class projects to their own field, but that an inter-departmental approach will be taken to all special events (taking classes to lectures and presentations for example).

(E) The decision by every individual that he or she will do everything possible to take advantage of as many special events as possible in this academic year.

We would be wise to accept as our theme the words INTEREST AND COMMITMENT. Interest in those things with which we are unfamiliar and wish to learn more about, or in those things which we wish to share with others. Commitment both to ourselves by making this year interesting and full of variety, and to the college by making it worthwhile in time, money and effort for the administration to give us such things as the Latin American Forums, the Symposium on Southeast Asia, The Harvard Debate, and other events such as special art displays, music festivals, scientific lectures, etc.

The YEAR OF INTEREST AND COMMITMENT will prove interesting and significant if we can make it a success, and will prove that the Rollins student is not the sloth he is sometimes made out to be. If, however, we fail, we will confirm the skeptics' accusations and remain for some time the unintellectual Playboys and Girls which we were once labeled.

Naval OCS Recruiting Team To Locate In Union Tomorrow

The officer programs team from the U.S. Navy recruiting station, Jacksonville, Florida, will visit the Rollins College campus Friday, Oct. 30, 1964.

The team will accept applications from senior male students and junior and senior women students to attend the officer candidate school at Newport, Rhode Island.

candidates are commissioned as ensign, USNR. The second half of this course is the officer indoctrination and is served as a commissioned officer. After completion of the full 16-week course, the new ensigns are assigned to one of many shore stations in the United States.

The OCS team will be located at the Rollins Union for testing, interviewing and processing. Applications are strictly voluntary. There is no obligation on the part of the applicant.

The male officer candidate school is a 16-week course of indoctrination in Naval subjects leading to a commission as ensign, USNR, in one of several line or staff corps. From OCS the new ensign will report to one of many stations (Navy schools) for further training or to one of 800 ships and numerous shore stations in the United States and overseas. There is no restriction on marital status in this program.

The officer candidate school (women) is also a 16-week course. The first half of the course is served as an officer candidate (enlisted), after which time the

Pi Phi's, Kappas' Lead B-Ball

Basketball season for Rollins co-eds opened with the Thetas playing Alpha Phi and Chi Omega against Gamma Phi.

The Thetas, according to Barb Thompson, are "out to get that trophy back" this year. Indy Ferrell, Theta's high scorer with a 291 point total, started the game off and stirred the Thetas to action, making seven points in the first quarter. Jean Maurey, a Theta freshman, kept the Thetas moving, making a total of 12 points during the game. The Alpha Phi's fought hard, but as the game progressed the Thetas managed to anticipate many of their moves, ending the game with a 34-4 score in favor of Kappa Alpha Theta.

Chi Omega beat Gamma Phi Beta 17-6. The score at the half was 10-5, Chi Omega's favor.

Mary Grantham and Diana Wilburn, both Chi O's, tied for top-scorer of the game, but Gamma Phi's Cherry Swift and Martha Sanchez scored well also.

In Tuesday's game Kappa Kappa Gamma reached a high score of 42 with Jane Blalock making 21 of the points. The Indies, however, succeeded in making the game fairly close at the half. The Kappas, aware of the score, rallied in the third and fourth quarters and beat the Indies 41-10.

The Pi Phi's swamped Phi Mu the same day with a score of 28-2. Carol Bowersock, Pi Phi, was top-scorer with 14 points.

The Pi Phi's won their second game Wednesday from Chi Omega. At the end of the first quarter, the score was close and even at the half it stood 7-4, Pi Phi's favor. The Pi Phi's had a number of pledges playing and had some tall players, which gave them an advantage. Carol Bowersock was again top-scorer for the game, helping the Pi Phi's to win 18-9.

The same day the Indies beat the Theta's with a close 16-13. The Theta's having received a number of injuries in Monday's game were forced to do without some of their best players, including Indy Ferrell. A number of Theta pledges played, tying the score at the end of the third quarter at 13-13. But in the 4th quarter Jerry Baer, Independent, succeeded in scoring some, putting the Thetas behind at the end of the game.

Thursday's game between Gamma Phi and Phi Mu was postponed. Barbara Bissell, Gamma Phi's president, commented that "due to the excitement of pledge Thursday, the Gamma Phi-Phi agreement was made to reschedule the game for Nov. 12.

The Alpha Phi's, unable to reach an agreement with Kappa Kappa Gamma, forfeited their game, and gave the Kappas their second win of the week.

So far, both the Kappas and Pi Phi's have taken the lead, winning two games each. Each team receives 100 points for entrance and 10 points for each game won. Forfeited games subtract 10 points from the forfeiting team. Two sororities, Gamma Phi and Phi Mu, have not yet played twice, so they, too, may take a lead. Basketball games will continue each week Monday through Thursday until Nov. 12.

The Canterbury group, the association for Rollins students sponsored by the Episcopal Church is inviting Rollins students to a buffet supper and open house Sunday evening, Nov. 1, at 7 p.m.

The supper will be held at All Saints' College Center, at 359 East Comstock Avenue, between Chase and Interlachen.

Stetson Tops Tars F.I.C. Race Tightens

By Pete Greason

Stetson's aggressiveness was too much for Rollins last week in soccer as the Hatters shutout our Tars 1-0. The only goal came in the second quarter. The loss was an upset in the wake of Rollins' upset over the Miami Hurricanes Oct. 17.

Rollins controlled the ball for most of the first quarter, but Stetson goalie Dave Smith kept the Tars from scoring. It was Stetson's quick, aggressive action and the Tars' slowness that kept Rollins from winning.

Halfback Doug Kerr suffered a leg injury early in the second quarter and was knocked out of action for the remainder of the game.

Ted Staley and Tom Thompson, both who scored against Miami, were the leading players for Rollins. Thompson helped stop many of Stetson's upfield drives. Also in action was Tar goalie John Nathan, who stopped all but the nearly accidental goal in the second quarter.

The Tars will meet Miami for the second time on Saturday in Coral Gables. The Rollins record now stands at one win and one loss, the win coming from Miami two weeks ago.

The once defeated soccer team will have its work cut out for it Saturday when they travel to Coral Gables to take on the Miami Hurricanes, who have been defeated only twice in soccer in the entire history of the school.

The Hurricanes have been by Ramon Poo, were defeated once in 1963 by St. Louis University and earlier this month by our Rollins team. Before the Tars' victory on the 17th, the Miami team had never been beaten in an FIC game.

From talking with Coaches Justice and Ernie Wraschen, it appears as though our Tars, by Senior Bob Ennis, Junior Nathan, Sophomore Steve P. and Freshman Tom Thompson, will be ready for a tough and anticipated victory.

I. M. Board Discusses Eligibility

Among the issues handled the Men's Intramural Board last month was the matter of the use of graduate students and students who are taking undergraduate courses after receiving a degree. It was finally decided that both types of students could play for their respective fraternities; but, in order that they be able to participate, they must play for the faculty.

A question was brought up concerning the eligibility of men in either academic or social promotion, and it was decided that they should not be allowed to participate. The prevalent view was that intramural athletics should be for those who maintain themselves in good standing for both categories.

Crew has been added to the intramural program and the tournament will be held during the last part of the fall term under the direction of Dr. Bradley. It will be considered a minor sport.

Table tennis has begun. Mr. Meisel suggested that representatives to the Intramural Board consider the possibility of composing a formal constitution and by-laws, similar to those of other schools.

Flag Football Race Tightens Up Daily

Sigma Nu opened its football season with an easy 48-0 victory over the KA's last week. The Hawks scored on the second play of the game and continued to score at least once in every quarter. Quarterback Bob Legler sent touchdown passes to receivers Mickey Clark, Larry Johnson, and Terry Williams throughout the game and once ran for a touchdown himself. The Sigma Nu squad has now extended its winning streak to 17 straight games over a two-year period. The following day the surprising TKE club took a hard-fought decision over the Delta Chi's 12-1. The TKE's, who had previously tied the X Club, had Boyd Bruhn as their quarterback directing the offense and Dan Pinetich, the key to their defense. This proved to be enough to hand the Deltas their first loss. Pete Cowin led in offense for the Deltas and scored their only TD. Barry Milner's passing did not seem as effective as in the previous game, thus detracting from their offensive punch. This fact, along with a tough TKE defense, proved to be the margin of victory in the game.

Mighty Mac Out To Set New Goals

Sophomore Bob McCannon began last year's tennis season playing number three singles, but by the end of the year his 16 and one record had given him the number one spot.

Such success was made possible by his starting tennis at the age of six and playing on tennis teams during his high school days in St. Petersburg. His summers are spent teaching tennis at Half Moon camp in Massachusetts. Bob practices about two hours three days per week, but when official practice opens he will practice at least 10 hours a week.

"Mighty Mac", as McCannon has been nicknamed, has several agreeable things to say pertaining to tennis at Rollins. He says that he has enjoyed working with Coach Copeland very much and that, "He is one of the best tennis coaches I have ever known." Bob's views on tennis prospects this year are reassuring, for he believes that this year's squad will be a better group of players, on the whole, than last year's team.

Besides playing tennis, Bob participates in school and fraternity affairs by being an active member and a member of the Rollins "R" Club. "Rollins is ideal," says Bob, who is also a good student, "for it has all the advantages of a small school with a greatly improved academic reputation."

Just a week ago, the Lambda Chi's were handed their first defeat at the hands of the X Club. The Clubbers' previous tie with TKE was not good enough for them, and their incentive to win was shown in the final 25-13 score. Key players on the Club offense were Alan Burris, Chuck Olsen, Rusty Shapleigh, and Jim Stein. Scoring for the losers were Bill Vogel and Jim Ackerman.

On Friday of last week, the Independents crushed the Kappa Alpha's by a score of 46-7. The lone KA score coming on an interception by quarterback Steve Ward, who ran the intercepted pitch out for a touchdown and then followed by passing for the extra point.

The Indies four squads all saw action in the high scoring game. The second team offensive squad moved equally well against the KA's as did the regular first team. Both defensive squads constantly held the opponent in check. It appeared they were not in top form, however, and have a long way to go to be up for the game with Sigma Nu this Friday.

Jack Lindquist led the Indies scoring, taking three passes for touchdowns. This was the second game in which the Indies had two TD's called back due to penalties. Other scorers for the winning team were Bob Johnston, Boyd Coffie, and Jim Emerson.

Bahama Mama Swift Never Stops

All sports interest Cheryl "Bahama Mama" Swift. In the last year, she has received awards for tennis, swimming, diving, and horse-back riding; and she has recently become enthusiastic about SCUBA diving.

In Puerto Rico Cheryl was the junior champion tennis player, and was the women's doubles runner-up. She took first place in the doubles of the Georgia State Championships, 1964, and won the doubles with Carol Prosen in the Florida State Open held here. Cheryl plans to keep

Last year Cheryl was in the Bach Festival, and she has high hopes for being chosen again this year. She is being featured as a singer and a dancer in the Rollins production of "My Fair Lady". This summer she did volunteer work in a children's hospital, and she danced for a weekly television series.

Regarding Rollins, Cheryl states that "people can make of this college what they wish. Rollins has a variety of programs and excellent professors which would give any student wonderful incentives to further knowledge in his or her given field. I think very highly of our administration; I have had close contact with many of the administrators and faculty, and I admire the manner in which they have made it possible for the students to speak freely about matters concerning the college, especially President McKean and his B period coffee sessions every Wednesday."

Foreign Service is the "Bahama's" major. She hopes to spend her junior year in Germany, after which she plans to attend Georgetown University for graduate work.

Cheryl, whose home is now in the Dominican Republic, lived previously in San Juan, Puerto Rico, and was born in Liverpool, England. She is a member of Gamma Phi Beta Sorority, the Young Democrats Club, and the choir. She was recently elected president of the Spanish Club, and she is also copy editor of the Sandspur.

Field House Is Still Mystery

By Richard M. Cohen
Sports Editor

Much has been said in the past concerning the prospective field house of Rollins College. An article in one of last term's Sandspurs showed the increasing need for a gymnasium. Such a field house would help our athletic teams considerably. It will give our soccer team a place to practice during the rain. It will give our basketball team a place to practice at the college and not be third in line to use the high school gymnasium. It will give our baseball team a place to work out. It will serve the purpose of all teams for strategy talks. All in all, the Rollins College Field House will be a benefit to the college and to the students as a whole.

What has been said of the field house in recent times?

Tomorrow, Mr. Young, director of the Alumni, has consented to an interview by the Sports Department of the Sandspur. Off hand, the site for the field house has been chosen, and approximately enough money has been donated to lay the foundation for the long-needed gymnasium. The above facts, however, are merely rumors and need verification.

Reading knowledge required

Grad Schools Stress Languages

by Steffan Schmidt

May I bring to your attention some quotations taken from several graduate school catalogues in reference to the foreign language requirement for either admission or receiving a degree. Those of you who are planning to go on with your studies would be wise in (1) choosing your field (2) choosing your school and checking their requirements. Not all disciplines, of course, have a language prerequisite; on the other hand, some universities require a language REGARDLESS OF YOUR FIELD. Most college students are primarily concerned with "getting the requirement out of the way." If you want to be prepared to meet graduate school requirements, you had better try to "get something out of" what language you are taking. KEEP IT IN MIND ANYWAY; NO ONE WAS EVER HURT BY BEING ABLE TO COMMAND A LANGUAGE OR TWO.

Marquette U.: "A reading knowledge of TWO foreign languages . . . is required of all applicants."

Villanova U.: "Ability to read French or German, determined by examination, is required of all graduate students in Biology." English Dept.—The student must demonstrate a reading knowledge in either French or German."

Harvard U.: Divinity school ". . . reading knowledge of Hebrew, Greek, Latin, German or French." Faculty of Medicine requires a HIGH SCORE IN COLLEGE BOARDS OR COLLEGE LANGUAGE TESTS.

Yale U.: ". . . all students will be expected to have at least a reading knowledge of French AND German."

Columbia U.: School of International Affairs—" . . . the student must learn the language of his area of concentration and must demonstrate his proficiency before beginning his second year."

Georgetown U.: MA or MS candidates: "The language requirement is normally French or German . . ."; ". . . the student will be required to take the departmental language examination . . ." Doctor of Philosophy candidate: "Student must demonstrate a good command of TWO modern foreign languages as a degree requirement . . ."

Three Rollins Women To Study In Columbia Spring Semester

Twenty American college students will spend their spring semester in South America this year, taking part in the Rollins College Semester in Colombia program. Living with Colombian families, the students will attend the Universidad de los Andes.

Several colleges and universities throughout the United States will be represented by the 20 students participating in the unique program. Although final deadline for application to the Semester in Colombia is December 1, 10 students have already been selected. Three of these are from Rollins College.

The American college students will be studying in Spanish, for they will be taking the regularly offered courses at the Universidad. Living in the homes of Colombian families will give the visitors an opportunity to learn and observe not only the language but also the culture of "los Colombianos."

Representing Rollins College this spring at the Universidad de los Andes will be Kathy Geller of Miami and Eleanor Riker of Manchester, Conn., both juniors, and Elizabeth Van Orman, Clearwater, a senior. They are among the first of the 20 students to be selected for the program.

Also included among the first students in the program are collegians from Huntington, N. Y., Lombard, Ill., Springfield, Mass., Rochester, N. Y., Cleveland, O., and Lexington, Mass. They represent Mt. Holyoke College, Ohio Wesleyan University, and Western Reserve University.

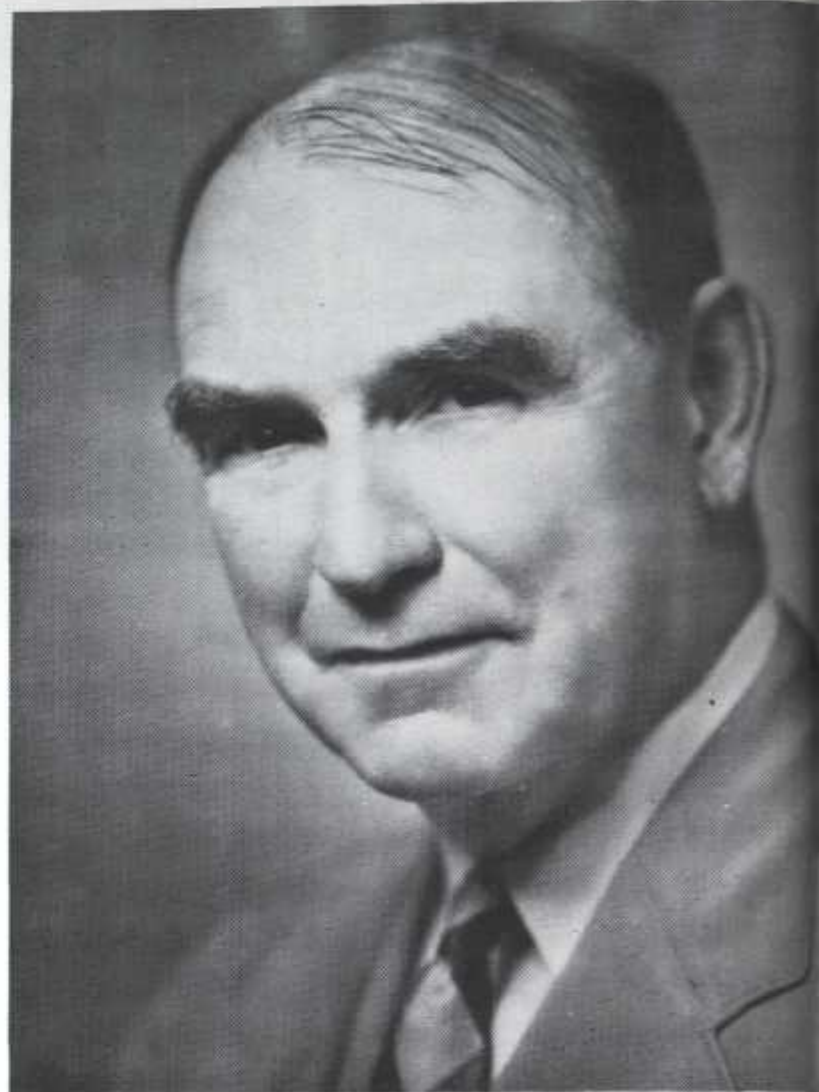

Heading the Rollins overseas program is professor Dr. Frank Sedwick, Director of Foreign Language Studies. Assistant Director of the Colombian program is Robert Hatton, Assistant Professor of Spanish at Capital University in Columbus, Ohio.

Dr. Sedwick originated the Colombian program at Ohio Wesleyan University where he was a professor and Chairman of the Department of Spanish and Italian. When he joined the Rollins College faculty he brought with him the overseas program. This year's Semester in Colombia will be the second venture emanating from Rollins.

Overlooking the city of Bogota, the Universidad is perched on the picturesque slopes of the Andes. A cosmopolitan atmosphere pervades the Universidad, both in the personnel and in the system. The more than 150 professors come from many countries outside of South America, and the system of education shows a blend of the Continental and American elements.

The Universidad was the first independent college in South America. A pioneer of coeducation in Latin America, the Universidad offers six broad fields of study, with all semester hours transferable to North American colleges.

The 19 students who participated in the Rollins and Universidad de los Andes program last year represented 13 different colleges throughout the United States. Attending from Rollins were Lynn Rode of Skokie, Ill., Parker Gray of Winter Park, and Judith Brister of Guatemala City.

Hamilton Holt Brought New Concept Of Education Here

Come sing her praises endlessly,
With love's eternal ray.
Her beauty shineth radiant
And fadeeth not away.

Thus runs the Rollins Chapel song written by Hamilton Holt—man of letters, lover of peace, statesman, poet, musician, beloved president, and friend to all.

Hamilton Holt brought with him to Rollins a graciousness and warmth never before seen. He believed in the twin necessities of education, "creative thinking and creative expression," in which the student, through frequent consultation with his instructor, could order and shape his intellectual process into a finished product of creativity. He believed in the well-rounded, relaxed individual, stressing that young people deserved the freedom to think and develop free from the pressures of a dictatorial society. He humanized education, doing away with the aloof professor sitting on a little platform overlord and overlooking his students, by initiating the "conference plan" which serves as a blueprint that schools have come to follow under the capable hands of Holt, the Animated Magazine, its birth, giving the student opportunity to see and hearables from every conceivable field from drama to politics. raised money to build 25 Spandowment, boosted college rollment, built the Hall of Fame and generally molded Rollins into the pace-setter it is today.

As well as being a great humanitarian, Dr. Holt was author of some fame. From 1921 he was managing editor of the Independent Magazine, in which he spoke boldly on subjects. He was a man of peace and labored long over the creation of an effective international organization for world peace. Most of his papers are on display in the Mills Memorial Library and contain valuable information on his youth, and his career as college president, as well as an extensive collection pertaining to journalism, education and international organization.

But for all his accomplishments, Dr. Holt was a very man man. He lived for prosperity, and Rollins. He said that "Holt is Rollins and Rollins is Holt". Be that as it may, he left a great and lasting tag to the college in the form of his books and his ideals. He was a man with a vision.

Women's Association Holds Fall Picnic At Pres. McKean's Home

The Rollins College Women's Association held its annual fall picnic Friday afternoon, Oct. 16, at the home of President and Mrs. Hugh F. McKean, who served coffee to the guests.

Members of the faculty and staff and their families enjoyed picnic suppers on the shore of Lake Virginia at "Windsong." Swimming, horseshoes, and other activities occupied the picnickers before and after supper.

The Rollins Women's Association, whose president is Mrs. Lillian Gleason, is a social organization founded in 1934. Currently there are approximately 75 members. The three annual events of the Rollins Women's Association are the fall picnic, a Christmas dinner, and an Epiphany held Jan. 6 for the children of the faculty and staff.

Job Bureau Business Growing

One of the busiest and most vital offices located on the Rollins College campus is the Placement Bureau, which since 1954 has been helping students and alumni find jobs in their fields of interest — areas ranging from advertising to zoology.

Located in Carnegie Hall, the Placement Bureau receives information on jobs from industry, government, and education through the Southern College Placement Association, as well as the College Placement Council.

Director of the Placement Bureau is Miss Emily Merrill, who arranges campus visits for all interested companies and numerous government agencies. Among the many companies who last year sent representatives to the Rollins campus were Southern Bell Telephone Co., Ivey's, Jordan Marsh, Sears, the Prudential Insurance Co., I.B.M., and Proctor and Gamble.

Miss Merrill reports that some 159 employment interviews were held on the Winter Park campus and that she was able to aid 168 students and alumni through placement office assistance last year. This figure includes seniors, alumni, General Studies students, Master of Business Administration and Master of Arts in Teaching students, and several graduates of other institutions.

According to Miss Merrill the number of students using the Placement Bureau is on the increase, but the director points out that more and more Rollins College students are furthering their education by going on to graduate school.

Along with helping students locate suitable employment, Miss Merrill also has the responsibility of the scholarship program. Students seeking parttime and summertime employment also look to the Placement Bureau.

Student files are kept for a number of years so alumni can at any future time call and request assistance in changing jobs. The files include the student's academic record, a list of extracurricular activities, and personal data.

During the 1963-64 academic year the Placement Bureau worked with over 400 members, or almost half, of the student body, helping to place the students in suitable employment, either with parttime, scholarship, or fulltime jobs.

Thackerayana, Given By Hammond Sullivan, Is One Of Library's Rare, Most Valued Books

Treasure hunters who search for their gold on the shelves of libraries and bookstores will find a rare treasure in the stacks of the Rollins College Mills Memorial Library. This special "pot of gold" is a handsome and delightful copy of Thackerayana.

Published in London in 1875 by Chatto and Windus, the volume is bound in red morocco, with gold trim and lettering, and features an illustrated spine and green silk fly leaves.

The 494 page book is a collection of notes and anecdotes, illustrated by hundreds of sketches by William Makepeace Thackeray, best known as the author of Vanity Fair and The Rose and the Ring. The sketches and writings in Thackerayana trace Thackeray's graphic reactions to life throughout his career.

Included are his reactions to his school days, his Cambridge days, trips to Paris, Rome, and the United States, study at Weimar and the Louvre, and life among the artists.

Thackerayana was given to Rollins College by the late George

Hammond Sullivan as one of the many valuable books and objects presented to the College by Sullivan and the Sullivan Foundation.

10 Ways To Snow Professor

Here are "10 Ways to Get Through College Without Even Trying," as written in Pageant magazine by Prof. Robert Tyson of Hunter College:

1. Bring the professor newspaper clippings dealing with his subject. If you don't find clippings dealing with his subject, just bring in clippings at random. He thinks everything deals with his subject.
2. Look alert. Take notes eagerly. If you look at your watch, don't stare at it unbelievably and shake it.
3. Nod frequently and murmur "How true!" To you this seems exaggerated. To him it's quite objective.
4. Sit in front, near him. (Applies only if you intend to stay awake) . . .
5. Laugh at his jokes. You can tell. If he looks up from his notes and smiles expectantly, he has told a joke.
6. Ask for outside reading. You don't have to read it. Just ask.
7. If you must sleep, arrange to be called at the end of the hour. It creates an unfavorable impression if the class has left and you sit there alone, dozing.
8. Be sure the book you read during the lecture looks like a book from the course. If you do math in psychology class and vice versa, match books for size and color.

9. Ask any questions you think he can answer. Conversely, avoid

Educational Conf. Selected Rollins

The Hamilton Holt Chapter of the Student Florida Education Association held its first meeting here last Thursday. Purpose of the meeting was to introduce freshmen interested in the field of education to the club. The featured speaker for the meeting was Assistant Dean of Men Jack Lindquist, who spoke about the values of the education field and the values that can be gained by attending the Leadership Conference. Brief speeches were made by club officers Judy Fix, president; Rick Strauss, vice president; Sally Dembitz, secretary; Joy Klinkman, treasurer; and Pat Tyler, program chairman.

Adviser is Audrey Packham, with an associate adviser, Dr. Kenneth Griswold. Refreshments were served at the conclusion, and it was suggested that if anyone who has an interest that could not attend that meeting contact one of the officers for information concerning the organization.

A discussion of Thanksgiving vacation which came up near the end of the student legislature meeting Monday night overshadowed all other business. The council voted unanimously to support a petition to reinstate the vacation.

Senior Class President Tom Brew moved that the council support the petition which he and Tom Edgar formulated. Students signing the petition will be asked to pay 10 cents to cover mailing charges for questionnaires which will be sent to the students' parents. The questionnaire asks whether or not the parents favor a Thanksgiving vacation.

Council members and interested persons will meet in the council room tonight at 7 to address envelopes.

In other business, Traffic Committee Chairman Tom Edgar announced that he has the names of 15 students who have cars on campus with no Rollins sticker. After some discussion, the council gave the traffic committee authority to cancel these persons' parking privileges for the year, including those day students who have either not registered their cars or who have not displayed their stickers.

Vice President Dave Schechter gave voting statistics for class elections. In the first ballot the following percentages voted: freshmen 67%, sophomores 60%, juniors 60%, and seniors 55%. In the third and final ballot the turnout dropped. Freshmen 51%, sophomores 47%, juniors 48%, and seniors 45%.

Lee Mingledorf proposed a constitutional amendment last week. Action will be taken at the next meeting. The text reads, "Any group which has a voting representative in the Rollins Student Legislature may petition its representative to vote for or against any measure brought before the legislature. If this petition is signed by more than one-half of the petitioning group, the representative must honor it and vote accordingly."

Education Club Holds Meeting

The Student Florida Education Association held its Leadership Conference here last week. The two-day conference hosted representatives from eight four-year colleges and an equal number of junior colleges from throughout the state.

The featured speaker at Saturday's luncheon was Henry T. president of the national organization. The purpose of the Leadership Conference was to prepare a sound program as new adoptions for the convention, which will be held in Jacksonville next March. He has been a member of this organization since 1953 and was conference host for the last consecutive year.

Adviser Audrey Packham, some of the local chapter leaders attended the conference in order to obtain ideas that will help strengthen not only the state organization, but also the Hamilton Holt chapter.
