YD's Elect New Officers

By Bonni Gill

Alva A. Hollon, Jr. '68, Hazard, Kentucky, succeeded Fred Suarez as president of the Rollins College Young Democratic Club. The annual elections held in the Center for Practical Politics named these other officers as Hollon's cabinet: David M. Ernsberger, '67, vice president; Astra Julian Michels, '69, secretary; and Alexander Sulzky, '68, treasurer.

In assuming office, Hollon said that he proposed to carry forward the same kind of realistic involvement in politics which had characterized the two-year administration of Suarez. He immediately began to mobilize members for the joint Democratic-Republican reception to be held in Alumni House on Thursday, February 3, from 4:30 to 6:00 p.m. He also said that with the aggressive program he proposed to launch a massive membership drive which would dwarf the sorry efforts of the campus Republicans. He called attention to the urgency of campus action in 1966 as an election year. He invited club members to attend with him the meetings of the Orange County Democratic Executive Committee.

Petree, on behalf of the state Young Democrats, congratulated Suarez. He said that he had reviewed the scrapbook of the past YDC's activities and emphasized the scope of the leadership involvement which the Rollins Club had experienced, in sponsoring liberal cause meetings, in working for candidates, in service functions, and in precinct work. He recalled the mass meeting which the Club had held with an overflowing audience in Bingham Hall when Bralley Odom debated a spokesman of the John Birch Society. He said that this was the kind of loyalty to liberalism which should continue to characterize the Rollins Young Democrats. Petree further called attention to the Young Democratic rally which helped voters to get acquainted with gubernatorial candidates, and especially the rally for Mayor High of Miami in Skillman Hall. "This," said Petree, "was a classic of political showmanship and good citizenship."

Petree then presented Suarez with a certificate identifying the outgoing president as "a distinguished Democrat" in the service and leadership of the Rollins chapter of the National Federation of Young Democratic Clubs.

In responding to Petree's remarks, Suarez told his fellow campus Democrats who overfilled the conference room, that he had sincerely attempted to practice active citizenship.

Hollon then assumed office and said that he proposed to continue aggressive liberal policies, especially in the efforts to save the campus and the nation from reactionary Republican 19th centuryism. (Hollon and his cabinet met Monday afternoon to complete plans for the reception on Thursday and to block out a program calendar of events for the spring term.) "Never before in Rollins history," said Hollon, "have so many basic political policy problems confronted the nation on which Rollins Young Democrats should take stands. He said that he proposed to deal with real issues, not with pussy-footing socializing which has

1966 Fiesta Plans To Feature Many Changes

At this point in the Winter term, plans have been finalized and approved for the 1966 Fiesta, which will take place this year on April 14, 15, and 16. Fiesta this year will be unlike any Fiesta of the past. At the request of the faculty several specific features of Fiesta have been given special considerations for revision and modification.

Most affected by these changes is the midway which has been eliminated completely. Other changes will be evident in the theme and activities of the three day event.

The theme selected this year is Holland, which will provide a unified central base to which all Fiesta activities, such as the parade and special dinner, will relate.

To take the place of the midway several athletic events have been included in the program during the day. Already scheduled is an all-star flag football game in which the best Rollins intramural players will take on an all-star team from Stetson. On the next day a Rollins all-star softball team will play against the King and his Court, a three man team led by Eddie Feigner, one of the world's top softball pitchers.

Although Fiesta this year will feature many changes, the tradition of nightly entertainment with big-name stars will continue. Heading the list of star entertainment will be Jimmy Reed, who is scheduled to appear as part of the show on Friday night, April 15.

Jimmy Reed is known as one of the best performers of country blues and appeals to people all over the Nation. His million selling hit recordings, such as "Baby What You Want Me To Do," "Hush, Hush," "Big Boss Man," "Honest I Do," and "Boogie in the Dark," illustrate Jimmy Reed's ability to change moods and still keep his own unique style.

Part of Jimmy Reed's success also comes from his ability as a showman. The audience at a Jimmy Reed concert can always count on a first-rate evening of entertainment.

Members of the 135 voice chorus of SING OUT '66 appeared in the Rollins Union for a brief concert last Tuesday. This group of college students, under the sponsorship of the Moral Re-armament Association, is traveling throughout the country urging Americans to become aware of their heritage of liberty and freedom.

THE 'SPUR SPEAKS

P. R. Work At Rollins

Everyone is aware that in the next few months there will be important changes in the curriculum here at Rollins. While these changes are being discussed we have a suggestion; namely, institute a course in public relations in the business department.

For the past several years advertising and public relations have played a major role in business. Every businessman will have to come in contact with some form of advertising at one time or another. On the campus it is evident that advertising has become an integral factor in the growth of the college. There is a marked increase in the number of pamphlets, brochures, news releases, photographs and personnel involved in advertising for Rollins. The increase in advertising, not only at Rollins but throughout the United States, makes it a good idea to offer a course in this field.

Students would benefit a great deal from courses in advertising and public relations. Rollins students would be better equipped to handle the many facets of advertising and market promotion which are part of any successful business.

Also, public relations is now becoming part of national and inter-national affairs. Today the results of many elections are influenced by the ideas and techniques of the advertising firm. The man behind a desk on Madison Avenue could be responsible for thousands of votes. Results of public relations are also seen in international affairs in the form of persuasive strategy or propaganda, as it is commonly called. Propaganda programs are used by all the major powers and have produced dramatic results at low costs. Today persuasive strategy plays a vital role in influencing the type of government system that many of the backward and newly independent countries of the world will adopt.

Here at Rollins, students and faculty members are expected to handle staff activities for different college organizations, but sometimes do not have sufficient training or experience to handle the job. A course in advertising would offer a great deal of knowledge to the students and allow additional practical experience when these ideas are put to work in such college organizations as the Union.

A Liberal Arts college such as Rollins could easily institute courses in advertising and public relations. There are certainly many qualified professors who have had experience with advertising and could be able to teach such a course.

However, if this important area of studies be made part of the curriculum at Rollins, something should be done about it now, and the idea should not be allowed to lapse, as was the case with the general science course.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Since the day of our arrival here at Rollins the feature of the college that has impressed us most is the similarity that Rollins College has to a co-educational prep school. Among these similarities are the no cut system, the women's closing hours, and the rules regarding the admittance of women to men's dormitories.

First, a system of cutting classes should be incorporated into the college regulations. We realize that small classes, such as those at Rollins, can not be run effectively if no one attends. However, a limited number of cuts, four or five per term per class should be allowed each student. We believe that at the college level the individual is mature enough to judge whether or not his ability warrants his absence from a class. If a student is not inclined to attend a class, he will not benefit by being forced to attend. We think it is not the responsibility of the college to force attendance of every student at every class. Part of maturity is self discipline; therefore, it is the responsibility of the student to formulate his own policy regarding cuts.

Second, the rules regarding women's closing hours are in need of revision. The closing hours could be changed to 10:30 on week days and Sundays and 1:00 on Friday and Saturday nights. These proposed changes would not interfere greatly with the existing system and would be a convenience to the majority of the freshman women involved. The proposal might also aid the orientation program by appearing to be a closer approximation of home life. If the proposal is rejected because of the possible interference it might have with studies, we believe that maturity will again determine the outcome.

"THE NEW IN LOOK AT ROLLY CAMPUS."

The third faculty policy that we find fault with is the rule regarding the admittance of women to the men's dormitories. At this time there are no provisions to allow women to enter the dorms. We believe that women should be allowed in the men's dormitories, twelve or eighteen hours per week, with an open door rule. This rule is accepted by other colleges and should be considered at Rollins.

Finally, we would like to suggest that the thwarted Rollins Student Association be given more responsibility in determining the policy of Rollins. The students here seem to have no voice in the policy until student reaction reaches perilous heights. The student body here is mature enough to have a voice in its fate, especially in the light of the newly proposed curriculum and scholastic improvement of the faculty-staff and students.

I just want to take this opportunity to take my cap off to all those people who made the Pledge Presentation Ball such a tremendous success. Despite recent apathetic attitudes on the part of the students toward such formal social activities, it seems to be the general consensus that the music and cuisine were superb. This only shows that if you are in the right frame of mind, you don't have to drink to have a good time! !

Sandy Farwell — how did you get that black and blue mark?

Gnaz enjoys his new exit out the window.

Sullivan's finally ready to settle down with particular serious-minded students. But still has time to keep the TKE pledges busy.

Congratulations, Maltby. It took a couple of years of hard study but you're finally one of the boys.

Kris Brown, attempting to stop thinking of Zippy and his capacity for beverages, has turned to the old reliable Rod Eason. It's quite a switch for Rod who spent last weekend flying a kite on the Sandspur Bowl.

Harper; — me! . . . you! . . . Gnazzo. Okay!

George Lamb, don't know who you had a date with last weekend but did you have to resort to a snooze in the Pi Phi House and night's sleep with BVD's and the stars above?

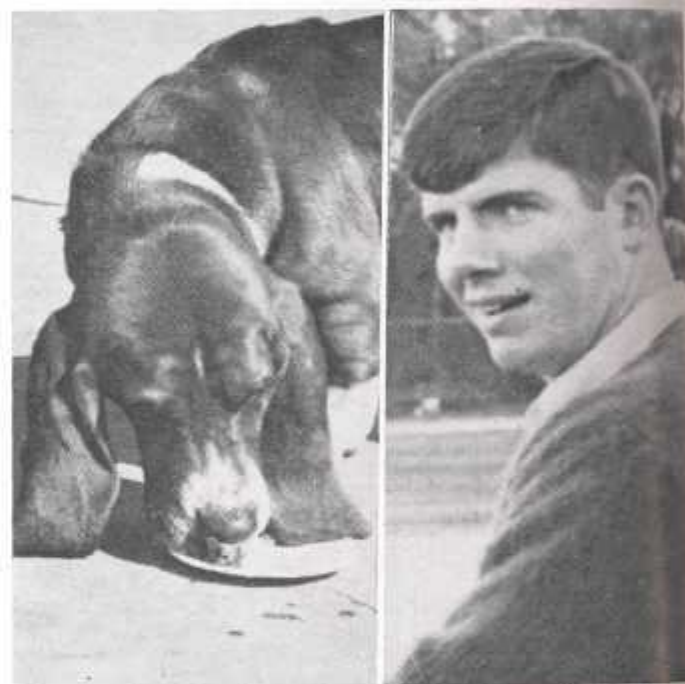

Alva, attempting to reach new heights, has turned to flying lessons.

Slothower definitely should get the good grade in Business Law, thanks to his date at the Saturday night beer party.

Sperry and Schulman, word has reached important people that it would be wise to stay away from Jones School. If the security officers don't get you the girl will. You'd better stick to the dogs or Jal-Alai.

Erns: Maybe she spoke to the nurses while she was in the hospital!!

Chapel Funds Bring Students Here

This year the Chapel Staff is very happy to be sponsoring Lars Freioltz, our foreign student from Sweden. Lars is here studying at Rollins through the Chapel Fund, part of which goes towards a scholarship for a foreign student applying through the World University Service. Every year the Chapel Fund allocates a certain amount toward this scholarship along with various beneficial organizations. Next year we shall be sponsoring a very interesting student from Salzburg, Germany, who we anticipate will also benefit from his experience at Rollins. Lars is a fascinating person to talk with and hearing some of his ideas and impressions is an enlightening experience.

"I was at our country place with a friend studying for the Swedish Student 'examen' in early May. It was truly an unforgettable day. I was studying history on the veranda when my father approached with the letter of acceptance from Rollins. It had been my greatest desire to go to the United States and at that moment my desire was realized."

As Lars talked I looked around his room and noticed some golf clubs, boating and yachting magazines, and pipes on his dresser, an executive's briefcase with a picture of the Playboy bunny, some rather distinguished looking shoes, and a book case close at my right. I scanned the books and pulled out Portrait of a President.

"Once Kennedy said, 'Don't ask what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country.' He also mentioned the 'new frontier'. When I came from Sweden I could still feel the frontier atmosphere on the country. One can look around and see the traces of the past yet feel the electrifying mobilization and flux of a modern society. In this country the individual has such an unrestrained opportunity to develop and produce. All the forces of every individual are working at once in every possible direction, all of which make up a dynamic, vivid society."

When I asked Lars what he found different upon arriving at Rollins he replied: "I must say that the fraternity system was a strikingly new experience. In Sweden they have what they call the 'nations' of the university. Each nation comprises a geographical region of the country and those students in that region. As you can see the approach is much different. The 'nations' are something of centuries ago when communication was poor and people were less mobile than today enabling the university to grow into strong communities. Today, however, the campus is no strong unit in Sweden which gives these nations less importance than before. Perhaps you have to live an adult life earlier there and your responsibilities are certainly greater."

"I like the fraternities. It is another way of living. The members complete and backup each other. The organization seems to give pleasant support in one's development toward an independent way of life."

"Another striking contrast is the American dating system. There is nothing more American than this social role. It reflects the American way of life: a fast, informal one. It is difficult to explain from a European point of view. Here a date is a simple and good way to get acquainted. There seems to be a great deal of prestige involved. Other wise, it doesn't have to be anything more than just a date."

"Many people ask me what I do or don't like about this country. I'm not here to distinguish Lambie Pi's diligently concentrate on plans for upcoming parties.

Lambie Pi's Tap

By Jerry Gnazzo

Thursday, January 13, the Rollins chapter of Lambda Kappa Pi tapped 18 new members in an impressive candle light ceremony in Rose Skillman Hall. At the same time they initiated a new precedent, the tapping of an honorary member, Mr. Dick Barnett, the well-known mixologist at the local Harpers' Tavern and general manager of the forthcoming Barnett's Tavern soon to be opened on Orange Avenue in Winter Park.

Lambie Pi is a national honorary social fraternity; its members are recognized for their dedication to hell-raising and alcoholic consumption. They have long been known for their willingness to drop all secondary affairs and have a party at a moment's notice. The group is under the capable leadership of its three officers: president, Brian Payne; Vice-president, Jerry Gnazzo; secretary-treasurer, Gary Lavan. Other active members are: Richard Brewster, Tom Edgar, Flip Filippone, Laurie Gordon, Jean Hann, Jim and Jane Johnson, Cary and Sue Kresge, Jane Santamaria, Roach Thompson, and George Villere.

The newly elected members are: Tinky Caler, Carter Dye, Betsy English, Indie Ferrell, Mary Grantham, Linda Grishman, Harriet Harper, Bob Heine-man, Nancy Hopwood, John Horner, Jean Maury, Marsha Mullikin, Lynn Neiman, Robbie Robertson, Ken Sparks, Fred Sucharski, and Steve Ward.

what is right or wrong, but why things are the way they are. I don't like to make value judgments on what is wrong in this country or any other country. It's just fascinating to see in America why things are different and how they mirror the frontier. To take an example, in the past in Europe, classical music was a privilege of the upper class. In this country, the music has synthesized with your way of living. You have brought Beethoven to the breakfast table."

Looking at the cultural life here with 'European eyes' it is easy to get the false impression that the interest in classical music is weak here. But the music interest is strong in America. It has just been adapted to the New World."

"I want to understand values of not just my world but those of other worlds. When I travel I like to feel the atmosphere and get as many impressions as I can. This is why traveling abroad fascinates me, and why my interest has grown in the international trade business."

Rollins is proud to have the opportunity of giving Lars a chance to study in Florida and learn about our country. This experience here has opened up new doors toward his future which we hope will be a very successful one.

Olsen Discusses Issues

"Where to and why Rollins?" We have all heard this expression used before in connection with the Union Program Series. How many of us have really asked ourselves this very question? I imagine everyone thinks along these lines at times. After all, Rollins is our school and we all should have a very personal interest in its future.

I believe that this question can be answered very positively. When I first came to Rollins in 1962, New Hall was just being completed for our very ambitious freshmen class. Now four very short years later we are in the process of building the Roy E. Crummer School of Business and Finance. But this is not where we stop this time. Rollins has taken one big, gigantic step in the direction of excellence. Not only do we have the Crummer School, but we are making plans for a 3.2 million dollar Science Center. It is hoped that this Science Center can be ready for the Fall of 1967. This along with the Crummer School, could certainly prove beneficial to any college. However, Rollins is not going to stop here either. A new dormitory is now being constructed for the Independent men. This will give the Independents a place to stay and get together. This may not seem significant now, but I think within the next few years we will see the Independents becoming stronger and stronger because this dormitory will give this group the opportunity to get together, organize, and discuss the many issues that may arise.

And finally, the much needed fieldhouse will be built. It, like the Bush Science Center, should be completed in the fall of the 1967 academic year. This will enable Rollins to have its own indoor athletic facilities and should benefit the much travelled Rollins basketball team.

So now if we do ask the question, "Where to and Why Rollins?" we can think very positively. Rollins is going places, and it is going fast. The Bush Science Center and the Crummer School should strengthen Rollins significantly. The fieldhouse should strengthen the athletic program, and the new dormitory should help the Independents and at the same time strengthen the student body as a whole. Things do look bright for Rollins, but as I look at this new and exciting development, I can hardly express my appreciation and gratitude to two of the men who were most influential in getting these buildings on the Rollins campus. But these men will never get to see their efforts materialize. Of course, I am referring to the late Mr. Howard Showalter and the late Mr. A. G. Bush. Mr. Showalter was very influential in raising much of the money for the fieldhouse. Mr. A. G. Bush, of course, contributed $800,000 to the Science Center, and just before his death this past month, wrote Rollins a check for $100,000 to insure the construction of the Enyart Alumni Fieldhouse.

These two men worked very hard for the college. They were two of the finest friends the college has ever known. It is certainly a shame that they will never see their dreams and hopes materialize. Yet, I am sure that both these men knew that their efforts would materialize.

Rollins has certainly been blessed to have had such fine friends, and it is because of these men that we can sit back and say, "Rollins is a school that is certainly going places."

Chuck Olsen
President, Student Council

President Evaluates IFC Role

Since the Rollins campus is so pro-fraternity, a strong Inter-Fraternity Council is a necessity to keep peace. Even though the fraternities get along well together, there are times when they need a method of arbitrating their troubles. This is the IFC.

Cary Kresge

Rush is the biggest problem the IFC faces. In the short rush that fraternities have had in the past, there have been many complaints about rushees being snowed, and fraternity men say they don't have a chance to meet everybody. People are now looking toward a delayed rush. Delayed rush would solve the problem of everybody meeting everybody, but expense would be a big drawback. This is one of the things the IFC will solve.

With a new rush, new rules will have to be made so the fraternities have an almost equal chance in every respect. As everybody knows, the more rules one makes, the more loopholes one creates. Therefore, the IFC makes as few rules as possible and hopes that the fraternity men will obey some verbal agreements. This has worked out fairly well in the past.

IFC has been trying to organize some social activities, but has had some difficulty in getting everybody together. IFC is trying very hard to prepare a program that will meet with the approval of all groups. This is a very difficult task, as it has been said "You can't please all the people all the time."

As one can see, the IFC has a thankless job, but it tries to do the best. It has been progressively trying to build itself into an even stronger group. By doing this the fraternity system will be closer knit. All the Council asks of the students is their cooperation.

Officer Cullifer Always Gets His Man

Officer Ray Cullifer, night patrolman here at Rollins, will surely go down in the annals of history as one of the outstanding law enforcement officers in the history of this institution.

Like the proverbial Northwest Mounty, Patrolman Cullifer always gets his man. Cullifer has refined the science of criminology into a fine art. He does not condone the crude techniques employed by other law enforcement officers such as the one pictured below. Instead Cullifer finds that he has more success with a few bear-traps under sorority house windows, a quiver of whistling arrows, and his trusty dog Beauregard.

work very much, the duties of a night patrolman are often lonely and uncomfortable. His job requires that he be on duty from 7:00 p.m. until 3:00 a.m. daily. One rainy night Cullifer was seen combing the lakefront in search of Beauregard who had consumed a partial can of beer in the Theta parking lot, and was last spotted stumbling toward Lake Virginia. The driving rain obliterated Patrolman Cullifer's vision, water slushed in his Weejuns, and his ostrich skin wallet pressed coldly against his cheek. There was a great temptation for this devoted officer of the law to creep into the dry boathouse and take a snooze among the canoes, but his dedication to duty required him to continue his search.

Patrolman Cullifer is amazed at the conscientious study on the part of the students, especially those who study the tropical foliage concentrated in certain areas along the waterfront.

Patrolman Cullifer is from a small town in Georgia called Cuthbert, which is thirty miles northeast of Opposum Trot. He has lived in Winter Park for twenty years, and served on the Winter Park Police Force for nineteen years. The patrolman has been connected with Rollins for eight years now. His duties are to prevent vandalism, peeping and burglary on the campus. "I am concerned with protecting the college, and not policing the students," Cullifer reported. Patrolman Cullifer is married and has three children.

Cullifer is currently engaged in the task of apprehending a "peeping-tom" reportedly seen several times in the vicinity of Sorority Row.

No real rough stuff like this at Rollins . . . Just an occasional prankster.

Student Council Reports

The last two meeting of the student legislature were marked by lively discussions and important voting on current vital issues concerning the legislature and the College.

The January 25 meeting started off smoothly but unexpected discussion soon arose. The Traffic Committee announced that violation notices have been sent to all freshmen with motorcycles or cars on campus, and the Beanery Committee announced the Dutch dinners which were held on January 26. The Standards Lambda Chi representative, Chris Clanton, was dismissed from the legislature for his three unexcused absences.

Under old business, the revised Constitution was untabled, and passed, as were the Constitutional By-laws and the revised Rules and Regulations. An amendment under General Rules was proposed and passed. It was moved, seconded, and passed to accept the Rollins Code of Student Conduct.

Under New Business, Chuck Olsen introduced the executive appointments of Mike Stone and Charles Schoene as new members of the Investigations Committee. Olsen stated that these two were selected because they were both boys and too many girls were already on the committee. Since they were the only males out of 11 applicants, and since they were both qualified, they were selected. After much heated discussion, the new appointments were approved by the legislature. Next, John Pister was approved as the new Chairman of the Beanery Committee.

Still under New Business the Upper Court submitted a report which recommended minor changes in the Constitution and By-laws. The changes:

Student Association Constitution:

Article V, Section 2, B
4. To dismiss those members who have more than three unexcused absences during the term of office.

Article V Section 2, B
10. Delete the word "official"
Article V Section 2, B, Part 10
C. Delete the word "must" and replace it with "can only".

Constitution By-laws:

Article III, Section, A, Part 1
A. Add the word "chairman" after "Executive Vice President."

Article III, Section 1, A,
6. Add the word "committee" after "standards"

Article III, Section 1, A
9. Delete the words "the elections shall be declared temporarily void" and replace them with "the results of the election shall be withheld."

Article III, Section 1, A
12. In front of the word "rules" insert the word "election". Delete the words "printed and"

Article III, Section 2, A
1. Before the word "social" add "academic or". After the word "Probation" and the word "or warning".

Article III, Section 2, A, 6

A. Delete the words "two terms of" and replace them with "a course in"

Article III, Section 3, A

5. After the word "social" add "or academic" After the word "probation" add "or warning".

B. After "Executive Vice President" add the word "chairman".

In announcements, the president urged social group action in contributing to the Howard Showalter Fund. Also all students interested in running for Student Government were reminded that elections will be in April.

The meeting of January 31 saw only 25 students present; the number was small because the student play was held at the same time.

Under the committee reports, the Beanery Committee announced that new eating utensils had arrived to alleviate the crucial shortage of spoons.

After this the stage was set for the most explosive issue of this term — the highly controversial Reapportionment Amendment. The discussion began when Chuck Olsen read Dean Lindquist's letter highly supporting the amendment and its ideals. Fred Gittes then took the floor to answer questions and discuss the pros and cons of the reapportionment issue. Mr. Gittes then concluded with a final plea for the passage of his plan. Several arguments then followed. Questioning and counterquestioning was finally punctuated by a call for the vote, which was passed.

A bizarre and well-calculated maneuver then occurred. After the oral vote, the roll call vote was needed. During this vote, Mr. Gittes, in a seemingly incongruous move, voted against his own motion. The vote was 14 to 6, defeating the motion. Then Mr. Gittes moved for reconsideration of his amendment and its inclusion in the minutes of the meeting. This motion can only be made by someone who has voted on the prevailing side. Mr. Gittes' strategy was then embarrassingly evident to the opponents of the amendment. The question will therefore be brought up again on February 7.

Under New Business, the President then read a memo from Dean Burdell in regard to absences from classes. The question will be presented to the faculty at their next meeting. Following this announcement the meeting was adjourned.

Bill McNulty, Jane Kibler, John Dean, Sheri Bickley, Jan Gray, and Maria Savvas rehearse for Senior Theatre Workshop production.

Seniors To Present "Fantasticks"

By Sheri Bickley

Every year a course is offered to senior Theater Majors called Senior Workshop. This course is very loose in its structure and is so designed to allow seniors to do individual projects. It is a challenge, and this year's senior class is taking full advantage of the offered opportunity.

Fall term three projects were presented. Luis Barroso presented excellent scenes from James Thurber's A Thurber Carnival Maria Savvas directed Anne Hathaway and Ray Edwards in two scenes from Cat On A Hot Tin Roof by Tennessee Williams, and Pam Hurlbert presented a scene from Harold Pinter's The Room.

This term the student body will again have the opportunity to see good work done by seniors in the department. So far two projects are in the works. Luis Barroso will present an old-fashioned melodrama in the grand manner of the period, and Sheri Bickley and Maria Savvas are presenting the other project, the long running musical hit The Fantasticks.

The Fantasticks has a very simple plot. It involves a boy, a girl, two fathers and a wall. It is a love story that is totally enchanting. The play was cast two weeks ago and the cast is as follows: El Gallo will be played by Michael Nouri, the girl by Jane Kibler, and the boy by Ed Maxey. The two fathers are John Dean as Hucklebee and Bill McNulty as Bellomy. Ray Edwards and Ladd Levis will play the roles of Henry and Mortimer respectively, and Jeannie Britt will play the Mute.

The show is scheduled to play one night only — Sunday, February 20. It will be presented in the Annie Russell Theater at 8:00 o'clock. Lights are being executed by David Jacobs and Jan Grey will accompany on the piano.

Rollins Speakers Bureau Ready for Active Season

By Bob Doerr

With current membership at 20 students, the Rollins Speakers Bureau is engaging in forensic activities at a galloping pace. The Bureau, founded two years ago, is a student organized and administered group of a quasi-honorary nature. With funds liberally allocated by the College's annual budget, the R.S.B. has progressively made a prestigious mark for itself on campus as well as in the Central Florida community.

Activities during the present academic year have included the Dixie Debate Tournament at Mercer College; a contract debate at Brevard Junior College; the All-Florida Tournament at the University of South Florida, where Rollins debaters were recognized as best speakers; a contract debate with the University of Florida; several speaking engagements in the Orlando-Winter Park area including such topics as "Australia as I Saw It", the national debate issue on law enforcement, "Forty-four Days in the Soviet Union", and "Folk Music" among others; and the intramural debate program — originally conceived by the R.S.B. and developed in conjunction with the Rollins Union — whereby all social groups can participate in forensics.

Coming up are a national inter-collegiate debate tournament at King's College, the All-South debate tournament at F.S.U., the annual Harvard-Rollins debate, the Deep South Model U.N. at Florida Atlantic, and the R.S.B.-L.A. Area Studies co-sponsored Model O.A.S. to be held on the Rollins campus during spring vacation.

Membership is on a limited and invitational basis. However, the R.S.B. is non-secret and welcomes auditions from the student body every term. An examination of membership shows that various social groups are represented (so one-group domination is impossible) and academic majors well distributed. Political science is the most pronounced field of interest; however, English, pre-med, math, and speech are also included majors.

The eradication of apathy among the student body is one of the Bureau's more important objectives. Upon review of various R.S.B. activities it appears that this objective has been achieved. The reason for such progress is the diversity of Bureau endeavors; e.g. inter-collegiate and intramural debating, radio programs, travelogues, folk songs, participation in mock international assemblies, etc. Aiding the Bureau in the capacity of advisers and substantially contributing to the achievement of its efforts, are Jack Lindquist, Assistant Dean of Men, and Marion Folsom, professor of English and recent Danforth Fellowship winner, who have taken an active part in helping to guide RSB policies.

Cagers Win Fourth; Clip St. Leo, 70-68

Millard Nixon scored a layup with 10 seconds left Jan. 26 to give Rollins a 70-68 victory over St. Leo College. The win was Rollins' fourth against nine losses.

Out-rebounded by the taller Monarchs 67-47, Coach Boyd Coffie's Tars kept pace with a 20 for 24 performance at the foul line, while St. Leo could register only eight of 22.

The game was close all the way as the score was tied 13 times and the lead changed hands on 20 occasions. St. Leo's biggest margin was a five-point budge in the first half, while the Tars built a seven-marker advantage early in the second frame.

Shortly after the second half began Rollins poured in 10 straight points to take a 46-39 lead with 13:12 left, but St. Leo roared back to knot the count 52-52 at the eight-minute mark.

The advantage then see-sawed

Tars Scorers Rank in FIC

Florida Southern and Stetson meet in DeLand Friday night in the game that could determine the Florida Intercollegiate Conference title.

A win for Stetson's Hatters, currently 4-1 in the FIC, would assure them of at least a tie for the crown, while an FSC victory would give Tom Greene's Mocs (2-0) an inside track to the title.

Tampa (1-3) and Rollins (1-4) round out the FIC race. Despite occupying the cellar, the Tar cagers boast several of the top individual performers in the league.

Four Rollins players are among 14 FIC stars averaging better than 10 points per game. Ed Siemer heads the contingent with a 15.8-point mark for third place and is joined by Millard Nixon (14.8), Bob Chandler (11.4) and Tom Sacha (11.0).

Southern cagers Mike Huber (20.5), Jim Hayes (18.5), and Scott Fitzgerald (17.0) lead the conference.

In rebounding Siemer (11.2) and Nixon (9.2) are second and third in the league, behind FSC's Dan Doherty (15.5).

In the battle to avoid a cellar finish Rollins must defeat Southern in its league finale Feb. 21, while Tampa loses its remaining pair to the Mocs.

Practice For Big Game
Rollins women prepare to meet Orlando Junior College girls in their annual field hockey game on the Sandspur Bowl Feb. 11. Last year the Tars won 5-0.

until Nixon's winning bucket. With 1:46 remaining the Monarchs took a 66-64 lead, but the Tars came back for a 68-66 margin on a bucket by Ken Hill and a pair of 1-1 free throws by freshman Gary Mercer.

After St. Leo tied the score with 33 seconds remaining, Rollins stalled for Nixon's final shot.

Nixon topped all scorers with eight of 22.

Tekes Grab 'Mural Lead

Tau Kappa Epsilon leads Delta Chi by 34 points through fall term intramural competition, according to C. L. Varner, men's intramural director.

Winning the table tennis title and finishing second in football, the Tekes posted a 346½-point total to the Delts' 312. Defending champ Sigma Nu (299½) and Lambda Chi Alpha (283) were also within 100 points of the leader.

The figures do not include tennis, which has not been completed, but TKE is assured of at least a third-place finish in that event, ahead of all four top challengers.

Delta Chi received 255 points for winning the post-season grid playoffs, while TKE and Sigma Nu picked up 242½ apiece for second.
The ping pong title was worth 104 points for TKE (27-0).

Tars Meet Sewanee In Snowbound Tenn.

Concluding a three-game road trip, Rollins cagers face the University of the South in Sewanee, Tenn., Saturday night.

Already this week Rollins has met Mercer in Macon, Ga., and Georgia State in Atlanta. The Tars remain on the road next week as they journey to Florida 19 points and grabbed 18 rebounds, tying Ed Siemer's season mark. Siemer, 15, and Gary Kilmer, rebounding from a midseason slump with 14 points, were also in the double digits for the Tars.

Center Don Jenssen sparked St. Leo, now 6-6, with 17 markers, followed by guards Joe Orchulli (15) and Rich Wallace (14) and forward Andy Werner (12). Jenssen and Walt Tabor controlled the boards with 19 rebounds apiece.

Rollins' next home game is a Feb. 15 encounter with Belmont Abbey College at Orlando Junior College gym.

Heavy Rains Slow Women's Softball

Bad weather postponed most women's intramural softball games last week. Only two of the four games slated were played.

Behind the fine pitching of Margie Fifer, Gamma Phi Beta downed Phi Mu 9-6 Monday. The Pi Phi's defeated Chi Omega in the only other contest.

Rescheduled playing dates will be released later.

Presbyterian in St. Petersburg Feb. 12.

Led by senior guard Bob Swisher, who has averaged in double digits since his sophomore campaign, Sewanee lost only two players off last year's squad. Sewanee defeated Rollins 76-60 in the Citrus Tourney last season.

Not especially tall, the Tigers rely on a tough defense and sharp shooting. Sewanee is currently tenth among the nation's colleges in foul shooting with 76% of its charity tosses.

The Tigers have crushed Southwestern 88-59 and lost to Florida Southern 65-60, both victors over Rollins in the Citrus Tourney this year.

Tar Coach Boyd Coffie will probably continue to use Millard Nixon, Ed Siemer and Gary Kilmer on the frontline with Bob Chandler and Dave Pearlman at guards.

Nixon leads Rollins offensively and defensively with 16.5 points and 12.4 rebounds per game. Siemer has boosted himself into second place in both categories with 15.4 markers and 11.4 rebounds.

Chandler (13.3 p.p.g.) is also hitting in double figures for the Tars, while Kilmer and Pearlman have tallied 8.8 and 6.7-point averages.

Ready For More Tennis Action
... Gretchen Vosters, Wendy Overton

Vosters, Overton Form Potent Pair

By Jane Blalock
Sports Staff

Rollins College has always had its share of outstanding female athletes, but this year's freshman class is exceptional in its contributions to women's athletics.

Two of the prime examples of sportswomen entering Rollins this year are Wendy Overton and Gretchen Vosters. Although known most for their tennis exploits, both girls possess the rare quality of versatility.

Wendy, who hails from Ormond Beach, Fla., and Gretchen, a resident of Wilmington, Del., are members of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and were instrumental in sparking their Kappa teammates to the intramural basketball crown.

Besides sorority and athletic activities, they are involved in dorm government and social affairs.

Tennis success is nothing new for either girl. Wendy has been ranked number one among Florida Juniors since 1963, while Gretchen has won the Middle Atlantic States Interscholastics and the Delaware Interscholastics for four straight years.

1965 was a banner season for Wendy as she was chosen for the Junior Wightman Cup squad and captain of the Florida intercollegiate team. She also received the National Sportsmanship Award and finished second as she tried to defend her National Doubles title.

Although she has performed mostly in the Middle Atlantic region, Gretchen is ranked fifteenth in the nation and first in the Middle Atlantic states. She has played on the intercollegiate squad for four seasons.

Before coming to Rollins, where they have combined to form a potent doubles combination, Gretchen and Wendy were well acquainted on the courts.

They keep the outcome of the matches under a veil of secrecy, but will be fighting together this year to boost the Tar women netters to a good season.

Rice Award Given

Alabama and Michigan State have been named co-winners of the 1965 Grantland Rice award for the top collegiate football team. The selection was the first tie in the 12-year history of the award.

Rollins Rowers Edged By Badgers, Columbia

By Skip Carlson

The Rollins crew was handed a pair of close defeats by the University of Wisconsin on Friday, January 24, as the Tars opened the 1966 winter rowing season on Lake Maitland.

The Junior Varsity race was the first of the day, a perfect one for rowing, with just a slight tail wind and a temperature of about 40 degrees. Both crews started the race rowing over 40 strokes per minute and remained even throughout half the race. At this point the Badgers pulled slightly ahead of the all-freshman Tar boat. With a quarter-mile left in the race, Rollins coxswain Kirkpatrick raised the stroke to 40 per minute. Anticipating a strong finish to pull the J.V. ahead of the Badgers, Kirkpatrick continued to raise the stroke, but the lead of Wisconsin was not to be overcome. The J.V. Tars finished only 4 seconds behind the big Wisconsin crew, which averaged 190 pounds.

The Varsity race was a different story, however. The Tars started at a 43 stroke per minute pace and pulled ahead of Wisconsin within a matter of seconds. Slightly past the half-way mark, with the Tars leading Wisconsin by 3/4 of a boat-length (about 45 feet), the Badger crew pulled ahead as the Tar shell was upset by a motor-boat wake which did not reach the Wisconsin shell. The lead of Wisconsin was narrowed to one boat-length as the crews crossed the finish line of the one mile and 3/16 course.

The boatings for this race were:

The Tars, now eager to compete against the Columbia crew, who, in 1963, defeated the Tar Varsity and J.V. on the Harlem River in New York, had their chance on Monday, January 31st.

Rollins crew maneuvers shell into position for start of 1966 rowing season.

Due to illness, Jim Ehle was not able to compete but was replaced by George Kuta, a freshman normally rowing on the J.V., who has only rowed for about three months.

The J.V. race was a close one, with the Tars turning in a much better performance than on Friday. The Tars held the Columbia crew for most of the race, but could not keep up with the final sprint put on by their opponents. The winning time of Columbia was 6.03 minutes with the Tars only three seconds behind, a distance of approximately 30 feet.

The Varsity race had both crews rowing the body of the race at about 37 strokes per minute, an unusually high and difficult stroke to maintain. The Tars fell behind at the start and were trailing by open-water (the distance between the shells, here less than one boat-length) at the half. The final quarter-mile sprint came up fast as Fred Rossiter eased the stroke up to an amazing 43 strokes per minute. Holding this stroke to the finish, the Tar crew came up fast, only to be nosed out by two-tenths of a second. The distance by which Columbia won was a mere 1 1/2 feet! The winning time was 5.46 minutes.

This Friday the Tars will compete against perennial Eastern powerhouse MIT, a member of the International Rowing Association and finalist in the last U.S. Olympic tryouts. The race will be held at 4:15 on Lake Maitland.

Tar Golfers Open Long Season By Splitting Wisconsin Match

By Sam Martin
Sports Staff

Last week the Rollins golf team opened its season with a split of two matches against the University of Wisconsin.

Rollins took the opener 27-9 and dropped the second encounter 18 1/2-17 1/2.

Scores ran rather high on both teams because of the cold weather and lack of practice. Rollins Captain Joe Browning was overall medalist for both matches with a total of 156.

This year the Tars will be playing an extremely long and tough schedule. Fourteen dual matches against some of the strongest teams in the nation are on tap, as are five major collegiate tournaments. Rollins' opponents include Georgia, Florida, Florida State, Houston, Louisiana State and Oklahoma.

Coach Robert Kirouac is anticipating a good season with five lettermen returning.

These veterans are Browning, a finalist in the New England Amateur last summer; Samuel Martin, current New England Lefty Champion; Robert Lewis, a finalist in the Cleveland, Ohio, City Amateur; John Kirouac, past New England Hearst Champion; and James Ackerman, former winner of the Sharon Open Championship.

Other members of the team include Richard Haase, Ron Lehr, Russell Taylor, Jack Davis, Dave Beckingham, and freshman Terry Law.

Several innovations have been instigated by Coach Kirouac for the improvement of each golfer's game. Monday afternoon has been specified as a check-up day for each individual's game.

This way faults can be improved upon before they get out of hand. Also, fifty feet of film will be taken of each person's swing in order that he, himself, may see his faults.

The Tars travel to Tampa Saturday for a match with the University of South Florida. The following week they journey to Gainesville for matches against Stetson, Florida and Florida State.

IM Basketball Season Opens

By Tom Sacha
Sports Staff

Men's intramural basketball opened its season on the outdoor courts and, as usual, the first two weeks were beset by fickle weather as rain and cold hampered play.

Despite the poor conditions in Rollins' "outdoor fieldhouse," KA and Delta Chi have gotten off to perfect 2-0 starts, followed closely by Sigma Nu and the Faculty-Grads, both 1-0.

Play opened Jan. 17 with the Clubbers crushing Phi Delta Beta's first intramural entry, 40-19, behind Jim Oppenheim (13 points) and Scotty Green (9).

Van Lawrence bucketed 20 the following day to lead his Delt teammates to a 48-38 win over Sig Ep. Sig Ep's Dick Cohen was high man with 21 markers, while Delt Chuck Gordon registered 10.

Snapping a 27-27 deadlock in the final period, KA staged an upset 39-33 victory over TKE. Gary Dering, hot shooter in the closing minutes, and Steve Ward shared KA honors with 17 markers. Al Curtis sparked the Tekes with 16.

Defending champion Lambda Chi fell to the Faculty-Grads 71-69 in three overtime periods. Basketball coach Boyd Coffie set an individual record with 39 points in the contest.

Bob Kirouac and Jack Lindquist contributed 14 and 10 points apiece. The game was tied 57-57 in regulation.

The Independents, who forfeited their opener to Sigma Nu, handed Phi Delt a 53-28 shellacking as Bob Christenson (17) and John Knebel (18) led the way.

KA chalked up its second straight with a 46-24 decision over Sig Ep Jan. 27 behind Dering's 20 points and Steve Ward's rebounding.

A day later the X Club handed Lambda Chi a telling blow, dumping the defending champs 56-39. Paced by Green (19) and Oppenheim (15), the Clubbers took over early in the game. Dennis Milner topped Lambda Chi with 11 tallies.

Lambda Chi managed its first victory Monday by dumping TKE 50-37. Tony LeVecchio led a fast-break offense with 18 points, while TKE's Bob Schabes had 13.

Mademoiselle Selects Coed From Rollins

By Jean Colvin

How can a college student gain practical experience in magazine publishing? Mademoiselle magazine has an annual program known as the College Board Competition that enables women students to compete for the twenty coveted Guest Editor positions. Each year in the fall the contest is announced and those entering the competition are asked to submit samples of their talent in art, writing, editing, photography, layout, fashion design, merchandising, retail promotion, or advertising. From the entries submitted, Mademoiselle chooses its College Board winners, who will remain members of the College Board until they graduate.

This year Rollins will be represented by Virginia Sprinkle, who will have an opportunity to contribute to Mademoiselle and help the magazine keep up with campus trends. She will report regularly to Mademoiselle on events at Rollins, research articles, and help the fashion editors select models for college fashion features. The work which she does as a College Board member will be accumulated in a professional portfolio which may be valuable to her in finding a challenging job after graduation.

Once a student has been selected for the College Board, she is eligible to compete for Mademoiselle's twenty grand prizes—the Guest Editorships. To win one of these positions, a Board member must submit a second entry that shows superior aptitude for magazine work.

Being chosen for one of these coveted positions is quite an honor. The twenty Guest Editors are invited to New York, where they spend the month of June as salaried employees of Mademoiselle. While there, they help write, illustrate, and edit Mademoiselle's August college issue, sharing offices with the magazine's regular editors. They have an opportunity to meet and interview well-known personalities and represent the magazine on visits to publishing houses, stores, and advertising agencies. Their stay in New York is not all work and no play, however; they are Mademoiselle's guests at parties, discotheques, and screenings. In addition, they are photographed for the August issue and receive special consideration for future staff positions with Mademoiselle and other Conde Nast publications. Last year's Guest Editors had a special treat in store for them—a week's trip to Spain, where they visited Madrid and Toledo.

We all wish Ginny the very best of luck in the final competition and hope to see her go to New York this June as a Guest Editor.

Charger

new leader of the Dodge Rebellion

Tired of looking at dream cars you can't buy? The cars you see at the Auto Show and never see again? Well, then, do something about it. See the one you can buy, right now, today, at your Dodge dealer's. It's Charger, a full-sized, fastback action car that's all primed up and ready to go. With V8 power. Bucket seats, fore and aft. Full-length console. Disappearing headlights that disappear without a trace. Rear seats that quickly convert into a spacious cargo compartment. Just pop the rear buckets down and watch the cargo space go up. That's Charger—breathtaking new leader of the Dodge Rebellion. Until you've seen it, you haven't seen everything from Dodge for '66. Charger, a brawny, powerful dream car that made it—all the way to your Dodge dealer's.
