Gustafson Elected Pres. Of Student Association

Last Wednesday the students of Rollins College elected Robert Gustafson as the new president of the Student Association. Gustafson received 373 votes to Al Hollon's 255. The election showed 83.8 per cent of the student body turned out to vote.

The height of the campaign was reached the night before the election when each candidate presented a speech in the Alumni House. After the speeches there were questions from a panel consisting of Jim Johnson, Chairman of Lower Court; Dr. Nelson, a mem-

In spite of the fact that only 40 to 45 students attended this forum, each candidate tried to gain all the support he could.

In Gustafson's speech, the points of faculty relations, communications, and better student cooperation with the Student Association were stressed. Gustafson said he would like to see most of the policy making come from the student committees. Gustafson also commented after the forum that he desired revision in the executive, legislative, and judicial parts of the Student Association. Gustafson also stated that he would like to follow the same basic policies as Chuck Olsen.

Hollon's speech centered around a proposal for the complete re-organization of the Student Association. Hollon called for a separation of powers, whereby the executive, legislative, and judicial branches would be apart from each other. Hollon also emphasized the need of a tighter control over the Student Association budget. He advocated the creation of a Finance Committee within the Legislature.

The moderator for the forum, Patsy Blackburn expressed a need that this type of forum should become an annual affair. Commenting upon the campaign, Miss Blackburn said, "I thought it was a good, clean campaign. I would like to wish the best of luck to those who didn't win as well as those who won."

In the other race, Carol Conklin defeated Millie Elm for the position of secretary by a vote of 419 to 171. Both Bill Blackburn, candidate for Vice-President and Debbie Wood, candidate for comptroller, were unopposed.

ber of Upper Court; and Peggy Henry, secretary of the Student Association. After questions from the panel, the floor was open for questions.

Fiesta Program Ready

The Fiesta Committee 1966 recently announced the addition of the nationally known Shirelles and the Dixie Cups to their night entertainment list. The Shirelles will perform Thursday from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. at Sanlando Springs, and the Dixie Cups will join Jimmy Reed to be part of the Friday double star show. The Friday dance will be held at Fern Creek Armory from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m.

The Shirelles are one of the greatest female vocal groups in the United States. This unique quartet of girls can attribute their success not only for being able to deliver fifteen great hits but also their ability for putting on a fine show. With each of their new recordings they have offered the public a new refreshing sound which displays their great talent. Recordings which have paved the way to success for the Shirelles have been: "Will You Love Me Tomorrow", "Soldier Boy", "Baby It's You", "Dedicated to the One I Love", "Mama Said", "Tonight's the Night", and many others. A number of the Shirelles' recordings have sold over the million mark and many, if not almost all, have become popular hits.

The Dixie Cups consist of three young ladies in their early twenties who hail from the rhythm and blues capital of the world, New Orleans. They were discovered by Joe Jones of the "You Talk Too Much" fame, who has worked with them in producing a first rate talent.

The first record the Dixie Cups made was in April, '64. Within a month their record "Chapel of Love" became a national hit and the Dixie Cups were famous. Among other recordings which the Dixie Cups have released which became hits consist of: "People Say", "You should Have Seen the Way He looked at Me", "Iko Iko", "Two-Way-Poe-A-Way", "All Grown Up", and others.

The Dixie Cups toured practically all the 50 states, they appeared on the Dick Clark Caravan of Stars, ABC Shindy Tour, Sonny and Cher Tour, and The Gene Pitney Tour, and performed in Disneyland. They have just completed a tour in California and have appeared on all the TV variety shows such as Shindig, Hollywood a Go Go, Lloyd Thaxton, Dick Clark's American Bandstand, and others.

In accordance with the theme for Fiesta '66 the floats in the parade will be decorated in the theme of Holland. The parade will begin at 3:30 near the Barbizon. Among the added attractions to the parade this year will be three elephants which came through the courtesy of Mr. J. E. Strates. Also along the lines of following the Fiesta theme and the Country of the Year there will be a special Dutch show at Rose Skillman Hall on Friday at 5:30 to 7:00. During this time a Dutch dinner will be served.

The Dutch entertainment will consist of three comic and singing performers along with three musicians. Heading the list of Dutch entertainment will be Baron Paridon. The "Baron" is trained in singing the classics and popular folk, novelties, and diversified comedy acts of all types and moods. He has made appearances in Grand and Light Opera, Vaudeville, nightclubs, TV and radio. The Chicago Tribune calls the Baron "some one you must see... a picture of old Vienna, monocled and with a mustache."

This year the Fiesta Committee has done away with the midway and has attempted to accent a number of its activities on sports. The two athletic events are the Rollins Fiesta All Star Intramural Flag Football Game with Stetson University and the Fiesta All Star Intramural Softball team against the King and His Court. Awards will be given to participants and a trophy will be given to the winner of the Rollins-Stetson football game. Cheerleaders will be on hand representing both schools.

An Art Festival Show is also being added to the Fiesta program. Approximately thirty artists from the Orlando area along with Rollins' art students will present their works on the Library lawn from 9 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. The majority of the artists that will be present at the Fiesta Art Festival this Saturday are recognized for their excellence in their fields. All artists present participated in the Winter Park Art Festival and many other similar art shows. Trophies and awards will be given for the best art work.

Also, in the tradition of annual Fiesta activities, the King and Queen of Fiesta will be chosen by student balloting and will be announced during Thursday night's concert dance at Sanlando Springs. Also announced at that time will be the winner of the Ugly Man contest.

The Miss Rollins contest will be held on Saturday at 3:30 p.m. at Strong Hall. Candidates selected by the fraternities and sororities will be in the running for Rollins' College coveted beauty award. A surprise this year will be the number of freshman girls entered in the pageant.

Dee Clark

D. Clark Returns For Fiesta Show

Dee Clark, popular entertainer known throughout the U.S., will return to Fiesta to join the Shirelles for a concert dance show at Sanlando Springs on Thursday from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. Dee Clark is remembered on the Rollins campus for the excellent performance he gave last year during Fiesta.

Dee Clark's most famous hit smash called "Raindrops" is one of the reasons for his popular appeal. However, Dee Clark's real talent is in the way he arouses the audience and instills in them his own style and rhythm. Among his other hits are "Nobody But You", "Hey Little Girl (In the High School Sweater)", "Just Keep It Up", and others. Dee Clark will be looking forward to a show at Rollins again and will promise to live up to his expectations...

Those interested in applying for positions as editor of the Sandspur, Tomokan, R Book, or Flamingo, please submit applications to Larry Shrumphf, Chairman of the Publication Union, by April 23.

THE 'SPUR SPEAKS

Fiesta Needs Support

For the past several years the entire program of Fiesta has been the subject of serious consideration and reevaluation by the faculty and student body. One criticism mentioned was the fact that not enough students appeared to be sufficiently interested in actively supporting the Fiesta program. Another criticism was that the general theme of Fiesta and the atmosphere of the midway did not project a constructive image of the college. To remove all doubts it was necessary to discover student opinions about Fiesta by sending out a questionnaire to the entire student body. The results of this questionnaire proved that the students were interested in continuing and improving Fiesta. However, it was recognized that if Fiesta this year is to be a success, a general agreement on two proposals must be reached. Namely, that bloc purchase of tickets by social groups and a closed weekend for women be instituted. These proposals were brought before the faculty and student council, and it was decided that all students should purchase Fiesta tickets. The rationale for this action is that students are not going to support Fiesta and go away for the weekend or go to the beach when classes are called off, then Fiesta should be abolished.

This year students will have the opportunity to participate in a different type of Fiesta. The introduction of a Rollins-Stetson all star flag football game, the selection of a special Rollins all-star softball team to take on the nationally known "King and his Court", an art festival, and an improved array of big name entertainment will make this year's Fiesta one of the best on record.

If the students desire the continuation of Fiesta, they should support and attend the Fiesta activities.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Does the present early rush system conflict with the fundamental aims of college? It is generally accepted that it is a handicap to both freshmen and upperclassmen. Would some other system offer less interference with academic life?

Every college possessing a fraternity system is confronted with this same question. It can't be that one system is inherently better than another since colleges vary in size, dormitory facilities, and location. What then is the system best suited for Rollins?

First, let's evaluate the effects of the present rushing system. The faculty feels that too many freshman pledges are not making their 6 point average. This is verified by the large number that were unable to be initiated at the end of their pledgship year. Can the early rush and fall pledging program be improved so as to interfere less with studies — and hopefully give freshmen a stronger academic incentive?

I think such a laudable idea is unrealistic. This would require each fraternity to emphasize academic achievement, and not take up too much of the time of freshmen. It would be difficult for the fraternities to work together since they are in active competition. None of the fraternities has made any headway or even a conscientious effort in past years. This is not a new problem. It has been ruminated for at least the past 5 or 6 years.

Published weekly at Rollins College, Winter Park, Florida, by The Rollins Press, Inc. Publication office — Student Center basement. Entered as second class matter November 14, 1925, at the Post Office at Winter Park, Florida, under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription price — $4.00 two terms.

Would "delayed rush" be better suited for the Rollins campus? We will never know for certain until it is tested, and I believe this is the time to test it. Such a system would seem to be better adapted to Rollins' needs. It would achieve closer rapport with college goals and strengthen the fraternity system.

Rushing should be delayed for two terms, not just for the fall term as has been most frequently suggested. Ten or eleven weeks is really not a long delay. I feel that the pressure would still be on the fraternities to sell themselves to the freshmen. This would make it increasingly difficult to uphold and enforce rush rules. The "active" meetings each week would be drawn out into laborious sessions in an attempt to narrow down the prospective rushees. Much of this time would be wasted because many of those considered will not be eligible. Also, the sessions would tend to become more intense toward the end of the term, just at the time when examinations and other end of the term pressures are mounting. A fraternity cannot devote time to both prospective pledges and effective internal strengthening concurrently. This would only debilitate the fraternities.

Delaying rush for 2 terms would afford both freshmen and upperclassmen the opportunity to dig in while their enthusiasm is greatest. Getting off to a good start means a great deal in setting one's standards. The fraternities, rather than devoting all their efforts to rushing and pledging, might do better to concentrate on strengthening their internal affairs. Wider participation of the activities in student council, student union, other college activities, and athletics would be encouraged. Also, better coordinated pledge programs would be possible. The present pledge programs are antiquated and less purposeful than they might be.

The extra time for self evaluation and improvement would eventually lead to the fraternities playing a larger role in campus life. This I feel would bring the fraternities into a new perspective; that is, a position whereby the freshmen must prove and sell themselves to the fraternities rather than vice-versa. The fraternities, on the other hand, by being better organized, would improve their position on campus and be more attractive to freshmen. Less time would have to be devoted to "selling themselves." This would give added momentum and instill greater pride in the fraternities.

The association between freshmen and upper-classmen is an extremely important part of college life. In developing a new rush system, we must be careful not to thwart opportunities for such relationships. For this reason, I would suggest that the week prior to the beginning of classes in the fall or part of that week be organized into some sort of Greek Orientation. This would provide the opportunity for the cultivation of friendships, and for the freshmen to see and understand the role of fraternities on campus. Otherwise, the only opportunities to meet during the term would be by chance or in the classroom. Possibly some sort of continued rush could be planned on several of the weekends throughout the fall and winter terms.

In conclusion, I must admit I suffer a certain amount of ambivalence toward this program, which denotes uncertainty. A remedy must be found, and I truly feel this is the most logical and sound effort that can be made toward considering the fundamental aims of fraternities and college.

Tim Brown

Dear Editor:

In the past few weeks you have attempted to editorialize on the subject of deferred rush. While your effort is commendable the quality of your articles is not.

Your first mistake is in the statement that deferred rush was voted down. In truth deferred rush, i.e. the Lindquist plan, has never been formally voted on. The idea of delaying rush one term was not presented until after the IFC had passed and submitted its plan to the faculty.

Your second mistake was in the nature of your supporting evidence, or should I say lack of it. Deferred rush is a complicated issue. It has proved successful on some campuses and a failure on others, the University of Miami is a recent example. Rollins is a unique campus and many factors must be considered.

Instead of approaching the issue in a mature manner the Sandspur has cheapened it. Deferred rush is not a question of cowardice vs. bravery or queers vs. closets. It is an issue which strikes at the very heart of the Greek system. Deferred rush is valid only if one makes certain assumptions about the fraternity system.

Fraternities discourage scholarship on the part of their members, particularly pledges.

Rush is not a system of mutual choosing by fraternities and rushees but a period when innocent freshmen are led around by clever upperclassmen, blind and dazzled by their gimmicks and booze.

Fraternities do not encourage loyalty to the college or college athletic teams.

I vehemently disagree with each of these points made by Dean Lindquist. I feel the fraternity system contributes a great deal to Rollins and her students. Fraternities have two main reasons for encouraging scholarship: the first is a genuine concern for the individual, if he was not liked he would not have been pledged; the second is the fact that each pledge represents an investment both in terms of time and money, thus fraternities have very selfish reasons for encouraging a student to stay in school and make good grades.

The second major issue that of rush can be and is being improved by the IFC. Genuine reform not just postponement is the solution.

The final charge, that of campus apathy and lack of loyalty to the college, is the cruelest and most unjust of

ROLLINS STUDENT NOMINATED FOR BEST SUPPORTING ACTOR

This weeks spotlight falls on Rollins theater arts major Carter "Duke" Dye.

Mr. Dye makes his Hollywood debut in the upcoming movie JOHNNY TIGER, in which he is given a leading role. We were given the pleasure of a brief interview with this glamorous new star.

SPUR — Mr. Dye, what do you think about your sweeping success in JOHNNY TIGER?

DYE — Well, I always knew that my love for the theater and my hard work with the local theater group would help me reach the stars.

SPUR — Do you have any plans for the future?

DYE — Yes, all my life I have been reading movie magazines, hoping that someday I might find a place on their glorious pages. My biggest hope is that someday I can star with my favorite actress Haley Mills.

SPUR — Well, Carter, thanks for the interview and we all wish you success in your quest for the stars.

DYE — Thank you very much, I can't keep Mr. Disney waiting.

We urge all Rollins students to see Carter in JOHNNY TIGER, coming soon to the Parkwood theater.

all. Dean Lindquist referred to deferred rush as "one term away from constant apathy." The outstanding record of Greek men and women and their contributions to this college stand in sharp rebuke to this accusation. Compared to the sorry record of independents Greek men and women have much to be proud of.

In conclusion, deferred rush is nothing more than deferred fraternity. If one term free from fraternity relationships can improve grades and loyalty to the college then why not 2 terms and finally why not four years?

Woodbury Heads Music Staff

Dr. Ward Woodbury, who at 44 years of age has achieved distinguished reputation in his field, will become the new head of the department of music and director of music at Rollins College.

For the past 12 years, he has been director of music at University of Rochester. In that position, he was associate professor of music literature and conductor of the All-University Symphony Orchestra.

Dr. Woodbury also directed men's and women's Glee Clubs, marching and concert bands, music for the University Chapel and several special events such as the "Black Weekend" and the "Mozart Weekend," at University of Rochester.

This accomplished musician is also a solo pianist, and had an opportunity to demonstrate his abilities first-hand to Rollins and Central Florida musical world in early March when he was on campus as guest conductor of the 31st Bach Festival.

He was summoned to direct the huge production when Prof. Robert Hufstader became ill very suddenly and was hospitalized under orders of his physician.

Dr. Wald Woodbury

Prof. Hufstader, after 14 years as head of music activities at Rollins and of the renowned Bach Festival, resigned because of his severe illness soon after that time.

College officials, and students, who have met Dr. Woodbury are impressed with his background, personality and great enthusiasm over accepting the Rollins' appointment.

He visited the campus again a few days ago for faculty meetings and conference. The music director was glimpsed at one of the games during the Baseball Invitational Tournament when Rollins was competing against University of Rochester.

(Dr. Woodbury, who has resigned from the New York university but will not be connected with Rollins officially until Sept. 1, was not rooting for either team — at least vocally!)

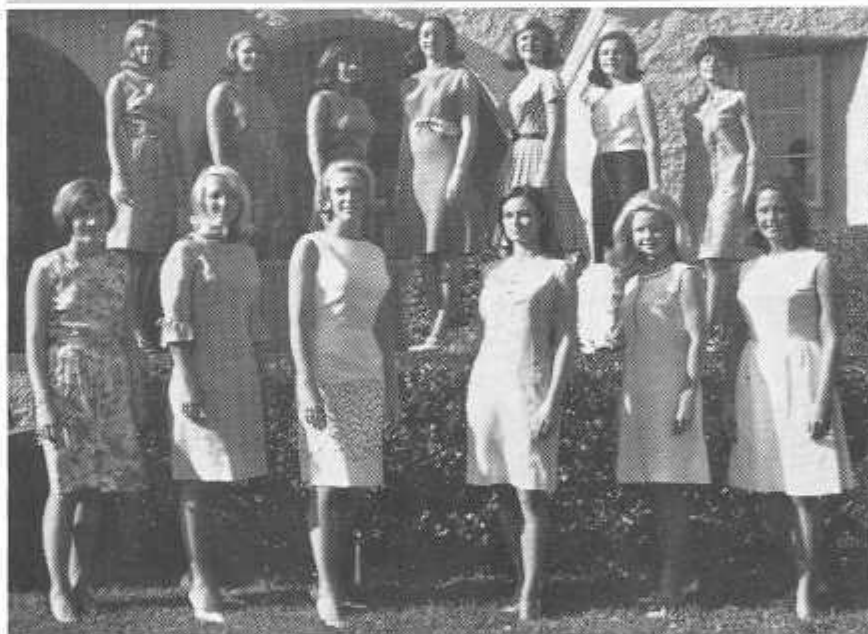

A native of Colorado, Dr. Woodbury has three academic degrees including a Ph.D. in music education. Before becoming affiliated with University of Rochester, he was assistant director and conductor of the opera department at Eastman School of Music.

He is equally at home in conducting orchestral, operatic and oratorical works, has several publications to his credit, has traveled in Europe and produced an hour-long film entitled "Vienna — City of Music."

Dr. Woodbury is married and the father of three children.

Gulf Oil Gives 1,000 To Rollins

Jack Bruda, Orlando district manager, Gulf Oil Corporation, presented a check for $1,000 to President Hugh McKean, Rollins College. The grant is his company's ninth gift to the college. Rollins was one of the colleges and universities to receive the grant under Gulf's aid-to-education program for independent colleges. President McKean announced it would be used for faculty salaries.

Student Council Reports

By Bill MacLennan

Rep. Fred Gitte's once controversial constitutional amendment to strip the class presidents of their legislative vote was passed with barely a whimper of protest at the last regular Student Legislature meeting of the Winter Term (March 14). The 15-6 vote, taken after the legislative rank and file quashed a move by President Chuck Olsen to table the amendment, came on the heels of the Indie leader's much talked about two week filibuster and the Student's Association's leadership retreat at the Pelican. The discussion of the issue engendered by the filibuster and retreat apparently persuaded more than a few legislators that the once defeated and potentially revolutionary amendment was deserving of passage.

In other actions taken by the March 14th session, several substantial allocations of funds were approved, a constitutional amendment rewording the description of the powers and functions of the Upper Court was passed, and an amendment to the constitution concerning the organization of the Fiesta Committee was introduced and tabled. The allocations made were for Sandspur and SA Executive Board salaries. The only surprise was a boost in the President's salary to $400 per annum (vs. $250 for Vice-President and $225 for Secretary and Comptroller). This increase was made, according to its supporters, to bring the salary of the Rollins Student Body President up to the level recommended by SUSGA (Southern University Student Government Association).

The constitutional amendment concerning the Upper Court rewords the description of that judicial body's powers and functions to indicate its responsibility as well as right to review the operations of the Student Association and to make recommendations concerning student government to the faculty. Passage was virtually unopposed. The amendment may yet gain spirited opposition, however, since Indie Rep. Fred Gittes is reported to be planning a test case based on the amendment to establish the principle of judicial review, a concept which has always been controversial in campus politics.

The constitutional amendment concerning the make up of the Fiesta Committee is designed to increase legislative control over that group and reads as follows: "The chairman of this committee and three members at large from the student body shall be appointed by the Executive President of the Student Association during the Spring term with the approval of the legislature. One representative elected by each social group and one independent man and one independent woman shall serve on the committee beginning in the Fall term. There shall be two faculty members and one administrative member appointed by the President of the College who shall serve from the Spring term. The function of this committee shall be the overall planning, coordination, and responsibility of the entire Fiesta week-end in accordance with College regulations."

March 28 Session

The first legislative meeting of the new term was marked by an absence of any major business. In a number of minor actions, the campus solons approved a $75 (per annum) salary for Lower Court Clerk Sabra Whiting, untabled and passed a motion extending the Friday night hours for upper class women to 1 a.m. Saturday, and tabled a motion by Bill Blackburn for the Student Association to contribute $250 to the Rollins Concert Series. The Blackburn motion was made in response to a memorandum from College Vice-President John Tiedtke suggesting that the Legislature allocate $1 or $2 per student from the Student Association fee to help support the concert series.

April 4 Session

Monday's meeting of the Legislature opened with most of the legislators present expecting a quick and non-controversial session dominated by minor details of student government. After the usual committee reports and the passage of a $250 allocation for the Rollins Concert Series (above), however, Dean of Women Sarah Howden and Sandspur Editor Fred Suarez hit the representatives with two surprise money requests. Howden asked that next year's budget include an allocation for the Freshman Class "to finance dances, ping pong tables", and other recreational facilities for the frosh. The "Pink Palace" official's suggestion was greeted by massive opposition and failed for lack of a motion or a second.

Sandspur Editor Fred Suarez then requested an additional allocation for his paper. Suarez claimed that the budget prepared by his predecessor, Steve Combs, was based on an overly optimistic estimation of revenue and that a large deficit had thus resulted when anticipated revenues failed to materialize.

The next legislative session will be Tuesday, March 12, and will be highlighted by the installation of the newly elected Executive Board officials.

Rehearsals for the new play, A Song For Rollins, have started. The play is written and directed by Wilbur Dorsett.

Start Of Rollins Told In A Song For Rollins

By Sheri Bickley

While Waiting For Godot is in its last stage of rehearsal at the Fred Stone Theater, a different type of play is in rehearsal at the Annie Russell. This play is A Song For Rollins, a play with music, written and directed by Wilbur Dorsett.

Many people have been asking exactly what A Song For Rollins is all about and who is in it. Well, A Song for Rollins tells the story of the beginning of Rollins. The play revolves mainly around the characters of Lucy Cross, Dr. Hooker, Frederick W. Lyman, Alonzo W. Rollins, and other founders, and their fight to get the college for Winter Park. It also conveys the struggle to keep Rollins going for the first decade.

A Song For Rollins, though, is not a dry show. It is a lot of fun. The play also portrays some of the student's side of life in the "Gay 90's." An example of this is the last scene in the play, which features the Dinky train. In this particular scene Miles C. (Chappie) McDonnell sings "The Dinky Song".

Other than Chappie who is a familiar faculty face around campus, many of the original cast will be in this revival, which was first presented for the 75th anniversary of Rollins in 1961. Some of the original cast will be familiar faces to many of the students.

The cast, which now consists of over fifty people, is rehearsing daily in the Annie Russell. Members of the cast include not only students from Rollins but students from Continuing Studies and Creative Arts, Faculty and Staff members and wives, staff children, Alumni, and other members of the community.

The students in the cast include: Sandra Foster, Chris Kelly, Barbara Parks, Ladd Levis, Erich Sippel, Jeanne Hardy, Victoria Klingel, Kay Bower, Nancy Butler, Penny Odell, Jane Kibler, Ed Maxcy, Roger Miller, and Fred Schert.

Other students are Debbie Eberle, Pam Cole, Kathy Ashley, Colleen Pope, Valerie Palmer, and Helene Guggenheim.

The Faculty, staff members, wives, and children include: William Fletcher, John Hamilton, Lydia Dorsett, Robert Juergens, Cary Ser, Theodore Darrah, Miles McDonnell, Marion Folsom, Nina Oliver Dean, Mary McWalters, Doreen Jones, Nair Lockamy, and Ellen Emerson. The children include: Mary Dorsett, Chappie McDonnell, Douglas Emerson, and Kristin Juergens.

Alumni who will be appearing are Ann Derflinger, Winifred MacCardell Flood, Kit Johnson Rutledge, and David Lindeman. Paul T. Flood, Peroival Bigger, William Keeley, B. Y. Pennington, and Stan Hull will appear from the community.

Special guest appearances will be made by President and Mrs. McKean.

A Song For Rollins is to be presented in the Annie Russell Theater on Thursday, April 21, and Friday, April 22, at 8:30 p.m. These two performances are free to the college and the public. A special performance will be given on Saturday, April 23, at 2:30 p.m. for the Rollins Alumni, as part of their reunion weekend.

This particular show, A Song For Rollins, is shown usually only once during every students' career at Rollins. Let's make an effort and support it. It should be a lot of fun, and certainly unlike anything else you would ever see that has contributed to make Rollins what it is.

Two Veterans Of Viet Nam Here To Speak On Conflict With VC

Rollins College will be the honored host to two very distinguished Americans on the 11th and 12th of April. They are Capt. Michael J. Dugan and Capt. Lawrence L. Reed, both of whom are returning veterans of Viet Nam. Reed and Dugan are currently stationed at Hurlburt Field in Florida and are assigned to the Special Air Warfare Center of the Tactical Air Command, under the command of General Gilbert L. Pritchard.

The purpose of their visit will be to inform the students of the attitudes of our fighting men in the Viet Nam conflict and to relate their observations and experiences while in the combat area. The Captains will speak to the student body on Monday, April 11, at 7:30 in the Union. They will also be available to talk with interested students on Tuesday, April 12, between 10:00 and noon in the Alumni House.

The Veterans are being brought to the campus by the Board of Managers of the Rollins College Student Union, and through the courtesy of the United States Air Force. This should prove to be an extremely interesting discussion of a most timely topic, and we urge everyone to be there.

Captain Dugan, on temporary duty from Hurlburt to Vietnam, distinguished himself by meritorious achievement while participating in sustained aerial flight as a combat crew member from April 8, 1965, to May 1, 1965, in Southeast Asia. During this period Captain Dugan earned the Air Medal for his outstanding airman-ship and courage in the successful accomplishments of important combat support missions under extremely hazardous conditions including the continuous possibility of hostile ground fire. His efforts contributed materially to the tactical air mission of the United States Air Force in Southeast Asia. Captain Reed was awarded the Second Oak Leaf Cluster to the Distinguished Flying Cross while participating in aerial flight as a forward controller in support of the 31st Ranger Battalion, Army of the Republic of Viet-Nam, Oct. 15, 1965.

Don Burnett, Harvard's second affirmative speaker, cleverly and humorously attempted to shift the burden of proof to the negative team when he tried to point out that when Mr. Gittes speech was a "no comment" one. Mr. Burnett also reiterated the affirmative need (dissent causes intentional misunderstanding which could lead to war) and the affirmative plan to close Senate hearing and limit mass meetings and demonstrations.

Norm Friedland, in fine form and equal to the challenge from the shrewd Burnett, again pointed out that public dissent was necessary to form an intelligent public policy. He asked why we should believe that the professional foreign diplomats who the affirmative claimed were so expert are so confused by our well known system of minority freedom; noted in comment from Henry Commagge which proved that any misunderstanding in our foreign policies comes from secrecy rather than from open debate; and again showed how the status quo provides for meeting any real threat to national security.

In the rebuttal speeches, the Rollins team continued to demand evidence that 1. foreign nations are as confused as the Affirmative claims and 2. that the plan could actually limit dissent, that such limitation would be beneficial, and that status quo does already provide for the Affirmative plan. After lengthy deliberation, judges Chappie McDonnell, William Roland and Richard Trismer all Orlando lawyers, rendered two to one decision in favor of Rollins.

Moderating the affair with control and dignity was Professor Fletcher, while the whole show was under the auspices of the Rollins Speakers Bureau. This third annual Rollins-Harvard Debate puts the score at two-one in favor of Rollins. Next year's battle, if on the plane of excellence of Wednesday's event, shouldn't be missed.

Honors Series Discusses Literature

By Erich Sippel

Last week's Honors Series lecture was delivered Monday by English Professor Marion Folsom. He spoke on "Man in Literature." "Projecting the image of man is the goal of literature," said Folsom. Maintaining that "the doctrine that this picture of man is not present in anything but twentieth century literature is pure heresy," Professor Folsom examined the "literary tradition" of the west.

He first discussed the literature of the ancient Greeks, and using Homer's Illiad as an example, showed that their literature was "man-centered" because it inspires respect for the individual and exalts the dignity of man.

The medieval period, on the other hand, was "God-centered" rather than "man-centered," said Folsom. Such writers as Chaucer and Dante attempted to "reconcile Christianity with Greco-Roman thought."

In the Renaissance, literature was more secular than the literature of the middle ages had been. Renaissance writers placed the king in the position of prominence that medieval writers had given God. However, they believed in a "chain of being" in which the reason of man, and more particularly, the reason of the king brought man in accord with God. It is this belief that accounts for the optimism of Renaissance writers.

Professor Folsom

Professor Folsom then turned from the history of literature to a discussion of man in contemporary writing. "Contemporary man is in the position of knowing too much but being unable to keep up with the social, religious, and political developments of his time." This, said Folsom, is reflected best in twentieth-century poetry.

"The twentieth-century poet," said Folsom, "is in a paradoxical position. He at once has more freedom and less freedom than poets had in the past."

He is free in his choice of subject matter than poets at any other time have been. He is often concerned with subjects such as science, politics, political protest, or protest against a mechanized society that poets before our age seldom wrote about. The modern poet is "concerned with the inner voice and inner life" to an extent that poets before our century never were.

In addition, there have been technical literary advances in the last few years that have given poets more freedom than they have ever known before. Free verse, with its freedom of rhythm and rhyme scheme, has become extremely popular since the First World War. In addition, poetic diction has radically changed in the last few years. "The language of ordinary life has become accepted by the poet," said Folsom. "He is as free to choose his words as he is to choose his subject matter."

On the other hand, said Professor Folsom, there have been some restrictions placed on poetry in modern times which never existed before.

For example, poets today are generally connected with the academic environment of college and universities. In this environment, maintained Folsom, "the classic becomes the common-place, the poet becomes the critic, and the audience of poetry and the function of the critic is undermined."

However, Folsom maintained, there is a group of "beat" poets not connected with the academic community which represents a vital force in poetry because they act as a balance against the "academic" poets. Their main contribution to poetry, said Folsom, is that, with their rhythmic poetry read to jazz accompaniment, they have "opened up a new lyric in poetry." However, warned Folsom, they may become as radical in their nonconformity as the academicians are on the opposite side of the scale. "What we need," said Folsom, "is the poet who can both sing and think."

Crummer School Team Awarded First Place

The Crummer School of Finance and Business Administration recently earned first place industry honors in the Intercollegiate Business Game and Conference held in Atlanta, at Emory University. This is the first time a team from Rollins has entered a competition of this type. The four man team competed against thirty-eight different schools throughout the Southeast.

The "game" was a simulated business environment which covered a theoretical period of three years. The team received financial statements of a company and on the basis of these statements was required to submit their quarterly decisions. The decisions the team made were on the price of the product, the productive size of their plant, their budgets for advertising, research, capital investment and the size of the dividends paid. This information was sent to Emory twice weekly for a period of a month before the conference. At Emory this information was fed into an IBM 1620 Computer which was programmed to simulate the reaction of the economy. The results of each decision were teletyped back to Rollins the next day.

In addition to making their final decision at Emory the team took part in several conferences, seminars and interviews with noted business men and educators. The conference was sponsored by the Atlanta Sales and Marketing Executives Inc., who also hosted the teams at a banquet and sales rally. The Central Florida Sales and Marketing Executives, Inc., sponsored the local team's transportation to the conference. The team was also helped by Dynatronics Inc., Friden Corp., W. P. Telephone Co., and the Southern Bell System.

The handsome trophy awarded the team is now on display in President McKean's office and will be placed on display in Crummer Hall, the new home of the Crummer School of Finance and Business Administration now under construction. The members of the team that competed in Atlanta were Jerry Gnazzo, Jim Ackerman, John Turner, and Roger Badgett, all first year students in their masters degree work in the Crummer School. The faculty advisor was Dr. P. H. Ragan.

The winning team was judged on a basis of their performance in sales volume, percentage of market share and adherence to their operating objectives. At the conclusion of play an oral presentation was made to a group of prominent Atlanta businessmen.

Since their return the team has been honored by a special luncheon with the president and were the guests of the Central Florida Sales and Marketing Executives at their monthly dinner and meeting at the Orlando Country Club. They have been interviewed on WPRK and WDBO.

Rollins' Intramural Softball All-Star Team

Tar Softball All-Stars Meet World Champs Here Saturday

The King of Softball, Eddie Feigner, and his 4-man team visit Rollins to play the Rollins All-Stars at 3 p.m. Saturday at Varner Stadium in Orlando.

Feigner has compiled so fantastic a record that it would be impossible to list it here. It is enough to say that out of 3,148 games Feigner has pitched, he has won 2,855.

He has appeared on numerous sport and TV shows. When he wants to really throw hard, it's even hard to see the ball, much less hit it anywhere.

To counter this amazing pitcher, Rollins has selected an All-Star team of intramural players. A starting line-up has not been selected, but on past performance, it will probably look like this:

1st Base — Tom Sacha — a Sigma Nu with a good hitting eye and adequate fielding.

2nd Base — Jack Zimmerman — Sigma Nu — sure handed fielder with good range and hard man to get out, we hope.

Shortstop — Barry Milner — Delta Chi — good fielder, hitter and thrower. Steady all around player.

3rd Base — John Kilian — Lambda Chi — excellent hitter with strong throwing arm and adequate fielding.

Left Field — Scotty Green — X Club — good all-around player who can play any position with finesse.

Center Field — Jim Ackerman — Lambda Chi — Experienced ball player with good hitting eye and throwing arm. Can play any position.

Right Field — Millard Nixon

— Sigma Nu — excellent punch hitter despite his size. Fast and the strongest throwing arm in the league.

Catcher — Bob Heineman — Sigma Nu — good receiver, hits with power and excellent arm against base runners.

Pitcher — Bill Jackson — Sigma Nu — lost only 3 games in 2 years. Throws hard with something on the ball. Also a good hitter, with power.

General consensus among the players is that a foul ball off Feigner will be something to talk about. However, if Feigner doesn't pitch because of his devout religious views, Rollins could possibly win over Joe Mason, provided Jackson can pitch "against them, instead of to them."

This game should be interesting. Come on out and support your All-Star team, they'll probably need it.

Waiting For Godot Opens At Fred Stone

By Sheri Bickley

Samuel Beckett's Waiting for Godot, directed by Mr. Robert Juergens, is the next play to be presented by the Rollins Players and it will be presented in the Fred Stone Theater. This particular play is fascinating, and should be of interest to many students. Waiting for Godot comprises an entirely male cast, and the play itself is basically concerned with two men, two bums.

Of all the plays that have been done this year, Godot is perhaps the most challenging. Beckett is certainly one of the most interesting of the new breed of contemporary playwrights. This play has been carefully examined not only by theater buffs, but by intellectuals in the literary field and certainly by theologians. Two men are on a road that should lead them somewhere, but they are not sure where. They are waiting for Godot to tell them. The controversial question in this play concerns the figure of Godot, who, some interpret as never existing or never appearing in the play.

Luis Barroso and Bill McNulty head this cast as the two bums. Their performance should be interesting to everyone. Beckett has also injected some delicious humor into the play.

Tickets will be on sale in the Beanery. Listen for the announcements, because I don't think that anyone will want to miss this play.

The King and His Court

Olson Discusses Issues

This past week, the Student Council held its annual elections. As I write this article I do not as yet know who the winner is; however, I am not too concerned about the winner since I know that both presidential candidates are qualified and will do a good job in their elected position.

I am concerned, however, about the interest which has been shown by the students. It appears to me that the students just did not care who was elected. Also, their choice was very small for all executive positions. Only two people ran for president, one person ran for vice-president, two people ran for secretary, and one person ran for comptroller. Is this the only interest the students have in the body which governs and speaks for them? Are there only six people in the entire school that are capable enough to fill these four positions? I hardly think so. Then, why such a small turn out of candidates? In many schools, the four executive officers are overloaded with candidates who want to run. In many instances the qualifications for these offices are much stiffer than those of Rollins. And yet, we could only find six people out of one thousand who cared to run. Certainly the qualifications are not difficult to meet. A person only needs a 7.0 cumulative average and he must have attended ten student council meetings. For anyone with any initiative these qualifications are almost ridiculously easy to fulfill. Yet even when we had a panel discussion and had speeches by the candidates last Tuesday night the turnout was poor. We had only fifty to seventy-five students in attendance.

We had one faculty member. I must say that interest is keen on this Rollins campus. Here is a meeting which was open to all and yet attendance was poor. Here were people who are going to be your spokesmen for the entire year. Here were people who are going to handle $53,600.00 of your money, and yet, only eighty people, at the most, turned out.

If this is the attitude Rollins is going to take towards its Student Association; I do not think it is worthwhile to have it. I say this very seriously because I know the time and effort an individual puts into his work in order to make things run as they should. Therefore, if the Student Association does not have the cooperative effort from the students, then it should no longer exist.

I have been at Rollins for four years now, and this is the smallest amount of candidates we have ever had.

And yet I know that the workings of the association will continue since we do have these few interested students. They will do their best for you at all times. They will give up their time for you, and they will make sacrifices for you because they believe the students should have a voice in matters of importance.

Therefore, I hope that each and every one of you will give this new executive board your full cooperation at all times. They need support from you if they are to do a good job. This new executive board will accomplish much, I am sure. I wish them the best of luck in all of their dealings next year.

And finally let me personally thank each and every one of the students that I have worked with these past two years, for it was through their efforts that I accomplished many of my goals and plans. It certainly has been a privilege and an honor and pleasure to serve you. It is an experience that I shall remember forever.

TAR NETTERS STAY UNBEATEN

By Rick Strauss
Sports Staff

The Rollins tennis team has recently completed its "Tennis Week" with an impressive eight straight wins in a period of six days, thus boosting the consecutive win streak to 16 — the longest since 1948-1949 seasons.

The Tar netters blasted Columbia University right off the court with an 8-1 win Monday and then swept Tuesday's doubleheader against Duke (6-3) and Davidson (6-0 then rain). Last year the Davidson team from North Carolina gave Rollins a real battle in a tight 5-4 win by the Tars, but added strength down the line proved too overwhelming for Davidson this year. Both matches were played in a steady downpour.

Wednesday, the squad blanked Hope College of Holland, Mich., 9-0. None of the players in either singles or doubles was extended further than 6-4 in any set.

Niels Menko (R) def. Craig Workman 6-2, 6-2

Bob McCannon (R) def. Lance Stell 6-0, 6-2

Cliff Montgomery
... unbeaten

Cliff Montgomery (R) def. Jack Schrier 6-3, 6-3

Chick Hafley (R) def. Ron Visscher 6-1, 6-1

Jim Griffith (R) def. Jeff Jorgenson 6-0, 6-1

Dick Foltmann (R) def. Craig Holleman 6-3, 6-2

Menko and Pete Cowin (R) def. Workman-Stell 6-2, 6-1

Bill Kinne and Uck Starbuck (R) def. Schrier-Visscher 6-0, 6-4

Ira Gordon and Dennis Milner (R) def. Jorgenson-Green 6-1, 6-0

Thursday morning's match saw Rollins facing Amherst College from Amherst, Mass. The Tars well remembered how the Amherst squad had beaten them in a controversial match last season. This year it was Rollins sweeping six singles and finally downing Amherst 7-2. Later that afternoon the Rollins team wiped out the Hope squad once again by a 9-0 margin.

Friday afternoon's match with Davidson proved to be the most windswept of the week. Even under those adverse conditions, coach Harry Fogelman's Davidson squad managed only to win one singles and one doubles match thus giving Rollins its 4th victory over Davidson in two years.

The final match of tennis week against Columbia proved to be one of the most exciting for Niels Menko as he went three long sets with Steve Gottlieb. A total of 46 games were played as Menko narrowly defeated his opponent 6-4, 7-9, 11-9. Other scores were:

McCannon (R) def. Ganbenmuller 6-2, 6-1

Montgomery (R) def. Naison 6-2, 6-3

Hawley (R) def. Baumgold 5-0 and then default due to injury

Griffith (R) def. Bertche 6-1, 6-1

Woltmann (R) def. Hillman 6-1, 6-4

Hawley and Cowin (R) def. Naison-Gottlieb 4-6, 6-4, 6-3

Starbuck-Kinne (R) def. Ganzenmuller-Baumgold 6-2, 6-3

Bertche-Hillman (C) def. Gordon-Milner 6-2, 4-6, 6-2

This was the fourth time in two years Rollins has defeated the Columbia team by an 8-1 margin.

Three important statistics are quite worth noting here: 1. The longest winning streak in 17 years. At that time Rollins had been unbeaten for 2 seasons and were national champions with Norm Copeland as one of the team members. 2. The singles winning percentage thus far is a spectacular .906 having won a total of 87 of a possible 96 singles points: 3. And worth watching, freshmen Cliff Montgomery and Jim Griffith are yet to be beaten in intercollegiate competition. Both the number 3 and 5 men respectively have won 16 straight, a record equalled last season by Bob McCannon until he met Frank Tutvin from the powerful University of Miami squad.

Looking towards the future, the team sees 3 tough matches ahead of them: Notre Dame, Florida State University and the ever powerful University of Miami Hurricanes. Next week will be another version of tennis week as the Tars schedule lists:

Apr. 11 Oglethorpe

12 Notre Dame

13 Furman

14 Stetson

15 St. Leo

16 First annual F.I.C. Tournament

All matches, with the exception of Saturday's tourney, will begin at 2:00 p.m.; while the F.I.C. championship will start at 9 a.m.

Netters Blank Mid. Tennessee

The Rollins tennis team won its 17th straight Wednesday by blanking Middle Tennessee State 9-0. Both Jim Griffith and Cliff Montgomery extended their winning streaks to 17 with Montgomery completing his 14 games in just under 45 minutes.

The Tennessee squad was undefeated with wins over such teams as DePauw, University of the South and Vanderbilt. As can be seen in the summary, the Tar netters had little trouble in the singles, then breezed through all three doubles.

Singles

Menko def. Prevost 6-3, 6-0

Sigma Nu won the basketball title by defeating the Faculty-Grads by the wide margin of 82-69 late last term. Sigma Nu, winner of the season title was awarded the trophy with the victory over the Faculty-Grads, who won the post-season tournament.

This game started off just like the finish of the tournament game. The score was tied at the end of the first quarter 16-16. Both Fred Suarez and George Filippone got hot, and the half ended with Sigma Nu in the lead 42-30.

The beginning of the second half saw the Faculty close the gap to 42-36, but a basket by Suarez stopped the threat. Sigma Nu maintained at least a 13 point lead the rest of the game.

Boyd Coffie edged Fred Suarez for scoring honors by 2 points, 37-35. He scored 25 of these in the second half. At one stretch he scored 18 straight for the Faculty-Grads.

However, three of the Sigma

Nu's players had four personal fouls and were forced to play cautious defense. Only Jack Lindquist was in foul trouble for the Faculty, picking up his fourth before halftime.

Lindquist scored 23 for the Faculty, while George Filippone aided the Sigma Nu cause with 21 points. Dave Ernsberger and Mike Miller made up the difference by controlling both boards.

Sigma Nu concluded the season with a 12 and one loss record. Suarez took the league's scoring honors with 28.6 points a game. Filippone and Ernsberger paced the Snakes the entire season with strong rebounding, followed closely by Miller and Bill Jackson. According to Coach Alex Sulzycki, while smoking his victory cigar, "The boys played hard and deserved the trophy."

Nixon, Siemer Named To FIC Cage 'Stars

Tar cagers Millard Nixon and Ed Siemer are among 13 players selected to the all-Florida Intercollegiate Conference squad by league coaches.

Ranking fifth in scoring and fourth in rebounding with 15.3 point and 9.7-rebound averages, Nixon was named to the second team. Siemer, number-two rebounder in the conference with an 11-grab mark, received honorable mention.

Siemer placed seventh in the FIC scoring race with a 15-point tally and ranked sixth in foul shooting with 68.2% of his shots while Nixon finished tenth in both field goal and free throw accuracy with 45.8% and 55.2% respectively.

Guard Bob Chandler rated ninth in foul shooting with a 59.5% mark and 11th in scoring at 12.2 points per game, but no other Tar finished in the league's top ten in any department.

Except for off-games all three Tars would have rated higher in league statistics. Nixon could tally only four points in one meeting with Florida Southern, while Siemer registered just two points against Stetson Dec. 1 and Chandler hit for only five versus Stetson Jan. 15.

The Tars, who finished last in the four-team conference, placed fourth in every offensive and defensive category.

Runnerup Florida Southern led in all team statistics, except defense and foul shooting, where league leader Stetson prevailed. Moccasins also garnered all individual honors but scoring, which was taken by Tampa's Dick Pusins.

Bob Jenkins and Walt Kilcullen of Stetson, Mike Huber and Dan Doherty of Florida Southern and Pusins were named to the FIC first team.

Joining Nixon on the second squad are Stetson's Steve Buchanan and Ronnie Moore, Southern's Jim Hayes and Tampa's Wayne Harden. Chris Wacenske and Vic Thixton of Tampa also gained honorable mention.

Tar Nine Opens FIC Play

Rollins Wins Five For Tourney Title

Behind stingy pitching Rollins took the Baseball Week tourney for the first time since 1961, dumping Rochester and defending champion Princeton twice and splitting a pair with Maine.

Sophomore righty Jack Ceccarelli and freshman southpaw Gale Coleman shutout Rochester (5-0) and Maine (6-0) respectively to get the Tars started, then Charles Schoene pitched shutout relief to earn a 7-2 win over Princeton.

Starting over again, the Tar nine stretched its winning string to 12 as Joe Lasorsa blanked Rochester 3-0. After Maine and Princeton tied Friday, assuring Rollins of the title, the Tars lost their first game in two weeks to Maine 5-0 behind sophomore Gordon Engstrom.

Bouncing back, the Tars handed Princeton its third loss of the tourney, 5-2, as Schoene again won with a shutout relief stint.

In the opening victory over Rochester Ceccarelli scattered five hits and fanned eight, outdueling Yellow Jacket right Bob Klimasewski. Tar shortstop Pedro Fonts broke out of a slump with three hits and three RBI to spark the attack.

Coleman permitted only one hit enroute to the rain-shortened win over Maine. Returning to hitting form, the Tar regulars belted nine hits off 1964 World Series hero Joe Ferris, routing him in the fifth. Coleman drove in a pair to help himself, while Chuck Olsen and Bob Schabes garnered two hits each.

After spotting defending champion Princeton a pair of first inning runs, the Tars unleashed a nine-hit attack as they scored three in the second and four in the sixth for a 7-2 win.

Charles Schoene got starter Ed McNair out of a bases-loaded jam in the third, then shutout the Tigers on one hit the rest of the way to pick up his first win of the season.

Bob Chandler, Chuck Olsen, and Gordy Lynch banded two singles each, while McNair drove in a pair with a single in the second.

Stretching their winning streak to 12 games, the Tars shutout Rochester again 3-0 behind freshman righty Joe Lasorsa. Lasorsa struck out six and yielded only three safeties.

Chuck Olsen belted a trio of hits, including a triple, and Bob Gustafson and Chandler registered two safeties each. Tom Flagg belted a solo homerun in the fifth.

Maine sophomore Gordon Engstrom halted Rollins' win string with a five-hit 5-0 shutout the following day. Maine took advantage of Jack Ceccarelli's wildness to post three first frame tallies, then wrapped the game up with single runs in the seventh and ninth.

Rollins never got a runner past second, but wrapped up the crown anyway as Rochester knocked off Princeton, 5-1.

In the tourney finale the Tars jumped on Princeton starter John Redpath for four first inning runs, then hung on for a 5-2 decision behind Schoene's three-hit relief from the first frame.

Schoene earned his second win of the tourney, both against Princeton in relief. Chuck Olsen paced the Tar attack with two hits and two RBI.

The Tars take a 14-4 record into Wednesday's opener with the Hatters in DeLand. Rollins hosts the Hatters in a twinbill at Harper-Shepherd Field, beginning at 1:30 p.m. Saturday. Meanwhile the two other FIC squads, Tampa and Florida Southern, square off.

During the following two weeks the Tars take on Tampa and defending FIC champ FSC.

As a team the Tars are batting at a .315 clip through the Harvard series with five of eight starters over the coveted .300 mark. Sophomore rightfielder Bob Schabes leads the hit parade at .407, while catcher Chuck Olsen (.396) and leftfielder Bob Gustafson (.395) battle for the runnerup spot.

Intercollegiate football returns to the Rollins campus during Fiesta as Rollins' intramural All-Stars meet Stetson University's best gridders for the mythical Central Florida title at 3:30 p.m. Thursday on the Sandspur Bowl.

The 17-man Tar contingent was selected by the players in the Sand spur's first annual poll last fall and includes players from Sigma Nu, TKE, KA, Delta Chi, Lambda Chi and the Faculty-Grads.

However, four first team starters, ends Pedro Fonts and Boyd Gruhn, center Ed McNair and defensive back Bob Gustafson, plus second team pick Rick Shotwell, a rusher, were ruled ineligible because of varsity baseball restrictions.

Heading the Tar gridders are player-coaches Boyd Coffie and Jack Lindquist of fifth-place Faculty-Grads. Replacing the baseball players in the starting lineups will be Lindquist and Jack Zimmerman at ends, Jim Ehle at center, Bob Lewis at defensive back and Pete Cowin in Fonts' linebacking slot.

The Rollins passing offense will have Steve Ward of KA and Coffie alternating at quarterback with league scoring leader Chuck Thomas of league champion Delta Chi, Lindquist and Zimmerman as top targets.

Rounding out the offensive team are Ehle and blocking backs Gene Shippen and Brian Payne. Defensively the Tars have rushers Rick Maltby and Dan Pincetich, linebackers Bob Heineman and Cowin and backs Lewis, Zimmerman and Coffie.

Jack Ceccarelli pitched a six-hitter, fanning 13 batters, and his teammates unleashed a powerful 16-hit assault as the Tars avenged a pair of 1965 defeats with a big win over the nationally ranked Yellow Jackets.

Bob Schabes and Chuck Olsen guided the Rollins barrage with two hits and three RBI apiece. Tom Flagg, Bob Gustafson, Don Phillips, Gordy Lynch and Pedro Fonts also collected a pair of safeties. Scoring three runs, Flagg capped the day with his first collegiate homerun, a 360-foot solo blast in the seventh.

bases-loaded one-out situation in the sixth.

A walk to Bob Gustafson and singles by Bob Chandler and Bob Schabes produced the winning tally in the first. Gordy Lynch tripled home Chandler, who singled twice in the game, with an insurance run in the eighth.

Dorman Barron, playing in the place of injured Bob Gustafson, and Gordy Lynch banged three hits each to pace a 15-hit attack. Don Phillips, Bob Chandler and Bob Schabes contributed a pair of safeties.

Tar Crews Defeat LaSalle, Ala.

By Skip Carlson

Rollins' junior varsity crew displayed its potential on Lake Maitland last Saturday. Edging the previously unbeaten LaSalle College JV by a foot.

Crossing 1 3/16 mile course in six minutes, the Tars nipped LaSalle by a tenth of a second with the University of Alabama Rowing Club of Huntsville a distant third.

The Tar JV made up a half-length deficit in the final 20 strokes to gain their second victory in six outings.

In the varsity event Rollins closed fast to finish a quarter of a length behind the LaSalle crew, 5:54.7-5:55.7. Alabama was again far back. The Tar varsity is winless in six races.

The Tars began the 13/16 mile race rowing a stroke of 37 to LaSalle's 44. Within 30 strokes Rollins fell two seats behind but LaSalle never pulled more than seven seats in front. Rollins, stroked by Fred Rossiter, averaged 35-36 strokes per minute, while the visitors used a 37-38 strokes per minute count.

Thursday Marietta overpowered both the Tar varsity and JV, dropping the varsity by three lengths—5:36 to 5:48—and the JV by nearly five lengths—5:33 to 5:52.

Rollins JV dumped Amherst two weeks ago, but the varsity lost to the Lord Jeffs by about half a length, 5:49 to 5:51.

According to racing tradition, the losing oarsmen in a race give their rowing jerseys to the men rowing the spot in the winning boats.

So far this year, Rollins' junior varsity has collected three shirts to none for the varsity.

Tar coach Jim Lyden has just initiated a new and extremely strenuous training program until May 10, the departure date for Rollins' trip to the Dad Vail Regatta.

Another regatta is slated April 30, when the Tar shells defend their state titles in Tampa. Rollins' varsity has won the state crown for six straight seasons.

Until Saturday's race coach Lyden has experimented with the varsity and junior varsity boatings, trying to develop the fastest combination. Now Lyden feels the varsity shell is ready and that more practice and training will result in a winning crew.

"The Florida Southern race two weeks away will be the crucial point in Rollins' rowing season. A victory in this race would bolster Tar chances for the state crown and give Rollins momentum toward the Dad Vail College division title," according to Lyden.

Southern coach Bill Daniels has developed the best FSC crew in ten years.

One thing the crew desperately needs is support! Lack of student interest has hurt the crew's performance and better support would send the Tars back atop the college rowing ranks.

Next Saturday the Tars take on the unbeaten Jacksonville crew at 11:30 a.m. on Lake Maitland. If you come, you will see the Tars win!
