MUCK RAKIN'

Editor
The Sandspur
Sir:

Having received your invitation to express views and vent anger, pleasure, or confusion, I would like to take advantage of your offer.

I recently attended a small county fair. Several farmers of this county had brought livestock to sell. I refer specifically to pigs. The pigs remained on general display for a couple of days after which they were judged to see which pig would win a title. The pigs were paraded before the judges after being weighed. Of course, before going before the judges every pig was made to look his spiffiest in hopes that the judges would notice.

Still more recently I attended a Rollins "student mixer". There were no pigs present, yet I was strongly reminded of a livestock display. Perhaps my analogy is a misinterpretation -- could the judges have been paraded before the pigs?

Respectfully,
Vickie Powell

Ed Note: You have some good ideas, but what suggestions can you make for improvement? -- G.K.

Mr. Gil Klein

Dear Mr. Klein:

I wish to inform you of a Rollins student demonstration.

The Rollins Student Association, and the student body as a whole, have demonstrated constructive and welcome responsibility in their unsolicited gift of $5,000.00 for improvement of the physical facilities of the Mills Memorial Library.

This demonstration justifies the faith of the Faculty in the students' willingness and wish to join the administrative officers, the Board of Trustees, and the Faculty in moving the College in the direction it must go if it is to become a positive force in future affairs of the academic community and the community of men at large.

As Chairman of the Library Committee I wish to express our gratitude not only to Mr. Diego de la Guardia and Mr. Joe DiPierro, student members of the Committee, but to the student body as a whole.

I sincerely hope the administrative officers and the Board of Trustees will give the Library and the College the same kind of responsive and responsible demonstration which the students have taken the initiative to show.

Sincerely yours,
Dr. John Bowen Hamilton,
Chairman
Mills Memorial Library Committee

Getting Acquainted

There are a lot of new things at Rollins this year; a lot of changes, a lot of improvements. We have an improved curriculum that should raise our academic standard, and a hotel-like new dorm that enhances living conditions as well as the over-all beauty of the campus. The refurbished union should spark new recreational entertainment, while the visitation policy should open new avenues of social activity and personal responsibility. And we have a freshman class of 411 students; well over 1/3 of the college. What do we need to make all these great new additions create the type of college we can all enjoy and respect? We need an increased appreciation in every student for the value of every other person in this college community. Every individual should be treated with the respect he deserves for the complexity of his personality; for no person can be labelled and shuttled off in one thought. We must treat each other as human beings; not as sex objects, or status symbols, or prospective pledges. This is the beauty of the small college. We can get to know everybody on a much more informal and relaxed basis. We must avoid the evils that can develop from our size. Snubbing social restrictions and wild fire gossip have driven more than one person from this college. There must be a place for practically everyone here, or else the small college is doomed to extinction. It is time that we got down to human interactions. That is what visitation is all about; the breaking through of the artificial social relationships. We have worked so hard to obtain these visitation privileges that it would be a shame if we did not put them to their proper use. We can create the type of social, human atmosphere that will make our small society vibrant, meaningful and attractive to all who observe it. Then maybe the rest of life will be easier for all of us.

INFORMATION, PLEASE.

ORIENTATION '70

Orientation Week '70 appeared to be very similar to Orientation Week '69 and '68. It contained the usual discussion groups, required reading, check list, speeches, productions and dance that all of the upperclassmen are familiar with. Some 411 students, the largest freshman class in Rollins' 85 year history, kicked off their college career on September 8. The week progressed with all the trials and tribulations that traditionally confront the disorientated freshmen. The joys, criticisms, and whimpers of homesickness began to flow through the densely populated student union. Three enterprising freshmen circulated through the union and up and down the halls of the freshmen dorms to collect reactions to the orientation week in all of its facets. They interviewed scores of freshmen and discovered the following opinions:

On Orientation Week in general:

- There was a need for orientation week; it could not have been handled any better. - Margie Scholtz
- Orientation could have been shorter. - Charlotte Banks
- I thought it was too long; needed more movies or important things. - Debbie Friedman
- It was fun for the first three days. After that it seemed to consist of collecting more friends and looking for something to do. - Don Best
- Theatre group and Rollins' Singers gave us a good introduction to the different things that are offered at Rollins. The dance was too "highschoolish." - Barbara Berry
- Cape Kennedy? Why not us? - Melanie Bateman
- Too many meetings late at night. - Chris Rockhill
- I think it would have been better if they had left us on our own. - Anne Wilbur
- It could have been shorter, but then by being busy, you were kept from thinking about home. - Pam Champeau
- It should be like this all year. - Todd Marsh
- I'm not ready to start classes, I need more orientation. - Linda Fanger

A LITTLE MOTHERLY ADVICE

DR. COHEN AND GROUP DISCUSS ON THE GRASS

On the famous check lists:

- The check list helped you to become familiar with the campus. - Mary Sandstun
- Check list is the most ridiculous thing this college has to offer. If we need something we'll find it without having to get initials. - Blair Neller
- We should not be required to find our way around. - Gary Ranking

On the required reading, RELEVANTS, edited by Quinn and Dolan:

- RELEVANTS was a good book. - Charlotte Banks
- RELEVANTS was read by about 10% of the freshman class. College should look into this. - Blair Neller
- RELEVANTS was pretty good, because it wasn't a one-sided book. You could see both sides and the ideas presented were good. - Susan Peters
- RELEVANTS was a little deep in some places. - Carla Forde

On discussion groups:

- They talked to you about everything and made you feel like a part of the school. - Christy Helmer
- Our discussion group would have gotten along much better without our advisor. He continually contradicted himself on matters of student-teacher relationships by asking members of the group to call him by his first name and then demanding the respect of a "sir." - name withheld on request.

Is that a nostalgic tear coming to the eye of the upperclassman? Do many of these students sound familiar? Orientation week is always difficult, and Stobie Whitmore and company deserve a lot of credit for having it run so smoothly. Now as the academic year opens up the freshmen should have some idea of how everything works around here; even if they can't find the French House.

DEAR MOM, COLLEGE IS SO HARD...

The Common Cause

by Michael Del Colliano

What would you say if someone were to tell you that a national "citizen's lobby" was presently being established to work for the good of the nation and not for special interest groups? A national lobby made up of people for people. This lobby is now going to become an enormous reality. John Gardner, former Secretary of HEW and chairman of the National Urban Coalition Action Council, is now recruiting people for just such an effort.

The COMMON CAUSE is its name and it makes its home in Washington, D.C. The idea of the lobby is to have once and for all, responsive citizens that would be ringing phones in Washington and state capitols and town halls everywhere. To have millions of citizens watching weak public officials, to let them know that they (public officials) will indeed receive criticism on their programs and also to have people influencing and watching government. However, the COMMON CAUSE also states that they want strong and concerned public officials to know that their efforts are appreciated.

To be more specific about what the COMMON CAUSE is, it is an outgrowth of what is called, as I mentioned earlier, the Urban Coalition Action Council. It presently operates under a governing board of many different types of leaders of organizations, for instance, mayors, minority group leaders, and leaders from business, labor and the major religious groups. As Mr. Gardner points out, who was the former chairman of the Urban Coalition Action Council, "...the Action Council proved to be astonishingly effective. The Council has worked with a variety of allies in the civil rights organizations, the labor movement, the business community, and other groups. It has participated in major legislative victories, including the extension of the Voting Rights Act ... and the defeat of a measure that would have virtually ended nonpartisan voter registration programs."

Therefore, through citizen action Mr. Gardner and his Action Council hope to revitalize and reinvigorate politics and government. They believe in ending the War in Vietnam on a scheduled timetable, a major reordering of national priorities, new solutions in housing, unemployment, education, health, consumer protection, environment, family planning, law enforcement, and the administration of justice. The COMMON CAUSE believes that America is not the nation that it set out to be and that with the assistance of a nation-wide lobby made up almost entirely of ordinary citizens we can renew our institutions and not only remove from them the feeling of complacency, but as well, remove the hatred we have for one another from one another. They also think that there still is great strength in this nation and that strength lies where it has always come from: its people.

As printed in the New York Times, the aim of this effort is not to win a political campaign, "...It is to rally the moderates and stop the process of polarization ... to refresh the springs of political life, to recruit new talent for both parties and at every level of government, to concentrate attention of the issues that genuinely are significant to sponsor needed reforms."

And finally, as Mr. Gardner put it, "Many of you .. share not only my concern but my anger at institutions and individuals that have behaved irresponsibly. But, if we're going to focus our anger, a good place to begin is with ourselves."

NOTICE: Anyone interested in the COMMON CAUSE please write to box 311, campus mail.

Dr. Summers Gives Lecture Series

Winter Park -- World renowned specialist in international law and arbitration Dr. Lionel M. Summers has been scheduled for a series of Wednesday morning lectures by the United Nations Association of Orlando-Winter Park in cooperation with Rollins College. The four consecutive Wednesday morning lectures will begin this Wednesday, September 9, at 9:30 a.m., in Crummer Hall on the Rollins campus with "Looming Crisis" as the title for the lecture series.

A member of the Rollins faculty for the past 5 years, Summers has had a distinguished career in the field of international arbitration in his many years of service with the United States Department of State. He has written extensively for both domestic and foreign journals. His topics for the lecture series will be "Japan and the West", September 9; "The Sino-Soviet Rift", September 16; "The War in Southern Africa", September 23; and "The Threads Come Together", September 30. All lectures will begin at 9:30 a.m. and will be open to the public.

Rollins New Faculty

by Karin Kest

With the beginning of the fall term at Rollins, there have been many new professors added to the faculty. Two of these are Dr. Charles M. Edmundson of the History department, and Mr. E. Alan Nordstrom of the English department.

Dr. Edmundson is from Lambert, Mississippi where he attended the University of Mississippi and received his B.A. and M.A. degrees. He then went on to receive his Ph.D. while teaching at Florida State University in Tallahassee. At Rollins, he is now teaching two courses in Western Civilization and one course in the History of Russia.

Never having been associated with a small school before, Dr. Edmundson said that he could not explain in words what a vast change it is from a large University -- and one that will most likely take a little getting used to. At Florida State University, most of his classes consisted of approximately 230 students, so that classroom discussions are just not possible. Dr. Edmundson feels that there are definite advantages to the smaller classroom, but also feels that it does place a greater responsibility on both the students and teacher to participate. When asked why he had decided on Rollins, he replied that he wanted to try a smaller school, and also that he liked the Administration as they were somewhat younger and seemed more flexible than at some of the other colleges that he visited.

Dr. Edmundson now resides in Winter Park with his wife and two children, David and Andrea.

Mr. Nordstrom attended Yale University as an undergraduate student and went on to receive his M.A. degree from U. of Michigan. He is now in the middle of his dissertation as a Candidate in Philosophy, and is well on his way to completing his Ph.D. in the near future.

As for teaching itself, Mr. Nordstrom has a diversified experience. He taught for three years at Vermont Academy's Boarding School for one year at a Community College in Niagara Falls, New York; and he also held classes at the University of Michigan while working on his Ph.D. there. At Rollins he now has a Rhetoric and Composition course, a course of Shakespeare - Later Plays, and heads a discussion group in the Humanities Foundation Course.

Mr. Nordstrom seems to like the environment very much at Rollins, and feels that there is much to be said for the personal warmth and contact of a smaller school like Rollins. As for the classroom, he feels that a sort of "mutual contract" is essential to the student-teacher relationship and to the class as a unit, as each individual has definite responsibilities.

Both Dr. Edmundson and Mr. Nordstrom seem to like Rollins so far, but more important, both appear to be very interested in the students, and are making a great effort to go out of their way to offer help, to communicate, and to understand.

STUDENT AFFAIRS OFFICE REVITALIZED

AFFAIRS

The student affairs office has been revitalized over the summer by new personnel typical of the Critchfield regime. Dean Pease, announced as the new Dean of Student Affairs last May, has pledged to open up lines of communication to the students which have been lacking in previous years. He announced to the freshmen, "My job is not to direct individual lives. I am here to assist people by giving advice so that they can make the right decisions." He believes that communication is the key to having individuals work together toward a common goal. There should be no reason, he emphasized, for a major confrontation or crisis to develop on this campus. The size of the college allows for his door to always be open to any complaint so that problems can be solved before they get blown out of proportion. He pointed out through, that it is up to the student to take the initiative to come to him. He can not possibly know all of the problems that are developing. Everyone should understand, though, that "communication does not always guarantee agreement". He would like everyone to understand his position on any given question, while at the same time making their positions and rationale clear to him.

Miss Ross Ann Jenny, the new Associate Dean of Student Affairs, graduated from the University of Delaware and received her Masters Degree in Education in Student Personnel and Counseling at the University of Florida. She then returned to the University of Delaware where she held the position of Assistant Dean of Women for the past year and a half. She met Dean Pease last April at a conference and, as they got to talking about their various philosophies, she discovered, much to her surprise, that he thought much the same way she did. When they met again some time later, Pease had accepted the position at Rollins and was looking for someone to fill the Associate Dean spot. He offered her the job. She was somewhat reluctant to give up her promising career at Delaware but, she said, "As soon as I met the people at Rollins, I wanted to stay".

Both deans have emphasized that the Student Affairs office is not working on a Dean of Men -- Dean of Women situation. They are working together as a team, and any problem can be handled by either of them. Specifically both deans are in favor of some kind of women's hours change, but they emphasized, much more research must still be done. Dean Pease stated that he wants to hear from the women leaders to see exactly how much real thinking they have done. Dean Jenny stated that the women's hours bill can be passed if the students are willing to put the work into it. Instead of saying that we are abolishing women's hours, she prefers the phrase "self-regulated hours". Both seem to feel that first semester freshmen at least must have some kind of regulation at this time.

In short, the Student Affairs Office is now the place to go for advice and encouragement to face those many college problems. You will find a friend on the second floor of Carnegie Hall.

an interview with

★★★ THE JUDGE ★★★

by Dylan Thomas

In an interview with Peter McCarthy, Chairman of the Student Court, I have found someone who is honest, sincere, committed and determined to maintain an atmosphere at Rollins that some, if not a large minority, of students feel is more of a mood to rebel against rather than to accept. The atmosphere is a tolerance of the established rules and regulations of the college and one that can offer cultural benefits to the students as well as social benefits. Without a ripping stretch of the imagination, there seems to be no lack of recognized activities on campus that the students should have any trouble getting involved in for either pure enjoyment or for knowledge and experience.

When we crossed upon the matter of rule infractions, Peter made it explicit that the only violations he can justify are those that are intentionally committed to test the validity of the rules. Less radical channels can be taken to challenge rules but if such testing cases do come up in the Student Court, the members of the Court appear to be exceptionally well qualified this year to judge fairly and objectively on all cases. Six of the Court members proved themselves capable last year in assorted capacities, either as judges or investigators and the entire court is composed of outstanding individuals with sound objective minds.

Last year, there was considerable concern over the presence and influence of the Dean's office on court cases, but Peter explained that the new Deans will not be omnipresent figures in this year's court, and even if they are present, by invitation, they will be there solely to observe the structure and efficiency of the Court. This new atmosphere in the Court will guarantee the judicial branch of the student government total student power.

Peter emphasized the importance of the investigators for the Court because of their dual purpose: they must present evidence pertaining to the case and also defend the student brought to trial at the same time. Peter has faith in this system and pointed out that the quality of justice in the court rests on the degree of efficiency that the investigators execute. This seems to be an extremely hypocritical standard for a court of law to work with but that is the way things stand now. Suggestions have been made to establish a public defender system to serve as counsel to defendants and it would certainly be a suitable solution to the present situation if nothing else. Peter praises the idea of a public defender system and "looks forward with interest" to any changes proposed for the court during this year.

Peter McCarthy's attitude is a disciplined and objective one with little recourse to the subjective point of view but that is the way a court judge must think, and respect is due to the judge who can maintain a detached and devoted perspective on law and order. And so lives the balance of idealistic democracy.

Visitation Progress

by Dylan Thomas

Well here it is, Friday, September 18, and visitation on the Rollins College campus is yet to become a reality. Where is our long awaited privilege and why wasn't it waiting for us when we got here? What's the hassle? What's going on down in that Student-Government office? Are they playing solitaire like everyone else who wants visitation or are they catching up on their sleep? Who knows? Not too many, that's for sure observing the way some people are behaving.

The fact of the matter is that the Community Life Committee is cutting through the last of the red tape and trying to formulate a suitable front to throw out to the students as the grand finale of two years of deliberate efforts towards a visitation program. They are making the program as airtight and diplomatic as possible in as short a time as necessary. Wednesday night, temporary representatives from each residence hall to the CLC met to be informed of the wide scope of options open to each house for drawing up their own house visitation program. From there, each hall will set up a permanent House Council to bear sole responsibility for the execution of its own visitation standards. There are also numerous hypothetical problems that the CLC deems necessary to investigate such as: What are guests to do about bathroom facilities and what particular doors are they to use if necessary. What are the people in the hall supposed to do, or who are they supposed to see, when they have a personal complaint about noise or imposing guests? All of these problems are hypothetical barriers but they can be easily remedied, with complete trust, by the House Council of each house and by spontaneous reaction to disturbances that arise. On the part of the student body it seems trivial to hassle over matters that are so simple to cope with that any logically minded person could assume.

The Community Life Committee along with the Student Court is attempting to draw up some policy of "enactment" as they call it, for the House Councils to use as guidelines in the authoritative alloys of each house's visitation program. The CLC seems to be making an extensive effort to remain as diplomatic and uncommitted in the wording of their final edict as possible. It is a major effort to appear on the students' side in getting the whole bill through and running, and it is a safe psychological angle to take in warding off definitive opposition to the boundaries of visitation. The CLC is handing the whole matter over to the individual House Councils for them to establish among themselves. The diplomacy may be roundabout and a prolonged effort but its affect will hit the students with more unestablished enthusiasm, that might otherwise exist.

But what does all this brew-ha-ha mean to the regular every-day Rollins College student who is getting impatient with the unconfirmed visitation, and who is already talking about the abolition of women's hours (what did I say?). It's all brew-ha-ha to them and all one can say is that we should hope that the Community Life Committee will get down to simplicity and give everyone open visitation before next weekend.

SUMMERSHINE

Summershine is what they are called, after the title of a song written by Rick Camp, one of the members of the group. They are all from Rollins, and have just spent two months of the past summer touring Europe. Besides Rick, whose home is in North Carolina, the group consists of Cindy Grubbs from Stuttgart, Germany, Toni Carty from St. Louis, Missouri, Lyn Mercer from Washington, D.C. Lee Coogan from Philadelphia, Pa. and Fred Crean from Boca Raton, Florida.

The sound of this group is unique, because it is many-faceted. It is not a rock group, nor a folk group, nor a choir, nor a combination of the three, but a perfect blend of soft melodies, beautiful harmonies and refreshing originality.

The trip was a fantastic experience for them, for they worked their way over to Europe singing on the S.S. France, the most angelic of cruise ships; and then sang their way back on the T. S. Hamburg, which was just christened last year. While in Europe they performed in Germany on a U.S. military base, and in several coastal towns in Spain. Upon arrival back in the states, their first performance was for the Secretary of Defense, Melvin Laird, in Washington.

Future plans include cutting a record (one of Rick's originals) and club work in the area. An added bonus for them is their two-week booking during Christmas vacation on the S.S. France's cruise to the Caribbean Islands.

Look for them! They are new, fresh and definitely NOW! Catch them at the Coffee House on Saturday night, Sept. 19, and let a little Summershine into your life!

Man of La Mancha

by Elizabeth Cheney

The winner of the 1966 Drama Critic's Circle Award will be the opening musical of the 1970-71 Rollins Players Season. Man of La Mancha has been hailed by critics as "the finest and most original work in the musical theatre" in many years.

The show is thrilling, a tale of valor, idealism, and devotion. The music is wild and daring, propelled by a phytym unique in musical theatre.

The cast is headed by Bill Shepherd in the role of Don Quixote de La Mancha. Aldonza (Dulcinea) is being played in alternate performances by Mary Lou Reiniger and Amy Ingersoll. Sancho Panza, Quixote's faithful companion is played by Dudley Wilson.

The disbelieving trio who try to destroy Don Quixote's dream are done by Charles Hooper, Nancy Lawson, and Barbara Bowen in the respective roles of Dr. Carasco, Antonia, and the Housekeeper. The Padre is done by Bob Pottinger.

In supporting roles are Carl Johnson as the Innkeeper, Rick Stanley as the Barber, and Stephen Smith as the Head Muleteer. Featured in the cast is a group of very talented freshmen, not the least of which is Lord of La Mancha himself, Bill Shepherd.

The spectacle of the "Night of The Mirrors" scene, "The Abduction" of Aldonza, and the triumphal "Impossible Dream" have been applauded around the world. Man of La Mancha is a tour de force, the musical story of a magnificent quest.

Student night is October 21st. Tickets are free of charge with student identification at a first come first serve basis. "Man of La Mancha is an enthralling, exquisite musical play."

Carbondale, Ill. -- The Drambues, folksinging group from Rollins College are the 1970 National Intercollegiate Music Festival Champions today after defeating more than 1,500 collegiate folk and pop groups for the coveted honor. The Rollins group, composed of Jeff Danys, Kathryn Clair "Casey" Law and Dick MacLeod, recently won southeastern regional competition to advance to the national competition at the Southern Illinois University campus in Carbondale.

In regional competition at Tampa in February the Drambues received the only perfect score sheet and the highest total score of any contestant in either the folk or pop categories.

This is the second national intercollegiate championship which Rollins students have captured this summer adding another title to the one won by the Rollins golf team when it brought home 1970 NCAA College Division honors from Warren, Ohio in June.

To All Independents

Communication is something we all say we need to have at Rollins. The effort is being made now; and it's a good time of the year to respond with an open mind. There is a way to get involved this year on campus and in the community. While you are contributing your individuality to improve the campus atmosphere and the community, you are also developing yourself through the experience. Even if you feel pressed for time, there is a way to find out what's going on around you so you will know what opportunities are there when you feel you have the time. The principle goals of the Association of Independent Students will be to provide a means for communication and initiation of projects for the whole school to participate in. Three such projects will be concerned with seminars (discussion groups), environmental action and community action. Other ideas will be announced and yours will be welcome. Existing committees on campus will be announced along with some information about sports. In other words, there is plenty of opportunity for anyone who approaches it with concern and again, an open mind. A general meeting will be called next week and the preceding information will be given out in more detail. Representation in Student Government will be discussed. The exact time will be publicized. It will be an open meeting for anyone interested. There will be further explanation as to the goals of this recently formed organization at the meeting. If you start off the year complaining about Rollins and if you don't want to try to help change what bothers you, although the complaints may be valid, nothing will ever change quickly with only a few people making the effort. It all depends on you. Perhaps the potential Rollins as a small school has for everyone in the school to work together will become a reality.

Hope to see you at the meeting.

Rollins Student Court Praised

Winter Park -- Mr. William Pitt, staff member of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration of the U.S. State Department met with administrators of the Central Florida School for Continuing Studies on the Rollins College campus this past week and had high praise for the work that had been done in setting up the new Criminal Justice Program.

"I am very much impressed with the initial work and through planning that has been done in setting up this important program here at Rollins," Pitt said. "I like the Philosophy which Dr. Daniel Riva (CFSCS Director) has taken in developing this high quality approach, and I feel this is a very good start."

According to Pitt the need and desire for increased levels of knowledge and abilities for our law enforcement officers is evidenced in the fact that many law enforcement agencies now require Bachelors and even Masters degrees as a prerequisite to holding certain ranks.

"In fact," Pitts said, "Beginning in 1980 the Detroit police department, for example, will require a Bachelors degree for every member of its force. We no longer think of the stereotyped policeman who chases the bandit, but rather as a man who solves many problems of both public and private nature. Today's law officers is called upon for everything from a plumber to a marriage counselor."

Federal funds are available to Criminal Justice students at Rollins College for both grants and loans according to Dr. Riva. Applications for admission to the program for the late afternoon and evening classes beginning September 16 are being accepted at the CFSCS campus now. Interested high school and junior college graduates are encouraged to apply now.

Law School Admissions

From: Dr. Paul Douglass

The Law School Admission Test will be given at Rollins College on December 19, for convenience of law students, President Jack Critchfield has announced.

Applications for the examination may be obtained from Mrs. Bacon, 112 Knowles Hall.

Law schools are being swamped with applications for admission according to Paul Douglass, pre-law student advisor, Duke University, for example, will accept only 140 students from 1500 applications. The Duke faculty which is now screening their new class sets a 600 score on LSAT for admission and 3.00 on a four point scale as academic level for college work.

One of the noticeable trends in law school applications this year is the large number of women entering the legal profession.

Campus ~~~~~ Security

by Sam Crosby

This year a change has been made in the security system here at Rollins. Under Captain Cullifer, a nine year veteran, four men have been hired to act as campus police and to perform the many duties assigned to that job.

Last year's less than satisfying system, the Burns Guards, was replaced for reasons ranging from cost to inefficiency. However, the primary problem was that the guards had no ties whatsoever with the college, even their paychecks were from Burns. This led to their reknown tactlessness and sloppiness. The problems are now behind us for two reasons. First, the new men are directly and intimately connected with the college. Secondly,

Captain Cullifer is running the system. With his knowledge of the campus and its people, Captain Cullifer is well qualified and suited for the job of head of the security system.

Another new aspect to the campus is a regulation that after five traffic violations a student can be turned over to Student Court for his next offense. Hopefully, the new Field House lot will satisfy the laments of habitual offenders. However, if it doesn't, the Student Court will deal harshly with flagrant misuse of parking facilities.

Captain Cullifer has asked that the students go half way with him and his staff in order to minimize difficulties on campus this year.

The Lottery *****

And The I-S(C) Deferment

As December 31 approaches, students across the country must decide upon their final and most important play in the Lottery "numbers game."

Students with "low" Lottery numbers know only too well they must remain deferred through December 31 or face "Greetings." They will choose to request the II-S student deferment in September. A year from now they may take their chances, hoping for a change in draft calls, the law, the war, or their health.

A student with a "high" Lottery number will want to put his year of draft vulnerability behind him. To do so, (1) he must be in class I-A, I-A-O (noncombatant C.O.), or I-O (civilian work C.O.) on December 31; and his Lottery number must not have been reached by that date. If the student meets both these qualifications on December 31, he will descend from the 1970 "first priority" group to the 1971 "second priority" group on New Year's Day. For all practical purposes, this descent assures virtual immunity from induction.

Assuming the student with the "high" Lottery number is not going C.O., he will have to seek a I-A this fall. In order to do so, he must not request the II-S deferment. According to the law, a local board should not place a student in class II-S unless he has requested the deferment. This rule applies regardless of whether the student meets all the other requirements for a II-S.

A college cannot legally request the deferment for a student. Furthermore, a II-S request for a prior academic year cannot be construed as a II-S request for the current year.

Students with Lottery numbers in the "middle" would appear to be in a real quandary. They cannot predict with certainty whether they will be called. Should they take a chance, not request a II-S, and hope their Lottery numbers prove safe? The lure of "second priority" next year is great.

Or should students in the "middle" opt for security, request a II-S, retain it through December 31, and face "first priority" again next year? Security is also tempting, but it may cause bitter disillusionment when the student in class II-S on December 31 discovers that his number was not reached, and he would have made it.

The dream of students in the "middle" would be to wait until December 31, before deciding whether or not to be deferred on December 31. The I-S (C) deferment is a dream come true.

The I-S (C) deferment is available to any full time college student who, while satisfactorily pursuing his studies, receives an induction order. If the student has never held a I-S (C) deferment and does not have a baccalaureate degree, he is entitled to have his induction order cancelled. He qualifies for class I-S (C) where he must be kept until the end of the 12-month academic year.

Consider the utility of the I-S (C) deferment and does not have a baccalaureate degree, he is entitled to have his induction order cancelled. He

Consider the utility of the I-S (C) deferment: Suppose a student has Lottery number 190. He is unsure whether it will be reached. Nevertheless, he does not request a II-S and remains I-A through the fall semester.

Unfortunately, before December 31, the student loses his gamble. Lottery number 190 is reached, and the student receives an induction order. The student immediately requests a I-S (C) deferment, proving to his board that he actually was a full time student, making satisfactory progress, when he got his order. The order will be cancelled--not merely postponed--and the student will have to play the Lottery all over next year. However, he will have to play without one of his favorite gambits, since the I-S (C) is available only once.

Resort to the I-S (C) provides a convenient way to hedge on the I-A bet. However, there are two potential pitfalls: First, the board may classify the student II-S even though he makes no request. Second, assuming the student gets a I-S (C), his tactics may be considered a delay. Consequently, when his deferments run out, he may be immediately ordered to report, despite the fact that his number has not yet been reached in the year he becomes I-A.

The Way The Ball Bounces

by Peter LaLime

Tough.

Tough is how all -- not most -- Rollins varsity soccer players think of their head coach.

"He expects 100 per cent and he gets it," commented one player. Gordon Howell simply has that reputation for toughness and determination.

Already, his attitude has paid off. Howell returns to his third season this year with a 19-2-4 record behind him. But he prefers a "modest approach" to prospects for the 1970-71 year. The Tars are slated for 13 matches this year, "but each match to us is taken one by one," said Howell.

The "tough" reflects in his players as well.

"The attitude toward work and the rate of work," said Howell, "is the best since I've been here. These young men have played with more vigor and determination than any other team I have been associated with." He predicts his squad is a week to ten days ahead of last year's pre-season training schedule.

Howell called his varsity players back to Rollins a week early. It allowed three "full" days of early practice, he said. "Full", however, is an understatement. Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday brought soccer sessions three-a-day -- at 7 a.m. for 30 minutes, from 4 to 5:45 p.m., and a "complete study of fundamentals, tactics, and strategy," in the evenings taking up to two hours each.

Asked if he had any goals for the 1970-71, Howell said he would like to take the Florida Intercollegiate Soccer Conference again this year. A conference team that wins the trophy three years consecutively retires it to the school's personnel trophy case. Winning this year would be two-thirds of the dream.

Howell also has hopes of an invitation to the N.C.A.A. Small College Atlantic Coast Regional Tournament, recognized as the prestige small college soccer tournament in the East. But two years in a row, Rollins has been denied a berth in it, and Howell is wary of making the N.C.A.A. tourney a "goal."

"The selection committee is reviewing us as an unknown quantity," said Howell. He said, traditionally, the committee has selected soccer teams from the North and are "reluctant to extend their boundaries to a southern school." In the 1968-69 season Rollins finished 9-1-2 and the following year 10-1-2. Both years, Rollins was under consideration by the selection committee until the last day, said Howell, but both times were rejected at the last minute for a northern team. So Howell is slow to make it a goal.

But that doesn't mean Howell and the Tars won't be aiming for it.

This year's squad, he said, is "extremely sharp." They are moving the ball better than last year through the team is not as deep at each position. Still, substantially the same starting line-up will be returning.

Howell said Mike Bresford is looking good at filling the shoes of graduated Robin Leech at right wing and Charlie Bueker is doing well at Paul Wright's right fullback spot. Howell also cited John Borden at goalie, and said Bob St. Lawrence is a possible fullback.

The Tars' first game is September 26 against Embury-Riddle on the Sandspur Bowl. Game time is 3:30 p.m.

Sandspur Sports Briefs

THE ROLLINS WOMEN'S golf team took second place to Odessa College in the 1970 National Intercollegiate Championships held in Las Cruces, New Mexico this summer.

Representing Rollins were Mona Schallau, Marjie Cooper, Pam Hoobs, and Cis Kebler. Miss Schallau reached the semi-finals, scoring a big upset victory in the quarters. She teamed up with Miss Cooper to take second place honors in the doubles competition.

THE GIRL'S GOLF team placed sixth in the summer Intercollegiate Golf Championship played at Singing Hills Country Club in San Diego, California.

Representing Rollins were Sandy Burns and Merry Ross. The University of Miami won the tourney while Arizona State copped second place.

GYMNASTICS ENTHUSIASTS interested in joining a Rollins gymnastics club, should contact either Jeff Stull, Box 10, Campus Mail, or Coach Harry Meisel in the Enyart-Alumni Fieldhouse.

The first meeting of the club is scheduled for 8 p.m., Tuesday, September 22, in the upstairs classroom of the fieldhouse.

Gymnastics is much fun and one that can be learned easily. No experience at the sport is required to join the club. Membership is open to both sexes.

Golfers N.C.A.A. Champs

In Warren, Ohio last June 16-19, Rollins' varsity golf team won the National Small College Championships. Five of the six men who played in the national tournament at Albuquerque, New Mexico in 1969 when Rollins finished second by a single stroke were also at Warren this year. All six men will be back this year.

In this year's tournament Fred Schick and Mike Ford received All-American honors -- Fred Schick for the second successive year. Rollins did not take the lead until the third round with Schick, Ford and Metcalfe pulling the team. Final round 73's by Schick and Bresford led the team to a ten stroke victory over second place finisher Georgia Southern.

The individual scores this year were as follows:

Fred Schick -- 294
Mike Ford -- 298
Taylor Metcalfe -- 301
Mike Bresford -- 302
Tom Cavicchi -- 309
Guy Ashley -- 313

HUSTLERS OF THE WEEK

...Bob Selton, John Borden, Chas Haywood

Hustlers

Coach Gordon Howell this week announced the recipients of the "Hustle Award" for the first week of preseason practice in varsity soccer.

"Normally we like to give the award to just one person," said Howell. But he said the hustle and determination is so good, the first week's award had to be split -- three ways.

John Borden, Bob Selton, and Chas Haywood received the years first "Hustle Award."

As part of the recognition, the trio will lead the squad in practice until a new award has been made.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Sandspur Sports Office is looking for contributing writers for the 1970-71 academic year. If interested in reporting sports events at Rollins -- of either a specific sport or of sports in general -- please contact Peter LaLime, Sports Editor, at Box 443 as soon as possible.

Rollins Teachers Selected Outstanding Teachers of US

Rollins College Dean, Dr. Donald W. Hill, announced today that Dr. Edward H. Cohen and Dr. Herbert Hellwege have been selected to appear in the 1970 edition of Outstanding Educators of America. Nominated earlier this year they have been chosen for the awards publication on the basis of their civic and professional achievements. Dr. Cohen is an Assistant Professor of English and Secretary of the Faculty, and Dr. Hellwege is a Professor of Chemistry and Department Head at Rollins.

The Outstanding Educators of America is an annual program designed to recognize and honor those men and women who have distinguished themselves by exceptional service, achievements and leadership in education. Each year over 5,000 of our country's foremost educators are featured in this national volume.

Nominations for Outstanding Educators of America are made by the presidents, deans, superintendents and other heads of schools and colleges.

The nominees are chosen for national recognition on the basis of local standards of excellence. Guidelines for selection include an educator's talents in the classroom, contributions to research, administrative abilities and any civic and professional recognition previously received.

Former Vice President Hubert Humphrey, who wrote the introductory message for the 1970 edition, says of the men and women included, "The greatest strength of any nation is its human resources. These are the men and women who by their actions in the classroom today mold the course of history. Our hope -- the nation's youth -- is in their hands. As we honor these teachers, we are reminded of their awesome duty. As they have our confidence, we must give them the tools to wage Jefferson's 'crusade against ignorance'. With men and women like these we know that our faith in education has not been misplaced."

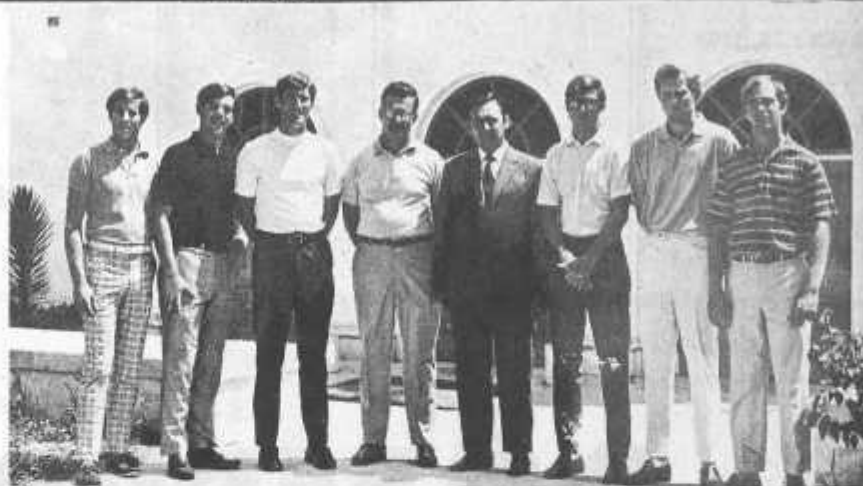

Dr. Cohen received his B.A. degree from the University of
