Cambodia Concert Raises $800

On Wednesday, March 26, several Rollins students calling themselves Lock Stock & Barrel performed a benefit concert, with proceeds going to relief for ravaged Cambodia.

The material ranged from bluegrass standards such as "Rockytop" and "Circle Be Unbroken" to songs by James Taylor, Crosby, Stills and Nash, and Dan Fogelberg. Rick Taylor, playing banjo and acoustic guitar, led a band composed primarily of Bruce Threlkeld (drums and acoustic guitar), Scott Ashby (harmonica and mandolin), and Lee Siddons (bass - yes, that is Dave's big brother), but was augmented on several songs by other musicians. Spike McClure did a superior sax solo on James Taylor's "Don't Let Me Be Lonely Tonight" and John Langfitt joined in for a rousing version of Fogelberg's "Part of the Plan" for the finale. In addition, the audience was treated to a performance by Ivan Kelly, who sings, plays acoustic and electric guitar and writes his own songs that offer clever, incisive, often hilarious commentary on current social problems.

The crowd was surprisingly large and extremely enthusiastic, which spurred the musicians on to greater performances. Thanks to Rollins student support, Oxfam, the relief organization that distributes the proceeds to Cambodia, received nearly $800 from Rollins. Special thanks goes to Rick Taylor, Sullivan House, and everyone else who helped out in this humanitarian cause.

October Rollins Rape Suspect Acquitted

By Fritz Wettstein

Wednesday, March 19, Casper Sorenson was found innocent of kidnapping and sexual battery in the October 28, 1979 incident involving a sophomore Rollins coed. After two hours of deliberation, the jury handed the Orange County Courthouse judge a verdict of not guilty; it had not been proved beyond reasonable doubt that the Winter Park carpenter raped the student at gunpoint.

On that early Sunday morning according to Winter Park Detective Neal E. Trautman, Sorenson had been drinking at an ABC lounge in Apopka and had later swung by Rollins College on his way home. Driving toward the McKean front doorway, he met the coed, who was walking to McKean after attending a Chi Psi party. She entered his pickup as she stated in her day long testimony at the trial, at gunpoint where upon he forced her to a wooded area and raped her.

A week later, Detective Trautman, investigating the alleged rape, arrested Sorenson. Upon initial legal interrogation, the defendant claimed he was never south of Palmer Avenue on his way home from the ABC. No gun was found on him, Sorenson however, was identified by the victim as the man who had abducted her in a truck. The defendant was then charged with kidnapping and sexual battery.

On March 10, the trial started with the suppression hearing which proved to the jury that the police investigation of the case was conducted properly. At the trial, Sorenson was defended by James Hart. Raymond Da Vorack served as the prosecuting attorney. Hart had been an assistant state attorney for several years.

The prosecution centered its case on the testimony of the victim, who was on the witness stand for most of the day. Her account of the incident was consistent; however, the lack of additional evidence could not corroborate her story. Witnesses for the defense testified that Sorenson never owned a handgun or was never seen with one.

The Orange County Crime Lab, usually a witness for the prosecution, could not support the victim's case. Instead, it muddled the case, finding a hair on the victim belonging to neither the victim or Sorenson.

Sorenson was the last witness to take the stand. The 23 year old Winter Park resident had never previously been arrested and had served in the army. During testimony, he changed his whereabouts the night of the alleged rape. He admitted he was horny, did pick her up in front of McKean, and did have sex with her. However, under oath, he stated that she obliged him, and that her actions were strictly volunteered.

The defense argued that there was no clear evidence pointing to the defendant's guilt. On this ground, Sorenson was freed.

In the closing arguments, the prosecution made issue of Sorenson's inconsistent stories. The defense argued that there was no clear evidence pointing to the defendant's guilt. On this ground, Sorenson was freed. If the jury had found Sorenson guilty, he would have gone to jail on two twenty year charges, kidnapping and sexual battery.

The assaultant in the second alleged campus rape, on Feb. 8, 1980, did not go to trial. After noticing discrepancies in the victim's account, Winter Park Police investigators submitted her to a polygraph test, which proved her story inaccurate. Later, she admitted the rape was a fabrication.

Rollins Campus Safety Director, George Watt, stated, "despite the fact the last reported rape was not a rape, I encourage the girls to keep an eye out, and use the escort service."

ROLLINS STUDENT ASSOCIATION ELECTIONS

Campaign '80

Diane Chabot President

Tuition costs are going up. Every year we have to pay more to attend college. Do you know where your money goes? $85 dollars of your tuition money goes to the Student Association general fund. The Student Association has the power to disburse your activity fee in whatever manner it chooses. Of course it is assumed that the representative you elected will inform you of what is happening and will represent your opinions at the next Assembly meeting.

How many times have you been approached by your representative and asked your opinion on an issue? Chances are, unless you belong to the minority, that the answer to this question is seldom, or never, or who is my representative? I have been a member of the Student Assembly all this year and what I've observed are people presenting their own opinions rather than those of the students they represent. This is not what they were elected to do.

Another matter that bothers me is the poor attendance that we have in the Student Assembly. Forty people representing 1300 students would not be too bad, and there are at least that many representatives, but more often than not only eight or ten people bother to show up for the meetings and proceed to make decisions that affect every student.

My name is Diane Chabot. I am running for the office of Student Association President. What I have just mentioned are just a few of the things I would like to see changed. The Student Association is supposed to represent the whole student body and I would like to see it perform this function. We need to pull together to elect people that will represent us and that will keep us informed as to the issues which are discussed and the decisions that are made.

Put your money and D.C. to work for you.

Steve Todd President

Before I get in to my specific concerns and plans for the Student Association, I believe it is necessary that I give you some background information on myself.

Since my freshman year, I have taken an active interest in the College. During my freshman year I wrote for the Rollins College Public Relations, Sports Department, and in January of 1978, I became Sports Editor of the Sandspur, a position which I held for one and a half years.

During the early spring of 1979, I played a major role in the formation and development of the Rollins College Circle K club, and was elected its Charter President. During our first year we quickly became established as a very worthy and needed organization on campus.

I have also taken part in numerous other activities during this year. Aside from this being my third year on the varsity baseball team, I am a member of the Sullivan House Board of Directors, developed and coordinated the Rollins College Student Escort Service, was a selected representative of Rollins to the Muscular Dystrophy Conference in Buford, Ga. (January 18-20, 1980), and I am an Algernon Sydney Sullivan Scholar.

It is very clear to me that Student Association has the opportunity to become a very strong and active organization on this campus. But I have seen a number of shortcomings which are in dire need of being corrected.

For example, there is very little cohesion between the Student Association and you, the student, whom it is supposed to represent. This may be alleviated by opening the vital door of communication between us so that we may become a better representative body.

The communication must flow both ways so that the Association may be effective and conscious of your needs and wants. For without it, an organization such as this will become stagnant.

These doors will be opened in two ways: First, through the Sandspur and, second, by emphasizing the importance to the representatives to collect and pass on information to and for you.

This leads to another point. In the past, participation on behalf of the representatives has been less than admirable. Most of this stems from the electoral process which takes place at the beginning of the year. Many elections for representatives have been done haphazardly and without much concern on the part of the Resident Aides as well as the students.

The main reason behind this is because many of you do not realize the value and necessity of this position. Instead, the position is treated as a joke. Contrary to this belief, however, the representative position does indeed hold a great deal of influence and responsibility which can be seen in the following ways: First, the representatives make decisions that may have a major effect upon the students of this institution. The recently passed search amendment is one example of this, as well as the decision to combine the office of Student Association V-P with Student Center's President and the Association's Comptroller with the Center's Comptroller.

It was unfortunate, however, that these decisions were made with only 14 of the 47 representatives present. This clearly was not a well represented student body!

I believe that once the representatives are fully aware of their responsibilities there then will be a better turn out at the Association meetings. Should this not work, I will then enforce Section 2, B-4, in the Constitution, Rollins Student Association which states that the Student Assembly shall "dismiss upon two-thirds vote any member of the Student Assembly who misses more than three meetings."

This may cause a large turnover of personnel, but I strongly feel that it is necessary in order for the Association to become a fully functional and well represented body.

One other factor that stymies the communication between you and your representative is the continual waving of the "48 hour notice." This clause allows the representatives at least 48 hours to inform and receive feedback from the people they represent of a particular motion that will be voted upon within the next two days.

The consequence of the continual waving of this clause does not give the representative a chance to receive the necessary support or opposition of the motion from their students.

As President, I will see that the representatives utilize this clause to its fullest extent so that this vote is not merely his own personal view but that of his represented students.

This is just a quick overview of some of my objectives as President of the Student Association. There will be a panel discussion with all of the Presidential and Vice-Presidential candidates in the Student Union on Monday, March 31 at 8:00. I strongly urge that you attend this discussion so that you will be more informed as to what my objectives for the position of Student Association President are, as well as those of my running mates.

The Student Association has so much potential to become a very active organization, but whether or not it lives up to its potential relies upon you, your representative, and the President. As President, I firmly believe that I can guide the Student Association to becoming that active organization we desire instead of a useless appendage.

Thank you very much.

Jim Massa President

With the changes that are occurring throughout the structure of Rollins College, I see the presidency of Student Association as an important position where there must be leadership, management, coordination, and interaction. I feel I can install these needed attributes in the office if elected.

— Why do I feel this way? —

I have already become involved in the problems of the school. I have taken the initiative to investigate and help solve some of the problems. For instance, I am actively working with Jesse Morgan (vice-president and treasurer of Rollins) concerning the Saga food situation and its many facets. I have shown concern over the rising costs of the bookstore, published an editorial on it with my suggestions, and contacted Doc Hensen, who has just arrived on campus to help Rollins improve the bookstore. He had read my editorial while still in Tulane, and since then we have started discussing and analyzing what needs to be done to keep costs down as far as possible. I also have worked with Dean Campbell as a Head Resident on the housing problems.

— How do I plan to coordinate student government? —

I propose to increase the cohesiveness of the many groups that have input into the student association by increased delegation of responsibility to the representatives from the various housing facilities, clubs, and organizations. In doing this, involvement is increased, avenues for students to send information and suggestions into the association are increased, attendance will rise due to the active responsibility of many people, and more will get done that will benefit the students.

— What abilities distinguish me from others to do this job? —
I have worked with administration. I know the administrators and they know me. I have worked interactively with Dr. Seymour, Deans Campbell and Pease of student affairs, Tom Wells of Physical Plant and George Wall of security - all on a daily basis. I have shown leadership in the position of Head Resident of Elizabeth dorm; management skills by implementation of dorm councils; delegatory skills by involvement of students and R.A.'s in many dorm functions; communication skills by keeping the students in the dorm informed and by expressing my views through the Sandspur; coordination skills through work with Sullivan Board. In addition, I have shown initiative by helping charter the Newman Club, I have been active on the Holt House Selection Committee, and I am a Sullivan Scholar Award Recipient.

Vice-President

Dan Payne Vice President

It is that time of year again. Besides being bombarded by propaganda from the Presidential. Elections, you are seeing the same approach here at Rollins. Many changes have taken place at Rollins during my two years here and the future holds even more. Change is essential to progress; however, one-sided change only creates greater conflict. I think that if we join President Seymour in making Rollins the best small private institution in the South, we can avoid these conflicts. I want to help you to become part of this progress by being your next Vice-President of the Student Association. I want to be your voice to the administration!

My interest in Rollins has not developed only recently. It has been present since my freshman year. Last year I gave campus tours for Admissions, was the alternate and representative to Student Association, and was chosen as a Resident Aide. My interest has not decreased this year either. This year I have continued my personal contact with the students of Rollins. I assisted in the advising of incoming Pre-Medical students during College Prep Week. Also I have participated in recruiting seminars for the school. I have tried to give prospective Rollins' students an objective view of the school, admitting its shortcomings yet stressing that changes are constantly occurring and will continue until we reach our goals.

I could promise you the world; however, I only promise you my active participation in our student government for you. I will carry out all the necessary functions of Vice-President.

Allison Zent Vice President

During this past year, having served actively as a voting member of the Rollins College Student Association, I have become increasingly aware of its problems as well as its potentials. This awareness has motivated me to seek a position within the organization which will better enable me to work on solutions for the prevailing problems in addition to the implementation of new and exciting ideas.

If elected to the Office of Student Association Vice President-Student Center President, I would hope to achieve what can best be described as an "open door policy" - a program whereby students would be given a better opportunity to voice their opinions, express their individual needs, and seek to resolve particular college-related problems. I feel that although it is the Association's primary responsibility to deal with group organizations, there exists an undeniable obligation to serve the individual as well; it is my sincere objective to make sure that this duty is performed. As a concerned and devoted member of Rollins College, I would like to work with you in a cooperative effort to better strengthen our common interest in the Rollins Community.

Election News

Due to the lack of candidates for these Standing Committees: College Life Committee (10 positions); Educational Policy Committee (8 positions); and Professional Development Committee (4 positions), the Standing Committees will be elected by the Student Body after Spring Break. Elections for President and Vice President of Student Association will be held April 1 and 2.

There will be a debate between the candidates for President and Vice President of Student Association for President and Vice President of Student Association on Monday, March 31, 1980 at 8:00 p.m. in the Student Union. The election will be held Tuesday, April 1 and Wednesday, April 2 in the Student Union Building. Ballots will be available in the Student Union Building.

Standing Committees

John Arciero College Senate

"What does a College Senator do?" The question may be a common one amongst many Rollins students. I feel that the lack of involvement and understanding on the part of many students is often due to the underexposure or unavailability of the senators who can relate the pertinent information.

Simply, I feel that a representative should be easily accessible to all students. I will not only be open to questioning, but I will also be persistent in my quest for increased student involvement and awareness. The College Senate is the primary legislative body of Rollins College. It is obviously a mainline for much of what happens in our community. I want to be your tap to that mainline. The more we ask of each other, the more we get in return.

Craig Crimmings College Senate

As an active member of the Rollins Community, serving as a member of the College Senate, Chairman of the Student Hearing Board, Student Association, and also President of Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity, I feel that I have the necessary knowledge and ability to successfully fulfill a position on the Senate for another term.

It is essential to be active in the Student Government system for this process deals directly with a myriad of policies and areas of special interest which relate to and affect the student body at large. Having served on the Senate for two years, I feel that I have come to know the system quite well and would again like to serve as your voice in the Senate. If elected, I will strive to serve the student body of Rollins College as best I can and will give ample consideration to all problems presented before me. Thank you.

Lisa Goldman College Senate and C.L.C.

I am running for a position on the College Senate for the 1980-81 term. The Senate is the primary legislative body of Rollins. I oversee the standing committees and reviews proposed changes in the curriculum, social regulations, and financial aid. I am also running for the College Life Committee, which entails the establishing and reviewing of policies regarding student life and co-curricular activities. I am capable and ready to take on the responsibility of these positions. This opportunity can be made possible only through you.

Cindy Harper College Senate and C.L.C.

Committee work is an effective means for the student body at Rollins to make its opinions known to the faculty and administration. Further, committees can take an active role in the policy and governance of the college, as manifested through successful changes in dorm living. Coed and unlimited visitation has brought a welcome change in the residence halls.

I feel the last two years have given me the opportunity to become aware of student opinion, and I ask that you allow me to convey these feelings to Senate and the College Life Committee. I have worked for Student Government, Panhel and Resident Hall Council in the past and feel these will enable me to be a sympathetic representative of a variety of organizations and student ideas.

Patty Hayes College Senate and C.L.C.

As a member of Chi Omega sorority, Circle K, and Educational Policy Committee, I have been active in promoting positive changes at Rollins. If elected to the College Senate and/or College Life Committee, I would encourage more student involvement in the planning and execution of programs and activities. Student organizations on campus need to be more responsive to the academic and social needs of students. If elected, I plan to help coordinate and publish a student guide to courses, which would evaluate the courses offered at Rollins by students who have taken them, so students will have first hand knowledge about courses before registration. I would also work to see that Saga is more responsive to the needs of students.

Carla R. Pepperman College Senate

I am a candidate for College Senate because, as an active member of the Rollins community for three years, I am familiar with the policies of the school and aware of changes that could benefit the campus. I am currently involved in student government as a member of Student Assembly. In addition, I serve on the College Life Committee and the Housing Review Board. My other campus interests are Circle K, Pre-Law Club, World Hunger Committee, and Rollins Organization of Women. I am an R.A. in my dorm, so I have constant contact with students' views. Through my commitments to these activities I have gained a sense of responsibility to serving Rollins and helping it to grow into a fine college. I hope to expand my service to the school by being a member of the Senate. I appreciate your vote next week.

Evan Press College Senate

I am very interested in the governmental structure of Rollins College. I was, and still am, extensively involved in the Student government and organizations of my high school. I am attempting to perform similarly here at Rollins.

I am currently my dorm's freshman representative. I am a Fine Arts Activist. I participate in Rollins theatre and sports programs and have an active interest in the Black Student Union and Jewish Student League. I hope to work with the Sandspur and WPRK in the near future. I am currently applying for membership with the Student Center for Social Concerns and hope to be an R.A. next fall. I am also a participant of Reflections '80 and varying other school events that crop up.

I am upset with the lack of communication that occurs between students and students, teachers and teachers, and students and teachers. I have a genuine interest in curriculum changes, social regulations, and in our college's standing committees.

I earnestly hope that you will give me the opportunity to serve you, myself, and future Rollins matriculators, by appointing me to a position on the Rollins College Senate.

Jay Scarlata College Senate

I have participated a great deal in the government of my fraternity and held positions of responsibility on the Executive Council and as Pledge Trainer. Through these experiences I have been able to enrich my knowledge of many aspects of the college community and spoken with administrators in all aspects of this campus. I wish to participate in the Senate so that once again I may broaden my horizons, but more importantly, to use my experience in the best possible way to benefit the students of this campus.

Tracy Strickland College Senate and C.L.C.

My name is Tracy Strickland and I am running for positions on the College Life Committee and the Senate. I think I would serve the college effectively in these positions.

I am involved in everything from Varsity Women's Volleyball to the English Club. I have written for the Sandspur, and am currently becoming involved in Circle K. I am also involved in the Greek system. As an upperclassman, I feel that I have the experience necessary to be an objective member of these committees. Through these many activities I have gotten to know the students and their needs. I would like the opportunity to represent you, and I feel that I could do this effectively through the CLC and the Senate.

I have the time, ability and most importantly, the desire to serve you. I hope you will support me in this effort.

Paul F. VonderHeide College Senate

My fellow students of Rollins College,

A senator, above all else, should be making decisions that benefit the entire student body. To do that, he or she must know students. Open-mindedness is essential, and a sincere interest in the quality of student life, academic and social, is a prerequisite.

If you vote Vonder Heide, April 1st or 2nd, you will be assured of having a representative in the Senate who exemplifies these qualities. As a WPRK news team member and a Sullivan House board member, I am constantly made aware of the concerns of the student body.

My goal, while in office, will be to see that students be provided with a greater voice in decisions that will effect them. Most importantly, I will work with you, the students of Rollins College, in achieving a higher quality Rollins experience.

Phil Weiss College Senate

In the next few weeks elections for Student Government positions will be held. As students of Rollins College we owe it to ourselves to elect dynamic and competent leaders who are willing to participate and to offer their time on behalf of the Student Body as representatives. Furthermore, it cannot be stressed enough the importance of continuity of members to these student positions. Many committees are ongoing from year to year and a full understanding of proceedings and interactions allows the student to engage in the activities and to better represent student opinion. With my position on the EPC and three other subcommittees (Library, Education Program Grants Task Force and the Grading Practices Task Force) I have seen too many students unable and afraid to speak up. If elected to the College Senate and EPC, I will see to it that not only I, but other students elected will represent the students fully and fairly.

WHAT'S HAPPENING

Jazzy Concert Saturday

For those who enjoyed Ramsey Lewis last year, we're in for a bigger event.

Several of his compositions have become jazz standards. His harmonic characteristics and use of time signatures have been with him for decades. Touring around the globe now brings him to Rollins.

Having been into jazz since he has been into life, Dave Brubeck and Quartet will be in concert at the Enyart-Alumni Fieldhouse tomorrow, Saturday, March 29, at 9:00 p.m.

Student admission is free, that's right, free of charge.

Stop complaining about having nothing to do Saturday nights, take advantage of a free musical happening with one of the masters of modern jazz.

Chapel Holiday Schedule

Palm Sunday and Holy Week Services are scheduled at the Chapel. At 11 a.m. Sunday, the Chapel Choir's palm procession opens the service at which Dean Wettstein will speak on "The Procession and the Profession." A new group of Associates of the Chapel will be received. On April 3, the Maundy Thursday Communion will be shared in the Frances Chapel at 9 p.m., and on Good Friday, April 4, a service of meditation begins at noon.

The lakeside Easter Dawn Service has become a new Rollins tradition. It will begin at 6 a.m. on Easter morning, to be followed by coffee and doughnuts at Sullivan House. As the college will be in spring recess, there will be no regular chapel services on Easter, April 6th, or the following Sunday, April 13.

Law School Deadlines Set

PRINCETON, N.J. — Law School applicants are advised that the eight-week delays in processing Law School Data Assembly Service (LSDAS) reports, caused by the late delivery of a new computer system, have been reduced to two weeks — the level experienced in the past at this time of year.

Because earlier delays slowed the decision process in some law schools, the Law School Admission Council, sponsor of the LSDAS, has recommended that the earliest deposit deadline date of law schools be extended from April 1, 1980, to May 1, 1980. Individual law schools, however, determine their own deadline dates.

Parking Rules to Remain

Campus Safety advises that during spring break, April 5-13, all parking regulations will remain in effect throughout the campus.

Concert Series Continues

Mozart's Piano Quintet, K. 452 will be the featured work at the next Rollins College Concert Series on Sunday, March 30, in the Annie Russell Theatre. Thomas Brockman, Rollins faculty member, will be the pianist along with principal players of the Florida's Symphony Orchestra.

A vocal quartet will also sing original music for four voices and piano by Haydn and Brahms. Michael Irwin will feature works for guitar by Villa-Lobos and Leo Brouwer.

Joining Mr. Brockman in the Mozart Quintet will be Janet Mascaro, Peter Harris, John Beck, and Arnold Mascaro. Each of these performers have been with the Florida Symphony for more than 10 years and all have been featured soloists with the orchestra.

The vocal quartet will also feature prominent artists frequently heard in opera and oratorio roles in Central Florida. Jodi Tassos, Laura Billings, Charles Threatte, and Lawrence Bond will be accompanied on the piano by Ward Woodbury.

Michael Irwin teaches guitar at the Rollins School of Creative Arts. He's studied with distinguished classical guitarists at the Aspen Music School where he has also performed.

Rollins Books New Mgr.

Rollins College recently hired Mr. Dayton Henson to the position of Bookstore Manager. A graduate of the University of New Hampshire, Mr. Henson has been managing and running bookstores for 37 years.

Upon his graduation, Mr. Henson taught high school in New York for five years. He then apprenticed himself to the bookstore at Syracuse University and after leaving, spent the next 20 years at the University of New Hampshire, where he built their first bookstore. Since then, Mr. Henson's activities have included the building and managing of bookstores at Brown and Penn State Universities, and a complete renovation of Tulane University's bookstore. At Penn State, Mr. Henson was also the director of that college's 20 branch bookstores.

Rollins will be changing its method of bookstore operation on June 1, 1980. Currently the bookstore is run on a lease operation by William Berrer. On June 1, Rollins will own and operate the bookstore itself. Mr. Henson said the takeover and planned renovation of the bookstore will not be too hard of a job and, in fact, should be a pleasant experience.

Anderson Info. Available

Many students have been asking what does John B. Anderson believe in? Well, we (Dr. Norman Gilbert's class) sent away for the information and "Anderson and everything he believes in from A to Z" can be found for review in Sullivan House, the Library and Dr. Gilbert's office.

Farmworkers Need Help

The essence of Judeo-Christian charity is helping others to help themselves, and this is what the farm workers are asking of you. They don't want you to build their union for them; this they have already done themselves.

But the union they built is being attacked on all sides by powerful special interests — growers, the largest agribusiness corporations and food chains. And so they are asking all those who believe in justice and decency to rally to their side.

If you believe that we are all our brother's keepers, then this is the time to:

Katie Irvine C.L.C.

In the past three years that I have been a student at Rollins College I have had one motto; be a student that is concerned for the betterment of Rollins. I detest those people who complain about our school but do nothing for its improvement. I have always strived to do the most I could to make Rollins a better place than when I got here. For example, I helped to organize the first annual Homecoming at Rollins. Then last year I created the R-Times for the use of every student and faculty member. Now I would like to continue my efforts for the improvements of Rollins College by joining the College Life Committee. Let's make Rollins even better; vote for Katie Irvine.

Merrie Beth Lake C.L.C.

My name is Merrie Beth Lake. I am interested in obtaining a position on the College Life Committee. I will be a senior next year and have attended Rollins since my freshman year. Because I have been involved in various aspects of the College, I feel I could be an asset to the committee. There are many changes on the horizon for Rollins. The decisions made in the coming year will be important to the future of the College. I want to do my part to help Rollins grow and improve. Thank you.

Robert Gleckler C.L.C.

I am currently a Rollins Freshman and am extremely interested in being affiliated with the College Life Committee, which is one of the standing committees for the College Senate. I feel I could be a valuable contributor to protecting the welfare of college life at Rollins.

My interest in people is sincere, especially to those who make up the Rollins Community. My attitude about supporting Rollins College and its policies is a good one. The College Life Committee is a very important committee because it deals directly with the students. The ten students that make up this committee represent the student body and have the ability to achieve a great deal. I am impressed with what the College Life Committee has done in the past, but at the same time I am eager to become a member to help in attaining higher goals from which the students would benefit.

I have been involved in school governments in the past and the outcome has been gratifying. I hope I get the chance to involve myself with the students on this campus in a political manner, and to become involved with school activities here at Rollins. I will do my best and work hard with others to accomplish these goals.

Executive Policy Com.

Bobby Davis E.P.C.

My name is Bobby Davis and I would like to continue holding my position on the Educational Policy Committee. I was elected to the EPC from the Student Association late in the Fall Term, so I have some experience in the job. I am now on the General Educational Policy Task Force, a subcommittee of EPC, in which we are trying to redefine and put into practice the philosophy and curriculum of a liberal arts education. I enjoy working with fellow members of the committee and would like to continue efforts to improve the education at Rollins.

Ed Trunfio E.P.C.

As a member of the Educational Policy Committee, I will make sure that the academic standards of Rollins are maintained. I would also like to explore other educational policies that would help Rollins become the finest liberal arts school in the southeast. With your support and student innovation, we can make Rollins one of the best small liberal arts schools by 1985 - our one-hundredth birthday.

Jay Scarlata C.L.C.

Over the years I have acquired a variety of experiences that qualify me for the College Life Committee. I have participated in Varsity Athletics, worked diligently in positions in the Greek System, and had a great deal of contact with administrators in all aspects of this campus. I have a firm understanding of the administrative process and have seen the student life on this campus from several perspectives. The culmination of these experiences coupled with a personal goal to improve this campus for everyone, are the reasons I wish to participate as a member of the College Life Committee.

The Rollins Sandspur, Florida's oldest college weekly, was established in 1894 with the following editorial:

"Unassuming yet mighty, sharp and pointed, well-rounded yet many sided, assiduously tenacious, yet as gritty and tenacious as its name implies, victorious in single combat and therefore without peer, wonderfully attractive and extensive in circulation, all these will be focused upon investigation to be among the extraordinary qualities of the Sandspur."

The Rollins Sandspur is a weekly publication produced by the students at Rollins College. Sandspur offices are located in the Andrew Carnegie Building, Rollins College. The Rollins Sandspur is produced at The Type People, 801 W. Fairbanks Ave., Winter Park, Fla. and printed at the Oviedo Outlook, Oviedo, Fla.

In an effort to establish a continuing dialogue within the Rollins community, the Rollins Sandspur promotes discussion indigenous to the scholastic environment. Hence, this paper encourages students to voice their opinions or concerns on pertinent issues in the form of letters to the editor.

Letters will be printed on a space available basis. All letters must be signed and must be received on the Friday before the paper appears. All letters should be addressed: Editor, Rollins Sandspur, Box 2742, Rollins College.

Rollins Student Government

Not 'By The People'

If you run for a position on the College Life Committee, you'll win. That's right, you'll win. You'll win regardless of qualification, regardless of platform, regardless of anything. All you have to do is find one vote and you'll be a C.L.C. member.

It's not because you're deserving, it's just because you ran. You're one of eight candidates vying for some 10 positions. They have got to take you or they will have inadequate representation on a student legislative body.

The Student Association affects almost every student, almost every day. Well, maybe Rollins students don't care what happens here. It would certainly seem that way...

If a college student government with as much power as Rollins', that wields almost a quarter of a million dollar budget annually and has virtually no restriction on it, if they can't even find enough people to fill all available positions, then they are in a poor state of affairs.

Rollins will go on. It will go on with or without a student government. There is no organizational necessity for the Student Association. The administration of the college will simply take over some of the needed tasks, many of the benefits will disappear.

The student body is self-governing. Self-governing, that is, if they can muster a government. It's your choice to make.

The standing committees are not the only student positions unfilled. As of this writing, the Tomokan has received not one application for editor. Maybe we don't need a yearbook editor.

If the Student Association was responsible for parties, we would need to hold primaries. But it only decides educational policies, college life policies, student center activities, concerts, lectures, films, search policies, newspapers, yearbooks, dances, debates...

Who needs those silly things?
I thought we all did.

COMMENT

What Is to Be Enough?

By Alan Nordstrom

I wish to propose that next year at Rollins there be one central conceptual theme to serve as an intellectual focal point for the entire academic community. Such a thematic concept might be: myth, symmetry, values, energy, language, paradox, or some other ramifying notion that reaches imaginatively into every field and discipline.

A specific concept I would nominate is Enoughness (or, in the Latinate: Sufficiency). I would ask not only: "When is enough enough?" but also "What is enough, and how do we know, how do we define it, why do we desire it?" Plainly, these are questions relevant to writers, artists, musicians, and philosophers, as well as to social and political scientists. Less certainly, I suppose that biologists, chemists, physicists, and mathematicians would have interesting things to say on the topic of sufficiency with regard to their special studies.

But whether or not the particular theme I am suggesting or some other seminal and exciting idea is taken up, the prospect of finding a common extracurricular and interdisciplinary ground for all of us, faculty and students, to stand on throughout the year, out to be energizing. I am not suggesting that whole courses be given over to the topic, though some professors may desire to concentrate some or all of their curricular program on the theme. Yet if a topic is in the air, it could easily and naturally infiltrate occasional lectures and discussions, with carry-over influence from other departments and from collegial events.

By "collegial events" I have in mind colloquia, symposia, guest lecturers, debates, and other devices of intellectual exchange. I would particularly like to see the Sandspur devote an issue to the topic or institute a regular section concerning it. Perhaps Brushing, the literary magazine, could express the theme, and special exhibits in Mills Library and the Cornell Art Center might reflect it. A special memorial publication, comprising the best writing by students and faculty done during the year and addressed to the year's topic, might properly celebrate the achievements of the College community.

One of my students lamented recently: "The art of conversation may be dying everywhere, but at Rollins it's definitely dead." I hope she is wrong. But if we can provide more occasions and means for promoting good conversation among all segments of our fragmented campus, on subjects we all have some say in and concern about, we might resuscitate a dying art and revitalize the intellectual spirit in a failing college body.

My proposal is not my original idea. I caught it directly from Dr. O'Sullivan and indirectly from our head librarian, Ms. Delks. Now let's see if it proves as widely infectious as the recent Rollins Flu. I would enjoy hearing your comments and suggestions. Box 2672.

Parking Policy Provokes Problems

Dear Editor,
I received a letter in my mailbox Monday morning informing me that my on-campus parking privileges had been revoked. The reasoning behind this was that I had received too many citations. There are several reasons why

I feel this was unjustified. First, the fines have always been paid and accounted for. I feel this is punishment enough for parking violations, particularly when one is an on-campus resident.

This brings up another complaint. The tickets I have received have had no relationship to the potential harm of anyone on this campus. Every ticket has been a parking violation such as parking over a yellow line, parking in an unmarked visitors' space in my designated lot, and parking in the wrong lot (in which case the car was not there for any extended length of time). Revoking the parking privileges would be one thing if they were for reckless or drunken driving or speeding, but in this case I feel the punishment is not only unsuitable to the crime, it is a flagrant display of power by our security department.

Another reason that this policy bothers me is that I will be placed in an unavoidable, potentially hazardous situation by having to park off campus. By doing so, I will be expected to walk from the Langford, for example, back to my dormitory room, after dark, by myself, thus substantially increasing my chances of being assaulted. This might be brushed off with the suggestion of not walking alone at night, but that is not applicable in a circumstance where the person affected works at night. I do not feel that another rape on the Rollins campus would be a very good reflection on the "campus safety" department.

I am, therefore, asking that this revocation be dismissed and another type of punishment be instituted; increased fines for any further violations perhaps. I feel that this would be a satisfactory means of dealing with this problem, not only for myself, but for all on-campus residents parking their cars here.

PARENT'S WEEKEND

Timing Was Bad

Dear Editor,

As my children have progressed through school, Parent Weekends have always been a favorite time for me and for them. The Administration and the Parent Organization of Rollins deserve much credit for their planning and enthusiasm for this year's "Parent Weekend at Rollins." I have enjoyed the activities and the comradery generated during these few days on campus.

There has been a discordant note, however, to mar an otherwise delightful time. What a surprise to find that my daughter was responsible for three mid-term exams between

Wednesday evening and Monday morning! I was torn between wanting to spend time with her and the guilty knowledge that I was keeping her from her studies. It seems unfair to the students, who want to be with their families, and to parents, who expend both time and money to visit with their children, to plan Parent Weekend during mid-term exams.

I can only hope that in the future, all facets of campus activities will be considered before dates are selected for parents to begin their pilgrimage to Rollins.

Editorial Not Minority Conscious

Dear Editor

I note with approval the editorial of March 14 regarding: Town Meeting Needs Shot in Arm, and I concur with that editorial. However, I also note that in the composition of the select committee of college officials you have neglected to refer to Minority Affairs, Affirmative Action, or Title IX Coordinator. It is my considered opinion (and history and present circumstance indicate support for my position) that, if Rollins is to move forward to become the great institution that we should be, the inclusion of minorities must be a major concern. Therefore, while good intentions are beautiful rhetoric, the reality indicates that additional attention, care, and concern must be given to these vital areas of the College. Thus I am requesting that your recommendations include representatives from this office.

Journey's Best

Journey - Departure - This album is much better than "Evolution" and even possibly better than their multi-platinum "Infinity." There are new styles present on this LP, the result of ingenious writing and planning. The vocals and guitar excel.

Food Not to Blame for Saga's Poor Quality

By John Tarnow

Throughout the year, numerous complaints, accusations and misgivings have been published concerning nearly every phase of Saga and its 'shortcomings.' One area that was mentioned in last week's Mailbag dealt with the possibility of increasing the quality of the individual ingredients that go into the students meals, even at their expense.

However, taking a closer look, it appears that the quality of the food used to prepare Saga's meals is as good as, if not better than, many fine restaurants as well as other colleges. This is the opinion that most of the cooks working at Saga have taken.

In fact, Pete Prevost, head cook and Kitchen Supervisor for Saga, feels that the company's problems lie not with the food, but with the neglect of those preparing the meals to follow the proper recipes.

"When I came here in the Fall," Prevost remarked, "I couldn't believe some of the meals looked that were being served." Naturally, foods that don't look right usually don't taste right, he concluded.

Since the Fall, Prevost and others have done much to remedy the situation. New employees, better attention to established recipes and a greater variety of entrees have all aided Saga's cause of pleasing its customers.

But, according to popular belief at Saga, food is not where a lack of quality exists, it is in the atmosphere. An overall lack of employee organization and attitude are major causes for the apparent absence of a 'quality' atmosphere in the Beanery. One of the probable explanations for this situation is the employment of young high school students all through the week who often fail to adhere to proper service standards on both sides of the counter. As a result, Rollins students may generally feel resentment towards the establishment before they have even eaten.

Moreover, the cost of employing such students is only more money not utilized to improve Saga's financial situation

With a $50,000 deficit hanging over their heads, those in the position to change and improve the situation are few.

Saga Manager Jeff Kownslar is attempting to better conditions by gradually phasing out employment of high school students and those unproductive in such an environment. Additionally, Prevost commented that "only when we get quality employees working for us can we start to attend to the finer details of food service."

A interesting note to all this was Prevost's remarks concerning the prices of the food that is served. "Before I came here, items such as fish were purchased without even knowing what the price was per pound. Prices for entrees were chosen randomly off the top of their (the management's) head. In some instances, Saga was losing money without even taking out expenses for wages, etc."

Prevost came from the University of Vermont where he worked for a similar Saga account. Ironically, though there was a slight variation in facilities, prices were considerably higher for the New England students as compared to Rollins. One explanation may be geographical in origin, but more than likely it stems from simple inadequate pricing, Prevost feels.

"That Rollins Faire is one of the main reasons for the $50,000 deficit," he retorted. According to Prevost, there are items here that sell for $1.25 that were sometimes sold for twice that price in Vermont. In that respect, he feels that the students are the ones that get the better shake when it comes to the cost for a full-course meal.

With the help of concerned and able employees like Prevost, Saga is progressively advancing toward its goal of a smooth-running, quality organization designed to meet the needs of the Rollins community.

In reality, it appears that Rollins students have not fallen prey to the strangling grasp of big business, but merely joined the ranks of those caught up in their own struggle to make ends meet.

Jazz' Not All Perfect

By Tom Freeman

Nine thirty-three and twenty-one seconds . . . Joe Gideon wakes up, pops some speed, pops an Alka-Seltzer in a cup of water and watches it fizz, looks in the mirror and announces, "It's showtime!"

The show is Bob Fosse's autobiographical film, All That Jazz. It is a film that firmly establishes the renowned director/choreographer of the stage as a talent to reckon with in the film industry.

In All That Jazz Fosse attempts to choreograph his death. The main character, Joe Gideon, is a thinly veiled copy of Fosse. He is a man who is as obsessed with work as he is with death. He works hard and plays just as hard. When he puts a show together, he tears his body apart.

All That Jazz is a fantasy film that portrays moments of reality. The problems Gideon faces as a director of a musical and a film director trying to make his final cut, are presented through great cinematic inspiration. The choreographer Gideon must choose a group of 10 dancers out of a group of hundreds. Fosse shows a great talent in editing, which prevails all through the film, to show how the group is cut down to size. With each shot, the cast is diminished. Director Gideon must put up with a script that doesn't deserve the great choreography. To show the audience how the jokes of the musicals script don't appeal to Gideon, Fosse uses a selective method on his soundtrack. As the script is being read, and everybody laughs, all we hear is the sound of the paper Gideon wrinkles, and his fist hitting the table in hidden anger. The shallowness of the script becomes obvious even though we never hear it. Film director Gideon faces the same problem most of today's filmmakers seem to suffer from. He is obsessed with his movie. Like Francis Ford Coppola with Apocalypse Now, Gideon can't let his film, the Stand-Up be released. He is constantly re-editing it. The jokes in his film seem to re-occur in a nightmarish effect all around Gideon. He does not know where his film ends and his life begins. All That Jazz is a probing of all the varied sides of Joe Gideon (Bob Fosse). The open-heart surgery, so vividly portrayed, represents the probing Fosse is trying to make into himself. His quest is to discover "what makes me tick!"

Dancing, however, is what Fosse is known for, and in this rousing musical, he doesn't let us down. Fosse has created a world in which dancing is a language. Fosse dances with his wife and daughter while they have a conversation. The dancing, or warming up movements, say more than the words. He also provides the film with a number of brilliant musical scenes and a finale that can only be described as a show stopper.

Fosse, however, is not the only talent in All That Jazz. The photographer Rutonno helps Fosse create his breathtaking world of fantasy. Rutonno is the same man who shot Fellini's 8½, a film Fosse is greatly indebted to. The supporting performances were all top notch with the most credit going to Erzsebet Foldi as Gideon's daughter.

All That Jazz is a great, yet not perfect film. Its reliance on 8½ has some bad effects. The character of Death, in this film she is called Angelique, seems out of place. On the whole, though, All That Jazz is an exciting cinematic experience.

Theatre to Hold Auditions for Summer Stock

The Annie Russell Summer Theatre at Rollins College will move to a repertory schedule of plays offered by a resident company of actors and technicians as it begins its eighth year of operation in June.

The move from stock two-week runs to single plays to a rotating schedule of productions is part of an overall plan to provide greater opportunity for students of the theatre arts to work in a concentrated production program.

These changes in the Rollins College summer theatre program, as well as audition dates for individuals interested in company membership were announced today by Firman H. Brown, Chairman of Theatre Arts at Rollins and Steve Neilson, Managing Director of the summer operation.

The 1980 Annie Russell Summer Theatre will offer four plays in rotation.

June 18 through August 3. These four plays, two opening the first week of performances and the other two joining the repertory schedule in the weeks that follow, will provide members of the company an opportunity to study and work in a variety of theatrical modes, according to Brown and Neilson.

Company membership for the 1980 summer season will be on a full-time basis. All positions are salaried, Neilson said, and most will require full-time participation by those associated with the company. The rehearsal schedule will run morning, afternoon and evening during the initial two weeks prior to opening and then during the daytime hours thereafter.

"It is this opportunity to work in a variety of roles over a period of time that gives the repertory system its greatest value," said Brown, Artistic Director for the summer theatre. "It is our hope that the learning experience the company will have over the nine weeks of working together will help each individual gain valuable understanding of the theatrical experience. The great value of repertory is that you have time to think about and mature in your roles."

Auditions and interviews are open to anyone interested in working in the company. Individuals who wish to audition for acting positions are asked to bring two prepared audition pieces, one serious, one comic of not more than three minutes each. They need not be memorized, Brown said, but they should be well prepared.

A wide range of acting positions are available. Directors of the company are seeking actors of varying ages, several black actors and actresses, and there are several roles for children. In addition to a permanent company of actors, some performers will be hired to appear in only one production. Thus, there is opportunity for a considerable number of actors and actresses to work with the company, on a full-time or limited basis, Neilson said.

Individuals interested in technical positions with the company are asked to report on March 30 also for interviews with Neilson. They may also apply directly by mail if they cannot be at the March 30 interview. Deadline for such applications is March 31. All individuals applying for acting or technical positions should bring a resume listing her/his theatrical experience and a recent photograph.

Final selection of the repertory season is currently under discussion and an announcement of the four productions and dates will be made shortly, Neilson said.

Rollins Wins 4th Baseball Week

By Chris Russo

The situation was as follows: Cornell was leading Rollins 13-2 in the bottom of the fifth. It was the Tars fourth game of the Rollins College Baseball Week. The Tars desperately needed a win to keep pace with Clemson, who had won earlier to increase their tournament record to 3-1.

The Tars began to chip away at Cornell's lead in the fifth. Cornell's starting pitcher Phil DiTerna started to lose his control, and a timely hit by Berry Dunlap drove in two runs. The Tars scored one run in the sixth, and ignited for six runs in the seventh to pull within one, 13-12. But in the eighth, Cornell struck back for two runs to take a 15-12 lead going into the bottom of the ninth.

Before the ninth started, the umpires convened at home plate to determine whether or not to continue in lieu of the darkness. They decided to continue.

Greg Meyers was the fourth pitcher used by the Redmen, and he opened the ninth by walking Pete Duglenski and Mike Lyster. Rusty Piggott bounced a ball between short and third, and Lyster beat the throw to second. The bases were loaded, nobody out, and Tony Schefstad stepped up to the plate. He hit a drive deep to left-center that hit the base of the wall. When the smoke cleared, Schefstad was standing on second, and three runs had crossed the plate to tie the game at 15-15.

Jay Barnhardt and Dan Flynn walked, and Glenn Sherlock bounced into a force play at home. Berry Dunlap, in a classic confrontation between pitcher and batter, struck out on a 3-2 pitch. The bases were loaded with two outs, and Scott Moffat was called on to pinch-hit. But before he took the bat off his shoulder, Meyers threw a wild pitch to give Rollins a 16-15 victory in the darkness at Harper-Shepard Field.

On Friday, the Tars defeated Clemson

5-1, in a game that seemed a bit anticlimatic. Clark Murray and Steve Todd combined for a four-hitter and Sherlock knocked in two runs with a double to break the game open in the eighth.

By the time the Tars played their last game on Saturday, they had already won the tournament thanks to a 7-6, ten inning victory by Cornell over Clemson in the first game of the day. For the record, the Tars won 12-0 over Cincinnati behind a six-hit performance by Steve McDonald, his second shut-out of the week.

So the Tars won their fourth Baseball week in a row thanks to the team's heroics on Thursday. If the Tars go on to make the NCAA Division II playoffs, the Cornell game might be looked upon as the turning point of the 1980 season.

After winning Baseball Week for the fourth straight year, the Tars took on Colby College from Maine for two games. Monday the Tars got out the big bats as Pete Duglenski and Glenn Sherlock powered them to a 9-1 victory. Tad Slowik won his fourth of the year, pitching a nifty five-hitter.

Tuesday's game with Colby wasn't nearly as easy as the Tars squeaked out a 1-0 win in eleven innings. With one out in the eleventh inning, Tony Schefstad lined a single to left-center that scored Pete Duglenski from third. Chuck Overby went the distance on the mound, notching his sixth win against no losses.

Rollins' record was 19-7 Wednesday when the Tars began conference play against UCF. The Knights, however, stopped the Tars winning streak at 6 games, winning by a score of 6-2. Rollins stroked only five hits in the game while the Knights collect thirteen.

Today the Tars play at UCF and tomorrow the game is at Harper-Shepard.

Catcher Danny Flynn running "down the line" after hitting a home-run. Flynn was voted to the Baseball Week All-Tournament team, along with five other Tars. Senior Rusty Piggott was named the Tournament MVP for the fourth consecutive year.

Crew Teams Strong in Games

Last Saturday the Rollins crew team finished second at the Florida World games at Turkey Lake, Orlando. Competing schools included UCF, Jacksonville, Tampa and Drexel.

The men's Varsity Eight team took second behind Drexel, with UCF finishing third. The men's Junior Varsity Eight finished third behind UCF and Tampa. Sophomore crew member Baxter Bode said both men's teams finished strong, and should improve quickly as more experience is gained.

The women's Varsity Four finished first, and the Varsity Eight finished fourth.

Tomorrow, the Tars travel to race in the Miami Invitational. Next Saturday, the Tars host the Bradley Cup at Lake Maitland.

Reflections '80, A Look to the Future

The Admissions Office extends a warm welcome to the participants of Reflections '80. These eighty high school students, visiting from as far away as Texas, Illinois, Connecticut and Michigan share the rooms of currently enrolled students this weekend while taking a closer look at the place that may become their home for the next four years.

A variety of activities has been planned from classes to parties, a career seminar to a student activities presentation, a departmental showcase, to the Royal Ballet. The schedule is quite busy in an attempt to help the student view all sides of the Rollins community. Although all the participants are accepted applicants, many are making their final college choice during the weeks following Reflections '80.

Nineteen-eighty marks the first time a program of this size and nature has been attempted by the Admissions Office of Rollins. It is the hope of the Admissions staff that this will become a yearly event growing with each year in participation, on the part of the College community, as well as the visiting students.
