POINTS TO PONDER:

Does the BYOB policy apply to administration, faculty, and staff events?

BEANS FIRE: ARSON SUSPECTED

BY SANDY BITMAN
Sandspur Staff

Last week on the morning of September 11, Rollins Campus Safety Officer Edgar Rodriguez found the rear of Rose Skillman Dining Hall ablaze. At the same time, the Winter Park fire department was notified of the incident from Network Security, Rollins' fire alarm company, at 5:31 a.m. Within ten minutes of the notification, two fire engines and a fire rescue vehicle were called upon the scene. The fire was under control and extinguished by 6:30 a.m. without any sustained injuries, however, there was extensive damage done to the building.

Initial reports from Rollins Campus Safety and Winter Park fire officials held that the flames were contained to the dishwasher areas adjacent to the kitchen. However, upon further investigation of the scene, it was found that the flames also damaged the kitchen area while the only damage incurred to the dining area was from water and smoke.

Financial estimates were initially set at $100,000 but later figures were as high as $500,000 to $1,000,000, according to Tom Wells, Director of Physical Plant. However, this depended on whether the building had to be leveled and rebuilt or not due to structural damage done to the walls of the building.

The college's bookstore, located underneath the dining hall, incurred damage to its ceiling due to the water from the fire. Numerous ceiling tiles were washed out. In order to prevent further harm to the merchandise, plastic was draped over the items. The store was closed and later reopened on Thursday afternoon, operating at full capacity.

Initial reaction to the fire ranged from one administrator commenting that "the students will have to get used to eating lots of sandwiches," while a student thought that "we [the students] should not have to pay for the service fees".

Extensive damage was sustained in the kitchen of Rose Skillman Hall. Estimates of the damage range from $500,000 to $1 million.

While Beans is being restored students are being directed to the Student Center and the Cornell Cafe for food services. For breakfast, lunch, and dinner hot food is being shipped in from other Marion food services such as Valencia Community College, and the University of Central Florida. There are reports that students will be back in Beans anywhere from a week to a month.

The investigation into the incident began soon after the fire was doused. Initial reports held that the cause was an electrical malfunction within the dishwashing machine.

As the day continued, the building was quarantined because of possible asbestos contamination. The investigation was halted and air samples were taken and sent to Tampa. Results from the test returned Thursday, and proved negative.

When the inquiry resumed, the question arose dealing with possible arson. As the week proceeded, more and more evidence was compiled regarding the arson report, and a Florida fire inspection team was called in. On Saturday night, The Sandspur was asked by Campus Safety to share its photos of the fire scene. Sources have it that an unknown liquid was poured on and around the equipment in the dish room. Apparently, the assailant had a key, according to campus safety, since there was no evidence of forced entry.

As of printing, the official Winter Park police report was unavailable and expected to be released on Wednesday the 18th.

Roe v. Wade:

Roe lawyer to speak at Rollins

COMPILED BY KEPPLER ASSOCIATES
Press Release

Sarah Weddington, the lawyer for Roe in the controversial landmark "Roe v. Wade" ruling will speak in the Hauck Auditorium Tuesday September 24th at 8:00 p.m.

Sarah Weddington is a well-known attorney and spokesperson on public issues. She argued the winning side of the landmark case of "Roe v. Wade" before the United States Supreme Court. In that 1973 decision, the Court ruled that the U.S. Constitution guarantees to women the choice of whether to continue or terminate an unwanted pregnancy. For her work in that case, Ms. Weddington has received numerous awards, including the Planned Parenthood Federation of America's Margaret Sanger Award.

Ms. Weddington has been a long-time advocate for women. In 1972, she was the first woman elected from Austin to be a member of the Texas House Representatives, where she served three terms. While there, she helped reform the Texas rape statutes, passed an equal credit bill for women, led successful efforts to maintain Texas' ratification of the ERA and led successful efforts to prevent any passage of anti-abortion legislation. She was also instrumental in changing Texas law to provide equal consideration in custody for mothers and fathers.

From 1978 to 1981, Ms. Weddington was assistant to the President of the United States. She was designated by President Carter to lead White House efforts to extend the time for ratification of the national ERA, to assist in the selection of women for judiciary appointments,

... argued the winning side of the landmark case of "Roe v. Wade" before the United States Supreme Court to co-chair the U.S. Delegation to the United Nations Mid-Decade Conference on Women in Copenhagen in 1980, and to implement other programs to assist the equal treatment of women in the military, in securing business loans, and in social programs.

Ms. Weddington is now a writer, lecturer, and teacher. Her interview with First Ladies Johnson, Ford, and Carter on "Women and the Constitution" appeared in Good Housekeeping. She speaks extensively on women's issues and the development of leadership skills. She is a Senior Lecturer at The University of Texas at Austin, and each summer she is a Distinguished Lecturer at Texas Woman's University. Her course, "Women as Leaders," has drawn students as far away as Iowa. Ms. Weddington is currently writing a book, Some Women Are Born Leaders.

She has received numerous honors and awards. For example, Time named her one of the "Outstanding Young American Leaders." Ladies Home Journal presented her with its "Woman of the Future" award. Ms. Weddington was selected as one of the ten "Outstanding Women in America" in 1979. Esquire, in 1984, recognized her as an "American Under 40 Making Things Happen." She has been featured in such publications as Working Woman, People, and the Washington Post and has been a guest on such programs as Today and Good Morning America. In 1987, 1988 and 1989, Ms. Weddington was named by NACA (the National Association for Campus Activities) as one of five Top Speakers on the College Circuit. She is President of the Bob Marshall Foundation and serves on the board of several foundations.

This lecture is free for Rollins' students, however, space is limited so please arrive early. This lecture is being brought to you by the Rollins College Productions Lecture Series.

A.D.E.P.T.- looking forward to a successful year under new organization

BY KRIYA LENZION

Contributing Writing

A.D.E.P.T. is the Alcohol Drug Education Planning Team. Many of you think you now what ADEPT's all about. Erase from your mind any old impressions of ADEPT and keep reading.

ADEPT has new leaders, a full-time "Alcohol Educator" and a government grant for programming. We've got plans - big plans - and we want you to be part of them. So what's this new ADEPT all about?

ADEPT offers a new perspective - a new attitude.

Against the unchallenged attitude that excessive use of alcohol & drugs is expected in college, ADEPT offers a new challenge. We don't believe you have to be "on something" to have fun and be yourself - and we'll prove it. We challenge people to take an honest look at their alcohol drug use and to ask themselves "What role does alcohol/drugs play in my life?"

ADEPT is affiliated with BACCHUS [Boosting Alcohol Consciousness Concerning the Health of University Students] - a national network of college alcohol awareness groups. We are a group of students who gather together to promote the idea of good fun, good times and good friends without the excessive use of alcohol or drugs.

We stress the term "excessive use" because we are NOT condemning those who choose to use. We are NOT a "Just Say No" Group. We ARE striving to help alleviate the problems of misuse and abuse which are harmful to both the individuals and those around them. We ARE increasing awareness concerning healthy alternatives to abuse. We ARE providing support for those who choose - for whatever reason - not to use drugs or alcohol.

The ADEPT perspective is this; within laws and policies, after examining accurate information, the individual needs the freedom to make his/her own choices. We are all responsible adults here. ADEPT helps provide education so that individuals can make these decisions educated ones. In order to better educate others, the members of ADEPT are constantly educating themselves on drug and alcohol issues.

ADEPT stands against the tide. We won't accept "everybody does it" because everybody doesn't. We won't accept "following the crowd" because we encourage personal responsibility in decision making, and crowds don't make decisions.

If you believe in the ADEPT perspective, we need your energy and creativity—ALL LEVELS OF PARTICIPATION ARE WELCOME!!!

Join us. Positive peer pressure. Now that's a new concept.

Here are just some of the changes you'll be seeing in the New ADEPT and some of this year's plans:

ESTABLISHING PERMANENT PROGRAMS

- * A Designated Driver/R.I.D.E. Safe (Reducing Intoxicated Drivers with Education) Program - One of the inevitable consequences of the new BYOB policy is going to be more people "partying" off-campus and drinking & driving, making this program crucial. We will run constant educational programs and anti-drunk driving publicity. We will work with IFC & PANHEL to co-sponsor a shuttle service & car rides back to school from favorite student drinking spots and off-campus parties. These will be driven by the members of a different organization each week. (Kappa, CKI, BSU etc.) One aspect of this program entails getting a car dealership to donate most of the cost of a van. They paint their name on the side & that they are supporting Ride Safe.

We will also work with these student drinking spots to encourage them to establish their own Designated Driver program, requiring that someone in each student "party" has agreed to be a designated driver, and offering them free non-alcoholic drinks to students.

- * A.G.A.M.M.A. Chapter (Greeks Advocating the Mature Management of Alcohol) - a task force to address Greek alcohol issues. Will also sponsor inter-Greek programming & education.

- * Rollins in Recovery - An organization of students, faculty & staff recovering from alcohol or drug addiction. They will serve as a social and support group for each other as well as a resource for others entering or curious about recovery.

- * Establish Friends & Family of Alcoholics - A group of Rollins students (faculty & staff welcome) effected by alcoholics in their lives who meet weekly to share their experience and support.

COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT

- * A.D.E.P.T. members will bring their knowledge & energy into the community by offering educational talks on drugs & alcohol in local high schools and grade schools and helping the schools develop programming.

- * We will coordinate & participate with RSVP in service projects related to drugs and alcohol (i.e. "Snow Babies" - spending time with crack babies.)

INTRA-GROUP DEVELOPMENT

- * We will Establish several offices within the Team: Head Team Coordinator (Kriya), Vice Team Coordinator, Secretary, Treasurer, Social Chair, Education Chair, Public Relations Chair, Publicity Chair, Chapter Correspondence Chair, Group Development Chair, RIDE Safe Chair & Rollins in Recovery Chair.

- * With the belief that strong programming requires a strong group behind it, ADEPT will do FUN "bonding" THINGS within the group itself (thus the need for a "Social Chair")

- * ADEPT Members will be educated and trained on the nature and effects of alcohol & drugs, dependency, and intervention. Certain members will go through a more intensive training on these issues and will serve as Drug & Alcohol Peer Educators (until COPA Peer Ed. Program develops)

- * We'll have hip T-Shirts cheap for members

- * We will go on an ADEPT Retreat to work on group cohesion & motivation, goals etc.

- * ADEPT members will attend National & District BACCHUS Conventions (coming up in November)

CONSISTENTLY WEEKLY PROGRAMMING

- * Sponsorship (or Co-) of a Substance-Free recreational activity every weekend whether it be a van-load to miniature golfing or bowling or an on-campus party or movie.

- * "Mocktail" Happy Hours every (or every other) Friday evening 5--pm on Student Center Patio - co-sponsored with CKI.

An educational article or thought-provoking fact, question, picture etc. in each edition of the Sandspur.

CONSISTENT OCCASIONAL PROGRAMMING

- * Workshops (requiring active thought & participation) on How to Spot Drug & Alcohol Problems, How to Help Friends, Honest self-evaluation of own Alcohol & Drug use (For Faculty & Staff as well)

- * Many Co-Sponsored activities & Programs with other campus Organizations & Departments. Some ideas for Fall include: "A Natural High Trip" with ROC, "I Wanna Go Higher" dance w/ "How to spot & help students with drug & alcohol problems" w/Dean of Faculty/PPsych Department/Health & Counseling

Career Services changes

Career Services has made a variety of important personnel and operational changes beginning this year. For the benefit of new students unfamiliar with our office, Career Services is on campus to help students choose and plan for their future careers. More specifically, Career Services offers career counseling, extensive career library resources, resume writing and job interviewing guidance, job hunting assistance (full-time, part-time, and summer), graduate school planning seminars and information, and internship listings.

This year you will see some changes in the Center's approach to services and the student populations. Hamilton Holt School students represent the newest addition to Career Service's service group. Gracie Santiago, formerly Associate Director of Admissions, is the newest addition to the counseling staff and is responsible for working with Holt students. Career Services encourages Holt students to stop by the office. For the convenience of all students, office hours have been extended to Monday through Thursday 8:30 A.M. to 7:00 P.M. and Friday 8:30 A.M. to 5:00 P.M.

There will be a greater emphasis on workshops and group services this year for meeting needs students have in common. Guidance on topics such as resume writing, interviewing skills, job search strategies, graduate admissions etc. will be handled in group workshops. Career Services will ensure a comprehensive schedule of programs so that all students can find a convenient time to attend. Our intention in placing more emphasis on group work is to more promptly and efficiently meet students' needs while incorporating the advantages of peer sharing of ideas. When visiting Career Services students will be asked to fill out a brief evaluation card giving the Center feedback on how to further help meet career planning needs.

There are several staff changes this year. Barbara Pool has assumed the position of Director, having succeeded Wanda Russell who is beginning her final year with the college in preparation for retirement in May of 1992. Russell will assume the title of Associate Director and spend the upcoming year working on special projects important to Career Services. Pool will be the primary counselor for all arts and sciences seniors both those planning on job search as well as those planning on attending graduate or professional school. Gracie Santiago is the primary career counselor to the Holt School students. John Gallagher will continue to work with the arts and sciences freshmen, sophomores, and juniors. Gallagher will also serve as internship coordinator.

Career Services is located in the Mills Building, phone ext. 2195.
Career Services Program Schedule Sept. 18th through Sept. 25th

Library Hours: an update

As you may recall, in Fall term 1990, the library began closing at midnight. In response to student demand, one of the goals of last year's S.G.A. was to have the library resume its 2 a.m. hours Sunday through Thursday.

We conducted surveys, talked to many students, passed Senate legislation, and held many meetings with Dr. George Grant, Director of Libraries. Our goal was accomplished on April 1 when the library returned to its 2 a.m. closing time. After talking with Dr. Grant this summer, the library will maintain the same hours at the start of this year, but we as students must show that we need the facility. Both financial and safety considerations are involved, and if the library is not used it should be closed. However, as long as the need is shown we will work to keep the library open.

Please use the study and research facilities and talk to someone in S.G.A. about when and how you use the library, so we know what the demand is. Even better, you can write a letter to the S.G.A. at Box 2746 to voice your concerns. We will collect these letters and forward them to Dr. Grant for his consideration.

Sincerely,

Skipper Moran
S.G.A. President

Rollins College Faculty: Meet some of the new faces of our academic community

KALEE D. KREIDER
Sandspur Staff

Be on the lookout for some of these new faces among the faculty members of Rollins College in the Arts & Sciences.

Mark L. Chapman joins the faculty as an Assistant Professor of Religion with interests lying in African-American religious thought/history. Prior to arriving at Rollins Professor Chapman has served as a research assistant and Associate Minister of Grace Congregational Church of Harlem.

Balance T.P. Chow recently taught at California State University, Fresno after earning his Ph.D. from the University of Georgia. He currently has two books in progress including Poetry and Femininity in the Chinese Tradition. Research interests include literature and femininity and the post-modernization of the Orient.

Maria L. Cruz is anticipating the completion of her Ph.D. from Rutgers this year and holds a B.S. from the University of Puerto Rico. She joins Rollins College as a Visiting Assistant Professor of Anthropology. Professor Cruz has also worked as a research assistant in two projects dealing with fisheries management and development.

James Francis joins the Rollins faculty as a Visiting Assistant Professor of Classics. Having recently earned his Ph.D. from Duke University, Professor Francis has served as assistant director of the National Endowment for the Humanities "Christian Humanism Project" from 1978-81.

Mynra Greene is a Rollins alumna (class of '79) and has been an adjunct professor here teaching Italian. Currently she will serve as a Visiting Instructor of Spanish and Italian since the completion of her M.A. from Florida State University.

Catherine Higgs expects to receive her Ph.D. from Yale in December and holds a B.A. from Queen's University at Kingston, Canada. Since February 1990 Professor Higgs has been the Program Coordinator of the African Dissertation Internship Awards Program of the Rockefeller Foundation. She will be joining the History Department as a Visiting Assistant Professor.

Dawn Latta holds her bachelor's, masters', and Ed.D. from the University of Georgia and comes to Winter Park from the University of Houston. She frequently presents and consults for school districts, education committees, and teaching and composition conferences. At Rollins she will serve as a Visiting Professor of Education.

Yuri Latushkin has earned his M.S. and Ph.D. from Odessa University in the Ukraine. His research experience before joining Rollins as a Visiting Associate Professor of Mathematics is through the Ukrainian Academy of Science, Hydroacoustic Institute, Odessa.

Mary McCormack has taught in the Sociology Department for two years at Alma College and holds an M.A. and Ph.D. from Michigan State University. Her teaching interests as an Assistant Professor of Sociology include sex and gender, feminist theory, sociology of health and illness and the life-cycle.

Junryo Miyashita has served as an Associate Professor of Computer Science at California State University, San Bernardino and has taught at the University of South Florida. At Rollins he joins the faculty as an Associate Professor of Mathematics and Computer Science.

Richard Morris has developed curriculum and taught physical education to elementary educators through his alma mater, the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga. Mr. Morris designed an implemented Orange County's first wellness program and joins Rollins as a Visiting Instructor of Physical Education and Director of Women's Intramurals.

Judy Schmalstig holds a Ph.D. from the University of Dayton and since 1986 has served as a post-doctoral Fellow in Biology at Pennsylvania State University. She has also spent a year as Visiting Scientist in the Central Research and Development Department of E.I. DuPont de Nemours. At Rollins Professor Schmalstig will serve as an Assistant Professor of Biology.

Melissa Shafer is one of two new Visiting Assistant Professors of Theatre. She holds a Masters of Fine Arts from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale and since 1985 has taught in the Department of Theater and Dance at the University of Alabama at Birmingham.

Jeff Storer is a Rollins alumnus (class of '75) who joins our Theatre Department as the Director and Co-Founder of the Manbites Dog Theater Company in Durham, NC. He was also an Associate Director of the Duke University Theatre Program from 1982-1987. He has also served as Associate Director of the Annie Russell Theatre from 1978-79.

Marc Wruble is currently working on his Ph.D. at the University of Florida in Psychology and already holds an MS. from U.F. He has worked as a Visiting Assistant Scientist at the Beratskhvili Institute in Tbilisi, Georgia and worked under the supervision of Rollins professor Roger Ray. At Rollins he joins the faculty as Visiting Assistant Professor of Psychology.

S.G.A. Minutes
September 11, 1991 meeting
Clerk, Danielle Farese

The Student Government Association held its first informal meeting for the 91-92 school year. Senate started the year off right with 28 of 30 Senators promptly attending the meeting. SGA had a special guest, Dean Neilson, as well. Dean Neilson clarified the situation with Rose Skillman Dining Hall for the SGA. Other highlights of the meeting included committee reports, update of the BYOB implementation policy, discussion of a Senate Job Description, and nominations of student senators to serve on the College Senate. The SGA was reminded of the mandatory retreat on the weekend of September 27th. The meeting ended about 8:30 p.m.

Senate Watch

BY DAN MARTINEZ
Sandspur Staff

Fortunately, optimism about the 1991-92 Senate is not at an all time low. Last Wednesday, at approximately 10:15 pm, I passed by a sullied Galloway room. The first meeting of Senate was over and, from the appearance of the room, I was left with the impression that something productive might have been accomplished.

As appearances would have it, several things had happened: a mandatory retreat for all members of Senate was set for September 27, a summit was announced for November 8th, and Jason Dimitris announced his office hours (1-3 pm). On the more spontaneous side of things, Senator Dal Walton, also manager of the new Rollins television station, announced that all future Senate meetings will be televised on Rollins TV 6. As if it is not enough that we already get 24 hours worth of filibustering from Capitol Hill on C-SPAN, now everyone must purchase a second television to catch those additional hours of budding bureaucrats from the Galloway Room. But, what harm could it possibly do?

In addition, credit must be given to the Senators who pointed out the inconsistencies in the ever popular BYOB policy. Senators asked if the asked for exceptions on Parents' Weekend and Greek Week had been approved as well as if individuals under the age of 21 could be servers. Demonstrating, once again, the worth while stability of administrative policies, Lucy Hamilton reported that the administrative reply was, "We don't have a problem with that."

CAC News

The Rollins College Cultural Action Committee is currently accepting applications for the 91-92 academic year. We will be choosing two students for the position of members at large. ## Judicial News

The Residence Hall Judicial Council (RHJC) is a fundamental component of the college judicial system. It is the instrument by which students maintain community standards among the residential units. It is primarily a mediating body, responsible for resolving disputes among residents and for educating them in the responsibilities of group living.

At this point in time, the RHJC is seeking to fill several judge positions. The council consists of twelve judges who listen to and decide weekly cases in an attempt to make students more aware of the responsibilities inherent with membership in the Rollins community. If you are looking for a way to get involved or are simply interested in serving in a judicial position please inquire at the Office of Residential Life for an application.

STEPPIN' OUT!

BY LINDA DEPUTY
Sandspur Staff

When to go out? What to do? Where to do it? If you find yourself asking these questions you've found the right article.

The Orlando area is packed with a bountiful assortment of clubs in which to spend hours talking, dancing, drinking and just plain band-listening. "STEPPIN' OUT" is designed to enhance the awareness within the Rollins community of these local area hot spots so that ignorance will not be to blame for anyone being bored or stuck to the confines of their dorm room!

Such areas to be reviewed are The Beachum, The Blue Note, The Mill, Visage, Church St. Station and several others. We, of the Sandspur staff, would also appreciate any suggestions that may be made in reference to clubs that you would like to be reviewed. It is understood that you may be curious about a night spot but would rather know more before journeying into an unfamiliar realm. The associates of STEPPIN' OUT are willing to make such sacrifices for you.

So until the next Sandspur and our updated enlightenments, party safe and attempt to partake of the various dimensions of entertainment just waiting for you out there..... Oh, yeah, and , um.....Carpe Diem, Dude!

Happenings in O-Town

September 22nd: Orlando Museum of Art 3rd Annual "Starry, Starry Night" Jazz Festival will be taking place at the Orlando Loch Haven Park. This event is free and open to the public from 3-10 p.m.

September 25th: Curator of 19th Century American Art, Valerie Leeds will present a survey of 19th and 20th century artists who chose to depict the natural bounties of the American landscape. This event will be taking place at the Orlando Museum of Art. For further information and reservations call (407) 896-4231.

September 27th: Southern Ballet Theatre presents "A Tribute to Balanchine," featuring four diverse ballets, "Valse Fantaisie," "Allegro Brillante," "Tchaikovsky Pas de Deux" and "Turetta." Event will take place at 8:00 p.m. in the Bob Carr Performing Arts Centre. For ticket information call 628-0133.

September 28th: "Revelations: Fashions in Motion" will be presented at the Fred Stone Theatre. This fashion show is presented by Flowers Temple as a fund-raiser to help purchase new choir robes for their youth choir. For further information on the show and ticket information contact Kathy Laws at 321-1966.

If anyone has information about upcoming events in the community and would like it listed in this column please send it to box 2742.

In Need of Some Style?

BY R. L. CHARPENTIER
Sandspur Staff

Just like the many other articles, pamphlets, and speeches on campus the past few weeks, I too would like to welcome all of you back. I'm also here to introduce myself as the guy who will be messing up your style section for the next year (it may seem longer than that a few months down the road).

I am also here to solicit something from you and I won't even be using a collection can. The style section is supposed to be a lot of fun, and for that I need fun people. If you are interested in writing for the Sandspur there's a lot of opportunity in the style section. For example, if you like going out to different clubs, concerts, parks, etc. then you could most definitely be of great service to our "Steppin' Out" section. Also, any articles or comments on our world around us may be just what we're looking for, so submit them. We'll find a place for them, just like the staff here found a place for me.

So, send that stuff in to box 2742. And if you have any suggestions for the section please let me know at that box or call X 2696 and ask for Rich.

Cornell's Latest Eye-opener

BY CARRIE TUCKER
Sandspur Staff

If any of you have been down by the Cornell Fine Arts Museum lately, you have probably said, "What ARE those?" No, they aren't the construction for a new Beams, they are a creation of noted scholar and Rollins alumni Jane Manus. Her exhibition, entitled Jane Manus '73: Recent Sculpture, opens with a free public reception on the Cornell patio Saturday, September 21 at 6:00 PM. Students are especially invited.

For the first time in the history of the Cornell Museum, four pieces will be displayed out of doors. The large seven and a half foot tall sculpture in the front lawn, called "Girl's Night Out", is owned by the City of Delray Beach and has been graciously loaned for the exhibition. There are also four other pieces around the museum's exterior which catch the eye. "I want the viewer to feel compelled to touch the sculpture," Manus comments, "to walk around it, and, in some cases, to walk through, or even on it."

On Sunday, September 22, at 3:00 PM Ms. Manus will give a free one-hour talk on her works which will include wall pieces, maquettes for larger pieces, photos of her works and medium-size bronzes. Jane Manus has been widely recognized throughout the Midwest, Canada and Florida.

Students are especially invited to the opening of this exhibit so, if you are looking to put a little culture into your college routine, go check it out.

R. O. C. - Ready for the new year

Hi! R.O.C. would like to welcome all new and returning students back to Rollins. R.O.C., the Rollins Outdoor Club, is an active organization whose purpose is to broaden community awareness and enjoyment of the environment by sponsoring a variety of activities including white-water rafting, scuba diving, snorkeling, surfing, canoe trips, sky-diving, biking, hiking, mountain climbing, camping, and don't forget whiffle ball at your leisure. R.O.C.'s membership is determined by your desire to participate in outdoor activities—we have no fees or membership requirements other than your dying need of whiffle ball. The first all campus meeting took place on Monday, September 16th. Our regular meeting time is every other Tuesday at 8:00 p.m. so stop by Lyman Lodge to find out more about R.O.C. and our upcoming events.

Married To It: A Mostly Harmless Film

BY JENNIFER ST. JOHN
Sandspur Staff

Ford Prefect, of The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy, described Earth with two words: mostly harmless. It would be safe to say that "mostly harmless" would also describe this film.

The premise of Married To It is simple. Through what is a particularly funny scene, three couples, Ron Silver and Cybill Shepherd, Mary Stuart Masterson and Robert Sean Leonard, and Stockard Channing and Beau Bridges suddenly become the best of friends. Each represents a different type of marriage; from upper to yuppie to lower middle class, respectively. And each has their everyday problems.

Leonard and Masterson play Jeremy and Nina, fresh out of grad-school (though costumed far too preppy for the business world), and new to N.Y.C. Leonard (Dead Poets Society) is a natural for playing a Wall Street exec, while Masterson is a school psychologist who has her hands full with a new job and no furniture. They're young, they're cute, they're from Iowa. That in mind, it comes as no surprise that their dialogues often border on corny. However, Masterson saves their third of the story by using the word "fuck" in the most inventive way that I have ever seen in a film. (Just see it. You'll understand.)

Channing, fresh off Broadway in the Tony award winning Six Degrees of Separation, is simply wonderful as the aging hippie mom. She works, she cooks, and she preaches peace and love. Much the same is her husband, played by Beau Bridges. He holds down a job as a social worker, making use of his hippie idealism, all the while denying to his two children that he ever took acid (reminds me of my parents). They have a comic, and natural chemistry that isn't often seen. An experienced stage actress, Channing proves once again that stage-trained actors are miles above straight film actors.

However, this film is stolen by Shepherd and Silver, who are sharp, quick, catty, and simply marvelous together as the both-divorced, ultra haute couple. From his Jag and seven-figure home to her impeccable clothes and almost-anorexic body, they are the epitome of upper yuppie. Cybill does a perfect turn as the snooty, uppity Claire, thanks to fabulous writing and Ron (Reversal of Fortune) Silver's perfect portrayal of the kind of guy you want to hit and kiss at the same time.

The story floats along with little distraction, except for a subplot that occasionally holds up the film. Director Arthur Hiller keeps it simple. No flashy shots, lights, or angles; rather, he lets the actors go and the cameras roll. The script isn't exactly Oscar material, but it's enjoyable, albeit a bit dull at times. It would be impossible to fully explain the story without giving it away, so I'll just say that the couples have good times and bad times; funny times and boring times. This film is light, funny, and trust me, you'll laugh a lot more than you thought you would. There is no lasting social message, but this film does have a little something to say about marriage in the 1990's.

The ending is a bit predictable, but hey, life and love often are. Married To It could be about you someday, or your mom and dad today.

CLIPS

I can't wait until October 24. You'll find out why next week. Meanwhile, chill the chianti and warm up the lava beans.

In the first installment of Jen's Videos of the Week, two completely random selections: one old, one new, and both at the video store.

Mildred Pierce, starring Joan Crawford as her terrorizing best. This role as a psychotic mother (typecasting?) won her an Academy Award. Jacob's Ladder, starring Tim Robbins and various demons. A disturbing feast of visual images, feelings, and glimpses of one man's "reality." Superbly directed by Adrian Lyne (9/12 Weeks)

I want your opinions. Box 1207. Next week's review... The Commitments. Until next week... That's a take.

Rollins Tars

Kick into Action

The Tars kicked off to Florida Atlantic University Saturday night for the first home game of the season. The yellow cards flew during the first half with the referees making few calls in Rollins' favor. Still, Doug Kriska managed to score the first goal of the game with a direct free kick, putting Rollins in the lead. Four minutes later, however, we were tied and another goal from the opposing team pushed them ahead with twelve minutes left in the first half.

There was an outstanding save from senior, Richard Lorenzo, whose fans were quoted as calling him, "A charismatic leader who pleases the crowd with his affection for the rest of the team." He was active throughout the entire game. Also, Dan Girse played exceptionally well with several goal attempts, even slightly injuring himself in one specific effort. The most exciting point of the game was in the last forty seconds when Doug Kriska entered the goal box and kicked the ball out as goalkeeper Kurt Wells missed it. The fans were shocked to see Doug remain in the goal box, but it seems he was only untangling himself from the net.

In addition to the excitement on the field, the fans were shaken up after a limb fell from a nearby tree onto the ticket box. Luckily, no one was injured and the Tars enjoyed the support from full stands for the duration of the game.

Tars fans will welcome Peter Chavannes back to Sandspur field after a year away. Though injured with a broken arm, he stood out from the rest with his excellent skills.

The action-packed second half of the game kept Rollins fans on the edge of their seats but neither team scored leaving Rollins defeated, 1-2. You can expect the Tars to bounce back though, at their next home game on Wednesday night against Eckerd College at 7:30.

World Cup Trophy Comes to Orlando

The most sought after prize in international sports competition is coming to Orlando.

The World Cup USA 1994 promotional trophy tour will make its first Florida stop in Orlando on Friday, September 20. The exhibit will be erected at Church Street Market to coincide with Church Street Station's Oktoberfest Street Party, September 20-22. The exhibit will end on Monday evening September 23.

For the first time, the World Cup soccer championship, attracting the largest cumulative television audience in world history (26 billion viewers), will be played in the U.S. in 1994. The Orlando Citrus Bowl is currently competing to host the games.

The trophy tour is a multi-vehicle event built around a customized 40-foot trailer. The exhibit includes a walkthrough soccer museum and a souvenir shop of World Cup specialty merchandise.

Admission is free. Guests attending the event, for a $5.00 fee, can have their picture taken with the World Cup Trophy.

The purpose of the cross country tour is to generate local attention for the importance of World Cup soccer to the U.S. According to the Soccer Industry Council of America, one in every six American families is involved in soccer. Thirty percent of all Americans under 18 currently play soccer.

"Our community is proud to be the first Florida site for the World's most sought after sports trophy. We look forward to making it feel very comfortable and at home with the other world famous attractions in our city," said Orlando Mayor Bill Frederick.

"This is the first time the United States has ever hosted the World Cup. Knowing that our community is so family oriented and has such a vibrant youth soccer program, I am committed to making sure that this prestigious international event receives the caliber of attention it deserves," said Linda Chapin, Orange County Chairman.

Diversity Celebration

Dear Editor,

We, the members of the Rollins College Cultural Action Committee, realize that many of you in the Rollins Community are wondering about this year's Diversity Celebration. First, let us begin by thanking all of you who contributed excellent ideas last fall on how to improve the event. Throughout the summer we worked diligently to meet the needs of the Rollins Community, student planning, timing and course interaction were the major concerns you expressed. The outcome of our summer planning resulted in a later diversity celebration that would incorporate the "entire" Rollins Community. Our aim is to promote respect, appreciation and education on issues of diversity.

Diversity celebration 1991 was planned for November 7-10. We followed all of the proper procedures to have this date locked in to the College's calendar of events.

As many of you may know, the college has planned an all campus summit on November 8th. The idea of integrating the summit with the Diversity Celebration was discussed, however, nothing was planned or agreed upon. Nevertheless, the college continued with its plans and began promoting the summit. We have met with college officials and expressed our feeling that the idea of integrating the two events would not be advantageous. Although the dates for Diversity Celebration 1991 were approved in writing and final planning was in the confirmation stages, college officials decided that changing the summit date would not be possible. Unfortunately this purported occurrence of "miscommunication" has left us without a date for the event. We have deferred our planning and are now in the process of determining a suitable date. The Rollins community will be informed as soon as a date is, "set in stone."

A job well done

Dear Editors:

All too often on this or any other college campus, great achievements and efforts put forth by students are left unrecognized or unappreciated. With Orientation 1991 now behind us and the Fall Term well underway, we feel it's important to publicly recognize the efforts of those who made Orientation happen.

Like any other successful program or event, much of what made Orientation successful happened "behind the scenes". Throughout the Spring and Summer, Orientation Chair Kriya Lenzion made plans and arrangements for the week's events. A few days before new students arrived on campus, the 1991-92 Peer Advisers returned to Rollins to participate in a very busy program of training and preparation. Once Wednesday came around and new student check-in began, the approximately fifty Peer Advisers (along with Residential Life staff members and other Rollins staff) kicked into action.

On just the first day of Orientation, Peer Advisers spent long hours shuttling students to campus from the airport, helping students move into their rooms, directing traffic around campus, assisting students and parents with check-in, giving tours of the campus, and setting up rooms for various programs. This spirited group effort continued for the remainder of Orientation. When last-minute details would need to be changed or adapted, the Peer Advisers would always be ready to help out where needed. Even the least glamorous jobs such as cleaning up after movies or moving a roomful of boxes early in the morning were undertaken with smiles (usually) and energy.

The Peer Advisers and everyone else who had a part in Orientation 1991 are to be commended for an outstanding effort. Thanks for helping to get the 1991-92 year off to a great start!

BYOB: Part II

BY DREW SORRELL

Opinions Editor

I sit and ponder the mysteries of the Universe. I am currently exploring a common one, the one where the remote control disappears and magically reappears in the refrigerator. I also am trying to figure out who was the first person to eat Guacamole? Go figure.

I must say that last week was not banner material, with the dawn of classes, and the eccentrics of a certain green-eyed beauty.

But I digress, as a certain professor has already pointed out that I do quite frequently in my articles. Let me be quick to the point, I have received varied responses as I am sure is no big surprise to anyone. The average student response from the students, "Did you read that article by that dude in the paper about BYOB?" To which my response is a grin and a, "Yea... Yea I did." The second response I got was, "Great article, I loved it." A friend of mine told me that it is starting to become a plank for the freshpeople (Politically Correct term) senators. I received a different response from rear channels about what the administration thought. I guess that they did not like it.

Surprise... Surprise. I assume that they think I am somewhat misguided. I've been called worse.

Now that we basically know who thinks what, let me explain my motivations for my last piece. My main motivation, and this is an unpopular one to voice, is that I care about this school and its people. I don't think that we should return to the basically nonexistent policy that was in effect, there indeed does need to be some policy. I hate to see the school go astray, and I think that this new policy is not a good one. There must be a better one that we can all agree upon, one that will result in the reduction of liability and the promotion of safety. I would hate to see this campus turn into a

"Everyone seems to want...one policy that is fair, simple and that lasts more than a semester or two."

Here is a simple, modest plan that we could possibly implement with a little work and compromise. It resembles a policy that I think was in effect before my time at this school. Perhaps we could call it the Bar Policy. Here's how it works in general. In order to get into a party you must present a valid ID. If you are 21 then you campus overrun by virgin, Oklahoman Nuns.

I have talked to some of my fellow students and I think that the consensus is that we are tired of getting new alcohol policies every year. Everyone seems to be at the end of their patience, they want one policy that is fair, simple and that lasts more than a semester or two.

get both a stamp and a wristband, if under 21 then you get a stamp on the opposite wrist. Alcohol must be dispensed by sober 18 year olds who will dispense alcohol to only those properly identified as 21. That is essentially simple in concept and very much like a bar. It is very important that those who are assigned ID and bartending duty take those duties seriously and only dispense to the appropriate people.

If those who are 21 wish to share their alcohol with those who are not then that is their personal decision and, therefore, their liability. I, not being a lawyer, cannot say that any of this is true and accurate according to the law, but this policy could always be run past a lawyer for a little fleshing out. In order to guarantee that this policy is enforced SGA could do random checks.

I am pro-Rollins and I want to see an effective policy with all interested involved. I realize that I have been a little windy this week and near as much fun, perhaps next week I'll be all about this little beauty with green eyes and what she did with the remote control and guacamole dip!!!! Guaranteed to be more entertaining.

REGARDING HENRY IS WORTH REGARDING

BY ALAN NORDSTROM
Sandspur Staff

My wife, who had read a review or two of Mike Nichols' Regarding Henry before we saw it, says those critics found the film implausible and full of holes. But I say that it's a decent morality play and a lovely fantasy, even if the actual events couldn't quite have happened.

The simple story is that Henry, a thoroughly modern, high-powered, NYC trial lawyer, a master-bastard, ball-crushing attorney and lousy family man (who cheats on his wife and neglects his pre-teen daughter) gets shot in the head by a thug in a convenience store.

Getting shot in the brain turns out to be just what Henry needs. It makes a new man of him, or more exactly it makes a new child of him, returning him to a state of lost innocence, and gives him a chance to grow up right the second time. Struggling through a compressed developmental cycle in which he relearns how to walk, talk, tie his shoes, read, and make love, Henry ends up rediscovering the man he had been and rejecting him utterly.

The kinder, gentler Henry II harkens back to the TV sit-com fathers of the '50s and seems as unlikely to thrive in his old lifestyle as Mr. Rogers would, so it's good that he heads off to a scaled-down future of loving family life, and it's lucky his wife has a job to support them. By the time the film ends, good-hearted Henry has probably recovered to the level of minimum-wage employment.

Yet we're left to feel the trade-off is well worth it. The cutthroat, immoral, show-off, shallow life he's chucking is doubtless overdrawn, but I'm willing to believe the worst of New York City lawyers. And I'm willing to fantasize, as the film does, that a person might just undergo such a radical transformation as Henry does. Some of Shakespeare's villains (like Oliver in As You Like It) suddenly convert (or revert) to kindness, as if by magic, and we generally manage to suspend our disbelief. The biblical Saul, struck blind by his vision on the road to Damascus, turned around morally 180°. We do know people can change their hearts, like Scrooge, if not usually so suddenly.

So I'll buy the bullet-to-the-brain premise in this story as plausible enough for modern circumstances, knowing that the film's point is to explore the effects of spiritual transformation and not its causes. The film, like Dickens' Christmas Carol, is a cautionary tale about people selling their souls for messes of pottage, of people who have lost touch with the dear and simple human values of affection, care, and loving concern. Bradley, an ex-football star turned physical therapist, typifies the movie's alternative to the bonfire of Park Avenue's vanities. Bradley's humor, compassion, and nurturing wisdom revive Henry's soul as well as any angel could.

Henry is almost literally born again, though not narrowly in the Christian fundamentalist sense. Without bringing Christ into the story, the film nonetheless portrays the profound spiritual regeneration of Henry's soul. As in the Bible, Henry has cast off the Old Man and put on the New, and the transformed Henry is purified to a loving, gentle, fair-minded, if somewhat naive, sweetheart of a man, much too good for his old life and friends, whom he abandons.

Regarding Henry, then, is worth seeing as a contemporary expression of the ancient, archetypal theme of spiritual revival, of the enduring human hope that lost souls can be found, corrupted souls purified, broken souls rebuilt, sick souls healed, and dead souls reborn to innocence.

Real Diversity

BY DAVID BERNSTEIN
Diversity Magazine

"Diversity" is the new shibboleth of the self-appointed campus race monitors. They demand "diversity" of almost every kind—race, gender, sexual orientation, even physical ability. What these folks won't countenance, however, is diverse.

As a black college student at the University of Maryland I learned this truth the hard way. As a black conservative, I was ostracized by the people who claimed to value difference because I was, well, different. They didn't mind that I was black, of course, but College Park's politically correct student leadership seemed to prefer ideological lockstep within their "diverse" student body.

Fortunately, I was never subjected to the kind of overt intolerance that many black conservatives endure, but there was always a palpable disdain for me and my views among other minority students. One black sophomore, for example, explained to me that "white people are puttin' those ideas in your head." Another of my peers wrote in the student newspaper that black conservatives must be "neutralized" (whatever that means). Still another person once complained, "you just don't understand." It came as no surprise, then, when the president of Maryland's Black Student Union refused to work with me and the other black College Republicans when we wanted to bring conservative black speakers to campus.

Like many black college students, I found the student leadership's attempts to insulate me from diverse opinions condescending and antithetical to the idea of a university education. Black collegians should learn to appreciate the rich heritage of intellectual debate and dissent that has defined the black American experience. Men like W.E.B. DuBois, Frederick Douglass, Booker T. Washington, Malcolm X, and Martin Luther King, Jr., did not share a single set of ideas. Each came to his own conclusions through study and honest reflection. If any of us hope to understand the "black thing" referred to by those popular T-shirts, we must try a little study and reflection of our own.

In 1905, W.E.B. DuBois scolded a young black girl when he explained that, "there are, in the U.S. today, tens of thousands of colored girls who would be happy beyond measure to have the chance of educating themselves to you are neglecting." He further warned her that "ignorance is a cure for nothing...every time a colored person neglects an opportunity, it makes it more difficult for others of the race to get an opportunity. Do you want to cut off the chances of the boys and girls of tomorrow?"

The campus diversity mongers should ponder DuBois' words. Each time we refuse to consider diverse opinions, we are "neglecting an opportunity" to learn. Each time a minority student leader demands "solidarity" from his peers he makes it more difficult for others of his race to get such an opportunity. And ignoring or extinguishing "western culture" in the classroom is truly a cure for nothing.

Perhaps more important, this desire for intellectual unanimity and separation threatens to undermine more than twenty-five years of civil rights gains. Black Americans are closer than ever to being treated by white society simply as individuals, but now many minorities themselves assert that race is the defining characteristic of every person.

How quickly we forget that this was the attitude that made slavery possible, that kept apartheid alive in South Africa, and that delivered Jews into the Holocaust. I, for one, would rather the average American believe that all blacks act a particular way because they are black!

Similarly, I would rather not toss aside most of the great works of science, philosophy, and literature just because their authors were white. Black collegians can understand and appreciate James Madison, John Milton, and Charles Darwin—just to mention a few examples—as well as any white student. To suggest otherwise is racism in its pristine form.

My college experience has not left me discouraged as it might have because I believe there has been a quiet reawakening of independence among most young minorities. During the past year I have met several other college graduates who agree that we need genuine diversity—diversity of thought. Together we have begun a magazine, Diversity, which will explore issues of race and culture free from pressures to conform to the new, self-imposed stereotype. I hope this modest effort will encourage other young minorities to break free from orthodoxy as well.

Bull's Hit:

Finding a Niche

by RICHARD BULLWINKLE
Staff Writer

Here we are, only one week into the term, and freshmen are already talking about transferring out of here.

What the hell?

Sure, the first week's a pain: you miss your family, your dog, your friends back home; everyone on campus seems to be rude and treating you like you have some sort of fungal growth on your bottom lip; classes are all taught by some introverted Einstein look-a-like who hands out a syllabus with the word "Harvard" circled out on top and "Rollins" penciled in below it, but to pursue transferring this early? After three years of this Rollins existence, I can knowledgeable state that it only gets worse.

First of all: even I was bored out of my skull last weekend. The powers that be, in their infinite wisdom, issued no party permits for the entire weekend.

One, there was a comedian Friday night. He was pretty funny. There were about ten people watching the showing of Rocky Horror Saturday night, and they were pretty quiet. Didn't even show stuff at each other. The soccer game was a pretty big crowd. Maybe you went to church Sunday morning? Still, add all those things together and you've got something to do for the next four hours this weekend.

There's only so much studying you can do over the weekend.

I don't know, if I ran the world, and some day I will, I'd make a better effort to see to it that the most crucial weekend in a college student's career was mildly interesting.

No party permits, not enough all campus parties.

I've heard through the bastardized grapevine, which is usually fairly inaccurate, but a lot of fun to print anyway, that no party permits were issued this weekend because the powers that be had yet to figure out how to enforce this farce we call BYOB.

I can believe me, it is a farce!

I've never in my life seen a rule so carefully designed to ruin the social life of the freshmen.

All parties are invite only.

Almost all parties are hosted by fraternities (Sororities have rules barring alcohol and men from their buildings, and most organizations collect no dues to pay for parties.)

Fraternities, being comprised of healthy young men in their prime, are going to have guests that have extreme feminine over-

In other words, Frats are going to invite their friends who are male. Upperclassmen who they remember to mention on the list and Freshmen babes.

There's a huge chunk of Rollins who doesn't show up on that list.

If I were a Freshman male, or a Freshman female with a slight insecurity complex, or an upperclassman male who didn't already live at the best off-campus party house in Winter Park, then I too would be feverishly filling out transfer applications.

There are some great open off-campus parties, but Freshmen can't have cars to get out of here. — Freshmen can't even get to McDonald's when Beans looks like a Kuwaiti oil field.

There's genius in action.

And anyone who tells you that a social life is not as important as academics in a college career is full of crap.

So, yes certain college officials—whom I won't mention because I'm not sure who's responsible, and they whine a lot when I rag them, anyway—have seen to it that your first college weekend was a little worse than taking the SAT for the third time. And upperclassmen aren't bending over backwards to make you feel particularly welcome.

I still promise it will get better.

Find yourself a niche at Rollins.

If you sing, join a choir.

If you play basketball or volleyball, lacrosse, or just like to sit around and sweat, form a club, or a team and join intramural.

If you play an instrument, form a band.

Join a service organization.

Get involved with any of the billion clubs already going strong.

Sit around your room with a bunch of friends and smoke crack.

Write for the Sandspur. . . God forbid.

Talk to trees.

Make explosives and take out the rest of Beans.

JUST DO SOMETHING. . . DON'T TRANSFER!!!

Rollins is a blast! I swear it.

Give the place a chance to shine, and you won't be disappointed. Give yourself a chance to shine, and Rollins won't be disappointed.

(Yeah, that sounds corny, but it's essentially what Fiat Lux means.)

In short:

If you get the transferring itch,

Try not to bitch;

Get off your ass, and find yourself a niche!

For those of you who think my new title is an exercise in egotism, or still haven't figured out what Bull's Hit means: try squinting more when you read my column.

Comments, love letters and explosive devices should be sent to Mr. Bull, Campus Box 962. — Please, no poetry critiques.
