THE MAKING OF A BUNNY

Student a finalist in Playboy search

JAKE BRIDGES

A UCF student recently qualified in the top 10 of a national model search by Playboy's new mobile phone initiative, Playboy Mobile.

Kristin Wilson, a junior at UCF, was named a finalist in the Miss Playboy Mobile 2005 competition, the kickoff of a new marketing strategy that aims to broaden Playboy's reach to the expansive mobile phone network.

The competition was open to women between the ages of 16 and 35, and contestants had to submit two made photographs in the Playboy Mobile Web site to enter the contest. Each woman had her respective submissions posted on the Web site. To win the field down to 30 finalists, participants had to pass through an online round of voting in which the public sent text messages for their favorite contestant. The same format will be used for the Grand Round of voting.

Patch Adams visits, teaches medical 'clowning'

The Psychology Building Auditorium echoed with laughter, tears and jokes as the real Dr. Patch Adams, spawning from Florida Hospital, was titled "Humor and Health" and he is one of the most inspiring, hearted and comical people I have ever met," said Sen. Michael Dellige, a 24-year-old South Florida soldier accused of deserting the Army after eight months after joining.

"He made me cry," said one of the students. "He showed Adams working with the girl that caused some audience members to leave.

"I never really had to study, and I didn't date," Adams said, "so I started clowning trips," which moved many to tears. Following the lecture, he held a book-signing in the Atrium of the Student Union.

"As for how he began to implement his famous clowning techniques, he credits his boredom in medical school. "I never really had to study, and I didn't date," Adams said. CHICAGO — From the Sydney Opera House to Rome's Colosseum to the Scott Tower's famous silhouette in Chicago, foodball fans of civilization went dark Saturday for Earth Hour, a worldwide campaign to highlight the threat of climate change.

The environmental group WWF urged governments, businesses and households to turn back to candle power for one hour. Darkened restaurants glowed with candlelight, illuminating floor after floor of desks and idling computers.

Andy Ridley, executive director of Earth Hour, said in Chicago on Saturday that that was the whole point.

Candidates share economic plans

TOM RAUM
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Hillary Clinton, Barack Obama and John McCain have diagnosed the stumbling U.S. economy and have come up with dead-plain-to-beat-drums responses. If the Democratic laws, as long as some economists predict, one of the three will get a chance to try a version of his or her proposal as Congress presides.

Of the three, the Clinton program bears the closest resemblance to Congress's do-nothing stimulus. It is set to produce another $168 billion in aid to chiefly homeowners facing the financial system.

Diagnose the weakness of the economy — or more precisely, the downturn at the present moment — and turn up the medicine. The Commerce Department delivered major speeches in October-December quarter of this year, when the Fed rate cuts will probably take effect and when the financial markets will have cooled down.

In which case, the presidential candidates' stonewall plans "are really sort of resolve-ment," Wynn said. "They're not going to be able to get them through when they're needed."

And by next year, it's going to be too late.

Protesters follow last leg of Olympic torch relay

ATHENS, Greece — Chi­nese spectators cheered Sun­day as Greece handed off the Olympic flame for its journey to Beijing and relay through 20 countries. But protesters brand­ishing Tibetan flags tried to disrupt the final leg of the torch relay to Beijing in opposition of China.

The president of the Holi­day Olympic Committee, Minos Kyriakou, delivered the flame to chief relay organizer Liu Qi. The torch later left Athens on a specially equipped Air China flight expected to arrive in Beijing on Monday.

Kyriakou appealed for police, "The torch will not be prevented from being passed through 20 countries before returning to the main­land stadium, lined with the flags of both countries. Greek pres­i­dential guards and actresses dressed as ancient priestesses dressed as ancient priestesses Kyriakou asserted, "It is an emotional experi­ence for me," Devetzi said. "I hope the flame will bring light to all athletes, especially those from Greece, and that every­thing with the Games goes well.

A police cordon prevented some two dozen activists from running up the final leg of Greece's relay from the Acropolis to the Panathenian Stadium. Most were later freed.

Protesters follow last leg of Olympic torch relay

The relay has become a magnet for Tibetan protesters and human rights activists, who disrupted the March 26 flame­lighting ceremony in Athens and do­nated the working Greek leg of the relay.

"We just wanted to show our support for Tibet, peacefully, and when we dis­placed the flags we were taken away by police," said Kira Vrhova, a Czech member of the Students for a Free Tibet group.

"The flame goes Tuesday to Almaty, Kazakhstan, and then on to Istanbul, Turkey, and St. Petersburg, Russia. Those stops are not expected to bring prob­lems, but the following three could: London, Paris and San Francisco.

London's route on April 6 is sure to be laced by thousands of demonstrators, who are expected to have a wreath-lay­ing ceremony to commemorate those killed in Tibet's recent unrest. Tibetan exiles say almost 400 people have died, while the Beijing govern­ment puts the number at 22.

"Pro-Tibet demonstrators are expected to be just as numerous in Paris on April 7. French President Nicolas Sarkozy is the first European leader to suggest a boycott of the opening ceremony as a possibility to protest China's handling of the unrest in Tibet.

In San Francisco, the only North American city hosting the torch, officials shortened the April 9 route through the city and have abbreviated the ceremonies. Mayor Gavin Newsom has said no one will be prevented from express­ing his views, but permits are required to gather near the torch.

Another difficult stop comes April 11 in New Delhi. India is home to Tibet's gov­ernment-in-exile and many Tibetan rights groups are locat­ed in the country.

Activists want Chinese authori­ties to cancel plans to carry the flame through Tibet on its way to Mount Everest for the first time. China has dismissed the demand.

"The torch will for the first time ascend the summit of the world, thereby testifying to the grand strength of the Olympic movement in marking the progress of human civilization," Liu said after receiving the flame.

Associated Press writers Derek Gatopoulos, Dimitris Nellas and Maria Paschoula in Athens and Stephen White in Beijing contributed to this report.

How to curb state spending

Policies with which government agencies could save billions of dollars were discussed at the Boardwalk Entertainment Center on Friday. Stephanie Goldsmith, right, the Daniel Paul Professor of Government at the Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University, addressed a crowd at the 2nd Annual Public Administration Conference. Goldsmith was the former Mayor of Indianapolis and is noted for improving the downtown area and cutting government spending. She was followed by Bahadir Sahin of UCF, who explained his Spatial Analysis of Crimes in Orlando by using GIS Technologies. Oudine Hawthorne, a master's of public administration student, explained her poster to Laurie Botts-Wright at the Conference. Hawthorne and other students in the MPA program worked on the semester-long project summarizing and profiling exemplary public administration. Photos by Ray Jenkins/Central Florida Future.

“While I have worked very hard during my tenure at UCF, I know there are a lot of great students here who work extremely hard as well,” Naveed said. “It is an honor to be chosen out of these students to represent UCF.”

According to an article in UCF News and Information, Naveed has received numerous awards, including the College of Business Administration Ph.D. Research Award. She plans to become a university professor and continue her research on organizational work-life climates.

While many UCF students are doing exemplary work in their fields, Morgan said those students stood out because of the impact they have made on their field and the people around them.

“...the thing that probably sets them apart from the typical student is that they really are taking the initiative to try. It’s not just about getting a degree,” Morgan said. “It’s really about saying, ‘I’m going to improve myself in this field and I have a passion for and make a contribution.’”

UFC to play USF at home

Just for being a finalist, Wilson will get a $5,000 expense-paid trip to Las Vegas for the finals, which Hagendorf said was strictly a way to make up the other prize money if she wins. Wilson said she found the news "very exciting." Hagendorf said the prize money is a "nice little perk" for Wilson.

"The winner of this event will be well-rewarded," Hagendorf said. "We have USF (University of South Florida) coming to play at home, and honestly all the attention and the fun we had, we had one year's worth of great athletics and pretty confident that we can run it. However, some students felt the ticketing procedure was not correct. One main point of contention was the student ticket, which was plagued with problems from the beginning. "Getting tickets was a bit of a hassle," said Joshua Williams, a junior civil engineering major. "If you could just go and get them, but last year you didn't know whether you should go or not."

But both Delanois and Hagendorf said the seminars have been well-received and the process continues to ensure it's done correctly. "There were some minor problems with the season tickets. It needed to be worked out the first time the lottery was implemented," Hagendorf said. "But then, student ticket lottery was smooth throughout the season last year." Delanois wants to make sure that none of the same problems don't mar this next season.

"We want to continue to improve it," Delanois said. "Last year, the server got overloaded. We're not going to do that this year. We want to make sure that doesn't happen again and make it more user-friendly."

Just for being a finalist, Wilson will get an all-expense-paid trip to Las Vegas for the finals, which Hagendorf said was strictly a way to make up the other prize money if she wins.

"I really hate to lose," Wilson said. "I would definitely work for it and never give up."

"If I stay in Orlando buying a season ticket is an option."

Wearing an on-campus T-shirt aded to the excitement of last year's sellout and ticket sales, Delanois said. "Many of us were in the UCF family to be part of the reason we had a sellout."

"Last year, there were a lot of variables, the atmosphere was as good as anybody on a college campus in the country," said Edward Lang, the UCF director of sports marketing.

Student Government Association President Brandon Delanois also said he is confident that student involvement will be high this season.

The UCF softball team kept its winning streak alive this weekend dropping Conference USA rival Marshall in two straight games Saturday for its 80th and 930 consecutive wins. The wins, 24 and 5-4, respectively, improved the Knights' record to 26-14 for the year and 6-4 in CUSA play.

Just days after no-hitting Florida Atlantic, senior pitcher Allison Kline took the mound again in game one against the Thundering Herd. And in familiar fashion, Kline threw a complete game, allowing just one run on two hits while striking out 12 Marshall batters.

Kline's 12th win of the season didn't come without a little help from her offense.

The Knights, quickly grabbed a run in the top of the first inning. With one out, freshmen Tiffany Lueh single to the shortstop. Lueh would later take second on a stolen base and advance to third on a Marshall error. The next batter, Breanne Javier, would ground out to Marshall's shortstop, allowing Lake to score from third.

UCF added its second and final run just one inning later. Lead Graham led off the inning with a double down the left-field line. Morgan Ballard would then come in to replace Graham as pinch runner.

After Kline popped out to the first baseman for the first out of the inning, Cat Snapp would lay down a sacrifice bunt that would advance Ballard to third. An RBI single off the bat of Lindsey Dean would follow, allowing Ballard to cross the plate for a 2-0 lead.

Marshall would score its only run and record its only hit in the final two innings of the game. In the bottom half of the sixth inning, the Thundering Herd would grab one run, but the Knights would hold them scoreless.

Both Javier and Graham hit a single and scored a run, respectively, for UCF. Both pitchers had tough outings as they allowed Marshall to score a combined 13 runs, including 9 on 12 hits, including 13 home runs.

The Knights kept the momentum alive in the second game of the doubleheader Sunday day with a 5-8 beating of the Thundering Herd.

Ashleigh Cole earned her 13th win of the season going 6 innings and allowing just one run on three hits.

"We had a good inning," UCF coach Danielle Gresham said. "The pitches we were getting were not something we could hit. We were getting a lot of breaking balls and curveballs, and we were hitting the ball well.

"The Knights took the first two games against Herd in W.Va.

UCF pitcher Mitch Houck strikes out East Carolina's Kyle Roller during UCF's 3-2 win over the Pirates on Friday night, which inserted the game with a nation-leading average of more than 15 strikeouts per 9 innings, requiring 9 strikeouts in 6 innings.
UCF blows past Ragin' Cajuns

BRIAN MURPHY

The UCF Men’s Tennis team had reason to look past its midweek matchup Friday against Louisiana-Lafayette since a week ago, the Knights had swept the Ragin’ Cajuns 7-0 and had reason to be cautiously optimistic. But South Florida was looming just 48 hours later. The Knights, however, stayed focused and swept the Ragin’ Cajuns 7-0. The Knights (9-7 overall, 1-0 in theCON) have reason to look past this match with their top rival, South Florida, as looming on March 18.

Claudio Romano at No. 5.

The Knights played better in singles competition, led by Claudio Romano at No. 5. The freshman struggled early in the season at the No. 3 and No. 4 spots. But he has found a wealth of success in his newest position, dispatching UL’s large Delgado 6-4, 6-0 for his ninth consecutive singles win.

“I don’t pay attention to the score,” Romano said. “I just play and if I win, that’s good... The best is that I feel like I’m helping the team a lot.”

Romano trailed 3-3 in the first set, but as the unseasonably warm day drew on, Delgado started to feel the effects of the heat and experienced cramps. Romano pressed on Delgado’s weaknesses by making the points longer, fitting his opponent. In the second set, Delgado had nothing set.

Another UCF freshman, Shane Schwartz, receded the Knights’ second singles win with a 6-4, 6-4 victory over Martin Martins. He has won eight of his past nine singles matches.

Senior Sinan Sudas played in his and Shane Schwartz’s doubles match against Louisiana-Lafayette on Friday. They won the match 9-7. Sudas is one of only two remaining players from the Knights’ last conference championship team back in 2005. He has been a four-year starter for the Knights and knows he only has a few matches remaining before his UCF career comes to a close.

“It’s a little emotional,” Sudas said. “You want to play, you want to give it your all and play hard.”

The Knights faced the No. 11 Bulls on Sunday in Tampa, but results weren’t available before press time.

The Bulls had won 10 consecutive home matches entering Sunday, but the Knights beat the Bulls last season and fell 4-3 as a very competitive season-opening Jan. 18 match at the USF Invitational.

That recent history provided a lot of confidence to the Knights, because they know they can beat the Bulls if they play like they did on Friday.

“We have all that we need,” Romano said. “There’s nothing we’re missing... so I think we’re going to take them down, that’s what we want, and we need it.”
Kevin Hartman made three saves and extended his league record with his 56th career shutout.

Treglio, who spent his first three professional seasons in Columbus, took a 0-1 lead from Jack Jewsbury and made a sliding stop past DC keeper Zach Wells in the 47th minute. Michael Harrington set up the play with a long cross to Jewsbury whose pass found Treglio just outside the penalty box.

In the 66th minute, Los Angeles took a long pass from Rapa. Pore at the top of the penalty area and chipped the ball over Wells, who deflected the shot but could not keep it out of the goal.

Columbus Crew, 2, Toronto FC 0
COLUMBUS, Ohio - Columbus' Adam Moffat scored the first goal of the Major League Soccer season.

The Crew's Brian Carroll knocked a long, arcing pass from midfield to Moffat, who deflected the ball in front of him with his chest and sent a blistering shot from 24 yards past goalkeeper Bryn Edwards and inside the left goal post in the 26th minute. Alejandro Moreno doubled the Crew's lead when he outmanned Toronto defender Marco Vesci and sent a pass from Eddie Gaven that left Moreno alone against Edwards. Moreno mistimed his shot and knocked the ball over the left arm of Edwards and inside the right post in the 76th minute.

Galaxy falter in season-opener

Colorado Rapids 2, LA Galaxy 0

COLORADO CITY, Colo. - Christian Gomez scored on a penalty kick and the Colorado Rapids swept David Beckham and the Los Angeles Galaxy 4-0 on Saturday night in the season opener for both teams.

Beckham played in his first regular-season game in Colorado since joining the Galaxy last year. Beckham flew back from Europe after playing for England against France on Wednesday.

Terry Cooke scored early in the game, Omar Cummings scored in the 27th minute and Colin Clark added an 89th-minute goal for the Rapids.

Things got too toward the end of the game. In the 90th minute, Galaxy defender Abel Xavier was issued a red card after tackling Claras O'Brien. Right after that, O'Brien's hand tangles on Carlos Buett earned him a red card.

Chicago Fire 1, Real Salt Lake 1

SALT LAKE CITY - Claudio Reyna's second-half penalty kick went past goalkeeper Brian Galas as the Chicago Fire tied the Real Salt Lake 1-1 in the season-opener for both teams.

Reyna scored in the 42nd minute, but Busch saved Kovaleski's volley off a corner kick.

New England Revolution 1, Houston Dynamo 0

FOXBORO, Mass. - Steve Ralston and Adam Cristman scored first-half goals in a rematch of the last season's championship match.

Two-out hits lead Pirates to win

By VICKY ATHERTON

Woo, but he couldn't get a handle on it, and Richardson came up on the errant to put the Knights ahead 2-0.

After two out, Houck's night seemed to be just about over and ECU seemed to have a sure-cut lead off Kyle Ritter (pitched a 2-2 pitch into center field with runners on first and second. Center fielder Tyjon Austin's throw home was low and hit the pitcher's mound, but it would have been a perfect hop to Lara in time to tag Corey Kemp on the left side as he dove onto home plate. That would turn out to be critical later in the game.

The Knights scored another unearned run in the bottom of the sixth and, after that, were able to keep the Pirates off the board until the eighth inning as Ritter and Kemp drove in a run each to cut UCF's lead to 3-2.

The Pirates scored in the bottom of the eighth, but those two runs setup an interesting ninth inning.

Ray hit a line drive to shallow center that got past a diving Austin for a potential double. Harrison Kielbode then struck out swinging, but got a high slider, setting up a showdown between Wood, and Wood, who already had two hits in the game.

Wood drove in a 2-1 fastball over the heart of the plate and Wood slugged it to deep center field. After Austin, UCF's center fielder, fell backward, Wood called it a two-out hit. The Knights added three runs in the second and two more runs in the fourth to put the Knights ahead 6-2.

The Pirates went 11-for-19 at the plate; he entered the game as an pinch runner in the bottom of the fourth inning of the Knights' 3-2 win over East Carolina on Friday. Houck, who had a 1.00 ERA and is Tuesday against South Florida. The Knights will then play the Cougars (1-0) in the bottom of the fifth and six, when Shane Brown hit a line drive over the left-field wall, one of the few mistakes made by ECU starting pitcher Seth Maness. The freshman upped his record to 5-0 and retired of the first 14 batters he faced.

Bergman said that he thought his players to shake Saturday's defeat off, calling it just one of those days, and knowing all he was likely to see was the Knights on Sunday's schedule.

When given the chance, be heard.

A student should never underestimate the power of being asked a few simple questions.

There are not many times in this world when someone will ask you for your full and unabridged opinion. It would be foolish not to use these opportunities to have your say. Surveys and evaluation forms are set up to listen to your comments. They are there to help the professor you are taking the class from and to help the university as a whole.

As students, it may be in our nature to form an upper level of the faculty. We are not really sure about what you think. If you have something you want to let them know exactly how you feel about something, you should let them know. They want to hear what you think.

If you do, you can do it. You just have to take the time to fill it out. You are going to get back the survey and there will be questions asked that make you think. This is something that makes me thankful for Black Entertainment Television.

An entire television station made just for us. It's TV made just for us.

BET is teaching young girls what it means to be a man of ambition. And my final destination.

As of March 1, I am 20 years old and counting. The rest of BET's programming was opened and secretive.

As Lucy Dalglish, executive director of the Reporters Committee for the Freedom of the Press, points out, "It's not just the media that wants open government. The survey has consistently shown that ordinary citizens want it too. Candidates for public office should take note."

The poll found that for offices elected by the president, Congress, governor and state legislatures right down to the city councils and school boards, Americans by around 90 percent, rated a candidate's position on open government as somewhat important or very important.

Open and transparent government is good public policy, it's good politics too.
