Imagine falling into unconsciousness without warning. Your body begins to seize violently. You can't feel and you can't see; everything is stopped by a force beyond your control. It's a moment that can be life-altering. If you're lucky, you'll recover...if you're not, who's there to hold you in the words, with a project that was introduced by the Alumni Association.

We've worked with Congress to create a new, bi-based health care system; to expand access to health care for all Americans; to reduce the cost of health care; and to improve the quality of health care.

The Attorney General’s office has received enough evidence in a legal case to call for a young man’s release. The man has been in custody since 2001 for killing a police officer. The Attorney General’s Office plans to release the man on the threat that he will no longer pose a danger to the community.

UCF's President John Hitt and Orange County Sheriff John Mina announced last week that the Orange County Sheriff's Office (OCSD) and the UCF Police Department have entered into an agreement to provide 15 state attorney investigators for Orange County and Osceola County each year.

This move is part of a larger strategy by the Orange County Sheriff's Office to team up with UCF and has helped the department gain more experience in handling large and complex cases.

According to Mina, the state attorney's office is responsible for working with the OCSD and the UCF Police Department to provide these investigators.

Hitt's goal of being the number one police department in the state was a major factor in his decision to team up with UCF.

The agreement is expected to strengthen the relationship between the OCSD and UCF, and it will also benefit the UCF community by providing additional resources to handle major cases.

The OCSD and the UCF Police Department have been working together on this project for several months, and they hope to see it continue in the future.

ANGELS — The Los Angeles Angels agreed to deal pitcher Brandon League to the Brewers. The Angels will receive minor league pitcher Akinori Nishikawa in return. This deal brings the total to two deals in two weeks, after the Angels traded pitcher Jered Weaver to the Mariners last week. With their bats set for Kipnis as the leadoff hitter and a healthy Mike Trout in center field, the Angels are now focused on improving their starting pitching staff. They have already acquired right-hander Ervin Santana from the Twins and left-hander C.J. Wilson from the Texas Rangers.

The Minnesota Twins have terminated their endorsement contract with Minnesota Twins pitcher Brian Dozier. Dozier is a free agent after this season and is expected to receive a significant raise. The Twins have already decided not to offer him a multi-year contract, and the decision to terminate the endorsement contract was a financial move. Dozier is expected to receive offers from other teams and sign a new contract.

The San Diego Padres have re-signed pitcher Martin Dihel to a minor league contract. Dihel has a career record of 4-3 with a 3.58 ERA in 96 innings pitched. The Padres are expected to use him as a long reliever.

The Tampa Bay Rays defeated the Blue Jays 3-2 in a gritty game. The Rays' starting pitcher, Matt Moore, started strong but gave up two runs in the fifth inning. However, the Rays' bullpen was strong, as they held the Blue Jays to just one more run in the sixth inning. The Rays' hitting was led by Evan Longoria, who had two hits and two RBIs. The Rays improved their record to 70-61, and are now just one game behind the Blue Jays for first place in the AL East.

The North Carolina Tar Heels have announced that they will join the ACC conference. This move will affect the NCAA basketball tournament, as the Tar Heels are one of the top teams in the country. The ACC will now have 15 teams, and the tournament will expand to 68 teams. The Tar Heels are expected to be a top seed in the tournament, and they will have a better chance of winning the national championship.

The New York Mets have announced that they will not pursue free agent pitcher Yu Darvish. The Mets had offered Darvish a four-year, $130 million contract, but the negotiations fell through due to the Mets' unwillingness to pay Darvish the money he is seeking. The Mets are now expected to look to the trade market for starting pitchers, as they have already given up on the free agent market.

The Los Angeles Angels have defeated the Texas Rangers 3-2 in a narrow victory. The Angels' starting pitcher, C.J. Wilson, pitched a complete game and allowed two runs on seven hits. The Angels' hitting was led by Albert Pujols, who had two hits and drove in three runs. The Angels improved their record to 70-61, and are now just one game behind the Blue Jays for first place in the AL East.

Brook Booker, a world record holder, has won the 100-meter freestyle world record. Booker, who set the record in 2016, has now lowered his time to 46.88 seconds. This is the world record in the 100-meter freestyle, and Booker is the first man to break 47 seconds in this event.

UCF Football faced adversity

The UCF Women's Soccer team finished in 21st place at the NCAA East Regional on May 19, but just being a part of the tournament was a big accomplishment for the Knights. It was their first appearance in the NCAA Regionals since 2003.

UCF football ended the 2008 season ranked as high as No. 9 in the nation, reaching a first-place finish in the final part of the D1A Championships on June 7. The D1A Championships are the oldest college football championships in the United States.

This accomplishment summed up a season that the Knights will look back on with pride. Fall sports are right around the corner. Many of you are chomping at the bit for football season, but don't overlook that the first Knights take to the field Aug. 10. So, let's say that the UCF Women's Soccer team begins its season in late August, right after the University of South Florida.

UCF Football faced adversity when they were left out of the NCAA tournament. The Knights finished third in the C-USA Championships on May 12, the best finish in school history. Sheree Carter won the school's first individual outdoor title May 17. The season opens March 11.

American football is the most popular sport in the United States, and it is a significant part of American culture. The NCAA tournament is a major event in college football, and it is considered one of the most prestigious tournaments in the sport.

The Knights were left out of the NCAA tournament in 2008, which was a disappointment for the team and its fans. However, the team was able to bouncing back from this setback with a strong performance in the C-USA Championships, where they finished third.

Track and Field

The UCF Track and Field team had an impressive season under first-year head coach Caryl Smith Gilbert. They set 32 NCAA-qualifying marks and broke 23 school records. Some of those marks and records were set during the Conference USA Championships.

Junior Sheree Carter became the first female athlete in UCF history to win a Conference USA individual outdoor event championship. She captured the women's heptathlon at the conference championships.

Senior Diane Thomas won the women's 800-meter dash and school record leap of 13.86 at the Triple Meet in Fayetteville, Ark., with the fastest finish in school history.

On the men's side, the Knights finished third in the C-USA Championships on May 12, the best finish in school history. Sheree Carter won the school's first individual outdoor title May 17.

A shop sends more than 2,000 pounds of comics to soldiers

ALEXA LASH

Comic book collectors and military men united for a unique cause last Saturday: to fight the war on boredom for their troops overseas.

A Comic Shop held a donation drive July 26 called "Operation Sequential Art" to provide troops in Iraq and Afghanistan with donated comics, sci-fi books and graphic novels.

There was a final box count of 65 30-pound boxes — which equals about 15,000 comics — all donated in a single day.

With the added 400 pounds of comics donated in the month before the event, A Comic Shop will send more than 2,000 pounds of comics to the troops.

A Comic Shop was attempting to create a record for most comics donated in a single day to a charitable cause. The hope is to create a competitive spirit between other shops, A Comic Shop co-owner Aaron Haaland said.

There are already other shops interested including Famous Faces and Funnies, Tate's Comics and Apocalypse Comics, Haaland said.

"I wish more people thought about the troops the way he [does]," said Bruce Yberg about A Comic Shop's co-owner, Jason Blanchard. Bruce Yberg donated about 200 comics that he used to collect with his son.

Bruce Yberg's son, 29-year-old Bryan Yberg, has been in the service for 12 years.

"He's a classic example of be-all-you-can-be. That's my son," Yberg said.

But why donate comic books?

"I know that they're still following 'hurry up and wait.' Now they have something to do while they wait," said Blanchard, a former combat cameraman for the Army.

"Hurry up and wait" is when a soldier is called to go somewhere immediately, and then forced to wait extreme lengths of time before any action takes place, Blanchard said.

Blanchard got creative with his other reason for donating comic books as he placed another stack of comics in a box.

"Comics are great because they don't need batteries," Blanchard said.

Charles Bowman, another donor, believes that the literature will be a good distraction.

"When you get into a good book — everything else goes away," Bowman said.

Besides Yberg, other donors were also associated with the military.

"I'm ex-service too," said Joey Culotta, another comic book donator. "I know how hard it is for those guys there."

When he was abroad, his mother sent him comics every couple of months.

"A little bit of home is something," Culotta said.

While there were donators with a connection to the service, others were just glad to help.

UF clinches top party school title

For the last 18 issues of the season we thought we might see a look at something that data with a relatively light hand. This is a situation that Gainesville has yet another occasion to show that this title rather than a sports title, the marketplace do not do what happens after the game is over. The University of Florida was the top party school in the nation by the Princeton Review Annual Guide, the publication that lists with about its votes, 263 more than any other university. Whether this title is pleasing is something to be proved of its own. In any case, some students say they are satisfied with it by popular vote and frankly, neither are we. Is finding a way to exploit the knowledge and journalism and political science Aaron said she's only been on campus for a few weeks but already has no problem finding a party. She told the Associated Press that she has to do is leave her dorm and there will be party going on somewhere nearby.

President Bernie Machen claimed that the party culture is one of the most likely brought on by students who come from a small town and the week and use the weekends for blow-off steam.

"Sorry, Bernie" — that may be what you would like to believe, the reason being the opposite. In the same Princeton Review feature, Gainesville is at the top of the list for students who think about death. If you guessed it. According to the survey, only 15% of UF students, which promoted and encouraged community to address the issue. However, "it's fair to say it's a problem in universities and we're working on it."

Evidently the Gainesville City Commission doesn't think so. MGCCC Commissioners proposed an ordinance on Monday that would require local bars to party for a special permit that would let seven separate bars in the area approved, the ordinance would prevent bars and businesses from underpricing violations by regulating the number of signs.

The permit idea is an excellent one. Undergraduates are often offered titles bars and the opportunity to apply legal age to purchase drinks. If a bar's management can't control the distribution of alcohol then they should have to a store.

As stated earlier this title is not only a point for being a traditional college but also a historical record. The Gainesville area is almost always in the top five party schools. Unfortunately, W.S. and Stone College, Pa. are notorious for poor student to party, but large bars. West Virginia is certainly a party school and has been named top party school seven times in the last 15 years.

Moreover, there is more than just a reason of why college towns are always making a list to become small towns. We'll teach you with the most factual and study cases. However, there is more on the site do to do with the student. Starting during the debate, I will be sure to mention this list of bars that have such a brave turning point for the future.

During the fall semester, there will be a redesigned version of our 2015 site.

Cook is justified in his Eucharist sharing action

I am surprised by the response of many Catholics, if the details reported in your "Body of Christ" article are accurate. Catholics believe that the crux of the discussion is not about what Jesus died in alcohol-related incidents, but is actually a part of the body. Therefore, it seems to me that Cook was taking the message of Christ in the most literal sense possible.

I've experienced the Catholic Church's perspective on Eucharist. As a non-Catholic, Cook's friend, I have been told that those who partici­pate in the Eucharist are supposed to be "in good spiritual standing."
