THANKSGIVING DINNER AND ANNUAL DANCE

The annual Thanksgiving dinner commenced at five o'clock Thursday evening in the festively decorated dining hall of the College Commons.

The faculty table was very effectively decorated with trailing green vines and chrysanthemums, cleverly executed place cards completing the arrangements.

The Sophomore table was lavishly decorated with white and yellow roses banked around a gold crown illustrative of the class sovereignty, thus carrying out the class colors of white and gold. The other decorations were in keeping with this color scheme.

Another table which attracted its share of attention was daintily decorated in pink and white. A beautiful basket of roses formed the centerpiece, and the color scheme was further carried out in the candle shades and favors.

One group of students decorated their table in a rather unique and far from unattractive fashion by presenting a camp scene in miniature.

Many other tables were prettily decorated, great originality being shown in their arrangement.

College yells were given by the various tables at intervals throughout the dinner.

The following menu was served:

Oyster cocktails	Saltines
Celery	Olives
Turkey
Cranberry jelly
Green peas	Mashed potatoes
Pumpkin and mince pie	Cheese
Nuts	Raisins
Cafe noir

The "Gym" was beautifully decorated for the dance, which, starting at 8 o'clock, formed the climax of the day's pleasures. Myriads of butterflies of all sizes and in all the rainbow tints, fluttered on silken strings as a faint breeze from the lake drifted in through the open windows. Above the heads of the dancers a crescent moon cast mellow shadows upon the festive scene.

The chaperon's corner was especially attractive. Settees draped with bright-hued blankets and banked with college pillows added to the general air of cosiness. Spanish moss was used in draping the balcony, and the corners of the room were filled with green branches which served as resting places for gay butterflies.

Every one entered into the spirit of the occasion. The floor was crowded from the first to the last dance. Wall flowers were out of season. The "Paul Jones" and "break in" dances were especially popular.

Christian Ass'ns

Interesting Account of Vacation
Experiences Given By Dr.
Baker—Rollins Man
High Official in Hawaii

The first joint meeting of the year, of the two Christian associations was held in the auditorium in Knowles Hall on Tuesday evening at 6:45.

Miss Russell was in charge of the meeting. The service was opened by the singing of several hymns. A Bible reading was then given by Alfred Hanna, after which we were led in prayer by Mr. De Witt Taylor.

Dr. Baker, the speaker of the evening, was presented by Miss Russell. No introduction was necessary as he has been connected with, and loved by Rollins for these many years. He gave us a very interesting account of the trip he made during his summer's vacation. Of special interest was a graphic description of his trip thru Yellowstone Park, stopping at different camps for rest and refreshment.

Next came his vivid account of World's Fair at San Francisco. The Exposition is the greatest display ever wrought by human effort. The most interesting exhibition to him was the demonstration of the long distance telephone, when the listener could hear perfectly a man reading in New York City. The most interesting exhibit was one from Germany. There was a small glass case containing two tubes one of which contained $40,000 worth of radium and the other $3,000,000 worth of Meterotrium.

From the World's Fair he went to Honolulu. This is a distance of 2100 miles from San Francisco. The trip was five days in length. He found the city of Honolulu contains about 60,000 inhabitants. Among these are many Japanese, Chinese, Portuguese, and natives. From here he went to Hiwahi for the purpose of seeing the volcano of Monoloo. After landing he made the trip of thirty-one miles, to the volcano by automobile.

Among the out of town guests were Misses Gladys and Grace Tilden, of Winter Garden, Miss Kathleen Hill, of Maitland, Misses Ruth Isaacson, Ruth Hanchett, Genevieve Ivey, and Messrs. Harris, Blackman, Lewter, and King, of Orlando.

TILDEN CAPTAIN OF THE VARSITY

At a meeting of the varsity squad yesterday C. G. Tilden was elected captain of the Rollins eleven for the present season. Tilden is one of Rollins' star players and is holding down the position of fullback in fine style. "Torchy" is very popular with his team mates, as evidenced by their selection of him as their leader, and it is generally believed that he will lead the eleven to victory.

ACADEMY ELEVEN HEADED BY MARTIN

The men of the academy eleven yesterday elected Ray Martin as captain for the year. Martin plays right end and is one of the fastest men who has played this position on the academy eleven for several seasons. The academy team is fortunate this year in having an exceptionally strong line-up. With such men as Lewis, Funk, Greene, Rodenbaugh, Black and others to strengthen the offense, the second eleven should prove a hard proposition for any team in the same class to defeat.

SIEWERT TAKES FOOTBALL PHOTOS

A number of pictures of the Rollins football boys were taken yesterday afternoon by H. Siewert, the popular Winter Park photographer. One view shows the entire squad of about twenty-five men, another gives the varsity, while a third gives the academy eleven. Separate pictures were taken of Tilden and Martin, who captain the college and academy teams respectively.

Let's laugh it out this dream of mine,
Before our teachers slack us,
For I dreamed I saw, as plain as day,
Waddell as thin as Backus.

Hypothesis—Given a sheet of paper to prove it is a lazy dog.

A sheet of paper is an ink-lined (inclined) plane.

An inclined plane is a slope up (slow pup).

A slow pup is a lazy dog.

Therefore a sheet of paper is a lazy dog. Q. E. D.

Mr. Barbour likes the North,

His interest never wavers,

But Mrs. Barbour came down South
To see her little shavers.

Dr. Hyde—You need not write the vocative case of "alius," its hardly ever used, unless you say, "you're another."

Dean, in Bib. Lit.—Mr. Hutchinson, what happened to Lot's wife?

Hutch—Why, she turned into a sack of salt.

Phi Alpha Frat

HAVE BEAUTIFUL AND ARTISTIC DECORATIONS

The apartments of the Phi Alpha Fraternity are in course of complete renovation and redecoration. The upper portion of the Lyman Gymnasium, where they are located, has been the scene of considerable work since the remodelling was begun early in October. It is expected that everything will be completed within the next ten days.

The entrance hall and stairs remain the same finish as hitherto, but the main hall presents an entirely different aspect. The walls have been artistically made over with composition board. These boards have been applied in panel form, and lend at once a very smooth and a most delicate finish. The ceiling remains the same shape, but has been done over in white. The panels are in old ivory with molding in gold. The window cases, doors, and baseboard are in white to match the ceiling, while the floor is to be varnished in its natural color.

Electricity is to supply not only the lights but also the heat, as one of the newly invented electric heaters is to be installed. The lighting has been completely changed and an indirect system arranged; bowl-shaped reflectors suspended by long-linked chains, finished in old brass highly polished, supply the light; a table lamp is to be connected on one side. Over the archive chest are conveniently arranged several long shelves to accommodate the library.

The completed plans present the appearance of an Oriental temple, elegant in its simplicity yet not severe, most comfortable in its convenience, and most attractive in its appointments.

The tennis courts have been put into fine shape for the winter and spring games. The courts have been rolled and new tapes fastened securely making it much more pleasant for the players than formerly. Much interest seems to be shown and the courts are always in use. If the interest sown at the present time is kept up it is hoped to have a tournament early in the spring.

On Friday evening, November 18th, the college men prepared a big bonfire with which to celebrate the victory of Rollins Academy over Orlando High School. At 9.30 a torchlight parade was formed. After parading all over town they returned to the Morse Athletic Field where the bonfire was located. The lighting of the bonfire was followed by speeches from the deans, coach and members of the school team.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1915.

Rollins is booming! We feel it, know it. The very atmosphere is full of it. We feel it in the fine college spirit that prevails upon the campus this year. We are proud of this spirit that nearer approaches the deal than at any previous time in a number of years. We find it in our work, as well as in our play, which makes ours a well balanced life.

We see it in the result of this splendid spirit. Good grades, few absences from classes and study periods, and the general friendliness and co-operation between the faculty and students are undeniable evidences of it.

The Young Women's and Young Men's Christian Associations are doing better work than they have ever done before. The well attended weekly meetings have been interesting and instructive, while there is nothing better at school than the student bible classes established in the Sunday Schools.

Of course we have had a good spirit in our play. Did you go to any of the football games? You saw how splendidly the boys played the game on the gridiron. The success of the gymnasium classes; the fun on the tennis courts, and the good times on the lakes are proof positive of good spirit in our play.

So Rollins is booming. We know it! How? We have an active weekly school paper, the Rollins Sandspur. It has six pages full of the good work of the school. It contains bits of our serious life, and part of our fun. Read it all and enjoy Rollins with us. Then you will know that Rollins is booming!

ADAPTED FROM THE FLORIDIAN'S CREED AND COVENANT

Time was when we were lonely,
Rolling lifeless to the sea,
Upon our brows no touch of green,
Upon our breasts no tree.
We lay in pensive silence,
Maidens, white and prostrate there,
Save when winds from off the ocean
Came to swirl our thin-spun hair.
Then it flew around our faces
Till we couldn't see the sky;
Men spoke of sand storms we are told;
We smiled then with a sigh.
But now we're never lonely,
For times are changed since then:
This, the glory of the sand dunes,
We are the homes of men.

Fair Florida—Nature's youngest,
fairest daughter,
Where bends the open sky a blue
and traceless deep,
Where opalescent clouds pile mountain
high,
And lambent stars their nightly
vigils keep;
Where soft benignant airs of endless
summer,
And vivifying sunshine makes responsive
fecund soil,
Where sparkling lakes, and laughing
brooklets murmur,
I believe in thee, Nature's fairest daughter, then,
Thy crowning glory—you have made
a home for men.

Land where open woodland stretches
far,
With dense and vine-hung hammock,
mock, and mysterious bay;
Land where prairie, swamp, and verdant
glade,
Each lovely and beautiful in its
peculiar way;
Hammock, where flaming vine contrasts
with sky orchid;
Marsh, of magnolia and comely
palm;
Woodland, where pine and oak with
moss and fern are hid;
I believe in thy fruitful beauty, then,
For thou hast made pleasant this
home of men.
Thy crowning glory; you have made
a home for men.

Land where open woodland stretches
far;
With dense and vine-hung hammock,
and mysterious bay.
Land where prairie, swamp, and verdant glade,
Each, lovely and beautiful in its
peculiar way;
Hammock, where flowing-vine contrasts
with sky orchid
Marsh of magnolia and comely palm;
Woodland where pine and oak with
moss and fern are hid.
I believe in Thy fruitful beauty then,
For thou hast made pleasant this
home of men.

Land of universal fruitage too!
What'er is borne of trees or grown
of earth or soil;
Land where orange and spicy kumquats
grow,

THE LIFE OF CHRIST
(By Edwin A. McQuarters)

As announced in the Winter Park
Post, each member of Dean Enyart's class in Biblical Literature is writing a short history of the life of Christ, a chapter a month, embracing as much of the personal element as possible, and the best of these is to be published in the Sandspur. Some chapters are to be written in the form of a letter to someone who is supposed to know nothing about the Christ. Each student is to express his own personal feelings and convictions.

We all know that there is a mysterious source of inspiration in the unknown depths of our minds, a source which under certain conditions inspires expressions of thought which are nothing short of marvelous in the vastness of their wisdom. In writing these chapters, the students, in most instances, are in possession young men and young women, who,
of the absolute freedom of their minds, unhampered by the dogmas of the world, will be expressing under the best possible conditions the inspirational promptings from the all-wise oracle, and their writings will be of unusual interest from a scientific as well as from a truth-seeking standpoint.

The first chapter selected is by Edwin MacQuarters of Orlando, and is just an introduction to the subject. The chapters that are to follow will deal more intimately with the life of Christ.

Introduction to the Life of Christ
Dear Bruce:—

I have learned of a wonderful man;
a man who lived a life so different and did such marvelous things, that I am sure that you will wish to learn of him also, So I am going to tell you all that I can about him.

He lived a long while ago and he was a Jew of Palestine. It was at the time when Rome ruled Palestine and all the world was under Roman were ruled over by petty kings, set up by Roman authority. Thus the old Jewish nation, always so proud, had lost all of its power and dignity.

And as she in the days of her splendor and power had aspired to rule the world, so now she in turn was to be subjected by another nation holding that same inspiration.

Thus the Jews were a conquered nation ruled by a foreign power.
Still they were proud enough to hope for their independence and occasionally insurrections broke forth, but never with much success, for the Roman army was ever alert and invincible. Moreover they had a promise or prophecy in their old Jewish writings, concerning a king that was to come, who would redeem his people and whose name should be the Christ. And they were looking forward to the fulfillment of this prophecy more especially at this time, as the Roman yoke was becoming intolerable to them. However they did not have a clear and right understanding of the prophecy for they thought only of a king who would renew their ancient temporal glory and free them from the oppression of their conquerors.

The Jews, from earliest times, had been a religious people. The race, descending through Abraham, had sprung from the people of the far East, which at that time was the center of religious thought. They alone held the supreme conception of God. Thus the race, endowed with an indelible belief in God as the supreme being, wandered for hundreds of years among heathern nations, and thought often seemingly submerged in idolatry, never wholly lost its deep national religious spirit. And, even in darkest times, there were still found great strong central figures who stand out preeminently as divine teachers. And by them the whole nation would be recalled to their allegiance to the true God.

But now for a long time there had been no such religious teacher. All the spirit of religion was gone and only the form remained. A company of men called Pharisees had sprung up who had taken upon themselves the task of very carefully teaching the people concerning a great multiplicity of ceremonies and ritual which they had devised and established and which they called law. They had become very strong and had established synagogues or churches in the principal towns, where every Sunday, or Saturday as it then was, the people came together to hear the law as propounded by these men. Only a minor party still held to the simple Scriptures and declared for morality, instead of the observance of this complexity of law.

The Pharisees exercised a heartless and inexorable spiritual rule over the people. Their power and influence was supreme. If any one willingly broke the law in any way he was stoned to death, and for the slightest disrespect toward this body of traditions, the Jew suffered a social ostracism, which was to him the depth of punishment. And this law, this rule. The country was divided into ritual, this great mass of cant and hypocrisy had become a tremendous burden upon the spirit and body of the Jewish race. They were weary and exhausted with this burden "too heavy to be borne," and were therefore all the more ready to take up a new and simple religion, full of love and peace, when it should come to them.

The best thing about getting out a school paper is that the everybody thinks it's merely fun.

THE BLUE AND THE GOLD

Idabel Edwards spent a pleasant week-end with Miss Ruth Isaacson in Orlando.

Winifred Hanchett spent the week-end in Orlando with her parents.

Marian Phillips and brother, Raymond, enjoyed a week-end visit at their home in Sanford.

Sadie Pellerin joined her mother at DeLand Saturday and then spent several days in Daytona.

Ruth Isaacson, who attended Rollins last year, is now taking a course in vocal under Professor Pope.

A crowd of Rollins boys attended the play, "A Pair of Sixes," at the Lucerne theatre Saturday evening. Among these were Oswaldo Hydrich, Grafton Charles, Charles Shannon, and Aaron Taylor.

Francis M. Johnson, a graduate of Hastings high school, Mastings, Minnesota, has taken up work in the Freshman class during the past week.

bile. First he passed three beautiful cane fields, then three dense forests and finally came to a jungle of immense tree ferns. The crater of the volcano is about four square miles in area. The pit which is located near the middle of the crater is 1000 feet in diameter. The lava in the pit was not all glowing, as many people conceive, but seemed to have centers of glowing. One of these centers is known as "Old Faithful." It sends a stream of lava 60 or 70 feet into the air at regular time intervals. Dr. Baker described some ways of taking the temperature of the lava. This at different times has been estimated 1060 degrees C, to 1120 degrees centigrade.

Dr. Baker accidentally ran across two former Rollins' students in the course of his travels. One of these, Mr. Daniel Davis is now the pastor of a Presbyterian church. The other, the Hon. J. Caldwell is now a director of public works in Hawaii.

Dr. Baker gave a very interesting account of his visit to the Queen of the Hawaiian Island Luluokalina, who is now about seventy-seven years of age. Luluokalina has a kind, pleasing manner, and regal bearing. She is well educated and highly esteemed by everyone.

Dr. Baker brought back some very interesting curios, among them were a native paddle of Hawaiian mahogany, a sort of pestle for mixing poy, a food made of a vegetable resembling the potato. It is like a sweet paste and one of the main articles of food of the natives. Dr. Baker also brought back a tuft of Madam Pale's hair and some of her tears. We enjoyed examining these very much at the close of this interesting and instructive talk.

The meeting was closed by the Benediction of the association.

GIFT TO THE CLOVERLEAF GIRLS

Mr. Percy Dale delighted the girls of Cloverleaf with a big Thanksgiving treat. It was a large basket of fruit, nuts, candy, and all the good things that it takes to make a regular Thanksgiving treat, artistically arranged. The girls voted three cheers for Mr. Dale.

A splendid art exhibit by Miss Catherine Brebner and Miss Elizabeth Merriwether was sent to the annual State Federation of Women's Clubs which met in DeLand last week. The exhibit was highly praised.

Mrs. Berkeley Blackman, daughter-in-law of Ex-President Blackman, and formerly instructor in piano in Rollins, arrived in Winter Park Thursday after a pleasant summer spent at her former home in Minnesota. She was warmly greeted by her many friends at the Thanksgiving dinner and dance.

Have you bought your athletic season ticket yet. If not get busy.

A TRADEGY

I woke to look upon a face,
Silent, white and cold.
O friend! the agony I felt
Can never half be told.

We'd lived together but a year—
Too soon, it seemed, to see Those gentle hands, outstretched and still,
That toiled so hard for me.

My waking thoughts had been for one Who now to sleep had dropped.
'Twas hard to realize, O, friend,
My Ingersoll had stopped.—Ex.

Said Tilly to Elizabeth, "What makes your hair so red?"

Said Elizabeth sweetly, "I've had scarlet fever, and its settled in my head."

Look out for the next issue of this paper—and meanwhile—Boost!

THANK YOU!

You have my hearty thanks if you have already ordered magazines or newspapers of me. If you have not, you will make no mistake in giving me a trial. I can furnish periodicals of all publishers at official wholesale prices. A catalog for the asking.

SANDSPURS

FOR LADIES ONLY

(Which proves that men are just as curious as women)

Miss Gladwin (in algebra)—I want you to be familiar with the formulae.
Vivian—Familiarity breeds contempt.

A school paper is a great invention:
The school gets all the fame,
The printer gets all the money,
And the staff gets all the blame.
(Aye, aye, aye.—Ed.)

A goat ate all our other jokes,
And then began to run;
"I can not stop," he softly said,
"I am so full of fun."

Don'ts for Freshmen

1. Don't labor under the impression you're a sophomore.
2. Don't be too familiar with upper classmen; you need all your time for boning.
3. Don't walk down Lovers' Lane;
the cement will hurt your feet.
4. Don't cut things, especially corners.
5. Don't wag your tongues; they are long enough already.
6. Don't swing your arms; they are apt to become rigid.
7. Don't talk about the picnic you are going to give the Sophomores at Clay Springs; it's a hallucination.
8. Don't forget to get your caps and ties and wear them.
9. Don't forget that every one above you was once a Freshie too.
10. Don't go to the Freshman class meetings, such frivolity is distracting.
11. Above all things don't disap-point your seniors.
12. The last greatest Don't is don't chew gum.

Girls Must Not Read

If there's anything that worries a Rollins girl
It's something she ought not to know;
But you bet she'll find it out somehow
If she has the least kind of a show.
Now we'll wager a bean to a biscuit,
This poem she's already read;
We know she'd get at it somehow,
If she had to stand on her head.

Miss Vergie West, being told she was due

To write the life of Christ quite thru,
Thought she'd take a vacation
From all recitation
And spend all her time in grave meditation.

Prof. Palmer—Now, Charles, tell us what you know about these two triangles.

Charles—In triangle H-O-G (a roar of laughter from the class).

Prof. Palmer—Stop your noise; I never saw such a pig-headed class.

Chemistry Class—Mr. Perry, what is antimony?

Perry—Why-er—I can't give a good definition of it, but it's something about money in divorce cases.
